An uneasy truce was reached in Williamston, North Carolina, on August 4 following five weeks of sustained demonstrations by Negroes making repeated thrusts at segregation and discrimination barriers in this small town of some 40,000 persons. The demonstrations began on June 30 when more than 200 protestors marched from Williamston's Bible Way Church to the steps of City Hall in a Prayer Pilgrimage that lasted 10 minutes. Every evening thereafter the marching demonstrators continued their direct action protests, choosing as various targets the city's segregated Washington Theatre, drug store lunch counters, and the Shamrock Motel & Restaurant. SCLC Regional Representative F. L. LeGarde and Field Secretary Golden A. Frinks, have guided the demonstrators, whose ranks have swelled to as many as 700 at times. So far, although scores have been arrested on trespassing charges, incidents have been at a minimum. At month's end, as about 430 Negroes were preparing to demonstrate, the city agreed to meet three of the six demands made by the protestors. They were: 1) that all charges be dropped against arrested demonstrators; 2) that public facilities be desegregated and Negro-White signs be removed from public accommodations; and 3) that Negroes be hired in all departments of the municipal government.

GADSDEN, ALA.

Police arrested more than 600 demonstrators from among 1,000 marchers who paraded through the Agricola shopping center in downtown Gadsden, Ala. on August 3, protesting discrimination and segregation in that city. It was the second such mass jailing in Gadsden since Nov., 1962, when direct action protests were first made. SCLC Field Secretary Bernard Lee, who has been in the forefront of helping to break down racial barriers in Gadsden reports that the city's buses have been desegregated since the middle of July. No other moves to end segregation and discrimination, however, have been made.

CONTRIBUTIONS

I wish to contribute to the work of SCLC and the social struggle in the South.

NAME .....

ADDRESS .....
(street)

.....
(city & state)

Amount of Contribution .....

Send to: SCLC
334 Auburn Ave., N.E.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

SCLC Newsletter

334 Auburn Ave., N.E.
Atlanta, Ga. 30303

RETURN REQUESTED

334 Auburn Ave., N.E.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303
Telephone 524-1378

SCLC

Southern Christian Leadership Conference

Martin Luther King Jr., President Ralph Abernathy, Treasurer Wyatt Tee Walker, Executive Assistant

I would like very much for us to be officially represented either by a staff member or, preferably, by a Board member from Virginia. Will you please see that we are.

September 4, 1963

Dear Friend:

The Seventh Annual Convention of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference will meet September 24-27 in Richmond, Virginia. Our theme this year is "Freedom Now!" We expect this to be our greatest convention ever particularly since it is in the immediate wake of Birmingham.

Your agency is one that has been involved as a partner with us in the civil rights struggle. It would please us greatly if you would name some special representatives to attend our sessions and serve as a fraternal delegate.

The accelerated thrust of civil rights since Birmingham makes it more and more necessary for us to utilize a broad perspective in solving the human relations dilemma that exists in our nation today.

We are enclosing some pertinent data surrounding the convention which you might find useful in making your arrangements to be with us.

Sincerely yours,

W. Tee Walker

wyatt tee walker
Executive Assistant to
Martin Luther King, Jr.

w/g

September 5, 1963

Reverend Wyatt Tee Walker
Executive Assistant
Southern Christian Leadership Conference
334 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Mr. Walker:

In response to your letter of August 27, please be advised that the monies held by the Southern Regional Council for the churches at Sasser and Leesburg, Georgia, are available upon request, under the conditions of the grants.

Our letter to Mr. Toombs was merely an explanation of conditions imposed by the grantors of the monies allocated.

Be assured that upon request, said monies will be made available to the proper parties.

Sincerely yours,

Vernon E. Jordan, Jr.
Assistant to the Executive Director

VEJJr:nm

LWA - please advise

334 Auburn Ave., N.E.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303
Telephone 524-1378

SCLC

Southern Christian Leadership Conference

Martin Luther King Jr., President Ralph Abernathy, Treasurer Wyatt Tee Walker, Executive Assistant

August 27, 1963

Mr. Vernon E. Jordon, Jr.
Assistant to the
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia

Re: Churches at Sasser and Leesburg, Georgia

Dear Mr. Jordon:

It is my understanding that the grant for $5,000 is subject to conditions that it be used if enough money was not raised. As of the present writing it will be necessary to raise approximately $22,000 in addition to the $5,000 in order to complete the churches. It seemed to me that under the circumstances the grant from the Southern Regional Council, Inc., would be made available to the churches.

Sincerely,

Wyatt Tee Walker

wyatt tee walker
executive assistant to
Martin Luther King, Jr.

WTW:wm

cc: Miss Helen Bullard

September 13, 1963

B. B. Blaylock & A. Kinnon
812 Lincoln Avenue
Albany, Georgia

Gentlemen:

Enclosed you will find three checks totaling $15,317.35. As you know the monies that have been raised for the construction of the churches is in several different accounts. I've contacted the Rev. William Boyd and asked him to arrange for a financial draft of $3,252.57 which will total $18,569.92 the exact amount for the second payment on the churches.

I am sure that by now that you are aware that there were some discrepancies in the figures that you forwarded to Toombs Amisano & Wells, this accounts for what seems to be an undue delay in forwarding these monies to you.

Warm personal wishes.

Sincerely,

Wyatt Tee Walker
Coordinator

WTW:mm

Enc:

cc: Helen Bullard
Ray Stainback
Edward Driskill
Roy McClain
Jackie Robinson

September 18, 1962

Mrs. Edwinna Smith
Administrative Secretary
Southern Christian Leadership Conference
334 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Edwinna:

As per your request, enclosed herewith, please find ten copies of the Henderson pamphlet. I am sure the SCLC Field Secretaries will find this study interesting and useful.

Sincerely,

Vernon E. Jordan, Jr.
Assistant to the Executive Director

VEJ:nm
Enclosures

LWD ✓ PAL
VJ ✓

HENRY J. TOOMBS, F.A.I.A., A.I.P.
JOSEPH AMISANO, A.I.A., A.I.P.
JAMES EDWIN WELLS, A.I.A.
L. DALE ZENT, ASSOCIATES
J. STARKE HAMILTON, JR., R.A.
GEORGE E. A. VOGT, A.I.A.
HELEN BULLARD, CONSULTANT

TOOMBS, AMISANO & WELLS

ARCHITECTS & ENGINEERS

September 23, 1963

Mr. Vernon Jordan, Jr.
Assistant to Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Vernon:

If there is anything that gladdens my wizened heart it is somebody who approaches a problem by saying "let's see how easy we can do this" instead of "let's see how difficult we can make it" (I suppose the word should be easily but I'm sure you get my meaning), which is an involved way of saying thank you so much for handling the church grant with such efficiency and with such cheerfulness!

It occurred to me that the two group donors might like to have a sketch of what the building will look like at its completion, together with some photographs that were made last week showing the progress of the church, and I am attaching these.

Again, my thanks to you and with every good wish, I am

Cordially,

Helen Bullard

Helen Bullard

Enclosures

70 Fairlie Street, N. W., Atlanta 3, Georgia, Telephone 524-2801

September 30, 1963

Reverend Donald W. Strickler
Executive Secretary
New York City Congregational Church Association
297 Park Avenue, South
New York 10, New York

Dear Mr. Strickler:

Enclosed please find a photograph showing the progress of reconstruction on the burned churches in Southwest Georgia, to which your organization so generously contributed. Also enclosed is an architectural sketch of the structure as it will be upon completion.

We pass these on to you to indicate the progress being made at the present time.

Sincerely yours,

Vernon E. Jordan, Jr.
Assistant to the Executive Director

VEJ:nm
Enclosures

September 30, 1963

Mr. Wesley A. Hotchkiss
AMA College Centennials
287 Park Avenue South
New York 10, New York

Dear Mr. Hotchkiss:

Enclosed please find a photograph showing the progress of reconstruction on the burned churches in Southwest Georgia, to which your organization so generously contributed. Also enclosed is an architectural sketch of the structure as it will be upon completion.

We pass these on to you to indicate the progress being made at the present time.

Sincerely yours,

Vernon E. Jordan, Jr.
Assistant to the Executive Director

VEJ:nm
Enclosures

287 Park Avenue South, New York 10, N. Y., GR 5-2121

LD
PA
VJ

AMA College Centennials

DILLARD UNIVERSITY • FISK UNIVERSITY • HUSTON-TILLOTSON COLLEGE
LeMOYNE COLLEGE • TALLADEGA COLLEGE • TOUGALOO SOUTHERN CHRISTIAN COLLEGE

STAFF
Wesley A. Hotchkiss
Warren Marr, II

COMMITTEE
Mrs. Grace Barbey
Dr. Adam D. Beittel
Dr. Horace Mann Bond
Mr. Alfred E. Buck
The Rev. John J. Carey
The Hon. Elmer A. Carter
The Rev. David G. Colwell
The Rev. Howard J. Conn
The Rev. Alfred L. Creager
The Rev. Gibson I. Daniels
Mr. William L. Dawson
Dr. Albert W. Dent
Mrs. Lila Doar
The Rev. Lawrence L. Durgin
Miss Violet Edwards
Mrs. Keith Elliot
The Rev. Joseph H. Evans
The Rev. William J. Faulkner
Dr. John Hope Franklin
Dr. Buell G. Gallagher
The Rev. Otto R. Gerber
Dr. Arthur D. Gray
Mr. Charles Gregg
The Rev. William L. Halfaker
The Rev. J. Archie Hargraves
Dr. Ben M. Herbster
Mrs. Jean Blackwell Hutson
The Rev. Robert Ross Johnson
Mrs. George E. Kahlenberg
The Rev. Harold M. Kingsley
Dr. Theodore K. Lawless
Dr. Dorothy Lewis
The Rev. Harland G. Lewis
The Rev. Robert E. Marston
The Rev. John F. McClelland
The Rev. Robert J. McCracken
The Rev. Dale H. Moore
Dr. Hollis F. Price
Mrs. A. T. Quarles
Dr. Ira deA. Reid
The Hon. Carl T. Rowan
The Rev. R. Wiley Scott
Dr. John J. Seabrook
Mr. George W. Skilton
The Rev. H. Otheman Smith
Mr. William F. Treiber
Mr. Albert B. Tucker
The Rev. Alfred Grant Walton
The Hon. Donald W. Webber
Mrs. Richard L. White
Dr. Leon E. Wright
Dr. Stephen J. Wright
(in formation)

September 24, 1963

Mr. Vernon E. Jordan, Jr.
Assistant to the Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, Northwest
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Jordan:

I am pleased to note by the copy of your letter to the Rev. Wyatt T. Walker that our gift of $5,000 has been used in the rebuilding of the burned churches on southwest Georgia.

We appreciate very much your role in the forwarding of this gift.

Cordially yours,

Wesley A. Hotchkiss

WAH/m

Wesley A. Hotchkiss

"Resolved.—That the triumph of the ideas and principles of the Fathers in the late civil contest, emancipating and enfranchising four millions of blacks, and giving nearly equally important disenthrallment to eight millions of whites, imposes a vast responsibility, and offers a grand opportunity for the dissemination of the religion of the Pilgrims; and we pledge ourselves to renewed effort to preach the gospel and plant its institutions in the South."—Passed at the Pilgrim Memorial Congregational Convention, Chicago, Ill., April 28, 1870.

ERE YOU DURING THE REV

"Justice, as defined in the Institutes of Justinian, nearly 2000 years ago, and as it is felt and understood by all who understand human rights is the constant and perpetual will to secure to everyone his own right."

—John Quincy Adams, pleading for the Amistad Africans before the Supreme Court, 1841.

Social revolution has always mobilized the spirit and the resources of The American Missionary Association into more concentrated effort to reach its goal—the attainment of full equality for all men under God and in accord with the historic public documents of the United States. The fearless dedication which has typified the Association throughout its history is being summoned today, in the current crisis, by the insistent demand of the Negro for "Freedom, NOW!" The persistence of the demand has placed the Association in the position, almost, of the leader who must run to keep up with his followers. How are we, pace-setters in American history, going to respond?

That the AMA is a pace-setter is a matter of record. It had its birth out of a three-year fight waged by principled whites (mostly New Englanders) to achieve freedom for 52 African slaves in the historic Amistad case which was the first major abolitionist effort to seek and to obtain successful resolution by law (on March 9, 1841). The concern for abolition of slavery welded these men into a global force which also sought justice for oppressed people everywhere—in China, Africa, Siam, the Sandwich Islands, and the American Indian. In Civil War days, "missionaries" of the Association followed the Union armies to give care to the freedmen and to set up schools where the ex-slave could learn to read and to write. It was the belief of the Association that the freedmen could, and must, assume the role of full citizenship, and that education was the key.

In its historic crusade, the Association invested its massive resources of morality, money and guts in the establishment, maintenance, and operation of more than 500 schools across the Southland. Illiterate whites (of whom there were nearly as many as there were illiterate blacks) learned side by side in these schools until state laws eventually altered the pattern in those schools which had become part of a system of public education.

Six colleges remained the prime concern of the Association. In a section of the country where the public system permitted only limited education for the Negro, these institutions, with their unrestricted charters, have served for nearly a hundred years as major bulwarks of higher education for, primarily, the Negro. For much of that lengthy period, some of them have been the only spots in their respective states where intellectual and civic freedom could be found.

Dillard University (founded in 1869) is truly interstate, interchurch, and interracial in character. It is a cooperative enterprise in which citizens of New Orleans, the American Missionary Association, the Board of Education of the Methodist Church, and many foundations and organizations participate.

In 1865 John Ogden, the Rev. E. M. Cravath and the Rev. E. P. Smith, agents of the American Missionary Association and the Western Freedmen's Aid Commission, established at Nashville a school for colored people of the South. With the signing of a charter on August 12, 1867, the school became Fisk University.

Huston-Tillotson College (founded in 1877) is the result of the merger of Tillotson College (Congregational) and Samuel Huston College (Methodist) in Austin, Texas.

In 1862 Miss Lucinda Humphrey was sent to Memphis by the American Missionary Association to begin educational work among Negroes. At that time some 16,000 Negro refugees had come into the city from the surrounding country. By 1866 there were nearly 2,000 students in a fairly good system of schools. But, during a riot, 4 Negro churches and 12 Negro schools were burned. But the AMA began again and developed LeMoyne College.

The first college opened to Negroes in the State of Alabama began in 1867 as a primary school. The AMA purchased a colonial brick building overlooking the town of Talladega, and with four teachers and 140 pupils, the future Talladega College began its work in the rudiments of learning.

In 1869, the AMA established a school near Jackson, Mississippi, "to be accessible to all, irrespective of their religious tenets, and conducted on the most liberal principles for the benefit of our citizens in general." In 1954 this school combined with another, which had been established by the Disciples of Christ, to form Tougaloo Southern Christian College.

Through these schools, and over a period of a century, AMA has kept its faith. But today, because of the very openness which is peculiar to each of them, the schools are being called upon to help find "Freedom, NOW!" The demand upon them is a re-call upon the pioneer spirit of AMA to use its forces of morality, money and guts to complete its own mission.

The Rev. Fred Lee Shuttlesworth could have been talking to members of the Association when he spoke in a Greensboro church: "You educated us. You taught us to look up . . . And, now, we're looking up!"

With the American Missionary Association (now a part of the United Church Board for Homeland Ministries) committed to education as the redemptive force, its mobilization in the present era must be toward the immediate expansion of its six centers of higher education into centers of highest education. The physical plants, the size and calibre of faculties, the freedom for unhampered intellectual exchange among all people—these must burst their present bounds, at once. The schools, founded in the best American and Christian traditions, must become, overnight, the finest centers of education in the country. Along with them, our specialized centers—Dorchester Center, with its citizenship education program, and Franklinton Center, with its stress on in-service training for ministers—must also expand their facilities and programming.

The rationale for this course, and for the participation of the Association in all its historic ecumenicity, is clearly stated in "A Door So Wide" (free), written by Wesley A. Hotchkiss, General Secretary of the AMA, early in 1962. The sheer force of the current revolution demands its immediate implementation.

THE NEGRO, A MAN AND A CITIZEN

Reprint of an editorial from "THE AMERICAN MISSIONARY" Vol. 7, 8, 9—1863-5

The Constitution of the United States recognizes him as a person. In the days of Thomas Jefferson, Virginia and other States designated him as a citizen. The prowess of Small and other colored individuals, and the good conduct and courage of the colored troops, have proved him to be a soldier and a hero. The eloquence of Douglass and of other sable speakers, has shown that he can be an orator. The piety of thousands of colored men evince that he can be a Christian. If, then he is a person, a citizen, and capable of being a soldier, an orator, and a Christian, none but an idiot or a blockhead would assert that he is not a MAN.

If then, the Negro is a man and a citizen, he is entitled to the treatment of a man and a citizen, and unless he is recognized and treated as such, he cannot be safely elevated in the scale of being.

It will be in vain that he is liberated, that arms are put into his hands, that he is educated, that he is religiously instructed. And it will be worse than in vain, because if unacknowledged as a man entitled to all the prerogatives of a man and a citizen he will be a dangerous person in the community—the more dangerous in proportion to his intelligence, native and acquired.

As a missionary association, having in view the intellectual, moral and religious good of men and especially of the people of color, and particularly the recently emancipated, and those who in the providence of God, and the march of events, are speedily to be emancipated, we claim that our colored brother should be treated in all respects as a man and a citizen, by the churches, by the Government, and by the people.

At present, he does not receive such treatment either from the churches, the Government, or the people; to their shame be it spoken! Churches refuse him admittance to their pews and communion on equal terms; Government does not award to him the pay and honors due to his valor, nor shield him from the insolence and cruelty of others; and the people ostracize him from the esteem, and confidence, and emoluments of his country. The world takes knowledge of these things, and reproaches us in view of the inconsistency between our professions and our practice; and the God of us all takes cognizance of our scorn and abuse of the colored children of His great family.

How long will the churches, the Government and the people of this land thus voluntarily subject themselves to the taunts of the civilized world, and the condemnation of the Scriptures? Has the Secretary of State, by authority of the President, informed foreign courts that "every where the American general receives his most valuable and reliable information from the Negro, who hails his coming as the harbinger of Freedom," and will our government any longer suffer him to be victimized by itself, or by those under its authority? Has God declared that he is no respecter of persons, and will the churches longer ignore the common brotherhood of the colored man? Has the nation received so much benefit from his loyalty and prowess, and shall it not recognize his manhood, and his claims to respect, confidence, and common justice?

We recommend no doctrine of miscegenation, leaving social affinities to take care of themselves, but we do urge the claims of a common origin, the oneness of the blood that flows equally in the veins of the white and the colored man, the principles of our Declaration of Independence, the obligation of humanity and citizenship, and the precepts of our divine Lord in behalf of those who have aggrandized the country by their labor, and are with ourselves candidates for a blissful immortality.

If we do not protest against the enslavement of the minds and bodies of those who are in heathenish darkness, or aspiring after knowledge and piety, and if we did not exert our influence to remove such obstacles to their education and evangelization, we should be strangely forgetful of our mission, and treasonable to the Lord of missions. If the United States aims to be a righteous nation, and a power and example of civil and religious liberty to the nations of the earth; if its churches feel the obligation of christianizing its people, and aiding in the evangelization of the world; if the people expect the blessing of heaven upon their efforts to secure peace, respect, and honor to themselves and their posterity; let them first conquer themselves, and then award equity to those who are with themselves common inheritors of civilization and Christianity, and the joint subjects of retributive justice on earth, and at the bar of God.

The commitment is clear!

"The paramount national interest is that the process of Negro emancipation should go forward peaceably. It must go forward," said Walter Lippman (Newsweek, May 27, 1963). "It must go forward fast enough to make its forward movement visible. If it does not do this, there will have been an abandonment of fundamental American principles which will disgrace us at home and abroad. The movement to equality must go forward peaceably, which means that there must not be another struggle to preserve the Union."

As James Forman, executive secretary of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, has said: "The country, I believe, is becoming aware that the people are really serious about getting their civil rights, that what happened in 1960—when we had the sit-ins—was not a fad, that it is growing, that the nation, itself, must grapple with the problem, 'Which Side Are You On?'"

Grappling with the problem, in terms of AMA commitment, is primarily the preparation of our educational institutions to fulfill their destiny. It has been estimated that the cost to equip the schools properly will amount to fifty million dollars. The securing of this sum to education, on an open racial basis, must precede our second century in education. How will we answer our children and grandchildren when they ask: "Where were you during the revolution?"

The record of contributors to the fund for this revolutionary movement will take the form of a Book of a Million Names. The name and address of each individual or business, together with the amount of his contribution, will be entered in the volume which will be kept on permanent display as part of the AMA Archives, Fisk University, Nashville, Tennessee, and at Dillard University, New Orleans, Louisiana.

Prepared by Warren Marr, II, Division of Higher Education and American Missionary Association, United Church Board for Homeland Ministries, 287 Park Avenue South, New York 10, N. Y.

AMA COLLEGE CENTENNIALS FUND

287 Park Avenue South New York 10, New York

I hereby promise to pay to the Treasurer of the American Missionary Association, for the purpose of elevating and expanding the six AMA colleges, and for the purpose of extending their benevolent influence into their entire communities, the sum of _____ dollars, as follows viz

_____

I understand that my name will be entered into The Book of a Million Names which will be preserved with the AMA Archives at Fisk University, Nashville, Tennessee, and at Dillard University, New Orleans, Louisiana.

(Address) _____

(City) _____ (Signed) _____

HM—HE(R) 0663—10M

TEAR OFF HERE

SCLC

SOUTHERN CHRISTIAN LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE

SCLC Newsletter

Volume 2 October, 1963 Number 1

INSIDE THIS ISSUE

Editorial ..... Page 4
Convention Photos ..... Page 6
Speeches Excerpts ..... Page 5
Dis & Data ..... Page 8
Quote & Unquote ..... Page 9
Letters To SCLC ..... Page 12

WE SHALL OVERCOME—Joining in singing of Freedom Song, "We Shall Overcome", at opening night banquet of convention were (from left): Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, his wife, Mrs. Juanita Abernathy; Mrs. Coretta King; Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.; and speaker, Sen. Leroy Johnson of Ga.

SCLC Holds Most Successful Convention; Upwards Of 5,000 Attend Night Sessions

With a record-breaking registration of more than 500 delegates from affiliates and organizations across the U.S., the seventh annual convention of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference held in Richmond, Va., Sept. 24-27, turned out to be the most successful in the organization's history. Upwards of some 5,000 Richmond residents and visitors from nearby counties attended the nightly meetings in Virginia Union University's Belgian Building to hear speakers deliver messages based upon the convention theme of "Freedom Now."

Turn-Away Crowd

The opening night's banquet on Sept. 24 indicated that the convention was going to be heavily attended as a turn-away crowd of more than 900 jam-packed the John Marshall Hotel's Virginia Room and spilled over into an adjoining banquet hall, the Colony Room. Many of those who could not get in were content to stand in the corridors outside to hear the speakers and listen to the wry humor of comedian Dick Gregory, who was the recipient of a special award.

The occasion marked the first time that a predominantly Negro gathering used the banquet facilities of the John Marshall Hotel, which earlier had expressed apprehension over the room's use by Negroes.

Christmas Boycott

SCLC president Martin Luther King, Jr. sent newsmen scrambling for telephones when he announced at a press conference upon his arrival that he was going to call for a "Christmas buying boycott" as a protest memorial to the children who were killed in the Birmingham church bombing. The suggestion was met with mixed reaction from some of the guest speakers, among them Congressman Adam Clayton Powell, who voiced enthusiastic support, and NAACP Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins, who expressed a negative response thus: "I find it difficult to go against the idea of Santa Claus."

(In a later meeting after the convention of all civil rights leaders who had participated in the March on Washington it was agreed that the Xmas buying boycott would not be invoked but that Negroes would be asked to make some financial sacrifices in memory of the children. It has been suggested that any money normally spent for extravagances should be sent to any one of the civil rights organizations or to a favorite charity.)

(Continued on page 2)

Birmingham Bombing Points Up A City With A Sick Soul

By Ed Clayton

The bomb that rocked the 16th Street Baptist Church in Birmingham on the Sunday morning of Sept. 15 and sent four innocent children to horrible death was not only a blast that stunned America but it sent a shock wave of horrified outrage around the world. As one woman put it, cautiously egg-walking her way through the crunch of broken glass: "My God, you're not even safe in church!"

Grim News

The unbelievably grim news was that either a bomb had been hurled or placed under the steps of an entrance to the church and the explosion claimed four victims attending Sunday School — Cynthia Wesley, 14; Carol Robertson, 14; Denise McNair, 11; and Addie Mae Collins, 14.

The church had been used as headquarters in voter registration drives by SCLC, was the meeting place for last year's con-

(Continued on page 2)

Photo courtesy Jet Magazine

Explosion blasted face of Jesus Christ from stained glass window in 16th Street Church.

Mahalia Jackson To Give Benefit Dec. 1

Miss Jackson

World-renown gospel singer Mahalia Jackson, whose remarkable voice has brought gospel music to millions throughout the world, is scheduled to appear in Atlanta, Ga., Sunday, Dec. 1, in a benefit concert for SCLC. Her appearance will be an afternoon performance at 3:00 p.m. at Atlanta's City Auditorium.

Miss Jackson, who has frequently appeared in other cities in behalf of SCLC, will be making her first appearance of this kind in Atlanta where SCLC's headquarters are located. She will be the second "big name" personality to be presented in concert in Atlanta in the "Stars For Freedom" benefit series.

A recording star for Columbia Records, Miss Jackson has done more to popularize gospel music than any other living person in America today. Her determination to be heard obsessed her with such a great passion that in the early struggles of her career she once sang before audiences in Buffalo, N. Y., for an admittance ticket that cost only five cents.

Organize New SCLC Affiliate In Richmond, Va. After Meet

A Richmond, Va., chapter was organized among SCLC affiliates on Oct. 28, almost a month to the day since the close of SCLC's convention in that city.

C. T. Vivian, SCLC director of Affiliates, who helped organize the new group, affirmed that SCLC would help them achieve civil rights gains in the capital city to the point of "moving into the streets" if necessary.

Rev. E. E. Smith of Riverview Baptist Church was elected temporary president of the new affiliate, and school teacher Herbert Crockett was named vice-chairman.

BOMBING

(Continued from Page 1)

vention, and had been used again as headquarters in this past spring's mass demonstrations.

Sick Mind

But just what the bombardier hoped to achieve by murdering innocent and unsuspecting children in a Sunday School class on a Sunday morning was a sickening question that could only be answered by the sick mind that conceived the heinous plot. Whoever he is, he is the product of a city that has a long case history of being sick.

The ills were thought to be at least somewhat relieved last May 10 when the "Birmingham Agreement" was reached following the mass demonstrations and the "Bull" Connor retaliation of fire hoses and snarling dogs. But there is no cure for cancer. Worse, there is not even hope for cancer that has been allowed to rot and fester for 92 years —or since Birmingham was born.

50 Bombings

Birmingham has the kind of cancer that has made bombing a popular pastime, a lightly-regarded pursuit that has accounted for 50 blasts since the end of World War II without a single solution.

Part of the root of this deep-seated racial disease lies in the fact that big business, the respected steel industry et al, has kept racism alive with an abnormally fierce competition for its jobs. Moreover, with the city's basic economy controlled by absentee owners up north, Birmingham's leadership has, until recently, been vested in the likes of such die-hard racists as "Bull" Conner.

Indeed, the blame for Birmingham's Sunday School murders can be laid at the foot of every racist in that city and every irresponsible city, state and federal official who has encouraged lawlessness. It also can be laid at the foot of every person who has stood silently by, hoping the cancer would somehow vanish of its own accord.

Dr. King Delivers Eulogy

SCLC president Martin Luther King, Jr., expressed it most eloquently in his eulogy at last rites for the slain children:

"They have something to say to each of us in their death," he said, "to every minister of the gospel who has remained silent behind the safe security of stained glass windows . . . to every politician who has fed his constituents with the stale bread of hatred and the spoiled meat of racism."

CONVENTION

(Continued from Page 1)

Pass Resolution

In a resolution passed at the convention, SCLC went on record in favor of seeking to get all civil rights cases, both civil and criminal, placed in federal courts. The resolution also asked that the Kennedy Administration's civil rights bill be amended to provide that all cases involving voting be tried by judges appointed by federal chief circuit judges to avoid having them brought before judges with segregationist sympathies.

Dr. King Again Rejects Salary

Dr. King, re-elected to the SCLC presidency, again rejected for the sixth straight year the board's insistent recommendation that he accept a salary. Since the founding of the organization he has received only the least possible minimum salary of $1.00 per year which entitles him to participate in the employee's group insurance plan.

In refusing to accept any salary from SCLC, Dr. King pointed out that "I have an income from Ebenezer Baptist Church in Atlanta as co-pastor along with my father, and I feel that this is adequate for me and my family's needs." He added: "It is my sincere and dedicated belief that the struggle for freedom in which SCLC is engaged is not one to be rewarded with individual wealth and gain, but rather one which finds its fulfillment in spiritual dedication and moral victories."

A closed meeting of board members of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference resulted in the following being re-appointed to the 33-man executive board to serve three-year terms:

Esau Jenkins, Charleston, S. C,; Matthew McCollum, Orangeburg, S. C.; and Daniel Speed, Tallahassee, Fla.

FIERY ORATORY SPARKED CONVENTION

Rev. Fred Shuttlesworth

Sen. Leroy Johnson

Cong. A. Clayton Powell

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

Figures Don't Lie

WHAT'S WRONG WITH 'BOMBINGHAM'

(Editor's note: the following statistical data on employment for Negroes in Alabama and Birmingham graphically illustrates the evils of discrimination within the state. The figures were compiled from the 1960 Census Series P.C. 1. Some 300,000 Negroes comprise 30 per cent of the labor force.)

State of Alabama

Engineers and Technical Workers
Whites	10,640
Negroes	74
Managers, Proprietors, Officials, etc.
Whites	46,000
Negroes	1,094
Clerical, Sales Workers In Retail Trade
Whites	172,000
Negroes	8,000
Private Household Workers (Domestics)
Whites	8,000
Negroes	65,000

City of Birmingham

Policemen
Whites	400
Negroes	0
Firemen
Whites	439
Negroes	0

SCLC Atty. Wins Discrimination Suit Against Travel Agency, Railroad Line

Atty. Eskridge

A Chicago travel agency and the Burlington Route Railroad Co. were ordered to pay $3,508 on October 4 for discriminating against two Chicago Negro women in a suit in which they were represented by Atty. Chauncey Eskridge, who also serves as an attorney for SCLC.

The women, Mrs. Eva Wright, an employee of the Illinois Labor Dept., and her daughter, Miss Evelyn Williams, a school teacher, had charged in the suit that they were not permitted to take a guided rail tour to the west coast because they are Negroes.

Paid $780

They said they paid $780 for a tour of the Pacific Northwest on May 2, 1960, but were not allowed to travel with the organized tour. Instead, they were told by the Vanderbilt Better Tours travel agency to report to the train station a day before the scheduled tour for "another tour", but when they arrived they learned that no organized tour was leaving.

Their attorney, Eskridge, pointed out that all white persons booked for the tour remain booked for the scheduled departure date of July 3 up to the time of departure.

Money Refunded

Mrs. Wright and Miss Williams refused to travel separately and their money was refunded. On July 3, 1962, they filed suit for $100,000.

In ruling against the travel agency and rail line, U. S. District Court Judge Joseph Sam Perry said: "It's clear that there was a refusal because of race and we might as well bring it to a head in federal court." He awarded each of the women $500 compensatory damages, plus an additional $500 each punitive damages, $1,500 in legal fees and a refund of $8.40 for travel insurance.

It was the first time damages had been awarded against a travel agency, which means that such firms are now subject to the Interstate Commerce Act which forbids railroads to discriminate.

Wyatt Walker Photo

SCENE OF BOMBING—With broken windows almost everywhere, the 16th Street Baptist Church in Birmingham, Ala., bears mute evidence of force of explosion on Sept. 15 in which four children were killed. Windows were also blown out of homes and stores in the area by the blast which could be heard for blocks away.

How One White Man Felt After Bombing

With this Sunday's work [Sept. 15] in Birmingham on our guilt-record, it's a wonder that any of us whites have a decent bone left. I notice that you Negroes don't do what we have always done when reporting a crime by a Negro, i. e. give the impression that one Negro skin was used to accommodate the ground-up flesh of the entire Negro race so that the news release would imply that "The Negro Race broke into a hardware store . . ."

Destined For Greatness

There are many factors, many of which are traceable to free will choices for good, but just one reason why all the scholars are in agreement that Negroes are destined for great things. You are the only people without a guilty conscience, having committed no genocide against a whole continent's population and lied to yourself that you were bringing civilization to the Indians; having no six million souls crying out for justice in your subconsciousness, and all the rest. You all will, in all probability, commit all the classic crimes eventually, but that will be several thousand years in the future.

Fully Salt Flavored

In the meantime, you are still fully salt-flavored and able to lend taste to even washed out and tasteless critters like us, especially in representatives such as Dr. King who has all the qualities of a universal man rather than one hemmed in by race, national propagandizing, class "spokes-maniaing", etc. He can take a walk any day with Buddha, Gandhi, Socrates, Lincoln, Thoreau and others of this caliber.

More Civilized

Moreover, it's a puzzle to me how anyone who has eyes to see, can't see the obvious fact that the word "civilized" has more of a home in the Negro demonstrators than in the white mobs attending them. And it is also obvious that the Negroes concerned are happier because they have self respect and innocence even when the stated goal is not attained, whereas the whites are unhappy and in the gnashing-of-teeth region outside the Kingdom of GOoDness.

JOSEPH COLTON

Mineral Wells, Texas

SCLC Newsletter

Publisher, SOUTHERN CHRISTIAN LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE

334 Auburn Ave., N.E.
Atlanta, Georgia
Phone: 524-1378

MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR., President

F. L. SHUTTLESWORTH, Secretary

RALPH D. ABERNATHY, Treasurer

WYATT TEE WALKER, Executive Director

EDWARD T. CLAYTON, Editor

AIMS AND PURPOSES OF SCLC

1. To achieve full citizenship rights, and total integration of the Negro in American life.
2. To stimulate non-violent direct mass action to remove the barriers of segregation and discrimination.
3. To disseminate the creative philosophy and techniques of non-violence through local and area workshops.
4. To secure the right and unhampered use of the ballot for every citizen.
5. To reduce the cultural lag through the Citizenship Training Program.

Editorial

The 'Red' Plague

Over the past several months there has been an obvious organized effort to cloud the true purposes of civil rights organizations by labeling them "Communist Front," "Communist-Tainted," or what have you. SCLC and its president, Dr. King, have constantly been the targets of such newspaper attacks, although they represent little more than a re-hash of what already has been said and commented upon.

The latest of these of considerable length was an editorial in the Richmond News Leader on the closing day of the convention which sought to discredit SCLC and Dr. King for its past association with Jack O'Dell, an alleged one-time communist and former SCLC employee. The editorial also took exception to the presence at the convention of Bayard Rustin, deputy director of the March On Washington, also referred to by the paper as "a one-time young communist."

The intent of the editorial was clear. By placing SCLC and Dr. King amidst paragraphs liberally sprinkled with the word "communism," the reading public, depending upon the Richmond News Leader for its intelligence, was expected to reach the conclusion that there must be some "Red" in the ranks of SCLC.

The tactic has been tried many, many times before with other organizations, sometimes with success, more often without. The 54-year-old NAACP has had to ward off such scurrilous attacks in its past history. But thankfully it has survived to the everlasting good fortune of the Negro race.

It does not come as any great surprise that such papers as the Richmond News Leader would resort to this sort of editorial witch hunt. What is surprising is that the Leader bothered to carry anything at all in the paper's columns after invoking a news blackout on the convention for three days.

Moreover, what it printed in this connection hardly could be considered as news inasmuch as the same information had been carried months before over the wire services to all the nation's major newspapers and had been dealt with, answered and dismissed for its news value. Any re-hash of it, as any good editor knows, is only serving up left-over stew from which the meat has all but disappeared .

SCLC, as Dr. King has said, "is so firmly established as a Christian nonviolent movement that it would be impossible to be influenced in any way by the method or philosophy of Communism." And if there is any "red" in its ranks it is the memory of the red blood of 3,000 lynch victims staining America's history; the red blood spilled on the battlefield by Negroes in every war in which this nation has engaged; and the red trickle from the bullet wounds that have claimed the lives of men like Medgar Evers of Mississippi who symbolized the "hardiness and valor" for which the red in the American flag stands.—ETC

SCLC Newsletter Reaches 100,000 Mark This Issue

With this issue of the SCLC Newsletter, the total distribution across the nation reaches slightly less than the 100,000 mark. The official organ of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference began publishing irregularly in 1961 as a four-page publication, but is now established on a regular monthly basis as a 12-page news organ.

Further expansion seems certain in the future as SCLC continues to grow, and while the publication is distributed free of charge and supported in the main by contributions from its readers, it may become necessary at some point to accept advertising as well as place it on a subscription basis. Increased printing costs incurred because of the great demand for the Newsletter indicate that this may become necessary.

The Cartoonist's View

Long Night's Journey Into Day

Hugh Haynie In Louisville Courier Journal

Herblock in The Washington Post

"Perhaps If We Ignore It . . ."

Palmer In Springfield, Mo., Leader & Press

Convention Guest Writes Impressions Of Meeting

(Editor's note: The writer of the following, Mrs. Sarah Patton Boyle, who is author of the book, "The Desegregated Heart," was the recipient of a special award at SCLC's convention.)

The 7th Annual meeting of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, held in Richmond, Sept. 24-27, and led by Dr. Martin Luther King, seems to be moving into the past without "editorial" comment by an eye-witness. This must not happen.

Unlike other conferences, the delegates did not express their thoughts so much as they did the essence of their lives. They spoke of things they would die for. It was not a bugle-call, beat-of-drums willingness to die, but the simple assumption that it is better to die for some things than to live without them.

Lighted Faces

Remarks by chief speakers were well-reported in the press but the importance of the meeting did not lie in these. It lay in the brief comments of unknown speakers from platform and floor, and in the lighted faces and deepened eyes of those who spoke and heard.

The meeting was composed largely of people who had been insulted, beaten, set upon by dogs, thrown into jail, for acting out "freedom and justice for all." Their voices shook when they spoke of friends who had been bombed and shot to death. Their voices were steady when they said, "love your enemies."

Great Cause

All great thoughts have many times been spoken. Therefore only when they are acted out do they move into their inherent greatness. No man is great in himself. The brilliant, the forceful, are trivial when they only flex their mental muscles. We become great when we stand for a great cause, or act out a great conviction.

Increasingly Negro Americans are standing for, acting out the great American theme: "Freedom and justice for all." Negro Christians are standing for , acting out, the great Christian theme: "Love your 'unlovable' neighbor because God loves you."

Thus, in them the soul of America vibrates with life. In them Christ lives with passionate, compassionate love that can redeem. These are the great Americans, the great Christians of today.

Mrs. Boyle

Ignoring their just demands, we reveal ourselves pale beside them, not alone in face, but also in mind, heart and soul. We could quietly, swiftly renew our nation by making her what she claims to be. We could renew our faith by living what we affirm.

SARAH PATTON BOYLE

Charlottesville, Va.

From Convention Speeches . . .

Martin Luther King, Jr., President of SCLC: "If we have won any victory, and certainly there have been some, this is not the hour to gloat in that victory. We must reach still yet for higher peaks of attainment of the ends we seek. We must move now even more militantly forward, knowing full well that there can be no idle hours in the midst of our siege of battle. Our noble yesterdays must be transformed into new tomorrows re-dedicated to our single, sincere thesis that America must cleanse itself of this awful sin of race hatred and social injustice."

Senator Paul H. Douglas, Democrat of Illinois: "The self-restraint which you have practiced in the face of beatings, jail sentences, fire hoses, police dogs, bombings and the killing of the innocent, as in Birmingham, is beyond and above all praise. I have believed fitfully during my life in the supreme worth of the spirit of active good will and in the final ability of love to conquer hate and to transform society. But I am frank to say that I do not think that under such provocations as you have experienced I would have possessed the strength of character to practice it."

Senator Jacob K. Javits, Republican from New York: "Make no mistake about it, the Negro 'revolution' of 1963 has generated moral power which can make or break Presidents — or presidential candidates — a power which can make or break political parties. A power — in fact — which can prove again to a sometimes doubting world that the people of the U. S. have the stuff of greatness when morally challenged — as they are now on this historic issue of equal opportunity and civil rights."

Wyatt Tee Walker, Executive Assistant to Dr. King: "It appears that in this year of 'Emancipation', there really is no emancipation. We have been duped, or have duped ourselves into believing that the chains had been broken, when in truth, we have only been chained more securely. Half-freedom has in many instances been worse than no freedom at all. The compromise during Reconstruction was not only a legal compromise, it was also a moral compromise. As a nation, what we have sown, we are reaping."

Thomas Kilgore, Jr., Former Director of SCLC's New York office: "Churches in America may very well ponder the symbolic meaning of the missing face of Christ from the stained glass window after the bombing of the Sixteenth Street Church in Birmingham. Maybe this disturbing scene is saying to America's Christianity that all too often the face of Christ has been in stained glass windows and not in the lives of the people."

L. D. Reddick, SCLC Historian: "Lest we forget, part of our struggle against inequality is an intellectual revolt against the stereotype to which we have been reduced by hostile historians, novelists, and after them the evil or obtuse men of radio, Hollywood and television. We do not yet have a plan on them. We have not yet gotten around to a sustained effort not only to get Negroes employed in the publishing and communications industries but to change the picture that these agencies of information and entertainment paint of us."

Convention Mood

Capacity crowds jammed Virginia Union University's Belgian Building nightly (above) to hear speakers in four-day convention meet, often became cheering, pennant-waving spectators (below) in response to fiery oratory.

Autograph seekers were on hand to greet Dr. King virtually everywhere he appeared in public. Here he obliges some students from Virginia Union University, many of whom took keen interest in convention proceedings.

Surprise contribution at convention came from Yonkers, N. Y., Publisher Noel F. Marder (r.) who presented Dr. King with checks totaling over $2,000, an additional report from N. Y. banquet.

Rosa Parks Freedom Award was presented to Fred Shuttlesworth (l.) by Mrs. Rosa Parks (at mike). Others in photo are Atty. William Kunstler, N.Y., (2nd from r.) and Rev. Abernathy (r.).

Photos These Pages By Scott Henderson Of Richmond, Va.

Affiliate Award went to Alabama Christian Movement by Dr. A. A. Peters (r.), Los Angeles. W. E. Shortridge (c.) of Birmingham accepted.

Caught By Lensman

Special award was presented to comedian Dick Gregory (r.) by Dr. King on behalf of SCLC for his role in civil rights struggle. Gregory, though ill with flu, flew in from Washington, D. C., to attend meet.

Portion of delegates lined up on steps for official convention photo at First African Baptist Church where day sessions were held. Registration showed that this was largest convention in SCLC's six-year history.

Guest speaker Roy Wilkins of NAACP paused to pose with Dr. King to give lie to reports that there is disunity among civil rights organizations. Wilkins was greeted by NAACP unit at Virginia Univ.

Senator Jacob Javits (c.) stopped to pause with students from Virginia Union University upon his arrival to address the convention. Javits spoke on "The Civil Rights Struggle In Congress," was warmly received.

Special citation for meritorious service was presented Wyatt Tee Walker (l.), SCLC executive assistant to Dr. King, for job he has done in helping build SCLC. He is shown being congratulated.

Joining in singing "We Shall Overcome" at conclusion of first night session, Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois (c.) clasps hands with Dr. King (l.) and Rev. Abernathy (r.) on platform along with Thomas H. Henderson, Virginia Union president.

The SCLC Bookshelf

As in other areas where the demand for more knowledge about the Negro in America's midst has reached a new high, the Negro poet too now seems destined for a measure of well-deserved recognition. Below are listed two of the latest works by two well-known Negro craftsmen, Arna Bontemps, Fisk University librarian, and Gwendolyn Brooks, 1950 Pulitizer Prize winner.

» American Negro Poetry, an anthology edited by Arna Bontemps. This work of 197 pages, published by Hill & Wang, contains 171 poems by 55 poets, among them such names familiar to Negroes as James Weldon Johnson, Paul Laurence Dunbar and Langston Hughes. It has a brief historical introduction and biographical sketches as well.

» Selected Poems by Gwendolyn Brooks. This newest work from the pen of the Chicago verse writer is a volume containing a group of new poems together with selections from three earlier books, now out of print. Published by Harper & Row, it deals with a variety of matters set to verse, including race, love, war and other ingredients of which life is made.

New & Current

» When The Word Is Given by Louis E. Lomax. Another effort to make a close inspection of the Black Muslim movement, this work by author Lomax seeks to tell the "inside" story of the history of the Black Muslims, their growth, and their leadership. Publishers are World Publishing Co.

» The Learning Tree by Gordon Parks. A first novel by famous Life magazine photographer Gordon Parks, this addition to previous expressions of his talents might make one wonder what Parks will do next. Besides being an accomplished photographer, he has composed piano concertos, published poetry and directed motion pictures. Harper & Row are publishers of his latest work.

Mr. Parks

Available At SCLC

» Strength To Love by Martin Luther King, Jr. Publishers: Harper & Row. Price: $3.50.

» Stride Toward Freedom by Martin Luther King, Jr. Publishers: Harper & Brothers Co. Price: $2.95

» Crusader Without Violence by L. D. Reddick. Publishers: Harper & Brothers. Price: $3.95

» Echo In My Soul by Septima Poinsette Clark. Publishers: E. P. Dutton & Co. Price: $4.50

» The Desegregated Heart by Sarah Patton Boyle. Publishers: William Morrow & Co. Price: $5.00

Booklet On 'March' Set For Publication

A 96-page, hard-back, paper-covered pictorial booklet, containing speeches and photos from the March on Washington, is scheduled to be published Nov. 15 by the Book Division of Johnson Publishing Co. in Chicago. Mrs. Doris Saunders, chief of the department and also editor of the booklet, said it is entitled: The Day They Marched.

Mrs. Saunders said it will include an introduction by Ebony senior editorial writer Lerone Bennett, who authored the current best-selling Negro history book, Before The Mayflower. Lavishly-illustrated, the booklet will sell for $1.00

Besides Bennett's introduction, the booklet also will contain the following:

- The Speech delivered by Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.
- The 400-word statement by President Kennedy.
- The words to the freedom song, "We Shall Overcome."
- The goals of the March.
- The pledge taken by those who participated in the March.

The major portion of the booklet will be dramatic photo layouts, Mrs. Saunders emphasized, and pointed out that because of its hard-back cover it will be of long-lasting quality.

Mrs. Saunders

The booklet will be available through the Atlanta offices of SCLC, and can be obtained by sending $1.00 to 334 Auburn Ave., N.E., Atlanta, Georgia 30303.

Dr. King's Latest Book In Three Foreign Languages

By Carole Hoover

The second book from the pen of SCLC President, Martin Luther King, Jr. has almost reached the 20,000 mark in sales and is now being translated into three foreign languages, French, German and Swedish. A third printing is anticipated for early 1964, in addition to an already scheduled printing in England.

Having worked exclusively for the past several months on Strength To Love, I have observed that the constituency of the church community has been our largest purchasers.

The book, Strength To Love, has been reviewed nationally and internationally by some of the most prominent clergymen of this era.

This can be attributed to the fact that the book was written on a religious-centered philosophy. Greater sales are anticipated for the coming months, because not only are purchasers receiving the intimate thoughts and philosophy of one of America's most outstanding leaders; they are also helping finance the struggle that is leading to the complete redemption of the soul of America.

DIS 'N DATA

DID YOU KNOW . . . that Birmingham, Ala., is so determined to preserve the image of being die-hard segregationists that it still has "white" and "Negro" signs above the drinking fountains and rest rooms in City Hall? Further proof that that city is at least 10 years behind the times — even where signs are concerned . . . . It hasn't been formally announced yet, but SCLC's Wyatt Tee Walker, executive assistant to Dr. King, is spending what leisure moments he can spare at the job of editing an upcoming book of sermons for the Educational Heritage Company. Added thought: The Greyhound bus station in Richmond, Va., still maintains "white" and "Negro" dining areas although the signs were taken down several years ago. Some Negroes "dare" to eat on the "white" side despite hostile stares, but for the most part Negroes "just automatically" go to the "Negro" side out of sheer habit.

• • •

HAVE YOU READ . . . The Newsweek magazine article (Oct. 21) entitled "What The White Man Thinks Of The Negro Revolt?" Negroes might have sensed what it would contain, but some of the raw expressions of hatred and prejudices voiced in some instances were so hostile that the Louis Harris organization which took the poll feared that the IBM punch card tabulators might walk off the job. The reason was simply that 75 per cent of the girl tabulators happened to be Negroes . . . . The October Gibson Report, prepared monthly by New York marketing specialist D. Parke Gibson, reveals some encouraging signs. Among other things, it points out that 12 banking institutions owned and operated by Negroes have reached a record growth with assets over $71 million. Nine of the 12 banks are located in the South; one in the Mid-West; one in the nation's Capital; and one in the North.

• • •

HAVE YOU HEARD . . . about the "Freedom Concert" given by Mrs. Coretta Scott King, wife of Dr. King, at Brooklyn's Corner Stone Baptist Church? It was a unique presentation, telling the freedom story from Montgomery, Ala., to Washington, D. C., in narration, poetry and song. The talented soprano received such a tremendous response that the idea may develop into a new type concert concept as only she would be able to do it.

Make Gains In St. Augustine

After months of racial strife, climaxed with the brutal beating at a Ku Klux Klan rally recently of four NAACP officials, the NAACP has scored a series of several breakthroughs in the nation's oldest city. They are as follows:

- Lunch counters at Woolworth's and McCrory's have been opened on a desegregated basis and also Del Monico's restaurant.
- Three Negroes have been hired as clerks and cashiers at three clothing stores.
- At Fairchild Aircraft eight persons have been upgraded in their positions to work on airplane interiors.

Quote & Unquote

Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, Jr., in his address at SCLC's convention: "Santa Claus begins with a lie to our children and ends in hypocrisy. Strictly a creation of the Anglo-Saxon world, he has nothing more to do with the birth of Jesus than a rabbit has to do with Christ's resurrection."

* * *

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., eulogizing the four children bombed to death in Birmingham: "Good still has a way of growing out of evil. The blood of these girls must serve as a revitalizing force to bring light to this dark city."

* * *

Newsweek Magazine, in an article on what the white man thinks of the Negro revolt: "The white man is eternally torn between the right that he knows and the wrong that he does."

* * *

Rev. Walter R. Courtenay, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Nashville, Tenn.: "All men are created equally helpless, equally ignorant, equally inexperienced and equally sin-touched."

* * *

Laurence Boyd, of Lake Zurich, Ill., telling in a Newsweek article how he felt after a Negro co-worker was refused in a restaurant: "I thought this was a dirty, cryin' shame. Just 'cause he's black don't mean he ain't hungry."

* * *

Nine-Year-Old Birmingham white boy in a school essay: "I think the person that bombed the church should get a trial and sinunst [sentenced] for life. And I think Negroes have a rite [sic] to fite [sic] back. And I think if people wood [sic] stop waving the Confederate flags (the bombers) woodnt [sic] do all this."

Mr. Young

* * *

Whitney M. Young, Jr., executive director of the National Urban League: "While we march to open a restaurant to Negro customers, our youngsters must also march to the library to read books."

MONTGOMERY DELEGATION—Freedom fighters since the days of the Montgomery, Ala., bus boycott in 1955-56, delegates from that city to SCLC's convention got together to pose with convention officials, Wyatt Tee Walker (l.), national coordinator, and Mrs. Laurayne James (r.), Richmond coordinator. Boycott principles are also on front row with Mrs. Rosa Parks, (2nd from left), whose refusal to give up bus seat led to beginning of today's nation-wide freedom fight.

File Lawsuit In Miss. In Church Integration

A lawsuit was filed in the United States District Court in Jackson, Mississippi, on Oct. 11 which, if successful, will prevent Mississippi officials from arresting, prosecuting, or jailing Negroes who attempt to worship in the white Protestant churches of Jackson.

The suit was filed as a result of the arrest on Oct. 6 of three students, two Negroes and one white, from Tougaloo Southern Christian College on the steps of the Capitol Street Methodist Church in Jackson.

Fined $1,000

The three girls, who attempted to enter the church to join the congregation in World Wide Communion Sunday worship, were held overnight in jail and tried the next day without benefit of legal counsel. Each was sentenced to a year in jail and fined $1,000 on charges of trespassing and interfering with public worship. Bail, which had been set at $1,000 for each girl, was posted on Tuesday, Oct. 8, by two agencies of The Methodist Church, the Women's Division and the Board of Christian Social Concern.

The three girls are Bette Poole and Ida Hannah, both 19 from Mississippi, and Julie Zaugg, 21, a white transfer student from Oberlin College in Ohio.

Enter Conspiracy

In papers filed in the District Court, attorneys for the three girls argue that Jackson law enforcement officials have entered into a conspiracy to deny the students and other Jackson Negroes their Constitutional rights to worship freely, and that the severe sentences imposed upon the girls constitute cruel and unusual punishment.

The broad-guaged suit names as defendants Mississippi Governor Ross R. Barnett, Jackson Mayor Allen Thompson, the chief of police, municipal judge and city prosecutors of Jackson, and the sheriff and county attorney of Hinds County.

Attorneys for the students are R. Jess Brown of Jackson and William M. Kunstler and Arthur Kinoy of New York. Mr. Brown was attorney of record for James Meredith in the latter's successful bid for admission to the University of Mississippi last fall. Mr. Kunstler is trial counsel for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

JIM CROW SOUTH AFRICA: VOLCANO READY TO ERUPT

In a recent article entitled "Investing In A Volcano," which appeared in a leading British magazine, the Investor's Chronicle, the sorry plight of South Africa's twelve million Africans in a country ruled by three million whites is vividly pointed up in the light of potential industrial investors.

The article, written by a former editor of the Johannesburg weekly, the Financial Mail, states in part: ". . . It is of some investment significance that of South Africa's twelve million Africans, three-and-a-half million have been sent to gaol [jail] in the past five years, that job reservation bars them from certain jobs, that they have no direct say in the fixing of their own wages, that they are without political rights and that separate development is a dishonest sham even in the border industry policy."

Millions in Gold Weekly

South Africa is experiencing an industrial boom, the article goes on to say, stating that a million pounds worth ($2.8 million) of gold is pulled from the ground every week. But the writer further warns that the investor is "being asked to take an interest in a volcano . . . the important question is not whether the mountain will erupt, but when."

"If the trouble were to occur within a year or two it could probably be 'bottled up' again," the article concludes. "But the policy [apartheid] looks too rigid and too deeply ingrained ever to adapt itself to a changing world; those who oppose it radically cannot hope to win, but they can perhaps survive."

Coca-Cola Boycott Ended; Negroes Given Better Jobs

The Negro Ministers of Atlanta called an end to their selective buying campaign against the Coca-Cola Bottling Co. of Atlanta on Oct. 8 after the beverage firm agreed to their request for employment and job-upgrading for 16 Negroes. Negotiations for the boycott conclusion were completed at the Coca-Cola plant's office and at Atlanta's Ebenezer Baptist Church of which SCLC's president, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., is co-pastor.

Demands Outlined

In their demands for equal job opportunities for Negroes, the minister's organization had asked that Negroes either be employed or up-graded in the following categories at the soft drink company:

1.) Sales Dept. (one assistant to the sales manager and eight route salesmen); 2.) Premix Dept. (one route salesman); 3.) Cooler Dept. (one service man); 4.) Garage (one full mechanic); 5.) Advertising Dept. (one person); 6.) Factory (two general promotions—either a forklift operator or a loading and unloading foreman); 7.) Office (one clerk typist).

To Train More

The Atlanta Coca-Cola Bottling Co. not only met the request of the ministers but began training more Negro employees for better job positions and established an apprenticeship program to further train more Negroes for better job positions. In addition, they pledged that all hiring in the future will be done on a non-discriminatory basis and that more up-grading will take place when jobs become available.

The internationally-known soft drink company employs about 45 per cent Negro help and 55 per cent white at the Atlanta-franchised bottling company.

President Comments

In commenting on the boycott end and successful negotiations, Arthur L. Montgomery, president of the firm, said: "We plan to continue to work as hard as we can, and as well as we can, for the benefit of all the citizens of greater Atlanta — both Negro and white. We are proud of the fact that the Atlanta Coca-Cola Bottling Company has as fine a record of community services as any organization in the city, and we will work in the future toward making this record better than ever."

SCEF Director, Three Aides Cleared Of 'Un-American' Charges After Raid

Judge Bernard J. Cocke of the Louisiana Criminal District Court Division, at a preliminary hearing on Oct. 25, discharged and dismissed the case against James A. Dombrowski, executive director of the Southern Conference Educational Fund, Inc. (S. C. E. F.), Benjamin E. Smith, treasurer of S. C. E. F., and New Orleans attorney, and Bruce C. Waltzer, Smith's law partner.

The three men had been arrested on Oct. 4 by the Louisiana State Police and New Orleans police at the behest of the Louisiana Joint Legislative Committee on Un-American Activities; and their offices and homes were searched. Records and personal possessions were confiscated.

No Factual Basis

Judge Cocke ruled that there was no factual basis for the State's charge that the men had conspired to violate the State's Subversive Activities and Control Law or its Communist Propaganda Control Act by managing S.C.E.F.

S.C.E.F. is an organization dedicated to furthering integration. Smith and Waltzer are active civil rights lawyers.

The Rev. Fred L. Shuttlesworth, president of S.C.E.F. and leader of the Birmingham integration movement, said: "The dismissal of the charges against Smith, Waltzer and Dombrowski, is a signal victory for the forces of civil rights and civil liberties in their efforts to bring about justice, freedom and fair play."

Subpoenaed by Eastland

Testimony at the hearing by James A. Pfister, chairman of the Louisiana Joint Legislative Committee, revealed that the records and personal effects seized on Oct. 4 were subpoenaed on Oct. 5 by Senator James O. Eastland's U. S. Senate Internal Security Subcommittee.

INSURANCEMEN HELP—Lending their financial as well as moral support, the National Insurance Association gave a donation of $10,000 to SCLC during its August convention in Chicago. Here Charles Green (r.), representing Atlanta Life Ins. Co., presents Dr. King a check for $5,000, as half the amount from his firm, while George Beavers (l.), Board Chairman of Golden State Mutual, Los Angeles, and George Harris, president of Chicago's Metropolitan Mutual Assurance Co., look on.

'March' Speeches, Songs Now On Record

"We Shall Overcome," a recording of the speeches and music of the recent March on Washington, has been released by the Council for United Civil Rights Leadership as its official, authorized recording.

The Council, comprising the seven major, national Negro civil rights organizations, will use revenue from the record to meet costs of the civil rights crisis.

The recording is available from the Council office, 10 East 44 Street, New York 17, N. Y., at a discount price of $3.00, part of which is set aside for the civil rights organization through which it is ordered. (See order coupon below.) It is also being made available to the general public through record stores across the nation, where it will be sold for $3.98.

Full Speeches, Songs

It contains the full speeches of Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King and Rabbi Joachim Prinz, excerpts from the talks by Walter Reuther, Roy Wilkins, Whitney M. Young, Jr., John Lewis, Bayard Rustin and A. Philip Randolph. It also has recorded songs by Joan Baez, Bob Dylan, Marian Anderson, Odetta and Peter, Paul and Mary.

The organizations comprising the Council are: National Association for the Advancement of Colored People; National Urban League; National Council of Negro Women; N.A.A.C.P. Legal Defense and Educational Fund, Inc.; Congress of Racial Equality; Southern Christian Leadership Conference; Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

COUNCIL FOR UNITED CIVIL RIGHTS LEADERSHIP
10 East 44th Street
New York 17, New York.

Please send me _____ copies of the authorized recording(s) of the March on Washington at the special Council price. I understand the proceeds from the sale of this record will benefit the civil rights movement throughout the country. I enclose $3.00 for each record ordered.

NAME _____

ADDRESS _____

CITY _____ ZONE _____ STATE _____

Please make check or money order payable to Council for Unity.

S.C.L.C. Branch _____

Workers Wanted! Space Needed! For Education Program

By Mrs. Septima P. Clark

Continuing education used to be merely a good and worthy thing for the individual — only that. But today it is one of this nation's chief wealth-producing resources. For meeting challenges posed by our explosive growth of knowledge, for coping with increasing complexities in our society and for adjusting to changing needs of each individual, continuing education as never before has become a vital force in the lives of every one of us.

Our world is changing at a staggering pace. Each scientific and technical breakthrough seems to produce a chain reaction of new knowledge, new opportunities and new problems. Today, we must learn more, in less time, and throughout life to meet these challenges and in order to insure our security, our productivity, and our adaptability to ever-accelerating changing conditions.

Plantation Culture

Recently in Hattiesburg, Mississippi I worked with Negro men and women 40 - 81 years of age, fresh from a plantation culture who want to register and vote. Although they have been sent to poor schools, and in some instances, no schools, or the schools provided for them by the power structure of yesterday, they must now read, write and interpret the constitution of Mississippi to the satisfaction of the registrar. This group labored for two hours in a church's educational building in an effort to acquire the skills necessary to attempt to qualify. The Southern Christian Leadership Conference is offering such service to every one, but especially to those who attended school prior to 1950.

Consider the awesome responsibility that science and technology of today are creating for the citizens of a democracy. Only through constant and continuing study can we discover how to make decisions about changes in our government's structure that are required if our democratic government is to survive and continue as a model for the new nations recently born. Remember! We are talking about a closeness between economy, urgency, education and action — unique problems of adults — which can only be resolved by adults.

Change in Mississippi

In all of Mississippi the changing landscape is evident. Cotton fields are now pasture lands and herds of cows are seen roaming the hillsides. Unwilling plow hands and hoe hands have left the ill-constructed shacks; huge weather-proofed, electrically-equipped barns house the cows that have changed the one-time crop farms to dairy farms. The functionally illiterates of today and tomorrow must be educated and trained to become qualified members of a productive private economy. In the September Bell Telephone News, Governor Russell of South Carolina says, "We must not, we cannot tolerate a situation that denies to such a large portion of our people any real chance."

The demand for adult education is on the increase. The number of people working in the field of adult education is growing. The 1962 Gallup Poll and statistics from the office of Education say that the increase has climbed from two to 20 per cent. It has been maturing through legislative enactment also, when one considers the 1962 Manpower Development and Training Act which established a three-year program to re-train the unemployed in new skills demanded by our complex industrial society. The act represents a large scale effort by the Federal Government to meet some of the problems posed by automation, increased technology, and school drop outs.

JACKIE ROBINSON RALLY—Estate of former baseball star Jackie Robinson in Stamford, Conn., was scene of recent fund-raising rally for benefit of SCLC as well as NAACP and CORE. It was second such rally Jackie has held on grounds of home to aid civil rights cause.

Wyatt Walker Photo

Learning to read and write in SCLC Citizenship School, a resident of Wadmalaw Island, S. C., became eligible to register and vote after five months training. Teacher (at right) is Mrs. Ethel Jenkins Grimball.

Community Level

But the place where things really count and where people really grow is at the local community level. This means newer knowledge of state legislation, local rules and regulations, state appropriations, and local allocations. This is where the Citizenship School Program sponsored by SCLC continues to grow.

We must continue our own education. We must learn to become action - research minded. We must take a look at where we are and where we want to be. We need to get so excited about our programs that we even participate ourselves. Hosea Williams, of the Southeastern Georgia Crusade for Voters, 416 W. Park Street, Savannah, Georgia, has done just this. He has prepared for himself and his citizenship school teachers a questionnaire on local, state and national government which encourages a type of research that is rarely given in any college, but which can prepare one to live in our complex Urban Communities.

Movements Discussed

On Johns Island in a Voter Education Internship Workshop in that South Carolina community we established a few bench marks after discussing the Albany, Georgia, Charleston, S. C. and Greenwood, Miss. movements. It became the consensus of opinion that:

1.) Appropriate people must be involved in determining the goals.
2.) We must marshal all resources.
3.) Ask ourselves: How well have we done?
4.) What level of success have we attained?
5.) What contributed to our success?
6.) Why did we fail in some instances?
7.) How can we improve?

Suggestions

To these questions came the following suggestions:

1.) We must be willing to share our knowledge with others and provide settings for these ideas to be tested and improved.
2.) Struggle more to find better answers to problems that plague us as educators and citizens.
3.) Be favorable to change — create and maintain within ourselves attitudes of flexibility.
4.) Teach adults to learn how to learn more effectively.

Modern society does not live by asking, "Is everybody happy?", but rather, "Is everybody learning?". Continued learning is the basis for being richly alive. There is no room for the apologetic or the "can't-be-done" attitude. We are living now at a time when the question is: "Who's going to do it and when?"; not, whether it can be done.

Letters To SCLC

A Salute From Budapest

Dear Sirs:

Millions of young people all over the world warmly applaud and salute with solidarity the efforts by Civil Rights groups together with other progressive minded people to secure Negro equality in the USA. Youth of the world hold no truck with racial discrimination and condemn all manifestations of racism. The WFDY sees the "March on Washington for Jobs and Freedom" as an important step towards winning the struggle for the Democratic rights of Negro Americans. We call upon all young people and their organizations to urge the Congress of the USA to immediately adopt the Civil Rights Legislation before them and also urge President Kennedy and the Federal Government to implement that legislation rapidly and effectively by using the authority vested in them by the Constitution.

PIERO PIERALLI, PRESIDENT
THE WORLD FEDERATION OF DEMOCRATIC YOUTH

Budapest

'Kick Oppressor In Teeth'

Dear Friends:

Thanks for Mr. King's letter written from the Birmingham Jail. I want to salute you people. What you are doing for freedom will reach into every nook and cranny on earth. Never in the history of the earth has so much been accomplished for human dignity and individuality in so short a time. It shows one thing conclusively — "that an oppressor understands only one thing: a kick in the teeth!" I know you won't slow down now. You have now carried things to the point, I think, where nature wouldn't let you stop even if you wanted to. Best wishes.

EDGAR LESLIE

Los Angeles, Calif.

Negro In Russia Offers Help

Dear Rev. King:

I have been wanting to write you for some time. My name is Huldah Susan Clark. I am a sixteen-year-old Negro girl. You may remember that about two years ago I left the United States to go to school in Moscow because of race discrimination in the U.S.A.

I am enjoying myself here very much, but now I'm so excited about what's happening in Birmingham that I can't wait until I get home. It's too bad that I won't be coming home this year.

Last June 13 on television here in Moscow I saw them taking you to jail again. That's one reason I've decided to write you. You see, I'm a fighter for freedom and so is my father. He was in Birmingham at the time Mr. William Moore was killed. He is planning to go again as soon as he gets some people together who are willing to help you in the fight. I know we'll win.

Now I want to ask you to do me a favor. (This is the main reason I'm writing.) I want very much to help you. Please allow me to. Is there anything I can do for you?

I know I'm overseas, but I have a large correspondence with people all over the world. Maybe I can get some signatures of people over here who are against this kind of injustice or translate some leaflets into Russian and give them out. I'll do anything in my power. Just let me know.

HULDAH SUSAN CLARK

Boarding School V 12
Moscow, USSR

Integration 'Clarified'

Dear Reverend Mr. King:

Excerpts from your letter to the Birmingham Clergy published in the July 1, 1963 issue of Presbyterian Life have helped to clarify many things about the Negro integration — equality of opportunity problem for me.

My mother's recommendation for reading of the new inter-racial cooperation program of the newly Constituted General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church, U.S.A. in an earlier issue of the same magazine indirectly brought your article to my attention.

I am a mid-westerner by birth and bringing up, and an integrationist by parental training and conscience. But, because I am white, I am complacent, wary of Negroes in general, and rather frustrated about the whole business.

However, this is not meant to be entirely a letter of confession for that will solve nothing. I am writing to ask what I can do in an active way to help the cause of better understanding, mutual trust, equal opportunity and full integration for all the peoples of our nation . . . .

MARY GUN MYERS MAXSON

Walla Walla, Wash.

SCLC Offices Paid Visit By World's Oldest Daily Paper

The Atlanta offices of SCLC were visited by a correspondent from the world's oldest daily newspaper, the Berlingske Tidende, which has been publishing for 217 years in Copenhagen. The correspondent, Anders Georg, who is stationed in Washington, D. C., as a member of the foreign press corps, was seeking information for a series of articles in his paper on Dr. King, SCLC and the civil rights struggle in America.

CONTRIBUTIONS

I wish to contribute to the work of SCLC and the social struggle in the South.

NAME.....

ADDRESS.....
(street)

.....
(city & state)

Amount of Contribution.....

Send to: SCLC
334 Auburn Ave., N.E.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

SCLC Newsletter

334 Auburn Ave., N.E.
Atlanta, Ga. 30303

Non Profit Org.
U. S. POSTAGE
PAID
Atlanta, Ga.
Permit 663

Leslie W. Dunbar
Sou. Regional Council
5 Forsyth St. NW
Atlanta 3, Ga.

RETURN REQUESTED

334 Auburn Ave., N.E.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303
Telephone 524-1378

SCLC

Southern Christian Leadership Conference

Martin Luther King Jr., President Ralph Abernathy, Treasurer Wyatt Tee Walker, Executive Assistant

November 22, 1963

Dear SCLC Supporter:

No American citizen loyal to the ideals of our Democracy can erase from memory the dark and tragic Sunday of September 15 in Birmingham, Alabama, that left six youngsters dead in the wake of the bombing of Sixteenth Street Baptist Church. There is no way to give back precious life to the four little girls who were dynamited to death while attending Sunday School on a day when the lesson, ironically enough, was "Love Your Enemies"; nor is there any way to bring back to the living the two innocent boys who were slain in the rioting that followed.

However, there is something we can do in memory of these innocents toward the end that their deaths shall not have been in vain. Many of us have decided that rather than give expensive gifts this year at Christmas time, we would make a substantial contribution to the civil rights organization of our choice to help continue the fight against the evil system that is responsible for the deaths of these young children. We in the Southern Christian Leadership Conference are so wholly committed to the difficult task of changing this vicious system that feeds upon race and color prejudice and is manifested most tragically in the cowardly slayings of the innocent, that we believe the ends we seek can only be achieved through the sacrifices of those of us who love freedom dearly.

So as we approach the 1963 Holiday Season to celebrate the birth of Christ, let us reflect for a moment on the saddened homes of those in Birmingham and elsewhere where the joys of Christmas have been stifled this year by those who would hate and seek to deprive others of their freedom, even to the destruction of life itself.

This letter, then, comes to ask that you join with others in helping to continue to root out this evil system and take the opportunity at this time to make a contribution through our Holiday Freedom Fund that has been established in memory of the Birmingham children to reach the common goals we all seek. Many of us have decided to exchange no gifts at all and use the money we normally would spend in this manner as our contribution to the Freedom Fund. Others have adopted a plan of limiting their gift-giving and setting aside a portion of this money for a contribution. But whatever plan you decide best fits your circumstances, your contribution and the dedicated purpose for which it is given is deeply appreciated, and we will look forward to receiving your check or money order made payable to SCLC'S Holiday Freedom Fund.

Sincerely yours,

Martin L. King Jr.

Martin Luther King, Jr.

K/m

SOUTHERN CHRISTIAN LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE

334 Auburn Ave., N.E. Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Although we try to avoid duplication, it is not always possible for us to do so. If you receive more than one letter from us, we hope that you will excuse the unintentional duplication and share this material with other interested persons. We also would appreciate it if you would check the following below and return this form to us so that we can correct our files.

Name: _____

Address: _____ City & State _____

[ ] I have received more than one letter. How many? _____

[ ] I receive more than one SCLC Newsletter. How many? _____

[ ] I am not receiving the SCLC Newsletter.

VI coward!

December 3, 1963

Mr. David W. Schneider
43 West Broadway
Gettysburg, Pennsylvania

Dear Mr. Schneider:

Your letter of November 26, to the former executive director of the Southern Regional Council, is hereby acknowledged. Our present director, Mr. Leslie W. Dunbar, has requested me to reply.

We are enclosing herewith materials which reveal the methods and thinkings of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., and we also refer you to the following books and articles.

Books authored by Dr. King.

Strength to Love. Harper & Row, N. Y., 1963

Stride Toward Freedom. Harper & Bros., N. Y., 1968.

Articles.

"Bold Design for a New South." The Nation. March 30, 1963

"Equality Now." The Nation. February 4, 1961.

"Fumbling on the New Frontier." The Nation. March 3, 1962.

"A Visit With Martin Luther King, Jr." Look. February 12, 1963.

"Martin Luther King, Jr. Apostle of Crisis." Saturday Evening Post., June 15, 1963.

Ltr., Mr/ David W. Schneider
Gettysburg, Pennsylvania
December 3, 1963

I have requested Miss McDonald, Dr. King's secretary, to forward you other material that will be helpful to you in preparation of your senior thesis. If at all possible, we would like to have a copy of it for our research files.

Good luck!

Sincerely yours,

Vernon E. Jordan, Jr.
Assistant to the Executive Director

VEJ:nm
Enclosures

1. New South, December 1961
2. New South, June 1963
3. Letter From Birmingham City Jail
4. "Text of speech delivered August 28, 1963 at Lincoln Memorial," Washington, D. C.

√I - pls reply

43 West Broadway
Gettysburg, Penna.
November 26, 1963

Harold C. Fleming, Executive Director
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Fleming:

For my senior thesis in history at Gettysburg College, I am writing on the methods of Martin Luther King, Jr. in what I will call the Negro Revolt. I realize that emotions run high in any sort of discussion of this type, but I would like to ask you for some discussion on topics such as the following:

What do you think of King's methods (non-violence)?
Are they the best possible? Why?
What is his place in the Negro Movement?
Is he a leader? Why? Will he remain so?
Any other comments on King or suggestions for this thesis.

I find that for my thesis to be complete, I need an evaluation of the sort that I have asked from you. I will keep in confidence any statements that you might wish to have so kept.

Thank you very much for your help in what I trust will be an original comprehensive study into the methods of King from an historical viewpoint. If you could suggest any other sources for me to contact, I would appreciate it.

Thank you,

David W. Schneider

David W. Schneider

THE ATLANTA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

RESPECTFULLY REFERS TO

Southern Regional Council

the attached letter with the request that same be answered and such action as you think best be taken on the matter mentioned in the letter.

43 West Broadway
Gettysburg, Penna.
November 26, 1963

Manager, Atlanta Chamber of Commerce
818 Volunteer Building
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Sir:

For my senior thesis in history at Gettysburg College, I am writing on the methods of Martin Luther King, Jr. in what I will call the Negro Revolt. I realize that emotions run high in any sort of discussion of this type, but I would like to ask you (or someone you feel is qualified) for some discussion on topics such as the following:

What do you think of King's methods(especially in Atlanta)?
Is non-violence one of the best ways? Why?
What is King's place in the Negro Movement?
Is he a leader? Why? Will he remain so?
Any other suggestions on King or for this thesis.

I find that for my thesis to be complete, I need an evaluation of the sort that I have asked from you. I will keep in confidence any statements that you might wish to have so kept.

Thank you very much for your help in what I trust will be an original comprehensive study into the methods of King from an historical viewpoint. If you could suggest any other sources for me to contact, I would appreciate it.

Thank you,

David W. Schneider

David W. Schneider

File: SCLC

Don't Buy SCRIPTO!

Mechanical pencils, fountain pens, ball point pens or cigarette lighters!

Scripto, the Atlanta, Georgia-based company with its long, ugly history in labor relations, has once again forced its employees OUT and into the streets.

On November 27, while people all over the world were turning their minds to thoughts of a Merry Christmas, Scripto employees were walking off their jobs because conditions had become unbearable.

More than 760 of the 900 Scripto employees are Negroes. The average Negro Scripto employee takes home less than $2,400 for a year's work with no time lost. This is $600 less than what President Johnson calls a minimum income in his War on Poverty Program. Net sales for Scripto now exceed $26 million each year.

- The workers complain of having only 20 minutes for lunch;
- Only six (6) of the Negro employees are classified as skilled, while all white workers are classified as skilled;
- All Negro skilled workers earn less than the lowest paid white worker;
- The Company has offered raises up to 13 cents per hour for skilled workers but only 3 cents for unskilled;
- The Company still has not signed a contract with the Union (Local 754, International Chemical Workers Union).

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. has placed the full force of his Southern Christian Leadership Conference behind the demands of the striking workers and is calling on all men and organizations of good will to join him in this cause.

YOU SHOULD:

1. Refrain from buying Scripto Products.
2. Write to the Scripto management calling for a favorable settlement of the strike.
3. Call upon merchants with whom you deal and ask them not to sell Scripto products until the strike is settled.

Distributed by:
Southern Christian Leadership Conference

DON'T BUY SCRIPTO PRODUCTS!

Pens

Pencils

Ball Points

Cigarette Lighters

THIS COMPANY MAINTAINS UNFAIR LABOR PRACTICES!

- No Seniority
- Labor Harassment
- No Signed Union Contract
- Job Discrimination

Please Support International Chemical Workers Union

Distributed by:
Southern Christian Leadership Conference
Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., President

December 6, 1963

Mrs. Edwina Smith
Southern Christian Leadership Conference
334 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Mrs. Smith:

As per Mr. Jordan's request, I am enclosing herewith, two copies of our survey, which partially covers desegregation in employment, schools, hotel and restaurant service in several southern cities.

If we can be of further assistance, please feel free to let us hear from you.

Sincerely,

(Mrs.) Nobbie H. Morgan
Secretary to Mr. Jordan

/nm
Enclosures

December 9, 1963

Reverend Wyatt Tee Walker
Executive Assistant
Southern Christian Leadership Conference
334 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Mr. Walker:

Consistent with your request on Auburn Avenue last week, please find enclosed a list of members of the Southern Interagency Conference.

You would have had it earlier, except that I misunderstood Miss Mackey's request.

Sincerely yours,

Vernon E. Jordan, Jr.
Assistant to the Executive Director

VEJ:nm
Enclosure

SOUTHERN CHRISTIAN LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE

SCLC Newsletter

Volume II March, 1964 Number 6

INSIDE THIS ISSUE

Editorial ..... Page 4
Sarah Patton Boyle ..... Page 5
Dr. King Writes ..... Page 7
Ed Clayton ..... Page 5
Dis & Data ..... Page 8
Quote & Unquote ..... Page 8
Letters To SCLC ..... Page 12
The Poet's Pen ..... Page 9

SCLC Maps Voter Drive, All-Out Assault On Alabama Segregation

SUPPORT FOR FREEDOM — Checks totaling $2,858 were given to Miss Carole Hoover of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference of Atlanta, Ga., following a review of the book, Strength To Love, by Martin Luther King, Jr., SCLC President, at Los Angeles' Victory Baptist Church. The checks represented gifts and donations in connection with a book review program, sponsored by the Los Angeles Chapter of the Western Christian Leadership Conference, led by Rev. Arthur A. Peters (l.), president and pastor of Victory Baptist Church. Others from left: Rev. J. B. Reese, Rev. E. V. Hill, Rev. T. M. Chambers, Sr., Rev. Thomas Kilgore, Jr., Bishop L. C. Page, and Rev. C. A. Henson.

FIVE-POINT PLAN ADOPTED IN STATE-WIDE MEET OF 215

An all-out voter registration drive and assault on segregation in the state of Alabama was set in motion on March 4 by Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. in a state-wide meeting in Montgomery, Ala., of 215 conferees of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference's Alabama unit. The delegates, representing 30 counties and 24 communities, adopted a five-point plan of action aimed at breaking down discrimination barriers and securing the vote for Alabama's 481,000 Negroes of voting age, only 90,000 of whom are registered.

In addressing the group prior to adoption of the plan, Dr. King said:

"We have not lost sight of the fact that nonviolence was born in Alabama. Our meeting today brings us together in a state-wide effort in Alabama, with Montgomery as headquarters, to rid our state of its by-products of discrimination."

'Historical Moment'

"It was in Montgomery, Alabama, that the Negro made his most significant stride toward freedom, and we believe it may now be the historical moment to make this the most significant stride into freedom."

In a later press conference, Dr. King indicated that "Birmingham-type" demonstrations might take place in major cities across the state within 30 days because Birmingham has "reneged" on the desegregation agreement reached last May 10. It would, in effect, be an all-out assault on segregation and discrimination in the state, which has systematically denied Negroes the right to vote through such devices as literacy tests, poll taxes and an educational system which deprives Negroes of full political knowledge.

List Five-Point Plan

The five-point action program adopted by the SCLC State Conference is as follows:

1.) Cognizant of this critical election year, we commit ourselves to an intensification of voter registration in all of Alabama's communities.

2.) To initiate a state-wide coordination of masses in direct action to secure in fact

(Continued on Page 2)

SCLC Board Members, New York Times Win Reversal In $500,000 Libel Suit Brought By Ala. Police Official

The Supreme Court on March 9 unanimously threw out a $500,000 libel judgment awarded Montgomery, Ala., Police Commissioner L. B. Sullivan against four board members of SCLC and the New York Times in 1960. The libel suit was based on an advertisement in the New York Times of March 29, 1960, which carried a statement critical of the handling of racial demonstrations in Montgomery.

The advertisement was placed at the time by an organization called "The Committee To Defend Martin Luther King and the Struggle For Freedom In The South." It bore the names of Board Members Ralph Abernathy, SCLC treasurer; Fred L. Shuttlesworth, SCLC secretary; Joseph E. Lowery, SCLC second vice-president; and S. S. Seay, Jr., an executive board member of SCLC.

Cars Seized and Sold

When the judgment was returned against the SCLC officials and the Times in 1960, three of them had their cars seized and sold at a sheriff's sale as result of the verdict and two others had their lands seized. In winning their appeal, the board members will probably get back about $6,000 plus six per cent interest, the $6,000 being the value of their confiscated property.

The advertisement and the litigation stemmed from an appeal to solicit funds for defense of SCLC President Martin Luther King, Jr., who at the time, was under charges

(Continued on Page 2)

Shuttlesworth Wins In Ala.

In a brief order, the Supreme Court on March 9 overturned a conviction of SCLC Secretary Fred Shuttlesworth on a charge of interfering with Birmingham police. The interference allegedly occurred on May 17, 1961, when police took into "protective custody" a group of "freedom riders" at Birmingham's Greyhound Bus station.

Shuttlesworth, sentenced to 180 days in jail and fined $100, denied any interference and said he was "convicted without evidence of guilt."

ALABAMA ASSAULT

(Continued from Page 1)

the right of the ballot for all Negroes 21 and over not previously convicted of a felony. We shall employ whatever techniques necessary to implement the "one man—one vote" concept.

3.) Basically we are committed consumers, and it shall be our goal to buy goods where we can work, and we shall no longer fatten the coffers of those companies who suppress us. All affiliates of the state-wide conference will initiate this critical program for employment.

4.) It is our hope that the present civil rights bill pass and that it be unaltered by the Senate. We shall immediately embark on implementation of the bill in Alabama should it pass, and we will make the public accommodations section a major part of the state integration program.

5.) We shall appeal to the United States Congress to reduce the number of Alabama representatives until such time that voting rights are extended to Negroes, not only in the urban areas, but can be assured in such rural areas as Wilcox and Lowndes counties.

77,714 Ark. Negroes Can Vote

A record 77,714 Negroes have qualified to vote in Arkansas by paying the 1963 poll tax, it was disclosed by State Auditor Jimmie Jones. The figure compares with 68,970 Negroes who qualified two years ago and the previous high of 72,604 in 1959.

CIVIL RIGHTS ROUNDUP

Jackson, Miss. Prepares For "War"

JACKSON, Miss. — The city of Jackson and near-by Canton plan to stage an all-out "war" by pooling their police power in dealing with mass racial demonstrations. Jackson has been steadily strengthening its police force in recent months and has laid in an extra supply of gas masks, shotguns and helmets. The city also recently purchased a $15,000 tank-like vehicle designed for riot control.

* * *

Macon County School Fund To Suffer

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — The schools in Macon County will lose some $75,000 in state funds next semester because of the mass white boycott touched off by federal court desegregation orders. A total of 432 students walked out of high schools at Tuskegee, Notasulga and Shorter, refusing to attend classes with Negroes. All three schools presently desegregated may be closed by September if the white pupils stay out. The state contributed $1,096,993 to Macon County's schools this year, based on attendance last year, and it is certain that this sum will be reduced in September.

* * *

CORE Will Attempt To Seat Mississippi Delegates

NEW YORK — CORE has announced that they will attempt, this summer, to seat Mississippi Negro delegations at the Republican and Democratic national conventions. James Farmer said CORE wants to "put the spotlight" on the situation. The effort to seat Mississippi delegations, Mr. Farmer said, will be "on grounds that they were elected by the people in their communities" and were excluded by the parties in that state.

* * *

Liston Kayoed Fight For Jim Crow Theaters In South

JACKSON, Miss. — The World heavyweight championship boxing bout between Sonny Liston and Cassius Clay was not shown in any Jackson, Mississippi theater via closed circuit television. The Closed Circuit TV rights for the bout are controlled by a corporation known as Intercontinental Sports of which Liston is president. Liston insisted on a clause forbidding racial discrimination in the contracts between the corporation and the theaters showing the fight via closed TV. The fight was not shown in Jackson, New Orleans, Montgomery and other Deep South cities.

* * *

Rowan Restricts Showing Of "March On Washington"

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Newly-appointed U.S. Information Agency Director Carl T. Rowan clamped a key restriction on the showing of the film "March on Washington" before he was confirmed as director of the USIA. One senator, Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R., Iowa), complained that the film portrays the U.S. as "a land of slavery for the Negro" and points up the fact that he had "to demonstrate to get freedom and liberty." The film shows this without showing the progress made by Negroes in the U.S., Hickenlooper observed. Mr. Rowan stated "we would never order any mission to use this film if he (the U.S. Chief of Mission) felt it would not advance the cause of the United States." "We are going to get the whole story, senator," Rowan replied. The film will be used in conjunction with lectures and other films reflecting progress of the American Negro.

* * *

Pickets Jailed After Mass Sleep-In

SAN FRANCISCO — Arrests of more than 100 civil rights pickets, in a mass lobby sleep-in at the Sheraton-Palace Hotel on March 7 climaxed the largest protest demonstration ever called in San Francisco. The protest was called by the Ad Hoc Committee to end discrimination. Other civil rights groups joined the protest against alleged racial bias in hiring by the hotel. The hotel's management has denied discrimination. Some 1,200 pickets marched outside the hotel about 6:00 P.M. in the evening, with an estimated half of them moving into the hotel's lobby about three hours later.

Democracy Must Give . . .

The right to equal employment
The right to equal justice
The right to adequate housing
The right to vote
The right to equal treatment
The right to equal learning

BOARD MEMBERS WIN

(Continued from Page 1)

of falsifying his Alabama income tax returns. He was later acquitted.

In his suit brought against the four and the Times, Sullivan contended that several paragraphs in the advertisement reflected on him.

Creates Hazards

The Supreme Court's decision was written by Justice William J. Brennan, with separate and concurring opinions written by Justices Hugo L. Black and Arthur J. Goldberg.

Brennan's main opinion said the Alabama law of civil libel, involved in the case, was a form of regulation that creates hazards to protected freedoms markedly greater than those that attend reliance upon the criminal law.

Said Brennan: "We hold today that the constitution delimits a state's power to award damages for libel in actions brought by public officials against critics of their official conduct. Since this is such an action, the rule requiring proof of actual malice is applicable."

Dr. King Issues Statement

In a prepared statement in connection with the decision, Dr. King said: "The Supreme Court's decision unanimously reversing the libel suit brought by an official of the state of Alabama is a significant and encouraging decree. The Supreme Court has upheld the freedom of press and speech so vital to those who are engaged in the struggle for full freedom. Those news media and individuals who have been engaged in pointing up the evils of racial segregation and discrimination have been reassured by this court that the Constitution enables them to speak freely and fully. This decision is an historic affirmation of the fact that forces of ill will can no longer silence the voices speaking for freedom."

IN ATLANTA MAY 9 — In the third of SCLC's "Stars For Freedom" series, Sammy Davis, Jr. will appear in Atlanta at the Civic Auditorium on May 9 in a benefit show. It will be the star entertainer's first appearance in the deep South in many years.

A DIGEST OF 'RIGHTS' BILL

(Editor's note: To better help Newsletter readers understand what is basically contained in the civil rights bill now before the U.S. Senate, a digest of the bill is presented herewith.)

Voting Rights

This is designed to close loopholes in civil rights laws passed in 1957 and 1960.

It prohibits registrars from using different standards for whites and Negroes and requires that literacy tests be in writing. A person with the equivalence of a sixth-grade education is considered to be literate. Applicants can demand transcripts of questions and answers.

Registrars can't disqualify applicants for unimportant mistakes.

The attorney general can bring voting suits before special three-judge panels to speed action.

Only federal elections are covered. However, 46 states hold federal and state elections the same day. This means Negroes will be able to vote for both unless states change their laws to have seperate elections.

Public Accommodations

This outlaws discrimination by refusal of service in hotels, motels, restaurants, service stations, theaters and sports arenas. Exempted are rooming houses in which the proprietor lives, and which have five or fewer rooms.

Also prohibited is the practice of segregation required by state law or local ordinance. This reaffirms the 14th Amendment, but adds enforcement to the ban through suits brought by the attorney general.

Desegregation Of Public Facilities

This forbids denial of access to any public facility owned, operated or managed by a state or subdivision on account of race or color—for instance, a public playground or pool. Also, the attorney general can join an individual seeking to have his constitutional rights enforced.

Public Education

Under this title the attorney general can bring school desegregation suits. Also, the U.S. Commissioner of Education is authorized to aid local communities in planning desegregation.

Absent from this title is any requirement that white and Negro pupils be mixed by transfers to other school districts. The House specifically ruled out this requirement during debate.

Civil Rights Commission

This extends the commission's life for four years. The House inserted a provision prohibiting the commission from investigating membership practices or internal operations of any fraternal or religious organization or private club.

Cutting Off Federal Assistance

Under this title, all federal agencies are directed to act against discrimination in all federally assisted programs in states and communities. Cutting off the aid is permitted. Exempted are all federally-insured programs, such as FHA and VA.

Fair Employment

This bans discrimination by labor unions or employers.

It would be put into effect over a four-year period, finally covering unions and businesses with 25 or more members or employes.

Set up under this proposal is a commission with power to bring suits to enforce compliance if persuasion fails. Courts will decide finally whether discrimination really exists.

Registration And Voting Statistics

The Census Bureau is directed to compile accurate statistics on the denial of the right to vote in areas designated by the civil rights commission.

Court Procedure In Civil Rights Cases

A defendant who has sought removal of a state court suit to a federal district court, on the ground that he would be denied his civil rights in the state court, may appeal to a federal court of appeals an order of the district court sending the case back to a state court.

Community Relations Service

This sets up such a service with a director chosen by the President. It would help communities settle racial disputes.

CITED AT BREADBASKET DINNER—Given citations for meritorious service by "Operation Breadbasket" at the group's first annual dinner on March 2 in Atlanta's Stouffer's Restaurant, the recipients posed together for photos with their awards. From left they are: Jesse Hill, Jr., Martin Luther King, Jr., and Larry Fox, chairman of the Committee On Appeal For Human Rights, which was honored as a group. Also shown are Ralph D. Abernathy (r.), who chaired the dinner, and Dr. Harry V. Richardson (seated), guest speaker. "Operation Breadbasket," an SCLC affiliate, is composed of a group of Atlanta ministers and businessmen, who in less than 18 months of operation have secured some 750 new jobs for Atlanta Negroes, adding an increased income of some $1,500,000 for Negroes.

A 10-YEAR-OLD WRITES OF RIGHTS BILL

I'm for the bill because I've lived with Negroes most of my life. I've seen some very nice ones too. In our newspapers we mainly read about bad things of the Negroes, where they're as nice as many white people I've known. In Vidalia, Georgia there are many Negroes. They help farmers pick cotton, tobacco, and fruit for only fifty cents a day. Many times Negroes are not very nice or they're bad, but they're [sic] many bad white people. I think Negroes are mean because white people are mean to them.

God made all of us to live, love, and be kind to one another. As my preacher says, he would allow any Negro who wants to come to church to worship God, but will not allow any Negro who comes with camera men and reporters to show off that he is the first Negro to enter Jones Memorial First Methodist Church.

If you were a Negro you would want to have free rights and be welcomed to public places, you would want to be liked too.

The reason I think many people are against the bill is because of what they've heard, and really they've never honestly lived or known one that is very nice, and yet Negroes still wait till God will show the representatives and senators that they are just as good as they are. I believe God in a way is acting this moment and has been acting because he has let the representatives pass this law. I hope the Lord will help and guide the Senate to the best decision.

Written By Ten-Year-Old LAURA PEEK Forest Park, Georgia

SCLC Newsletter

Publisher, SOUTHERN CHRISTIAN LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE

334 Auburn Ave., N.E.

Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Phone: 524-1378

MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR., President

F. L. SHUTTLESWORTH, Secretary

RALPH D. ABERNATHY, Treasurer

WYATT TEE WALKER, Executive Director

EDWARD T. CLAYTON, Editor

AIMS AND PURPOSES OF SCLC

1. To achieve full citizenship rights, and total integration of the Negro in American life.
2. To stimulate nonviolent direct mass action to remove the barriers of segregation and discrimination.
3. To disseminate the creative philosophy and techniques of nonviolence through local and area workshops.
4. To secure the right and unhampered use of the ballot for every citizen.
5. To reduce the cultural lag through the Citizenship Training Program.

Editorial

The Senate's Dying Hour

There is always something melancholy and sad about a man's desperation and helpless distress in a dying hour. It was true in Richmond, Va., the Sunday morning of April 2, 1865, when word came during the church hour that this seashore town would soon be under siege from the Union forces and that it must now be put to fire and its citizenry evacuated. Confederate President Jefferson Davis, upon receiving the news as he worshipped in church, immediately set out for the Confederate capitol, packed up what records he could, and took a train for Danville.

The South had lost its war to keep men enslaved, and in the losing, had lost a measure of its great pride and its magnolia-scented traditions.

The Emancipation Proclamation of 1863 had declared three million slaves free men, but not until Lee surrendered at Appomattox on April 9, 1865, and Johnston surrendered to Sherman at Durham Station, N.C. on April 18 did war come to an end and freedom a feeble reality.

Now, 100 years later, Southern forces in the Senate intend to wage one last desperate battle to continue to deny full freedom and constitutional rights to the Negro descendants of that great war of a century ago.

It is regrettable that men have learned so little in the last 100 years. It is saddening to realize that their efforts, in the midst of these disturbing times, must be turned to and wasted on such empty goals as depriving 19 million of their fellow citizens of the rights they themselves have so long enjoyed. It is unfortunate that they do not have the wisdom to see that this is a useless and futile stand.

Today's Negro, more enlightened, more determined and more self-respecting than his ancestors of that ancient civil war, will not be satisfied with anything less than full constitutional freedom as further re-emphasized in the present civil rights' bill.

The dying hour indeed has come in the Senate for such tactics as a filibuster on the part of Southern Senators, and with it has come a melancholia and sadness that these men, who might have served their country more purposefully, have prostituted their offices in the perpetuation of racism.—ETC

An End Of Rights Efforts

(The following editorial is reprinted from the Atlanta Constitution of March 7.)

Hamilton Douglas is a man with a tough job. And because it is a hard job, he is faced with hard facts. This week, he shared some of these facts with an audience of Atlanta Jaycees. What he said is important for the whole community to understand.

Mr. Douglas is chief negotiator for Mayor Allen in the matter of the Negro community's "Action for Democracy" appeal to end all public discrimination.

"People keep asking how long it is going on, saying 'every time we yield, there's another demand,'" Mr. Douglas told his audience.

The answer: "This is not an Atlanta problem or a Georgia problem. It's a worldwide social revolution, and it's not going to stop until the full measure of rights guaranteed are actually granted."

Only in this context can present negotiations here be understood and dealt with honestly. "It's a difficult thing," Mr. Douglas declared, "for a white man raised in a white man's culture to put himself in (the Negro's) position. I find it difficult."

Mr. Douglas made it clear that he was talking about equal opportunities, not special privileges. But he said that granting equal rights to all citizens does not take away real rights from some, because the "right" lost "was not a right in the first place."

It would be healthy for all Atlantans to ponder Mr. Douglas' words.

Register To Vote!

The Cartoonist's View

'Your Turn!'

Whitman In The Stockton Record

'And, Over Here, The Enemy—People'

Herblock In The Washington Post

'Old Man River—Today'

Dobbins In The Boston Traveler

ed clayton

Of Georgia Judgin', Justice And A Judge

In the lore of the old West, tales of hangin' judges have provided the stuff from which today's television "shoot-'em-ups" are made.

In Atlanta, Georgia, the courtroom of Judge Durwood T. Pye provides the stuff from which unbelievable newspaper headlines are made.

Now Judge Pye can't rightly be called a hangin' judge simply because he never (to my knowledge) sentenced anyone to be hung. But when it comes to civil rights and Georgia law, Judge Pye is fast earning a reputation that can match even the meanest of the old West's hangin' judges.

So far to his credit he has gaveled out the maximum and harshest of misdemeanor sentences to three white persons involved in civil rights cases, all of them under Georgia's questionable anti-trespass law.

Let's look at his record.

Last August he sentenced former Miami University student Tom Taylor Tolg to six months in jail, 12 months on public works and a fine of $1,000. The 24-year-old Ohio ex-student was trying to get a meal in a downtown Atlanta restaurant along with several other integrationists.

In Jail 188 Days

In that same month Judge Pye also gave the same sentence to Rev. Ashton Bryan Jones, a 67-year-old California minister. He was trying to attend an "all-white" white church in the company of two young Negro girls. For this, under Georgia's anti-trespass law, Judge Pye set Rev. Jones' bond at $20,000, and reduced it later to $5,000 only after the Georgia Supreme Court ruled that the amount was excessive. Meanwhile Rev. Jones languished in jail for 188 days, finally getting his release a few days ago after an unidentified white woman posted a property bond, stating that she "was just tired of seeing the city get such a bad name."

In the third case several weeks ago, Judge Pye meted out the same sentence to Miss Mardon Walker, 18, of East Greenwich, R.I., a student at the Connecticut College for women. She too was trying to get a meal downtown with some of her Negro friends when the proprietor of the restaurant took out a warrant for her arrest.

At her trial, another white man, Melvin C. Drimmer, a professor at Atlanta's Spelman College, was sentenced in the midst of the proceedings to 20 days in jail after he remarked that in his opinion "southern courts will try to impugn the witness." Judge Pye disagreed, considered his opinion an insult and ordered him jailed. He was released the next day after apologizing to the judge.

Great Legal Training

Now judging is a very serious business and by rights ought to be so conducted by those charged with dispensing justice and measuring out the law to violators. But six months in jail, fines of $1,000 and bonds of $20,000 hardly seem fitting and proper for persons who are merely trying to get something to eat or trying to get inside of a church to worship God.

I have not been so privileged to have the great legal training that Judge Pye must surely have, but I somehow have a sense of right and wrong, which to me seems to be the whole business of judging, and somehow this doesn't seem right.

Of course, there are other considerations that must be taken into account in any scrutiny of this matter.

Fined NAACP $25,000

There is, for example, the matter of his having imposed a $25,000 contempt fine on the Atlanta branch NAACP in 1955 shortly after he was appointed to the bench.

There is also his unusual background in matters of segregation inasmuch as he once served as secretary of the Georgia Education Commission, a body created to preserve segregation in Georgia schools.

Now it would seem that none of this would have any bearing on judging in Judge Pye's court, but it does make a body wonder just what are his views, as a judge of course, on segregation and civil rights matters.

I'm sure this would be interesting, and like we said in the beginning, tales of hangin' judges have provided a lot of lore.

Maybe now it's Georgia's turn to add to that lore.

About Stereotypes

Images Instead Of Men

By Sarah Patton Boyle

(The following is from Mrs. Boyle's forthcoming book, For Human Beings Only, and is printed herewith by permission of the author.)

Generalizations about people rest on fixed images, stereotypes. When we think in terms of group characteristics, we are, of course, seeing stereotyped images, not real people. We readily form these stereotypes when we are only in external contact with a group but have no actual friends among them.

Once formed, these images stand between us and the people we project them on, so that we can look straight at a real person and see only our stereotyped image instead. And he gets the miserable feeling of being blotted out as a person by our preconception.

'Rid Ourselves Of Stereotypes'

It is hard to rid ourselves of stereotypes because we unconsciously collect evidence that supports them and reject that which does not. Always those things are most meaningful to us which tie in with familiar ideas. It is from this fact that the stereotype derives its power.

For instance, hearing a Negro sing well, a white will think, "Ah, how typical." But when he meets a Negro who cannot sing he probably makes no mental note at all. It does not "fit the picture," is untypical, and therefore being unmeaningful, it is ignored.

'Bad Negro' Image

Good-willed people often have as firmly fixed a stereotype as the ill-willed but "racial virtues" will be stressed in that stereotype. The habit of seeing images instead of people is at its cruel worst when faults are crystalized in a stereotype. Then we get the "bad Negro"—or Jew or Catholic (or white man)—image from which hostility and persecutions result.

Mrs. Boyle

But even good stereotypes separate us from those on whom we project them. We cannot reach, touch, or know the real person, nor he us. It is for this reason that many Negroes resent the good stereotype as much as the bad.

FREEDOM IN '63? MORE IN '64!

Cameras Record Civil Rights Push Across Nation

BOSTON

MASSING AGAINST SEGREGATION — Gathering outside St. Mark Congregational Church Social Center, hundreds of students listen to James Bevel (upper right) of SCLC's Atlanta staff as he instructs them in nonviolent techniques of conducting boycott of Boston schools on Feb. 26 in protest of de facto segregation. Some 10,000 school children remained away from classes, instead attended "Freedom Schools" to hear lectures on such subjects as "Negro History," "Teen-age Unemployment."

PRINCESS ANNE, MD.

JAILED DEMONSTRATOR — Hustled off to jail as one among 600 demonstrators against segregated restaurants in the town of 1,300 population on Feb. 26, an unidentified student is taken in tow by a state police officer.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C.

DOUSED WITH ICE WATER—After joining 400 other demonstrators in sit-ins and anti-segregation marches in Chapel Hill, North Carolina, this unidentified lady is given assistance by a companion after she was drenched with ice-water in the below-freezing, 15-degree weather.

CHICAGO

EMPTY CLASSROOMS—As Chicago civil rights leaders staged a second school boycott in protest of school segregation, classroom scenes like this were reflected in many predominantly Negro schools in Chicago as more than 172,350 students stayed away from school. Some observers claimed it was about 75 per cent as effective as the first boycott staged several months ago. Boycott was opposed by city's Negro politicians.

PRINCESS ANNE, MD.

ROUTED BY FIRE HOSE—Seeking to break up the demonstrations by students of Princess Anne College, fireman resorted to high pressure fire hoses to repel the protesting students. The demonstrations have occurred because restaurant owners have failed to desegregate, although all but one agreed last summer to lower racial barriers in this Eastern seashore town.

SAN FRANCISCO

CORE STAGES 'SHOP-In'—After two Lucky Store supermarkets in San Francisco, Calif., violated an agreement to hire more Negroes, members of CORE staged a "shop-in" by loading carts and bags with groceries, having a clerk check them out at the counter, then abandoning the groceries. This store's management put up the sign "Courtesy Of CORE."

BROOKLYN

PUERTO RICANS ON MARCH — Marching across the Brooklyn Bridge in New York City, some 2,000 Puerto Ricans head for Brooklyn's Board Of Education offices to press their demands for improved educational facilities for Puerto Ricans in the city's school system. Before the march, the group rallied outside New York's City Hall.

The Past And Future:

Of The Civil Rights Bill

By Martin Luther King, Jr.

Martin Luther King, Jr.

Early last month, the hopes of twenty million Negroes and their allies in the Freedom struggle, were tremendously heightened as the civil rights bill cleared the House of Representatives principally intact. Great significance must be attached to the resounding defeat delivered to the opponents of the bill whose every attempt to weaken the bill was decisively rebuffed.

More than 125 amendments aimed at diluting the strongest civil rights legislation in the history of our nation were voted down by an overwhelming majority vote. The record of this bill reflects what can be done when the liberal and conscienable forces of the Democratic and the Republican parties form a coalition for meaningful legislation. Few legislative measures of so controversial a nature have ever won the broad support that this bill has received.

Bill-Killing Filibuster

However, we must not let undue optimism lull us into thinking that the bill will have easy sledding. It is evident at this very moment, that the southern bloc in the Senate is tightly organized to mount a bill-killing filibuster or force a compromise to eliminate the most objectionable sections—public accommodations, fair employment practice and the cutting off of Federal funds. Without these sections, which make up the heart of the bill, what remains will be so watered down, that many of us who work in the Deep South would just as well have no bill at all.

I do not mean to suggest that we have a defeatist attitude. Rather, I am suggesting that passage of the bill in its present form is so critical for the domestic health of our national community that we must mobilize every force and pressure available to see to it that the civil rights bill before the Senate gets through—as is.

It can be done, but it involves the determined work of those who support the bill to labor relentlessly at our task of lobbying for passage of the bill at the local, state and national level. Our best sources, close to the activity on Capitol Hill advise us that the mail being received by the legislators is now 3 to 1 opposing the bill. This does not mean the bill does not have broad support across the nation. It does mean that the opponents of the bill are working more zealously to defeat the bill than we are working to pass it.

Politicians Respond To Pressure

It is a political fact that politicians respond to pressure and those who are sympathetic to the bill and wish its enactment must take the time to sit down and write to their Senators and Senate leaders, such as Everett Dirksen of Illinois, to let them know that Americans by and large support the necessity and the morality of the pending legislation. We must cajole the organizations of which we are a part to send telegrams and letters—delegations where possible—and so keep the pressure on the Senate forces to pass this bill that the filibuster can be broken without compromise to the bill itself. Only this kind of public pressure will be able to break the unholy alliance of Dixiecrats and Northern right-wing Republicans.

This evil bi-partisan coalition has a long history of burning to ashes in the legislative incinerator every liberal bill proposed in Congress. The past history of the bill's fortunes in the House is a guide to what must be done in the future in the Senate if it is to be enacted into the law of the land.

Quote & Unquote

Arthur J. Holland, Trenton, New Jersey mayor, after buying and moving into a home in a predominantly Negro neighborhood: "It is a real ethnic neighborhood right now. There is an Irish family on one side and a Negro family on the other. There is an Italian barber that lives on the same street, and a Scottish dancer, and even a Buddhist, I think."

* * *

Martin Luther King, Jr., in a Los Angeles address: "We must learn to live together as brothers or we will perish as fools. We must get rid of the notion once and for all that one race is superior and another race inferior. Anyone who believes that doctrine of white supremacy is sleeping through a revolution."

* * *

Dr. Albert L. Turner, dean of North Carolina College Law School, in an address at the school: "If you didn't 'sit-in' during the revolution, you must 'stand-out' of the way after the revolution."

* * *

President Lyndon B. Johnson, in his first political campaign speech at Miami, Fla.: "Full participation in our society can no longer be reserved to men of one color."

* * *

James Farmer, CORE director, discussing implementation of the civil rights bill: "Laws do not enforce themselves. We will have to go from restaurant to restaurant in Mississippi and Alabama."

* * *

Billy Graham, the evangelist, commenting on school segregation in the North: "I feel that some areas of the North have been rather hypocritical of the situation. Some Northern newspapers have tried to preach to the South when they have the same problems."

* * *

Ralph McGill, Atlanta Constitution publisher, in his front page column urging passage of the civil rights bill: "The nation cannot be made weaker by doing what is morally right. There is no social 'mixing' involved in voting, attending classes and holding jobs. The personal choice of social association is not disturbed. It should be obvious that neither brutality, violence nor filibuster will halt demonstrations so long as undenied inequity and discrimination exists."

* * *

Carl Rowan, newly appointed director, U.S. Information Agency: "All we need wish the world to know about us is the truth. I consider it one of USIA's first challenges to relate to the world in a credible, meaningful way the truth about those several peaceful revolutions, some occurring during my lifetime, that have made our country the land of hope that it is."

Carl Rowan

MARCH WITH DR. KING — With Frankfort, Ky. Capitol building in background, part of crowd of 10,000 is shown singing freedom songs after staging a protest march on Kentucky capital, which was led by SCLC President Martin Luther King, Jr. on March 5. Marchers also heard address delivered by Dr. King.

More Negroes Register Under New Voter Board In Alabama

A sharp upswing in Negro voter registration in Jefferson County, Alabama (Birmingham) has been noted in the past five months since a new Board of Registrars has been in office, it was disclosed.

In previous months, under the old board, the ratio of Negro to white applicants approved for voting averaged about one to 11. Since last October when the new board took over, the ratio has narrowed to approximately less than one to three.

Register 3,840 Negroes

The totals of 13,400 registered from Oct. 1, 1963 to Feb. 29, this year, indicate that 3,840 Negroes were registered as against 9,560 whites.

The following are totals according to race and sex for the five month period:

- October: 733 Negro women, 210 Negro men, 2,930 white women and 1,109 white men.
- November: 746 Negro women, 233 Negro men, 1,023 white women and 523 white men.
- December: 585 Negro women, 266 Negro men, 174 white women and 123 white men.
- January: 425 Negro women, 179 Negro men, 1,362 white women and 853 white men.
- February: 300 Negro women, 164 Negro men, 989 white women and 464 white men.

Register To Vote!

DIS 'N DATA

HAVE YOU HEARD . . . Those reports circulating in Atlanta about the motel (white) that makes every prospective Negro employee take a "lie test" in a room under the supervision of an armed man before they can be considered for employment? The questions they want answers to are whether or not they are "one of Martin Luther King's Nigras," and if they have ever been a "freedom rider" . . . Or have you heard about the nation-wide student fast being sponsored by Brandeis University, the NAACP and SNCC to help provide food for needy families in Mississippi? American University students in Washington, D.C., fasted at lunchtime on Feb. 27 and turned over their lunch money (about $170) to aid Mississippi families who have been cut from relief rolls because they aided in voter registration drives last year.

• • •

HAVE YOU READ . . . that comment by Ebony-Jet Publisher John H. Johnson in the February issue of D. Parke Gibson's Gibson Report which gives credit to the Negro revolution as a contributing factor in an upswing in advertising lineage in Negro news media. Said Publisher Johnson: ". . . I think an additional factor was the prominence that race relations and the Negro revolution received in the press of the nation all during the year. We expect business to be even better in 1964 than it was in 1963 for the same two reasons expressed."

• • •

DID YOU KNOW . . . that there is a practice in Atlanta of having Negroes pay twice the deposit amount for utilities than whites do? One young Negro lady stood in line recently at the gas company to get new service and observed that whites were being charged $10 to have the gas turned on. When it came her turn, she promptly was asked for $20 . . . And did you know that in this same Georgia city with the "sparkling" racial image there are over 700 bus drivers with the Atlanta Transit Authority, but only 12 of them are Negroes? Ten are presently driving and two are in training. They recall, in answer to a query, that the first driver was hired the same day the first Astronaut went into orbit around the world a year or so ago.

The SCLC Bookshelf

New & Current

» The Negro Revolution in America by Louis Harris and William Brink. Last July the magazine Newsweek printed a survey conducted by Louis Harris on Negro attitudes. The complete survey is now available in hard-back book form under the title, "The Negro Revolution In America." Simon and Schuster Publishers.

» Symbol, Status, and Personality by S. I. Hayakawa. This is a collection of writings on general semantics—the study of use and misuse of language in the everyday life of the Negro. Brace & World Inc.

» New Nations by Lucy Mair. The emergence of the new nations of Africa is discussed with new light and great insight. People, whose lives once were bound by their own villages, are now a part of the world system of economic exchange and political power relations. University of Chicago Press.

» Black Cloud, White Cloud by Ellen Douglas. The second book from the pen of this pen-name writer, this volume of 232 pages published by Houghton Mifflin Co. consists of two novellas and two short stories. All are related in subject matter, theme and place with the setting in Mississippi and the theme the blood-guilt of the white South hoping one day for redemption.

» Mary McLeod Bethume by Rackham Holt. The battle for civil rights is not a recent phenomenon. The biography of Mary McLeod Bethume reveals an interesting and informative historical review of the advance of the present civil rights struggle. Doubleday.

Available At SCLC

» Strength To Love by Martin Luther King, Jr. Publishers: Harper & Row. Price: $3.50

» Stride Toward Freedom by Martin Luther King, Jr. Publisher: Harper & Brothers Co. Price: $2.95

» Crusader Without Violence by L. D. Reddick. Publishers: Harper & Brothers. Price: $3.95

» Echo In My Soul by Septima Poinsette Clark. Publishers: E. P. Dutton & Co. Price: $4.50

» The Desegregated Heart by Sarah Patton Boyle. Publishers: William Morrow & Co. Price: $5.00

» The Day They Marched, edited by Doris Saunders. Publishers: Johnson Publishing Co. Price: $1.00

See Something Go

A Page From Detroit Primer.

Detroit Schools Try Interracial Primers

Ending a long-standing tradition of using elementary school primers showing photos of white children only, Detroit's public schools have started to experiment with integrated early reading books showing Negro and white children in interracial play scenes.

Some of the titles of the primer booklets designed for the city school's reading program are: "Fun With David," "Play With Jimmy," and "Laugh With Larry." They have been placed in the Detroit schools by The Writer's Committee of the Great Cities School Improvement Program of The Detroit Public Schools.

The booklets, illustrated by Ruth Ives, are published by Follett Publishing Co., Chicago.

Just Published!

Here is a collection as up-to-date as tomorrow morning's newspaper. From the picket lines and demonstrations in the South, Guy and Candie Carawan have compiled the first collection of Freedom Songs of the Integration Movement. This new book contains over 70 songs of the Movement, complete with lyrics, music, guitar chords, part arrangements, and incisive, timely notes. Brilliantly illustrated with documentary photographs, We Shall Overcome is the most exciting new folk song collection of the year.
112 pages (paper) $1.95

OAK PUBLICATIONS, INC.

165 West 46th Street / New York 36, New York

The Poet's Pen

Rightful Place

Long have I fought for what I thought was right
Why any race should have to hang its head
Is more than I can see. The Negro's plight
Has been my plight. It is for them I've pled.
They are my friends and have always been Since as a child I passed daily down Ghetto Street
Upon my way to school, finding courteous men,
Warm-hearted women and children who would greet
This lone white child as one of them. I knew
No fear at heart for they belonged to me,
They happened to be my kind of people, too,
Exchanging kind words without humility.
Some of these days right will come along
And they will find that place where they belong.

ELIZABETH CHARLES WELBORN
GREENWOOD, S. C.

A Call to Faith and Freedom
by
Martin Luther King, Jr.

Men, women and children have been quickened to pray, to march, to suffer imprisonment—even to face death—for the ideals and beliefs preached by Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Now, in his new book, Dr. King shares the convictions that guide his life and are inspiring a second revolution in America today. Don't miss this "Emancipation Proclamation" for our time.

STRENGTH TO LOVE

$3.50

HARPER & ROW, Publishers

Sixth Rights Leader Given Probated Sentence In Albany

Mrs. Jackson

A federal jury has convicted Mrs. Elza Leslye Jackson of Albany, Georgia, on perjury charges in connection with an Albany boycott last year, and she has been given a sentence of three year's probation by Judge W. A. Bootle.

Mrs. Jackson, recording secretary of the Albany Movement, is the sixth civil rights leader to be convicted and sentenced as result of a grand jury investigation of the boycott. All were accused of lying to the grand jury which was investigating a boycott of a white Albany grocer who contended that he was driven out of business by the boycott. He claimed it was in retaliation for his vote against a Negro while serving as a juror in a damage suit.

AFTER MASS MEETING — Noted civil rights leader A. Phillip Randolph (r.) pauses to shake hands with Mrs. Martin Luther King, Jr., (l.) and Mrs. Pearl Henderson after mass meeting in Atlanta on March 8 in which Randolph spoke out against Senate filibuster.

Ministers End Boycott In Philadelphia After Store Hires 92 Negroes

A Negro minister's group of 400 in the Philadelphia area called an end to a selective patronage campaign against Acme Stores after 11 weeks when the food chain agreed to hire 88 Negroes in full-time jobs. The Acme chain is one of the nation's largest chain store firms.

Actually the food chain exceeded the ministers' job request. They hired 92 Negroes in full-time jobs and placed an additional 71 in part-time employment.

3,000 Jobs For Negroes

The selective patronage program against the Acme Stores marks the 25th consecutive success of the ministerial group in gaining more equitable employment for Negroes in the Philadelphia area. Since origination of their program several years ago, they have opened up some 3,000 new jobs to Negroes and have added approximately $10 million to the purchasing power of the Negro community.

SCLC's Wyatt Tee Walker Featured In Jet Magazine

(Editor's Note: On one of the few occasions when Jet Magazine, the world's largest circulated Negro weekly publication, has used a male on its cover, SCLC's Executive Director Wyatt Tee Walker was accorded this honor in the March 12th edition of the periodical, in a feature story on his leadership with the organization. We herewith reprint the text of the article in its entirety.)

By John H. Britton

The Rev. Wyatt Tee Walker preached his own mother's funeral. He didn't tremble. He didn't crumble, though the impact of her tragic death in an automobile accident was crushing and practically unbearable. He never cracked.

The Rev. Walker went to Monroe, N. C., in 1961 during one of the most violent racial riots in civil rights history. He bounded up the courthouse steps, but a white man stepped in his path and knocked him back down, puncturing his ear drums in the process. Walker got up, brushed himself off, and went back up the steps. Again, he was punched down the steps by a vicious blow. But again Walker brushed himself off and started up. Negro companions, afraid for him, grabbed Rev. Walker and restrained his almost suicidal determination.

Wyatt Walker and Dr. King on Jet cover.

Human Dynamo

That's the way it is with this human dynamo. That's the powerful stuff that propels this faithful revolutionary. And that's why the Rev. Walker's world-renowned boss, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., feels Rev. Walker can handle administrative details of his seams-bursting organization, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC).

A dashing figure of a man, a natty dresser, a tall, handsome movie-idol type with a flashy smile, a smooth, convincing and wondrous wheeler-dealer, the Rev. Walker incited questioning stares when he joined Dr. King's forces.

When the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, Dr. King's closest associate, began staying home more to tend to his thriving Atlanta church, and when SCLC grew so large that Dr. King required a full-time helper possessed with Abernathy's same loyalty and devotion, Rev. Walker, quietly and unobtrusively, moved in to face the task. Few really knew the man, where he came from, who he was, or where he would take the organization.

Born In Massachusetts

The Rev. Walker was born in Brockton, Mass., to a preacher father, Dr. John Wise Walker (now 94 and still an active pastor), and a housewife mother, Mrs. Maude Pinn Walker, on August 16, a little more than 34 years and six months ago. He was reared most of his life and attended public schools in Merchantville, N. J. He remembers that when he was five years old, a white female playmate sobbed that she could no longer play with him because, he quoted her as saying, "he was colored." He also remembers when he, at nine years old, walked into a movie house in New Jersey and sat down to watch Bette Davis star in The Big Lie, even though a movie clerk refused to sell him a ticket. His sit-in led to the desegregation of that theater. And from then on, says Walker, he had freedom—and revolution—on his mind.

He grew up like any other average brilliant boy. In 1950 he graduated, magna cum laude, from Virginia Union University with degrees in chemistry and physics. In 1953, after striking up a friendship with Dr. King through the inter-seminary movement, Rev. Walker graduated, summa cum laude, from Virginia Union's theological school. His first—and only—pastorate was at the 1,000-member Gillfield Baptist Church in Petersburg, Va., for eight years.

Becomes Executive Director

In August 1960, Rev. Walker gave in to the two-year-long pleas of Dr. King and others and agreed to become executive director of SCLC, which then sported a yearly budget of $57,000 and a five-man staff. In three years under Walker's leadership

New Orleans Judge Tongue-Lashes Police In Hearing On Restaurant Desegregation

New Orleans Federal Judge Herbert W. Christenberry ordered the immediate desegregation of a cafeteria in that city's City Hall last month, and sharply tongue-lashed police for their rough-handling of an SCLC affiliated sit-in demonstrator. The judge ordered John-Lynn's Cafeteria, Inc. to desegregate its City Hall basement restaurant after a hearing in a suit brought by SCLC's New Orleans affiliate president, Rev. Avery Alexander, Dorothy Castle and Sandra Nixon. The three were arrested last Oct. 31 in a sit-in at the restaurant.

'Dragged By Heels'

In upbraiding police for their unnecessary rough treatment of Rev. Alexander during the arrest, Judge Christenberry had this to say: "I saw the pictures in the newspaper. The man was dragged by his heels . . . a long distance to a patrol wagon, which could have been brought right close to the building.

"I have the greatest respect and regard for the superintendent of police, Joseph Giarrusso, and for the police department generally . . . but I must say, as a judge, as a citizen, and I might add, as a Southerner, I think the way in which this man was handled was a disgrace to the city, the police department, and everyone concerned.

"If he was going to be arrested, he could have been picked up under the arms and carried out. Instead he was taken by the heels and dragged up two flights of stairs. This amounts to the police officers fixing the punishment and then executing it."

A HEADACHE FOR ROSS BARNETT—Swamped with chain letters containing one dollar checks made out to "Ross Barnett, trustee of memorial fund of family of Medgar Evers," Mrs. Ellsworth Howard, private secretary to the former Mississippi governor, ponders what to do with stack of mail. Barnett, unwilling to serve as such a trustee, later petitioned a Hinds County judge to have a trustee appointed. The court named Marvin E. Collum, vice president of the First National Bank in Jackson, Mississippi, as trustee of the fund.

the SCLC staff has grown to 61, and last year's budget hovered around the $1 million mark.

His Virginia friends were shocked that Rev. Walker decided to join Dr. King. Walker would have to leave a church whose replacement value was close to $500,000, including a modern $40,000 parsonage, one of the largest Boy Scout troops in the world, and a beautiful 100-voice choir. Besides, he had all but decided to take over the pastorate of Dexter Avenue Baptist Church, Dr. King's old church in Montgomery, Ala.

And then there was that Walker ego. Nobody who knew him was ready to believe that Rev. Walker, who was the Martin Luther King Jr. of Petersburg, would be willing to play understudy to any living man. Walker concedes he is in a No. 2 role now, "but look who I am No. 2 to," he smiles.

'God Is Doing Something Great'

"I've always believed God is doing something great for Negroes through Dr. King. I would never attempt to take his place, or presume that I could. I just don't have the ability, the temperament or the humility. I don't deny I have an ego. I've never been bothered by being No. 2 man, though. In fact, I've never had any kind of medical history resulting from it."

He has a healthy disdain for false flattery. But he is an eloquent speaker, a brilliant organizer, a highly capable administrator and a take-charge guy who gets things done.

Dr. King has publicly bragged more than once of his high regard for Rev. Walker. "He has had a real impact on the total struggle in the South. He is a very able social strategist. He has brains, courage, and dedication. Naturally, he has been of great help to me as my executive assistant because he has been the man who has had the job of executing many of the policy matters of the organization. He's certainly done a very, very competent job. To carry out all the day-to-day minute details is not my area of competence. But I think he does an excellent job on this."

Planned Birmingham Revolt

Rev. Walker seldom misses a dramatic trick, and he proved his mettle in the Birmingham wars, which were his first adventure in planning a major revolt from the bottom up. Since guesswork is not a part of Rev. Walker's nature, he was in Birmingham five months in advance of the big explosion that was heard all over the world. He was mapping streets, plotting strategy, drawing up floor plans of major anti-segregation targets, counting the stools at various lunch counters, counting the time it took to move from a store entrance to the store's lunch counter, and soliciting recruits willing to go to jail for freedom. So, when the forces of Dr. King struck with dramatic impact on April 3, 1963, all "the leader" had to do was push the right button that Walker had already connected to the proper detonators.

Drew Up Atlanta Plan

In Dr. King's hometown, Atlanta, Rev. Walker, also of Atlanta, drew up a "Battle Plan" calculated to shake the "city too busy to hate" out of its smug satisfaction with "tokenism." The plan was so detailed, so hard-hitting and so uncompromising that conservative Negro leaders shied away from it. Later, the young militants took up the plan again and are now busily implementing some of its ideas in the push to make Atlanta an "open" city.

So compatible are Dr. King and Rev. Walker that they have never had a personality clash. Walker's total loyalty to "the leader" seems out of character to those acquainted with his almost flippant personality and his salty, sharp-tongued lectures to subordinates.

Committed To His Role

Walker is so committed to his own role that the spiritual and moral leadership of the civil rights drive holds no appeal for him, he said. "You know," he said, "if something happened to Dr. King, Rev. Abernathy is heir apparent. And if such a thing came about, I would serve Rev. Abernathy in the same way I have served Dr. King. And that's a sincere statement."

Of his future, Rev. Walker reflects: "Being a minister 'called' to preach, my ultimate ambition, of course, is to return to the pastorate of a church somewhere. After all, I didn't just stumble into the ministry as a misfit from something else. I just didn't have a sense of fulfillment until I gave in to the impulse to preach. But I can't see my way clear now to leave the civil rights field. Right now, I'm doing what you might call home missionary work . . ."

Wyatt Tee Walker

Letters To SCLC

Working 60 Years Toward Goal

Dear Friends:

I have never seen, or met any of you in person, yet I am calling you my friends. I do this because anyone, white or black, working to gain first-class citizenship for our people here on earth, and citizenship in Heaven, are certainly my friends.

I have been working toward the same goal, toward which you are driving in the SCLC, for more than 60 years. I am now about 83 years old and cannot do much now, but I am still doing what I can. Since I had to retire because of my health, I can only do a little writing, which I enjoy so much. That you may see that we are working toward the same goal, I will mention just a few things I have tried to do in this same line of work, to help liberate our people. I organized the "Young Peoples Congress," in 1930, here in Sheffield, Alabama, which is a "Mock" Congress, designed to play citizenship thus, getting the true principles of citizenship deeply rooted into their very being and at the same time teaching the young people to handle the machinery of their government. When they become of voting age, they will understand the value of the franchise, and will not sacrifice it as did Esau, for a mess of pottage. In this same Congress set-up, we had a Co-op for both adults and young people, teaching them to bank and save their money. As a result we now see some of these same young people in business for themselves, with nice bank accounts, also living in nice homes of their own . . .

REV. L. W. MICHAEL Sheffield, Alabama

Assistance For Chicago

Dear Dr. King:

Congratulations to you and your staff on the great work you are performing for the South and the nation.

A great many of us here feel that if our nation-wide struggle for justice is to succeed in depth, areas like Chicago must have the assistance of an organization similar in structure to the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

REV. JOHN R. PORTER
Chicago, Ill.

Strength To Love

Dear Dr. King:

I am writing to express my appreciation of you as a truly great leader and personality, one that has been responsible for the beautifully expressed and inspiring Strength To Love, which I have just finished reading. It is truly the expression of magnified nobility of thought and feeling, the product of the suffering and intelligence of a great man.

As a white person, I have always been sympathetic with your race problem. Accordingly, I have almost awesome respect for your success in inspiring nonviolent measures against the shameful ruthlessness of some whites. That you have been miraculously successful is evidence that love is strength.

DOROTHEA DAVIS
Brockton, Mass.

What Can I Do?

Dear Rev. King:

I would like to know what I personally can do toward the cause of Civil Rights. I am a junior in a boarding school, and feel very strongly about this, and would honestly like to know how I can best translate this into intelligent and meaningful action. Please be frank.

I am writing to you because I think you can tell me, first as a clergyman, and second as a leader of this movement, what I can do.

PAUL ANDREWS Groton, Mass.

'Man Of The Year'

Dear Rev. King:

I am a senior in high school. I love my Negro race and want very much to have the segregationists to be my beloved brothers. I must say, I was very proud that you were chosen "Man of the Year" by Time Magazine. It couldn't have gone to a better person.

JAMEL COVINGTON
Hampton, Virginia

Want 'Pen Pals'

Dear Sirs:

My class of 5th and 6th graders are now involved in the study of the History of the Negroes in the United States. They would very much like to have pen pals in any southern community.

I thought it would be a good learning experience for them to be in touch with southern white children as well as southern Negro children.

Can you help us? If you can put me in touch with teachers, I can write to them and work out the arrangements.

CLARE RODNEY
The Westland School
10345 West Pico Blvd.
Los Angeles, California

CONTRIBUTIONS

I wish to contribute to the work of SCLC and the social struggle in the South.

NAME.....

ADDRESS.....
(street)

.....
(city & state)

Amount of Contribution.....

Send to: SCLC
334 Auburn Ave., N.E.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

SCLC Newsletter

334 Auburn Ave., N.E.
Atlanta, Ga. 30303

Non Profit Org.
U. S. POSTAGE
PAID
Atlanta, Ga.
Permit 663

New South
Southern Regional Council
5 Forsyth N.W.
Atlanta 3, Ga.

RETURN REQUESTED

June 1, 1964

Mrs. Edwina Smith
Southern Christian Leadership Conference
334 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Edwina:

Pursuant to your request by telephone today, I am enclosing four copies of the reprint The Businessman and the Negro, and one copy of The City and the Negro, both of which are by Charles Silberman.

We are not sending more of the latter because our supply is almost completely exhausted. If you find that you need more copies, I would suggest that you write direct to Fortune Magazine.

If we can be of further service, please call us.

Sincerely,

Vernon E. Jordan, Jr.
Assistant to the Executive Director

VEJ:nm
Enclosure

October 30, 1964

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.
Southern Christian Leadership Conference
332 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Dr. King:

I wanted to be sure that you saw the enclosed, on St. Augustine.

Maybe it will say how strongly I feel the justice and the importance of your receiving the Nobel Prize.

Yours truly,

Pat Watters

P
W
/
m
p

Enclosure

SPONSORS (continued)

Rabbi Jacob M. Rothschild
Herman J. Russell
James O'Hear Sanders
Rev. Robert B. Shorts
Bishop P. Randolph Shy
Miss Celestine Sibley
Robert L. Sommerville
Mrs. M. E. Tilley
Henry J. Toombs
Austin T. Walden
Senator Horace T. Ward
Dr. Clinton Warner
Milton N. Weinstein
Rev. Allison Williams
Q. V. Williamson
Charles Wittenstein
Clayton R. Yates
John Yungblut

File
SCLC

You are cordially invited to attend a dinner honoring the

1964 NOBEL PEACE PRIZE WINNER

DR. MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR.

AN ATLANTA CITIZEN

on

Wednesday, January 27, 1965
Seven o'clock in the evening at the

DINKLER PLAZA HOTEL • ATLANTA, GEORGIA

(Please see inside)

R.S.V.P.

Send check to:
Nobel Peace Prize Dinner
1009 First Federal Building
Atlanta, Georgia
Tickets: $6.50 each

In order to assure your attendance, an early reservation is requested. Reservations are limited to 1,000 and will be filled in the order in which they are received.

SPONSORS

Harry C. Adley
Cecil Alexander
Mayor Ivan Allen, Jr.
Dr. Wallace M. Alston
Dr. Sanford Atwood
Dr. Paul Beall
H. I. Bearden
J. B. Blayton, Sr.
Mrs. Thomas G. Bockman
Rev. William H. Borders
Henry L. Bowden
Dr. Hilliard Bowen
Wiley Branton
Dr. James P. Brawley
M. William Breman
Miss Helen Bullard
Bishop Randolph Claiborne
Robert Clark, Jr.
Reese Cleghorn
Dr. Rufus E. Clement
Dr. Frank Cunningham
Rev. E. H. Dorsey
Rev. Edward A. Driscoll
Dr. Leslie Dunbar
Mrs. Mary Kate Duskin
C. O. Emmerich
Rabbi Harry Epstein
Rabbi Emanuel Feldman
Edgar J. Forio
Dan Garson
Abe Goldstein
George Goodwin
Elliott Haas
Joseph Haas
Leonard Haas
Archbishop Paul J. Hallinan
Mrs. Grace Hamilton
Granger Hansell
William B. Hartsfield, Mayor Emeritus
Bishop E. L. Hickman
Jessie Hill, Jr.
Donald Hollowell
Sinclair Jacobs
Senator Leroy Johnson
Boisfeuillet Jones
Irving Kaler
E. T. Kehrer
Edward T. Ladd
J. Edward Lantz
Dr. Raphael Levine
Hamilton Lokey
Dr. A. E. Manley
Ben Massell, Jr.
Vice Mayor Sam Massell, Jr.
Charles C. Mathias
Dr. Benjamin E. Mays
Donald W. McEvoy
Ralph McGill
Mrs. Earl T. McLendon
Rev. J. A. Middleton
L. D. Milton
Louis Montag
James H. Moore
Rev. John Morris
Mrs. H. S. Murphy
Rev. James Ozment
Rev. Eugene Pickett
Dr. Harry V. Richardson

(continued over)

ATLANTA PRAISES DR. KING AT FETE

Integration Leader Honored for Winning Nobel Prize

By FRED POWLEDGE

Special to The New York Times

ATLANTA, Jan. 27 — The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. received praise tonight from the leaders of a city that once arrested him in a sit-in demonstration.

The Atlantans, many of them white, gathered at a testimonial dinner to give a specially commissioned Steuben glass bowl to the 36-year-old Negro integrationist in recognition of his winning the Nobel Peace Prize last year.

The bowl contained a representation of a dogwood flower and the inscription:

"To Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Citizen of Atlanta, Recipient of the 1964 Nobel Peace Prize, with respect and admiration, January 27, 1965."

Atlanta has long been known as the "Dogwood City."

Tonight's presentation, and the planning of it, were symbolic of Atlanta's attitude on race relations.

Hesitation at First

At first, members of the city's white power structure were hesitant about endorsing a testimonial dinner for a Negro leader who has been responsible for so much desegregation in the South. There were moments after the planning started six or eight weeks ago when it appeared that the dinner could not be held because of internal conflicts.

Some members of the financial leadership—men who have made many of the city's previous decisions on whether and how to desegregate—met and decided not to become sponsors of the affair. While they were deliberating, however, many others welcomed the opportunity to sign on as sponsors and the dinner became a sell-out.

Some Atlanta integrationists were chuckling today over a well-documented report that several of the companies and individuals who had declined sponsorship had later asked for blocs of tickets for the $6.50-a-plate dinner. There were not enough tickets left, however, and some had to go without.

One concern, Rich's Department Store, was reported to have asked for 20 tickets, but got only four. It was on the sixth floor of Rich's, in an eating place called the Magnolia Room, that Dr. King was arrested on Oct. 18, 1960, when he sought service with a group of Negro students from Atlanta University.

The slight, soft-spoken Baptist minister said at the time that his family had spent $4,500 at Rich's during the previous year and that he felt he should be as welcome in the Magnolia Room as in the clothing department.

An Issue Long Debated

The issue that Dr. King and the students raised in 1960 became an issue that the city debated for many months. In each instance, the city's political and financial leaders agreed that the reputation of the growing city, the largest in the Southeast, would be gravely damaged by racial trouble.

The result was widespread desegregation of most city facilities, from schools to swimming pools. Tastefully dressed Negro women, tired from shopping at Rich's, now stop in at the Magnolia Room for a luncheon salad and few whites raise their eyebrows.

The situation is the same in almost all of the city's other respectable eating places.

Of the 102 sponsors for the banquet, about 75 were white. They included the presidents of Emory and Oglethorpe Universities and Agnes Scott and Morehouse Colleges; leading lawyers, real-estate men, financial executives, and architects; city political leaders, directors of Atlanta-based human-relations groups, newspaper people, and ministers.

Also among the sponsors were the state's two Negro Senators, Leroy Johnson and Horace T. Ward. Senator Johnson was the first member of his race to be elected to the Georgia Legislature since Reconstruction.

The dinner was held in the Dinkler Plaza Hotel, which once had a policy of rigid discrimination against Negroes. The hotel desegregated last summer.

LD ✓
WB ✓ VI ✓
Return to PW

File: SCLC

Martin Luther King, Jr.
332 AUBURN AVENUE, N. E.
ATLANTA, GA.

February, 1965

Dear Friend:

The glare of headlines, spotlighting our other desegregation campaigns, has often obscured news of the steadily rising rate of Negro voter-registration in the South.

In the past four years the Negro vote in the South has been doubled.

This achievement is simple to express in words, but in actuality it is the sum of an epic of heroic struggle. It required tens of thousands of registration workers to endure long weary days and nights to make it real. It required the courage to face a grisly death around any corner; it required almost saintly patience to add one name to another, laboriously, until two million names accumulated in registration books in 11 states. Finally, it required the will to go forward after burying our dead because somehow we could never go back.

Now that this is done we begin again, because we must, in concert with other organizations, double the vote once more. Only then will we have the political strength to:

1. Curb the resort to violence of many segregationist leaders in elected posts by shifting the balance of power to a Negro-white coalition which can accomplish peaceful, meaningful change.

2. Send to Congress from the South, forward looking decent minded men, Negro and white, to replace those whose poverty of spirit and want of humanity are a mockery to a national legislative body.

3. Spur the war on poverty where American destitution is the worst -- in the rural South of the Negro - where literal starvation exists today amid the abundance of an affluent society.

Our organization, SCLC, is occupied seven days a week doing our share in this work, as well as other vitally important activities not reflected in headlines. Our salaried staff people are in over twenty Southern cities. We service hundreds of communities from Atlanta. We conduct hundreds of permanently established citizenship training classes to remedy the faulty education Negroes have received. In addition, literacy education is provided for the wholly uneducated. These remarkable schools which penetrate some of the deepest backwaters of the South, are an example of Negro self-help unique in our movement.

The dedicated allies doing this work are committing their lives. Negroes contribute funds and services, but poverty limits their aid. To advance our work they have endured brutality, violence and even death. We ask you to be a part of this moral crusade in the most meaningful way - by contributing sorely needed funds. You will aid one part of the population and yet all of the nation.

With warmest good wishes,

Martin Luther King Jr.

Martin Luther King, Jr.

Please make check payable to SCLC.

150

April 6, 1965

Mrs. Edwina Smith
Southern Christian Leadership Conference
334 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Edwina:

Enclosed herewith is a check in the amount of $25.00 (twenty-five dollars), made payable to the Southern Regional Council. The check was erroneously sent to us; it should have come to SCLC inasmuch as it designates "for Selma."

Mr. Whitson indicates on the note that he saw your appeal for funds, but could not find IT AT the time of submitting the check. We are confident Mr. Whitson confused SCLC with SRC, and are sure that you will acknowledge receipt of Mr. Whitson's contribution for your good works in Selma.

Sincerely,

Vernon E. Jordan, Jr.
Assistant to the Executive Director

VEJ:nm
Enclosure

Memo from MONTEZ G. ALBRIGHT

3-15-65

VJ

We received this morning in an envelope with no letter a check to SRC for $25.00 marked "for Selma".

I asked Les about it--if we were receiving funds, and he said let Ruth hold check and you write to them.

Walter W. Whitson or Myra K. Whitson
2336 North Boulevard
Houston, Texas 77006

PW
EV
PA
JS

SUMMARY

Of

Ninth Annual Convention

Southern Christian Leadership Conference

Martin Luther King, Jr., President

August 9-13, 1965 Birmingham, Alabama

—CONTENTS—

Introduction 1
President's Annual Report 4
Resolutions 15

ADDRESSES

Keynote Address By Rev. Andrew Young 22
The Black Revolution By S. O. Adebo 27
Address By Mrs. Constance Baker Motley 30
Address By Dr. Leon H. Keyserling 34
Address By Dr. Harvey Cox 36

STATEMENTS & EXCERPTS

Dr. King's Statement On Viet Nam 38
Excerpts From Convention Panelists 40

Compiled And Edited By Public Relations Department

Edward T. Clayton, Director
Junius Griffin, Assistant
Van Hall, Assistant

INTRODUCTION

The Southern Christian Leadership Conference's return to Birmingham was inevitable. Therefore, it came as no surprise to our board members and the executive staff when Birmingham was selected as the site for our ninth annual convention.

There were several significant and historical considerations which compelled our return to the city in which the Federal Government learned that it could no longer ignore the brutal fact of segregation. It was the image of Birmingham police dogs and streaming fire hoses that created the atmosphere in which the Civil Rights Bill of 1964 was conceived.

The SCLC Convention was timed to mark the passage of the Voting Rights Bill of 1965, and our convention was held just 94 miles from Selma, the symbolic battleground where the new law was born in blood and toil.

We returned to Birmingham to honor Mrs. Rosa Parks on the 10th anniversary of the Montgomery Movement.

We also returned to honor The Rev. and Mrs. James Bevel, who have left a legacy of dedication and accomplishment across the state of Alabama.

More importantly, we returned to pay homage to thousands of nameless persons who supported our cause during the Birmingham campaign and still continue to support our organization.

Within these pages you will find our convention theme: "Human Rights—Basic Issues—The Grand Alliance," explored by some of the greatest minds of our time.

We have used this convention to chart a new course for SCLC in the realm of human rights and we think the resolutions passed in this conference are some of the most important ever to emerge from a major civil rights organization. The fact that the resolutions were voted upon by a predominantly grass-roots organization makes them even more impressive.

GREETINGS

Rev. Fred Shuttlesworth
SECRETARY, SCLC

Welcome to the Magic City of Birmingham, Alabama. Welcome to the Magic City that acted so tragically just three years ago. Welcome to the city whose official slogan is, "It is so nice to have you in Birmingham, Alabama." But I call to mind that in 1963 one of the great businessmen of this city, having met with me for the first time, was so worried as to whether or not there would be demonstrations, said to me: "Now, Dr. Shuttlesworth, all we want to do is get Dr. King in here and out."

I reminded him, "Mr. Smyer, your sign says, 'It's nice to have you in Birmingham, Alabama,' and we think that means Dr. Martin Luther King, too." I reminded him then that Atlanta was not too far from Birmingham, Alabama, and that if the merchants did not carry forth their promises that Dr. King and the SCLC staff WOULD come back.

Well, with some people, it takes a whole lot of things to make them believe. But in 1963 Birmingham started seeing, and after seeing, started believing.

Not What It Ought to Be

Now this Magic City is not yet what it ought to be. All of us have prayed and are still praying, and I don't think any honest American would say that we do not need to continue to pray that not only Birmingham, but that all cities and states in these critical times would rise to face the challenges and changes which must be made as a part of the 20th century.

Birmingham, after the demonstrations, led many people to believe that she was completely changed. But Negroes have learned, even before 1963, that all that glitters is not gold. And yet there are streaks of light. The biggest barrier at this moment is a loose screw somewhere between City Hall, the Personnel Board and the Legislative Committee in Montgomery. There is something drastically wrong with the personnel of the Personnel Board, and there is something unfatherly about the City Fathers. And there is something wrong with the legislating that the Legislative Committee does for Alabama. You see, Birmingham thinks that the least it can do is the best for it. Sometimes they think that all of our rights are coming from somewhere else. But we have found that the goods are here, and here is where we are going to get them.

Now it's very nice, Dr. King, Mrs. King and ladies and gentlemen to have you here in Birmingham, Alabama. Here is where SCLC cut its eye teeth on progress and became of age in the ranks of civil rights organizations. Here the great field generals and expert field staff of SCLC developed their finesse and proved their ability in arousing a community to positive nonviolent action. Here were developed the James Bevels and the James Oranges and the Andrew Youngs and all those people. Names that will be written about so long as history books are written. Here SCLC took the nonviolent philosophy and used it until the world took note and America had a heart-to-heart talk with its conscience.

Nonviolence Accepted Way

Here nonviolence became the accepted way for a democratic redress of grievances. Even men all over the world are casting a wistful eye, seeing whether or not nonviolence can be used to solve their problems. Here in Birmingham, Alabama, the American Negro proved in this dark, dismal climate that he would no longer take it, that he was through with segregation and discrimination then, henceforth, now and forevermore. Here the bombs have fallen and there is still some loose dynamite around. Here Negroes used to get all of the dynamite, but now the Klansmen are trying to make it a little democratic and give some to the councilmen and the mayor.

Birmingham is not yet what she will become, but there were some changes made. When you were here before the hotel doors were closed to Negroes, but last night millionaires and paupers walked in the same door side by side. Here just two years ago a Negro would start out as if he were going to a restaurant and end up in jail. But you see, that jail house became a music house and the rafters of "Bull" Conner's jail sounded as sweetly as the angelic chorus the night Christ was born. When you were here before, Dr. King, policemen smiled less frequently than they do now and some of them used fire hoses and dogs more than they smiled. But tonight there is a marked degree of friendliness on the part of our police department. The only thing wrong is that there aren't any Negroes in it, but it isn't going to be like that always. And whoever thought that in Birmingham, Alabama, that Dr. Martin Luther King would have a police escort everywhere he goes.

I tell you, some changes have been made!

Loose "Bull" Running Around

Dr. King, when you were here before a loose 'bull' was running around in the pasture having his last fling. But tonight I am happy to report to you that we have retired what used to be a 'bull', and he's now a steer in another pasture. And since he has been retired to that pasture, all the king's horses and all the Klansmen's crosses can't put his horns back on him again.

We have taught the Klansmen and the police that there is something they cannot do. That is that they cannot stop the onward progress of the Negro people, determined to be free.

We had a little light, mild protest today, because we believe that water doesn't get hot all at once. The fire heats up and the water gets hot, and after a while it starts boiling. Soon it just boils over. We would hope that City Hall doesn't want the pot to boil over again, because I think we amply demonstrated that we know how to heat the fire up hot, and in 1963, as hot as hell itself.

So let the gentlemen of the Personnel Board get on with the business of acting right in this day and hour. And let the City Fathers understand that their children just want to be free. And let the men in the state legislative halls understand that we wish them well, but we will give them hell if they won't be nice to us.

Magnificent Organization

And so tonight we salute you, O magnificent organization, for America owes a debt of gratitude which it would be centuries paying, for nothing has happened more beautifully than that which has been robbed by the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

We may go back and look at what happened in Boston Commons, when they decided way back there that taxation without representation was unfair. We may look at the blood spilled on the plains of Boston, but it is more than matched by those who have died in the black belt where SCLC is creating light. For the Southern Christian Leadership Conference has decided that there's no use cursing this darkness; we might as well work to create light.

And so I say, "Sail on 'O Ship of State, sail on 'O union strong and great . . . " for America, with all its promises and all of its hopes, will never be what it can be until the good Negroes and the good white folks get together to make the good white folks better. Then America will forever be the land of the free and the home of the brave.

ANNUAL REPORT — DR. MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR.

Delivered at SCLC's Ninth Annual National Convention
Birmingham, Alabama, August 11, 1965

Mr. Chairman, Fellow Delegates, Ladies and Gentlemen:

We assemble in this ninth Annual Convention of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference in the year of our Lord, 1965. This year happens to be the 10th anniversary of the Montgomery bus boycott. That action opened a new era in the freedom struggle. It was an historic watershed in the history of the American Negro, marking the date on which he took his destiny in his own hands and began a march which was to shake the foundations of this nation. In Montgomery, the Negroes created the American application of mass nonviolent direct action to achieve social change. He put behind him the exclusive reliance on the courts and entreaties of goodwill as methods of reform. He came out of shadows that had enveloped him for centuries and physically took possession of forbidden streets to lay claim to his rights.

Whites Learn of Injustice

For the first time in American history the white majority as a whole learned how deeply injustice was woven into its social fabric. From Montgomery, in an ascending spiral, nonviolent direct action stimulated courageous action in cities traditionally immune from Negro protest. Cities which had been citadels of the status quo became the unwilling birthplace of significant national legislation. Montgomery led to the Civil Rights Act of 1957 and 1960; Birmingham inspired the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and Selma produced the legislation of 1965.

The courage, sacrifice and unity of Negroes led inevitably to the creation of an alliance with white Americans and awoke the somnolent conscience of the nation.

It would be hypocritical indeed if I allowed modesty to forbid my saying that SCLC again, in a large measure, was responsible for some of the most positive civil rights gains of the year and perhaps of the century. Just as SCLC aroused the conscience of the nation in Birmingham in 1963 and set in motion a comprehensive civil rights bill, these same stalwart nonviolent activists within our ranks brought about a coalition of the nation's conscience on the infamous stretch of highway between Selma and Montgomery, Alabama. One can still hear the tramping feet and remember the glowing eyes filled with determination and hope which said eloquently, "We must be free," a sound which echoed throughout this nation, and, yes, even throughout the world. My mind still remembers vividly the ecumenicity of the clergy, the combined forces of labor, civil rights organizations and the academic community which joined our ranks and said in essence, "Your cause is morally right, and we are with you all the way."

ORGANIZATIONAL GROWTH AND EXPANSION

The Southern Christian Leadership Conference has had a phenomenal growth and expansion during the past year. Our professional staff has increased from 75 to 200 workers, and our budget, needless to say, tripled over this period in keeping pace with our expanded programs and personnel increases.

It is due to the fine quality of our professional staff that during this period of expansion we have experienced a minimum amount of growing pains.

DIRECT ACTION

The mainstay of SCLC's program is still in the area of nonviolent action. The year began with a campaign of direct action in Alabama. Selma, Alabama, loomed as a city which had sought to completely suppress every semblance of freedom for its Negro citizens. Injunctions had been issued against any assembly of three or more persons and against more than three persons walking together along city streets. These court orders were systematically used by Sheriff Jim Clark to put an end to any civil rights meetings or demonstrations.

Following the experience of Birmingham and the bombing of the 16th Street Baptist Church, it became apparent that direct action programs had to broaden their scope beyond lunch counters and employment within a single city. The task was too great and the time too short to go from city to city confronting the evils of segregation. In addition to this, the states of Alabama and Mississippi were developing an amazing efficiency in crushing demonstrations through the sheer power of their brutality. Gadsden, Alabama, Greenwood, Mississippi, and the Selma Movement of 1963 were examples of this.

Selma Selected

Our Direct Action Department, under the direction of the Rev. James Bevel, then decided to attack the very heart of the political structure of the state of Alabama and the southland through a campaign for the right to vote. Selma was selected as the starting place for this movement.

The world knows the outcome of this venture. The Edmund Pettus Bridge has become a milestone in the history of the Movement.

But let us not mark this great Movement only by the bloodshed and brutality. We certainly can never forget those who gave their lives in this struggle and who suffered in jail, but let us mark the sacrifice of Jimmy Lee Jackson, Rev. James Reeb and Viola Liuzzo as the martyrs of faith, which they are, and not dwell in any morbid sentimentality over the facts of death and suffering. It is exactly in death that we must reaffirm our faith that there can be no remission of sins without the shedding of blood, and that the suffering of the innocents is truly the way to the world's redemption.

Church Is Reawakened

Selma brought into being the second great awakening of the church in America. Long standing aside and giving tacit approval to the civil rights struggle and then stirring to motion around the crisis in Mississippi last summer, the church finally marched forth like a mighty army and stood beside God' children in distress.

The awakening of the church also brought a new vitality to the labor movement, and to intellectuals across the country. A little known fact is that 40 of the nation's top historians took part in the march to Montgomery.

In conclusion, Selma brought us a voting bill, which was only this past week signed into law, but it also brought us the grand alliance of the children of light in this nation, and made possible changes in our political and economic life heretofore undreamed of. I hope I am not being too chauvinistic to claim that even the repeal of section 14-B of the Taft-Hartley Law, the so-called Right to Work Law, owes its repeal to the solidification of this coalition of conscience in Selma, and the placing of the present administration on a firmly progressive course in domestic issues.

But Selma and the March to Montgomery ignited a freedom flame all across the southern black belt. Selma, due to the publicity; but the Movement in Marion, Camden, Greensboro, Demopolis and Eutaw mark a new day in the direct action movement. These are small rural communities which have proven that nonviolent action can be as effective in rural areas as in metropolitan centers. The people have marched, picketed, conducted long and effective boycotts and gained a new respect from their white brothers. Neighboring towns like Uniontown have learned from the lessons of these strife-torn communities and sought to implement the promise of justice without the struggle now raging in other black belt areas.

New Maturity in Nonviolence

It is significant to note that these counties have proceeded without the employment of major staff and financial resources of the organization. This is a tribute to the effectiveness of the field staff and to the new maturity of the nonviolent approach.

Crawfordville and Americus, Georgia, have brought the same kind of campaign to Georgia, and with similar results. In each of these communities, more than half the population has been directly involved in the action program. With this kind of fearlessness and unity, the liberation of the southland is not far off.

POLITICAL EDUCATION AND VOTER REGISTRATION

One of the most significant developments in the program of SCLC is the work of the Department of Political Education and Voter Registration. The able and dedicated head of this department, Hosea Williams, has launched the most vigorous and devastating war ever conceived against the disenfranchisement of the Negro people. Ultimately, the objective of SCLC's program of political education and voter registration is to rid the American body politic of racism. It is our contention that it was upon the rock of political disfranchisement of the Negro that segregation was built, that the gates of democracy cannot prevail against it, and that this intolerable condition must be alleviated for the redemption of America's soul.

SCOPE Increases Voter Registration

One of the major programs of our Political Education and Voter Registration Department is the Summer Community Organization and Political Education Project, known as SCOPE. At present, SCOPE is operating in six southern states, covering fourteen U. S. Congressional Districts and 125 southern black belt counties. There are more than 1,200 SCOPE workers—650 summer volunteers, representing more than 120 colleges and universities throughout America, 150 paid SCLC staff workers and 400 local volunteers. Since June 22, SCOPE workers have contacted more than one million Negroes across the southland; 600,000 Negroes have been involved in political education; 280,000 in community organization, and 124,000 have attempted to register. Thirty four thousand have been processed, and 26,000 registered. It is important to say here that this was done before passage of the voting rights bill. There are 900,500 Negroes of voting age residing in the selected counties covered by SCOPE and of that number only 225,000 are registered, which leaves more than 700,000 Negroes of voting age unregistered.

Before we meet again next year, it can safely be predicted that this program will have changed the political dynasties of at least 120 of the South's most predominantly Negro counties. Eventually, this will lead to Negro state representatives, county commissioners, sheriffs, city councilmen, police chiefs, and even mayors. This will inevitably result in liberating the political climate of the South.

CITIZENSHIP EDUCATION

At the bulwark of SCLC's program department stands the Citizenship Education Program which continues to play an important part in assisting thousands of Negroes in finding a sense of dignity and worth. Most importantly, the Citizenship Education Program is the firm base upon which the direct action projects of SCLC find ready minds and bodies, with assurances that when the direct action is over, every community is left with leaders qualified to continue the struggle.

Writing Clinic in Dallas County

The major contribution of the Citizenship Education program this year was the establishment of writing clinics in Dallas County headed by Mrs. Septima P. Clarke. These clinics were responsible for teaching hundreds of persons to write their names in order that they could sign an appearance book for voter registration. It is remarkable to note that in acquiring this new skill—to write—many of these persons were motivated to continue to learn.

New SCLC affiliates are also being formed in many small towns and rural communities as an outgrowth of citizenship classes. So in a real sense, the Citizenship Education Program continues to be our most vital and positive program, moving silently across the black belts of the South, teaching, encouraging and inspiring the underprivileged masses of our society with a technique and a vision of freedom.

This program has been under the able and dedicated guidance of The Rev. Andrew Young, Mrs. Septima Clarke, and Mrs. Dorothy Cotton. Through their expert direction, the Citizenship Education Program was elevated from local into national political and economic relevance. Now that Andy Young's brilliant abilities have elevated him to the executive directorship of SCLC, he will be replaced by Dr. Robert Green, whose academic credentials and experience more than qualify him to continue the phenomenal growth and development of this department.

OPERATION BREADBASKET

One of the most dramatic and creative phases of our program has been the development of what is known as Operation Breadbasket, under the dynamic leadership of The Rev. Fred C. Bennette, Jr. This is a program which has as its aim the securing of more and better jobs for all Negro people. The success of this program grows out of the fact that the Negro is a key factor in the consuming community and that he now has a collective power of about 30 billion dollars a year. This means that the Negro buying dollar can make the difference between profit and loss in almost any industry in our country. So Operation Breadbasket is a program which calls for support of those businesses that will give a fair share of the jobs, and the economic withdrawal from those businesses that have discriminatory policies. The key word in Operation Breadbasket is RESPECT. It says in substance, if you respect my dollar, you must respect my person. If you respect my quantitative support, then you must respect the quality of my job. In short, this program says you have a moral obligation to refuse to use your dollars to perpetuate segregation and discrimination.

Jobs Secured from 27 Firms

During the past year, Operation Breadbasket has dealt with some 27 firms and added millions of dollars to the Negro's income by securing new and upgraded jobs which had been previously closed to us.

OPERATION DIALOGUE

One of our newest and most promising programs is the Dialogue Department headed by Harry G. Boyte. The Dialogue Program was established this past year to implement our commitment to seek reconciliation between the diverse and frequently hostile elements within our society and also to bring into alliance Negro and white Americans who share the same aspirations of justice, equality and brotherhood for all mankind. In our quest for such a reconciliation, we have given priority to experimental work in the most economically oppressed white communities. We believe that we can bring these deprived whites into a recognition that their experiences and those of the Negroes are similar, and bring into being a coalition of these forces so that through joint organized effort the causes can be attacked constructively, transcending all racial factors.

"Group Conversation" Instituted

Through Dialogue we also are engaged in carrying on a program known as "Group Conversation." This "social invention," as it is called by Dr. Margaret Mead, has thus far been directed primarily toward middle class white Americans in the South, the Northeast and the Midwest. Frequently, however, this method of self exploration has drawn into its program groups of interracial composition. In Atlanta, where we have carried on our most intensive experimentation with this technique, more than 1,000 persons have attended 57 work shops and other facets of Dialogue.

As our experience grows with this new department, we are increasingly convinced that this movement into the broader area of "human rights" offers tremendous and challenging opportunities of reaching and finding some answers to our basic problems of human misery and crucifying aspirations. We are going deeply into the root causes of grinding poverty, inadequate medical care, slum housing, educational deficiencies and racial prejudice, while simultaneously demonstratting that the strongest force in all the world is the force of love as proven in its validity in active involvement with other human beings.

AFFILIATE DEPARTMENT

The ever increasing proof of the power of nonviolent direct action and the growing prominence throughout the nation of the nonviolent philosophy have resulted in a profound interest being shown in SCLC as one of the organizations best able to represent those interested in our struggle for freedom. Seizing upon this opportunity, our dynamic Affiliate Director, The Rev. C. T. Vivian, during the past year has continually moved throughout the nation establishing new organizations for SCLC. More than this, during the past year not only has Rev. Vivian added new organizations, but his work has gained the necessary support to establish a new pattern for affiliate organization.

The Affiliate office has shown this interest firstly in expansion; secondly, in community services; and thirdly, in community organization and government programs. This plan was projected by the Affiliate Department in the hope of answering our basic movement question: How can SCLC go from movement to organization, and so organize in a manner that the very nature of the organization can, when needed, be converted into a movement, and in so doing strengthen other community organizations. The Affiliate Department has been training personnel and experimenting in various cities in an effort to solve this problem. Its experiments to this point have proven successful as a result of our tremendous expansion.

New Tutorial Program in Alabama

The Affiliate Program has been servicing its branches in a new way. It has projected a new program in the area of education called project "Vision," a tutorial program in Alabama which has employed more than 90 tutors in 16 educational centers in nine Alabama cities. More than 575 Negro high school students and recent high school graduates have put aside every summer vacation pleasure to devote 10 weeks to intensive academic study. SCLC has tested; now we are teaching, and eventually we will place every child of "Vision" into college who is willing to learn until he passes college entrance exams.

As a result of our "Vision" Program, SCLC has become a recipient of one of the national programs its energy helped write. Due to the continuing drive of the Affiliate Program, SCLC this week received an Office of Economic Opportunity grant for more than $60,000. This is our first government grant, and it is being used to service our affiliates and both Negro and white persons who desire to live above the ignorance forced upon them by cultural deprivation in certain areas.

OFFICE ADMINISTRATION AND STAFF EXPANSION

SCLC continues to expand its program, office space and staff in order to meet the demands of the people we seek to serve. Within the past 12 months our office staff has grown inescapably from 28 to 71. Our field staff has grown from 50 to more than 300.

While we have been engaged in expanding the staff we have, at the same time, worked at building the strongest staff possible. In this regard, we have added three people with the doctorate degrees, two in the Dialogue Program and one in Citizenship Education.

Office Staff Tripled

We have, out of need, tripled our office staff. We have put together a complete printing plant with equipment valued in excess of $20,000. We are now carrying on major civil rights citizenship programs through the channel of printed literature. Since the last convention more than 1,250,000 pieces of related literature have been printed and distributed. A major campaign is anticipated for next year geared to giving back to Negro people their history.

The Atlanta office, apart from the regular program areas, has done an effective job of keeping the Justice Department aware of isolated incidents of injustice.

Already we are moving on the business of helping communities and individuals take advantage of federal social legislation. SCLC, through one of its field workers, was instrumental in getting a poverty program for Gadsden, Alabama. Six other poverty programs are at various stages of development. More is anticipated in this regard.

WHAT OF THE FUTURE

This, in brief, is an account of SCLC's work over the last year. It is a record of which we can all be proud and one that brings all of us closer to the goal of freedom. But we cannot rest contented on the laurels of past achievements. Bright yesterdays must be transformed into brighter tomorrows. With all the struggle and all the achievements, the plant of freedom has grown only a bud and not yet a flower. Negroes in 1965 are freer, but they are not free. Negroes in 1965 have more dignity and self-respect than they have known in their history, but they are still far from equal. They are not equal because they are strait-jacketed in society as its most unskilled, most underpaid strata. They constitute the economic legion of the damned to hold the dirty jobs, the most poorly paid jobs; and, when employment diminishes, to be the first without jobs.

Aliens in An Affluent Society

In consequence, Negroes are impoverished aliens in an affluent society. They are too poor even to rise with the society: too impoverished by the ages to be able to ascend by using their own resources.

The Negro, once principally a small farmer, under the impact of American agriculture has become a displaced, unskilled, unhoused migrant herded into the ghettoes of the cities, themselves unprepared to absorb him. In these conditions of chaotic change his fragile family life has been shattered, his labor wasted or exploited, and thick walls of discrimination crush his hopes and opportunity.

The Negro did not do this himself—it was done to him. For more than half of his American history he was enslaved. Yet he built the spanning bridges, the grand mansions, the sturdy docks and stout factories of the South. His unpaid labor made cotton king and established America as a significant nation in international commerce. Even after his release from chattel slavery the nation grew over him, submerging him. It became the wealthiest, most powerful society in the history of man. But it left the Negro far behind.

Revolution Still at Hand

So we still have a long, long way to go before we reach the promised land of freedom. We still need some Paul Revere of conscience to alert every hamlet and every village of America that revolution is still at hand. Yes, we need a chart: we need a compass. Indeed, we need some North Star to guide us into a future shrouded with impenetrable uncertainties. What, then, are the basic issues that the grand alliance must grapple with in order to assure human rights?

DEMONSTRATIONS

The SCLC must reaffirm its allegiance to the time honored tactics and strategies that have served us so well in the past 10 years. As long as injustice is around, demonstrations will be necessary. So when it is appropriate, we will encourage sit-ins, stand-ins, kneel-ins, boycotts, picket lines, marches, civil disobedience and any form of protest and demonstrations that are nonviolently conceived and executed.

At the same time we recognize that the right of assembly and protest is a relative right subject to regulations to protect the rights of others. For that reason before a protest can be approved by responsible leadership they must answer the following questions:

1. Do we have a just grievance, or is our purpose merely to create confusion for its own sake as a form of revenge?
2. Have we first used every form of normal means to eliminate the problem by negotiation, petition and appropriate appeals to authority?
3. Having found these channels useless or forcibly closed to us when we embark upon any type of lawbreaking, are we prepared to accept the consequences society will inflict and to maintain, even under punishment, a sense of brotherhood?
4. Do we have a clear program to relieve injustice which does not inflict injustice upon others, and is that program reasonable and grounded in the ethics and best traditions of our society?

Responsibility Must Be Met

In establishing these prerequisite conditions before employing direct action, the civil rights movement meets its responsibility to society and fulfills its obligations to democratic principles.

I am happy to report that, by and large, the civil rights movement has followed this course, and for this reason we in the nonviolent movement have enlarged the rights of all. What advantages have all Americans derived from the growth of nonviolent direct action in civil rights?

When Negroes took to the streets to demand job opportunities for themselves they helped to stimulate a broad war on poverty concept which ultimately will benefit more whites than Negroes. When Negroes by direct action seek to participate in the electoral process they awaken the apathetic white who so took his rights for granted that he neglected to use them. When Negroes boycotted schools they did more than reveal classroom discrimination. They brought to the fore such criticisms as those of Dr. Conant, who had long charged we were seeking to utilize 19th century educational methods in conditions of 20th century urbanization. Pushing through the issue of desegregation, there emerged a new and startling question of paramount importance to the whole population. What is quality education and how is it attained for all, under conditions of population growth, automation and the redistribution of the population in sprawling cities?

Expression of Religious Unity

Sociologists will find much to ponder in the striking fact that after the failure of brotherhood banquets to achieve results, and after the futile efforts to achieve ecumenity by discussion and conferences, in the streets of Selma and Montgomery and at the Lincoln Memorial, there was the greatest and warmest expression of religious unity of Catholic, Protestant, and Jew in the history of the nation.

So we must continue to march when necessary. Our marching feet have caused thick walls of seggregation to crumble before the battering rams of the forces of justice. Our marching feet have resurrected crucified truth and placed bright-eyed wisdom back on her sacred throne. Our marching has taken wounded justice, lying prostrate on the streets of our cities, and lifted it from this dust of shame to reign supreme in the legislative annals of our nation. Yes, our marching feet have carved tunnels of hope through the dark mountain of despair.

VOTER REGISTRATION AND EDUCATION

When SCLC went into Selma, Alabama, in January, 1965, it had limited objectives. It sought primarily to correct wrongs existing in that small city. But our adversaries met us with such unrestrained brutality that they enlarged the issues to a national scale. The ironic and splendid result of the small Selma project was nothing less than the Civil Rights Act of 1965. For the aid Governor Wallace and Sheriff Clark gave us in our legislative objectives, this convention tenders them its warm appreciation.

With President Johnson, the SCLC views the Voting Rights Act of 1965 as "one of the most monumental laws in the entire history of American freedom."

One Million New Negro Voters

The civil rights movement now has before it a central task: to bring at least a million new southern Negro voters to the polls by next election day. That task is not merely mechanical; however, it is profoundly educational. The Negro community must become fully conscious of its potential political power, of its growing ability to change, through concerted political action, the conditions of life in the South, and, indeed, the complexion of Congress and the major parties. This is an ongoing, and sometimes tedious, job, requiring additional dedicated civil rights workers. But ultimately it is the most exciting undertaking, for it means the dawn of a new day.

Moreover, the Voting Rights Act comes at a time when the "one man, one vote" principle is being deepened. The SCLC is pleased that the week which saw the Act become law also witnessed defeat of the Dirksen Amendment, whose purpose was to undermine the historic Supreme Court decision on reapportionment. This decision, restoring first-class citizenship to urban and suburban voters, will give increased scope and impact to political action by Negroes and other minority groups entrapped in the metropolitan ghettoes.

North and South, Negroes must be registered to vote. The SCLC pledges itself unstintingly to this work. What we have won in blood, toil and sacrifice we must not squander in apathetic complacency.

It is also necessary to say that the bright road opened by the Civil Rights Act is unfortunately not an unobstructed highway to the stars as some press reports imply.

Dynamic Enforcement Indispensable

To become a major turning point in American life, extensive and dynamic enforcement by the Justice Department is indispensable. There has been some swift action but on a severely restricted scale. Our experience with the South compels us to say that if the cautious restraint in enforcement persists, much of the purpose of the act can be defeated. On the other hand, by bold enforcement the recalcitrance of the segregationists can be made as impractical as it is illegal and immoral.

Another weakness lies in certain segregationist devices which the Act does not readily reach. Despite the law, Negroes cannot register in substantial numbers where local and state authorities have established registration on but one day a month as in some South Carolina, North Carolina and Alabama counties. In circumstances such as these it will be necessary to resort to mass marches to the court houses to induce the power structure to observe the spirit of the law.

We now have a federal law which can be used, and use it we will. Where it falls short we have our tradition of struggle and the method of nonviolent direct action, and these too, we shall use.

UNEMPLOYMENT AND POVERTY

Despite the recent slight decline in unemployment, the jobless rate among Negroes remains more than double that of whites, and there are no immediate prospects for a dramatic improvement in this situation. Indeed, if the staggering unemployment rate among Negro youth—as high as 70 per cent in some urban centers—is any indication of what the future holds, the crisis is deepening.

High unemployment is a main reason why two thirds of all the Negro families in the United States live in poverty and deprivation. Indeed, among all of the American poor, 40 per cent have been victims of unemployment during the past year. The administration's War on Poverty, which the SCLC applauds as a fine beginning, will fail to achieve its objectives if it substitutes a "welfare" approach for much-needed economic reforms aimed at the creation of more jobs. In the absence of such reforms, black and white workers at the bottom of the economic ladder will be thrown into fierce competition for disappearing jobs, giving rise to destructive racial tensions and perhaps violence. For this reason alone, unemployment and poverty are civil rights concerns.

Poverty Wages Archaic

The majority of poor families in this country are headed by people who work full time. We reject as unjust and archaic, in an affluent society the notion that a man who toils for 40 hours a week should be paid poverty wages. We join with the AFL-CIO in calling for a national $2.00 minimum wage an extension of the Fair Labor Standards Act to all workers. Even a $2.00 minimum wage would not bring an average family up to the level of decent comfort by government estimates. If there are business establishments which are genuinely incapable of meeting even this wage, then government subsidies should be made available.

These measures would not only uplift the working poor, but would also help reduce unemployment. For the increased purchasing power of the working poor would increase the demand for necessary consumer goods, thus encouraging greater production and employment.

Vested Interests of Northern Plants

We in the South have an interest in these demands. We are acutely aware of the important role played in the political power structures of the South by run-away plants from the North who come South in search of cheap labor and who acquire a vested interest in maintaining the status quo. Motivated all too often by a desire to avoid union organization and wages, such companies fiercely resist unionization and the benefits it would bring to Negro and white workers. A national $2.00 minimum wage and extension of the Fair Labor Standards Act would go far toward discouraging such exploitative practices and would bring nearer the economic liberation of the Negro and the entire South.

The above measures, even when combined with a reduction of the work week and double pay for overtime, would still probably leave a residue of unemployment, for the technological revolution makes possible the production of increasing goods and services with fewer workers. Left to itself, the private sector of the economy cannot generate enough jobs to match the growth in the labor force and disemployment through automation. In plain fact, most of the new jobs created in the past decade have been on the public payrolls (e. g. teachers).

Rebuilding America

We urge that the federal government recognize its responsibility for carrying out the mandate of the Employment Act of 1946, whose purpose is the achievement of full employment. We urge the federal government to initiate massive public works programs to fill the nation's crying needs for decent housing, schools, hospitals, mass transit, urban renewal, parks and recreation centers. We contend that such a program, undertaken on a large scale, does not constitute "make-work" but the rebuilding of America. It would, at the same time, create hundreds of thousands of jobs for unskilled and semi-skilled workers. Combined with a greatly expanded program of education and training, it would lay the physical and moral foundations for the great society. A public works program, moreover, would stimulate the private economy toward more useful investments. And, for the Negro community in particular, such a federal initiative would set the contest in which self-help would be realistic and meaningful.

A full program as all-encompassing as the foregoing would justly deserve the title of a "War on Poverty." It would open opportunity, stimulate hope, and release an abundance of creative energies, all of which are presently crushed under a mountain of disabilities. It would not be a financial burden to the nation but a source of new wealth and purchasing power.

Violence of Poverty

The Negro's nonviolent movement is as much directed against the violence of poverty, which destroys the soul and bodies of people, as it is directed against the violence of segregation.

A society which has sinned has redemptive obligations as urgent as those confronting individuals who have lived immorally. When the government recognizes its duties and rises fully to meet them, its moral stature will grow and its integrity will be strengthened. When that day comes, Negroes will throw their energies into the constructive reformation of American society with passionate zeal and the persistent tensions of today will dissolve into harmony and social peace.

NEGRO-WHITE ALLIANCE

A small but vociferous current of opinion has urged Negroes to shun alliances with whites. It argues that whites as a group cannot have genuine or sincere concern for Negro progress, and therefore their main interest in collaborative effort is to diminish Negro militancy and deflect it from constructive goals.

Undeniably, there are some white elements with these purposes, and no militant movement can afford to relax its vigilance against half-hearted associates or conscious betrayers. Yet, the history of the contemporary movement reveals that Negro-white alliances have played a powerfully constructive role, especially in recent years.

Negro Strength Insufficient

While Negro initiative, courage and imagniation precipitated the Birmingham and Selma confrontations and revealed the harrowing injustice of segregated life, the organized strength of Negroes alone would have been insufficient to move Congress and the administration without the weight of the aroused conscience of white America.

In the period ahead, in seeking the profound changes full integration will involve, Negroes will need the continued support of the white majority. Ten percent of the population cannot by tensions alone induce 90 per cent to change a way of life.

Common Needs with the Negro

The white majority need not be coerced into support. Within the majority there exists a substantial group of white Americans who cherish democratic principles above privilege and who demonstrated a will to fight with the Negro against injustice. Another more substantial group is composed of those having common needs with the Negro and who will benefit equally with him in the achievement of social progress. There are, in fact, more poor white Americans than there are Negro. Their need for a war on poverty is no less desperate than the Negro's. In the South they have been deluded by race prejudice and largely remained aloof from common action. Ironically, with this posture they were fighting not only the Negro but themselves. Yet there are already signs of change. Without formal alliances Negroes and whites have supported the same candidates in many de facto electoral alliances in the South because each, sufficiently, served his own needs.

The alliance of Negro and white based on the solid ground of honest conscience and proper self-interest can continue to grow in scope and influence. It can attain the strength to democratically alter basic institutions. Negro isolation can never even approach this goal.

Alliances a Mark of Strength

The ability of Negroes to enter alliances is a mark of their growing strength, not weakness. In entering an alliance, the Negro is not relying on white leadership or ideology, he is taking his place as an equal partner in a common endeavor. His organized strength and his new independence pave the way for alliances. Far from losing independence in an alliance, he is using it for constructive and multiplied gains.

Every alliance must be studied for its specific features. Negroes may reject some and embrace others. They may walk out of alliances where their interests are in peril of betrayal. All of these experiences are normal in alliance relationships. They do not justify the rejection of the principle of Negro-White alliance.

The oppression of Negroes by whites understandably has left a substantial residue of suspicion by Negroes of white motivation. Some suspicion is healthy and is an appropriate safeguard. An excess of skepticism, however, becomes a fetter. It denies that there can be reliable white allies, even though whites have heroically died at the side of Negroes in our struggle.

Negroes must shun the very narrowmindedness that has so long been the source of their own afflictions. They have reached the stage of organized strength and independence to securely work in alliances. History has demonstrated with major victories the effectiveness, wisdom and moral soundness of Negro-white alliances.

NONVIOLENCE

The SCLC must urge its affiliates and co-workers to undertake programs of education and training to deepen the commitment to nonviolence as a means of struggle for social justice. Our movement's adherence to nonviolence had been a major factor in the creation of a moral climate that has made progress possible. This climate may well be dissipated not only by acts of violence but by the threats of it verbalized by those who equate it with militancy.

The frustration and despair that encourage violent response are no less tragic for being understandable. The fact is, neither our numbers nor the opposition's capacity for violence can justify, if only on tactical grounds, our resort to it. Given the objective circumstances in which civil rights workers find themselves, the advocacy or use of organized violence as a method of achieving justice becomes a counter-progressive force. Such a practice, moreover, while producing no progress, undermines the efficacy of the overall movement's dedication to nonviolence. I am still convinced that nonviolence is a powerful and just weapon. It cuts without wounding. It is a sword that heals.

Nonviolence Strained by Bombings

In reaffirming its commitment to nonviolent struggle, however, we must demand that state and national governments afford full protection to individual citizens seeking to exercise their constitutional rights. It is no concession to the proponents of violence to point out that nonviolent discipline is severely strained when racist bombings, beatings and murders go unpunished, or when police authorities withhold protection from civil rights demonstrators.

These, then, are the basic issues which our movement must face. This is the road we must travel from this juncture in our on-going struggle.

Divine Dissatisfaction

Let us, therefore, resolve to be engaged in a sort of divine dissatisfaction until the American dream is a reality.

Let us be dissatisfied until every socially oppressive ghetto and rat infested slum is plowed into the junk heaps of our nation and Negroes and whites live side by side in decent, safe and sanitary housing. Let us be dissatisfied until every vestige of segregated and inferior education will become a thing of the dark past and Negro and white children study side by side in the socially healing context of the classroom.

Let us be dissatisfied until all men will have food and material necessities for their bodies, culture and education for their minds, freedom and dignity for their spirits. Let us be dissatisfied until every handcuff of poverty is unlocked and work-starved men will no longer walk the streets in search of jobs that do not exist. Let us be dissatisfied until wrinkled stomachs in Mississippi are filled, until the idled industries of Appalachia are revitalized and until broken lives in sweltering ghettoes are mended and remodeled. Let us be dissatisfied until race baiters disappear from the political arena; until the Wallaces and Eastlands tremble away into silence; until Brotherhood becomes more than a meaningless word in an opening prayer but the order of the day on every legislative agenda. Let us be dissatisfied until the sacred halls of congress are filled with men who will do justly, love mercy and walk humbly with their God. Let us be dissatisfied until men everywhere will be imbued with a passion for justice until the lion and the lamb will lie down together and every man will sit under his own vine and fig tree and none shall be afraid.

Rocky Places of Frustration

The road ahead will not always be smooth. There will still be rocky places of frustration and meandering points of bewilderment. There will be inevitable setbacks here and there, and the bouyancy of hope will at times be transformed into the fatigue of despair. Our dreams will sometimes be shattered and our ethereal hopes blasted. We may again, with tear drenched eyes, have to stand before the bier of some courageous civil rights worker whose life will be snuffed out by the dastardly acts of blood thirsty mobs. But difficult and painful as it is, we must walk on in the days ahead with an audacious faith in the future.

And as we continue our chartered course, we may gain consolation from the words so nobly left to posterity by a great freedom fighter of yesterday, James Weldon Johnson:

Stony the road we trod, bitter the chastening rod;
Felt in the days when hope unborn had died;
Yet with a steady beat, have not our weary feet
Come to the place for which our fathers sighed.
We have come, over a way that with tears has been watered;
We have come, treading our paths through the blood of the slaughtered.
Out from the gloomy past; till now we stand at last;
Where the bright gleam of our bright star is cast.

City of Freedom

Let this affirmation be our ringing cry. It will give us courage to face the uncertainties of the future. It will give our tired feet new strength as we continue our forward stride toward the city of freedom. When our days become dreary with lowhovering clouds and our nights become darker than a thousand midnights, let us remember that there is a creative force in this universe working to pull down gigantic mountains of evil and prodigious hilltops of injustice, a power that is able to make a way out of no way, and transform dark yesterdays into bright tomorrows. This is our hope for the future. With this faith we will be able to sing in some not too distant tomorrow with a cosmic past tense, "We have overcome, we have overcome, deep in my heart, I did believe, we would overcome."

◆ ◆ ◆

Resolutions . . .

REPORT OF

THE COMMITTEE ON RESOLUTIONS

Mr. President, Delegates to the Ninth Annual Convention of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference:

Your Committee on Resolutions wishes to submit the following report for your consideration and adoption:

VIET NAM

The Southern Christian Leadership Conference is based on the faith that all men are sons of God and that therefore all men are brothers. This concept of brotherhood knows no national limitations. Men of Asia are no less our brothers than men of Europe. The war in Viet Nam is a serious challenge to our concept of brotherhood, as is indeed any war.

We recognize that Dr. King is one of the world's foremost moral leaders. As Nobel Prize Laureate, minister of the gospel and as an exponent of the philosophy of non-violence his conscience compels him to express his concern that humanity could be brought to the brink of doom through the use of war as a means of attempting the settlement of international conflict. Making these views clear in the open forum of public opinion is a contribution to all of humanity.

We commend him for courageously expressing these concerns and encourage him to continue his forthright moral leadership.

The Ninth Annual Convention of SCLC stands firmly behind our President in his hope that world peace becomes secure, not just because a balance of terror will have paralyzed mankind, but we continue to hope that most of the world's people will realize that nonviolence is life's last chance in this nuclear age.

We must still, however, affirm that the primary function of our organization is to secure full citizenship rights for the Negro citizens of this country and that our major contribution to world peace and brotherhood is to create a truly democratic society here in America. Our resources are not sufficient to assume the burden of two major issues in our society, we would therefore urge that the efforts of SCLC in mass demonstrations and action movements be confined to the question of racial brotherhood.

In the event of perilous escalation of the Viet Nam conflict we respect the right of Dr. King and the administrative committee to alter this course in the interest of the survival of mankind and turn the full resources of our organization to the cessation of bloodshed and war. This we feel to be our bounded duty as Christian ministers and laymen, and as adherents to the way of love and the philosophy of nonviolence.

VOTER REGISTRATION AND POLITICAL EDUCATION

SCLC will make voter registration its number one project from now until the 1966 elections. This crusade aims to add a million new voters to the nation's rolls by that time. SCLC calls upon Negro citizens throughout the nation—especially in the deep South—to flood the courthouses and other registration places and demand that a sufficient number of registrars and time be made available to all applicants.

SCLC calls upon the President of the United States and the Department of Justice to expand greatly the vigor and scope of its implementation of the new Voting Rights Laws, increasing greatly the number of registrars in all hard core areas.

SCLC calls for the establishment of a minimum voting age of 18 years for all Americans.

SCLC has authorized its staff and Board of Directors to take leadership in this intensive drive.

SCLC commits itself to a grand alliance with trade unions and religious groups for democratic reform and calls upon labor and the church to join in the massive registration of new voters as a giant step in this direction. This projected grand alliance is the outgrowth of the coalition that resulted in the victories of 1964 and 1965.

SCLC, through the grand alliance, will follow up the campaign of voter registration with one of political education toward using the ballot as an investment for making America more democratic and representative of the needs and desires of all its people.

SCLC believes firmly in the principle of "One Man, One Vote," and thus opposes all efforts to violate or dilute this principle as expressed in the decision of the United States Supreme Court in the reapportionment of State Legislatures.

TITLE VII

Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act must be vigorously applied against discrimination in employment.

The Southern Christian Leadership Conference commends the Civil Rights Department of the AFL-CIO for the speed with which it sought to encourage trade union compliance with Title VII a year before it became legally binding. Also to be congratulated are those businessmen who have cooperated in the spirit of the Act.

The Southern Christian Leadership Conference believes that Title VII can be strengthened and urges that it be amended so that:

1. The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission be empowered to issue cease and desist orders with penalties against all violators.

2. Enforcement procedures be speedier and that direct access to the Federal Commission be made available without having to go to a state FEPC.

3. The act be broadened to cover all employers or unions with five or more employees or members.

4. To remove the present exemption of state, county and municipal employees from the provisions of the act. Of all the places where we want integration it's certainly in the local governments with which we must work.

In urging these amendments, as in hailing Title VII, SCLC makes clear its conviction that bans on discriminatory employment practices are not sufficient to end the economic blight in the Negro community. Fair employment practices must be combined with education and training, and the creation of movement's dedication to nonviolence.

It is no concession to the proponents of violence to point out that nonviolent discipline is severely strained when racist bombings, beatings and murders go unpunished, or when police authorities withhold protection from civil rights demonstrators. SCLC, therefore, demands that the local, state and federal governments afford full protection to individual citizens seeking to exercise their constitutional rights, the higher level of government answering its responsibility where a local unit has been derelict.

MISSISSIPPI FREEDOM DEMOCRATIC PARTY

Because Negro people of Mississippi have been subjected to disenfranchisement by violence, terrorism, economic harrassment and unconstitutional election statutes, and because they were almost totally excluded from voting in the general elections of 1964, there can be no reasonable doubt that the Negro citizens of Mississippi have been unconstitutionally deprived of their right to vote. This fact was also evidenced by the data presented in the recent Civil Rights Commission's report on voting practices in Mississippi.

It is our belief that Congress itself has a duty and the responsibility to enforce the Constitution, and to scrutinize elections at every level of political structure, especially where there is disenfranchisement of large segments of citizens.

The Southern Christian Leadership Conference calls upon Congress to act speedily in discharging its responsibility to the people of Mississippi, and to its own integrity by making provisions for a full consideration of debate on the Mississippi challenges this session, and move to unseat the Mississippi Congressmen.

We ask that a copy of this resolution be sent to all members of the House of Representatives, all Affiliates of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, and to all the press media.

EMPLOYMENT

The Southern Christian Leadership Conference recognizes that the technological revolution is a complex and irreversible process requiring a variety of approaches and programs (see resolution of jobs), but essential to any solution of this problem is democratic social planning with human needs at the center.

SCLC calls for the President to recommend and the Congress to institute:

1. $2.00 as a national minimum hourly wage and extend this protective floor to all workers.

2. Massive public works that will provide employment for large numbers of workers and at the same time meet the crying need for decent housing, schools, hospitals, playgrounds and recreational centers.

3. A greatly expanded program of basic education and job training—including on-the-job training—for the victims of automation and the technological revolution.

WAR ON POVERTY

SCLC insists that unless the so-called War on Poverty and other programs for disadvantaged Americans increase the economic independence of the mass of under-employed and unemployed people, these measures will be little more than empty and self-defeating charity.

SCLC calls upon the President to issue an executive order:

1. That the poor and disadvantaged people themselves be encouraged and assisted in submitting proposals for their rehabilitation, instead of permitting outside organizations to exploit the fat government contracts in the name of servicing the nation's poor.

2. That will insure that at least one-third of the Board Members of the Community Action Program should come from the people who are to be served by these programs (or from among their chosen representatives).

3. That the staffing of the War on Poverty and other projects for disadvantaged Americans maximum use be made of personnel indigenous to the action area. Also, we view with deep concern the wide discrepancy between wages paid professional and non-professional workers.

4. SCLC calls upon the President of the United States to recommend and Congress to authorize greatly increased funds for the War on Poverty so that these and similar programs will come much nearer to meeting the needs.

HOUSING

The Southern Christian Leadership Conference urges its affiliates and all forces of good will to mount a multi-pronged assault on the deepening crisis in housing supply and housing discrimination that continues to frustrate our determined efforts to open the doors of opportunity for our Negro citizens and to build the 'beloved community' in our nation.

We hereby resolve, therefore, to support the struggle of slum-trapped Negroes and similarly-situated whites against exploitative landlords urging:

1. That the tax structure in our cities and states be revised in order that real estate might be taxed on its income value rather than the real property value, thus taking profit out of slums.

2. That rent strikes be legalized where landlords have failed to meet their responsibilities with respect to the housing provided.

3. That city governments assume ownership of dwellings neglected by landlords after due warning.

We resolve, moreover, to press for more effective federal programs that will in fact provide decent, safe and sanitary housing for all our citizens, to act:

1. To prohibit discriminatory practices in mortgage loans by all banks and lending institutions which are subject in any manner to regulation, supervision or control by an agency of the federal government.

2. To cover all federally-aided housing which was built or contracted for prior to November 20, 1962, and which continues to enjoy federal assistance.

3. In addition, the procedural power provided various federal housing agencies to grant exemptions from the scope of the Order should be withdrawn. Under this power FHA has excluded the resale of single family homes. This exemption vitiates the reach of the Order and minimizes its effectiveness.

4. We urge the expansion of the President's executive order on housing discrimination.

5. We urge the development of a massive housing construction program as an object of increased private and public investment that will stimulate the growth of our economy, the creation of desperately needed low and middle income housing and the expansion of essential employment opportunities.

6. In light of one new and welcomed Housing Act of 1965 providing rent subsidies to encourage the integration of low income families into middle income housing, we urge local communities to enact without delay rent control legislation to consolidate the gains which this legislation will hopefully deliver to millions now languishing in unendurable slums.

7. We urge an all out effort to remove from urban renewal the stigma and tragedy of Negro removal by undertaking such projects only where the population density of the ghettoes can be drained off into new, quality, integrated housing, not where displaceds can be relocated in decent, safe and sanitary housing.

ON CHURCH AND SYNAGOGUE COOPERATION

SCLC looks with favor on the area of its heritage undergirded by the religious forces of our country. The foundation principles of the movement drew heavily on Judaeo-Christian concepts of freedom and justice. Church and synagogue leaders, synagogue and church organizations and ministers, priests, nuns and rabbis have played important roles in the continuous development of SCLC, and in the current social, political and economic revolution. The alliance of these religious forces with the forces of labor, business, government and other civil rights groups has brought us where we are today on the road to complete freedom.

We are concerned that the religious support for SCLC would grow and not diminish. We are concerned that it would be sustained and aggressive, and not alert only in time of crises such as Birmingham or Selma.

We therefore call upon the religious forces of our country as individuals, as synagogues, as churches and as local, state and national organizations, to cooperate fully with the activities of local SCLC and the freedom movement affiliates where they exist. And where they do not exist we call upon these forces to give regular moral and financial support to undergird the broad and expansive program of SCLC and the freedo mmovement.

Moreover, we suggest to the churches and synagogues that they continue to find an arena for the legitimate expression of their prophetic mission in the city slums, the impoverished countryside, the lethargic small towns, and in all other areas of discrimination, injustice, poverty and human degredation.

THE NORTH

The recent people-to-people tour of four northern cities taken by our president, Dr. King, and his staff has awakened us to the fact that segregation is on the increase in our nation, that our ghettoes of despair are intensifying, not dispersing. The overwhelming response to that tour and the knowledge which we have gained of the deepening racial crisis in our country compel us, therefore, to resolve here and now to expand our active concern for the breakdown of racial segregation and discrimination to any part of our nation where these twin evils function to destroy the life of our people and the thrust of our Nation toward the beloved community, to wit, we pledge:

1. To continue our people-to-people tours of northern cities where our understanding of the dimensions of the problems of our urban realtors may be deepened and where our visits are sponsored by a broad coalition of the forces of good will in those communities, including civil rights, churches, labor and civic organizations.

2. To commit the full resources of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference into any of the northern cities toured where an effective coalition of conscience invites us and where progress be made in freeing our northern Negro br from the vicious cycle of being born in the infested slums that are exploited, attending de facto segregated schools that are neglected, emerging with inferior skills to compete for dwindling and low paying jobs; thus being forced to return to the segregated ghetto to raise children who go through the same vicious cycle.

3. That this expansion shall not take the form of establishing affiliates or starting organizations, but rather in response to the coalition of conscience that we hope can be effected in all our northern communities between existing civil rights groups and other concerned individuals or organizations.

NEGRO HISTORY AND CULTURE

SCLC applauds the efforts of the people of Africa to establish their national independence and free themselves from colonialism, economic and cultural exploitation.

SCLC urges that the government of the United States, through its Department of Health, Education and Welfare and other agencies; universities and colleges and other public and private institutions of learning; and publishers that abound take the lead in correcting the distortions about Africa and the African peoples in text books and courses of study.

That our courses in world history include African and Asian as well as European civilizations.

That the part the black people have played in the building of America and the New World be made a part of the true story of the United States and the Americas; and

That specifically, the part ethnic and cultural minorities have played in the history and development of American society be given its proper attention and emphasis.

PRESIDENT LYNDON BAINES JOHNSON

We commend President Lyndon B. Johnson for the strong and forthright stand he has taken on the question of civil rights since taking office:

For his determined leadership in forging the Civil Rights Act of 1964 we thank him;

For his decisive intervention in Selma, Alabama, to protect the rights of Negro citizens to petition their state government for redress of grievances we congratulate him;

For his brilliant, perceptive and historic speeches of March 15, 1965, introducing the Voting Rights Bill and June 4, 1965, at Howard University outlining this country's unfinished business of fulfilling our rights we applaud him;

For the Voting Rights Act of 1965 that he helped to deliver our people, this nation and the free world owe him a deep and abiding debt of gratitude.

BIRMINGHAM POLICEMEN

SCLC has a long standing interest in the City of Birmingham. Our people have suffered and died here in tragic numbers. Our major assault of the system of segregation occurred here two years ago. At that time we joined with the Alabama Christian Movement for Human Rights to petition the city for the employment of Negro policemen.

Negro citizens proved their effectiveness as law enforcement officers during the strife-torn period of bombings and near riots which followed demonstrations. Now, after two years and many applications from Negro citizens to serve as members of the police force, there are still no Negro policemen in a city of almost 200,000 Negro citizens.

We consider this a blatant denial of the good faith negotiations which brought an end to the 1963 demonstrations and a deliberate attempt on the part of the City officials of Birmingham to discriminate on the basis of race.

We thereby call on Mayor Boutwell and the City Council to take whatever steps that are necessary to desegregate the law enforcement of this city.

In the event that this is not done forthwith, we pledge our full support to our Birmingham affiliate and the Negro citizens of Birmingham to take whatever measures we deem necessary to provide this city with Negro policemen.

Addresses . . .

KEYNOTE ADDRESS — REV. ANDREW YOUNG

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR, SCLC

Delivered at Birmingham, Alabama

August 11, 1965

AN EXPERIMENT IN POWER

Mr. President, members of the Board, affiliate leaders, delegates and friends of this Ninth Annual Convention of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. I consider it much more than a pleasure to deliver this keynote address; it is a grave responsibility, one for which I feel dreadfully inadequate. I say this as no empty gesture at humility, but in a realization of the fact that the issues which confront mankind at this juncture of our history are so grave that the very survival of mankind is at stake in the day to day action which grows from this organization.

Therefore I ask you to bear with my chauvinism, both racial and organizational, for both as a people and as an organization, we seem to be caught up in an inescapable network of destiny. For at least the past two years the progress of our nation has stemmed from the work of this organization. The domestic crises of our time have been joined by the people who now gather here and we must humbly face the fact that not only did two Civil Rights Acts grow from our collective action, but the impetus and inspiration for the Coalition of Conscience which made possible the Poverty Program, the actualization of President Johnson's plan for a Great Society, the repeal of the so-called Right to Work Laws as well as the awakening of the academic communities of our nation on the issues of World Peace.

I say this not to claim any special credit for either the race or the organization, for I know too well that there is no special merit in either. But somehow, God in His good pleasure has raised up from the dust of the Southern Black Belt and the suffering of two centuries of slavery a people to whom He has entrusted His Power. We are not a rich people. We are not an especially brilliant people. We are not, God forgive us, even a particularly industrious people. And we are hardly what moralists would call a good people. But somehow, God has chosen us as His people, and called His children from the far corners of the world, the diverse nationalities of our nation, and the myriad religious expressions of our time to gather around us in a glorious procession to a land of freedom and justice.

Seeking Hot Dogs Instead of Jobs

The past ten years have been but our infancy, and like an infant, we have stumbled and stammered as we learned to walk through the valleys and shadows which encompassed us. We have groped for words, and sung songs of faith when we had no word. We have blindly treaded in faith through the injustices of our society, seeking hot dogs when we needed jobs, standing in at movies when we needed education, arguing over bus rides when we needed houses and staging boycotts for jobs which would soon be non-existent when we needed political rights to shape and structure our own destiny

Those days are fast coming to an end, and we must now take the next steps into adolescence and begin to perceive ourselves and our movement as more than a passing fancy to work out our frustrations and bitterness on occasion and then return to the status quo until the following summer of our discontent.

Just as an awakening adolescent becomes aware of the power of his own will, the power in his body, and the power in his soul, if he is lucky, so the movement, and SCLC in particular, must accept the presence of power and learn to understand it and deal with it responsibly.

I liken these experiences of power, as seen in adolescent individuals, to the potential social power we see in the South; the power to have a will of our own in our political life; the potential power which is present in the tremendous bodies of people who gathered around Dr. King in the North; and the power of truth—that beloved soul force about which Gandhi spoke so much, and which we have only begun to explore.

The next phase of the movement must be an experiment in power.

Political Power in the South

The passage of the Voting Rights Bill gives us a new opportunity to reform the political structure of America and make democracy a reality. Already we have begun to see Congressmen change their tunes. Weltner of Atlanta voted with liberals of the Johnson Administration on all but one issue, the repeal of the right to work laws. Talmadge, whose name is synonymous with racism and bigotry, has offered to nominate Negroes to the military academies and entertained Senator Leroy Johnson at his Lovejoy, Georgia, plantation. Mayor Ivan Allen, who ran as a segregationist for Governor of Georgia only a few years ago, was the only elected official to testify in behalf of the public accommodations section of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. These occurrences and many more fulfill the maxim of Frederick Douglas: that this is a struggle to save Black men's bodies and white men's souls. We are going to see many more Southern Congressmen "get religion" and start thinking about their Black Brothers.

There are also now 10 Negroes sitting in the Georgia Legislature, and the next election will certainly triple the number of Negro elected officials across the Southland.

A Century of Fear

But all of this is dependent upon organization and action on our part. People will not lightly throw off a century of fear and go gaily skipping down to the Court House to register. Civics is not taught in the schools, so they don't know the value of the ballot, and they do know the value of their jobs, their plantation homes and their lives; and in spite of all the good that this Bill will do, it offers very little protection against intimidation and economic reprisal. Only group action and concerted organized effort can overcome these obstacles.

The question remains, how do we organize? Do we simply seek to join a local precinct? Do we organize independent Negro Voting Leagues? And if so, what can we do to keep us from exploitation by Negro politicians? These are the questions which come with the presence of real power. Power corrupts, and therefore some method must be followed to insure a balance of power and checks against the abuse of power.

The Freedom Democratic Party in Mississippi has sought to organize the masses under the assumption that there is some inherent purity in poverty. Tennessee Voters Council is essentially a Negro middle-class operation, which while it has done a tremendous job in voter registration, unification of Negro voting power and election of Negro officials, has yet to deliver anything concrete to the masses of people such as a minimum wage law with extended coverage.

A Coalition of Classes

I would think that SCLC would make an effort to avoid both of these extremes and organize a coalition of classes, where representation and leadership might come not only from every geographic area of a state or region, but also see to it that every strata of society continues to be represented.

In this principle we recognize that a man's worth is not dependent on wealth or education, but on the fact that he is God's child and that God has given men integrity, sensitivity, proficiency and dedication regardless of their station in life and the opportunities which society has afforded. The history of the movement thus far is that the "little people" have carried the bulk of the burden. But "little people" can sometimes be more easily tempted by newly-acquired power than persons who have grown accustomed to dealing in power and money, therefore a coalition organization is required to insure a balance of power and checks against its abuse.

The question of the partisan or nonpartisan nature of this coalition is academic at this point in the South's history. The Goldwater forces ran us out of the Republican Party, but this means that it is even more imperative that we not be considered the captives of the Democratic Party. The coming years must see us as an independently organized force which functions within the Democratic Party but which is capable of functioning independently of that party and even switching whenever the opportunity affords it. We must still find every opportunity to encourage the development of a two-party South.

Newly-Accessible Power

The implications of this newly-accessible power are tremendous, not only for the Negro in the South as he determines the kinds of schools, hospitals, jobs, and sheriffs he will have, but will go a long way toward freeing the nation as a whole from a corrupt and powerful Southern bloc which dominates our legislative halls and impedes every progressive foreign and domestic issue which arises.

Smith of Virginia, as Chairman of the House Rules Committee, determines the bills which come before the House, when and how they come forth. From this position of power, every liberal in the House is forced to pay some dues to the Southern oligarchy in every measure offered for legislation. McMillan of South Carolina cripples a half million Negroes in the District of Columbia, and is in the process of making the nation's Capitol one of the most backward cities in America.

To free the nation from racist domination and influence is the key to the future. Urban Affairs, whether they be urban transit between the metropolitan and suburban complexes, urban housing, expansion of the minimum wage coverage to include service occupations in which minorities predominate or increased educational supports for ghetto schools all tend to be side-tracked or emasculated by the reactionary Southern ax. Our domestic problems, and the future crises of our nation, are in cities. Nothing is more important to our national health than to free our Congress to deal creatively with these problems. This is one of the issues which hangs in the balance of how effectively we do our job in the South.

Costs of War

The international issues of our time also rest on the redistribution of Southern power. Our concern for the war in Viet Nam and the senseless intervention in the Dominican Republic is only natural. As Dr. King says so eloquently, "there is no need in fighting to integrate a society which any day may be blown out from under us." We are also concerned that the national budget is seriously overburdened by the costs of war when the demand at home and abroad is for a war against poverty rather than against people. We can never have the funds needed to make for peace and prosperity so long as we spend so much to make war and the weapons of war.

However, we should not abandon our task and turn our attention to organizing marches on Redstone Arsenal. One of the significant differences between the civil rights movement and the peace movement in this country is that we have taken power and political reform seriously, while dramatizing an issue, while the peace movement has often appealed to conscience in an area where the loyalties and ethical mandates are not always clear and simple.

We are as much against the war in Viet Nam as anyone, but, let us not abandon our tried and tested methods of producing social change in an emotional effort to get on a band wagon that's playing a "square" tune.

The Threat of Nuclear Annihilation

Increasing the Negro vote in an organized manner will rid the South of men like Congressman Passman of Louisiana who has conducted a very effective campaign against the very foreign aid and technical assistance which could make unnecessary the so called wars of liberation which constantly threaten to erupt into a world holocaust as East and West vie for the right of oppression and exploitation. As long as men like Passman and Richard Russell of Georgia have great power in the Foreign Affairs and Armed Forces Committees of Congress we are constantly under the threat of nuclear annihilation. But let's not run to Washington to picket the White House, let's stay here and organize to replace them with men of good will who will understand that "I am my brother's keeper" and be as willing to vote a Marshall Plan for Asia, Africa and Latin America as they were to do so for Europe.

At this juncture, SCLC must cast its resources toward the long haul of building a peace through an enlightened electorate which can look squarely into the 20th Century and not be afraid of Communism or of the miserable, squalid conditions in which Communism flourishes.

The Power of Numbers in the North

The recent Northern Tour by Dr. King and our staff unfolded an additional source of power which we have at our disposal. It is a power so awesome that it frightens me to think about it; and I tremble to think what might happen if it is not organized and disciplined in the interest of positive social change. This is the sheer power of human bodies, massed and committed around a creative program.

In two or three days we were able to gather people by the tens of thousands in Chicago, Cleveland, Philadelphia and Washington. I think it is safe to say that with a little planning and effort it would be possible to recruit a nonviolent army of upwards of one hundred thousand in any major city in the country. Can you imagine what it would mean for a hundred thousand persons to hold a week long vigil in the "Spaghetti Bowl" interchange of Chicago's Expressway System? Or let's suppose we decided to organize marches from Newark, Brooklyn, Jamaica, L. I., and Harlem to converge on Wall Street in an appeal for a morally responsible approach to the whole question of automation and unemployment.

These kinds of demonstrations are so well within our capabilities that we must be careful to employ them with extreme caution and with the utmost preparation and responsibility. You might remember that Dr. King took his second team of organizers with him on this past tour and they only worked a few days preparing each community. James Orange, Andrew Marrisett, Jimmy Collier, J. T. Johnson, Eric and Ann Kindberg did a marvelous job along with the others. But just imagine what it would be like to turn Jim Bevel, Hosea Williams and C. T. Vivian loose on a community for a few weeks along with Dr. King and the others. You could truly amass a number that no man could number and commit them to almost any program of action that spoke to their needs.

Cancerous Social Decay

This power could be the answer to the basic issues and structural problems in our society which threaten to breed a cancerous social decay within metropolitan life. I am speaking of unemployment; slum housing; and over-crowded, segregated and otherwise generally-inadequate education. These problems must be dealt with. They are not just Negro problems either. They are flaws in the basic nature of our society which affect the whole society.

SCLC has been gifted with this tremendous power to mobilize and inspire, but we will not use it to attempt to take over the country. Rather, we will be a consultative firm of social engineers which will make its services available to the forces of good will within a community in projects of moral and spiritual urban renewal, redeeming the soul of America and constructing the social foundations of a beloved community.

Before we move in any area, however, we must spend time training a dedicated cadre of informed nonviolent local leadership so that we can insure discipline and control of the demonstrations under any circumstance. We must research issues carefully and call upon the best minds of the community to work out the approach to the community's problems and develop a sound definition of the issues at hand.

There will be problems with political power structures which will be complicated by the fact that there will be Negroes involved and even at the helm of the opposition. There will not be the same kind of press support or financial support that we have received from the North as the movement comes closer to home and threatens vested interests. But if we are true to Gandhi and seek to attack issues rather than people, we can hope to inspire even our opposition to new moral heights, and thereby overcome.

The Power of Truth

Ultimately, any power which God has placed at our disposal is grounded in the fact that our cause is just, our method of pursuit—noble.

Any success which grows out of our efforts must be totally dependent upon the power of truth: "soul force." In this spirit there must be continuous self criticism and self analysis. Even more so in view of the fact that our opposition has grown more sophisticated and subtle. In the past we could count on a Bull Conner or Jim Clark to create such a savage and brutal image that our own weaknesses were ignored amid the blatant horror and injustice which surrounded all our demonstrations.

The future means a more diligent pursuit of the truth, and a more disciplined cultivation of the power within our souls. The tactical nonviolence which was sufficient in the past will be weighed in the balance and found wanting in the future. Men must begin to learn to love one another, not just restrain themselves from killing one another. The non-violent attitude will be every bit as important as the non-violent action. Our speech must lose the harsh and hostile tones which creep into our negotiations. Our eyes must soften their glances and be free of any residue of malice or resentment. This is not just a necessity for a non-violent movement, it is a necessity for the maintenance of human community.

Learning to Live

One of the blessings of automation will be that it will force us to learn to live . . . simply to "be" where we have cluttered our existence with striving and doing.

Unfortunately, there will be more suffering, but the few who are chosen for nonviolent leadership must voluntarily take on that suffering in order that untold millions may live free of that suffering. The brief history of our movement should remind us of the harsh lesson of life that God's way of progress is the way of the cross. There will still be crosses to bear.

There will also be temptations. We have come through the fear of death and the threat of violence. Many have been fired from jobs, but they wouldn't let this turn them around. Homes have been bombed and night riders terrorized our communities. Churches have been burned and children murdered in Sunday School, but this could not turn us around.

Crowded in Jails Like Cattle

We have filled the jail houses of the South. We have been crowded into jail cells like cattle and our jailers have turned the heat on when it was 90 degrees in the summertime, and they have opened the windows and taken away our blankets when it was 16 degrees in the wintertime. We have been carted to jail in garbage trucks, made to sit in the Florida sun for days with no shade and no water in an animal compound, but we wouldn't let this turn us around.

Fire hoses, dogs, cattle prods, sweat boxes and many inexpressible cruelties have been met with courage and determination, and none of these could turn us around.

We have overcome the test of physical violence, now we must face the tests of spiritual trial.

The enemies we now face will not beat us, they will offer us bribes. We will be offered high-paying jobs and positions of honor and perstige. But if we are to work together to continue this movement we cannot sell our souls for a mess of pottage. It will be tempting, for they will be honorable jobs with poverty programs and social welfare causes. The attack will now be made against the spirit, and the weaknesses of our egos will be set against each other. We will be tempted to struggle for the "seats of honor in the Synagogue" and to compete with each other for the praise and acclamation of men. But if we are to overcome we will have to remember that, "he who would be greatest among you, let him be the servant of all," and that, "he who loses his life for my sake and the gospels will truly find it."

The Enemies Within

The enemies we now face are often within. The publicity that we have received may well give us the impression that we are experts and that we don't need to think things through together, read and study the thoughts of others or remain open for new truth.

The enemies we now face will tempt us with comfort and pleasure that we might forget our brothers in the teeming ghettoes of the nation while we langour in air-conditioned comfort. It will be increasingly easy for us to fall into the trap of large scale tokenism for those who have been to college and ignore the hungry millions from Mississippi to Madras.

Only a broadening of our vision can save us from these obstacles. We must see that our work extends beyond the South and into the North, and when we have completed our work there we must go from New York to London and Paris and from there to Brazzaville and Johannesburg until the rights of man are secure the world over.

Not too long ago my daughter asked me, "Daddy, will I have to go to jail when I grow up, or will Negroes be free by then?" I stopped for a minute, for I wanted to say that she wouldn't have to go to jail. I wanted to think that we could complete the color revolution in our generation, but then I remembered that this is a movement against evil and injustice and I said, "Yes, Baby, you will have to go to jail when you grow up, but it may not be for the freedom of Negroes, but somewhere in the world some people will be oppressed, and you may have to go to jail for their freedom."

ADDRESS — AMBASSADOR S. O. ADEBO

PERMANENT REPRESENTATIVE OF NIGERIA TO THE UNITED NATIONS

Delivered on August 10, 1965
Birmingham, Alabama

THE BLACK REVOLUTION

The objective of the black revolution is to secure a square deal for the black man, wherever he may be. It claims for people of colour what the Charter of the United Nations aims to guarantee for all men. Since the claim is for equality of treatment and no more, it could not damage the legitimate cause of any other groups in the world. It is in consonance with justice, and with the moral code of every one of the great religions of the world.

Black people are the victims of prejudice and discrimination vis-a-vis other racial groups, practically everywhere in the world. In some places the prejudice is kept under control underneath a veneer of politeness, it sometimes manifests itself in an attitude of patronizing condescension; in some places the discrimination is open and harsh, in others it is covert and subtle. But it is practically everywhere. The movement to eradicate it must therefore be a world-wide movement. It should be world-wide in two senses. First, we must never allow ourselves to think that discrimination against men of colour exists only in South Africa or in the Southern part of the United States. It just happens to manifest itself in those places in its ugliest forms. We must remember that it exists in other places and other countries, and we must labour to eradicate it in those other places and countries as well.

The black revolution is world-wide in another and equally significant sense, that is, in the sense that all black people wherever they may be must recognize that the movement to eradicate colour discrimination is their battle, that it is one battle, that gains in one area of the battle front advance the prospects of success in other areas, and reverses in one area would, by the same token, prejudice those prospects.

A Battle Half-Won

The home base for the black revolution is undoubtedly and inevitably Africa. The battle there is half won. But it is only half won. A sizeable part of Africa is still unfree. In the areas where Africans have come into their own, the gains still need to be consolidated. Independence only brings the opportunity to show what we can do. The successful demonstration of that capacity is essential for the success of the black revolution—capacity for leadership, for good and stable government, for the securing of a better life for all our peoples, for the maintenance of decency in international relations.

The home base is important. "If Janiculum is lost, what hope is there for Rome"? If we fail in Africa, your battle in the United States, the battle of black men everywhere else would be made the more difficult. We must make Africa a continent of which you can be proud, Africans in Africa must so conduct themselves that people of African descent can be proud of that origin, so that people with the tiniest of African blood can be glad that it is there. Can we achieve this?

It is going to be difficult but we are determined to meet the challenge. It will be difficult because the problems facing Africans in Africa are so many and so complex, and our resources are so meagre. Very few of these problems were of our own creation or can be solved by our own efforts alone. While engaged in the struggle for independence, we had hardly any time for anything else. Education, health services, the provision of communications, the diversification of the economy, were neglected while the wealth of Africa was carted away for the enjoyment of the metropolitan power. Africa is not only under-developed, it is badly fragmented.

A True Appreciation

It is necessary for peoples of African descent outside the continent to understand the nature of the problems of their home base in order to gain a true appreciation of what has been achieved in the short time since Africans began to control their own affairs, and a true appreciation of what remains to be done.

What about the battle outside Africa? The biggest of this is being fought out in your own country. The USA contains the largest black population outside the African continent. This alone would make the battle here very significant for the destiny of the black man. In addition, the United States is one of the greatest nations in the world, so that what it does with the skeletons in its own cupboard could affect the attitudes and actions of many other countries.

In Africa the securing of independence for our countries was necessary to create conditions in which we can show our capacity to run our own affairs and in time run them as competently as do other racial groups. In the same way, it has been necessary for you to seek the provision of equal opportunities for Americans of African descent, vis-a-vis other ethnic groups in the nation, in order that they can make their just contribution to their country's life and development. That battle for equal opportunities has been going on for a long time. It is still on. I do not have to tell you how much has been achieved, for you know it. Nor do I have to tell you that there is still much to be done, for you know that too. Here, as in Africa, there is much unfinished business for us to do.

You will recall that I said earlier, commenting on our performance in Africa, that, having gained independence, we had to turn to the task of making the most of that victory. The position in the United States seems to me to be precisely the same. As you win the struggle for equal opportunities, you will I am sure be turning your energies to getting all Americans of African descent to make the most of those opportunities. For instance, we must see to it that more and more Negroes stay in schools and colleges to complete their education, so that they can take advantage of the new employment opportunities.

Cooperate with One Another

If the cause of the black man everywhere is essentially the same, if the success or failure of one is the failure or success of the other, it follows that we should cooperate with one another in the interest of our common goal. This need has been recognized from the early days of the black revolution by African and Negro leaders alike. It produced the concept of pan-Africanism, a concept variously interpreted by different groups. Some of our earliest leaders, for instance, on both sides of the Atlantic read into it the connotation that all persons of African origin should be encouraged, if not cajoled, to return to Africa. I think myself that it was unfortunate that this idea did not prevail. The presence of people of African origin in the United States and elsewhere outside Africa does add another dimension to our revolution but it also provides us with a valuable instrument for the pursuit of our objective. It provides us with a bridge of understanding with the rest of a world in which it is no longer possible for any group to live and prosper in splendid isolation from all others.

Our leaders of today are just as aware of the need for the pooling of resources as were our leaders of earlier days. They no longer think in terms of shipping all persons of African origin back to Africa, but in terms of a square deal for all of us wherever we may make our home in the world. Last year (in Sept. 1964), I was privileged to attend and address a conference in Washington, D. C., which was organized by the Negro leadership in this country, including, I am glad to say, your own organization. The subject of the conference was not civil rights in the United States. It was Africa. The sponsors were concerned to ensure that their country's policy towards Africa was right and conducive to the real interests of their kith and kin back home in Africa.

Never Left in Doubt

This gesture is appreciated and reciprocated by African leaders. The United States Government is never left in doubt as to what African Governments and their peoples feel concerning the treatment of their kith and kin whom destiny has made citizens of the United States. Those of us who represent Africa at the United Nations watch with personal interest the ebb and flow of your struggle for equal opportunities. I venture to submit that the fact of our interest is not without some effect on the progress of that struggle.

Fortunately, for the world, the African revolution is not being furthered only by Africans and persons of African descent. It enjoys the support of peoples of other racial groups everywhere whose conscience or whose religion enables them to overcome the prejudices of centuries of mis-education. For our greatest asset is the justice of our cause, a cause calculated not to cause injury to anyone but rather to secure respect for human dignity for all, regardless of the colour of the skin.

May I pay, in the name of my country, in the name of Africa, as well as on my own behalf, tribute to the great contributions that under the magnificent leadership of one of the greatest descendants of Africa, your organization is making to the progress of the African revolution? The award of the Nobel Peace Prize to him last year was received with as deep a sense of personal satisfaction and joy in Africa as was felt by all of you in this country. May his selfless dedication to the cause continue to inform and inspire and guide your future action.

Long live Africa. Long live fraternal cooperation among all peoples of African descent. God bless all people, white and black, who are working devotedly for the cause of world brotherhood.

MRS. CONSTANCE BAKER MOTLEY — BANQUET SPEAKER

Remarks by Mrs. Constance Baker Motley, Borough President of Manhattan

At the Opening Banquet at the Convention of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference

August 9, 1965, Redmont Hotel, Birmingham, Alabama

First, I want to say how pleased I am to have this opportunity to address the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) on its return to desegregated Birmingham. Your coveted invitation to be the guest speaker at this opening night banquet is, indeed, a high compliment.

No city in America owes more to the SCLC than Birmingham. Your crusade for freedom put Birmingham on the civil rights map and has assured it a place in the history of our fight for freedom.

I am especially proud to be here to honor the movement's most celebrated daughter, Rosa Parks.

We do honor tonight to Mrs. Parks, the freedom fighter whose proud refusal to move to the back of the bus in Montgomery, Alabama, 10 years ago was an act of courage comparable in importance to that of the Yankee militiaman at Concord, who "fired the shot heard 'round the world'." No Emerson has yet given Mrs. Parks' historic act the poetic commemoration which it deserves, but when the history of the second half of the 20th century is written there is no doubt in my mind that Montgomery, 1955, will rank with Fort Sumter, 1861, and Concord, Mass., 1775, as a turning point in our nation's history.

It is, of course, always a great pleasure to see Martin King, but especially on a memorable occasion such as this. The record Dr. King has compiled in the last 10 years has established him not only as America's most widely acclaimed freedom fighter but as spokesman for the entire country. He is an American hero of authentic distinction who has achieved an unprecedented position of respect and prestige throughout the world. His inspiring oratory, his doctrine of aggressive restraint, his sweeping influence for good over the entire American scene, have made him a leader of unique importance—every great cause requires great leadership. We are fortunate indeed that, at this time in history, Dr. King came to us to serve and to lead.

Impossible 10 Years Ago

The Civil Rights Act of 1964, that historic declaration of human equality, would have been thought impossible 10 years ago at the time Mrs. Parks refused to obey the order to move to the back of the bus. Yet, today, we find that momentous act significantly strengthened and implemented by the voting rights act of 1965. The voting rights act will rewrite the history of the southern United States in the next few decades. Nevertheless, its passage through Congress was relatively tranquil. It is a measure of the strength of the civil rights forces that such significant legislation—this pioneer involvement by the federal government in an area previously left to state misrule—was passed with such near unanimity.

Notably, most of the opposition to the new voting rights act came from states where people are denied the right to vote. That opposition, we hope, has been now put down for all time by the passage of this new act. Consequently, we can all well understand the new found fear and trembling on the part of the Jim Crow Governors and legislators as they contemplate the future expansion of their constituencies. Let the new voters of the 1960s remember at the polls officials whose racist appeals kept them in political bondage. But let them never forget those civil rights martyrs who laid down their lives for this new day.

The importance of the voting rights act was illustrated by the historic manner in which it was signed last Friday by President Johnson. The President and the entire cabinet assembled and went to the rotunda of the Capitol. There the President spoke on this second great landmark in Civil Rights legislation passed during the Johnson administration, with unprecedented speed, the Justice Department has moved toward implementation of the Voting Rights Bill by the filing of a suit in Mississippi to bar enforcement of that state's poll tax law.

Vote Is Now The Keystone

I believe that wise exercise of the right to vote is now the keystone to actual equality, legal equality having been won. It is through the ballot that the great social changes which transformed America in the past have been authorized. The voting strength of Negroes does not mean only civil rights legislation and the complete destruction of state supported segregation and discrimination. It means an equal share in the state's revenues for all communities and individuals, regardless of race. It means paved streets in the Negro community as well as in the white community. And it means the harnessing of the power and resources of the state to provide the economic changes required for the elimination of poverty and illiteracy. The gains achieved in the Civil Rights area thus provide hope for gains in other areas. All this will be part of the impact of the voting rights act of 1965.

Another important gain which has been won in recent years is the ruling of the United States Supreme Court in support of that honored but often ignored principle known as "one man, one vote." The elimination of malapportionment and rural domination of state legislatures has enfranchised city voters and brought legislators closer to the realities of the 20th century.

In this connection we should be thankful for the recent defeat in the United States Senate of the Dirksen Amendment which would have overruled the Supreme Court's "one man, one vote" decision. Yet, we must remember that this amendment, which would have allowed for the reapportionment of one house of the State Legislature, on a basis other than population, actually received a majority of the votes of the Senate. It received 57 votes while only 39 were cast against it. Needless to say, every Senator from the states where Negroes are denied the right to vote supported this amendment. It was only defeated because a two-thirds vote is required for a constitutional amendment. We cannot be secure when, in the most heavily democratic and liberal Senate of this century, such a proposal could come within 7 voters of adoption.

End of Georgia's Unit System

Another result of the "one man, one vote" decision has been the end of the state of Georgia's county unit system, under which a candidate who received a majority of votes could actually be defeated by overweighted rural ballots in a state-wide primary. As if it were not bad enough that Negroes were not allowed to vote in Georgia, when they did vote, their votes were not counted equally. But the fact that such an utter perversion of majority rule could have persisted for so long, and the fact that it took federal intervention to destroy it, shows how fragile our liberties are.

Today, in 1965, 10 Negroes sit in the Georgia legislature, two Senators and eight Representatives. Someday the Legislatures of all southern states will contain Negroes in substantial numbers. That day cannot come too soon.

I should say at this time that, as many of you know, I hold the office of President of the Borough of Manhattan. In this, an elective office, I represent 1,700,000 residents in the heart of New York City. My jurisdiction includes black Harlem and Park Avenue, Wall Street and Chinatown. Manhattan's newly created Puerto Rican ghettoes and the famous lower East Side. I am the 20th person to hold the office of Borough President since the position was established with the consolidation of five Boroughs (counties) into New York City on January 1, 1898. In the beginning, most of the Borough Presidents were Irish-Americans. In the 1930s and 40s there was a string of Jewish Borough Presidents. In November, 1953, a Negro was elected to hold this position for the first time.

Candidates Nominated for Ethnic Appeal

When the Borough presidency was held by a member of a white minority group one did not hear racist charges or complaints. Historically, in New York, as in many areas, Candidates had been nominated for office for many different reasons, one of which is their ethnic appeal. The tradition of the balanced ticket in a melting pot society is an old custom that has been adhered to by reformers and traditionalists alike. Yet, when this rotation of office brings a succession of Negroes into a high position, there is an undercurrent of dissatisfaction. The quality of the candidate is ignored and the feeling is piously expressed that race should not be a factor in the selection of candidates. Where were all these critics when Negroes were excluded from candidacy or public office because of their race? I believe that full equality demands treatment of the Negro community the same way that our society treats its other communities, and that includes the political recognition of the Negro.

I believe in electing people without regard to their race and I am aware that those who cry "Race" — on both sides — are often those who have no more worthy arguments to present. But I do not believe that all the merit and all the fitness to govern can be found in people of one color. I look forward to the day when race will be relegated into obscurity as a criterion in the selection of candidates for high office. But until that happy day we must all remain aware of our long standing struggle to prevent discrimination and to gain first class citizenship for the Negro. And I know as you know that first class citizenship means not only the right to vote but the right to run for office and the right to hold public office. In order to do this, it will be necessary for Negroes by the hundreds of thousands to take advantage of the new federal laws and to register and vote.

Failing to Serve Freedom

A Negro who does not vote is just plain ungrateful to those who already have died in the fight for freedom. A Negro who does not vote is not helping to make a better world for his or her children. A Negro who does not vote is lending aid and support to the racists who argue that Negroes will not assume the responsibilities of citizenship. Any person who does not vote is failing to serve the cause of freedom, his own freedom, his people's freedom, and his country's freedom.

The theme of this convention is the "GRAND ALLIANCE." This term is used to denote the alliance of organized labor the church, liberals and intellectuals along with the civil rights movement. This is the confederation which has provided the momentum for much of America's social progress. The grand alliance is the backbone of the fight for freedom. The partners of the alliance believe in human rights not merely in the exaltation of property rights and state's rights.

Under the leadership of Dr. Martin Luther King, the alliance has strengthened and taken shape. Now, more than ever, all its components are becoming involved in the full struggle for equality. That means not only political and social equality, but economic equality which makes possible the full enjoyment of legal equality.

The alliance currently exists in a relatively informal sense depending on relations between individuals. It is under-financed and over-extended. Although noble in purpose, it is a fledgling in operation. It is in need of substantial assistance from all the allies if it is to take its rightful place as the peoples' lobby.

The alliance should support the reformation of American society in a great many areas. It should seek massive Federal assistance for employment and training of the unemployed adult male population especially among Negroes. It must seek such assistance to teach children to read, to integrate our schools, to build decent homes, to provide adequate health care for all Americans.

Time-Honored Methods

In its struggle for the achievement of these social goals the alliance should use all the time-honored methods which Americans have used to seek freedom. I am reminded of a statement made just six days ago by President Johnson, at the White House. The President said: "So free speech, free press, free religion, the right of free assembly, yes, the right of petition, the right to buy ads, and to have teach-ins, and sit ins, and parade, and march, and demonstrate, well, they are all still radical ideas. And so are secret ballots. And so are free elections, and so is the principle of equal dignity, and so is the principle of equal rights for all the sons and daughters of man. But all of these things are what America stands for, and all of these things are what you and all other Americans need to stand up for today."

President Johnson thus encouraged the fullest range of expression for Americans anxious to improve social conditions and to implement court decisions already won. I think we should consider his remarks carefully and be guided by his words. We should not be weary. We must move toward full equality for our children's sake. Let's not forget them.

Finish the Task

In pursuit of this goal, now is the time to finish the task of integrating our schools. In this struggle we have a strong new ally in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare which now has the responsibility for withholding federal funds from school districts which refuse to desegregate. Tonight we are dining in a white hotel in Birmingham —several hundred of us.

But how many Negroes will go to school with whites in Birmingham come September 1965? How many Negro teachers will teach white children who are now teaching Negro children? The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has its responsibility, but we also have ours. Our responsibility is to secure for our children all of the rights for which the civil rights revolution of the last decade was fought. There are today no more Jim Crow buses—there are only Negroes who are afraid to ride up front. There are no more segregated public recreational facilities—only Negroes who are afraid to take advantage of their rights. There are no more legally segregated schools, only Negro parents en masse afraid to take their children by the hand to a white school in September, 1965. I predict that such a demonstration by Negro parents, coupled with the new Federal determination to require compliance with the school desegregation decision as a condition of Federal financial assistance, will bring a swift end to segregated school systems in the south. Just as Rosa Parks' courageous refusal to be segregated brought about the end of Jim Crow travel in this nation, so every Negro mother has it within her power to end school segregation.

Rosa Parks, we honor you tonight because yours is the kind of courage and determination and nonviolent spirit we all need for the future. Your name will be remembered as long as freedom is abroad in this land. My prayer in Birmingham tonight is that Negro women everywhere will follow your example and hasten the day when all of our hard-won legal rights are secure in practice here, and throughout the land.

EXCERPTS . . . FROM AN ADDRESS BY DR. LEON H. KEYSERLING

Delivered Thursday, August 12, 1965, at 12:00 Noon

(NOTE: DR. KEYSERLING IS FORMER CHAIRMAN, COUNCIL OF ECONOMIC ADVISERS. HE IS AT PRESENT A CONSULTING ECONOMIST AND ATTORNEY AND PRESIDENT OF THE CONFERENCE ON ECONOMIC PROGRESS.)

"The Negro people and their leadership, and all those allied with them, should display a responsible impatience in translating newly-won political opportunities into a full measure of economic and social justice for all, regardless of race, color, or creed. Without this full measure of economic and social justice, civil rights and liberties become means which are barred from achievement of a major portion of their legitimate and essential ends. And the achievement of these ends is, in many respects, an even harder task than the recent victories in the field of civil rights and liberties.

"Civil rights and liberties are the main means for achievement of the ends of economic and social justice because the latter require improved public action through government, both legislatures and courts, which in a democracy involves the political process, moreover, improved public action is most important at the national level. The civil rights movement itself should remind us that, while local and community efforts have indeed been needed, the great landmarks of progress have been the decision in a Federal Courthouse in Washington in 1954 and a series of enactments in a Federal legislature in Washington in 1964 and 1965. The war against unemployment and poverty—the two great manifestations of economic and social injustice in a land as rich and productive as ours—is basically nationwide and requires, above all, vast and prompt improvements in national policies and programs.

Imposes New and Wider Responsibilities

"The utilization of civil rights and liberties in the battle for economic and social justice imposes new and wider ranges of responsibility upon those enlisted for the duration. It's easier to define the right to vote or the right to enter a hotel, and easier to define the measures needed to secure these rights than to define and secure the right to a job and the right to an American standard of income. It is relatively easier to attain a concensus among the American people that all citizens should enjoy the political rights of citizens, than to attain a concensus about the specific measures needed to assure that all Americans shall enjoy economic and social justice. For these reasons, those now determined to translate political rights into economic fulfillment must intensify their efforts to:

1. Form and strengthen their alliances with other groups devoted to the same purposes, and

2. Even more important, formulate specific programs for legislative action, not only to confront their enemies, but also to test the adequacy of the programs offered by their genuine friends. It is not nearly enough for those of you here today, and others like you, to know that your people want and need secure jobs, decent housing and medical care at costs within their means, an American standard of pay when they work and an American standard of income when they are too young to work or beyond working age. You here today, and others like you, must come to expect your own leadership to be their own experts with regard to what programs can bring these happy things to fruition, lest you be beguiled wittingly or unwittingly by those who offer aspirin where penicillin is needed, or tell you that our country cannot afford what it really cannot afford to do without, or who are desirous of gaining victories in the war against unemployment and poverty through an excessively easy concensus without the battles essential to such gains.

High Level of Unemployment

"The responsible effort on the economic and social justice front must also be impatient. It must not be taken in by the soothing statements that unemployment at 4.5 per cent is at the lowest levels in eight years. The proper way to state this is that, for eight long years without interruption, we have had unemployment of 4.5 per cent or higher, and about twice as high for the Negro workers, and three or four times as high for teenagers. This is a disgracefully and tragically high level of unemployment for so long. And the situation will not become really much better until your impatience is made manifest along with your sense of responsibility.

"Impatience is also justified because the war against poverty while meritorious in what it is attempting, misses nine-tenths of the poverty problem in its programmatic content, quite aside from the inadequacy of funds devoted to the one-tenth of the problem which the current war against poverty touches upon.

"Your impatience is justified, when combined with responsibility, because too much of the current efforts against unemployment and poverty are based upon the assumption that these evils are due primarily to 'something wrong' with the individual victims, to be cured by 'training and educating them.' Even while training and education are indeed needed, most of the unemployment and poverty in this fabulously productive land is not due to personal deficiencies but to defaults in our economic system and in our assumption of national moral and political responsibility. If we put into motion the kinds of housing and urban renewal programs we need and can afford, and similarly as to health and social security, minimum wages and welfare payments, and resource development including our human resources, the curse of massive poverty and unemployment would vanish as the snows of yesteryear.

Economic Resources Ample

"Our economic resources are ample for these tasks. The crucial factor is moral—whether we are determined to make the big rich society a just and humane society. But mere statement of these values is not enough. We must forge the programs to implement them, and build the political strength to obtain their adoption. This is not a task for one group alone, but for all committed to translating into reality the full promise of America."

ADDRESS — DR. HARVEY COX

Excerpts from a speech delivered August 11, 1965, Birmingham, Alabama

Dr. Cox is Associate Professor of Church and Society, the Divinity School, Harvard University; author of The Secular City, NYC: MacMillan, 1965

"The God Who Changes Things." The Church and the Freedom Movement.

Our theme at the conference this year is the Grand Alliance, how Negroes, labor unions, the churches, community organizations and other groups can continue to work together to win the objectives of the Freedom Movement . . .

My task is to speak about the role the churches can and should and indeed must play in this grand alliance . . .

Does the Church have any business in the Freedom Movement? Many people have suggested that it does not, that preachers and priests should stick with non-controversial topics, should restrict themselves to something vaguely called "the spiritual side," or should confine their participation to words rather than deeds. The same suggestion to stay away from the Freedom Movement has also been heard by laymen.

God's Business

We have all heard that we should be about "God's business" and should stay away from social, economic and political struggle. Therefore we must ask just what is the Church's proper business? It certainly is true that the Church's only task is to be about God's business. It is to discern what God is doing, and to participate in God's action.

The real question we must ask is not first of all whether the Church should be involved in the Freedom Movement, but whether God is at work in the Freedom Movement. Is Freedom God's Business?

If Freedom is not God's business, then the Church has no right to be in it.

But if Freedom is God's business, then the Church has no business staying out.

The proper work of the Church is to find out where God is at work in His world and to pitch in with Him in His work.

The Church has no work except God's work. A Church concerned with its own security, its own prosperity, even its own renewal is not really a Church but a fraud. God's interest is in the renewal and redemption of the world; and this should be the Church's interest too.

But where is God at work today? Our clue comes in the Bible. It tells us not just where God was at work, but where He is working.

The Exodus gives us a central clue as to what God's business is: "Let my people go, that they may worship me." Notice:

a.) God led his people not into inner consolation for outer oppression, not to some purely religious or spiritual freedom, but to economic and political liberty. They were no longer political slaves and economic thralls to the Egyptians.

b.) But political and economic liberation was not an end in itself. "Let my people go that they may worship me", shows that political and economic freedom are but means to a higher end, that man may serve God and love his fellow man.

Restoration of Man

The Freedom Movement does not avoid politics, but it uses politics to achieve an end which goes beyond politics; the restoration of man to his authentic manhood.

Freedom is also the Church's business because it is Jesus' business. ("He has sent me to preach good news to the poor, To proclaim release to the captives . . . to set at liberty those who are oppressed.")

The example of Jesus helps us to keep the Freedom Revolution from deteriorating into a violent reaction. This happened in different ways to the French and Russian revolutions. Jesus helps us to answer the question of Camus, "How can we stop being the victims of the executioners without ourselves becoming the executioners?")

Jesus' vision of the Kingdom of God keeps us from allowing the goals of the Movement to become too narrowly limited.

Even if all racial prejudice, all segregation and bigotry of color completely disappeared tomorrow, there would still be much work with Him.

If all racial prejudice disappeared tomorrow,

. . . we would still face the riddle of automation,

. . . we would still need to come to terms with the threat of nuclear chaos,

. . . we would still have to rebuild our cities of squalor and ugliness.

The church belongs in the midst of the Freedom Revolution, not because it's good sociology but because it's good theology, not because God is sending us into it, but because God is already in it, calling us to join Him there.

Panel Excerpts . . .

TEXT OF DR. KING'S STATEMENT ON VIET NAM

Excerpts of a Speech Delivered by Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. at a Mass Rally, Thursday Evening, August 12, 1965 Birmingham, Alabama

Few events in my lifetime have stirred my conscience and pained my heart as much as the present conflict which is raging in Viet Nam. The day by day reports of villages destroyed and people left homeless raise burdensome questions within my conscience.

This is indeed a complex situation. One on which even the experts are divided. There is no need to place blame, and I certainly do not intend to argue the military or political issues involved. Neither the American people nor the people of North Viet Nam is the enemy. The true enemy is war itself, and people on both sides are trapped in its inexorable destruction. To look back and attempt to place blame is only to enhance the negative psychological atmosphere that fosters war. What is required is a small first step that may establish a new spirit of mutual confidence and respect a step capable of breaking the cycle of mistrust, violence and war.

On the occasion of my receipt of the Nobel Prize for Peace in Oslo, Norway last December, I said:

> "It is as imperative and urgent to put an end to war and violence between nations as it is to put an end to racial injustice."

It is this belief that compels me to speak on this issue, that the conscience of our nation may be aroused to see that war as a means of solving problems is obsolete.

National Passions Rage

So much hangs in the balance of each remote and seemingly insignificant conflict; national passions rage on both sides; reason and understanding are stultified, and violence leads only to more savage violence. Like all Americans, and, indeed, like all the peoples of the world, I pray for the earliest possible peace for the tormented peoples of Viet Nam. My prayer is made all the more fervent by the fearful recognition that the conflict in Viet Nam is pregnant with the risk of an ever-widening war that may imperil the existence of whole continents.

Therefore, I would like to take this opportunity to make an urgent plea for all sides to bring their grievances to the conference table. In order to do this, both sides must go all out to demonstrate their desire for good faith negotiations, and the United States should effect a new diplomatic machinery without giving the impression of appeasement and which would in no way mitigate its national aims, in seriously considering bringing to a halt the bombings in North Viet Nam.

On the other hand, Ho Chi Minh and Chou En-Lai must express unequivocally their desire to alter their position in demanding the unilateral withdrawal of American forces from South Viet Nam.

Creative Solution

I firmly believe that because the situation has become so complex, this might not be possible at this time. However, every effort should be made toward some courageous and creative solution to this potentially catastrophic situation. The American people and our government can find this solution if reason can triumph over pride, and statesmanship conquer condition. I further urge that the United Nations be empowered with the authority to mediate this conflict in negotiations involving all parties, including the National Liberation Front of South Viet Nam.

In his speech at Johns Hopkins University earlier this summer, President Johnson called for programs of technical assistance and area development which would enable the people of South Viet Nam to develop a sturdy, independent economy and sound democratic government. The employment of some of our forces in rebuilding some of the villages which have been destroyed immediately would be a solid indication to the people of Viet Nam that our interest is in the development of Viet Nam and not in its destruction.

These tokens of our good faith are an extremely small price to pay when there is so much at stake in the destruction of men, the cost of materials of war and the damage done to our national image by our continuous involvement in this ambiguous conflict.

EXCERPTS FROM PANEL DISCUSSIONS

ELLA BAKER

"We have to do some hard thinking, studying, and reading . . . You cannot delegate to somebody else the responsibility of being your theoretician. Another thing that has to be understood is that those of us who are here today, and all the people in the nonviolent movement and all the people who want social change in a respectable way, don't represent all of the people who are being oppressed. It must be understood, there are a lot of people who are going to continue to react according to the way they feel as exemplified by the reports out of Los Angeles."

* * *

RANDOLPH BLACKWELL

"We are just as much involved in trying to creatively build and guide the United States as we are in trying to bring about a reconciliation and confrontation in the conscience of the American public. And in the area of reconciliation, we are out front of every other organization in the country."

* * *

RALPH HELSTEIN

"When we talk of a great society let us understand that this requires that all men have a decent standard of living with security. Let us understand further that the resources of this planet, first of all the resources of this nation, must be exploited for the benefit of man and not in the interest of property. Let us understand that our goals are man. We do not exist for the economic system, the economic system exists for us."

* * *

HARRY BOYTE

"The Southern Christian Leadership Conference has a deep and profound commitment to bring about a reconciled society which must and should be recognized by the larger American society. This is the way to get jobs, income, decent housing, adequate medical care and quality integrated education. We are bringing people together in an affirmative relationship about matters of common concern which transcend the discussion of racial differences."

* * *

WALTER FAUNTROY

"Over the past 100 years we have been denied the traditional means by which we may translate our beliefs into political realities. But this does not prevent us from participating in political action, because in a very real sense we have been engaged in what I call the politics of "creative tension." We stand on the threshold of a new era in the fashioning and the translation of our beliefs with respect to civil and human rights into public policy and practice. Now we have access to the traditional means by which we raise the issues and force the candidates to stand on them and vote to translate these issues into public policy and practice."

* * *

PHIL WEIGHTMAN

"There is a different kind of union today. We are interested in the kind of neighborhood you have, the kind of school you have; we are interested in teacher's pay; we are interested in freedom in the community in which you live. Violence, nonviolence and whatever tactics we must use, we are now at the point where we must have a confrontation on a political basis with the people nearest us in the community where we live. The emphasis that has been placed on direct action must now be channeled into community organization, to organize your neighbors using the same tactics that were used in the labor movement to organize 12 to 15 million workers. Organize and educate—very simple education, the bread-and-butter and human issues that are involved in voting."

* * *

HOSEA WILLIAMS

"An active organized political education program should be the first phase of this program and it should prove to the masses of the coalition our need for legislation abolishing right-to-work laws, obtaining a $2.00 minimum wage covering all unprofessional and unskilled jobs, a maximum of fringe benefits for all laboring people, even the farm day laborers, truancy laws that would assure all children the fullest opportunity of obtaining some skilled or professional occupation and to extend to every worker the benefits of social security."

* * *

JAMES BEVEL

"The question is not getting to a governor or getting rid of a governor. What I want to do is to create a condition wherein a man can't become governor or mayor unless he can deal with the question of poverty and unemployment. I don't care who the mayor is. I don't care whether he is Republican, Democrat or Socialist."

334 Auburn Ave., N.E.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303
Telephone 522-1420

Southern Christian Leadership Conference

Martin Luther King Jr., President Ralph Abernathy, Treasurer Andrew J. Young, Executive Director

September 28, 1965

Mrs. Janet C. Shortt
SRC
5 Forsyth Street
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Janet:

In reply to your letter of yesterday, I am enclosing a copy of the Summary of our Ninth Annual Convention.

Please forgive our inefficiency toward this matter. Although, the copies were not ready for distribution until just this week, a reply should have been made. For personnel reasons, we would like to know to whom the correspondence was addressed. As you may know there are many areas in the office that need straightening out.

I talked with Blackwell today, he's having a wonderful time, I don't know about the rest he's supposed to get. He's expected to return on Monday, October 4. Of course he found your letter amusing, as always. You know the laugh!

Will be talking with you.

Sincerely,

Barbara

(Mrs.) Barbara H. Hicks,
Secretary to Mr. Blackwell

BHH

Enclosure - 1.

File

DR. KING'S COMMENTS AT THE CATHEDRAL OF ST. PHILIP, ATLANTA

June 4, 1966

On Saturday afternoon, June 4th, the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., paid a visit to the Cathedral of St. Philip in Atlanta to greet the Rev. Frs. Robert Hunter and Albert Dreisbach, then in their third day of fasting at the Cathedral to protest the use of the diocesan church for the Baccalaureate Services of the Lovett School. Following is a partial transcript of Dr. King's comments to the press at the door of St. Philip's after his conversation with the two priests.

DR. KING: "....This is a most significant witness for the Christian Church and for Christian men. Certainly when evil continues to exist it is the job of the minister, in line with the teachings of Our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, to take a stand... ...this period of fasting and this witness will appeal to the hearts of those who have not yet been moved enough to end the segregation and the complete exclusion of Negroes in a church-related institution. It is quite interesting, I think, to mention that the public schools have had some form of integration for the last four years in Atlanta, and yet we find a church-related school still holding out and refusing to integrate. This is another example of the fact that the Church can be, if it is not careful, the tail-light instead of the headlight in our society; and it would be tragic, indeed, if the Church turns out to be the last bulwark of segregated power."

FR. HUNTER: "I would just like to say that I appreciate Dr. King coming out today, because this points out that this is not just a private thing or family affair.... ...what happens at this Cathedral has effect through the total community. We've also had many Roman Catholic priests and Protestant ministers who have been out to give their support. Dr. King's presence is a symbol that this has community impact and, indeed, national impact."

REPORTER: "Dr. King, you have a personal interest in this, don't you?"

DR. KING: "Yes, I do have a personal interest. In general my interest grows out of my deep ethical concern and my concern to see a relevant church. But, on the other hand my son applied to Lovett School a few years ago and was rejected. And naturally this rejection brought about a personal concern that's still there. This is one of the reasons we are so happy to see committed clergymen taking a stand on this very, very important issue."

REPORTER: "Dr. King, heretofore, you've always had the government, which has the control over the public schools...now how about the parochial schools...what sort of action can you see being taken there? Do you expect to go to the courts or anything?"

DR. KING: "Well, I don't think there is an expected move at this point in the courts. I don't know of any. I think it's going to take action like this...from persons within the Church, and the support that can be gained from persons of good will all over the country, to arouse the conscience of the Trustees of the Lovett School as well as the leaders of the Church in general. I have gone over the list of the names of the Trustees of this institution. It reads almost like a "Who's Who" list of Atlanta....."

THE LOVETT TRUSTEES

H. W. BEERS, JR.
Beers Construction Co.

SIMS BRAY
Lipscomb Ellis Co.
Pres., Piedmont Driving Club

NORRIS BROYLES, JR.
E. F. Hutton & Co.

JAMES M. SIBLEY
King and Spalding

ALEX P. GAINES
Alston, Miller & Gaines

DR. EDWIN D. HARRISON
Ga. Institute of Technology

AUGUSTUS H. STERNE
Trust Co. of Georgia
Vice-Pres., Atlanta Chamber of Commerce

WILLIAM R. BOWDOIN
Trust Co. of Ga.

GILMER A. MacDOUGALD
MacDougald-Warren Co.

VIRGIL A. MILTON
Sears Roebuck and Co.

JACKSON P. DICK, JR.
Courts & Co.

JOHN C. STATON
The Coca-Cola Company

THORNTON KENNEDY
Davidson-Kennedy Co.

VIRGIL JONES
First National Bank

M. E. KILPATRICK
Smith, Kilpatrick, Cody, Rogers & McClatchey

WILLIAM A. McCLAIN
Candler, Cox, McClain & Andrews

J. S. BUDD, JR.

RANKIN M. SMITH
Life Insurance of Ga.
Atlanta Falcons

WARREN GRIFFIN
National Life of Vermont

JAMES E. THOMAS
Alston, Miller & Gaines

Transcription and listing of Trustees prepared by:
THE EPISCOPAL SOCIETY FOR CULTURAL AND RACIAL UNITY

File

NORTH & SOUTH

Southern Christian Leadership Conference Staff News, October, 1967

BLACK IS BEAUTIFUL

AND IT'S SO BEAUTIFUL TO BE BLACK

COPYRIGHT 1967 by S.C.L.C.

PLANS MADE FOR CIVIL DISOBEDIENCE AT AIRLIE CONFERENCE

At Airlie Farm near Warrenton, Virginia, the SCLC Executive Staff, some Board members and advisers met day and night September 13 through 17 to analyze "The Movement" and discuss plans for the coming months.

Board members present included Rev. Joseph Lowery, Chairman; Dr. L. D. Reddick, Historian; Dr. Major Jones, Chaplain; Attorney Chauncey Eskridge, Rev. John Thurston, Rev. Virgil Wood, and Robert Brown. Among the friends and advisers were Cleveland Robinson, Rev. C. T. Vivian, Al Raby, Stanley Levison, Harry Wachtel, Randolph Blackwell, Miss Marian Wright, Ira Sandperl, Miss Joan Baez, and Bernard Lafayette.

Major decisions of the conference will be revealed to the public as plans are implemented, but the entire SCLC staff will meet to discuss these plans in detail at a retreat in November, after the Stars for Freedom fund-raising tour. Staff members will soon be notified as to the date and place.

At this time, the following highlights from the Airlie meeting can be reported in North and South:

Staff: Veteran civil rights worker Bernard Lafayette will become SCLC Program Director, and William A. Rutherford, a businessman who served SCLC last summer, will be General Administrator. Both men will assume their new positions in early December.

Civil Disobedience: SCLC is prepared to lead massive civil disobedience protesting continuing poverty, racism, segregation and militarism. Dr. King has said that serious nonviolent disruption of the functioning of cities may be necessary. He will soon announce a concrete action program.

National Breadbasket: The new nation-wide Operation Breadbasket based in Chicago, is now being organized and implemented under the direction of Rev. Jesse Jackson with the help of Dave Wallace.

The South: Through the Citizenship Education Program, Breadbasket, the Department of Voter Registration and Political Education, and the Office of Affiliates, SCLC will continue operating in many areas. The 1968 elections provide new opportunities for the growing black political power in the South. Breadbasket is seeking new jobs in Northern-based companies which expand to the South. An SCLC-led Atlanta movement is a possibility. Special projects such as the Grenada movement and co-operative economic development programs will continue.

The North: SCLC continues to lead projects in Chicago, Cleveland, and Washington. Many more Northern cities are now involved with SCLC through Breadbasket. Our forthcoming civil disobedience campaign should receive support from a number of Northern cities.

More information on some of these activities appears in other reports in this issue of North and South.

****

BACK TO JAIL FOR MLK

Within a month, Dr. King and seven other ministers will once again be staying in a notorious Birmingham jail. For five days the 1963 Birmingham Movement leaders will serve their sentences for breaking a temporary restraining order against mass marches on Easter Sunday and Good Friday, issued by Birmingham officials that bloody spring four years ago.

Many were brutalized and 3300 were jailed in the SCLC Birmingham Movement against segregated public accomodations, a massive series of protests which lead to the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

Convicted for contempt of court shortly after the arrests were made, the eight ministers have argued their case up through the entire court system until last June, when the Supreme Court decided, five to four, to uphold the local Birmingham decision. On October 9, 1967, the Court refused to reconsider its decision.

The other ministers joining Dr. King in jail will be A. D. King, Ralph D. Abernathy, Wyatt Tee Walker, J. W. Hayes, T. L. Fisher, Fred Shuttlesworth, and John Porter. Who knows, perhaps we'll soon be receiving a second LETTER FROM THE BIRMINGHAM JAIL.

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE CLEVELAND STAFF: LOTS OF ACTION, NO RIOTS

Carl Stokes, 40-year-old Negro Ohio State Representative won the Democratic nomination for Mayor of Cleveland in the October 3rd primary, defeating incumbent Mayor Ralph S. Locher in what is described as "the biggest political upset this city has seen in 26 years." And, we are happy to report, our capable staff of A. R. Sampson, James Orange, Mike Bibler, E. Randel Osburn, and Willie Tabb, was quite instrumental in the upset.

The whole story begins with an invitation extended by the United Pastors Association to Dr. King--an invitation to work in the Cleveland ghetto, where summer riots were predicted, and black groups openly divided. SCLC helped form a coalition ranging from Black Nationalists to black businessmen. A united action program attacked the complex of problems which spread malignantly in large northern cities (and Cleveland makes the top charts in terms of size).

The SCLC staff arrived on June 1, and began an all-out voter registration drive ending on August 23, and resulting in over 20,000 new Negro voters. September was devoted to voter education, the necessary follow-up to a registration campaign. Then, in October, Stokes, supported by SCLC's get-out-the-vote drive and Dr. King personally (in addition to the NAACP, CORE, and the Stokes for Mayor group), polled over 110,000 votes. He received a significant 14% of the white vote, and was assured victory by a massive Negro turn-out. If, as expected, Mr. Stokes wins the general election in November, he'll be the first Negro Mayor of one of the nation's largest cities.

After a short, "cool" summer, Cleveland's ghetto areas are more involved in political, economic and social programs, and a Negro man has won the political support of the National Democratic Party, the Ohio Democratic machine, and organized labor.

But that's not all that's been happening . . . Breadbasket, Cleveland style, won a major victory over the Sealtest company, and is now negotiating with the Pick-n-Pay supermarket chain for 300 jobs. James Orange has been working on tenant unions, organizing those good old rent strikes, and much post-election effort will center on the development of a huge co-operative supermarket which should gross over 2 million dollars for its participants in the Gardern Valley Housing Project.

****

GRENADA

Our Grenada staff, headed by Leon Hall and R. B. Cottonreader, with the help of Major Wright, has been working on school desegregation and 105 children are now in previously all-white schools. Also connected with the school situation is an attempt to desegregate faculties, based, as is the student desegregation, on an August 22nd court order. The Grenada County Freedom Movement is also working on establishing low rent housing projects and Negro business development (six previously white stores are now Negro owned and run). Along with Rev. B. J. Cameron, acting president of the Grenada affiliate, the staff has also been busy setting up welfare committees to help more people exercise their welfare rights, and has assisted in the establishment of a migrant farm workers program with over 60 peopled involved.

****

(Atlanta Movement Continued)

Since then, protests have mounted steadily including daily picketing, mass meetings, and continued sit-ins, which recently lead to a second series of arrests, this time of twenty Morehouse College students.

Tension in the black community is high, and Hosea has brought in field staff from all over to work with the Atlanta community leaders on the problem. Dr. King was asked to "bring SCLC to Atlanta and launch an all-out program" but at the moment is simply lending them the use of some staff and office facilities.

The question now hinges on whether the community-at-large is "together" enough for unified action as, for example, a massive school boycott. . . Field staff presently involved are: J. T. Johnson, Big Lester Hankerson, Phil Goobler, Robert Sims, James Gibson, Sugar Man. . . also, the office people are helping. . . and, Miss Jean Jackson, long-time field staffer, was among those arrested at the initial sit-in -- there's a first time for us all!

INSIDE AGITATORS

Albert Turner and "our men from SWAFCA" have been carrying on that very quiet but extremely important work known as grass-roots organizing, and no one own there even dares to call them "outside agitators."

The South West Alabama Farm Co-operative Association, organized in January, 1967, has been instrumental in a 30% overall income increase for its members as a result of $150,000 worth of sales in cucumbers, okra, and peas. . . Now that the season is over, though, the major effort will be in recruiting for next year. . . SWAFCA has already obtained 70 additional acres for next year's crops.

Meantime, this season's Purple Knucklehead (what city folk know as green peas) crop was light due to a rainy fall, but good news followed shortly in two Alabama counties, where the first food stamp programs have been initiated (Orville Freeman was personally prodded by SWAFCA) . . . Also, three out of five members from Terry County were elected to the Agricultural Stabilization Committee, due to SWAFCA support. . . Along with Albert, Ben Owens has been working with the organization, but is temporarily in Birmingham, helping out with the Tommy Wrenn election.

****

NOTE: Any teacher may receive up to 100 free copies of a reprint of the first chapter of Dr. King's new book, WHERE DO WE GO FROM HERE? The reprint is available from the Sidney Hillman Foundation, Reprint Department, 15 Union Square, New York, New York 10003.

CHICAGO

The West Side Chicago staff, administered by Stony Cooks, worked for two and one half months this summer with Bob Green on an adult education project geared at training the unemployed of the Lawndale area. Classes were held five days a week, a total of 450 adults attended, and the results added up to 134 people receiving jobs, 43 continuing work in other educational programs and countless numbers obtaining jobs for themselves. The success can be measured by the fact that the Daley political machine went to great lengths to get federal funds cut and prevent the program's continuation. Staff members involved were Stony, assistant director of the program, Debra Frankle, program assistant, Herman Jenkins, Meredith Gilbert, Billy Hollins, and Helen Lattimore. Non-SCLC loyal helpers included Dave Jehnsen of the West Side Christian Parish and Jo Freeman who helped out by researching.

Now that the program has ended, activity is slower, but still ongoing because, as it turns out, almost all the West Side staff moonlighted and were involved with other projects throughout the summer. Meredith is now continuing his work on housing rehabilitation with the Kate Maremont Foundation in an attempt to turn 600 units into condominiums. Herman is coordinating staff for the East Garfield Park Community Union. Billy works with the Freedom Development Corporation, a four million dollar SCLC rehabilitation program, credited by the government. Helen is helping Meredith out.

Stony Back From Czechoslovakia

Stony, whose phones are now being tapped took off with 41 Americans to Czechoslovakia on September 3 and returned three weeks later with a great many things to say about the Vietnam revolution and American intervention. He spent day and night conferring with representatives of the National Liberation Front (a revolutionary South Vietnamese group opposed to the present government) and the Democratic Republic of Vietnam (Ho Chi Minh's North Vietnamese Government). One important thing he learned from the Vietnamese is that each revolution should be a genuine experience for its own people--lessons are to be learned from other revolutions but, if, for example, the black man wishes to revolutionize America, he must search within himself and his own community for a way meaningful to black Americans. Certainly food for thought.

THE ATLANTA FREEDOM MOVEMENT

The newest fight which we're involved in happens to be right here at home-base, Atlanta. During the summer, community leaders including NAACP people and many other local organizations, agreed to coalesce to fight the disgusting public school situation. The racist Atlanta school system somehow arranges for most black children to be on double session, while most white children aren't.

Eventually, a series of demands were made to the school board, casually ignored, and a group of ten, including Rev. J. C. Ward, Rev. J. E. Boone, Rev. Howard Creecy (President of the Atlanta SCLC Affiliate), and James Gibson were arrested for staging a sit-in at the superintendent's office.

(Continued on next page)

A FULLER BREADBASKET

Breadbasket is like one of those whiz-kids that gets straight A's on report cards each and every semester--successes in both North and South have continued to mount all summer, but the locus of activity has recently shifted to the North as symbolized by the July Chicago conference at which time the program was made nation-wide.

Since then, with Jesse Jackson as Director of both the national and Chicago programs, and Dave Wallace as Administrator of the two, nine new Northern cities are being invaded and negotiation is under way with the Continental Bread Company which distributes bread in four of these target areas--they might as well give up. Some of the new cities involved are Cincinnati, Milwaukee, Indianapolis, San Francisco, Houston, and of all places, good old Brooklyn, New York, birthplace of the Dodgers.

At Southern headquarters, most of the BB ministers, including Fred Bennette, Joseph Boone, and J. C. Ward, are working in the "Atlanta Movement." In battling the school system, the ministers are not at all surprised that the big business leaders they used to deal with and the Atlanta power structure, are, as they say, one and the same.

CEP KEEPS THE FAITH, BABY

The big CEP news is that citizenship work is going ahead full-blast under the direction of Dorothy Cotton and Septima Clark, with Carl Farris as Field Supervisor, Pamela Gomez (who has left the Georgia Voter's League to be CEP Secretary), and a new and sparkling addition, Harriett Adams, who is replacing long-time staffer Erma Burton (who is now librarian at Paul Quinn College in Waco, Texas), and this is beginning to sound like Hedda Hopper. . .

Carl and Dorothy have just returned from a week long trip through Mississippi where they strengthened prior contacts, made new ones, and "dug the scene" in such places as Clarksdale, Marks, Grenada, and Hattiesburg. . . Mew Soong-Li, who has been an adviser for the anti-poverty program in Wilcox County for about a year now, is presently with Dorothy in Washington talking to anti-poverty people (and they're not poor!). Carl is about to begin a voter registration drive in Hancock County, Georgia. . . The last CEP workshop was a "refresher", held in Frogmore from October 20-22, with 75 people in attendance.

AFFILIATES

According to Rev. T. Y. Rogers, who's been travelling the affiliate circuit, the main affiliate ventures have been in Alabama. Tommy Wrenn, once an SCLC staffer, along with the Alabama Christian Movement for Human Rights (headquarters in Birmingham), has been busy launching a campaign for a city council position. In the recent election, out of 25 candidates, Tommy ranked in the top ten, polling 11,800 votes. The runoff is scheduled for October 31.

The other Alabama news is that a Sumter County affiliate has been chartered with headquarters in North Sumter. This organization has been operating poverty programs under a $500,000 grant from OEO and now a new grant is being sought to take care of farmers who have been de-housed because they registered to vote.

State affiliate meetings are scheduled for Alabama in November; South Carolina in December; Virginia in January; and North Carolina in February.

TWO MEN JOIN EXECUTIVE STAFF

It is finally definite about Bill Rutherford and Bernard Lafayette, and as a result, a major change in the Executive Staff is occurring. As of the beginning of December, Bill Rutherford will be SCLC's General Administrator and Bernard Lafayette will become its Program Director.

Bill, a native of Chicago's South Side, went to Europe some years ago as a jounalist, and, as they say, just stayed and stayed. He presently owns a successful advertising and public relations firm in Switzerland, his residence. Wishing to lend his services and experience to the Movement in any way possible, he contacted Dr. King personally (and you know how hard that is to do) which resulted in his spending most of the summer in Atlanta instilling a bit of order into the convention chaos. He returned to Zurich in August, only to prepare for his next and longer leave of absence. And, might we add, Bill is a charming but EFFICIENT businessman, so be prepared.

Bernard Lafayette, whom most of us know personally already, has been an integral part of the movement from its very beginnings, and has experienced almost every type of workfrom his early SNCC days to the American Friends Service Committee and even government sponsored projects (without any compromise on his part naturally). Soon, more detailed accounts of both men will be available.

OFFICERS AND BOARD

Important changes in the SCLC Board of Directors were made at the semi-annual Board meeting during the recent Tenth Anniversary Convention.

Several new postions were created and filled. Rev. Joseph E. Lowery of Birmingham, formerly Second Vice President, is now SCLC's first Chairman of the Board. Other members filling new offices are Rev. T. E. Kilgore of Los Angeles, Parliamentarian; Mrs. Marian Bruce Logan of New York, Assistant Secretary; and Jesse Hill of Atlanta, Financial Secretary. Attorney Chauncey Eskridge of Chicago is a new Board member and also is one of our two General Counsels.

Rev. Sam Williams of Atlanta moved from Third to Second Vice President, Rev. Curtis Harris of Hopewell, Virginia, from Fourth to Third Vice President, and Board member Rev. D. E. King of Chicago became Fourth Vice President.

Officers continuing in the same positions are Dr. King Jr., President; Rev. Ralph Abernathy, Vice President At-Large and Treasurer; Rev. C. K. Steele of Tallahassee, First Vice President; Rev. Fred Shuttlesworth of Cincinnati, Secretary; Dr. L. D. Reddick of Philadelphia, Historian; Dr. Major Jones of Chattanooga, Chaplain; and Attorney I. M. Augustine of New Orleans, General Counsel.

New members of the Board are Robert Brown, High Point, N. C.; Mrs. Johnnie Carr, Montgomery; Rev. Stroy Freeman, Chicago; Rev. J. D. Grier, Atlanta; Cirilo McSween, Chicago; Rev. Sandy Ray, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Rev. Milton Reid, Norfolk; Rev. Edgar Thomas, South Orange, N. J.; and Dr. Claude Young, Detroit.

****

PERSONALITIES

Well, it seems that Brigido Cabe pronounced (Cobay) has had a productive summer in more ways than one; he's not only rejoined the staff (in the P. R. Department), and moved to a new house, but he's also managed to break his leg in a motorcycle accident and have a beautiful baby boy, Ian (with the help of his pretty, petite wife Vera who's another cool Selma chick). . . And Brig is replacing Harkey Klinefelter, who, after long and dedicated service to SCLC, is finally returning to Yale Divinity School. Harkey's mate, Annelies, Dutch to her very heart, predicts, though, that Harkey'll only last out one or two lectures before he begins unscrewing and reorganizing the desk he's sitting at. Did you ever have the privilege of having Harkey explain one of the office machines to you? And really now, all of them have broken down since his departure. . . and that's not all who's leaving. . . the call of the wild is whisking Gloria Fraction, Andy's secretary, back to her home-town Chicago, to get married of all things. She and Joe Ingraham will continue to live in Chicago, and Gloria won't be totally out of touch because she'll be Chauncey Eskridge's secretary (Chauncey is a Board member and General Counsel to SCLC). . . Erma Burton, who was always fun to be with, is going to try her best to jazz up the Paul Quinn College Library, and if anyone can, it's Erma. . . We're also sorry that Debbie Frankle is no longer with us. She's presently living it up in Frisco, but is returning to Chicago eventually to settle down at a new job. . . Newness seems to come in large doses though, and Carl Farris is beaming these days ever since marrying Linda Johnson. . . Henry Brownlee is beaming too, his art work is selling, and the main office has become the Brownlee museum, with his handiwork imprinting every wall . . . Frances Sims, an incredibly efficient secretary, is replacing Gloria as Andy's aide, but we'll miss the mighty G. F. anyway. . . Ben Clarke, digging the Motown sound, is in Detroit on a year's leave of absence, working for ESVID (try and figure that one out). . . Jean Billingslea, responsible for this summer's "Crusaders," is living with Ann Nesbitt, and both are teachers in black schools just outside of Atlanta, and their children are very lucky indeed. . Walter Fauntroy, whom we always vaguely suspected, has truly become an agent. LBJ has appointed him Vice-Chairman of the City Council of Washington, D. C., and although we'll never confide in him again, our heartiest congratulations. . . Ben Mack is the first militant to be on the South Carolina Advisory Board to the United States Commission on Civil Rights. Sock it to them, Ben. . . The queen of the office, Lillie Hunter, friend and mother to us all, is out for a month due to a minor operation, but we hear she's doing fine. . . And while we're on royal subjects, the Kings (the whole family) are going to be on national TV on October 26--it's ABC's "Good Company" program, at 10 p.m. And they even interviewed Bunny (3 years old) who answered all the questions, but the taping was mixed up so they had to ask her the same things all over, and it must have annoyed her, all that inefficiency, cause she clammed up for a moment the second time around. . . Also, it seems that Coretta King and Dora McDonald have just led the Atlanta Committee for Cultural Opportunity to a victory in the group's first battle. It seems that the audiences at the Metropolitan Opera's season in Atlanta have always been very pale--no Negroes could get season tickets, Negro college students didn't get blocks of seats like the white colleges do, and it was very hard for anyone to get a ticket to a single performance. The Atlanta group put pressure on the Met in N. Y. and the Mayor of Atlanta. The Mayor got the message, and the Atlanta Negro community, including college students, are now assured of a satisfactory number of tickets. . . Prue Robertson, former field staffer and later Mrs. King's secretary, has returned to college in New Haven, Conn., where she is very active in theatre. . . And Melzenia (cookie) Cook has also joined the "back to school " movement. She's now a drop-in (at Georgia State Night School). . . The Freedom House has died, the bulldozers have left what looks like an earthquake in its place. One of those urban removal jobs, this time a super-duper highway. Ah, those old days and the fights and fun and work and we'll never love another old house the same way. . . As an extra special announcement, the P. R. office has asked us to issue the following proclamation: Be it known, that the next time Hosea sends someone to jail in Atlanta, he is to leave the P. R. staff intact and send his own secretary (really his boss) Terry Randolph, for otherwise we'll see to it that Mr. Williams' life is as difficult as getting a camel through the eye of a needle. . .and that brings us to the final item of utter silliness which is, that two feminine additions have been made to the main office staff: Mary Ann Williams, T. Y. Roger's secretary, pretty as a picture and smart as a whip, they say, and Jessica Holland, on the P. R. staff, who has been dubbed by Andy Young, "our hippy philosopher in residence."

****

Two very tragic deaths should not escape our attention. Ruby Robinson, age 25, has died, and her funeral was held at the West Mitchell Methodist Church in Atlanta on October 14. A fellow fighter for what we all want so desperately, she worked with SNCC from its very inception, and in 1966 was its Executive Secretary. We strongly feel our loss in her death, and extend warm sympathies to her husband Clifford and their two-year-old son. (Mr. Robinson is living in Atlanta, 40 Lynhurst Drive) . . . And, if it is true about Che, fighters for freedom all over the world will mourn his body, seek his spirit.

****

$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$

Harry Belafonte, in his usual gracious fashion, is producing a concert series to raise some mighty dollars for SCLC. And, as usual, he'll be drawing big crowds in the seven cities on the tour, with the extra added attraction of appearances by Dr. King, Aretha Franklin, Joan Baez, Sammy Davis, Sidney Poitier, and others. Carole Hoover, the series coordinator, is once again getting about two hours sleep a night during the tour.
The schedule:

October 15 -- San Francisco

17 -- Houston

20 -- Chicago

21 -- Cleveland

23 -- Washington

25 -- Philadelphia

27 -- Boston

WHO'S WHO IN SCLC

"LITTLE DYNAMITE"

Be you Stokely Carmichael or Lynda Bird Johnson, you'll always be greeted by an attractive, hip-looking cat named Leon, with a nerve-shattering hello of "Peace, Brother!" And, to be frank, this twenty year old "little dynamite," as he is frequently called, has scared off not a few innocent bystanders with his tough, smart, and quick way of doing things. But that's only until you get to know him better, for actually, Leon Hall is one of those uncanny mixtures of young, militant impatience coupled with a mature sense of responsibility and perseverance.

Leon has been on the SCLC staff for 2 1/2 years now, but was involved with the movement since high school days, when he worked for SNCC (1963) as a community organizer. In 1964, he officially joined the SCLC staff and established an M.I.A. student affiliate composed of 1700 high school students. Working with James Bevel and James Orange, he managed to visit the Montgomery jails nine times and was beaten on a few occasions. Sensing Leon's appeal to students, Hosea Williams sent him north in 1965 to recruit college students for the SCOPE project, and with SCOPE that summer he worked the eastern seaboard, so to speak, travelling between the Carolinas and Virginia.

But Leon's talents are in no way restricted to the younger generation. As assistant project director in Crawfordsville, Georgia, and then Greenville, Alabama, he was in constant contact with the local "power structure."

At the beginning of '66 Leon worked with Hosea on voter registration in Birmingham, and then directed the Bessemer, Alabama project. Since July '66, Leon has settled (as much as possible) in Grenada, Mississippi as the project director. Settling for him, though, means being called away every few months to assist in a difficult situation, so that throughout this last year he has commuted between Chicago, Louisville, Atlanta (where he was executive director of CODCO) and Grenada.

Also talented in logistics and planning, Leon was on the spot and working in both the Meredith and Selma to Montgomery marches. No comment need be made on his flexibility.

With a record like his, Leon Hall has a right to comment on the "state of things" and let it never be said that he's the silent type. His feelings about SCLC are mixed, as is his personality. He feels that SCLC is one of the few civil rights groups left which attempts to offer its people any real "Black Power," because he interprets Black Power as a demand for greater black participation on the political, economic, and social fronts via constructive protest and ACTION PROGRAMS. He downs the slogan, though, when not backed up with responsible programs.

There's little else to say about Leon--you just have to know what a Leon is. Perhaps just a few miscellaneous thoughts: It seems that wherever he has been some cracker has said, "better watch out for that little nigger, he sure can talk." It also seems, if the grapevine is still accurate, that there are girls straight across the south, who've been futiley trying to hook him for years now.

****

WHO'S WHO IN SCLC

COTTONREADER AND THE CHINABERRY TREE

Once upon a time, in Greenville, Alabama, there grew a lovely old Chinaberry tree.

Into Greenville one day in 1965, came R. B. Cottonreader, Jr., of SCLC. He wanted to start a voting-rights movement, but he was not welcome at first.

Cottonreader (almost no one calls him R. B.) began by organizing a mass meeting. It was a dangerous time in Greenville, and ten ministers said their churches were not available for the meeting. Finally, one preacher offered his church, but by meeting time that night, he had a change of heart and the freedom fighters were locked out.

A little boy told Cottonreader of a small house with a light on the porch. Cottonreader led a march to the house. There, he spoke from the lighted porch to the mass meeting which assembled under the Chinaberry tree on the front lawn. Then 350 people had a mass march from the tree.

As the Greenville movement grew, outside leaders, including SCLC's Andy Young and Al Sampson, came to speak at the tree and lead marches from it. The tree became the rallying point and symbol of freedom.

That was the year of Selma, when dozens of movements like the one in Greenville compelled Congress to pass the Voting Rights Act.

R. B. Cottonreader went on to work on many projects for SCLC -- Demopolis, Uniontown, Marion and Barber County, Alabama. Today he is in Grenada.

Cottonreader is one staff member who came to SCLC with experience. He arrived in the South in 1965 after working for CORE in San Francisco. Ask him how many times he's been jailed in his work, and he'll laugh and say, "I don't really know." Has he ever been beaten? "Many times."

Cottonreader was born in Dallas, Texas, and raised and educated in San Francisco. At 35, he is one of the old men in the movement. Perhaps his spiritual preparation for his present work came from his four years in a monastery.

And what ever happened to the Chinaberry tree? Well, the Greenville authorities wanted to kill the movement by killing the tree. The white landlord evicted his Negro tenants from the little house, and Greenville policemen cut down the tree and dug out its roots. But the movement lived on, because the spirit of that Chinaberry tree could not be killed.

****

THE FIELD FOUNDATION, INC.
250 Park Avenue, New York, N.Y.

~~BA~~ GB
Tik

STATEMENT ON THE DEATH OF DR. MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR.

Seven years ago, the Field Foundation began its working association with Martin Luther King, Jr. and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. Even before then we had come to believe in this gentle yet powerful man.

As at other times of national shame and self-despair, what is at issue now is how well we as a nation shall respond morally and politically. On the day of Dr. King's assassination, Congress was once again voting against the poor, whose lives and hopes he implored us to see and do justice toward. In words he, himself, once used on another terrible occasion, "this must never happen again".

We know how pitifully inadequate on this occasion is a gift of money, yet what each person or organization should do is what can most constructively be done with his or its distinctive resources. The Field Foundation has long supported, to the best of its wisdom, the cause of civil rights and the cause of the disadvantaged. We pledge now that we shall continue to do that as long as these dreadful conditions or our resources last. As an earnest of that renewed resolve, we will contribute within the next few days $1 million toward the civil rights struggle in the South. These funds are being distributed among a few organizations which in purpose and method represent Dr. King's own constant and beautiful loyalty to the ideal of a beloved community, united in and by justice, non-violence, and love.

These funds, which shall come from capital, will be in addition to the Foundation's planned level of giving for this year. Notifications have gone out and been received by the grantees, and any further announcement there may be will come, in accordance with our usual practice, from them.

We hope and pray that there shall be many who by service and by money will want to renew their dedication to the cause of a humane and Godly society, for which our friend Martin gave his life.

The ugly scars of racism and poverty will not be eliminated in this country until the people through Congress wills this be done. Concerned citizens and voluntary groups can, however, tax themselves, and we urge that they do so until Congress can be persuaded to do its duty in the name of us all. We shall do that as individuals as well as a foundation. We urge that others join in this demonstration that private America is awake, if Congress is not.

Ruth P. Field
Chairman

Morris B. Abram
President

Leslie W. Dunbar
Executive Director

April 5, 1968

3400 Spreading Oak Drive, S. W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30311
April 8, 1968

Mr. Paul Hemphill
The Atlanta Journal
10 Forsyth Street, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Mr. Hemphill:

After reading your column on Sunday about Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., I could not help but be touched by the things you said, particularly those concerning your five-year-old daughter, Lisa.

You see, I also have a five-year-old daughter named Jacquenette, but there the similarity between the two little girls end. My little girl is Negro.

Every Negro parent dreads the day when a child must become aware of what it means to be black. It means, in a sense, that this awareness marks the end of childhood. For Jacquenette, it came one sunny Sunday afternoon in her backyard when two white children between the ages of 10 and 12 began to throw objects at her, and tell her that she was dirty and smelled bad because she is Negro. I had to look at my child with her big, watery eyes questioning and looking to me for guidance and then do what every Negro parent has had to do before me: explain white racism.

When news of Dr. King's death began filling our home through the TV news specials and our eyes filled with tears, our five-year-old knew why we grieved. She listened, heard, understood, and silently grieved along with us, no questions asked.

With your background, you changed. I can only hope that the children who attacked my little girl and the many others like them will change, too. If not, God help us all.

Very truly yours,

Janet C. Shortt

(Mrs.) Janet C. Shortt

PAUL HEMPHILL

'Why Did He Die?'

The best way to get into this is to tell you what happened at our place Thursday night when the news came over the television set. For nearly an hour, after hearing that Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., had been shot in Memphis, I had been on the telephone to friends there and in Atlanta to find out how things stood and to see about getting myself to Memphis. While I was waiting for a call to be returned, my wife and 5-year-old daughter, Lisa, came into the room. Lisa was sitting on my lap when the phone rang and my wife answered. She cupped her hand over the receiver and said it was her sister calling. "He died," my wife said.

HEMPHILL

"Who died, Daddy?" said Lisa. "Aunt Liz's husband?"

"No honey," I told her. "Dr. Martin Luther King."

"Do you go to him when you're sick?"

They do not understand at that age, of course. Around our place we do not use the word "Negro." Besides, when you are white and live 12 miles out on the north side of this town the only black people your children see are people like J. W., the man who looks after the apartments. It was very awkward.

"You know the people who have black skin?" I said.

"J. W. has black skin," my daughter said.

"Yes. People like J. W. Well, Dr. King tried to help people like J. W."

"Did he have black skin, too?"

"Yes. He helped them, and he was a good man."

Then my daughter said, "Why did he die, Daddy?"

• A Long Way

It is a good thing I did not go to Memphis. I probably would have flubbed the story just like I blew Thursday night and all day Friday. Thursday night I started making notes and planning to go on downtown and talk to Negro people for a column on how they were reacting, but I kept watching them run film clips of Dr. King's big moments ("Mine eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Lord," he had said Wednesday night in Memphis, those huge eyes flashing with the determination that always drove the poor whites crazy) and by midnight I was no longer a newsman. I was a 32-year-old white Southerner trying to piece together some things I have seen in a relatively short lifetime.

Paul Hemphill's column appears daily in The Atlanta Journal

We grew up in Birmingham, white Anglo-Saxon Protestants in a lower middle-class white neighborhood. As a child I was looked after to some extent by a Negro "mammy" named Louvenia, who looked like Aunt Jemimah and was almost a member of the family. My old man, a good man, has driven a truck most of his life. Over the hill, through a patch of scraggly pines, was a shoddy collection of frame houses we called "Niggertown." We used to have rock battles with the boys from Niggertown, and one day one of our guys plugged one of theirs in the leg with a pump gun and we thought it was funny as hell. I never questioned why Louvenia did not eat with us, or why the Negroes always meekly rode in the

"J. W. has black skin," my daughter said.

"Yes. People like J. W. Well, Dr. King tried to help people like J. W."

"Did he have black skin, too?"

"Yes. He helped them, and he was a good man."

Then my daughter said, "Why did he die, Daddy?"

• A Long Way

It is a good thing I did not go to Memphis. I probably would have flubbed the story just like I blew Thursday night and all day Friday. Thursday night I started making notes and planning to go on downtown and talk to Negro people for a column on how they were reacting, but I kept watching them run film clips of Dr. King's big moments ("Mine eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Lord," he had said Wednesday night in Memphis, those huge eyes flashing with the determination that always drove the poor whites crazy) and by midnight I was no longer a newsman. I was a 32-year-old white Southerner trying to piece together some things I have seen in a relatively short lifetime.

Paul Hemphill's column appears daily in The Atlanta Journal

We grew up in Birmingham, white Anglo-Saxon Protestants in a lower middle-class white neighborhood. As a child I was looked after to some extent by a Negro "mammy" named Louvenia, who looked like Aunt Jemimah and was almost a member of the family. My old man, a good man, has driven a truck most of his life. Over the hill, through a patch of scraggly pines, was a shoddy collection of frame houses we called "Niggertown." We used to have rock battles with the boys from Niggertown, and one day one of our guys plugged one of theirs in the leg with a pump gun and we thought it was funny as hell. I never questioned why Louvenia did not eat with us, or why the Negroes always meekly rode in the back of the Birmingham buses, or why you never saw any of them shopping or eating in the same places we did downtown. We did not say Negro around our house, either. We said "nigger."

• There He Was

With this background I should have the same view of the Negro as my parents, who wrote last week to say they were moving out of the house where I was raised because "the Negroes are taking over." I was 18 before I ever talked man-to-man with a Negro, a baseball teammate in a small town in Kansas, but since then there has been a century of progress in relations between black men and white men. Ten years ago I would not have believed Negroes in Birmingham would be sitting anywhere on a bus they want to, or that Negro faces on Southern college campuses would be common, or that blacks and whites would be eating together at Woolworth's. Or that one of the stars of country music, the last outpost of the WASP, would be a black man.

All of this, of course, is about Martin Luther King. I do not believe I realized just how far we have come in our understanding, between blacks and whites, until the television screen was filled with him and his works Thursday and Friday. There he was in Birmingham and Selma and Atlanta and Chicago and, yes, in Stockholm for the Nobel Peace Prize. There he was, showing the Negro how to pull himself up with pride and self-respect; being a much bigger man than the whites like Bull Connor and George Wallace who opposed him. If there is any one reason why those of my generation are going to solve a crisis our parents could not, that reason will be Martin Luther King. He not only talked about the color of a man's skin being unimportant, he showed us.

furniture cleaning

Furniture fingerprinted? Rich's Servicemaster will have it spanking clean and fresh as new efficiently and inexpensively.

Let Rich's do it the Servicemaster way! For details, call 522-4636, ext. 8418.

RICH'S

LIFE COLOR

the finest in natural, direct-color portraiture

. . . let us photograph you today!

Prices start at $20

Rich's Photo Reflex, Sixth Floor, Store for Fashion; also Lenox Square, Greenbriar

RICH'S

P. A.
N. W.
B. A.
P. W.

AMERICAN FRIENDS SERVICE COMMITTEE INC.

1160 North Fifteenth Street, Philadelphia, Pa. 19102 Phone 215-563-9372

GILBERT F. WHITE
Chairman
HENRY J. CADBURY
Honorary Chairman
COLIN W. BELL
Executive Secretary

April 22, 1968
(dictated 4/18/68)

John Lewis
Southern Reginnal Council, Inc.
5 Forsythe St. NW
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear John:

This is just a brief note at this sad time to wish you well and to tell you how much I appreciated SRC's statement on the death of Dr. King. Clearly, your statement was the best thing I have seen.

I had hoped to see you in New York before you got away, but obviously did not. At this time I have no specific plans to be in Atlanta but I do hppe to be able to see you again sometime.

Sincerely,

Arthur M. Dye
mj

Arthur M. Dye, Jr.

AMD;mj

AFSC
50
FIFTY YEARS OF QUAKER SERVICE
1917-1967

Co-Chairmen of the Center
Coretta Scott King
Benjamin Mays

Library Advisory Council
Ralph Abernathy
Harry Belafonte
Randolph Blackwell
Horace Mann Bond
Julian Bond
John Hope Franklin Miles Jackson
Slater King
C. Eric Lincoln
John D. Maguire, Chairman
Albert E. Manley
L. D. Reddick
James Tanis
Marian Wright
Andrew Young

Project Director
Vincent Harding

THE MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR. LIBRARY PROJECT

First Element of the Martin Luther King, Jr. Memorial Center

671 Beckwith Street S.W., Atlanta, Georgia 30314 (404) 523-8819

November 5, 1968

BSM ✓
~~GB~~
SM ✓
PA ✓
Ret PW

Mr. Pat Watters
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsythe Street, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Mr. Watters:

My visit to the Southern Regional Council last Friday morning was informative and profitable. I was considerably enlightened as to the organization of clippings and pamphlets. The subject heading and category lists which I received have given me a much better idea of how to set up our files here. I will be making use of the serial and newspaper lists, and of course will be ordering from your publications. I could go on and on elaborating on the various ways in which I was helped. Instead I'll ask that you relay my sincerest gratitude to Mrs. Morgan, Mrs. Bartley, and Mrs. Morris. Also offer my congratulations to your staff for efficient and impressive work.

I look forward to communicating with you in the future and only hope that at some time I can be a fraction as helpful to you as you have been to me.

Sincerely,

Joyce Lawrence

(Mrs.) Joyce Lawrence
Librarian

JL/mlj

THE READER'S DIGEST
200 Park Avenue • New York, N.Y. 10017
Telephone: 972-4000

May 28, 1969

Mr. Paul Anthony
Southern Regional Council
5 Forsyth Street, NW
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Mr. Anthony:

The enclosed outline has been submitted to us in the hope of persuading us to do an article on the organization. However, it is a little difficult for us from this distance to assess their accomplishments.

Are you by any chance well enough acquainted with the work of The Citizenship Education Program to give us an off-the-record assessment of their achievements? It does, indeed, sound worthy, but could you tell us if the results have been meaningful? If so, I would be most grateful if you would call me collect (215-972-3743, direct dial) at your earliest convenience.

Thank you very much for any assistance you can give us.

Sincerely,

Greta Jones

Greta Jones

from Jean Vanden Heuvel
787-9375
135 Central Park West
9/12

THE CITIZENSHIP EDUCATION PROGRAM:

CHALLENGE TO THE "NEW EDUCATION"

by Dorothy Cotton (Director of S.C.L.C.'s Citizenship Education Program)

If "Education is the concept of removing the prohibitions from the minds of people so they can act out their true nature" it is imperative that attention be given to the millions who see themselves and are seen as being "beyond school age." Among these are ten million functionally illiterate adults. They are black and white. These members of our society cannot be left to while away their lives in despair, useless pursuits or blind lashing out at an enemy they cannot define. They cannot be written off as irrelevant "non-persons" influencing nothing. Indeed, they do influence--if only through the legacy of low aspiration passed on to their offspring. As we in this decade speak of meaningful social change and restructuring our value system, we must be mindful of the need to remove remaining prohibitions and inhibitions so that those of us on the bottom can act out our own true nature in meaningful community.

Such an educational innovation occurred eleven years ago through Myles Horton's Highlander Folk School with Septima P. Clark and Esau Jenkins at the helm. They realized that an enormously large segment of our people suffered injustices and indignities because they were not motivated to challenge the system that perpetrated the crime of subjugation upon them. Many did not understand the system nor that their deprivation was indeed systematized. The Citizenship Education Program (CEP) now under the auspices of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, and the United Church Board for Homeland Ministries seeks to help people realize that they have within themselves the stuff it takes to bring about a new order.

Who are these people? Where do they come from? They are the ones who have been shut out of the mainstream of the life of the country where they were born--shut out through legal and extra-legal means politically, socially, economically, and educationally. There is a direct correlation between the economic and educational level and the hope-aspiration level of most of the adults reached through this effort. In this, the richest country in the world, there are 187 counties where the annual per capita income is under $750. Of these, 182 are in the southern and border states. Within this area there are numerous counties where three fourths of the occupied dwellings are still without flush toilets, and numerous counties have no inside running water.

Those so deprived--forced to eke out a "living" for their families with annual incomes less than one fourth of what many individuals spend on a seasonal wardrobe for one, are not only ill-housed, ill-fed and without fundamental education, these adults have little knowledge of the basic rights, services and responsibilities involved in developing a total viable community. They do not see themselves as relevant entities in the community with the right to help direct its development. Often the political process is alien to them and the relationship between those who set policies and their plight is not understood. (The Citizenship Education Program also works with people who serve as community leaders. Since the Albany, Georgia movement many young people have come to the workshop. Now it includes young militants who return to their communities dedicated to non-violence after confronting the participants and staff of the CEP for five days.)

During the movement of the last decade many black folks have had a great awakening, and this Citizenship Education Program, though largely unpublicized, has been the base upon which much of the action for social change has been built. The CEP has played a critical role as bus loads came from the black belts of the south to learn to analyze their situation--to discover their personhood. But present and past success, ever increasing demands on the few who see the issue clearly and the constant reminding that laws on statute books do not automatically bring in the disinherited bespeak the need to broaden the "educational" outreach to the down and out.

To help people come to a point of "acting out their own nature" demands, what would still be in most schools, unfortunately, highly unorthodox methods of teaching. It is as simple and as complicated as saying finally to the woman who complained constantly about the manner in which the welfare agent humiliated her: "Well, then why aren't you the welfare agent?" It is as tedious as helping folk who never voted organize to send a man of their choosing to the legislature who will represent their interest. In this education program adults memorize not the dates the U.S. Constitution was signed but rather discover what it means when the First Amendment says a man has a right to petition for redress of grievances; or that no state may take away one's privileges as a citizen in the Fourteenth, or that a man has a right to the franchise in the Fifteenth or they discover what it ought to mean! And they go out with a determination to be.

That racism is institutionalized in America is a truism. That ethnic groups have been pitted against each other should also be too obvious to mention. Nevertheless, there is another large segment of our population that is leaderless and equally excluded. These are working-class, or poor whites. For generations they, too, have been brainwashed; told that "Negroes are your enemies." They are equally hungry, ill-housed, ill-fed and without educational opportunity. Even in 1968 politicians such as George Wallace played upon their fears, misguided hatred and ignorance. Who will "educate" them? Who will help them come to know that they are being "had"; that their tables still do not display balanced diets; that their children are not being educated; that they have no meaningful political power; that they are wallowing in the mud of ignorance and stupidity--that they are, in fact, in the same boat as working-class or poor black folk!

The education program of which I speak would bring together and minister to all those who have a common problem. The social attitudes of racial prejudice in the end, are superficial differences, and should take a back seat to basic human needs such as the opportunity and the confidence to develop to one's full potential and the sharing in decisions affecting one's life. Hatred, fear and distrust have been dispelled between black and white when on a one to one basis these formerly powerless people have come to know each other in workshops studying problems of the poor. They realize their common plight and see the larger power of people moving in concert.

This does not negate positive black power. Black folk must and will have power--economic, social, educational and political. But see the "People Power" of all those who are deprived working towards the same goal. A true shared power is possible. "A good education" will see that this power is based on the fundamental issues. Our education must focus on the political, the economic, the educational--and together, for all those excluded. "The end is pre-existent in the means." And a reconciled society, in which our children may live without struggle, cannot emerge in separation. Out of separation or separatism, the vicious cycle of fear, distrust, suspicion and self-hatred continues.

The new challenge for the "new educator" is to bring people together to dispel myths--of inferiority and superiority. The assumption is that from this new reconciled position the masses of people will be able to move with greater effectiveness toward utilizing the resources of this world for all people.

A CEP training workshop is held once per month with 50 to 60 persons participating. (Since 1961 the staff has worked with about 4,500 people.) For five days there are dialogue and planning in the following areas: New Trends in Politics; Consumer Education; Organizing Cooperatives and Credit Unions; Basic American Documents--How to make them work for the people; Reading for a Purpose; Writing for a Purpose; Methods of Problem Solving; Planned Parenthood; Assessing the Needs of a Community; Structural Local Voter Registration--Education Programs; Workers: Their Need for Unions; Federal Programs Available; History of Black Americans and Other Minority Groups.

At the close of this training, grassroots leaders return to their homes and organize classes of adults who range from the illiterate and poverty-stricken to those who simply never thought of themselves as making a difference. The CEP graduate does not teach in a vacuum, but gets his students to register and vote, to run for public office, to confront the power structure and make demands.

An early participant of the Citizenship Education Program was Mrs. Fannie Lou Hamer, later evicted from the Mississippi plantation where she had lived and worked for 18 years as a sharecropper because she tried to register and got others to do the same. She became a candidate for Congress on the Freedom Democratic ticket in the Second Congressional District, and a delegate from the same party to the Democratic National Convention at Atlantic City in 1964.

The Citizenship Education Program, through helping people learn to look at their community, enables parents to analyze the schools and determine their relevance to the educational goals we set; goals whose emphasis is on awakening, and stimulating the minds of our children. Parents may not read and write but they care as much for their children and can discover such concrete ways to show their concern.

The following are some of the specific activities resulting from Citizenship Education training:

- Writing clinics for illiterate adults for voting purposes
- Citizenship Education classes for adults studying:
  - Credit union and co-op organization
  - Social services and how to participate in them
  - Federal programs, such as housing development
  - Agricultural policies
  - Local government
- Organization of community groups, such as:
  - Civic Clubs
  - Community Improvement Associations
  - Good citizenship clubs
  - Organized recreational groups
- Planned parenthood sessions
- Selective buying campaigns (Many CEP class participants have changed their shopping habits. Where they had accepted dirty markets and inferior food, selective buying campaigns sprang up.)

- Protest activity directed toward specific discrimination
- Running for public office and clinics for same
- Petitioning for services such as: paved streets, sidewalks, street lights, recreation facilities, better schools, etc.

The essence of this education program can be felt in the words of Mrs. Topsy Eubanks who said at the close of a session, "I feel like I been born again." Indeed, she had been. It can be seen as she returned to work in Macon, Georgia, and registered a majority of the voters, then took her place (she dared not take before) in the court house as a poll watcher. The need for this education program can be seen in the words of a 60-year-old man who when he saw the doorless shack of another Negro family said, "He lives like that 'cause he don't want to do no better," and in the words of a woman in a recent session, "Next time I am going to run for city council!"

SCLC PROGRAM AREAS

Contact our office for information and help in any of the following areas:

VOTER REGISTRATION AND POLITICAL EDUCATION

Political know-how is mandatory as we move into the second step of our struggle for freedom. Every person of voting age must become enlightened in the use of the ballot. Every community can and must ORGANIZE to reach the people. Information on workshops, aid in local drives, voter registration materials, etc., are available.

CITIZENSHIP EDUCATION

You may send persons from your community for training to our 5-day Citizenship Training Workshop. They can return to the community equipped with the know-how of teaching adults. They can teach adults to read and write using text material pertinent to Citizenship; voter education; new trends in politics; organization; securing public services; leadership, and many things to help adults help themselves.

OPERATION BREADBASKET

Designed to fill the breadbaskets on the tables of Negroes through better jobs. We can help you establish this program in order to tap every major business establishment to determine whether we are sharing equally in the opportunity for a decent livelihood. We can and must work where we spend. (In Atlanta, two million additional $'s are flowing in the Negro community because of this program.)

DIRECT ACTION

In order to dramatize the injustice of segregation; to force the people of our communities to come to grips with the problem and begin to work for a solution, direct action is a vital phase of our program. SCLC has a trained, experienced staff available to help you conduct workshops, plan and direct nonviolent direct action campaigns.

OPERATION DIALOGUE

One of our nation's greatest needs is to keep lines of communication open between the races; to constantly talk together in order to build understanding, heal breaches and win support for the cause of justice. There is also great need to have right thinking white persons talk to other white persons to help them have a change of heart. Experienced SCLC staff is ready to help you get dialogue going in your community.

NONVIOLENCE (workshops for the study of)

For understanding the philosophy by which we labor and to labor more effectively, workshops for nonviolent education are basic. SCLC staff are devoted scholars and exponents of this great moving force. Let us train leaders for you!

LEADERSHIP TRAINING

Leaders are not necessarily born! Some are made! Through SCLC, discover and develop vitally needed leadership. The "one-man-show" isn't effective any more.

Southern Christian Leadership Conference
334 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta , Georgia 30303
Phone: 522-1420

Randolph T. Blackwell, Program Director
C. T. Vivian, Director of Affiliates

****
****
****

A Banquet in Honor of Dr. King Is Set for Atlanta Wednesday

Special to The New York Times

ATLANTA, Jan. 23—A hometown banquet honoring the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., which provoked behind-the-scenes controversy in Atlanta business circles when it was proposed, has won overwhelming public endorsement.

A week after the tickets were offered, principally through the mail, to about 2,000 people, more than 1,400 tickets had been sold and about 200 requests had been turned down because no seats remained.

The banquet, honoring Dr. King as Georgia's first winner of a Nobel Prize, is scheduled for 7:00 P.M., Wednesday, at the Dinkler Plaza Hotel.

Dr. King, who is a native of Atlanta, first attracted national attention when, as a minister in Montgomery, Ala., he led a bus boycott there. In 1961 he returned to Atlanta to assume direction of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and to become co-pastor of Ebenezar Baptist Church. In October he was named winner of the 1964 Nobel Peace Prize.

After plans for the dinner were disclosed, just before Christmas, it appeared to have the sponsorship of a number of religious, educational and other Atlanta leaders. Opinions varied, however, among leading businessmen who had been asked to be sponsors.

A spokesman for the planning group said today, however, that although a number of these had declined the use of their names as sponsors many had purchased the $6.50 tickets to attend.

Although the public was aware of plans for the dinner, there was no push to sell tickets except through the use of mailing lists obtained from several cultural and civic organizations. Response was immediate.

The banquet planners had hoped to sell about 1,000 tickets. Although the banquet hall ordinarily seats only about 1,200 people, plans are being made for as many as 1,400 places. Checks for tickets continue to come in but are being rejected.

"We are absolutely delighted with the way it has worked out," said Don McEvoy, Georgia executive director of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Mr. McEvoy, who is coordinating arrangements for the dinner, said that 101 Atlanta citizens had agreed to serve as sponsors of the event. About three-fourths of these are white, he said. He estimated that at least 800 of the 1,400 ticket purchasers were white.

The sponsors' list includes many of the city's most prominent people, with a stronger representation of political leaders than some observers had expected.

Mayor Ivan Allen Jr. and William B. Hartsfield, a former Mayor, are on the list.

So are Representatives Charles L. Weltner of Georgia's Fifth District, which includes most of Atlanta, and James A. Mackay of the Fourth District, which includes part of the city and a large suburban area. Both are Democrats.

The list also includes Vice Mayor Sam Massell Jr., a Democrat; two city aldermen, Rodney Cook and Richard Freeman, both Republicans, and Mrs. G. Ray Mitchell, a member of the Atlanta Board of Education. All are white.

No state-level political figures are among the sponsors, although the list includes two Negro State Senator from Atlanta, Leroy Johnson and Horace T. Ward.

Plans for the dinner were revealed when letters went to prospective sponsors for the Most Rev. Paul J. Hallinan, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Atlanta; Ralph McGill, publisher of The Atlanta Constitution; Dr. Benjamin Mays, president of Morehouse College; and Rabbi Jacob M. Rothschild, of The Temple.

A STATEMENT ON THE DEATH OF DR. KING

(Issued by the Executive Committee of the Southern Regional Council, Inc., meeting in Atlanta, Georgia, April 6, 1968)

The assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. once again reveals the psychosis of violence and the cancer of racism in American society. Once again, America is stained with the blood of a courageous and noble leader, with the tragedy of a husband and father senselessly destroyed. His murder violates the ideals for which he stood, ideals which express the great tradition of America.

This is not the time for bitter and unrestrained recriminations against the society which killed Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., but rather the time for all of us to pay heed at last to all that has already been said to the conscience of the nation in the grim, ghastly past -- at the murders of John F. Kennedy, Medgar Evers, of the four little children in a Birmingham Sunday School, and so many others.

This is the time for white America to forego lecturing black Americans against violating the non-violent philosophy to which Dr. King's life will stand as a memorial for all time. Let white America for once concede to black America strength and dignity sufficient to make that decision without advice or admonishment. Let white America acknowledge that black Americans, as Dr. King has proved, have equal moral personality as human beings and have the qualities of leadership and courage and dignity which all Americans need.

The life of Dr. King transcends the violence done throughout his career to the American ideals for which he stood and the final obscene violence to him. His leadership during his life and the pangs of conscience white America feels in his death give all Americans the chance -- and perhaps the last chance -- to make the choice between the kind of society for which Dr. King lived and died, and the kind of society which denies equal opportunity and relies on force above justice and equity. If America cannot produce leadership toward the society that Dr. King saw in his dream for America, then America is finished.

Let white America look into its own heart.

SCLC

BIRTH OF SCLC

On January 10, 1957, more than 100 Southern leaders gathered in Atlanta, Georgia, to share and discuss their mutual problems of the Southern struggle. By unanimous agreement, the body voted to form a permanent organization that would serve as a coordinating agency for local protest centers that were utilizing the technique and philosophy of non—violence in creative protest. Two months later, close on the heels of the successful Montgomery, Alabama bus boycott, SCLC came into being, in New Orleans, Louisiana. Martin Luther King, Jr., was elected president.

SCLC AND CONSTRUCTIVE PROGRAM

SCLC's basic program fosters nonviolent resistance to all forms of racial injustice, including state and local laws and practices, even when this means going to jail; and imaginative, bold constructive action to end the demoralization caused by the legacy of slavery and segregation — inferior schools, slums, and second-class citizenship.

In its bold new program, SCLC has undertaken one of the difficult tasks so vital to the present-day struggle in the South. The Leadership Training Program is directed at the organization of communities at the "grass-roots" level. It is believed that the great success of the Negro community's struggle for full citizenship will be determined by the training of this second-line leadership.

AIMS AND PURPOSES OF SCLC

The Southern Christian Leadership Conference has the basic aim of achieving full citizenship rights, equality, and the integration of the Negro in all aspects of American life. SCLC is a service agency to facilitate coordinated action of local community groups within the frame of their indigenous organizations and natural leadership. SCLC activity revolves around two main focal points: the use of nonviolent philosophy as a means of creative protest; and securing the right of the ballot for every citizen.

The ultimate aim of SCLC is to foster and create the 'beloved community' in America where brotherhood is a reality.

OFFICERS

MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR.
President

WYATT TEE WALKER
Executive Director

FRED L. SHUTTLESWORTH, Secretary

RALPH D. ABERNATHY, Treasurer

I. M. AUGUSTINE, General Counsel

ADMINISTRATIVE STAFF

GOULD MAYNARD
Public Relations Director

J. H. O'DELL
Administrator, New York Office

(MRS.) DOROTHY F. COTTON, Director of Education

ANDREW J. YOUNG, Administrator, Citizenship Education Program

(MRS.) SEPTIMA P. CLARK, Supervisor, Teacher Training

VOTER REGISTRATION FIELD STAFF

J. H. CALHOUN, Georgia State, Director
HERBERT COULTON, Field Secretary
JAMES BEVEL, Field Secretary
FRED BENNETT, Field Secretary
HARRY BLAKE, Field Secretary
BERNARD S. LEE, Student Liaison Organizer

CLERICAL STAFF

(MISS) DORA McDONALD, Secretary

MRS. EDWINA SMITH, Secretary

(MRS.) LILLIE HUNTER, BOOKKEEPER

(MISS) MARY BERRY
(MRS.) DOROTHY GAINES
(MISS) WILLIE PEARL MACKEY
(MRS.) BENITA PACKER
(MISS) ARNELLE PONDER
(MRS.) BARBARA REEVES
(MISS) PAULENE SAWATZKY
(MISS) BERNICE SMITH

(MISS) EMMA JEAN TURNER

HARRY BELAFONTE - MIRIAM MAKEBA

FEATURED WITH MR. BELAFONTE IS THE SOUTH AFRICAN SINGER AND DANCER, MIRIAM MAKEBA, WHO HAS WON NATION-WIDE ACCLAIM IN THE FEW YEARS THAT SHE HAS BEEN IN THIS COUNTRY. MISS MAKEBA IS A PERSONAL PROTEGE OF THE MANY-TALENTED MR. BELAFONTE.

SOUTHERN CHRISTIAN LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE

SCLC Newsletter

Volume II July-August Number 8

INSIDE THIS ISSUE

Editorial ..... Page 4
Sarah Patton Boyle ..... Page 5
Dr. King Writes ..... Page 7
Ed Clayton ..... Page 5
Dis & Data ..... Page 8
The Next Frontier ..... Page 10
Letters To SCLC ..... Page 12

Randolph Blackwell Joins Staff Of SCLC

Mr. Blackwell

Randolph T. Blackwell, a civil rights worker for the past 13 years, has joined the staff of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference in Atlanta and will serve as Program Coordinator for the organization. He formerly was associated with the Voter Education Project in Atlanta before becoming a full time staff member of SCLC.

Born in Greensboro, North Carolina, Mr. Blackwell brings to SCLC a rich and varied background in the social sciences, law and business and economics. He received a B.S. degree in Sociology from North Carolina A & T College in 1949, and was graduated from Howard University School of Law in 1953. Additionally he has studied at Syracuse and American Universities.

Authored Four Books

The 37-year-old executive formerly taught at Winston-Salem Teacher's College and at Alabama A & M College. He is credited with being

(Continued on Page 11)

SCLC Dispatches Anti-Riot Team North; Finds Teen-Agers Hostile To Everyone

By Andrew J. Young

"We're not here to tell you not to fight, we're here to teach you how to fight." This was the slogan of SCLC's team of community organizers as they moved North for the first time in an attempt to deal with Negro discontent in a hostile riot-torn Negro community.

As the National Guard pulled out of Rochester, leaders in the Negro community feared a repetition of the events of previous weeks and asked SCLC for help. A staff team, led by Andrew Young and James Bevel, moved immediately into the city and began work with the teen-age clubs which initiated violence in the city. Young and Bevel were accompanied by SCLC staffers James Orange and Richard Boone from Alabama, Willie Bolden and Lester Hankerson of Savannah, and Bernard Lafayette of the American Friends Service Committee, now working in Chicago.

Immediate Success

The team began to work in Rochester's 3rd Ward, along with 3rd Ward Supervisor Constance Mitchell, a social worker at the Montgomery Community Center, and perhaps the only person in Rochester who had established any rapport with the city's errant teen population. At noon on August 7th, SCLC's team divided into smaller groups and began to comb the streets of the Negro community. Several were dressed in bib-front overalls the work clothes of the Southern movement, so we were easily identified as strangers in the community. In spite of an open hostility to the idea of nonviolence, the group had amazing and almost immediate success.

Young (l.), Bevel (r.).

(Continued on Page 2)

Dr. King Tours Mississippi; Is Seen And Heard By 20,000 Persons

Philadelphia, Mississippi is a hot dusty town in the middle of the summer. The SCLC caravan found it's way up the red clay hills to the "community center," a small barn-like structure outfitted with a pool table, juke box and soft drink machine. When the word began to spread through the streets that Martin Luther King was in town, a beautiful, warm black crowd began to flow from the small houses and lawns toward the Center.

In a matter of minutes, more than 100 persons gathered, and Philadelphia, Mississippi began its first Freedom Rally. Dr. King began to speak in calm measured tones, but the warmth aroused the "preacher" in him and soon the spirit of freedom rang through the streets of this oppressive village.

Death And Danger

Dr. King spoke of death and danger. Rev. Ralph Abernathy led

(Continued on Page 5)

Dr. King on door-to-door Mississippi tour.

Owens (l.) and Coulter after victory.

Aided By SCLC Workers; Negro Is First To Win Petersburg City Council

A concentrated voter-registration drive by SCLC workers in Petersburg, Va., coupled with a grass-roots election campaign resulted in the first Negro being elected to city council since Reconstruction Days. The victor was Joseph H. Owens, who in his first try for public office, successfully overcame a run-off contest on June 22 to win one of three vacant seats on the five-man city council.

Sparking the campaign was SCLC Field Secretary Herbert Coulter. Petersburg is a city of about 36,000 population, of which 17,000 are Negroes. Only 8,000 among them, however are eligible to vote, and of these only some 1,700 actually have qualified to vote.

Owens' campaign was waged against a negative "whispering" scheme which tried to convince Negroes that "he can't win." Previously, six others before him had failed in successive trys.

The ruse did not work. Owens polled 1,426 votes on the June 9 election day to enter a special run-off election two weeks later against Mayor Marvin Gill, Jr. The result was 1,794 votes for Owens and 1,585 votes for Gill.

ANTI-RIOT TEAM

(Continued from Page 1)

We found the youth where they were, joined them in their pursuits, and began talking with them about the riots. Some were playing basketball on the playgrounds, "tonk" on the school steps, or shooting dice in an alley. Much to their suprise, these nonviolent "soldiers" managed to beat them at their own games. The youth's humiliation was matched only by their respect and amazement when they discovered that half of the team were ordained ministers.

Talked Over Riots

By four o'clock in the afternoon, we had managed to gather persons from six of the "youth clubs," as they prefer to be called, and were sitting down in Constance Mitchell's back yard talking over the riots and attempting to let the youth analyze what happened and why.

It was surprising how well these youths articulated their grievances. Police harrassment was the main complaint, but it was obvious that the complaint was not merely against Rochester police, but against the lack of protection under the law afforded Negroes all across the United States. They were angry that the FBI could not find the Birmingham bombers, or the murderers of civil rights workers in Mississippi. From incidents such as these, they developed hostility toward police in general. Once this was in process, any warning or word from the police set off a chain of inner hostility and antagonisms which could erupt at any moment.

Hostile To Everyone

They also spoke of crowded homes and schools, joblessness and the fact that they were ignored by everybody. In this they were as hostile to indifferent Negro leadership as they were to whites. In fact, one Negro was almost mobbed because they thought he was president of a local civil rights group. Only when they were convinced that he was not did they refrain from over-turning his car.

Poverty loomed as the main factor in the looting. We heard of Negroes and whites looting together. In fact, 158 white persons were arrested, along with Negroes and Puerto Ricans. Together, the poor seemed to rebel against the establishment. Mothers stole food, put shoes on childrens' feet and left other luxuries untouched in many instances, so Mrs. Mitchell reported.

Once the contact was made with youth, the team began to work with ministers and other adults, trying to put together a unit of persons of good will to really get to the root of the problem and force some action from the city government. Daily meetings began to bring the adult community into some common understanding of the situation to permit action and decision together. In many ways this proved more difficult than working with the youth.

Begin Workshops

In an attempt to teach youth how to fight we began afternoon workshops on how to fight in a democratic society. "You don't throw bricks, you get votes", we told them. "Right Now," a movie on the Savannah, Ga. voter registration drive became a key tool in helping the youth to identify with the more

Dr. King Asks For 'Bill Of Rights For Disadvantaged' In Dem's Platform

(Editor's Note: When Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. appeared before the Republican Platform Committee on July 7 in San Francisco, he urged that body to give serious attention to a three-pronged program which he hopefully wished would be incorporated in their platform in the 1964 presidential election campaign. They were: I. Compliance with the newly-enacted Civil Rights Bill; II. An end to police brutality and harrassment of persons seeking to remove racial discrimination barriers from our society; and III. A positive program to deal with automation and unemployment. Unfortunately, his pleadings were coldly unheeded. During the August Democratic Convention, Dr. King again was heard on these urgent matters, a portion of which we print herewith as concerns his proposed "Bill of Rights for The Disadvantaged.")

The struggle for rights is, at bottom, a struggle for opportunities. In asking for something special, the Negro is not seeking charity. He does not want to languish on welfare rolls any more than the next man. He does not want to be given a job he cannot handle. Neither, however, does he want to be told that there is no place where he can be trained to handle it. So with equal opportunity must come the practical, realistic aid which will equip him to seize it. Giving a pair of shoes to a man who has not learned to walk is a cruel jest.

Today, special measures are needed to alleviate the economic conditions of Negroes and all other persons in a family unit which earns less than $3,000 a year.

During World War II, our fighting men were deprived of certain advantages and opportunities. To make up for this, they were given a package of veterans rights, significantly called a "Bill of Rights." The major features of this GI Bill of Rights included subsidies for trade school or college education, with living expenses provided during the period of study. Veterans were given special concessions enabling them to buy homes without cash, with lower interest rates and easier repayment terms. They could negotiate loans from banks to launch businesses, using the government as an endorser of any losses. They received special points to place them ahead in competition for civil service jobs. They were provided with medical care and long-tern financial grants if their physical condition had been impaired by their military service. In addition to these legally granted rights, a strong social climate for many years favored the preferential employment of veterans in all walks of life.

Compensation Approved

In this way, the nation was compensating the veteran for his time lost in school or in his career or in business. Such compensatory treatment was approved by the majority of Americans. Certainly the Negro has been deprived. Few people considered the fact that, in addition to being enslaved for two centuries, the Negro was, during all these years, robbed of the wages of his toil. No amount of gold could provide an adequate compensation for the exploitation and humiliation of the Negro in America down through the centuries. Not all the wealth of this affluent society could meet the bill. Yet, a price can be placed on unpaid wages. The ancient common law has always provided a remedy

A Reminder . . .

SCLC's 8th Annual CONVENTION

Where?
Savannah, Ga.

When?
Sept. 29-Oct. 2

organized and disciplined Southern struggle. Votes were related to police brutality, housing, jobs and self-respect for Negroes in all of these workshops. Effective protest was begun when a committee of the club members made an appointment with the Chief of Police to discuss the question of police brutality. Youth were placed on the board of a Center to which they had previously been denied access. TV and news media began to probe the community tensions in depth, and youth began to voice their hostilities through democratic channels.

Thus, it was our intention to learn from work in a Northern community. SCLC hopes to remain close to Rochester. The job has only begun. Oil has been poured on troubled waters, and things are quiet for the present, but unless there is some serious effort to face the problems which caused the rioting, there will again be disturbances in this progressive city.

From The Pages of Negro History

The first American casualty against the British in the American Revolution was a Negro—Crispus Attucks, a runaway slave, killed in the Boston Massacre of 1770.

St. Augustine Balks At Desegregation; Businesses Fear Ku Klux Klan, Violence

St. Augustine, Fla., the nation's oldest city, from which Dr. King announced a civil rights victory on June 30, showed signs in July of becoming the nation's most recalcitrant city in the area of human rights. After only five days of compliance to the new Civil Rights Law, St. Augustine restaurant and hotel owners were forced by white racist terrorists to resegregate, returning the city to as much segregation as it had before SCLC first arrived three months ago.

File Five Major Suits

With the help of eight lawyers from the Lawyers Constitutional Defense Committee, five major suits immediately were filed in federal courts in Jacksonville. The first two were against restaurants which had never desegregated. Another was against 16 restaurants which had resegregated. The fourth suit, seeking to get federal action to improve law inforcement in St. Johns County, was dropped at the request of the Federal Judge Bryon Simpson. An effort to secure a federal injunction, enjoining those policemen and organizations from obstructing desegregation efforts constituted a fifth procedure.

Attacks Continue

Although large scale demonstrations were renounced in the churches in general, white racist attacks against Negroes continued throughout July. In one of the worst outbreaks, four Negroes fishing off a bridge at the edge of the city, were surrounded by 30 Klansmen and severely beaten. The Negroes were admitted to the hospital with injuries inflicted by ax handles, tire chains, and knives. Another incident later in the month, involved four Negro youths who went to a previously segregated restaurant to eat. An angry white mob met them at the door, blocked the path to their car, and chased them to the highway. Two of the Negroes escaped in a passing car. Another, after being pursued for several hours through a heavily-wooded area, finally found a state trooper who took him back to town. The fourth was beaten by the mob and taken to a hospital. Later the same evening white racists gathered outside the hospital and over-turned the car of the Negro nurse who was caring for the injured youth.

Smash Windows, Bomb Motels

Local white businessmen also were victims of racial violence. The drug store owner who refused to resegregate had his windows smashed. In a similar incident later in the month the window in a bakery was smashed when the owner refused to fire his Negro help. An unsuccessful effort was made to blow up an integregated hamburger stand. Finally the month of sporadic violence was culminated by the night-time bombing of a motel whose owner had announced on the previous day that he was going to re-integrate his establishment.

With racial tensions ready to explode and shatter the uneasy truce at any moment, a previously appointed grand jury reconvened in St. Augustine on August 1 in an effort to set up a functioning biracial committee which could, in turn, begin working out long range solutions to the troubled racial situation in this city.

From The Pages of Negro History

West Point graduated its first Negro in 1877 (but no Negroes got through Annapolis until 1943).

for the appropriation of the labor of one human being by another. This law should be made to apply for American Negroes. The payment should be in the form of a massive program by the government of special, compensatory measures which could be regarded as a settlement in accordance with the accepted practice of common law. Such measures would certainly be less expensive than any computation based on two centuries of unpaid wages and accumulated interest.

Proposes Gigantic Bill

I am proposing, therefore, that, just as we granted a GI Bill of Rights to war veterans, America launch a broad-based and gigantic Bill of Rights for the Disadvantaged, our veterans of the long seige of denial. I am specifically proposing that the platform of [this] party include an endorsement and support for the broad plan of such a Bill.

A Bill of Rights for the Disadvantaged would immediately transform the conditions of Negro life. The most profound alteration would not reside so much in the specific grants as in the basic psychological and motivational transformation of the Negro. I would challenge skeptics to give such a bold new approach a test for the next decade. I contend that the decline in school dropouts, family breakups, crime rates, illegitimacy, swollen relief rolls and other social evils would stagger the imagination. Change in human psychology is normally a slow process, but it is safe to predict that, when a people is ready for change as the Negro has shown himself ready today, the response is bound to be rapid and constructive.

While Negroes form the vast majority of America's disadvantaged, there are millions of white poor who would also benefit from such a bill. The moral justification for special measures for Negroes is rooted in the robberies inherent in the institution of slavery. Many poor whites, however, were the derivative victims of slavery. As long as labor was cheapened by the involuntary servitude of the black man, the freedom of white labor, especially in the South, was little more than a myth. It was free only to bargain from the depressed base imposed by slavery upon the whole labor market. Nor did this derivative bondage end when formal slavery gave way to the de facto slavery of discrimination. To this day the white poor also suffer deprivation and the humiliation of poverty if not of color. They are chained by the weight of discrimination, though its badge of degradation does not mark them. It corrupts their lives, frustrates their opportunities and withers their education. In one sense it is more evil for them, because it has confused so many by prejudice that they have supported their own oppressors.

Forgotten White Poor

It is a simple matter of justice that America, in dealing creatively with the task of raising the Negro from backwardness, should also be rescuing a large stratum of the forgotten white poor. A Bill of Rights for the Disadvantaged, applicable to white and Negro families alike with annual incomes of less than $3,000, could mark the rise of a new era, in which the full resources of the society would be used to attack the tenacious poverty which so paradoxically exists in the midst of plenty.

SCLC Newsletter

Publisher, SOUTHERN CHRISTIAN LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE

334 Auburn Ave., N.E.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303
Phone: 522-1420

MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR., President

F. L. SHUTTLESWORTH, Secretary

RALPH D. ABERNATHY, Treasurer

ANDREW YOUNG, Executive Assistant

EDWARD T. CLAYTON, Editor

AIMS AND PURPOSES OF SCLC

1. To achieve full citizenship rights, and total integration of the Negro in American life.
2. To stimulate nonviolent direct mass action to remove the barriers of segregation and discrimination.
3. To disseminate the creative philosophy and techniques of nonviolence through local and area workshops.
4. To secure the right and unhampered use of the ballot for every citizen.
5. To reduce the cultural lag through the Citizenship Training Program.

Editorial

From Chicken To Ax Handles

The first test of the new Civil Rights law quite properly has been upheld in a ruling against Atlanta restaurant owner Lester Maddox, who specialized in serving fried chicken to white customers only. Maddox vowed that Negroes would never eat of his chicken thighs and drum-sticks, and rather than comply with the law as ordered, chose to shut down his business "for good."

By some queer method of reasoning, Maddox claimed that "communists put me out of business," when, in truth, he made the announcement himself after two Negroes presented themselves as proper customers. It was his decision to discontinue his food business, and no one else's.

But what is more disturbing is his immediate entry into another seemingly full-blown business from what once was a side-line. He set up shop outside his restaurant and began selling ax-handles of the same variety he used to do violence against the three Negroes who sought to eat at his restaurant to bring the case to a test. Business, of course, was brisk, and he disposed of some 3,000 of these instruments of violence at $2.00 each in the first day or two of operation.

Obviously, the intent of Mr. Maddox and his ax handle buyers is quite clear. Such out-size pieces of wood doubtfully can be mistaken for tooth picks, and he already has demonstrated to what purposes he believes they should be put.

Let us pray that in the free enterprise system of competition no one will take a notion to compete against him —with larger ax handles.—ETC

An Example of Courage

(Editor's Note: The following editorial is reprinted by permission from the Atlanta Constitution of July 28, 1964.)

Martin Luther King Jr. took a praiseworthy and courageous step Monday in speaking out against the racial disturbances now wracking large cities of America.

It is important for white Americans to recognize just how much courage that required, and how much good it can do.

Dr. King had made his place among his people as a folk hero. He could have stood aside, secure in his own place in Negro history, and abandoned the Negro people to their extremist betrayers in places like New York and Rochester.

By stepping out of his own shell of security to denounce "impractical and immoral" conduct among members of his own race, Dr. King laid his reputation with his own people squarely on the line.

He laid himself open to charges that he is an Uncle Tom.

He gambled that his voice, so often raised for Negro rights, could now rise above the storm of Negro irresponsibility and calm it.

If the power of his example can still take hold of the great, responsible Negro majority, the senseless aberrations of Negro protest can be quelled and the cause of civil rights can be restored to a rational plane.

It was enormously important that Dr. King speak, and he did. He is the foremost emotional leader of American Negroes, and he has joined battle against betrayal of the Negro revolution by extremists and false leaders.

In strongly urging "cessation of the violence and lawlessness presently existing" among people of his race, Dr. King also turned and asked for help from white Americans, "not merely shallow rhetoric condemning lawlessness."

"We must vigorously condemn the violence and lawlessness of the Negro community," he said, and he did. He has set out to handle that.

But, he added, "we must be as concerned about getting rid of the environmental conditions that cause the riots as we are in condemning violence." This is a burden the white man must share.

Dr. King is moving into the Harlem inferno to demand a return to law and order. He has accepted the risks of being called traitor by his race as his duty in the cause of racial peace. He is asking only that white Americans, for their part, give "an honest, soul-searching analysis and evaluation of the environmental causes which have spawned the riots."

The Cartoonist's View

'It's Unanimous. We're Still Going To Call You "Boy" . . .'

Baldy In The Atlanta Constitution

Message For Americans

Eric In The Atlanta Journal

'I Didn't Know It Was Loaded'

Eric In The Atlanta Journal

ed clayton

Of Mississippi And Missing Persons

There is something darkly sinister and tragically prophetic about the "Miss" in Mississippi. By now it has become synonymous with murder. Those who live there know this. And those who visit there fear this. For to be reported "missing" in Mississippi is like having your death notice posted and published before the body actually can be located for a proper burial.

In time of war such tragedies are to be expected. A soldier missing in action may not, in all cases, be presumed dead. There is always hope, no matter how faint, that he will return.

Not so in Mississippi. A "missing" person is usually a dead person. It is a kind of grim game that is played there between the hunter and the hunted, the fearsome and the fearful. The results are always tragic and sorrowful.

539 Negroes Lynched

For the record, there have been 539 lynchings of Negroes in the state of Mississippi in the 81 years between 1882 and 1963. This is according to figures compiled by the Tuskegee Institute Research Department which places that state at the top of the list with its unchecked slaying of Negroes. Their research says nothing of the countless numbers of persons reported "missing," who simply "dissappear" and are never heard from again. Some say that the Pearl and Tallahatchie Rivers are watery graves for these hapless victims, and that ever so often an average of one or two a month is coughed up from the murky depths of these silent streams.

Now comes the sad and final scenes in the shortlived drama of three civil rights workers on a mission in Mississippi. Missing since June 21, the trio, Michael Schwerner, James Chaney and Andrew Goodman, were dug up from their shallow graves on the hot mid-afternoon of August 4. Their absence had stretched into 45 days while searchers combed Philadelphia, Mississippi for their whereabouts. The grim hunt became even more grisly when, in the midst of the bush-beating and river-dredging, the mutilated torsos of two other "missing" persons bobbled to the surface of the Pearl river near its Louisiana outlet. Some theorized that these might have been sawed in half in being put to death.

'A Way of Death'

Such stories probably could go on endlessly. For this is Mississippi, where death, violent, horrible, unbelievably brutal, is regarded as casually as cotton, catfish and magnolias. This, to them, has become a way of life, or perhaps more correctly, a way of death. The violators of the law are never punished for the crime of murder against a Negro or sympathizing whites. To do so, it seems, would mean a rejoining of the Union and an obligation to uphold law, right and justice.

Such progress would be unthinkable in Mississippi. It would tend to violate a perfect record of lynching and a flawless history of non-convictions.

Moreover, who can deny that missing persons in Mississippi almost always turn up in a matter of time. Dead, of course, but they do turn up.

From St. Augustine

The Song Of A Jailbird

Mrs. Boyle

I would rather have the voice of a Civil Rights jailbird than the voice of a mockingbird. That is why I announce with pride that I was one of those who went to jail for freedom in St. Augustine.

I cannot boast with Dr. King that I have come of age with my 21st trip to jail. And I certainly stand in awe—a long way off—when the Rev. Shuttlesworth nonchalantly announces that after his 30th time in jail he stopped counting. But although I am not a well-seasoned jailbird, at last, at least I am a jailbird. Although I cannot sing of coming of age or of losing count, I do by God's grace have a song. It is this:

As a Christian, an American and a Southerner, I am filled with humble joy for the privilege of going to jail for my Christian faith, for a better America and a better South.

My heart aches that such drastic action as going to jail is necessary to make America what she claims to be—a land where there is freedom and justice for all. But since it is necessary I am proud to take full part in it. I regard my arrest as an honorary degree in the struggle to implement the principles in which I so deeply believe.

To suffer is not the worst thing that can happen to us: the worst thing is not to believe in anything worth suffering for.

DR. KING TOURS

(Continued from Page 1)

"Ain't Gonna Let Nobody Turn Me 'Roun," while the FBI agents and Press representatives squirmed anxiously out front as a car and truck carrying hostile men circled the block for the third time.

This was a typical day in the People-to-People Tour of Mississippi.

Dr. King, Rev. Abernathy, Rev. C. T. Vivian, Rev. Bernard Lee, Mrs. Dorothy Cotton, Miss Annell Ponder and Rev. Andrew Young, toured together through the cities and towns of Greenwood, Jackson, Vicksburg, and Meridian, Mississippi in behalf of the Freedom Democratic Party and the Council of Federated Organizations. The purpose was to encourage and inspire the people of Mississippi with the possibility and change in their situation through a concerted political effort.

Response Tremendous

Everywhere the response was tremendous. Never have so many Negroes gathered together for anything in the State of Mississippi. Crowds packed churches and the Masonic Halls where mass meetings were held. Everywhere Dr. King went in the course of door-to-door visits, flocks of local people followed along, eager to hear his message of hope for a new day in Mississippi. Estimates of the tour are that some 20,000 persons saw and heard Dr. King in person, while others tuned in on a half-hour TV Show on the Democratic Party shown on Jackson and Memphis TV stations.

FROM THE PAGES OF NEGRO HISTORY

In World War II, the Red Cross at first refused to accept blood from Negro donors, and later took it only on a segregated basis. Ironically, it was a Negro, Plasma Expert Dr. Charles R. Drew, who set up U.S. blood banks. He himself had to be given plasma following an auto crash on April 1, 1950, near Burlington, N. C., when the car he was driving overturned. He died 45 minutes after the accident, at the age of 45.

VOTE FREEDOM IN '64!

Cameras Tell Story Of Rioting, Lo

WINDOW SMASHER NABBED

Arrested after he was observed smashing bottles and car windows in the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn during New York riots, a youth is taken in tow by a plain clothes policeman. Incident occurred night of July 23 as racial violence began to subside in New York area.

LOOTING WAS PREVALENT

As rioting turned into window smashing and looting in Rochester, neighborhood stores fell victim to raiders who hauled away items and packaged goods thrown onto sidewalks. Here, a camerman surprises group of women.

GUARDSMEN CALLED OUT

Assigned to keep peace in Rochester, New York after violence began to spread in state of New York, National Guardsmen go through bayonet drills at camp site. During three days of rioting water hoses were brought into play (below) as police sought to put down disturbances in Negro neighborhoods.

TAKEN INTO CUSTODY

Apprehended by police during second night of disturbances in Rochester, one participant is overpowered by officers as he is taken into custody. End of rioting came after several days when National Guardsmen moved in.

oting In New York

MEETING WITH MAYOR

Invited to New York by Mayor Robert F. Wagner (r.) SCLC President Martin Luther King, Jr., is greeted by Mayor before meeting to discuss rioting and racial unrest in Harlem, first scene of northern violence. Meeting with Mayor continued until wee hours of morning.

RIOT AFTERMATH

Litter and wreckage on Rochester streets followed in wake of rioting and looting of stores (above), until authorities invoked an 8:30 P.M. curfew to clear streets (below) as one of several measures to bring an end to violence and strife in riot-stricken city.

Northern Riots

A Need For Soul-Searching

By Martin Luther King, Jr.

Martin Luther King, Jr.

The last few weeks have seen a racial cauldron boil over in the streets of Harlem, Bedford-Stuyvesant, Rochester, New York and Jersey City, New Jersey. These racial riots have risen to ominous proportions. I am sure that all people of good will join me in deploring these outbreaks of violence. Lawlessness, looting and violence cannot be condoned whether used by the racist or the reckless of any color. We must not advocate the use of immoral means to secure the moral end of racial justice. It is my basis philosophy of faith and history that social change can be achieved and Democracy advanced precisely to the degree that we adhere firmly to non-violent action and resistance in pursuing social change and justice.

On the other hand, it is necessary to affirm that the important question confronting our nation and the riot-infested communities is not merely that there be shallow rhetoric condemning lawlessness, but that there be an honest soul-searching analysis and evaluation of the environmental causes which spawned the riots. Nonviolence does not exist in a vacuum. If law and order are to be maintained in any city of our nation, it can only be done when there is an ever-increasing measure of justice and dignity accorded to all persons.

As long as thousands of Negroes in Harlem and all the little Harlems of our nation are hovered up in odorous, rat-infested ghettoes; as long as the Negro finds himself smothering in an air-tight cage of poverty in the midst of an affluent society; as long as the Negro feels like an exile in his own land, and sees his plight as a long desolate corridor with no exit sign; as long as he has to attend woefully sub-standard schools and use grossly inadequate recreational facilities; as long as the Negro is daily victimized with de-humanizing squalor and depressing congestion; as long as the Negro finds his flight toward freedom constantly delayed by strong head winds of tokenism and small handouts by the white power structure, there will be an ever-present threat of violence and rioting.

In short, it is necessary to be as concerned about getting rid of the environmental conditions that caused the riots as it is to condemn the violence. To deal merely with effects and not with causes will be socially and morally suicidal. Until the Harlems and racial ghettoes of our nation are destroyed and the Negro is brought into the main stream of American life, our beloved nation will be on the verge of being plunged into the abyss of social disruption. No greater tragedy can befall a nation than to leave millions of people with a feeling that they have no stake in their society.

The time has come for an honest and forthright initiation of a massive program to free the Negro from the long night of economic deprivation and social isolation. Such a massive program will require millions of dollars. It cannot be launched purely on a local basis. The full weight of the federal government must be employed to grapple with problems of joblessness in this age of automation and cybernation.

It must be stressed that if such fundamental problems are to be solved, they cannot be solved by the Negro people and government officials alone.

Negroes and whites must band together and work arduously and nonviolently to remove the cause of frustration and despair that have led to the tragic outbursts of recent weeks.

Quote & Unquote

The Atlanta Constitution, in an editorial on the New York riots: ". . . In New York, even if there prove to have been no Communist fuses, there would have been no explosion without the dynamite of Negro poverty, lack of opportunity and frustration."

* * *

Rev. Connie Lynch, after joining in a St. Augustine mob attack on Negroes: "Violence like tonight? I favor violence to preserve the white race, any time, any place, any where. Now I grant you some niggers are gonna get killed in the process, but when war's on that's what happens."

* * *

Father James Marshall of St. Louis, in a letter to the St. Louis Globe Democrat: "The hatred gushing forth on our city streets is not happening by mere chance. We are now paying the big price for years of planned segregation."

* * *

Rabbi P. L. Boodblatt, of Vancouver, B. C.: "Men need to break down invisible walls that separate them because of prejudice. The worst wall of all is the glass wall that separates those who are segregated from others—the wall men of color have to look through."

* * *

John A. Williams, a novelist, reporting in Holiday Magazine of his trip through the South testing public accommodations: "There was an air in Louisville (Ky.) that seemed to say, 'By God, this is going to work!' In places of public accommodation I found no hesitation, none of the scanning looks to see if I was the 'right kind' of Negro. People looked you right in the eye. And I liked that."

* * *

President Johnson, deploring violence and lawlessness in America: "American citizens have a right to protection of life and limb—whether driving along a highway in Georgia; a road in Mississippi; or a street in New York City."

* * *

John G. Field, Executive Director of the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunities: "The employment predicament of the Negro is worse now than it was in 1954. Through miscalculation, ignorance or misplaced optimism, the impact of automation upon Negroes has been allowed to reach crisis proportions. Greater governmental initiative is needed."

* * *

Dick Gregory

Dick Gregory, the comedian, after Senator Goldwater's nomination: "That's the best thing that has happened to this country. That will bring the filth of prejudice into the open."

Mrs. King in concert pose.

Mrs. King To Resume Concerts In October

Mrs. Coretta Scott King, wife of SCLC President Martin Luther King, Jr., has agreed to an extended series of concert-lecture appearances this fall at the invitation of numerous churches, clubs and other organizations across the U.S., it was disclosed in Atlanta. The talented soprano launched her concert career nearly nine years ago, but has had to limit her appearances in recent years because of intensified involvement in the civil rights struggle along with her husband.

In the past, she has appeared mostly in concert as a singer, and since 1958 as a lecturer and a speaker. Her tour this year will take on the unique format of a combination of both. It will offer songs of and related to the freedom movement, together with appropriate dialogue tracing today's social revolution from its dramatic beginnings in Montgomery, Ala., to the present.

Begin In Mid-October

A product of Antioch College in Yellow Springs, Ohio, and the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, Massachusetts, Mrs. King previously has appeared in dozens of cities around the U. S. as well as in Europe, Africa and India.

At present, Mrs. King has made committments for at least a half-dozen appearances beginning in mid-October, but her entire tour has not yet been completed. Churches, clubs and other organizations interested in engaging her for an appearance may do so by writing direct to the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, 334 Auburn Avenue, N.E., Atlanta, Georgia 30303.

DIS 'N DATA

HAVE YOU HEARD . . . Those reports from Mississippi that Negroes there regular-pay utility bills that are twice the amounts paid by whites although they live in only two and three-room houses and are away from home long hours doing the menial chores in the big eight and 10-room homes of their white employers where such appliances as washers, dryers, air conditioners, television sets and record players are in constant use? . . . And did you hear about the cross-burning by Alabama's Klan on the lawn at the home of SCLC officer, Mrs. Erna Dungee of Montgomery, Alabama? It was set ablaze after the SCLC Assistant Secretary returned from addressing a mass meeting in Selma, Ala. Her only concern: police "wouldn't let me keep it for a souvenir."

• • •

DID YOU KNOW . . .That the hectic and rigorous travel schedule for SCLC prexy Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. has come to be so accepted as routine that his constant cross-country jaunts are almost regarded as commuter flights. Even quick trips abroad no longer raise eyebrows in the home office. For example, he is set to be in Amsterdam, Holland for two days in mid-August to address the European Baptist, then return again to Europe in mid-September as a guest of West Berlin Mayor Wily Brandt to open the West Berlin Culture Festival . . . Such constant travel might have led to the confusion of this letter writer who was trying to reach him. His letter was addressed thus: "Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr., NAACP Headquarters, 1820 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill." The address, of course, is that of Ebony and Jet magazines in Chicago. . . . And did you know that Comedian Dick Gregory has a new book due out next month. The title is simply Nigger. He says he hopes it will take the "sting" out of the word.

• • •

HAVE YOU SEEN . . .Those advertisements in southern dailies seeking buyers for novelty license plates which are replicas of Confederate battle flags? Among other things, its virtues are extolled as being ". . . a fine tribute and a memorable gift," and goes on to say that "your car will wear it with pride." It can be purchased—not in any of the 11 southern states—but from a post office box number in guess where —New York, New York!

The SCLC Bookshelf

New & Current

» Why We Can't Wait by Martin Luther King, Jr. In his third book, Dr. King articulates the logic of the Negro's dissatisfaction with well-meaning but futile "due process," step-at-a-time plans for achieving Freedom that is 100 years overdue. The negligible progress since Emancipation is reviewed and shows how irrational it is to expect the Negro to derive hope from that historical record. Dr. King also answers the question "Why 1963?"—discussing the past forces and outlining the developments that can now be anticipated. Harper & Row Publishers.

» Mississippi: The Closed Society by James W. Silver. Dr. Silver, a history professor at the University of Mississippi who witnessed the entrance of James H. Meredith, describes the state's commitment to the white supremacy doctrine. His warning: "Mississippi has no more chance of retaining her present folkways, including outmoded segregation and the conscious debasement of the Negro, than she once had of holding on to slavery." Harcourt, Brace and World, Inc. Publishers.

» Black, White and Gray, edited by Bradford Daniel. The thesis of this book states that the race problem is not one question, but a complex of questions and that these questions are best raised by a complex of questioners. Twenty-one points of view are presented in the voice of the Southern lawyer and the voice of the Negro moralist. Sheed and Ward Publishers.

Available At SCLC

» Why We Can't Wait by Martin Luther King, Jr. Publishers: Harper & Row. Price: $3.50.

» Strength To Love by Martin Luther King, Jr. Publishers: Harper & Row. Price: $3.50

» Stride Toward Freedom by Martin Luther King, Jr. Publisher: Harper & Brothers Co. Price: $2.95

» The SCLC Story In Words & Pictures, edited by Ed Clayton. Publishers: Southern Christian Leadership Conference. Price: $1.00.

» Echo In My Soul by Septima Poinsette Clark. Publishers: E. P. Dutton & Co. Price: $4.50

» The Desegregated Heart by Sarah Patton Boyle. Publishers: William Morrow & Co. Price: $5.00

» The Day They Marched, edited by Doris Saunders. Publishers: Johnson Publishing Co. Price: $1.00

Ebony-Jet Writer Authors New Book On 'Revolution'

Simeon Booker

The Negro's fight for equality has engulfed the United States in a social revolution. In Black Man's America, Simeon Booker, prize-winning Washington correspondent for Ebony and Jet magazines, explains the significance of this revolution both in his role as close observer of national affairs and as one of the nation's leading Negro journalists.

The book, just published by Prentice-Hall, examines the Negro's 100-year battle against social, political and economic hardships, and shows how this period of turmoil resulted in the Civil Rights movement of the 1960's.

Booker tells the "inside" story of the "churning cauldron of bitterness, ambition, struggle, and politics" which caused the Negro Revolution of 1963. He describes the role played by the late John F. Kennedy, and reveals much about the average Negro's feelings toward Kennedy and other government leaders.

From his experiences during the 1963 revolution, Booker provides an account of how Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. won the battle of Birmingham.

Booker, a Nieman Fellow at Harvard, was previously with the Washington Post and the Cleveland Call-Post. He is a native of Youngstown, Ohio.

NAACP's Roy Wilkins To Write Book In '65

NAACP Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins is scheduled to write a book for McGraw-Hill publishers which will cover his more than 30 years of activity and experiences in the civil rights movements. The book, not yet titled, is set for publication early in 1965.

Mr. Wilkins, a former managing editor of the Kansas City Call, a Negro weekly newspaper, joined the NAACP in 1931 as assistant secretary. He has served as Executive Secretary since 1955, following the death of the late Walter White.

Norwegian Magazine Urges Nobel Prize For Dr. King

A Norwegian religious magazine, "Varr Kirke" (Our Church) has joined in the proposal that Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. be given the Nobel Peace Prize for 1964. Previously, he had been proposed for the honor by a group of Swedish Legislators. The winner of the award, which carries with it $50,000 in cash, is chosen by the Norwegian Parliament and the announcement is made between October and mid-December.

The Lutheran magazine, commenting editorially, said: "it would be difficult in today's situation to find a more deserving candidate."

The publication pointed out that Dr. King should be awarded the prize for his role in the nonviolent struggle.

The Poet's Pen

Concession

I will not call you Negro,
The word is dignified,
Dignity on such terms
I cannot abide.
Nigger is a gross word,
One I will not use,
I, a southern gentleman
Do not condone abuse.
Since I must address you,
Neither Sir nor slur,
A masterpiece! My hybrid word
Negra, I confer.

LEWIS H. FENDERSON
Howard University
Washington, D. C.

WHY WE CAN'T WAIT

MARTIN LUTHER KING, Jr.

An explanation of the events and pressures behind today's and tomorrow's quest for civil rights.

The most lucid appraisal to date of all the complex circumstances that have surrounded today's nonviolent revolution, Dr. King writes with critical candor of the Negro's contained discontent and his determination to have "NOW" his long-denied rights.

$3.50

Harper & Row, Publishers

SCLC
334 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Sirs:

☐ Please send me.....copies of WHY WE CAN'T WAIT at the regular price of $3.50. I enclose $.....in.....cash.....check.....money order.

Name.....

Address.....

City.....State.....Zip.....

The Next Frontier

By Wyatt Tee Walker

With the civil rights bill now the law of the land, it is apparent that in the foreseeable future, we shall see its implementation and enforcement. Thus, the Negro community, particularly, can realistically expect in the next few years, that which Dr. Benjamin Mays calls the equality of citizenship—the right to develop individual capacity without the external and obvious obstacles of law and custom that buttressed segregation and discrimination. For the most part, the present bill eliminates (with rigorous enforcement) a great deal of what has bedeviled the Negro for the last three generations.

No Final Panacea

Now it must be said, to the consternation of many liberals, black and white, that it is folly to accept passage of the civil rights bill as the final panacea to the Negro community's thousand and one ills. It is a step in the right direction—perhaps a stride—but only that!

What value, precisely, does the civil rights bill hold for me if psychologically and emotionally I have adjusted to my Negro provincialism and do not genuinely feel that I belong in America? As difficult and as brutal as it is, we must confess that many, many Negroes in search of an ethnic historical context, now or earlier, looked toward Africa. The salient fact that we must believe and accept is that Negro Americans are Americans, that we are products of Western civilization and have contributed significantly to this culture in spite of the slave experience.

'Cultural Blackout'

This is the point at which the next frontier looms. The apprehension and hesitancy that now besets the hearts and minds of Negro Americans is the product of a "cultural black-out"—the intentional and premeditated exclusion of the Negro's significant role in the American experience.

How am I to gain confidence and assurance in an integrated school in Birmingham, Alabama, when I can find no record of my people save that they were once slaves? This "cultural black-out" is not only ominous in portent for the present and next generation of Negro children, it has its dire effect in distorting the minds and experience of all of America's children. It is as important for a child of Italian ancestry to know that blood plasma was developed by Charles Drew (a Negro) as it is for him to know of Christopher Columbus. His father or morther or someone he loves might be granted a new lease on life through the use of blood plasma and he will be able to relate directly to his experience that many kinds of people, early and late in history, contributed to making this nation a land of greater fulfillment.

VOTE FREEDOM IN '64!

For the last ten years, my life and career have been intertwined with what is properly called the Negro revolution. When the news was circulated that I was leaving the South and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference to accept another position in the publishing industry, over and over again, I was bombarded with the question, "How can you leave the movement (revolution)?" My answer from the beginning has been and remains the same. As a Negro, I could never leave the "movement". It seems now that the revolution, as does all revolutions, has created new dimensions. Over the past few years, I watched the "solid South" crack and then disintegrate. Yet the pace of integration vs. desegregation reflected a wide disparity. This is more noticeable now in the North where for years overt segregation and discrimination have been taboo. The frustration and despair of having apparent opportunity and not being able to seize it, ultimately degenerates to a Harlem and a Rochester. Unless the "cultural black-out" is lifted, unless we develop within ourselves a sense of history that is transmitted to all America, we may risk all that we have gained.

Four Million Dollars Invested

The critical importance of diminishing the "cultural black-out" was again demonstrated by the fact that Dr. King himself, granted me a two-year leave of absence to aid in the development of what is now called the Negro Heritage Library. Under the aegis of Educational Heritage, a Yonkers publishing firm, nearly four million dollars in the last four years have been invested gathering and codifying historical data on Negro life and culture. Noel Marder, the creative and brilliant young president of Educational Heritage envisions within the next two years a 20 to 24 volume family home reference library on the Negro that will meet the test of historical and literary criteria as well as the most modern technical processes in form and design of the publishing industry. The first eight volumes will be marketed in September, 1964.

Provide Sufficient Information

It is in this project that my energies and resources are now invested. The ultimate goal of the Negro Heritage Library is to provide sufficient finger-tip information on the Negro, that before many years, facts about the Negro community's contribution to the American experience will find its way naturally into the history texts of the nation's public schools.

This is the new frontier—waging an intensive campaign against the "cultural black-out" imposed upon the Negro—and only those with the enthusiasm and the patience for hard work dare join our ranks.

FROM THE PAGES OF NEGRO HISTORY

The first Negro to serve a full term in the U. S. Senate (1875-81) was able, cultivated Blanche K. Bruce, son of a white Virginia planter and a slave, who was educated by a tutor, escaped to the North, studied at Oberlin College, and after the Civil War became a Mississippi planter.

AN ODD COMPARISON OF LINCOLN & KENNEDY

Lincoln	Kennedy
1.) Civil Rights Advocate	1.) Civil Rights Advocate
2.) Elected in 1860	2.) Elected in 1960
3.) Assassinated on a Friday in the presence of his wife.	3.) Assassinated on a Friday in the presence of his wife.
4.) Succeeded by Vice-President Andrew Johnson	4.) Succeeded by Vice-President Lyndon B. Johnson
5.) Andrew Johnson was a Southerner	5.) Lyndon Johnson was a Southerner
6.) Andrew Johnson was born in 1808	6.) Lyndon Johnson was born in 1908
7.) John Wilkes Booth who assassinated Lincoln was a Southerner	7.) Lee Harvey Oswald who assassinated Kennedy was a Southerner
8.) Booth was born in 1839	8.) Oswald was born in 1939
9.) Booth was slain before his trial	9.) Oswald was slain before his trial
10.) Lincoln had a child to die while he occupied the White House	10.) Kennedy had a child to die during his presidency
11.) Lincoln's Secretary, Kennedy, advised him not to go to the Ford Theater.	11.) Kennedy's Secretary, Lincoln, advised him not to visit Dallas.

JOINS SCLC STAFF

(Continued from Page 1)

author and co-author of four books. They are: Leadership Training Handbook, 1955, A & M College; Public School Law— Alabama Cases and Materials, 1956, A & M College, Normal, Alabama; Principles of Economics, 1958, Pitman Publishing Co., New York, N.Y.; and College Business Law, 1960, Pitman Publishing Co., New York, N.Y.

Besides these, he has also written and had published several articles in the related fields of his formal training.

Mr. Blackwell is married to the former Elizabeth Knox of Winston-Salem, North Carolina, and they are the parents of one child, a daughter, Blanche, age six.

Ghana Opens First Meat Factory

The first meat canning factory in Ghana was scheduled to begin operation in July at Bolgatanga, 650 miles north of the Ghanaian capital of Accra. A daily production schedule of 15,000 tins of corned beef has been set.

VOLUNTEER REGISTRARS, A GEORGIA FIRST—Part of the reason why voter registration in Atlanta, Georgia has risen to record numbers was the employment last spring of Negro volunteers for the first time to register new voters. A total of 94 worked without pay in SCLC-assisted voter registration drive which has brought registration of Negroes to upwards of 70,000 in Fulton County and 275,000 over state.

From The Pages of Negro History

The first American who actually reached the North Pole (1909) was the late Matthew Henson, a Negro who accompanied Admiral Robert E. Peary.

From The Pages of Negro History

In the Civil War, more than 210,000 Negroes fought in the Union army and navy. Among them, 20 were awarded Congressional Medals of Honor. More than 38,000 Negro soldiers were killed in 449 battles.

From The Pages of Negro History

George Washington barred Negroes from the Continental Army until the British began recruiting slaves. Alarmed, the Americans then enlisted more than 5,000 Negro soldiers and used them in integrated units.

Of Riots And Wrongs Against Jews

By Martin Luther King, Jr.

Dr. King

The recent riots in New York City and Rochester were a cause of dismay and disappointment for me. We have for many years preached and practiced a policy of nonviolent peaceful protest, and with this technique we have made substantial gains. More important, we have insisted that only just means be used in seeking a just end. We had hoped to establish a high moral plane for our cause, and I believe that in the main we have succeeded.

The riots, with their attendant destruction of property and looting, may be explained, but immoral conduct for any reason can never be justified.

In my judgment, the role of the Negro leaders in such a crisis is two-fold. On the one hand we must vigorously condemn the violence and lawlessness in the Negro community. On the other hand, we muust be equally vigorous in appealing to the white power structure to work passionately and unrelentlessly to get rid of environmental conditions that caused the riots. By this I mean the elimination of ghettoized housing, discriminatory barriers to jobs, and inferior, segregated schools.

Pained At Looting

While the outbursts in New York City and Rochester cannot be considered expressions of anti-semitism, I am particularly pained to learn that a large percentage of the looted stores were owned by our Jewish friends since as a group, the Jewish citizens of the United States have always stood for freedom, justice, and an end to bigotry.

Our Jewish friends have demonstrated their commitment to the principle of tolerance and brotherhood in tangible ways, often at great personal sacrifices. Can we ever express our appreciation to the Rabbis who chose to give moral witness with us in St. Augustine during our recent protest against segregation in that unhappy city? And I need not remind you of the awful beating suffered by Rabbi Arthur Lelyveld of Cleveland, Ohio in Hattiesburg, Miss. (see photo below) as he joined civil rights workers there in July.

Great Contribution

And who will ever forget the sacrifice of two Jewish lives, Andrew Goodman and Michael Schwerner, in Mississippi this past June? It would be impossible to record the contribution that the Jewish people have made toward the Negro's struggle for freedom — it has been so great.

I solemnly pledge to do my utmost to uphold the fair name of the Jews. Not only because we need their friendship, and surely we do, but mainly because bigotry in any form is an affront to us all.

Rabbi Lelyveld

Letters To SCLC

Lester Maddox And His Chicken

Dear Sirs:

I was very glad to see that Lester Maddox got what was coming to him as I read in today's Springfield Union that a three judge federal court had ruled against his discriminatory practices. Earlier in February I remember reading a column by Ed Clayton in your SCLC Newsletter about Lester Maddox and his Jim Crow Chicken.

I believe that the culmination of this Civil Rights struggle will come very soon. I have fought for this cause in Williamston, North Carolina under the competent leadership of Mr. Golden Frinks, and there I was put in jail. However, I would do this many times over in order to have my dark-skinned brothers free to live the way I do.

JAMES L. STEVENSON

Springfield, Mass.

Walls Of St. Augustine

Dear Dr. King:

I am sorry you are in jail again. Isn't it odd that people like you, ,who are doing right, are placed in the company of those who have done wrong? Do you know for what you were arrested? I don't, and probably, neither do the peace officers who arrested you. The seven people arrested at the seventh try on the beach at St. Augustine, they were just trying to bath at a public beach. I was overjoyed that anyone was allowed on that beach at the eighth try. Before, it was just a beach; now it is a step forward.

The first thing I ever learned about St. Augustine was that it was the oldest city in the world. I pictured it as a walled fortress, but with no one inside. My idea was true. St. Augustine is a walled city, self walled. It may prevent others from coming in, but it also locks those inside forever inthin the walls of hate. The people who have walled themselves in are the same as the people outside, yet through their ignorance they have imagined otherwise. Only they suffer. They do not exist.

Mr. King, this letter will probably never reach you, but someone will read it and know how I feel. I'm afraid the people of St. Augustine would not agree with me but I shant [sic] fret, I know they are wrong.

JENNIFER STONE

Indianapolis, Ind.

Independence Day

Dear Dr. King:

My thoughts have been with you so much since President Johnson signed the Civil Rights Bill and it became law. If any one person can be credited with passage of the bill, I think you are the one. God and millions of human beings have been with you, however, and I am sure countless human beings, regardless of the color of their skins, are deeply grateful for what has happened this Independence Day.

There is much for all of us to do before our country is the truly great Democracy we all want it to be. I hope I can continue to support your work for a long time to come.

God bless you, your fine family, and the future of your great work. Today has been a thrilling Independence Day for many of us, I suspect, as well as for you.

BEATRICE S. ROSSELL

Phoenix, Arizona

Shares Desire For Victory

Dear Mr. King and my dear Negroes:

It is with deep concern and a sharing of your desire for victory that I have watched your civil rights struggle. It is this that has prompted me to write to you, to encourage you and give you in written form my full support knowing what is has cost you and will yet cost you to continue. My prayers and understanding also to your wife and children who in many instances must wait out the tense days and hours at home hoping for victory and yet equally anxious for the welfare of their husbands, fathers, sons, and daughters; brothers and sisters.

I need not tell you not to give up, for I know, thank God, that you will not. But I believe in a time of crisis it is good to support our leaders again and again, confirming them in their stand and letting them know their efforts are appreciated and their ideals true.

May God bless you, your families, your efforts.

SISTER TERESE ANGELINA MOREAU

Carmichael, California

100 Years Of Cherished Hate

Dear Dr. King:

On the 13th of this month, I will be 97 years old. I was born and reared 25 miles west of Clarksburg, West Virginia, where Stonewall Jackson was born and reared. Both my father and grandfather voted for Secession for many, many years. My sympathy has been with the colored people of the United States. One hundred years is a long time to cherish hate and I hope the day will come soon when the Negroes will have absolutely equal rights.

GERTRUDE COLLSON

Richmond, Ohio

CONTRIBUTIONS

I wish to contribute to the work of SCLC and the social struggle in the South.

NAME.....

ADDRESS.....
(street)

.....
(city & state)

Amount of Contribution.....

Send to: SCLC
334 Auburn Ave., N.E.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

SCLC Newsletter
334 Auburn Ave., N.E.
Atlanta, Ga. 30303

Non Profit Org.
U. S. POSTAGE
PAID
Atlanta, Ga.
Permit 663

New South
Southern Regional Council
5 Forsyth N.W.
Atlanta 3, Ga.

RETURN REQUESTED

Southern Education Reporting Service

P. O. BOX 6156, ACKLEN STATION
1109 NINETEENTH AVE., SOUTH
NASHVILLE 12, TENNESSEE

OFFICERS:

FRANK AHLGREN
CHAIRMAN

THOMAS R. WARING
VICE CHAIRMAN

REED SARRATT
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

FRANK AHLGREN
EDITOR
THE COMMERCIAL APPEAL
MEMPHIS, TENN.

EDWARD D. BALL
EDITOR
THE TENNESSEAN
NASHVILLE, TENN.

HARVIE BRANSCOMB
CHANCELLOR
VANDERBILT UNIVERSITY
NASHVILLE, TENN.

LUTHER H. FOSTER
PRESIDENT
TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA.

FELIX C. ROBB
PRESIDENT
GEORGE PEABODY COLLEGE
NASHVILLE, TENN.

C. A. McKNIGHT
EDITOR
THE OBSERVER
CHARLOTTE, N. C.

CHARLES MOSS
EXECUTIVE EDITOR
THE BANNER
NASHVILLE, TENN.

GEORGE N. REDD
DEAN
FISK UNIVERSITY
NASHVILLE, TENN.

REED SARRATT
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
SOUTHERN EDUCATION
REPORTING SERVICE

DON SHOEMAKER
EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR
THE HERALD
MIAMI, FLA.

BERT STRUBY
GENERAL MANAGER
THE TELEGRAPH & NEWS
MACON, GA.

THOMAS R. WARING
EDITOR
THE NEWS & COURIER
CHARLESTON, S. C.

HENRY I. WILLETT
SUPT. OF SCHOOLS
RICHMOND, VA.

Publishers of
SOUTHERN SCHOOL NEWS
CYpress 1-1262

December 26, 1961

Mr. James A. Moss
Director of Research
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N.W.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Moss:

The Southern Regional Council already has bought and paid for "Facts on Film" covering the period May, 1954 through June, 1961. The 1960-61 supplement should be ready for delivery very soon.

Sincerely yours,

Reed Sarratt
Executive Director

December 22, 1961

Mr. Reed Sarratt
Executive Director
Southern Education Reporting Service
1109 Ninetbbnth Avenue, South
Nashville 12, Tennessee

Dear Mr. Sarratt:

Is it possible that the 1960-61 Supplement to "Facts on Film" may be bought at a later date, or will this be our only opportunity to secure this resource?

Sincerely,

James A. Moss
Director of Research

JAM:nm

Southern Education Reporting Service

P. O. BOX 6156, ACKLEN STATION
1109 NINETEENTH AVE., SOUTH
NASHVILLE 12, TENNESSEE

OFFICERS:

FRANK AHLGREN
CHAIRMAN

THOMAS R. WARING
VICE CHAIRMAN

REED SARRATT
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

FRANK AHLGREN
EDITOR
THE COMMERCIAL APPEAL
MEMPHIS, TENN.

EDWARD D. BALL
EDITOR
THE TENNESSEAN
NASHVILLE, TENN.

HARVIE BRANSCOMB
CHANCELLOR
VANDERBILT UNIVERSITY
NASHVILLE, TENN.

LUTHER H. FOSTER
PRESIDENT
TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA.

HENRY H. HILL
PRESIDENT
GEORGE PEABODY COLLEGE
NASHVILLE, TENN.

C. A. McKNIGHT
EDITOR
THE OBSERVER
CHARLOTTE, N. C.

CHARLES MOSS
EXECUTIVE EDITOR
THE BANNER
NASHVILLE, TENN.

GEORGE N. REDD
DEAN
FISK UNIVERSITY
NASHVILLE, TENN.

REED SARRATT
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
SOUTHERN EDUCATION
REPORTING SERVICE

DON SHOEMAKER
EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR
THE HERALD
MIAMI, FLA.

BERT STRUBY
GENERAL MANAGER
THE TELEGRAPH
MACON, GA.

THOMAS R. WARING
EDITOR
THE NEWS & COURIER
CHARLESTON, S. C.

HENRY I. WILLETT
SUPT. OF SCHOOLS
RICHMOND, VA.

December 8, 1961

Publishers of
SOUTHERN SCHOOL NEWS
CYpress 1-1262

Dear Librarian:

Microfilming of the 1960-61 supplement to Facts on Film has been finished, and the prints now are being made. Your copy should reach you by Christmas, and in no event later than January 1.

This completes the microfilm that you contracted to buy. It reproduces our library collection from its beginning in 1954 through June, 1961. Southern Education Reporting Service will continue to function at least through June 30, 1963, but our Board of Directors has yet to decide (1) whether to continue the annual supplements to the microfilm for these two years and (2) the price to be charged for each supplement, if produced.

In making these decisions, it would be helpful to know whether you would be interested in purchasing supplements to the microfilm for the years 1961-62 and 1962-63. The price would be set as near cost as possible, probably at $250 or $300 for each supplement.

For your convenience, I am enclosing a blank on which you may indicate whether you probably would purchase additional supplements. A postage-paid return envelope also is supplied.

Your reply will in no way commit you to purchasing the microfilm. Your expression of interest in it, however, probably will be the determining factor in our decision about continuing the microfilm project.

Sincerely yours,

Reed Sarratt

Reed Sarratt
Executive Director

Enc.

I think yes, at least I don't know how much it will be worth JAM LWD

My library would be interested in purchasing annual supplements to the Southern Education Reporting Service library for the years 1961-62 and 1962-63 at a probable price of $250 to $300 for each supplement.

Librarian

W. L. SNELL

National Printing Company
971 Peachtree St. • NE • Atlanta 9, Georgia

Printers & Lithographers • TRinity 5-7081

JM -

I think it would be helpful, in making a decision, if you would write Reed & ask whether the supplements could be bought later, if not ordered in advance

July 11, 1963

Mr. Reed Sarratt
Executive Director
Southern Education Reporting Service
P. O. Box 6156 Acklen Station
Nashville 12, Tennessee

Dear Mr. Sarratt:

Like everyone else concerned with the civil rights crisis, we are desperately trying to keep abreast of the latest developments. It is particularly important for us to get the most up-to-date information since we are planning to release periodic supplements to the enclosed publication, "The Civil Rights Crisis: A Synopsis of Recent Developments."

As you will note, this synopsis ran through June 24, and we are hoping to issue a supplement covering events since then next week. The SERS clips should be a principal source of information for us. Unfortunately, however, they are running more than two weeks behind time.

For example, this morning we received two batches of clips, both were mailed July 8. But the news stories in them are dated June 21 and June 22, respectively; we have yet to receive clips covering the period between June 24 and today.

I am writing, therefore, to ask if your office can close the gap between the date of the news clips sent and the date they are mailed. I realize, of course, that your office is as hard-pressed as ours these days. But if you can possibly provide us with more current clips, we will be most grateful. Otherwise, we simply won't be able to keep current and comprehensive our record of events in the bubbling and boiling civil rights crisis. I'm sure you can understand our dilemma, and I hope it will be possible to speed up the flow of valuable information from your office.

Yours sincerely,

Staige D. Blackford
Research Director

SDB:nm
Enclosure

September 18, 1963

Mr. Reed Sarratt
Executive Director
Southern Education Reporting Service
1109 Nineteenth Avenue, South
Nashville 12, Tennessee

Dear Reed:

Many thanks for sending us your guide to the subject headings used in indexing materials for the SERS library. The guide seems very impressive, and I am looking forward to reading it. While we may not want to adopt your system in total, we may find in the guide useful ideas for improving our own system.

I guess you've had your hands full the past fortnight with the annual school opening crisis. Thankfully, this year, it has been confined to Alabama and the machinations of the man some Alabamians are now calling "crazy George Wallace."

Incidentally, for some reason we never received our copies of the August issue of Southern School News, and would appreciate it very much if you could include that issue with your up-coming issue.

Best regards,

Staige D. Blackford
Research Director

SDB:nm

Southern Education Reporting Service

P. O. BOX 6156, ACKLEN STATION
1109 NINETEENTH AVE., SOUTH
NASHVILLE 12, TENNESSEE

OFFICERS:

BERT STRUBY
CHAIRMAN

THOMAS R. WARING
VICE CHAIRMAN

REED SARRATT
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

FRANK AHLGREN
EDITOR
THE COMMERCIAL APPEAL
MEMPHIS, TENN.

LUTHER H. FOSTER
PRESIDENT
TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA.

ALEXANDER HEARD
CHANCELLOR
VANDERBILT UNIVERSITY
NASHVILLE, TENN.

C. A. McKNIGHT
EDITOR
THE OBSERVER
CHARLOTTE, N. C.

CHARLES MOSS
EXECUTIVE EDITOR
THE BANNER
NASHVILLE, TENN.

FELIX C. ROBB
PRESIDENT
GEORGE PEABODY COLLEGE
NASHVILLE, TENN.

REED SARRATT
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
SOUTHERN EDUCATION
REPORTING SERVICE

JOHN SEIGENTHALER
EDITOR
THE TENNESSEAN
NASHVILLE, TENN.

DON SHOEMAKER
EDITOR
THE HERALD
MIAMI, FLA.

BERT STRUBY
GENERAL MANAGER
THE TELEGRAPH & NEWS
MACON, GA.

THOMAS R. WARING
EDITOR
THE NEWS & COURIER
CHARLESTON, S. C.

HENRY I. WILLETT
SUPT. OF SCHOOLS
RICHMOND, VA.

STEPHEN J. WRIGHT
PRESIDENT
FISK UNIVERSITY
NASHVILLE, TENN.

Publishers of
SOUTHERN SCHOOL NEWS
CYpress 1-1262

Sept. 11, 1963

Dear Staige:

Our librarian has just completed a guide to the subject headings used in indexing materials for the SERS library. Sometime ago Janet Smith expressed an interest in obtaining a list of our subject headings. Although I realize that you would not want to adopt our system, you and your staff may find it of some interest and value in handling the Xerox materials that you receive from us.

Sincerely yours,

Reed Sarratt
Executive Director

Mr. Staige Blackford
Research Director
Southern Regional Council
5 Forsyth Street, NW
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Enc.

Southern Education Reporting Service

P. O. BOX 6156, ACKLEN STATION
1109 NINETEENTH AVE., SOUTH
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE 37212

OFFICERS:

BERT STRUBY
CHAIRMAN

THOMAS R. WARING
VICE CHAIRMAN

REED SARRATT
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

FRANK AHLGREN
EDITOR
THE COMMERCIAL APPEAL
MEMPHIS, TENN.

LUTHER H. FOSTER
PRESIDENT
TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA.

ALEXANDER HEARD
CHANCELLOR
VANDERBILT UNIVERSITY
NASHVILLE, TENN.

C. A. McKNIGHT
EDITOR
THE OBSERVER
CHARLOTTE, N. C.

CHARLES MOSS
EXECUTIVE EDITOR
THE BANNER
NASHVILLE, TENN.

FELIX C. ROBB
PRESIDENT
GEORGE PEABODY COLLEGE
NASHVILLE, TENN.

REED SARRATT
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
SOUTHERN EDUCATION
REPORTING SERVICE

JOHN SEIGENTHALER
EDITOR
THE TENNESSEAN
NASHVILLE, TENN.

DON SHOEMAKER
EDITOR
THE HERALD
MIAMI, FLA.

BERT STRUBY
GENERAL MANAGER
THE TELEGRAPH & NEWS
MACON, GA.

THOMAS R. WARING
EDITOR
THE NEWS & COURIER
CHARLESTON, S. C.

HENRY I. WILLETT
SUPT. OF SCHOOLS
RICHMOND, VA.

STEPHEN J. WRIGHT
PRESIDENT
FISK UNIVERSITY
NASHVILLE, TENN.

Publishers of
SOUTHERN SCHOOL NEWS
CYpress 1-1262

VJ

Please handle we need to revise

VJ: Note the attached revised list done by MM + RHA

M. Ildred + Ruth have handled — the list totals 96 VJ

Feb. 25, 1964

Dr. Leslie W. Dunbar
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N.W.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Dr. Dunbar:

The group subscription by the Southern Regional Council for Southern School News expired with the February issue.

It is obvious from a glance at the list that these people are among those with significant need for SSN, and of course we are keeping them on the mailing list for the March issue pending receipt of your renewal order.

We are sending you again the 87 names and addresses for your convenience in making corrections or changes. May I suggest that perhaps there are additional people whom you might see fit to provide with the pertinent coverage available only through SSN.

Of course we'll be glad to bill you later, as you may request. A postage-paid envelope is herewith for your convenience in ordering.

With all good wishes,

Sincerely,

Tom Flake

Tom Flake
Director of Publications

Enc.

Southern Education Reporting Service

P. O. BOX 6156, ACKLEN STATION
1109 NINETEENTH AVE., SOUTH
NASHVILLE 12, TENNESSEE

Your current subscription totals 87.

FEB 64- -13370 S
NAT WELCH
342 HARE AVE
AUBURN, ALA

FEB 64- -13370 S
LUCIUS M PITTS, PRES MILES COLLEGE
BIRMINGHAM, ALA

FEB 64- -13370 S
REV DUNCAN HUNTER
DISTRICT SUPT-METH CH
1009 WESTMORELAND AVE
HUNTSVILLE, ALA

FEB 64- -13370 S
DR LUTHER H FOSTER, PRES
TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
TUSKEGEE, ALA

FEB 64- -13370 S
DEAN C G GOMILLION
TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
TUSKEGEE, ALA

FEB 64- -13370 S
MRS E M SPARLING
ROUTE 5, BOX 425
HOT SPRINGS, ARK

FEB 64- -13370 S
REV C S CARTWRIGHT
PULASKI HGTS CHRSTN CH HILLCREST & SPRUCE
LITTLE ROCK, ARK

FEB 64- -13370 S
DR ROOSEVELT CROCKETT
PRESIDENT
PHILANDER SMITH COLLEGE
LITTLE ROCK, ARK

FEB 64- -13370 S
DR WM H TOWNSEND
507 W 31ST ST
LITTLE ROCK, ARK

FEB 64- -13370 S
MRS VIVION BREWER
BOX 314, ROUTE 1
SCOTT, ARK

FEB 64- -13370 S
COL F P MILLER
2810 P STREET, N W
WASHINGTON 7, D C

FEB 64- -13370 S
DR SAMUEL PROCTOR
ASSO DIR, PEACE CORPS
WASHINGTON, D C

FEB 64- -13370 S
DR H FRANKLIN WILLIAMS
VICE PRESIDENT
THE UNIVERSITY OF MIAMI
CORAL GABLES, FLA

FEB 64- -13370 S
REV CAXTON DOGGETT
72 LAKE MORTON DRIVE
LAKELAND, FLA

FEB 64- -13370 S
HERBERT M DAVIDSON
DAYTONA BEACH NEWS JRNL
DAYTONA BEACH, FLA

FEB 64- -13370 S
MRS AUSTIN KIMBALL
3131 S W FIRST AVE
GAINESVILLE, FLA

FEB 64- -13370 S
I H BURNEY
P O BOX 2140
JACKSONVILLE 3, FLA

FEB 64- -13370 S
REV THEODORE GIBSON CHRIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH
3841 HIBISCUS ST
MIAMI 33, FLA

FEB 64- -13370 S
DR JOHN A GRIFFIN
FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY
TALLAHASSEE, FLA

FEB 64- -13370 S
MISS JOSEPHINE WILKINS
387 SOUTH MILLEDGE AVE
ATHENS, GA

FEB 64 - -13370 S
DEAN B R BRAZEAL
MOREHOUSE COLLEGE
ATLANTA 8, GA

FEB 64- -13370 S
DR RUFUS E CLEMENT, PRES
ATLANTA UNIVERSITY
ATLANTA, GA

FEB 64- -13370 S
JOSEPH HAAS, COUNSEL
1116 FIRST NAT'L BK BLDG
ATLANTA 3, GA

FEB 64- -13370 S
MRS GRACE T HAMILTON
582 UNIVERSITY PL, N W
ATLANTA, GA

FEB 64- -13370 S
E T KEHRER
SOUTHEASTERN REG, ILGWU
1065 GORDON ST, S W
ATLANTA 10, GA

FEB 64- -13370 S
DR BENJAMIN E MAYS, PRES
MOREHOUSE COLLEGE
ATLANTA, GA

FEB 64- -13370 S
L D MILTON, PRES
CITIZENS TRUST CO
212 AUBURN AVE, N E
ATLANTA, GA

FEB 64- -13370 S
DR H V RICHARDS, PRES
INTR THEOLOGICAL CENTER
671 BECKWITH ST, S W
ATLANTA, GA

FEB 64- -13370 S
RABBI JACOB M ROTHSCHILD
1489 PEACHTREE ST, N W
ATLANTA, GA

FEB 64- -13370 S
DR BELL I WILEY
DEPT OF HISTORY
EMORY UNIVERSITY
ATLANTA 22, GA

FEB 64- -13370 S
DR J M RICHARDS, PRES
COLUMBIA THEOLOGICAL SEM
DECATUR, GA

FEB 64- -13370 S
DR CRAWFORD BROCK
14 PROFESSIONAL COURT
ROME, GA

FEB 64- -13370 S
DR RILEY B MONTGOMERY
PRESIDENT
COLLEGE OF THE BIBLE
LEXINGTON, KY

FEB 64- -13370 S
MISS DORCAS RUTHENBURG
DIRECTOR
2215 BONNYCASTLE AVE
LOUISVILLE 5, KY

FEB 64- -13370 S
CHARLES T STEELE
LOUISVILLE URBAN LEAGUE
209 MARKET ST, WEST
LOUISVILLE, KY

FEB 64- -13370 S
LEE B THOMAS, JR, EVP
VERMONT AMERICAN CORP
500 E MAIN ST
LOUISVILLE, KY

FEB 64- -13370 S
JOHN G LEWIS
P O BOX 2110
BATON ROUGE, LA

FEB 64- -13370 S
RT REV MSGR A O SIGUR
U S L STATION, BOX 532
LAFAYETTE, LA

FEB 64- -13370 S
MRS MOISE CAHN
40 VERSAILLE BLVD
NEW ORLEANS, LA

FEB 64- -13370 S
DR ALBERT W DENT, PRES
DILLARD UNIVERSITY
NEW ORLEANS, LA

FEB 64- -13370 S
JOHN P NELSON, JR
702 GRAVIER BLDG
535 GRAVIER ST
NEW ORLEANS 12, LA

FEB 64- -13370 S
MISS FLORENCE SYTZ
1347 MOSS ST, N E
NEW ORLEANS 19, LA

FEB 64- -13370 S
HODDING CARTER
DELTA-DEMOCRAT TIMES
GREENVILLE, MISS

Feb 64- -13370 S
Most Rev. J. B. Brunini
Bishop, The Catholic Ch.
P. O. Box 2248
Jackson, Miss. 39205

FEB 64- -13370 S
MRS MARTIN HARVEY
415 NORTH FARISH ST
JACKSON 2, MISS

FEB 64- -13370 S
DR A D BEITTEL, PRES
TOUGALOO CHRISTIAN COLL
TOUGALOO, MISS

FEB 64- -13370 S
DR FRANK P GRAHAM
THE UNITED NATIONS,
NEW YORK CITY, N Y

FEB 64- -13370 S
PROF PAUL E GREEN
UNIV OF NORTH CAROLINA
CHAPEL HILL, N C

FEB 64- -13370 S
DR GUY B JOHNSON
DEPT OF SOCIOLOGY
UNIV OF NORTH CAROLINA
CHAPEL HILL, N C

FEB 64- -13370 S
REV THOMAS THRASHER
CHAPEL OF THE CROSS
CHAPEL HILL, N C

FEB 64- -13370 S
FRED D ALEXANDER
2140 SENIOR DRIVE
CHARLOTTE 8, N C

FEB 64- -13370 S
DR RAYMOND WHEELER
1900 BURNSWICK AVE
CHARLOTTE, N C

FEB 64- -13370 S
JOHN H WHEELER, PRES
MECHANICS & FARMERS BANK
DURHAM, N C

FEB 64- -13370 S
McNIELL SMITH
700 JEFFERSON ST BLDG
GREENSBORO, N C

FEB 64- -13370 S
MARION A WRIGHT
TOP KNOT
LINVILLE FALLS, N C

FEB 64- -13370 S
J RAY SHUTE
U F S J
P O BOX 24
MONROE, N C

FEB 64- -13370 S
IRVING E CARLYLE
WACHOVIA BANK BLDG
WINSTON-SALEM, N C

FEB 64- -13370 S
REV KELLY M SMITH
8869 CEDAR AVE
CLEVELAND, OHIO 44160

FEB 64- -13370 S
JAMES E STEWART
548 N E 4TH ST
OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLA

FEB 64- -13370 S
ANDRES M SECREST, EDITOR
THE CHERAW CHRONICLE
CHERAW, S C

FEB 64- -13370 S
W E SOLOMON
1719 TAYLOR ST
COLUMBIA, S C

FEB 64- -13370 S
COURTNEY SICELOFF, DIR
PENN COMMUNITY CENTER
FROGMORE, S C

FEB 64- -13370 S
JAMES M DABBS
RIP RAPS PLANTATION
MAYESVILLE, S C

FEB 64- -13370 S
REV M D McCOLLOM
P O BOX 423
WALTERBORO, S C

FEB 64- -13370 S
WALTER SHARP
RT 2, BEECH CREEK RD
BRENTWOOD, TENN

FEB 64- -13370 S
PAUL R CHRISTOPHER AFL-CIO REGIONAL DIR
216 FLATIRON BLDG
KNOXVILLE, TENN

FEB 64- -13370 S
DR JAMES A COLSTON, PRES
KNOXVILLE COLLEGE
KNOXVILLE, TENN

FEB 64- -13370 S
MRS J F TILLMAN
WDCS - METHODIST CHURCH
LEWISBURG, TENN

FEB 64- -13370 S
Z A LOOBY, ATTY
327 CHARLOTTE AVE
NASHVILLE, TENN

FEB 64- -13370 S
DR STEPHEN J WRIGHT,
PRESIDENT
FISK UNIVERSITY
NASHVILLE, TENN

FEB 64- -13370 S
JAMES STOKELY
405 CLIFTON HEIGHTS
NEWPORT, TENN

FEB 64- -13370 S
JEROME CROSSMAN, PRES
RYAN CONSOL PETROL CORP
3400 REPUBLIC NTL BK BL
DALLAS, TEXAS

FEB 64- -13370 S
DR DOUGLAS JACKSON
SOCIOLOGY OF RELIGION
SOUTHERN METHODIST UNIV
DALLAS, TEXAS

FEB 64- -13370 S
MRS JAMES S CRATE
8510 FERRIS ST
HOUSTON, TEXAS

FEB 64- -13370 S
RT REV J E HINES, BISHOP EPISCOPAL DIOCESE-TEXAS
520 SAN JACINTO ST
HOUSTON 2 TEXAS

FEB 64- -13370 S
MRS J N RAYZOR
3207 GROVELAND LANE
HOUSTON, TEXAS

FEB 64- -13370 S
MRS CHARLES WHITE
2209 SOUTHMORE BLVD
HOUSTON 4, TEXAS

FEB 64- -13370 S
RABBI CHARLES MANTINBAND
TEMPLE EMANUEL
BOX 423
LONGVIEW, TEXAS

FEB 64- -13370 S
REV HUBERT BECKWITH
CONGRL CHRSTN CH-FAIRFA
P O BOX 288
ANNANDALE, VA

FEB 64- -13370 S
DAVID SCULL, PRES TURNPIKE PRESS
ANNANDALE, VA

FEB 64- -13370 S
PROF ROBERT J HARRIS
UNIV OF VIRGINIA
CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA

FEB 64- -13370 S
MRS VIVIAN CARTER MASON
6401 VIRGINIA BEACH BLVD
NORFOLK, VA

FEB 64- -13370 S
THOMAS W YOUNG, EDT-PUB
THE JOURNAL & GUIDE
719 E OLNEY ROAD
NORFOLK, VA

FEB 64- -13370 S
DR EDW E HADDOCK
1133 W FRANKLIN ST
RICHMOND 20, VA

FEB 64- -13370 S
DR J RUPERT PICOTT
316 CLAY ST
RICHMOND, VA

FEB 64- -13370 S
REV W CARROLL BROOKE
BOX 4211
ROANOKE, VA

FEB 64- -13370
PAUL D WILLIAMS
3320 GLOUCESTER ROAD
RICHMOND, VA

When placing your renewal order, please return this list with any additions or corrections you may wish to make.

April 7, 1964

Mr. Reed Sarratt
Executive Director
Southern Education Reporting Service
1109 Nineteenth Avenue, South
Nashville 12, Tennessee

Dear Reed:

We have received the 1962-63 microfilms but as yet, we do not have the index for same.

Would you please check for me and see if it has already been mailed, or if it is still in the process of being made. An early reply would be highly appreciated.

Thank you for your attention in this matter.

Sincerely yours,

Staige D. Blackford
Research Director

SDB:nm

April 10, 1964

Mr. Reed Sarratt
Executive Director
Southern Education Reporting Service
1109 Nineteenth Avenue, South
Nashville, Tennessee

Dear Reed:

Many thanks for your letter. We received the index this week and with the new breakdown on demonstrations, it will be most helpful to us, particularly since we are having to rely more and more on microfilm.

Incidentally, I have another favor to ask. At the present time we are receiving five copies of Southern School News, but this has meant that Paul Anthony and Mrs. Tilly have had to share a copy. Since Paul travels so much and could use SSN on the road, could you please up our number of copies to six and bill us accordingly.

Many thanks.

Sincerely,

Staige D. Blackford
Research Director

SDB:nm

Southern Education Reporting Service

P. O. BOX 6156, ACKLEN STATION
1109 NINETEENTH AVE., SOUTH
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE 37212

OFFICERS:

C. A. McKNIGHT
CHAIRMAN

ALEXANDER HEARD
VICE CHAIRMAN

REED SARRATT
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

LUTHER H. FOSTER
PRESIDENT
TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA.

ALEXANDER HEARD
CHANCELLOR
VANDERBILT UNIVERSITY
NASHVILLE, TENN.

C. A. McKNIGHT
EDITOR
THE OBSERVER
CHARLOTTE, N. C.

CHARLES MOSS
EXECUTIVE EDITOR
THE BANNER
NASHVILLE, TENN.

JOHN N. POPHAM
GENERAL MANAGING EDITOR
THE TIMES
CHATTANOOGA, TENN.

FELIX C. ROBB
PRESIDENT
GEORGE PEABODY COLLEGE
NASHVILLE, TENN.

REED SARRATT
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
SOUTHERN EDUCATION
REPORTING SERVICE

JOHN SEIGENTHALER
EDITOR
THE TENNESSEAN
NASHVILLE, TENN.

DON SHOEMAKER
EDITOR
THE HERALD
MIAMI, FLA.

BERT STRUBY
GENERAL MANAGER
THE TELEGRAPH & NEWS
MACON, GA.

THOMAS R. WARING
EDITOR
THE NEWS & COURIER
CHARLESTON, S. C.

HENRY I. WILLETT
SUPT. OF SCHOOLS
RICHMOND, VA.

STEPHEN J. WRIGHT
PRESIDENT
FISK UNIVERSITY
NASHVILLE, TENN.

Publishers of SOUTHERN SCHOOL NEWS
291-1262

April 9, 1964

Dear Staige:

After receiving your letter, I called our microfilmer to learn why the index to the 1962-63 supplement to "Facts on Film" had not reached you. He told me that the indexes were mailed on April 3. I trust that yours has arrived by now.

Thank you for calling this to my attention.

Sincerely yours,

Reed Sarratt
Executive Director

Mr. Staige D. Blackford
Research Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N.W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

File

Southern Education Reporting Service

P. O. BOX 6156, ACKLEN STATION
1109 NINETEENTH AVE., SOUTH
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE 37212

OFFICERS:

C. A. McKNIGHT
CHAIRMAN

ALEXANDER HEARD
VICE CHAIRMAN

REED SARRATT
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

LUTHER H. FOSTER
PRESIDENT
TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA.

ALEXANDER HEARD
CHANCELLOR
VANDERBILT UNIVERSITY
NASHVILLE, TENN.

C. A. McKNIGHT
EDITOR
THE OBSERVER
CHARLOTTE, N. C.

CHARLES MOSS
EXECUTIVE EDITOR
THE BANNER
NASHVILLE, TENN.

JOHN N. POPHAM
GENERAL MANAGING EDITOR
THE TIMES
CHATTANOOGA, TENN.

FELIX C. ROBB
PRESIDENT
GEORGE PEABODY COLLEGE
NASHVILLE, TENN.

REED SARRATT
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
SOUTHERN EDUCATION
REPORTING SERVICE

JOHN SEIGENTHALER
EDITOR
THE TENNESSEAN
NASHVILLE, TENN.

DON SHOEMAKER
EDITOR
THE HERALD
MIAMI, FLA.

BERT STRUBY
GENERAL MANAGER
THE TELEGRAPH & NEWS
MACON, GA.

THOMAS R. WARING
EDITOR
THE NEWS & COURIER
CHARLESTON, S. C.

HENRY I. WILLETT
SUPT. OF SCHOOLS
RICHMOND, VA.

STEPHEN J. WRIGHT
PRESIDENT
FISK UNIVERSITY
NASHVILLE, TENN.

Publishers of SOUTHERN SCHOOL NEWS
291-1262

April 13, 1964

Dear Staige:

I'm glad you received the index to the microfilm. Incidentally, if you have any suggestions for improvement of our indexing system, we would welcome them.

We will increase the number of subscriptions to Southern School News from five to six, effective immediately.

You are not the one I should write, but I'll appreciate your placing in the proper hands my request for another copy of "New South" for January. We have one for our library, but I want one for my personal files.

Sincerely yours,

Reed Sarratt
Executive Director

Mr. Staige D. Blackford
Research Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N.W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

April 14, 1964

Mr. Jim Leeson
Director of Information and Research
Southern School News
1109 Nineteenth Avenue, South
Nashville, Tennessee

Dear Jim:

At the request of our Field Director, Paul Anthony, we are preparing a state-by-state report on the present school desegregation status. Needless to say, SNN is an invaluable source for recent developments involving school desegregation.

I am writing, however, to ask if you have any later figures on the "Segregation-Desegregation Status," since your report in the December 1963 issue of SSN. I don't imagine there have been many changes, but we would like to know about it if any have occurred. Can you help us.

I hope this is not asking too much. Any information you can give us will be most appreciated.

Sincerely yours,

Staige D. Blackford
Research Director

SDB:nm

May 1, 1964

Mrs. Eugene Deal
Circulation Manager
Southern Education Reporting Service
P. O. Box 6156
Acklen Station
Nashville, Tennessee

Dear Mrs. Deal:

In compliance with your request for the correct address of Dr. Ralph Dreger, the following is submitted.

Dr. Ralph Dreger
Professor of Psychology
University of Jacksonville
Jacksonville, Florida

Sincerely yours,

(Mrs.) Nobbie H. Morgan
Administrative Secretary
Research Department

/nm

Southern Education Reporting Service

P. O. BOX 6156, ACKLEN STATION, NASHVILLE, TENN. 37212

Publishers of Southern School News

April 30, 1964

Southern Regional Council:

We show the address for Dr. Ralph Dreger as 2867 Justin Road, Auburn, Alabama. The Post Office says there is no such street. Will you please send us the correct address so we can remail Dr. Dreger's paper.

Thank you.

Mrs. Eugene Deal, Cir. Mgr.

Professor of psychology
Univ of Jacksonville
Jacksonville, Florida

May 28, 1964

Mr. Reed Sarratt
Executive Director
Southern Education Reporting Service
Post Office Box 6156
Acklen Station
Nashville 12, Tennessee

Dear Reed:

I am enclosing herewith our revised Board list for your use in sending to them the Southern School News. This will replace the one you are presently using.

If you have any questions or problems, please let us know.

Sincerely,

Vernon E. Jordan, Jr.
Assistant to the Executive Director

VEJ:nm
Enclosure

June 3, 1964

Mr. Jerry Miller
Southern Regional Education Board
130 6th Street, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Mr. Miller:

I am enclosing, as per your telephone request, copies of clippings which reflect actions on the part of colleges and universities in the area of civil rights.

You will note that these actions relate to the admission of Negro students for the first time, or some program to aid Negroes financially for college training. It would appear that few schools have issued policy statements, per se. Rather, their policies are indicated in their action as related to the admission of Negro students.

This material does not exactly comply with your request; however, we hope it approximates, to some extent, what you are looking for.

If we can be of further service, please let us know.

Sincerely yours,

Vernon E. Jordan, Jr.
Assistant to the Executive Director

VEJ:nm
Enclosures

June 11, 1964

Mr. Reed Sarratt
Executive Director
Southern Education Reporting Service
Post Office Box 6156- Acklen Station
Nashville 12, Tennessee

Dear Reed:

This is to confirm our conversation earlier this week, and our agreement that you will send, beginning June 10 and ending July 10, the SERS clips to Mrs. Sue Rusche, at the Cornet, 200 C Street, S. E., Washington 3, D. C.

We also look forward to receiving a list of the newspapers from which our clipings come.

Thank you kindly, for your cooperation.

Sincerely,

Vernon E. Jordan, Jr.
Assistant to the Executive Director

VEJ:nm

P. S. Reed the list of newspapers just came in.
Thanks a lot.

VEJ

LWD ✓
✓✓

Southern Education Reporting Service

P. O. BOX 6156, ACKLEN STATION
1109 NINETEENTH AVE., SOUTH
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE 37212

Publishers of
SOUTHERN SCHOOL NEWS
291-1262

OFFICERS:

C. A. McKNIGHT
CHAIRMAN

ALEXANDER HEARD
VICE CHAIRMAN

REED SARRATT
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

LUTHER H. FOSTER
PRESIDENT
TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA.

ALEXANDER HEARD
CHANCELLOR
VANDERBILT UNIVERSITY
NASHVILLE, TENN.

C. A. McKNIGHT
EDITOR
THE OBSERVER
CHARLOTTE, N. C.

CHARLES MOSS
EXECUTIVE EDITOR
THE BANNER
NASHVILLE, TENN.

JOHN N. POPHAM
GENERAL MANAGING EDITOR
THE TIMES
CHATTANOOGA, TENN.

FELIX C. ROBB
PRESIDENT
GEORGE PEABODY COLLEGE
NASHVILLE, TENN.

REED SARRATT
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
SOUTHERN EDUCATION
REPORTING SERVICE

JOHN SEIGENTHALER
EDITOR
THE TENNESSEAN
NASHVILLE, TENN.

DON SHOEMAKER
EDITOR
THE HERALD
MIAMI, FLA.

BERT STRUBY
GENERAL MANAGER
THE TELEGRAPH & NEWS
MACON, GA.

THOMAS R. WARING
EDITOR
THE NEWS & COURIER
CHARLESTON, S. C.

HENRY I. WILLETT
SUPT. OF SCHOOLS
RICHMOND, VA.

STEPHEN J. WRIGHT
PRESIDENT
FISK UNIVERSITY
NASHVILLE, TENN.

June 9, 1964

Dear Vernon:

Here is the list of newspapers clipped in our library. The Council receives reproductions of the materials we clip from all these papers.

Following your instructions, the Xerox reproductions will be sent to Mrs. Rusche in Washington during the period June 10 -- July 10.

Sincerely yours,

Reed Sarratt
Executive Director

Mr. Vernon Jordan
Southern Regional Council
5 Forsyth St., NW
Atlanta 3, Georgia

LWD-
BP✓

Southern Education Reporting Service

P. O. BOX 6156, ACKLEN STATION
1109 NINETEENTH AVE., SOUTH
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE 37212

OFFICERS:

C. A. McKNIGHT
CHAIRMAN

ALEXANDER HEARD
VICE CHAIRMAN

REED SARRATT
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

LUTHER H. FOSTER
PRESIDENT
TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA.

ALEXANDER HEARD
CHANCELLOR
VANDERBILT UNIVERSITY
NASHVILLE, TENN.

C. A. McKNIGHT
EDITOR
THE OBSERVER
CHARLOTTE, N. C.

CHARLES MOSS
EXECUTIVE EDITOR
THE BANNER
NASHVILLE, TENN.

JOHN N. POPHAM
GENERAL MANAGING EDITOR
THE TIMES
CHATTANOOGA, TENN.

FELIX C. ROBB
PRESIDENT
GEORGE PEABODY COLLEGE
NASHVILLE, TENN.

REED SARRATT
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
SOUTHERN EDUCATION
REPORTING SERVICE

JOHN SEIGENTHALER
EDITOR
THE TENNESSEAN
NASHVILLE, TENN.

DON SHOEMAKER
EDITOR
THE HERALD
MIAMI, FLA.

BERT STRUBY
GENERAL MANAGER
THE TELEGRAPH & NEWS
MACON, GA.

THOMAS R. WARING
EDITOR
THE NEWS & COURIER
CHARLESTON, S. C.

HENRY I. WILLETT
SUPT. OF SCHOOLS
RICHMOND, VA.

STEPHEN J. WRIGHT
PRESIDENT
FISK UNIVERSITY
NASHVILLE, TENN.

Publishers of SOUTHERN SCHOOL NEWS
291-1262

June 15, 1964

Dear Vernon:

The mailings to Mrs. Rusche in Washington started on June 10, as scheduled.

You scared me momentarily when you said you had not received the list of newspapers we clipped for you. I'm relieved to know that the list arrived and hope that it serves your purpose.

Sincerely yours,

Reed Sarratt
Executive Director

Mr. Vernon E. Jordan, Jr.
Assistant to the Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N.W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

June 23, 1964

Mr. B. Griffitts
Southern Education Reporting Service
1109 Nineteenth Avenue, South
Nashville 12, Tennessee

Dear Mr. Griffitts:

We appreciate your bringing to our attention the fact that you have "The Negro in Chicago: 1963," series beginning with the article you sent us, through August 31, 1963. We would very much like to have the complete series xeroxed, and forwarded at your earliest convenience.

Thank you for your attention in this matter.

Sincerely yours,

(Mrs.) Nobbie H. Morgan
Administrative Secretary
Research Department

/nm

February 24, 1965

Mr. Walter Schatz
Southern Education Reporting Service
1109 Nineteenth Avenue, South
Nashville, Tennessee 37212

Dear Mr. Schatz:

In compliance with your request, we are enclosing three copies of "What Happened in the South," for the SERS library.

SERS is on the Southern Regional Council's mailing list and receives, for the most part, all of our publications. The publication, "What Happened in the South," was sent out not as part of a general SRC mailing, consequently, SERS was left out. Our applogies for the omission.

Sincerely yours,

Vernon E. Jordan, Jr.
Assistant to the Executive Director

VEJ:nm
Enclosures

Memo from MONTEZ G. ALBRIGHT

Feb. 17, 1965

To: VJ

From: MA

Vernon, about a month or so ago I gave you a similar letter (to the attached) from SERS requesting a copy of a publication we had just sent out a few weeks previously. It was the second one, and they still said they were not on our mailing list.

What is wrong that they can't receive everything we publish and mail out?

I'm just too embarrassed to write them again and say how sorry we are and from now on they will receive our stuff.

XERO COPY XERO COPY XERO COPY XERO COPY

Southern Education Reporting Service

P. O. BOX 6156, ACKLEN STATION
1109 NINETEENTH AVE., SOUTH
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE 37212

February 15, 1965

Publishers of
SOUTHERN SCHOOL NEWS
291-1262

OFFICERS:

C. A. McKNIGHT
CHAIRMAN

ALEXANDER HEARD
VICE CHAIRMAN

REED SARRATT
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

LUTHER H. FOSTER
PRESIDENT
TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA.

ALEXANDER HEARD
CHANCELLOR
VANDERBILT UNIVERSITY
NASHVILLE, TENN.

C. A. McKNIGHT
EDITOR
THE OBSERVER
CHARLOTTE, N. C.

CHARLES MOSS
EXECUTIVE EDITOR
THE BANNER
NASHVILLE, TENN.

JOHN N. POPHAM
GENERAL MANAGING EDITOR
THE TIMES
CHATTANOOGA, TENN.

FELIX C. ROBB
PRESIDENT
GEORGE PEABODY COLLEGE
NASHVILLE, TENN.

REED SARRATT
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
SOUTHERN EDUCATION
REPORTING SERVICE

JOHN SEIGENTHALER
EDITOR
THE TENNESSEAN
NASHVILLE, TENN.

DON SHOEMAKER
EDITOR
THE HERALD
MIAMI, FLA.

BERT STRUBY
GENERAL MANAGER
THE TELEGRAPH & NEWS
MACON, GA.

THOMAS R. WARING
EDITOR
THE NEWS & COURIER
CHARLESTON, S. C.

HENRY I. WILLETT
SUPT. OF SCHOOLS
RICHMOND, VA.

STEPHEN J. WRIGHT
PRESIDENT
FISK UNIVERSITY
NASHVILLE, TENN.

Southern Regional Council
5 Forsyth
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Gentlemen:

We have seen recent reference to a report on Southern Negro voting in the November 3 election and would like to obtain a copy for our library.

A tear sheet describing our organization is enclosed for your information. We will be glad to remit if any cost is involved.

Very truly yours,

Walter Schatz
WS:irb

Walter Schatz

WS:irb
Enc.1

March 24, 1965

Mr. Walter Schatz
Southern Education Reporting Service
1109 Nineteenth Avenue, South
Nashville, Tennessee

Dear Mr. Schatz:

In compliance with your request, we are enclosing one copy each of the first and second annual reports of the Voter Education Project of the Southern Regional Council.

Sincerely yours,

Vernon E. Jordan, Jr.
Assistant to the Executive Director

VEJ:nm
Enclosures

Rec'd 3/22/65

Southern Education Reporting Service

P. O. BOX 6156, ACKLEN STATION
1109 NINETEENTH AVE., SOUTH
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE 37212

OFFICERS:

C. A. McKNIGHT
CHAIRMAN

ALEXANDER HEARD
VICE CHAIRMAN

REED SARRATT
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

LUTHER H. FOSTER
PRESIDENT
TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA.

ALEXANDER HEARD
CHANCELLOR
VANDERBILT UNIVERSITY
NASHVILLE, TENN.

C. A. McKNIGHT
EDITOR
THE OBSERVER
CHARLOTTE, N. C.

CHARLES MOSS
EXECUTIVE EDITOR
THE BANNER
NASHVILLE, TENN.

JOHN N. POPHAM
GENERAL MANAGING EDITOR
THE TIMES
CHATTANOOGA, TENN.

FELIX C. ROBB
PRESIDENT
GEORGE PEABODY COLLEGE
NASHVILLE, TENN.

REED SARRATT
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
SOUTHERN EDUCATION
REPORTING SERVICE

JOHN SEIGENTHALER
EDITOR
THE TENNESSEAN
NASHVILLE, TENN.

DON SHOEMAKER
EDITOR
THE HERALD
MIAMI, FLA.

BERT STRUBY
GENERAL MANAGER
THE TELEGRAPH & NEWS
MACON, GA.

THOMAS R. WARING
EDITOR
THE NEWS & COURIER
CHARLESTON, S. C.

HENRY I. WILLETT
SUPT. OF SCHOOLS
RICHMOND, VA.

STEPHEN J. WRIGHT
PRESIDENT
FISK UNIVERSITY
NASHVILLE, TENN.

Publishers of SOUTHERN SCHOOL NEWS
291-1262

✓ Yes please

March 19, 1965

Mr. Leslie W. Dunbar,
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council
5 Forsyth Street
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Mr. Dunbar:

We are interested in obtaining the first and second annual report on the Voter Education Project published by your organization.

We will be glad to remit if any cost is involved.

Very truly yours,

Walter Schatz
(SKB)

Walter Schatz

WS:mac

July 13, 1965

Mr. Reed Sarratt
Executive Director
Southern Education Reporting Service
1109 Nineteenth Avenue, South
Nashville, Tennessee 37212

Dear Mr. Sarratt:

Mr. Leslie Dunbar has asked that I reply to your letter of July 2 requesting our plans for using your services.

As you know, SERS has been invaluable to this agency and we naturally are reluctant to say no, not knowing what your new service entails. I think we would prefer a second look at it before making any final decisions.

Your letter stated that the cost for obtaining a copy of the typewritten report "would be high, but not prohibitive." Organizations like ours must be budget conscious, so please give us some idea of the actual cost.

John Edgerton of the University of Southern Florida tells me that he will begin working with you in the near future. Congratulations on landing a talented, dedicated young man.

Glenda Bartlett and other friends of yours here--and that includes me, since I met you in May when you came to SRC's office to report discontinuance of SERS clipping service--send their warmest regards.

Good luck in your new adventure.

Sincerely,

Sam Adams
Director of Research

SA:nm

Rec'd 7/6/65

Southern Education Reporting Service

P. O. BOX 6156, ACKLEN STATION
1109 NINETEENTH AVE., SOUTH
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE 37212

Publishers of
SOUTHERN SCHOOL NEWS
291-1262

OFFICERS:

C. A. McKNIGHT
CHAIRMAN

ALEXANDER HEARD
VICE CHAIRMAN

REED SARRATT
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

LUTHER H. FOSTER
PRESIDENT
TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA.

ALEXANDER HEARD
CHANCELLOR
VANDERBILT UNIVERSITY
NASHVILLE, TENN.

C. A. McKNIGHT
EDITOR
THE OBSERVER
CHARLOTTE, N. C.

CHARLES MOSS
EXECUTIVE EDITOR
THE BANNER
NASHVILLE, TENN.

JOHN N. POPHAM
GENERAL MANAGING EDITOR
THE TIMES
CHATTANOOGA, TENN.

FELIX C. ROBB
PRESIDENT
GEORGE PEABODY COLLEGE
NASHVILLE, TENN.

REED SARRATT
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
SOUTHERN EDUCATION
REPORTING SERVICE

JOHN SEIGENTHALER
EDITOR
THE TENNESSEAN
NASHVILLE, TENN.

DON SHOEMAKER
EDITOR
THE HERALD
MIAMI, FLA.

BERT STRUBY
GENERAL MANAGER
THE TELEGRAPH & NEWS
MACON, GA.

THOMAS R. WARING
EDITOR
THE NEWS & COURIER
CHARLESTON, S. C.

HENRY I. WILLETT
SUPT. OF SCHOOLS
RICHMOND, VA.

STEPHEN J. WRIGHT
PRESIDENT
FISK UNIVERSITY
NASHVILLE, TENN.

SA ← file reply
(you may want to confer with Paul)

July 2, 1965

Dear Les:

Your comments on Southern School News prompt me to let you know about a recent development. I have just signed an agreement with the United States Office of Education under which SERS will supply to USOE monthly reports on developments in the desegregation of education in the Southern and border states. In effect we will continue to produce Southern School News each month, but it will not be printed for general distribution.

The cost of compiling these reports will be borne by the Office of Education. Would you be interested in obtaining a copy of the typewritten report? The cost would be high, but probably not prohibitive. ?

You are lucky to have Glenda Bartley coming to work for you. Please give her the greetings of the SERS staff.

Sincerely yours,

Reed Sarratt
Executive Director

Dr. Leslie W. Dunbar
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N.W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

July 20, 1965

Mr. Reed Sarratt
Executive Director
Southern Education Reporting Service
1109 Nineteenth Avenue, South
Nashville, Tennessee 37212

Dear Reed:

Thank you for your letter of July 15 concerning the cost for obtaining a copy of the typewritten report.

As you must know, we are highly interested in receiving a copy of this report, but will await word of the frequency and exact cost before commiting ourselves.

We have read that you are to soon be in Atlanta, and welcome you, with your wonderful abilities, to our fair city. Who is to replace you there, or is this information publishable yet?

Sincerely,

Sam Adams
Director of Research

SA:nm

GBT
BPV
BM

Southern Education Reporting Service

P. O. BOX 6156
1109 NINETEENTH AVE., SOUTH
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE 37212

NM — answer this. We'll award word of the frequency & exact cost before deciding. But it seems that we're interested. Welcome him to Atlanta & say we read of his coming. Ask who is replacing him there.

July 15, 1965

Dear Sam:

Thank you for your interest in pursuing the possibilities of obtaining the copy of our typewritten monthly report on developments in school desegregation. The cost of compiling the information and producing the first copy of the report is very high indeed. We are doing this under a contract with the United States Office of Education, which in effect is making it possible for us to continue to produce Southern School News each month in typewritten form.

At this point it is impossible for me to say precisely what the cost to us would be of producing additional copies of the report. It would be very small relative to the cost of the original copy. What mainly is involved is Xeroxing, labor and materials. My rough estimate is that this will run around $50 a copy. This is what I had in mind when I said the cost "would be high, but not prohibitive."

If this price is within range and is commensurate with your interests in obtaining the kind of information that has been published in Southern School News, let's keep the dialogue open. Within another week or so I will have more precise information about our costs than I have now.

Thank you for your comments about John Egerton. I agree that we are fortunate in having him come to work with us.

I can reciprocate by saying that you have an exceptionally fine new employe in Glenda Bartley. We were sorry to see her and her husband leave Nashville. Please give her my regards -- and if she's going to be clipping papers, my sympathy.

Perhaps the word has trickled down to Atlanta by now that I soon will be following in Glenda and Bud's footsteps. Soon after Sept. 1 I will be leaving SERS for Atlanta. I'm going to be director of a new project of the Southern Regional Education Board to provide opportunities to Southern newspapermen for advanced education. I hope I shall be seeing more of you and my other friends at SRC.

Sincerely yours,

Reed

Reed Sarratt
Executive Director

Mr. Sam Adams
Director of Research
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Atlanta, Georgia

July 30, 1965

Mr. Reed Sarratt
Executive Director
Southern Education Reporting Service
1109 Nineteenth Avenue, South
Nashville, Tennessee

Dear Reed:

Yes. We would certainly appreciate a "loan copy" of the final typewritten report. This would definitely put us in a better position to make a decision on purchasing it.

Again, let us welcome you to Atlanta. We look forward to receiving the "loan copy" soon.

Sincerely,

Sam Adams
Director of Research

SA:nm

Southern Education Reporting Service
P. O. BOX 6156
1109 NINETEENTH AVE., SOUTH
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE 37212

July 26, 1965

Dear Sam:

This morning I reached an agreement with the United States Commission on Civil Rights under which the Commission will buy our monthly report on School Desegregation in the Southern and Border States. The Commission agreed to pay the price of $50 a copy. As I indicated in my earlier letter to you, this represents the direct cost to us of reproducing and assembling the report. It covers none of the substantial costs of collecting the information, writing the reports and having them retyped.

Each monthly report is in essence a typewritten copy of Southern School News. It will present factual, objective comprehensive accounts of developments in school desegregation. Each report will be complete for the month preceding its date of issue. That is, the report assembled in July covered the month of June. This report is being compiled under a contract with the United States Office of Education. Except for this basic contract, the report ~~will be~~ would be unavailable, since we had made no plans to continue this phase of our operations. The agreement with the Office of Education specifies that the report must be completed and placed in the mail no later than the 20th day of the month. We beat the July deadline by four days, and it is my hope that we will be able to repeat this performance as a general rule.

Would you like to have us send you on loan a copy of the first typewritten report? You could examine it to determine its value to you.

Thank you for your kind words about my coming to Atlanta. I shall expect to move sometime between Sept. 1 and Sept. 15.

You ask about my successor. No decision has been made yet, but I am hopeful that someone can be named while I still am here.

Sincerely yours,

Reed Sarratt
Executive Director

Mr. Sam Adams
Director of Research
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Atlanta, Georgia

September 8, 1965

Mr. Reed Sarratt
Executive Director
Southern Education Reporting Service
1109 Nineteenth Avenue, South
Nashville, Tennessee

Dear Reed:

Please accept our apology for keeping this sample copy of your monthly report on school desegregation so long. I have been traveling extensively, consequently, my being able to examine the copy was delayed.

I am returning the copy to you, because presently, we will not purchase it. If, at some future time, we should decide to do so, we will certainly let you know.

I can thoroughly understand your not giving the report away, it is very valuable.

Sincerely,

Sam Adams
Director of Research

SA:nm
Enclosure

LWD ✓
PA ✓

Cost is $50 a copy

Southern Education Reporting Service

P. O. BOX 6156
1109 NINETEENTH AVE., SOUTH
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE 37212

August 2, 1965

Dear Sam:

The sample copy of our monthly report on school desegregation in the Southern and border states has been mailed to you. You will note that this picks up where Southern School News left off. The report for July now is in preparation and will be completed on or before August 20.

After you have examined the sample report, you may keep it if you decide to buy it. Otherwise I shall appreciate your returning it to me. I'm sorry that it is too valuable a document to give away.

Sincerely yours,

Reed Sarratt
Executive Director

Mr. Sam Adams ✓
Director of Research
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

file

NEWSPAPERS CLIPPED

Arkansas Gazette
Atlanta Constitution
Atlanta Daily World
Baltimore Afro-American (Weekly)
Baltimore Sun
Baton Rouge State Times
Birmingham News
Charleston Gazette (W. Va.)
Charleston News and Courier (S.C.)
Charlotte Observer Chattanooga Daily Times
Chicago Defender (Weekly)
Chicago Sun-Times
Crimson White (Univ. of Ala.)
Christian Science Monitor
Daily Texan (Univ. of Texas)
Dallas Morning News
Delta Democrat-Times
Florida Times-Union
Greensboro Daily News
Houston Post
The Hustler (Vanderbilt Univ.)
Jackson Daily News & Clarion-Ledger
Knoxville News-Sentinel
Louisville Courier-Journal
Los Angeles Times
Macon Telegraph
Montgomery Advertiser
Nashville Banner
Nashville Tennessean
New Orleans Times-Picayune
New York Times
Norfolk Journal & Guide (weekly)
Norfolk Virginian-Pilot
Pittsburgh Courier, Southern ed. (Weekly)
Raleigh News & Observer
The Plainsman (Auburn Univ.)
Providence (R.I.) Journal
Richmond News-Leader
Richmond Times-Dispatch
Roanoke Times
St. Louis Post-Dispatch
St. Petersburg (Fla.) Times
The State (Columbia, S.C.)
Washington Post
Wilmington Morning News
Winston-Salem Journal
Memphis Commerical Appeal
Miami Herald
The Mississippian (Univ. of Miss.)

File

LDV
PA SA
ML
Return PW

Atlanta, Georgia
July 24, 1965

Representative Charles L. Weltner
House of Representatives
Washington, D. C.

Dear Congressman:

During the week of July 6 through 9, my wife and I had the opportunity of visit-with your staff on occasions and had the opportunity to view all the debate on HR 6400, the Sellar Voting Rights Bill.

The occasion, of course, was historic and very crucial in the struggle for equal rights for all the citizens of our country. The debate was, as expected, with the emotional and memorable additions by Representative Hale Boggs of Louisiana, and Representative Charles E. Bennett of Florida. The speeches of those men, in addition to the support of many other southerners, is a sign that there may be hope for our Southern Congressmen to take the leadership responsibility in speaking out on and acting on progressive legislative matters in the areas of social and political change. On several occasions, I have discussed by feelings with Wyche Fowler about this and have expressed that I believe there is a very eminent burden of responsibility on you for speaking in favor of additional measures to ensure the Negro equal rights and privileges in all areas of legislative concern. The coming months in Georgia, are going to produce the potential for changes we have never believed possible in a state which has not lived up to its responsibilities as it should have. The fact that Negroes and many white people in Georgia are going to have their first voice in the state legislature since Reconstruction, is nothing to be considered without extensive awe. This fact coupled with the personalities of these new legislatures will bring demands on our congressional representatives to act and work for legislative measures, commensurate with the needs and desires of their constituency.

The record of your voting is public. Many people have respected your representation from both the Negro and white population of Fifth District. I feel sure that this will continue. The record has shown again that you have voted with James Mackay, and 21 other Southerners (and not to forget 310 other Congressmen) in favor of the Civil Rights Bill of 1965. What the record does not show is: (1) your absence from the floor approximately 90% of the time from July 6 through July 9; (2) your absence at every initial quorum count which necessitated additional delays in the passage of this bill from July 6 through July 9; (3) your frequent absences from the floor on the critical day of the vote, July 9; (4) your absence for every vote of closure for debate on the various amendments proposed on July 9; (5) your absence from the floor during the initial tell vote for the Gilbert Amendment (although you were present for the second teller vote); (6) your absence from the floor during voting for the Whittner Amendment, and (7) (8);(9); (10) your affirmative vote for every weakening amendment, except the McCulloch Substitute, whenever you were present, which was presented to HR 6400. This includes the Boggs Amendment which would have taken all the effectiveness from this bill.

I believe that there are numerous members of your constituency which are watching your actions on the floor concerning the Civil Rights measures considered. I also do not believe Wyche's statement that "we vote for all civil rights measures" is completely valid. In the count you have represented your district, but I don't believe you have represented it to the degree that you possibly could have in civil rights issues during the House debate, or in the small side room caucuses. My concern is that there are also numerous people who remember that you voted against the 1964 Civil Rights Bill the first time it was called to a vote on the floor of the House. Upon reapportionment of your district, which demanded that you represent the majortiy of the Negro population of Atlanta, you switched your vote on the affirmative. This fact coupled with your failure to actively support HR 6400 in Washington prior to July 8th, the demands eminent with the future vote on the Mississippi Challenge, additional regulations to strengthen Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, the repeal of Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act, and your presence on the most controversial and infamous committee in Congress, cause to make me questioning.

Fifth District could not be better represented in our state legislature than with the new nine who will be there on reconveneing. This will serve to inform the community of the potential for the solving of their problems. They will have a very loud voice within the state and they need an effective one in Washington. Your chairmanship on the subcommittee to investigate usury displays this potential, your mediocre support of HR 6400, and your presence on the House Un-American Activities Committee does not.

I urge that you consider fully the discrimination prevelant in Georgia as well as in all other Southern states. We still have county and state politicians who are infringing on the rights of citizens in this country simply because they happen to be Negro. We have school teachers being fired upon desegregation and consolidation when many of our classrooms within Georgia (the majority being within your district) are unbelievably overcrowded. We still have thousands of Negroes within the South unrepresented in Congress because they were not allowed to vote. We have employers who should be included under Title VI of the 1964 Civil Rights Act not complying. We have school boards and administrators who are trying every manner possible to avoid compliance with HEW regulations demanding school desegregation. This is within the state of Georgia, in addition to the majority of the other Souther states.

Denial of the right to vote is an injustice which must be overcome before either you or I can be justifiably proud we are Southerners. This must be overcome prior to any bragging concerning the representation within Georgia, or North Carolina, or Tennessee, or Florida, or Louisiana. Georgia's voting registrars are now registering citizens without regard to race. But what the records do not show, is the economic pressures brought on Negroes within our own state and the other forms of intimidation to prevent voting by Negroes.

It is a matter of lengthy public information and record that there is almost complete voter discrimination in Mississippi. The Congressmen presently representing the citizens of this state in the House of Representatives were elected by a small portion of the eligible voters of that state. You have a responsibility to your constituency and to Georgia to urge that these Congressmen be unseated and to demand new elections.

I urge your voice for complete civil rights justice in the South and in this country.

Very sincerely yours,

/S/ Richard L. Stevens
Richard L. Stevens
Assistant Project Director

Southern Student Human Relations Project, USNSA
Room 701, 41 Exchange Place, S. E.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

RLS:nfb

NOTES ON TENTATIVE PROPOSAL FOR SOUTHWIDE SEMINAR IN LATE SUMMER

In viewing the two previous SSOC conferences and the numerous questions as to the reasons why no additional program was brought out and why there was no more definite organizational structure I submit the following ideas. I also wish to include my ideas concerning the proposed southwide seminar in late summer.

In the formation of a new organization with the hopes and aspirations seen through the first few SSOC organizational meetings, there was great pressure on the organizers of the first conference to satisfy the desires of the conceptualization as well as please those already experienced in the struggle for Negro rights.

Initially, I would like to deal with these two groups of people. Those students who first had the ideas and hopes for SSOC, had their ideas ahead of the organization and the organizing of such a group. A large group of people were searching frantically for new opinions and more liberal issues to rally a cause for. Another group were so estatic with their newly found enclave, it was all they could do to tell additional students. Even a third group did not believe in the optomistic hopes of the majority, and withdrew all except lip-service and criticism. And an additional group were those of the semi-professional and somewhat experienced field workers who did not attempt to evaluate these students as to where they were, in social philosophy now, but were eager to inculcate the injustices of the society, the corruption in the American political process, etc. Each of these has its definite advantage and the eagerness and excitement on the part of numerous students should be applauded, but with some reservation. This is coupled with a lack of living up to a responsibility--the actual logistics of forming an organization of the type envisioned.

Those who had the responsibility of the formation of the conference had to present it to all the students who had indicated a desire to be encompassed into an organization of this type. These few could not forsake the great hopes of the moderates who were coming along with the more militant students.[1] Consequently, these two great tasks were assigned to them: To program the conference so as to impress experienced human relations and civil rights people as well as those with financial ties; and to create a conference so as not to alleniate any one segment of the present following. The question may not have been one of a fear of alleniation, but there was a strong desire to make the conference relate to all these students. In the last respect both of the conferences were successful. But it is necessary to explain what contex the word "relate" is used. I am using it in an emotional contex referring to two groups of people who see in each other at least one thing in very predominant commoness--that of speaking out for progressive race relations.

The group of people referred to in my second paragraph which included professional and experienced civil rights and human relations people, were looking very strongly for familiar rings to the conference, the actions of the students, and the reaction on the part of the participants.

Numerous people were looking for an organization which they could pigeon-hole into a presently existing slot. Other people were hardened by watching the formation of SNCC and were looking for things they saw in Raleigh, in 1960. this was totally impossible from the very beginning. First, these students were predominantly white students and it was at that time mainly an all-white organization. These students came at a different era in time than any other civil rights organization and they were spawned for a reason no Southerner had ever experienced previously. As students, they did not follow SNCC's formation, if for no other reason than they were not black and they did not know discrimination first hand. These students who were forming SSOC had joined the Struggle for numerous different reasons, at various different levels of involvement, and at various stages of the civil rights movement. They did not have a multilateral area of association and identification with those who sat-in at Greensboro. They had no chance of forming a similiar organization--their goals and reasons for forming were different and the different end necessitated a different type of organization.

---

[1]Since this organization both had no historical prespective and was totally unique in that there was no other place for a person to express his opinion in this area, it immediately encompassed all those students in the South no matter what their present level of involvement was. This main desire was an urgent need to speak out and to inform people that there were students in the South who were Southerners who were advocating racial justice.

These students forming SSOC could not have fit into the structure of any other organization for several simple reasons: These students came together for a reason no one had ever, in anyone's history, come together before. Their consequences were different than anyone else would suffer. These student's bonds were still in their family, the community, the Southern societal structure, and their college. The latter reason again is a totally new and unique experience. Again, if for no other reason, there could not have been an organization formed which would have fit into any previously arranged pattern.

The main problem was that this was not realized by anyone in open committment during, or following, any of the conferences. An attempt was made to fit SSOC into a pre-formed (although loose) pattern. It would not go and consequently, could not be defined in any existing terms. Wonderment went hot and heavy as to in what way to define this organization which no one understood--except those students who attended the meetings. The organization until that time was the "experience and the potiential," simply and easily explained to students, but difficult for anyone out of this generation and without a student's ties and background. This was proven in the people who were asking time and time again: "Who is SSOC? Where are they? Who do they represent?" At that time, there was no need to answer these questions. No need, because these students were forming a group which felt a demanding responsibility upon themselves to speak out, but did not feel the necessity or the eminent call for a membership issuing bond.

Those forming the organization had very strong pressure to attempt to satisfy each of the different types of idea factions present. This goes without saying that it is an almost impossible job. There was a very good appreciation for the students attending and the speaker choice was aimed, correctly, at these students. The choice alleniated numerous people who were fearful of the "image" these students would receive in their first attempt at a large meeting of this type. This fear proved somewhat unnecessary and was rightfully unheaded by the existing SSOC staff people.

The previously established organizations who spoke in the manner of students at the first meeting was totally and unequivocally unavoidable. The demand had been for a conference-type meeting of the type experienced of numerous other newly forming liberal organizations. It could only have been met, and was only met, in the arrangement of the conference--speakers, panels, workshops, etc. But these students,attending were different. They had their own reasons for being at this meeting and they should have been given the opportunity to tell others why they were there. But too many other organizations and observers were present in an observor status which the initial founders of SSOC felt too strongly.

My present fear and apprehension concerning SSOC is, from here on out, how do we proceed. There have been a great many things realized and numerous valuable experiences gained. Experiences have ranged from a greater understanding of the existing approaches to civil rights to a more knowledgeable background on the existing issues. There are still several things lacking in those students who are the leadership within the Southern student movement (I, either humbaly or boastfully, include myself in the following comments.) These students have not a philosophy or a series of ideas as to what they want at the end of these protests.

Let me labor this one point a minute. This general southern student leadership commands a fairly professional understanding of the deep philosophical implications as well as the practical political maneuverings of the present civil rights movement. I truly believe this. But my apprehension is that these people are forgetting those students who are at the bottom of the progressive latter; those students who may have a religious committment, etc., but no politicalor sociological understanding of the general workings of the present movement. It is these students I am concerned about first,and second the remaining portion of the potentially radical southern student. Whenever SSOC has experienced a student who has transferred over into the liberal column, after the student becomes tried in civil rights struggles, he leaves the campus. He may not leave it physically, but the majority of the time his interests aim toward the community. We see first hand SNCC's experiences with students. As soon as SNCC field workers developed into informed radical protestors, the patience exerted towards the bourgeois Negro campus was expelled. SNCC left the campus because they felt they could be doubly effective in even a shorter period of time,more so than they could working on a paternalistic Negro campus. This may have been a justifiable move, I believe. My complaint is that everyone cannot leave the campus and the atmosphere ought not to be that, in order for a worker to be "respected" he must work on direct action within the community. An aim of the role of SSOC has been a conserted effort to keep the student protest on the campus for its major concentration.

The Students who are in the present leadership role have in some manner avoided (at least to a major degree) some pitfalls I have seen the less worldly and astute student fall into. Most initially naive students have the potential to fall into extreme radicalism without thoroughly understanding the reasoning or understanding why this particular political philosophy was necessary to accomplish the initial end which was desired. Throughout history the Southerner has not been exposed to both sides of controversy in an equal and unbiased manner. It has been ingrained into the social structure that one must conform with the existing mores and ethical values of culture as well as right and wrong. This is predominant in southern communities to a larger degree than in other areas. This conformity goes into and through community as well as to family and church. The chance and opportunity for discussion of several opposing issues was an extremely rare thing in more than the majority southern communities. This was evident in the family. It is evident in the church almost to a demandingly autocratic position. And the community demands a similar lack of controversial and divisionary topics.

In a historical perspective the radical student has no point of reference. There is no person to which he can relate to in the same manner that existing northern radicals can relate to the labor movement or other people in progressive movements throughout the North. I do not see anything in common between Southern students and reasons, causes, and effects viewed within any radical or protest movement. Again, reasons for entering the movement are different, repercusions are different, bonds which must be broken between student and family, church, and community are much harder for a southerner to sever than for students from a less paternalistic background.

Because of these facts and ideas I believe that a new and unique method of approach has to be developed for the southern student. I am opposed to the idea of an extensive number of speakers at the third SSOC Seminar and I believe that southern students have to sit around a table and work out a "Port Huron Statement". They have to evaluate the things they have learned within the past year and see how they can be directed to apply to a larger number of students.

A number of ideas and programs have been developed in the South and are a direct carbon copy of Northern urban programs. It is my contention that if these programs (tutorial projects, community organization work, general protest movements, and the like) were taken and then evaluated in respect to a Southerner's background a greater number of students would respond. If the program has to be modified in its initial effectiveness in order to be applicable to Southern students I am afraid to say that it just may be necessary.

Students who have been active need to re-evaluate where they are in relation to where they were in this protest a few years ago, and where the bulk of the students are in relation to where they were a few years ago. The severance within the right and left wing groups has filtered into the student groups.

I am not calling for a coalition, as I see every necessity for protest groups to maintain a pure radical philosophy as well as other groups to organize a human relations institute. My contention is that both these organizations, within the student sphere, are filtering off students who are the prime of the masses. The masses or anyone within the masses are not responding. There is a potential for them to respond and I don't believe it has been tapped.

I do not know how we can alter these programs and have no real idea or series of programatic suggestions to offer. But I do propose a seminar type session with absolutely no outside people -- no resource people, no observors -- just southern students doing their own effective evaluation and planning.

Rick Stevens
Southern Project, USNSA
July 24, 1965

UNITED STATES NATIONAL STUDENT ASSOCIATION

3457 CHESTNUT STREET • PHILADELPHIA, PENNSYLVANIA 19104 • CABLE: NATSTUD
NATIONAL COMMISSION (215) 222-1106 • INTERNATIONAL COMMISSION (215) 222-5722

November 3, 1964

TO: Interested Students and Friends

From: Hayes Mizell, Director, USNSA Southern Project

On behalf of the Southern Student Organizing Committee (SSOC), I would like to invite you to participate in the first SSOC Conference on November 13-15. The conference will be held at Old Gammon Theological Seminary, 9 McDonough Boulevard, S.E., Atlanta, Georgia.

The Southern Student Organizing Committee was formed in the spring of this year in response to students' demands for an organization oriented toward meeting their needs for multi-issue programming on the local campus. SSOC is interested in working with all students, from moderate to radical, and hopes that this conference will attract responsible individuals who are eager to engage in a meaningful and critical dialogue concerning the problems facing the South today. The stimulation and contacts which you will receive from this conference will, hopefully, give you a better perspective on these problems, as well as on the current state of the student movement.

As you can see by the enclosed tentative agenda, a wide range of issues will be discussed. This is an unique and challenging program, which will undoubtedly provoke many stimulating discussions. SSOC feels that the speakers and resource persons will provide you with a rare opportunity to hear and to question those persons who have been actively involved in the creation of a new South.

You are encouraged to share this announcement with others and to urge students on your campus to attend. There will be a limited number of travel scholarships available, and requests for these should be directed immediately to the SSOC office.

President
STEPHEN J. M. ROBBINS
University of California
Los Angeles

•

NATIONAL AFFAIRS
Vice President
PHILIP SHERBURNE
University of Oregon

Student Government Vice President
MICHAEL H. LAWLER
University of North Carolina

Staff
Director Educational Affairs Desk
ROLAND LIEBERT
University of Wisconsin

Student Government Information Service Director
MARY MEEHAN
Trinity College

Special Assistant
ROBERT KERNISH
Temple University

•

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS
Vice President
NORMAN UPHOFF
University of Minnesota
Princeton University

Staff
Administrative Assistant
JAMES D. FOWLER
University of Texas

Special Assistant
ROBERT WITHERSPOON
University of Rochester

Special Assistant
JULIUS GLICKMAN
University of Texas

Director of Programming
HARRIET BEAL
University of Washington

Latin American Assistant
DAVID SPENCER
Harvard College

Latin American Assistant
DAVID M. LITTIG
Indiana University
University of Wisconsin

•

Educational Travel, Inc.
265 Madison Avenue
New York, New York 10016
West Coast Office
1355 Westwood Boulevard
Los Angeles, California 90024

Southern Human Relations Project
41 Exchange Place, S.E.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

USNSA Insurance Trust
Boatmen's National Bank
P. O. Box 1322
St. Louis, Missouri 63166

•

NATIONAL ADVISORS
Arthur S. Flemming
President
University of Oregon

Sidney Hertzberg
Editor
Current Magazine

Rev. T. M. Hesburgh, C.S.C.
President
University of Notre Dame

Russell Kirk
Editor
The University Bookman

Fred Schwengel, M.C.
1st District, Iowa

Robert H. Shaffer
Dean of Students
Indiana University

Milton Shapp
Chairman of the Board
Jerrold Electronics

•

Chairman
National Advisory Board
PHILLIP H. DesMARAIS
Deputy Secretary
Department of Health, Education and Welfare

ASSOCIATED WITH: American Council on Education • International Student Conference • U. S. Commission for UNESCO • World University Service • Council on Student Travel • Young Adult Council • American Association for the U.N. • Nat'l Scholarship Service & Fund for Negro Students

WHAT IS SSOC?

The Southern Student Organizing Committee (SSOC) was formed as a response to an urgent need for communication and education in the South. SSOC's role is that of establishing communication among Southerners by engaging in research and educational activities designed to stimulate the sensitivity and participation of Southern students in working for:

* Not only and end to racism, prejudice, and discrimination, but the rise of full and equal opportunity for all.

* An educational program directed toward the elimination of personal poverty and deprivation.

* An end to "public poverty", i.e., in housing, schools, communities.

* A democratic society, with emphasis on non-partisan student involvement in a political system which provides opportunities for meaningful dialogue and choice about issues which affect men's lives.

* An end to man's inhumanity to man.

* A world working toward the easing of Cold War tensions, with positive emphasis on peace, disarmament, and world wide understanding.

STUDENT INVOLVEMENT:

A NEW POLITICS

for a

NEW SOUTH

©

November 13 - 15, 1964

Old Gammon Theological Seminary Campus

Atlanta, Georgia

•

Sponsored by the

SOUTHERN STUDENT ORGANIZING COMMITTEE

SOUTHERN STUDENT NEEDS:

Within recent months, an increasing concern has been shown by Southern students in the fields of civil rights, civil liberties, peace, academic freedom, capital punishment, poverty, and other relevant political and social issues.

Needs which have been painfully recognized are:

1. The need for communication among local groups in the South having an interest in the above areas of concern

2. The need for mutual support of "isolated" local groups and individuals

3. The need for an exchange of ideas and experiences

4. The need for a dynamic working form of communication among Southerner to serve as a source of strength and unity among students who have a positive contribution to make in building a new South

* * * * * * * *

The purpose of the 1964 fall conference is, in response to the above needs, to kindle and strengthen interest and participation in the issues which confront the South, the Nation, and the World.

CONFERENCE GOALS:

In seeking to meet the needs of Southern students and in implementing the goals of the Southern Student Organizing Committee, the 1964 fall conference will be held November 13-15 at the old Gammon Theological Seminary campus in Atlanta, Georgia.

Approximately 200 students are being enlisted, through campus visitation and mailings, from fourteen Southern states. The goals for this first Southwide conference are:

1. TO BRING TOGETHER SOUTHERN STUDENTS TO TALK AND DISCUSS THEIR COMMON PROBLEMS, BELIEFS, AND ACTIVITIES, EMPHASIZING CIVIL RIGHTS, CIVIL LIBERTIES, POVERTY, ACADEMIC FREEDOM, AND OTHER RELEVANT ISSUES

2. TO ILLUSTRATE THE INTER-RELATEDNESS AND COMPLEXITY OF SOCIAL PROBLEMS IN THE ABOVE LISTED AREAS OF CONCERN THROUGH QUALIFIED SPEAKERS AND SEMINAR SESSIONS

3. TO CLARIFY A POSITIVE, CONSTRUCTIVE ROLE WHICH SOUTHERN STUDENTS MAY PLAY IN BRING ABOUT A NEW SOUTH, RESPONSIVE TO THE NEEDS OF ALL ITS PEOPLE, IN THE COMING YEARS OF SOCIAL CHANGE

* * * * * * * * *

The topics for the conference will be:

AN OVERVIEW OF THE CIVIL RIGHTS STRUGGLE
SOUTHERN HISTORY AND ECONOMY
CIVIL LIBERTIES
STUDENTS IN POLITICS

Registration for the conference will be held on Friday, November 13, between the hours of two to six in the afternoon. During the registration period, a film related to conference topics will be continuously shown.

REGISTRATION

Persons wishing to register for the conference should complete the form below and submit it as soon as possible.

A registration fee of $5.00 will be charged. This will include housing costs, food for two meals (Friday and Saturday evenings), and will insure admission to all activities.

Name _____

Address _____

_____

College _____

Major _____

How will you be traveling _____

_____

How many will be coming from your school? _____

Send to:

Southern Student Organizing Committee

Box 6403

Nashville, Tennessee 37212

SOUTHERN STUDENT ORGANIZING COMMITTEE

"We as young Southerners, hereby pledge to take our stand now to work for a new order, a new South, a place which embodies our ideals for all the world to emulate, not ridicule. We find our destiny as individuals in the South in our hopes and our work together as brothers."

Nashville, Tennessee
April, 1964

SSOC'S PROGRAM

Education and self-education aimed at the Southern campus to expose the most vital issues of the nation and the world to Southern students. Education which encompasses the facts about the South today, the opportunities available to work for the building of a New South, and a vision of a democratic and integrated South.

Dialogue and democratic participation for Southern students in working for the building of the New South. Dialogue through conferences in accord with the vision and purpose of SSOC to strengthen interest and participation. Participation through community and campus projects enabling students to work for the New South.

SSOC'S GOALS

§ Not only an end to segregation and racism but the rise of full and equal opportunity for all;

§ An end to personal poverty and deprivation;

§ An end to public poverty which leaves us without decent schools, housing, parks, medical care, and communities;

§ A democratic society where politics poses meaningful dialogue and choices which affect men's lives;

§ An end to man's inhumanity to man;

§ A world working towards the easing of tensions of the Cold War with positive emphasis on peace, disarmament, and world-wide understanding.

SSOC

The Southern Student Organizing Committee is a group of Southern students who have united to work for a democratic South.

SSOC believes that there are many white students on campuses across the South who have begun to realize that there are things wrong with the South in which we live. However, all too often these students feel isolated on their campuses and do not see what they can do to work for a New South.

SSOC was begun by students who realized this and felt that something must be done to encourage students to act on their convictions. When these students work together instead of in isolation, effective change can be brought about in the South.

SSOC believes in the New South. We believe that the South has an unique opportunity to prove that men can live together free from hate, want, and fear.

OFFICERS

Chairman ..... Gene Guerrero, Jr.
Emory University

Executive Secretary ..... Sue Thrasher University of Tennessee

Treasurer ..... Ron Parker
Vanderbilt University

Field Secretary ..... Archie Allen
University of Virginia

The Southern Student Organizing Committee needs your help and participation in working for a New South. Please write us for further information.

SOUTHERN STUDENT ORGANIZING COMMITTEE
P. O. Box 6403
Nashville, Tennessee 37212

SOUTHERN STUDENT ORGANIZING COMMITTEE

TENTATIVE CONFERENCE AGENDA

Friday, November 13

2:00 - 6:00 p.m. Registration (Several films relating to conference topics will be continuously shown.)

8:00 - 10:00 Ron K. Parker, Treasurer of SSOC, will talk about the organization of SSOC, and how it will relate to campus groups.

Saturday, November 14

9:30 - 11:00 a.m. STUDENTS IN POLITICS

"The Need for Coalition," Larry Goodwin, former head of the Texas Democratic Coalition.

"The Freedom Democratic Party Challenge," Bob Moses, Director of the Council of Federated Organizations (COFO).

11:00 - 12:00 Workshop

12:00 - 1:00 Lunch

1:00 - 3:00 SOUTHERN HISTORY AND ECONOMY

"Agents of Change in Southern Economy," Robb Burlage, Tennessee State Planning Commission.

"Organizing Labor: What It Means to the South," an AFL-CIO representative.

"The South of the 30's and 40's," Don West, Department of Education, University of Maryland.

3:00 - 3:45 Workshop

4:00 - 5:30 CIVIL LIBERTIES

"Civil Liberties in Perspective," William M. Kuntsler, law firm of Kuntsler, Kuntsler, and Kinoy.

"Violations of Civil Liberties," Rev. C. T. Vivian, Director of Affiliates, Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC).

8:30 - 11:00 Square Dancing, Folk Singing

Sunday, November 15

9:00 - 12:00 AN OVERVIEW OF THE CIVIL RIGHTS STRUGGLE

"The Church's Role in the Civil Rights Struggle," Rev. J. Metz Rollins, Presbyterian Commission on Race and Religion.

"The Revolution: Campus and Community," James Forman, Executive Secretary, Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC).

"Toward Building a New South," Dr. Howard Zinn, Department of Political Science, Boston University, author of SNCC: The New Abolitionists and The Southern Mystique.

Right to write

To: Southern College Students, Various Organizations, and Other Friends

From: The Southern Student Organizing Committee

Regarding: The protests at Alcorn College and calling for--

SOUTHERN EDUCATION GENERAL PROTEST

Over the past ten years there have been a series of protests by students of Alcorn A&M College, Lorman, MIssissippi. The have occured in massive scale roughly every two years. The protests have been around university reform and against the doctrine of in loco parentis. Though it is the oldest Negro landgrant school in the country, it is perhaps the worst and most oppressive institution of "higher" education in the nation. Unfortunately, however, many other schools are vying for a very close second--Alcorn is but a caricature of southern education in general--not of Negro education, but of southern education. Attention, therefore, must be focused on all our schools and the absenee ofquality education. More importantly, we must consider the question WHO DECIDES? Not just the dorm or library hours, but on courses, on professors, on books that go in the library, etc., etc. Many colleges have small eruptions over a number of issues--but seldom, if ever, are the radical and substantive questions that revolve around WHO DECIDES really asked by any of us. Mainly, we ask "mommie and daddy" to be more lenient.

The Southern Student Organizing Committee is calling for a period of Southern Education General Protest to be held April 27 thru 29 (Wednesday thru Friday). We welcome participation by schools throughout the South and the nation. Enclosed is a fact sheet on Alcorn; several suggested leaflets; and a list of things you can do that, hopefully, are meaningful and constructive. More information will follow.

It must be borne in mind that the students at Alcorn are not asking us to help them with a diffucult situation; at their "poor little Mississippi black school." Rather they are setting an example for us to follow. We must relate what they are trying to do to our own deplorable conditions. They aren't waiting for someone to "lead them to freedom." We, likewise, must not wait.

FACTS ON ALCORN

The catalogue of Alcorn A&M College in Lorman, Mississippi proclaims the college objective as being "to prepare students to live fully, effectively, graciously and cooperatively in a democratic society while serving the people in the state." In the past few weeks the Alcorn campus has once again erupted in a series of demonstrations in an attempt to prevail upon the administration and the state to live up to its stated goals.

The student complaints comprise a catalogue quite different from the official one. Included are library hours, now limited on weekdays to 8:30 PM, on Saturdays until noon, and none on Sundays; the 9:30 dorm curfew for all women seven days a week, regardless of class; and a prohibition on male students meeting dates at their dorms. These grievances, along with students not being told the price of books they were required to buy and poor laundry service, had prompted the April 1964 Alcorn "sit-out", which led to the suspension of 1000 students, two thirds of the student body at that time.

Despite the extent of the 1964 protests, none of its causes have yet been eliminated. The present student outbursts were begun by the Student Movement of Alcorn College (SMAC), which listed 32 complaints including those of the earlier protests plus the low pay of campus employees, now averaging an estimated $17 for a full week's work.

As well as the demand unmet after the 1964 demon strations, the Alcorn students pressed for a series of new reforms. They asked that the job of handling soft drink machines be taken from the Alcorn President J. D. Boyd's wife; that a more equitable student loan system be introduced; that male students be permitted to escort dates to ball games, movies, and dances; that students no longer be expelled and that faculty and employees no longer be fired for part icipating in civil rights organizations; and that faculty be prevented from making sexual advances to female students with threats of course failures.

After agitation began, the students received support from Charles Evers, NAACP field secretary. Evers called a sympathy boycott of nearby Negro grade schools, which was claimed to be 99% effective. Evers presented a petition listing the 32 student grievances to President Boyd, who told him he would give it to the college Board of Trustees. No action was taken by the college on the complaints but twenty students were expelled for participation in the demonstrations and told by the administration that their transcripts would not be forwarded to other colleges. One student was expelled for no apparent reason. It was quessed that this action was taken either because that student has a beard or because he is a member of the NAACP.

IN response to the harsh and intransigent attitude of the college administration, student demands have increased rather than lessened. They are now demanding that the State Board of Education be revised, that the 1000 students suspended in 1964 be permitted to hold student office, and that students have equal representation on the faculty-adminsitration disciplinary committee, on which there are at present no student members.

SMAC began escalting its tactics. Aboycott was called of the Student Union Building, to protest general conditions as well as exorbitant prices at the cafeteria. Several days later a wood frame building on campus was burned down by an unknown person, and cold water was poured on the bricks of an adjacent building by fire fighters which caused its destruction as well.

Because of administration efforts to crush SMAC, a new student group called United Student Movement (USM) was formed. USM put out leaflets and called for a mass meeting in the school gym, which was attened by almost the entire student body. After about 45 minutes, the dean of the college came in and dispersed the students. The following evening 600students marched to meet Charles Evers outside the campus. All but about twenty returned to the campus soon after, but were locked out of their dormitories and reported. It is believed that they will be expelled. One of the male students who was expelled that week received a letter from his draft board three days later.

Alcorn A&M is typical of what might be called a "plantation college". It was founded in 1830 but became a Negro school only after the Civil War, when whites needed an excuse for preventing Negroes from Ole Miss. This was done with the tacit approval of the federal government, which allowed Alcorn to become the first Negro land-grant college in the country in 1878.

Like all Negro state colleges, it has remained poor in facilities and faculty, to the extent that until recently its accreditation has been provisional. Even now its standards are extradinarily low, even in purely statistical areas. Ole Miss has one faculty member for each thirteen students, Alcorn has one for each twenty-two. Ole MIss has sixty books in its libraries for each student, Alcorn has fourteen for each. Alcorn offers degrees only on the bachelor of arts and trade professions level and many of its faculty lack advanced degrees. This state of affairs is only the final step in a totally inferior and almost totally segregated educational system for Mississippi Negroes. As NAACP executive secretary said in a statement regarding the Alcorn situation, "Under this system Negroes run a gamut of inferior schooling, in which each level of inadequacy is compounded by the next and it is virtually impossible for the college to be more than a pretense." The situation is further compounded in cyclical fashion since almost the only job for which Alcorn graduates are considered qualified is teaching lower grades in Negro schools.

A situation as complex as this one concerning an inferior, self-reinforcing educational system cannot be easily or quickly corrected. Some feel that the answer is immediate and complete integration. Others think the solution lies in pumping large quantites of funds into these schools for better professors, equipment, and scholarship aid. Whatever course of action is decided upon, it should not be effected without considerable thought and effort.

SUGGESTIONS FOR ACTION AROUND ALCORN SITUATION

1. Letters and Telegrams
   a. You should contact every moderate and liberal student group on campus to urge them to send a telegram or letter to one or all of the below listed people. Don't rule out student council. Especially, you should ask campus religious and protest groups, faculty committees, and in some cases even fraternities and sororities to do this. Also Young Dem's and Young Republicans. Who knows, YAF might even dig it.
   b. To whom: President J.D. Boyd, Alcorn A & M College, Lorman, Mississippi, Governor Paul B. Johnson, State Capital, Jackson, Mississippi, Congressman Adam Clayton Powell, House of Representatives, Wash. 25, Mr. Harold Howe II, Commissioner of Education, Office of Education, U.S. Dept. of Health Education and Welfare, Washington D. C.

2. Forums, Discussions, Seminars, etc.
   a. Teach-in: This could involve a debate on Southern education (if you can find anyone to defend education as it is today.) with emphasis on your own campus situation.
   b. Panel discussion of informal nature made up of students, faculty, and administration, with questions from the floor.
   c. Out-door (or in-door if preferable or weather demanding) speak-out, bitch-out, in which students get their gripes out in the open and maybe even get together on doing something about them.
   d. Open Forum: in which the president and other administration officials agree to subject themselves to questions from the student body on conditions and policy of the school. It is a sort of press conference in which the students do all the questioning as do reporters.
   e. Wailing Wall: in essence a gripe board that is used only for that. This could be initiated during this period as a permanent thing at the school. People can put their gripes in writing and pin them on the board or wall.

3. Literature Table
   Several groups have found that on the question of Vietnam a literature table set up on campus has been a good way of stimulating thought and discussion and of just letting people know by this form of demonstration that there are actively concerned people. Literature can be sold or distributed free of charge on the question of university reform and academic freedom. There is a literature list enclosed of things which SSOC has available. The prices quoted are generally for single copies and it is possible that bulk copies of some things might be supplied at cost.

4. Leafleting
   Enclosed is a suggested leaflet that is of a general information character. We suggest that you modify this to fit your own needs with the idea in mind of relating Alcorn to your school. In many ways Alcorn is, in a blatant way, your school too. Leaflets should be handed out at all busy points on campus. If there is a campus across town or next door that is not participating in this protest, then you should think of leafleting there also.

5. Demonstrations of more active nature
   Groups might want to picket their own administration building in sympathy with the students at Alcorn. At the same time conditions on your own campus can be pointed up. Some of the people might leaflet to explain the picket.

Fast: A day long or three day long fast in protest could be gotten together. People might contribute money saved to a student legal defense fund.

Sit-in: Sit-ins have been used on many campuses to protest library policies and cafeteria policies. This type of activity would be most sensibly used after other channels have been exhausted. It would be directed at your school rather than at Alcorn.

6. Have a fund-raising event to cover legal costs for Alcorn and for a general student legal defense fund. (SSOC is tax exempt and is in a position to set up such a fund.)

   Ways of doing this:
   a. A fund-raising party. At Texas the SDS group buys kegs of beer and charges people to come to a rip-snorter.
   b. Fast for student freedom (people don't eat a meal and then contribute.
   c. Ask student groups to take up a collection.
   d. Appeal to faculty and adult groups for funds after speaking at their meetings.
   e. Collect money at booths on campus after you have educated the people
   f. Sell the buttons that we will have printed soon.

File SSOC

The Southern Student Organizing Committee (SSOC), in response to an urgent and growing need for communication and education in the South, is seeking support in order to establish itself as a permanent organization. The following prospectus includes the role of the Southern Student Organizing Committee, its goals, its proposed organizational structure, and its financial needs.

INTRODUCTION

Since a few local student groups, based on predominately white southern campuses, have become increasingly interested in the areas of civil rights, civil liberties, peace, academic freedom, capital punishment, and poverty, the following needs have been painfully recognized: (1) the need for communication among these local groups, (2) the need for mutual support, and (3) the need for the exchange of ideas and experiences. Groups organized on several southern campuses have met with a relative degree of success on a local level (e.g., Nashville's Joint University Council on Human Relations, University of Tennessee's Students for Equal Treatment, Georgia's Students for Human Rights, Duke Universities' Core Chapter, Kentucky's Students for Social Action, New Orleans' Tulane Liberal's Club, Florida's Student Group for Equal Rights, etc.). However, the isolation of these groups has been a major handicap, resulting in a reduction of their effectiveness.

On another level, the "moderate" in the South has not become a part of the positive movement toward a new just, democratic order. On many campuses, the "moderate" has been paralyzed by such various pressures as public opinion and discouragement of participation by university administration policies. As the Negro and civil rights movements have become more "militant" in their demands and tactics, the "moderate" has felt defensively alienated. Various efforts have been made to reach these moderate southern whites and to raise the issues of the hour. Communications and improved human relations have been the goals of conferences, workshops, etc., but they have somehow failed to accompolish their purposes and have not communicated a sense of "what can be done".

The crucial role of SSOC, therefore, is to establish a dynamic, working form of communication among Southerners who have a constructive contribution to make. Thus a sense of unity and strength would be created among students of the South—ranging from the moderate to the militant—in their efforts to promote equality and justice.

FIRST SSOC CONFERENCE

On the weekend of April 3-5, 1964, forty-five student leaders and representatives from approximately fifteen predominantly white southern campuses in ten states gathered in Nashville at the invitation of students from Vanderbilt University and Peabody and Scarritt Colleges. The goals of the conference were several: to assess the extent of involvement in civil rights by students at Southern campuses; to ascertain the amount of interest in action along other political, social, and economic lines; and, to assess their student needs and set up a structure through which felt needs in these areas could be met.

Briefly, these goals were achieved. It was determined that there is a great deal of activity on these campuses, ranging from moderate to radical. Furthermore, it was confirmed that students are interested in not only civil rights but in other areas beyond civil rights, e.g., peace, academic freedom, civil liberties, capital punishment, and unemployment. IT WAS POINTED OUT THAT THE SPECIFIC ACTIVITIES THE LOCAL GROUPS MIGHT ENGAGE IN WOULD BE UP TO THEM. Finally, a structure was set up. The group has called itself the Southern Student Organizing Committee (SSOC). A Continuations Committee was directed to formulate specific proposals and programs.

SECOND SSOC CONFERENCE

On the weekend of May 9-10, 1964, forty students met in Atlanta to continue the discussion and planning of SSOC. It was felt that the support and encouragement of other groups was necessary to bring more southern students into the movement. Therefore, SSOC is trying to cooperate and work with other interested groups (e.g., Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) and Students for a Democratic Society (SDS)). The general feeling was that a newsletter could provide one source of communication contacts among various campuses and could be used to stimulate democratic participation on many levels. The proposal for a newsletter was accepted by the Executive Committee and one edition was mailed at the end of the school year. The name of the paper is The New Rebel.

An invitation was extended from the president of SDS for SSOC to become a fraternal organization, meaning that the groups would work as closely as possible, exchange educational materials, mailing lists, etc. The role and potential influence of SSOC have been acknowledged as being very significant by individual student leaders, interested adults, local campus groups throughout the South, and national organizations such as SDS, SNCC, and the United States National Student Association.

Three officers were elected in addition to an Executive Committee. They are as follows:

Chairman: Gene Guerrero, Emory University
Treasurer: Ron Parker, Vanderbilt University
Executive Secretary: Sue Thrasher, Nashville

The office of Executive Secretary is considered as a full time staff position beginning in September, 1964 (providing funds are available).

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE: The Executive Committee consists of one person from each of five geographical areas.

Georgia, Florida, South Carolina----- Roy Money
Virginia, North Carolina, Maryland--- Ben Spalding
Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana------ Cathy Cade
Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas-------- Jim Williams
Texas, Oklahoma---------- Charles Smith

Also elected to the Executive Committee by virtue of their positions with the white Southern Student project of SNCC were Sam Shirah and Ed Hamlett.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETING

The Executive Committee met on June 20, 1964, at Western College, Oxford, Ohio, to continue in the planning of the fall program. Emphasis and priority were placed on the following: the need for organizational planning; fund raising, without which the fall program can not be actualized; proposals for the first Southwide SSOC Conference, to be held on October 31 - November 1, 1964. The topics of study for the fall conference will be: "Students In Politics", "History and Economy of the South", and "An Overview of the Civil Rights Struggle".

SSOC's GOALS

The aspirations and general goals of SSOC were verbalized in the following quotations from the statement "We'll Take Our Stand", adopted by the first SSOC conference on April 4, 1964:

"We do hereby declare, as southern students from most of the Southern states, representing different economic, ethnic and religious backgrounds, growing from birthdays in the Depression years and the War years, that we will here take our stand in determination to build together a New South which brings democracy and justice for all its people."

"We hereby take our stand to start with our college communities and to confront them and their surrounding communities and to move from here out through all the states of the South--and to tell the Truth that must ultimately make us free. The Freedom movement for an end to segregation inspires us all to make our voices heard for a beginning of true democracy in the South for all people. We pledge together to work in all communities across the South to create nonviolent political and direct action movements dedicated to the sort of social change throughout the South and nation which is necessary to achieve our stated goals."

SSOC's goals are the following:

(1) Not only an end to segregation and racism but the rise of full and equal opportunity for all;
(2) An end to personal poverty and deprivation;
(3) An end to the "public poverty" which leaves us without decent schools, parks, medical care, housing, and communities;
(4) A democratic society where politics poses meaningful dialogue and choices about issues that affect men's lives, not manipulation by vested elites;
(5) An end to man's inhumanity to man;
(6) A world working toward the easing of tensions of the Cold War with positive emphasis on peace, disarmament, and world-wide understanding.

"We, as young southerners, hereby pledge to take our stand now to work for a new order, a new South, a place which embodies our ideals for all the world to emulate, not ridicule. We find our destiny as individuals in the South in our hopes and our work together as brothers."

SSOC's PROGRAM

In view of SSOC's goals and in relation to and fulfillment of the urgent need for campus education and participation in the areas of social change, the following program for the Southern Student Organizing Committee is submitted:

SSOC shall be concerned with and work in the areas of:

I. Education and Self-Education aimed at the southern campus (particularly concerned with the predominately white campuses which have remained somewhat insulated from the meaning of the human rights revolution in the South). The purpose of this education is to expose to southern students the most vital issues of the nation and the world. This consists of education:

A. On a Vision of a New South which is democratic, integrated, and responsive to the needs of all its people and on a vision of all "issues" which vitally affect our society (e.g., human rights, economic opportunity, peace, and democratic politics).

B. On the Facts about the South today and what is needed to achieve our vision.

C. On the Opportunities for all young southerners of good will to make a contribution to building the New South we seek, especially to promote the range of roles students can play—i.e., from moderate to militant. Many students start with more "moderate" supportive activity and through positive experiences work their way into more direct activity. SSOC seeks also to promote "employment opportunities" for young people for summer and full time work in community action.

II. Dialogue and Democratic Participation for a broader base of southern students in working for the building of the New South especially through:

A. Conferences in accord with the vision and purposes of SSOC which will serve to kindle and strengthen interest and participation in the "issues" which confront the South, the nation, and the world.

B. Special Community Projects emphasizing student participation in ending discrimination, poverty, elite politics, etc.

C. Campus Projects which encourage students to raise and to express their opinions on the issues which most directly affect their lives (e. g., academic freedom, campus integration, student decision-making responsibilities, and "in loco parentis").

SSOC's PROPOSED ANNUAL BUDGET

SALARIES:
Executive Secretary to handle correspondence and contacts, publish newsletter, maintain central office, etc.	$3, 500.
Campus Traveler to visit Southern campuses to work with local groups, aiding them in terms of transmitting ideas, information, resource materials, educational materials, etc.	2, 500.
TRAVEL EXPENSES	5, 000.
OFFICE EXPENSES
Rent	500.
Typewriter, mimeo, desks, etc.	400.
Office supplies, paper, stencils, etc.	400.
Telephone	600.
CONFERENCES
Two conferences are planned per year. Includes honorarium, travel, housing, food, etc.	5, 000.
NEWSLETTER and other Educational materials	2, 000.
MISCELLANEOUS EXPENSES	100.
Total	$20, 000.

SNCC

Atl. Jnl.

2 Atlantans Face 'Anarchy' Race Charges

2-19-62

Vol. & Dr. Rm

Two Atlanta integration leaders have been arrested in Baton Rouge, La., and charged with "criminal anarchy" after they attempted to visit a fellow integrationist who was jailed there.

The two were identified as Charles McDew, Negro, chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, and Robert Zellner, white, a field secretary of the same committee.

Both had gone to East Baton Rouge jail Saturday night to visit Dion Diamond, a Petersburg, Va., Negro. Diamond, himself a SNCC field secretary, was jailed three weeks ago on a vagrancy charge.

• • •

McDEW AND ZELLNER were arrested first on a charge of vagrancy and then were charged with criminal anarchy as well. Bail for the two was fixed at $7,000 each.

Baton Rouge has recently been the scene of anti-segregation demonstrations. McDew and Zellner reportedly had integrationist literature and pictures in their possession.

The Atlanta headquarters of the SNCC has protested the arrests to the U.S. Department of Justice and has notified the FBI. The SNCC contended the two were illegally arrested on "trumped-up" charges and that the bail was excessive.

BEST COPY AVAILABLE

Int fr. SNCC

THE STUDENT NONVIOLENT COORDINATING COMMITTEE

CONSTITUTION

(as revised in Conference, April 29, 1962)

I. Purpose

A. We accept the following statement of purpose, adopted at the Raleigh Conference in 1960, as the basis for our action:

"We affirm the philosophical or religious ideal of nonviolence as the foundation of our purpose, the presupposition of our faith, and the manner of our action. Nonviolence as it grows from the Judaeo-Christian tradition seeks a social order of justice permeated by love. Integration of human endeavor represents the crucial first step towards such a society.

Through nonviolence, courage displaces fear; love transforms hate. Acceptance dissipates prejudice; hope ends despair. Peace dominates war; faith reconciles doubt. Mutual regard cancels emnity. Justice for all overcomes injustice. The redemptive community supercedes systems of gross social immorality.

Love is the central motif of nonviolence. Love is the force by which God binds man to himself and man to man. Such love goes to the extreme; it remains loving and forgiving even in the midst of hostility. It matches the capacity of evil to inflict suffering with an even more enduring capacity to absorb evil, all the while persisting in love.

By appealing to conscience and standing on the moral nature of human existence, nonviolence nurtures the atmosphere in which reconciliation and justice become actual possibilities."

B. SNCC shall serve as a channel of coordination and communication for the student movement. By direction of its Executive Committee through its staff it shall have authority to initiate programs in areas where none presently exists, and to work closely with local protest groups in the intensification and extension of the movement.

C. SNCC shall be responsible for the distribution and communication of news regarding any of its staff or local groups. It will publish a newsletter called the Student Voice as often as possible, which shall cover news of the student movement as a whole. In addition SNCC shall be responsible for the distribution and interpretation of information to local groups which is of specific interest to the student movement.

D. SNCC shall be responsible for calling a Conference of the whole student movement each year, on the Easter weekend, and any other conferences the Coordinating Committee deems necessary. These Conferences shall be open to all, primarily educational in nature, and shall be a time when information is exchanged between areas, new knowledge communicated, progress examined, and general plans are made for the coming year. In addition SNCC shall be available to assist states or regions in holding their own Conferences regularly, providing both personnel and financial assistance.

II. The Student Base of the Coordinating Committee

A. Any local protest group in the South shall be eligible for affiliation with SNCC which shall consist of not less than ten members and which subscribes to the principles of nonviolent direct action.

The Executive Committee of SNCC shall have the power to grant affiliation to local protest groups upon application.

B. Responsibilities of SNCC to affiliates

1. SNCC recognizes that local protest groups and affiliates are autonomous and it shall consider them the primary expression of the protest movement in a given area.

2. SNCC Field Secretaries shall be available to lend assistance to local protest groups and to take any other action deemed necessary by the Executive Committee. Visits to campuses or specific areas may be brief or at times Field Secretaries may be assigned upon request of the local area to work with a particular program on an extended basis.

3. Affiliates shall be eligible for financial assistance from SNCC. Ongoing commitments must be cleared through the Executive Committee, but emergency situations will be handled by the Executive Secretary of the staff and the Chairman of SNCC.

C. Responsibilities of local affiliates to SNCC

1. Each affiliate shall elect one of their members to serve as a voting member of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee. This person shall serve for a term of one year, shall be eligible for re-election, and shall be a representative to SNCC in the manner of a Congressman to Congress.

2. Affiliates shall give every consideration to cooperating with South-wide or area-wide projects decided upon by SNCC or its Executive Committee.

3. Affiliates shall appoint a SNCC News Coordinator whose responsibility shall be to supply the central SNCC office with up-to-date information regarding protest activities in that area. The central office shall in turn supply the News Coordinators with news of events and activity in other areas.

III. The Organization of SNCC

A. The Coordinating Committee

1. The Coordinating Committee shall be composed of one representative from each of the local protest groups.

2. The Coordinating Committee shall meet three times a year: immediately before and immediately after the annual conference, and in early Fall.

3. Membership on the Coordinating Committee shall be from annual conference to annual conference.

4. National civil rights and civil liberties groups at work in the South are invited to serve in an advisory and/or observing capacity, with voice but not vote on the Coordinating Committee. Such permission is to be reviewed by the Executive Committee and finally approved by the Coordinating Committee

B. The Executive Committee

1. The Coordinating Committee shall elect from among its voting membership at the time of the annual conference eight persons to the Executive Committee. It shall also elect two adult members to the committee. The Chairman of the Coordinating Committee and the Executive Secretary shall also serve as members of the Executive Committee. In addition, the annual conference shall elect three members at large to the Executive Committee who must be students currently or formerly engaged in the protest movement. These fifteen persons shall compose the Executive Committee.

2. The Chairman of SNCC shall be elected by the Coordinating Committee, and shall serve as Chairman of both the Coordinating Committee and the Executive Committee. He shall devote full time to the work of SNCC and its staff.

3. The Executive Committee shall act on behalf of the Coordinating Committee between meetings of that body. It shall be directly responsible for the program, for direction and supervision of staff, for the financial operation of the organization, and for any matters of policy which need action. It shall be responsible to SNCC and implement its programs.

4. The Executive Committee shall meet five times a year: in May, in mid-summer, in Fall with the Coordinating Committee, during the Christmas holiday, and at the annual conference. It may also meet at unscheduled times when necessary

5. The Executive Committee shall have the power to appoint whatever committees it may consider helpful to the work of SNCC.

C. The Advisory Board

1. The Coordinating Committee shall elect its own advisory board, the number on which is flexible and to be determined by the Coordinating Committee. Advisors shall serve for a term of one year, and shall be eligible for re-election.

2. Two members of the Advisory Board shall be voting members of the Executive Committee.

D. The Staff

1. The staff shall be responsible for the implementation of the program of SNCC, at the direction of the Executive Committee.

2. The head of the staff shall be an Executive Secretary, who shall be responsible for the day-to-day operation of SNCC. He shall supervise and be responsible for the activity of the other staff.

3. The Executive Committee shall employ whatever staff it understands to be necessary for the operation of the program. All staff appointments shall be for one year and subject to annual review by SNCC.

IV. Finances

1. The work of SNCC shall be financed on the basis of voluntary contributions and through other sources of funds which it shall be able to secure.

2. Since SNCC is the Coordinating Committee of the student movement, efforts shall be made to find ways in which students may contribute significantly and substantially to the support of the program.

3. The fiscal year of SNCC shall be from September 1 to September 1. The Executive Committee shall be responsible for the preparation of the budget, to be approved by the Coordinating Committee at the Fall meeting. The Executive Secretary shall be responsible for its administration, and shall prepare reports for each Executive Committee meeting.

V. Amendments

This constitution may be amended by a two-thirds vote of the members present at a meeting of the Coordinating Committee. Every constitutional amendment shall be proposed and discussed at one meeting of the Executive Committee or Coordinating Committee, but not voted upon until the next meeting of the Coordinating Committee. In the interim it shall be circulated to all members of the Coordinating Committee.

Each year the Coordinating Committee shall report to the Conference those constitutional changes which it may have made during the year.

The following is proposed to Northern students and groups:

Over the past two years informal relationships have established ties between various student groups in the North and SNCC. The more fruitful of these ties have provided occasions for increased contacts between students active in the movement and Northern students; opportunity for explanations of the problems of the south and exploration of the problems of the North; inspiration for renewed attack upon civil rights problems by Northern students; and, last but not least, money for the student movement.

SNCC would like to invite such groups to become "associates with it in which relationship we would work out means of closer cooperation in student exchanges, education about the South and the North in the area of civil rights, action in the North, and fund raising.

Associates would be autonomous, of course, and the structure for association would be minimal. Representatives from associated groups may be invited to attend meetings of the Coordinating Committee, although without vote.

SNCC

THE SOUTH'S WAR AGAINST NEGRO VOTES

LOOK INCORPORATING COLLIER'S
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.
MAY 21, 1963 • VOL. 27, NO. 10

BY JOHN POPPY
LOOK SENIOR EDITOR

We have walked through the shadows of death,
We've had to walk all by ourselves:
But we'll never turn back, no, we'll never turn back
Until we've all been freed and we have equality.

That is part of a song Bertha Gober, a tense, fragile-looking girl of 21, composed not long ago for an organization known as the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee. On paper, the song struck me as awkward, even a little pretentious. But it is a favorite of the student civil-rights movement in the toughest areas of the Deep South. To find out why, I asked Bertha to sing it. She looked around at her friends in the busy SNCC office in Atlanta and said, softly, "No." She is shy, I thought, because I am an outsider, the only white person here.

"Please," I said.

"Close the door," she said.

We sealed ourselves off from the others. Bertha began to sing hesitantly, hunched over, staring at the floor. Then, as if she had found a way to tell a painful secret, she relaxed and forgot me as her own words set to her own melody took over. She stood very straight, tilting her head back so she could sing upwards in a strong, rich voice that warmed and overflowed the little room. When she finished, the office on the other side of the door was still. No talk, no footsteps, no typewriter sounds. There were tears in her eyes, and I understood the power of her song—part lament, part prayer, part battle cry.

A few hours later, I was talking with James Forman, SNCC*'s executive secretary. Bertha Gober's song came up again. "You see why this is a singing movement? The songs help. Without them, it would be ugly," Forman said. "Ugly."*

Negroes in Mississippi are "still scared" to vote, says James Forman, executive secretary of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee. He is tortured by the thought that his people suffer more than they have to, and accuses the Kennedy Administration of not using all its muscle to protect SNCC voter-registration workers.

The main job of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee is to persuade frightened, reluctant Negroes to register and vote. It is concentrating on two bedrock segregationist areas where Negroes account for over 50 percent of the population: southwestern Georgia and the Delta country of Mississippi.

Occasionally, there is well-publicized violence—for instance, the disorders that began in Greenwood, Miss., in March. Until then, there had been just two or three lonely voter-registration workers in Greenwood. When a young Negro passing through town was shot, however, more workers moved in. Fire damaged the office they were using, and a shotgun blasted the windows of an SNCC man's house. Aroused and united, Negroes marched to the courthouse in protest; local police dispersed them, arresting some; the Department of Justice arrived on the scene, and so did dozens of reporters. National attention was suddenly focused on Greenwood.

But in the fight for Negro votes, explosions like this one are the exception rather than the rule. Terrible as it seems, the excitement will eventually pass. For the real story of the voter-registration struggle in the South, we must look behind the headlines to the grim, everyday reality. Why does Bertha Gober sing, We've had to walk all by ourselves?

James Forman knows. Because of what he has seen in the past two years, he is a bitter man. He and some other Negro leaders feel that voter-registration workers pay a needlessly high price, in mental and physical anguish, for the gains they make. One of the ironies of the struggle in the South is that these leaders direct much of their bitterness, not at their enemies the local segregationists, but at their friends in the Federal Government.

Forman knows that diehard whites will use all their muscle to prevent Negro voting. "They have a lot to lose," he says. But he is tortured by the thought that his people suffer even more than they have to, and he accuses the Kennedy Administration—particularly the Department of Justice—of not using all its muscle to protect SNCC voter-registration workers in the South.

Justice Department spokesmen vehemently disagree. The Department's overworked civil-rights staff has filed more than 35 voting suits under the Civil Rights Acts of 1957 and 1960, at least a dozen of them in defiant, unyielding Mississippi. During the past month and a half, it has taken legal action on behalf of the Negro demonstrators in Greenwood. But, says Burke Marshall, head of the Civil Rights Division, "I'm not running a police force."

An important suit, requesting an order barring discrimination against qualified Negroes who want to register, is now under way in Sunflower County, Miss. Sunflower is the home county of U. S. Sen. James O. Eastland, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy recently said that, although we still have a long way to go, "1962

continued

"All right, I'll go down to register, but what you going to do for me when they beat my head?"

was a year of great progress in civil rights." It was. But for the Negro on the front lines, the price was high.

One of the costs of that year of progress was a bleeding ulcer that nearly killed Forman this January. He had to send field secretaries into towns where he knew they might be killed. He saw seven SNCC fieldmen in Mississippi goaded by police harassment, lynch threats and beatings until they filed suit against Attorney General Kennedy and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover in a desperate effort to get physical protection. He had to watch voter-registration workers not only in Mississippi but in Louisiana and southwestern Georgia driven to the edge of nervous breakdowns. He is constantly fighting the ugly suspicion that he and his people are alone, deserted by friends they had counted on.

"It is hard to describe the irony of the situation," Forman told me. "Voting is a constitutional right. We take time out of school, take all sorts of risks and try to register folks. When you get no help, that's pretty demoralizing. Take Mississippi. The Government has filed suits. OK. But people are still scared. They tell us, 'All right, I'll go down to register, but what you going to do for me when I lose my job and they beat my head?' And we can't do anything. The local folks are beginning to doubt that it's worth the risk."

Your name is Samuel Block. You are a Negro, 23 years old, born and raised in Mississippi. For the past year, you have been in the front lines of the voter-registration battle, as an SNCC field secretary.

Before all the help arrived in Greenwood last March, you and one or two others tried to cover all of Leflore County in the Mississippi Delta cotton country. Leflore's population is 65 percent Negro; almost all its voters are white. When you arrived last June in Greenwood, the county seat, you found a place to sleep, cheap as possible. Then you started knocking on doors, introducing yourself and your mission, trying to convince people who have never seen a ballot that it is their passport to freedom.

You found many of your own people afraid to talk to you because a police car followed you to each house, and the police parked in front, writing things down. They jailed you several times. Three white men beat you up, and you escaped being hit by a speeding pickup truck only because you jumped behind a telephone pole. One Thursday night last August, you barely got away from a group of whites armed with bricks, chains, ropes and pistols. You assume they meant to kill you, but you don't know for sure. You never know. You demanded protection from the Justice Department. You're not sure who it was you talked to in Washington, but you remember he said he couldn't move until a Federal statute was clearly violated. A reasonable answer, but it didn't make you feel any safer as night fell in Greenwood.

In the first six months, you managed to register five new voters.

Americans have read so much about lynchings, torture and murders that many of us, I suspect, are no longer troubled by an occasional atrocity. "There goes Mississippi again," we sigh, and move on after a moment's regret. But the possibility of death is only a part of the ordeal for men like Samuel Block. His enemy is ingenious; Block never knows where the next blow will fall. Perhaps someone to whom he talked will lose a job, or go to jail, or be dropped from the welfare rolls.

In cotton country, where almost all Negroes suffer from underemployment every winter, welfare and Government surplus food are important, not just for comfort, but for survival. Last October, the Leflore County Board of Supervisors discontinued a major part of the commodities program for 1963. As a result, more than 22,000 people who lived on surplus food in the winter were cut off. The total included Negroes and whites, but Block's people suffered most. Suspecting that his activities had caused the reprisal, Block suffered too. This spring, the departments of Justice and Agriculture managed to persuade Leflore County to start the program again—but it had been a hard winter there. And if your people are too cold and hungry to worry about a concept like the vote, no matter how important you tell them it is, you can't help wondering. . . .

If you are lynched, says Samuel Block, "you're dead, that's all." Dying takes courage. Living day by day, week in and week out for a year, with no relief in sight, under endless harassment, tests not only your courage, but your sanity.

I have been in many towns in Mississippi. I was in Greenwood before the recent upheaval there, and have been back since it began. The first time, I went to see Block because his troubles were—and are—commonplace by Mississippi standards. It was not easy to locate him. He was, to all appearances, in hiding. He moved constantly; his mail went to a friend, who passed it on to him; he had no telephone. Luckily, I met three young Negroes in Greenville, not far from Greenwood, who knew where Block might be the next day. They offered to guide me to the place.

The four of us drove the 54 miles from Greenville to Greenwood the next morning, with the radio turned up loud to blanket the tension in the car. Three Negro passengers and a white man at the wheel do not feel comfortable driving through the Delta country. The stares and angry mutters of people along the road provoked nudges and nervous laughter among my companions.

Near Greenwood, a sign pointing to "Business District" directs the traveler off U. S. Highway 82. "Go past that," said one of my passengers. The highway separates Negro from white. We turned onto a dirt temporary road and found ourselves on narrow streets among wooden, two-story buildings. My passengers relaxed; they were in familiar territory. Now, I was the outsider.

We met Block on a street corner in the Negro section of Greenwood and headed off for a sandwich, but we didn't get it. The waiter in the café said, "Police told me I'd have big trouble if they ever caught me serving a white man." Block told him, "Well, don't bother serving me either," and we left.

BLOCK WALKS in long strides. His movements are abrupt, and even when he is sitting still long enough to talk, you can feel the tension in him. "We're working hard toward voter registration," Block said, "but it is beginning to seem impossible. We've carried 80 or 90 people up to the courthouse, but only five of them got registered. . . ."

That was not surprising. Mississippi law requires each applicant for registration to read and write and to interpret in writing any section of the state constitution and write an explanation of the duties of a citizen. The state constitution has 285 sections, some of which are, in the words of a Mississippi lawyer, "extremely difficult, long and tedious." The registrar is the sole judge of whether or not an applicant has passed the test. The name of each applicant is listed for two weeks in the local paper, "so they know who you are," says Block.

When I saw him, Block was still doggedly taking people to the courthouse. (Most would not go by themselves.) He refused to admit despair, but his talk was angry. "In the state of Mississippi," he said at one point, "every animal has a season but the Negro; you can shoot him anytime." To understand some of his bitterness, follow Block's early progress in Greenwood in these excerpts from his reports to James Forman:

June 20, 1962: "On my arrival in Greenwood, everything seemed the same as in Parchman, Miss. [site of the state prison farm]. Negroes working hard for nothing, each waiting for the other to do something. . . . In a conversation with Greenwood's big [Negro] businessmen, I was told to sponsor anything I want. Where? None other than the big [Negro] Elks Club. . . ."

June 30: "I have cut my office and room rent very much. Office now $14 a month, living quarters $2.50 a week. . . ."

July 11: "We lost our meeting place at the Elks Club. The members did not approve of our meeting there and singing Freedom songs. They could have turned us off in a better way than they did, waiting until we were fixing to have a meeting, then telling us to have it in our office. . . ."

July 16 [from one of Block's temporary helpers]: "Say, are we supposed to work both day and night like Sam? Man, he doesn't even take time to eat now; I don't know what has gotten into him lately."

July 26: "In all my hard days of [voter] workshop recruiting, I was only able and glad to get six to attend from Greenwood. . . . By the way, I cannot send a budget for this week because I did not have any money to spend anyway. . . ."

August 11: "With things going bad for me in Greenwood, some of the citizens have asked me to protect myself and leave now because the

continued

Miss. Police Cool Negro Voter Crisis

GREENWOOD, Miss. (AP)—The tense civil rights crisis cooled a bit here Friday as police kept pedestrians scattered and moving.

Wooden barricades and police squad cars blocked off the street in front of Leflore County courthouse. Uniformed officers were backed by volunteers with riot clubs and wearing yellow Civil Defense helmets.

However, Police Chief Curtis Lary said Negroes trying to register as voters were free to enter the courthouse — so long as they walked in small groups instead of in a demonstration march.

In a City Court hearing, eight Negroes convicted of disorderly conduct drew the maximum penalty: $200 fines and four-month jail terms. Appeal bonds were set at $500 each.

One of them, Lawrence Guyot of Chicago, also was convicted of contempt of court. Punishment on that charge was one day in jail and a $50 fine.

The eight were among 11 arrested in the first registration march Wednesday. Six were tried Thursday. Guyot and James Forman of Atlanta were tried Friday.

Mayor C. E. Sampson, at a news conference, bitterly accused the Justice Department of helping "professional agitators" foment racial trouble in an attempt to win Negro votes.

When a voter registration march formed across town, about a mile from the courthouse, Chief Lary sped to the scene with three patrol cars backing him.

"It's all right for you to go down there," he told about 40 Negroes through a portable bullhorn, "but go in small orderly groups."

One Negro was arrested during the dispersal. He was booked as Donald Harris, 22, of New York City. The charge: disturbing the peace. Officers said he ignored orders to move on.

WHITES, TOO

White people loitering on street corners near the courthouse also were dispersed and told to keep moving.

The three-day-old crisis flared a few hours after nightriders fired blasts of heavy buckshot slugs into the home of a Negro who has two sons active in civil rights work. No one was hit.

It was the third incident involving bursts of gunfire. Each one served to spur on the registration drive started by the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee eight months ago.

Negroes were urged, in church rallies Thursday night, to keep trying to register.

They came in scattered groups to walk past the barricades at the courthouse and stand in line outside the circuit clerk's office, where voter registration is handled.

At one point, about 50 were waiting.

They were admitted one by one to take the qualifying test. One requirement is that they interpret the state constitution. The verdict on the test comes in 30 days.

Mayor Sampson said investigation showed that the recent fire in SNCC headquarters here was deliberately set — but that the arsonists were Negroes.

"From our investigation, it is pretty clear no white people were involved," the mayor said.

The Virginian-Pilot, Saturday, March 30, 1963 3

NEGRO VOTES continued

Volunteers have received death threats white people are planning to kill me. I replied, 'I am not leaving. . . .'

"Not more than a week ago, two Greenwood city policemen came to our office. I met them at the foot of the stairway and was told they were investigating an automobile theft. [One] voiced his opinion that I was a 'smart nigger from up North and if I didn't say Yes Sir and No Sir to him I would end up on the concrete without any teeth.' Last Friday, I took four Negroes to the county court in Greenwood. . . . I had given them instructions in how to register before we went. We arrived at about 2:30 p.m. and found a female deputy registrar, who acknowledged the presence of Negroes by asking me, 'What's for you, boy?' The four Negro applicants were frightened by the deputy registrar's attitude. . . .

"When I arrived home, I received a call from an individual who identified himself as speaking for the White Citizens Council. He told me, 'If you take anybody else up to register, you'll never leave Greenwood alive.' I get such calls with some frequency. About a week and a half ago, Miss ——, from who I rented a room for some time, told me that she received a similar call.

"Today, I took two Negroes to the registrar's office. The Negroes finished filling out the application form and the literacy and citizenship tests . . . and left the office. Two policemen were waiting just outside the courthouse. They said something to me, but I just ignored them, got into a taxi and took the applicants home. The police followed, stopping in front of the homes of the applicants and sat writing something. . . ."

Ironically, the recent incidents in Greenwood have proved more effective than all Block's persuasion. Since the beginning of March, hundreds of aroused Negroes have tried to register there; few have passed the tests, of course, but at least they tried.

But Block and others like him do not want to depend on violence for results. He pretends to see hope in the Justice Department's suit to open the voter rolls in Senator Eastland's Sunflower County, which borders Leflore County on the west. "Maybe if the Justice Department wins the suit over there, things will ease off here in Leflore," he says. But he doesn't really believe that. The Department, he knows, has had to work county by county in its tedious, expensive effort to break down 150 years of tradition in a defiant state.

As lawyers fight their battles in court, lonely young people will continue to struggle for voter registration in less public places. Block and his companions are outnumbered. SNCC and other groups like it are small, and they do not seem to attract many new recruits. That means there is little prospect of relief for the field secretaries. They have been at their posts for over a year now, and will try to stay there indefinitely, despite the inevitable battle fatigue that makes some weep—and sing—in anguish. For them, the voter-registration movement is an endless, nerve-racking series of guerrilla battles in dark corners of the Black Belt. In many ways, it is like underground warfare in an occupied country. To have to think in such terms of American citizens on their own soil is, as James Forman says, ugly. END

"But, We'll Never Turn Back"

These are the faces of the children and adults of Greenwood, Mississippi during a mass meeting in March, 1963 -- as Negroes braved jail and snarling police dogs to register to vote in the Leflore County Courthouse. These are the faces of Negro citizens who have lived their lives in the Mississippi Delta, where voter registration sometimes means a burning home, shots in the night, police harassment -- even possibly, death.

On the night of February 28, James Travis, a 20-year old field secretary for the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, was shot by white assailants near Greenwood. Travis, a gentle Mississippian and former Freedom Rider, almost died from bullet wounds near his spine.

Travis is one of 30 SNCC field secretaries who work on voter registration in the state of Mississippi. These workers -- most of whom are native Mississippians, and most of whom are in their late 'teens and early twenties -- each day knock on doors all over rural Mississippi urging Negro citizens to register and vote. For this, they have been beaten, shot, jailed, and mobbed, and live each day never knowing whether there will be a next one.

These young people see a new day in Mississippi's future when legislators will be truly representative of the state's citizenry, when there shall be equality before the law, and when all citizens shall have a chance for equal employment and equal education.

But they cannot do it alone. As you have read in this LOOK article, SNCC's financial needs are great, and the work is long, hard, and dangerous. Please send your contributions to:

The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee

6 Raymond Street, N. W.

Atlanta 14, Georgia

STUDENT NONVIOLENT COORDINATING COMMITTEE
6 Raymond Street, N.W.
Atlanta 14, Georgia
Tel: 688-0331

Lena Turner, being duly sworn deposes and says:

I was arrested July 19 with 42 other persons. Our group consisted of 18 young adults and the others were juveniles.

We were on our way to the city hall to protest the arrest of the 7 people that had been arrested while trying to purchase at the Martin Theater. As we were standing and singing, Chief Chambliss, Sheriff Chappell, three officers and a number of state troopers approached us. Chief Chambliss said, "Do you people have a permit to march." I told him that we were not marching. I told him that I was protesting the arrest of the other kids. Chief Chambliss told us that we were under arrest for resisting arrest and marching without a permit. He did not tell or ask us to disperse.

All of the others sat down except a boy who knelt and I, who was reading a Bible. Sheriff Chappell yelled, "Sit down, nigger, sit down. If you feel froggy, jump." This was repeated to the group sitting on the ground. The boy and I both sat down.

Chambliss called for the paddy wagon and said, "I'm going to ask you orderly to get up and get on the truck." We got on the truck and was carried to the jail.

After we got to the jail, Chambliss called to me, "All right, Lena Turner, let's go." He took me inside to a cell. He yelled, "Damn it, get in. I'm going to put you in here where you'll really be punished." He squeezed my arms and shoved me into the cell. I was left alone in the cell.

The sink was clogged and filled with dirty water. The commode was clogged with waste. The mattresses were filthy and infested with bedbugs and roaches. The floors were littered with decayed paper. The bunks were without linen. The first three days I was given 2 hamburgers twice a day. Sometimes they were spoiled and were never well cooked. The remaining days I was given three meals a day, except Saturday, when I had two sandwiches.

One day I was sick and asked for a doctor. But the guard refused. He said, "The city doctor ain't got time to be bothered with you." He started in my cell with a stick. I told him my disease was contagious in order for him to leave. He stared at me and left. I stayed in this cell alone for 2½ days before I joined the others.

I spent 52 days and 53 nights in the city jail of Americus.

Sworn before me the 10th day of September, 1963.

sig.: Lois Barnum Holley
Notary Public Ga. State at large; my commission expires
Aug. 29, 1967

sig.: Lena Turner

STUDENT NONVIOLENT COORDINATING COMMITTEE
6 Raymond Street, N.W.
Atlanta 14, Georgia
Tel: 688-0331

Lorine Sanders, being duly sworn deposes and says:

I was arrested July 19 with 42 others while on the way to the City Hall to protest the arrest of the seven people that were arrested for trying to purchase tickets at the Martin Theater. The group consisted of eighteen young adults and twenty-four adults.

While the group was standing and singing, Chief Chambliss with three officers, Sheriff Chappell, and a number of state troopers, Chief Chambliss said, "All right, you people are under arrest." He had not told us to disperse. All of us sat down except two other people. A girl, Lena Turner, stood reading a Bible and a boy knelt. Sheriff Chap Chappel screamed to the boy, "sit down, nigger, with the rest of the crowd." He then looked at the girl and said, "You sit down, too. You feel like a frog, too. Jump damn it."

Chief Chambliss called for the paddy wagon that was a feed and seed truck. When the truck arrived he said, "I'm going to ask you orderly to get up and get on the truck." We got on the truck and was carried to jail.

After we arrived the Chief came to the back of the jail and called Lena Turner. He took her inside. I was placed in a cell with seven others . Four bunks were in the cell. We put the bunks together and I slept between four other people.

In my cell there were dirty mattresses. We asked for soap but was refused. There was no hot water in the cell. We used a nasty wash basin to wash our face and hands. The ventilation was ppor and the place was hot all the time. We were given two meals on Saturday and a sandwich. Sometimes the hamburgers were spoiled and half cooked.

Once we were singing the guards came back and yeeled at us, saying, "Stop that damn fuss" but we continued to sing.

The Monday after the arrest we went to trial. "Four of us had already been arrested before but our sentences had been suspended.) This time we spent forty-nine days working on the street and in the jail. One day we cut the grass on the street. Another day we carried parking meters up three flights of stairs.

I spent fifty-two days and fifty-three nights in the city jail of Americus.

Sworn to before this 10th day of September, 1963.

sig:Lois Barnum Holley
Notary Public Ga. State
at large. My commission expires Aug. 29, 1967

sig: Lorine Sanders

STUDENT NONVIOLENT COORDINATING COMMITTEE
6 Raymond Street, N.W.
Atlanta 14, Georgia
Tel: 688-0331

Thomas McGrady, being duly sworn deposes and says:

I know James Williams personally. On the night of Aug. 9 I was driving through the intersection of Lee and Ashby Streets, when I saw officers whipping on Williams with an instrument that was bigger than their usual bill clubs. I could tell it was Williams because I know him well and recognized his shirt.

When the people left the church, that is Friendship Baptist Church on Cotton Avenue, on the night of August 8, they came up one block to the corner of Cotton and Jefferson Streets. As the crowd gathered, Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee field secretary Don Harris was pulled from the crowd by police about 60 or 70 feet. In fact, they dragged him. They put him in the car. Then Sheriff Chappell went to the car and hit Harris with his billy club. Ralph Allen was pulled from across the street from the crowd about 50 feet or more and was then knocked down by the City Marshall and one state trooper. They whipped him with a billy club as they pulled him those 50 feet. When he stood up, he folded his arms and talked with them. They put him in the police car and carried him away.

Then the fire truck came down and stopped midways between Cotton Ave. and Jefferson, and the firemen came down with the hose. One fireman at the end of the hose said, "Turn it on." He sprayed water and a few pedestrians got wet. They cut off the hose because the sheriff was coming up the street.

The police and the state trooper then went to Bryant's restaurant and ordered him to close. He closed. I left from my position outside the restaurant.

Sworn to before me this 10th day of September, 1963

sig.: Lois Barnum Holley
Notary Public Ga. State
at large. My commission expires Aug. 29, 1967.

sig.: Thomas McGrady

STUDENT NONVIOLENT COORDINATING COMMITTEE
6 Raymond Street, N.W.
Atlanta 14, Georgia
Tel: 688-0331

James Williams, being duly sworn deposes and says:

On Friday night, Aug. 9, I went from a fish fry in Brooklyn Heights to a barber shop at the corner of Lee and Ashby Streets, in Americus, Ga. The barber shop was closed and Gene Mann and I started across the street to the cafe. A policeman shouted, "Halt!" and we were scared and stopped. Then Gene Mann ran away. I talked with the policemen on Lee Street facing Ashby. Then a panel truck with two state patrolmen made a big knot on my head behind my left ear with his billy club. He didn't say anything to me before he did it. I fell down and the two state patrolmen started hitting me up the side of the head they hit me with something like a baseball bat. I can't describe the pain. But my whole head felt swollen and the blood was gushing down my face. I told them I couldn't get up. The state patrolman had asked me and then the policemen with them said, "Let me have him," and he stomped me on the leg. They kept asking me to get up. Then the state patrolmen pulled out a "hot shot," a long silver looking stick run by batteries and burned me in the right rib section. I still have a bid old bule looking spot theme. After they got through doing that they got Gene Mann back and some other fellow and had them put me in the truck. And then they took me to jail. Then they laid me down by one of the cells and went out. And a lot of the guys already in there crowded around me. About a half hour later they took me outside on the concrete steps. The boys had been yelling that they broke my leg and should take me to the hospital. When they got me out on the steps they said, "Who do you work for, boy?" I told them I worked for the same man they did, the mayor. I cut steel for the nail plant that Mayor Griffin Walker's wife manages. He's a salesman for the plant. Then they said, "We better carry this son of a bitch to the car and get him to the hoppital."

During the week of Aug. 12 I talked with men from the FBI. I was in the hospital at the time. They asked me what happened and I told them. I explained that my leg was broken by the patrolmen and they asked me about my head.

Sworn to before me this 10th day of September, 1963

sig.: Lois Barnum Holley
Notary Public Ga. State
at large; my commission expires
Aug. 29, 1967

sig.:James Williams

APPENDIX I

Sunday, September 22, 1963
SELMA TIMES-JOURNAL

APPENDIX I

(This full-page advertisement is reprinted here because we feel it is a clear statement of the power the myth of racism has when it is clothed in fine words and backed by financial and political power. Notes follow.)

A DECLARATION OF BASIC RIGHTS AND PRINCIPLES

The white and Negro races have lived together in Selma and Dallas County for many generations in a state of peace and tranquility; and Selma will continue to be the home of both races long after agitators have done their evil work of poisoning the minds of some of our Negro citizens

We have enjoyed mutual confidence and trust between the races, and this will again prevail regardless of current unrest. This trust and confidence has been attested by the record of financial institutions of the country, which, in both good years and bad, have furnished tens of millions of dollars to farmers, both white and Negro, to make the harvest crops. The Negro farmer has benefited immeasurably through improved and modernized methods, as shown and demonstrated to him by his white counterpart. Through the efforts of white leadership in the county, great strides have been made in the field of industrial development; and this has created thousands of jobs for Negro workers. Without such leadership there would never have been such opportunities for these Negroes.

The spirit of cooperation between the races has been further attested in recent years by the facts that more of our tax money, largely contributed by whites, has been spent on education for Negroes than for whites, and the fact that more Negro than white schools have been constructed.

To maintain such a society of mutual confidence, trust and respect between the races, there must be mutual recognition of and respect for certain basic rights and principles. These include:

1. The right to sell and rent property according to individual inclination and amenable to the written laws of the country.
2. The right to own and operate private business in such manner as is deemed sound and proper by the operators there-of, with unchallenged authority to select such personnel as the owner desires and to use such methods as have demonstrated themselves to be most conducive to sound and profitable management.
3. The right to select one's own associates, whatever the occasion.

These basic rights to be enjoyed by all people of both races, and the white citizens of Dallas County are firmly united in their determination to preserve them, because of their conviction that freedom as conceived by our Founding Fathers, does not grant any minority, be it white or Negro through threats or otherwise, the right to force its will upon the majority. Neither do we believe that the majority has the right ot impose its will upon a minority. We believe that freedom means equal and untrammelled opportunity for all citizens to better themselves through their own efforts - not by legislation and not by demonstrations backed by threats, which inevitable result in both force and reprisals.

We further believe it to be axiomatic that any action taken by any group whether by a minority or majority, if such action is either unlawful, or is lawful with unlawful intent, will bring reprisals which are consequently more detrimental to the innocent than to the guilty. These guilty ones are usually agitators, who having done their evil work, will probably vanish from our community, leaving us to pick up the pieces and repair the damage.

Time is fast running out. It behooves our more intelligent and responsible Negro leadership to think well and seriously upon what has transpired in the past and what life in this community might become if a two-edged sword is unsheathed to shear apart the white and Negro races. Responsible Negro leaders should take immediate steps to put down agitation among their people. In this effort, they can count upon the full cooperation of our white citizens, the governmental bodies of our city and county and all of our law enforcement facilities.

We believe that through mutual understanding and efforts of the responsible citizens of our community, both white and Negro, confidence, trust and respect between the races in Selma can and will be restored and maintained.

The undersigned stand firmly united in their belief in, and adherence to, these basic rights and principles of people of both races.

SELMA RETAIL MERCHANTS ASSN.
Julius M. Lilienthal, President
DALLAS COUNTY FARM BUREAU
Walter C. Givhan, President
SELMA RETAIL CREDIT BUREAU
Frank Wilson, President
DALLAS COUNTY BAR ASSN.
Theodore L. Wade, President
SELMA AND DALLAS COUNTY CLEANING HOUSE ASSN.
THE PEOPLES BANK& TRUST CO.
Rex J. Morthland, President
THE SELMA NATIONAL BANK
Roger ap C. Jones, President
CITIZENS BANK AND TRUST CO.
J. Bruce Pardue, President
THE CITY NATIONAL BANK of selma William B. Craig, Pres.
MARION JUNCTION STATE BANK
James M. Gilmer, Ex. VP. & Cashier
SELMA AUTOMOBIL DEALERS ASSN.
W.F. Driggers, Pres.

DALLAS COUNTY DRUGGIST ASSN.
E. O. Ward, Pres.
SELMA BOARD OF REALTORS
William K. Hicks, Pres.
DALLAS COUNTY CATTLEMEN's ASSN.
W. R. Martin, Pres.
SELMA & DALLAS COUNTY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE: R. E. Ellzey, Pres.
SELMA RESTAURANT ASSN.
William Speed, V.P.
DALLAS COUNTY DENTAL STUDY CLUB
E. A. Wilkinson, Pres.
ALA. SERVICE STATION ASSN.
Nick Patterson, Pres.
1st FEDERAL SAVINGS & LOAN ASSN.
Charles S. Frazer, Pres.
ACCOUNTANTS OF SELMA AND DALLAS COUNTY
SELMA JUNION CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
Robert J. Robinson, Pres
COMMITTEE OF 100 PLUS
Otis G. Adams, President

* * * * * * *

These signatures, to one not aware of the patterns of Southern racism, would be convincing. And certainly they must be convincing to the residents of Selma, Alabama, most of whom have never known a Negro as an equal. This declaration is worth examing as a cogent statement of the mind of the white South, and may demonstrate the arguments that can be given to change that mind.

I. The "peace and tranquility" argument: "The white and Negro races have lived together in Selma and Dallas County for many generations in a state of peace and tranquility..." This argument is the most pervasive fallacy in Southern white thought. Perhaps the whites, who did not fear police brutality, reprisals and lynchings with no legal recourse, lived in peace; the Negroes have not.

II. The "paternalism" argument: (The fact that whites have helped Negroes proves that trust and confidence between the races exists) "Through the efforts of white leadership...great strides have been made in the field of industrial development; and this has created thousands of jobs for Negro workers. Without such leadership there would never have been such opportunities for these Negroes....In recent years...more of our tax money, largely contributed by whites, has been spent on education for Negroes..."

Nor could industry exist without the workers. It is well known that industry has come to the South because there is a low wage level and few unions. The jobs however, go to whites, who are afraid that if they demand higher wages Negroes will take over the jobs from which they will be fired. Further, the statistics on Negro wage levels reveal the lie of prosperity that this statement advances.

As for spending on education, numerous school districts in the South have increased expenditures for Negro schools in an effort to keep the Negro citizens from bringing suits for school integration. Negro school facilities remain far below the white schools.

Finally, justice cannot truly exist under despotism, no matter how benign.

III. The "property rights equal human rights" argument: "To maintain a society of mutual confidence...there must be recognition of certain basic rights...(1.) The right to sell and rent property according to individual inclination...(2.) The right to own and operate private business...with unchallenged authority to select such personnel as the owner desires... (3.) The right to select one's own associates, whatever the occasion."

First, it is worth noting that in this list of basic American rights there is no mention of the right to vote, the right to participate fully in the political life of the community and nation, the right to equal protection under the law.

Second, while one may hold the position that a man should have the rights listed above, it is not the case that the government of the United States agrees. Many states have fair housing and fair employment laws maintaining that the right of an individual to buy where he pleases must be balanced against the right of an owner to sell and that the right to employment is as important as the right to hire.

The third right, the right of association, is one which the civil rights movement advocates. To be in the same room with another does not mean that he is chosen as a friend. In fact, not until people are able to meet freely can they choose whether to associate with each other. The "right of free association" (used here incorrectly) reveals the fear which underlies so much of the segregationist rationale -- the fear of social equality and the racist base of that fear.

IV. The argument against "force": "Freedom as conceived by our Founding Fathers does not grant any minority, be it white or Negro, the right to force its will on the majority..."

The Selma movement has not used force, but only nonviolence. Rather, it is the police who have used force and the signers of the advertisement who for years have forced Negroes out of the normal human intercourse of the community. The argument is calculated to win adherents, but does not have any base in fact.

V. The "self-betterment" argument: "We believe that freedom means equal and untrammelled opportunity for all citizens to better themselves through their own efforts -- not by legislation and not by demonstrations backed by threats, which inevitably result in both force and reprisals."

The Selma movement would agree that freedom means equal opportunity, but the white power structure forgets that legislation is needed to secure and protect this freedom. This is what the equality movement means -- equal opportunities insured by law.

What avenues are left when Negroes do not have the right to demonstration or legislation, the traditional American means of calling attention to and correcting injustices in the system except "self-betterment," i.e., the status quo or segregation.

(It is ironic to note that the power structure feels that demonstrations, which are not backed by threats in Selma, lead inevitably to force and reprisals.)

VI. The "agitators" argument: "These guilty ones are usually the agitators, who having done their evil work, will probably vanish from our community, leaving us to pick up the pieces and repair the damage."

It is the agitator in the washing machine which removes the dirt. And the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee trusts that the local leadership has the ability to decide whether to cooperate with SNCC workers. Nor do we intend to leave and allow the "pieces" to be put back in the old pattern of racial segregation and discrimination.

We are not ashamed to be called agitators, for the response of the Negro community indicates their long desire for self-fulfillment and justice.

* * * * * * * * * *

The unwritten message in this declaration should be an opening for people to see that those who support the White Citizens Councils of the South and their principles, are not just "white trash" and "riff-raff." But rather, businessmen and elected leaders, and often, as in the case of Birmingham, Northern money interests which condone and advocate the measures used to maintain segregation.

* * * * * * * * * *

STUDENT NONVIOLENT COORDINATING COMMITTEE
8½ Raymond Street, N.W.
Atlanta 14, Georgia
688-0331

"ONE MAN - ONE VOTE"

SPECIAL REPORT FROM:
STUDENT NONVIOLENT COORDINATING COMMITTEE
8½ Raymond Street, N.W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30314
688-0331

IMMEDIATE RELEASE

September 24, 1963

A M E R I C U S, G E O R G I A

IMMEDIATE RELEASE

SPECIAL MAILING from:
STUDENT NONVIOLENT COORDINATING COMMITTEE
8½ Raymond Street, N.W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30314
688-0331

September 24, 1963

AMERICUS, GEORGIA

Americus, Georgia is located deep in the Black Belt, in Sumter County. Negroes make up more than 50% of the rural county's population. Many people know of Americus only because of the city's long history of violence against Koinonia (Greek: friendship) Farm, a small cooperative farm which does not close its doors to a man because of his race.

Field workers for the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee have been here since January 1963. They have been helping the Sumter County Movement register voters and aiding attempts by local Negroes to use the front door of a movie house instead of the rear balcony entrance.

In the course of this past summer more than 200 Americus Negroes have been arrested for participating in voter registration drives, peaceful demonstrations and attempts to use the movie house front door.

On April 25, Ralph Allen, a SNCC worker, was beaten on the street after he had taken a Negro woman to vote at the Sumter County courthouse.

SNCC WORKERS ARRESTED ON CAPITAL CHARGES

On the night of August 8, police and state patrolmen dispersed 250 Negroes singing in front of a Negro cafe by shooting into the air and brandishing billy clubs. They slugged their way through the group to 21 year old SNCC worker Don Harris, arrested him and dragged him to the police car, but not until they had beaten him in the street. The Negroes scattered to defend themselves. SNCC workers Ralph Allen and John Perdew, along with local youth Thomas McDaniel, were trampled by police and beaten. Another local youth, Sallie Mae Durham, was punched several times by police officers. The four were arrested.

The three SNCC workers were charged with "inciting to insurrection," a capital felony which carries the death penalty (Georgia Code 26-5902).

All of the five have been charged (in addition to the insurrection charge for the SNCC workers) with unlawful assembly, unlawful rioting, and obstruction of a lawful arrest. All but Perdew were charged with assault and battery.

McDaniels and Durham are in jail now with bonds of $20,000 each. However, the judge refused to set bonds for the SNCC workers, and further eight peace bonds totalling $120,000 were lodged.

MORE ARRESTED - JAIL TREATMENT

175 Negroes started walking toward the police station the next night, August 9, to protest the arrests and beatings of the previous night. As they walked by two's across a lot (to avoid blocking sidewalks), police, armed with guns, clubs and battery-operated electric cattle prods appeared. The City Marshall and Police Chambliss asked if they had a parade permit. Before they could answer, "the officers started bludgeoning groups of boys and girls with clubs and the cattle prodders, which give a severe shock and leave burn marks on the flesh," according to John L. Barnum, Jr., Treasurer of the Sumter County Movement

Milton Wilkerson, 19, Emanuel McClendon, 67, Thomas Douglas, 16, and Johnny Boynton, 16, all required stitches to close the wounds on their heads.

Most of the persons in that group were arrested.

The story of their treatment in jail was presented when the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee brought several witnesses to Atlanta for a press conference on September 9. Photographs taken by SNCC staff member Danny Lyon at the Leesburg, Ga. stockade were exhibited. 20 girls, 9-13 years old were held there for as long as one month in a cell 8'x10'x30'. Also shown were the two commodes which were broken and clogged up so that there was no disposal. The girls were fed only four hamburgers daily. They had no beds, springs or mattresses. Complaints about these conditions to the Americus Board of Health and the Georgia Board of Health brought no investigation.

BY-STANDER'S LEG BROKEN BY POLICE

James Williams, wearing a cast on his leg, was also presented at the press conference. He had not been in a demonstration. The following is an excerpt from his notarized affidavit:

> "I started across the street to the cafe. A policeman shouted, 'Halt.' and we were scared and stopped. Then Gene Mann ran away. I talked with the policemen on Lee Street facing Ashby. Then a panel truck with two state patrolman made a big knot on my head behind my left ear with his billy club. He didn't say anything to me before he did it. I fell down and the two state patrolmen started hitting me up side the head they hit me with something like a baseball bat. I can't describe the pain. But my whole head felt swollen and the blood was gushing down my face. I told them I couldn't get up...The policemen with them said, 'Let me have him,' and he stomped me on the leg. They kept asking me to get up. Then the state patrolman pulled out a 'hot shot', a long silver looking stick run by batteries and burned me in the right rib section...They took me to jail. Then they laid me down by one of the cells and went out...About a half hour later they took me out by the concrete steps...When they got me out on the steps they said, 'Who do you work for, boy?' I told them...Then they said, 'We better carry this son of a bitch to the car and get him to the hospital.'

On August 17, 35 more were arrested when they went to pray at the police station. Among them was CORE worker Zev Aelony. He was charged with "inciting to insurrection." He had been following the group at some distance.

At this date 59 local people remain in jail, "farmed out" to jails and workcamps surrounding Americus. Their bonds are about $200 each but must be posted in cash which is not available here.

On August 13, the early edition of the Atlanta Constitution carried an announcement by the Justice Department that FBI investigation in Americus revealed no evidence of police brutality.

BOUND OVER TO NOVEMBER COURT

In an August 20 hearing before Justice of the Peace Bradley, Solicitor Stephen Pace represented the state; Attorney C. B. King, of Albany, Ga., represented the defendants. They were bound over to the Superior Court which does not convene until November.

For three weeks no visits to the prisoners were allowed. The four held under insurrection charges are still being held incommunicado. Attorney King has been continually harrassed while representing the young men. On September 3 the driver's seat of his car was burned with acid while he talked with Judge James W. Smith.

Mrs. Theresa Wiggins Shields, Secretary of the Sumter County Movement, said Negroes hoped for the establishment of a bi-racial commission. Mayor T. Griffin Walker and City Engineer Charles Wheatley would not agree to the formation of such a committee. The mayor said he had no authority nor any plans to bring the issue before the City Council.

Newspaper reporters have been intimidated. Police Chief Chambliss forced Atlanta Journal reporter Walter Rugaber from the commitment hearing on August 20. Chambliss overruled the judge in forcing him from the hearing, required to be open to the public by law.

REMAIN IN JAIL

Don Harris, graduate of Rutgers University; Ralph Allen, on leave from Trinity College; and John Perdew, student at Harvard College--are still in jail. SNCC workers have estimated that they may have to stay in jail for two years before all legal proceedings are completed. Local people remain also, unable to post their bonds.

FACTS COMPILED FROM:

1. The report of SNCC reporter Mike Sayer, after six days spent gathering data in Americus.
2. Tape recordings made in Americus (after the release on probation of some of the local people arrested during August) by Alan Ribback, President of Ptolemaic Enterprises, Inc., Audio Productions.
3. Eleven (11) sworn notarized affidavits from James Williams, Henrietta Fuller, Elizabeth Thomas, Lorine Sanders, Robertina Freeman, Lorena Barnum, Emma Jean Times, Thomas McGrady, Lena Turner, Bobby L. Jones, citizens of Americus.
4. Press conference held in Atlanta, September 9, at which witnesses spoke, and photographs were exhibited.
5. Photographs by SNCC staff member Danny Lyon.

6. The Atlanta Constitution.
7. Attorney C. B. King's office, Albany, Ga.
8. Letters from the three SNCC workers while in jail.

LETTER OF RALPH ALLEN FROM THE SUMTER COUNTY JAIL. This letter, dated September 13, was sent from the jail where the four young men are incarcerated. It was smuggled out, since they are not allowed to send letters nor to receive them.

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing from the Sumter County jail in Americus, Georgia, where I have been incarcerated for the past 37 days. My name is Ralph Allen and I am a white student on leave from Trinity College in Hartford, Connecticut, where I completed two and one half years of study toward my BA degree. For a little over a year now I have been working with the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee in Southwest Georgia.

On the evening of August 8, I attended a mass meeting of the Sumter County Movement, an organization of Sumter County Negroes formed to direct long years of black discontent into channels of peaceful direct action. At the meeting, which was held at a Negro church, I talked about the importance of registering black voters in conjunction with recent waves of demonstrations which had swept the city under the auspices of the movement. After the meeting, I walked toward the center of the Negro section of town with a group of black friends. We were looking for the SNCC car and for a fellow SNCC worker, Don Harris of the Bronx, New York. As we neared the intersection above the church where the meeting had been held, there were two groups of Negroes lined up on the sidewalks on either side of the street, and a group of police standing in and across the intersection. The Negroes began singing, so I deliberately held back, thinking that I did not want to risk arrest because I was supposed to transport people to the courthouse to register to vote the next day.

However, as I approached the intersection I saw the police arrest Don Harris, a Negro who has been working with the movement in Americus for many months. When the police arrested Don, he sat down in an attitude of peaceful non-cooperation. Then, as people began to surge into the street, I walked up to the intersection and asked some people to move back onto the sidewalk unless they wanted to be arrested with Don, and to tell them that if they wanted to be arrested with Don, they should sit in the street with him. Then I again retreated back down the street from the intersection. As I did two things happened: a squad car arrived to take Don to jail and someone began throwing what appeared to be bricks and bottles. These missles did not come from the demonstrators but from behind a group of buildings which face into the intersection

Police then began to wade into the crowd of demonstrators with clubs driving them back down the street with me, while someone in plain clothes stood at the intersection firing a pistol in the air. As people came by me, I stepped back off the sidewalk to let them pass. Then the city marshall charged me from across the street and hit me a couple of times on the back and shoulders with a small object before I could back away out of his range. I then noticed another white SNCC worker, John Perdew, as the marshall attacked him. After beating Perdew up for a few seconds, he came after me and hit me twice on the head with a billy club before I turned away again.

Then he said, "When I say 'run' you'd better run, you nigger-lovin' son of a bitch."

He then proceeded to drive Perdew and me behind a group of buildings through the parking lot and back into the intersection with repeated licks of his billy about our head and shoulders. Once in the intersection I was surrounded by a group of city police. One of them was yelling at me and wanted to beat me some more, but the others calmed him down. My head was streaming blood. I asked one of the police if I were under arrest and one of them said, 'Yes.' I asked, what for, and was told, "Disorderly conduct. I was taken to the city jail and then to the hospital where my head was partly shaven and patched.

The following day Don Harris, John Perdew, Sally Mae Durham and Junior MacDaniels (the latter two from Americus) and I were moved to the Sumter County jail. A few days later we were told that all five of us were charged with "assault and battery," "rioting," "unlawful assembly," and "interfering with a lawful arrest." Don, John and I were charged with "inciting an insurrection," a capital offense.

About a week later, we were taken to a hearing where our lawyer, C. B. King of Albany, Georgia, was consistently overruled. The hearing served to indicate only that the state will continue to hold us in jail despite what appears to be utter lack of evidence. Don, John and I are being held without bond. Eight peace warrants have also been lodged against us, totalling $40,000 for each of us, or $120,000. We are scheduled to appear before the Superior Court in November, when the term opens.

s/ Ralph Allen

SOME FACTS ON THE BASIS FOR FEDERAL ACTION

Section 242 of the U. S. Criminal Code creates a legal basis for federal prosecution of: "Whoever, under color of any law ... willfully subjects... any inhabitant of any State... to the deprivation of any rights, privileges, or immunities secured or protected by the Constitution and laws of the United States..."

A trial on this basis, not involving misdemeanors, does not even require indictments from a grand jury. Prosecution may take place by the presentation of information by the Justice Department.

Within the present administrative machinery for enforcing federal law, on the advice or order of the Justice Department, the U. S. Attorney of a judicial district may file a civil suit (this may also be done by a Civil Rights Division lawyer from the Department) asking that the federal court issue an injunction to forbid specified parties from engaging in certain practices depriving individuals of constitutional rights.

The "Albany Report," by Howard Zinn (former professor at Spelman College) published by the Southern Regional Council and reported in the New York Times in 1962, notes, "In the Debs case of 1895 there was no specific legislative basis for an injunction, yet the Supreme Court ruled that the federal government could get one, saying: "Every government...has a right to apply to its own courts" in matters which the Constitution has entrusted to the care of the national government. The Court said: "The entire strength of the nation may be used to enforce in any part of the land the full and free exercise of all national powers and the security of all rights entrusted by the Constitution to its care."

In a letter to the New York Times, dated September 19, Howard Zinn along with Murray Kempton, editor of the New Republic, and Professor Thomas Pettigrew, a specialist in race relations at Harvard, propose the formation of "special federal force of civil rights agents -- E-"e -- for equality." They suggest the creation of the special force by presidential order with "several thousand federal agents (similar to the T-men of the Treasury Department, who also have a single function) to stand permanent guard throughout the Deep South in the protection of the constitutional rights of the people in that region. This force would have the authority to make arrests on the spot (unlike the FBI, which apparently can only stand by and take notes while people are beaten) the moment a move is made to violate the Fourteenth Amendment ...The President, at this moment, has constitutional and statutory b is for creating such a force and giving it such authority," despite his insistence that more legislative authorization is needed from Congress, they state.

The letter continues: "The old statute used by Eisenhower in the Little Rock situation says the President 'by using the militia or the armed forces, or both, or by any other means, shall take such measures as he considers necessary' to protect the constitutional rights of a state's inhabitants if local officials 'are unable, fail or refuse' to protect them."

Attorney Arthur B. Caldwell, Assistant to Burke Marshall, Head of the Civil Rights Division, Justice Department, stated: "It is the deprivation of these Federally protected rights by a law enforcement agent acting under color of law that calls for investigation by the FBI and prosecution by the Department of Justice...If the investigatior indicates that the law has been violated the Civil Rights Division directs the United States Attorney of the appropriate district to present the facts to a grand jury where an indictment may be returned. If the grand jury does not indict, the United States Attorney prosecutes the case in the local Federal District Court." ("The Federal Government and Civil Rights," released from the Justice Department, July 23, 1963.)

* * * *

"If these four young men must remain in jail for two-four years until the case reaches the Supreme Court, it will rest on the conscience of every American who failed to urge immediate federal prosecution of Sumter County officials." --- John Lewis, Chairman, Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee

EXCERPTS FROM ELEVEN AMERICUS AFFIDAVITS

Lorine Sanders, being duly sworn deposes and says:

I was arrested July 19 with 42 others while on the way to the City Hall to protest the arrest of the seven people that were arrested for trying to purchase tickets at the Martin Theater. The group consisted of eighteen young adults and twenty-four adults...While the group was standing and singing, Chief Chambliss with three officers, Sheriff Chappell, and a number of state troopers; Chief Chambliss said: "All right, you people are under arrest." He had not told us to disperse All of us sat down except two other people. A girl, Lena Turner, stood reading a bible and a boy knelt. Sheriff Chappell screamed to the boy, "Sit down, nigger, with the rest of the crowd." He then looked at the girl and said, "You sit down, too. You feel like a frog too. Jump, damn it."... I spent fifty-two days and fifty-three nights in the city jail of Americus..."

Robertina Freeman, being duly sworn deposes and says:

I am 13 years old and was in Leesburg stockade from August 21 to August 31...There were two toilets and they were stopped up when I got there. They wouldn't work. At first they had to use them because they had nothing else...But soon they were overflowing and couldn't be used anymore. Then the girls started urinating in the drain near the shower...The very next day the guards took away our remaining beds because we were singing and praying. So then we started sleeping on the floor with no mattresses, no beds, no blankets, no sheets, no nothing. The floor was wet with the waste material from when they had been dragging the mattresses out of the cell...

Lorena Barnum being duly sworn deposes and says:

I am eleven years old...The only water available came from the shower. There were two tin cups for the 32 children. The water was warm and sometimes hot. It tasted rusty and sometimes looked cloudy. The shower was so filthy where you had to walk with your shoes off that no one took showers when I was there...One late evening two of the girls were sick. One girl had a bad heart and the other a bad appendix. One girl was trembling so bad and the other was crying and asking for help so we called for the guard. He ignored us for about 15 minutes and when he came, he said that he wouldn't come again until the other white man would come home. We called again and after several hours the other man came. He said there was nothing wrong with the girls. He said "If they aren't dead by morning, we'll come and look at them again."

Bobby Lee Jones, being duly sworn deposes and says:

I am 19 years old... Several particular incidents occurred. When I were in the City Jail of Americus one night they brought in about 15 girls who had been demonstrating. They had been burned by cow prods and were sore from being hit. They put all the girls in a room about 8x12 where they were refused medical care and where they remained for about 2 days...

SPECIAL REPORT from:
STUDENT NONVIOLENT COORDINATING COMMITTEE
8 ½ Raymond Street, N.W.
Atlanta 14, Georgia
688-0331

IMMEDIATE RELEASE

September 26, 1963

SPECIAL REPORT:

S E L M A, A L A B A M A

SPECIAL REPORT from
STUDENT NONVIOLENT COORDINATING COMMITTEE
Raymond Street, N.W.
Atlanta 14, Georgia

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

September 26, 1963

SPECIAL REPORT:

SELMA, ALABAMA

Selma is located on the bluffs of the Alabama River. It is the county seat of Dallas County, the seventh largest in population of Alabama's 68 counties. "Selma is now a little country town that is typical of most small Southern towns," states M.B. Owen in Our State Alabama.

During the Civil War, Selma was one of the most important military depots in the lower states of the Confederacy. Today it is the birthplace and stronghold of the White Citizens Council in Alabama.

The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) first went into Selma in the fall of 1962. The SNCC project began in February 1963.

This fact sheet on Selma, Alabama is the story of tyranny in Dallas County. It is also a report on the patterns of police brutality, beatings, arrests and harrassment of people who want to gain the vote and achieve full status as citizens of America.

FACT SHEET

The majority of the residents of Dallas County are Negro (57.7 percent,) the minority (42.3 percent) white. But only 0.9 percent of the eligible Negroes are registered to vote, states the Civil Rights Commission Report, Voting, (1961). Registration of eligible whites is 64 percent.

Adjoining Wilcox County has never had a Negro voter, according to the Commission, although 78 percent of the county's population is Negro. Lowndes County, which also borders Dallas County, has never had a Negro voter.

The 1961 U.S. Commission on Civil Rights Report on Voting says:

> Testimony at the Commission's Alabama hearing covered economic pressures and registrar's discriminatory practices which prevented Negroes from voting in this county (Dallas). ...In April 1961 the Department of Justice filed suit to enjoin such practices. The suit has not yet come to trail.

Two and a half years have passed since the suit was filed. In the meantime, conditions have not changed.

CONTRABAND MILITIA INTIMIDATES PROTESTERS

The County Sheriff's Department, under the direction of Sheriff Jim Clark, (who has attended every mass meeting held by SNCC, the Dallas County Voters League or the Dallas County Improvement Association, with his gun on his hip and frequently, an electric cattle prodder in hand) maintains a 300 men strong militia.

This specially deputized posse was used to hinder union activity in Dallas County (there is only one union there now) and has been used to intimidate Negroes at mass meetings. At least one hundred of these deputies wear old army fatigues and helmets and boots. They are empowered to carry weapons and make arrests--one struck 23 year old Willie Robertson from behind on September 16 as he was leaving a sit-in at Carter-Walgreen's Drug Store in Selma; he required seven stitiches.

On September 23, the Selma Times-Journal reported that at least 50 state patrolmen, headed by Al Lingo of the state Department of Public Safety, had come into the town at Sheriff Clark's request. For the past four days, at the time of this writing, the state patrol has kept the First Baptist Church--at which mass meetings have been held and from which some demonstrations have originated--surrounded. The Montgomery Advertiser reported today that 17 cars of state police aided in halting a picket of students on September 25.

Prior to his arrest on Sept. 24, SNCC Staff Coordinator Worth Long stated, "Selma is in a state of siege. Everywhere you look you see state patrolmen or members of the special posse brandishing clubs and cattle prods."

To date, about 100 high school students and students at Selma University (Negro) have been arrested on charges of "truancy." Police have stopped students wherever they have gathered, or while they walked along the street, and arrested them for "truancy."

ORGANIZED RESISTANCE TO EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES

The Trailways bus station is the only desegregated public facility in the county. There is no Greyhound line.

52 percent of the Dallas County families have an income of less than $3,000, or less than $54 a week. However, 6 percent of the families have an income of $10,000 or more. In 1959, some 750 families possessed about $3,500,000 in income.

The president of one of the largest manufacturing companies in Selma is also the president of the county's White Citizen's Council. Reginald Robinson, a field secretary for SNCC reported in the fall of 1962 that, "Businessmess who do not support the White Citizens Council cannot make loans in the lacal bank. I was told that members of the Council are working in key positions in banks and the city government."

With the white power structure connected to the Citizens Council, and with the U.S. Armed Forces Defense Bases maintaining a supporting position in maintaining the racial status quo of this black belt county, the hope of fair employment for Negroes is dim indeed. The USO itself does not admit Negro servicemen.

The Commander of Craig Air Force Base has thus far refused to direct his attention to the rigid segregation policies which affect both the citizens of Selma, and the men under his command. Secretary of Defense McNamara's June 8, 1963 Directive makes it clear that, "Every military commander has the responsiblity to oppose discriminatory practices affecting his men and their dependents, not only in areas under his immediate control, but also in nearby communities where they may live or gather in off-duty hours....The commander of a base, therefore, has the responsibility...to declare off-limits communities in which discrimination exists."

A dairy company, Clover Leaf Cream, which supplies products to Craig Air Force Base, has a government contract. It hires no Negroes.

"ONE MAN - ONE VOTE"

The first demand of the Negro community in Selma is for "Voter Registration without Intimidation." The Selma movement has adopted the SNCC slogan "One Man - One Vote" as its own.

Other demands at present call for fair employment practices; the release of all demonstrators and dropping of charges; and the integration of public facilities.

The Negroes of Selma and Dallas County are politically impotent without the vote. They have no way of influencing the choice of those who hold public office, even though they are in the majority.

Further, they have no channels for redress of grievences. It is not possible for them to appeal to the sensibilities of influential whites to pressure city officials to relieve the suppression of First Amendment freedoms for the Negro community. The leading businessmen of Selma placed a full-page advertisement in the Selma Times Journal on September 22, 1963, which makes clear the connection between business interests and the "inherently unequal" system of segregation. (see Appendix I)

They cannot turn to the average white citizenry when between 200 to 500 white males in the town are deputized in a special vigilante force.

They cannot go to local and county law enforcement officials, who have made it plain that they are there, not to protect rights of protest and the vote, but to keep down any dissent or any concerted attempts to get the vote. On September 24, billy clubs and electric cattle prodders were used on bystanders who were forced off Sylvan Street in front of the First Baptist Church. They had not been demonstrating.

The Negroes cannot hope for the protection of the Federal Government which, at best, filed suit two years merely to enjoin the registrar's practices. On the basis of past experience, there is little hope that the Federal Government will now prosecute those who are now depriving Selma Negroes of their constituional rights.

PRESENT DAY LYNCHING METHODS USED

Between April 1882 and January 1913, there were 21 lynchings (reported) in Dallas County. All of the victims were Negroes. The Dallas Gazette carried the following notation on Novemeber 24, 1859:

> Because so many slave crimes were punishable by death a relatively large number of executions occurred. They were morbid and horrible spectacles.... Often they were held on the plantation where the crime had been committed and all the slaves from the surrounding countryside were required to attend, so that the full impact of the fearful consequences of wrong-doing might sink deep into their minds.

The consequences of wrong-doing today take the form of beatings, shots in the night, and state-organized police brutality. The following is a brief chronology of harrassment of voter registration and protest efforts during 1963.

April 17--Voter registration worker Lonnie Brown reported today that "persons unknown" fired two shotgun blasts into his home.

June 12--SNCC voter registration worker Bernard Lafayette, 22, was beaten by two white men in front of his house after he answered their plea to help push a stalled car. Lafayette had two stitches taken in his head after the beating.

June 17--A young voter registration worker for SNCC was punched and shoved by a Deputy Sheriff here today. Bossie Reese, 19, was "literally thrown" into the sheriff's office while he watched Negroes take a registration test. He was arrested and charged with "failure to obey an officer" and "resisting arrest."

July 12--Bosse Reese was tried and convicted of "conduct calculated to breach the peace."

July 23--16 year old SNCC worker Alexander Brown was arrested here two days before he was scheduled to testify at a Justice Department hearing on discrimination against Negro voters in Dallas County. Brown, who was arrested by Sheriff Jim Clark, was charged with "false identity."

September 15--Five Negro students were arrested during a sit-in demonstration here. Two others were beaten by bystanders during sit-ins; one of them Lula Brown, 15, was knocked off a lunch counter stool by the owner of the Carter-Walgreen Drug Store. She was shocked by an electric cattle prodder by a man believed to be a member of the special posse. 63 other youths--including SNCC Staff Coordinator Worth Long and local SNCC worker Benny Tucker--were arrested during a march staged into downtown Selma. Long and Tucker were picked out of the crowd by Sheriff Clark.

September 17--SNCC worker Worth Long, 27, reported he was beaten in the county jail by Deputy Sheriff W.T. Marvell in front of 22 arrested demonstrators who witnessed the beating, on September 16. Long was released from jail this morning when charges were dropped because he was not in the demonstration but watching.

Septebmer 18--Demonstrations continued with picketing by young Negroes. SNCC worker Wilson Brown was arrested as he stood watching a picket at the Carter-Walgreen Drug Store. He was wearing a t-shirt with "don't buy downtown" printed on it, to emphasize the selective buying campaign which got underway last week.

September 20--The boycott of classes by Negro students continues here for the fifth day. Between 500 and 1,000 students have remained out of school to protest segregation in the public schools. 25 more students make applications at the library before it closes again.

September 21--The Air Force refused today to act on a request from SNCC that Selma be declard off-limits for personnel from Craig Air Force Base because of discrimination in the city. The request was made by SNCC worker Worth Long, Selma student leader Celophus Hobbs and Mrs. Amelia Boyngton, a local businesswoman, in a conference with Craig Commander, Colonel Richard Ault. When Ault refused, SNCC Chairman John Lewis in Atlanta wired the defense Department in Washington. The Department also refused to act on the request.

September 23--50 state patrolmen headed by Al Lingo surrounded mass meetings at the Brown Chapel A.M.E. and First Baptist Churches as SNCC Chairman John Lewis spoke. SNCC worker Benny Tucker, 21, a clergyman, sought sanctuary in the Baptist church when he learned of a warrant out for his arrest.

September 24--Police arrested Worth Long and Rev. Benny Tucker in the middle of a prayer led by Tucker at First Baptist Church. Tucker was charged with "contributing to the delinquency of a juvenile," (bond: $2,500) and Long was charged with "interfering with arrest," (bond:$2,500). A total of 122 young Negroes were arrested for "unlawful assembly" as they started walking toward the downtown area. 85 others were picked up earlier on charges of "truancy" when they left school.

September 25--John Lewis, Chairman of SNCC, was jailed here with 27 students from Selma University. Lewis, the first to be jailed, was leading a picket at the county courthouse demanding "Voter Registration Without Intimidation," and "One Man - One Vote."

* * * * * * *

For further information contact:

STUDENT NONVIOLENT COORDINATING COMMITTEE
8½ Raymond Street, N. W.
Atlanta 14, Georgia
688-0331

"ONE MAN - ONE VOTE"

* * * * * * *

The attached advertisement for the Dallas County White Citizens appeared in the Selma Times-Journal on June 9, 1963.

ASK YOURSELF THIS IMPORTANT QUESTION:

What have I personally done to Maintain Segregation?

If the answer disturbs you, probe deeper and decide what you are willing to do to preserve racial harmony in Selma and Dallas County.

Is it worth four dollars to prevent a "Birmingham" here? That's what it costs to be a member of your Citizens Council, whose efforts are not thwarted by courts which give sit-in demonstrators legal immunity, prevent school boards from expelling students who participate in mob activities and would place federal referees at the board of voter registrars.

Law enforcement can be called only after these things occur, but your Citizens Council prevents them from happening.

Why else did only 350 Negroes attend a so-called mass voter registration meeting that outside agitators worked 60 days to organize in Selma?

Gov. Wallace told a state meeting of the council three weeks ago: "You are doing a wonderful job, but you should speak with the united voice of 100,000 persons. Go back home and get more members."

Gov. Wallace stands in the University doorway next Tuesday facing possible ten years imprisonment for violating a federal injunction.

Is it worth four dollars to you to prevent sit-ins, mob marches and wholesale Negro voter registration efforts in Selma?

If so, prove your dedication by joining and supporting the work of the Dallas County Citizens Council today. Six dollars will make both you and your wife members of an organization which has already given Selma nine years of Racial Harmony since "Black Monday."

Send Your Check To THE DALLAS COUNTY

Citizens Council

SELMA, ALABAMA

YOUR MEMBERSHIP IS GOOD FOR 12 MONTHS

The fund appeal for the Dallas County Citizen's Council of Selma, Alabama on the other side of this sheet directly affects the two boys above as it affects you.

the fund appeal appeared in the SELMA TIMES-JOURNAL. Its readers will heed the plea to "prevent sit-ins, mob marches and wholesale Negro voter registration in Selma."

Its readers will prove their dedication "by joining and supporting the work of the Dallas County Citizens Council today."

The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee also has an active program in Dallas County and in neighboring Wilcox County.

Bernard LaFayette, a 22 years old minister and his wife, Colia, have been working out of Selma since January, 1963. They have set up six voter education classes in Dallas and Wilcox Counties, and in April, accompanied the first group of Negroes to ever attempt to register in Wilcox County to the courthouse there. Significantly, no county officials--sheriff, registrar, or judge--were to be found.

When SNCC Executive Secretary James Forman spoke at a Selma mass meeting in May, 500 white men in cars surrounded the church and kept a crowd of 300 Negroes inside until midnight.

Three weeks ago, 19-years-old Bosie Reese, a local youth who has been working with the LaFayettes, was roughed up and arrested by a deputy sheriff when he accompanied some Negroes to the registrar's office.

LaFayette was beaten by two white men in June after he answered their call for help with a stalled car.

Now four other local people have joined the LaFayettes in the vote drive. One is a minister, fired from his job when his employer learned he had been attending voter registration meetings.

Others have also lost their jobs because they want to register and vote.

But LaFayette - and other Alabama Negroes (who in Wilcox County are 0% of the registered voters but 77.9% of the population) - will continue to try to become real American citizens.

But they need your help.

The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee
6 Raymond Street, N. W.
Atlanta 14, Georgia

SNCC

STUDENT NONVIOLENT COORDINATING COMMITTEE
8 1/2 Raymond Street, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30314

For Immediate Release
November 19, 1963

SNCC WEDDING STIRS ARKANSAS OFFICIALS

PINE BLUFF, ARKANSAS - The marriage of two SNCC workers here has been called "a deliberate, direct disservice to the white and colored people of our state" by the State Attorney General.

Attorney General Bruce Bennet said of the newly-weds: "...neither of these people works for a living, but are paid by the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, which is a trouble making organization."

The two - Mr. and Mrs. William Hansen - were married in Cincinatti, Ohio on October 12.

Hansen is white. Mrs. Hansen, the former Ruthie Buffington, is a Negro.

Interracial weddings are illegal in Arkansas.

Hansen has been in Pine Bluff since December, 1962. He helped form the Pine Bluff Movement, and involved students at Arkansas A & M in sit-in demonstrations. Mrs. Hansen, one of the students, was, with ten others suspended from school on February 18.

Violation of the state's law against mixed marriages is punishable by a fine and a one year jail sentence.

Both Hansen and his wife will remain in Pine Bluff. Both are SNCC field secretaries.

-30-

THE NEW REPUBLIC

Gilbert A. Harrison, Editor-in-Chief

November 21, 1963

Mr. Pat Watters
76 Park Lane, N.E.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Pat,

Both the subjects you mention seem to us worth a report. The voter education project report seems a little more interesting. I don't think that we ought to have more than about 800 to 900 words, with a fairly full factual report, and perhaps a few comments along the lines you suggest to conclude.

When would be the best time for the Atlanta story? The keep-your-eye-on-Atlanta angle seems to me not quite as good as a story based on something that has in fact happened.

Many thanks. Give us some advance warning when we might expect copy.

Cordially,

GH

GAH:gs

1244 Nineteenth Street, NW • Washington 6, D. C. • Federal 8-2494

TOWN MEETING

December 5, 1963
8:00 P. M.
Dean Sage Auditorium

TOWN MEETING is committed to the creative life of the dialogue. Of the many purposes of the dialogic encounter, the chief one is the liberation and cultivation of the mind through rational inquiry, diversity and dissent. Through vigorous and free discussion, deliberation, the clash of opposing views, critical reflection, and independent judgment, TOWN MEETING seeks to interpret and clarify some of the burning issues of the day. The idea is at least as old as Socrates.* He taught, by means of the dialectic method, that the art of rational discourse via the unfettered forum of discussion, question and answer is indispensable to the discovery and proclamation of truth in human affairs.

---

*Aristotle attributes the genesis of the dialectic method to Zeno of Elea. Even so, Socrates made it famous.

PROGRAM

Subject: "The Changing Mind of the South"

Speakers: Mr. James Forman,
Executive Secretary,
Student Non-Violent
Coordinating Committee
(SNCC)

Dr. Leslie W. Dunbar,
Executive Director,
Southern Regional Council

Moderator: Dr. Samuel Dubois Cook

Ushers: Miss Etta Geer
Morris Brown College

Miss Gwendolyn Maddox
Spelman College

Town Meeting is sponsored by the Department of Political Science at Atlanta University in cooperation with selected individuals of the University Center.

TOWN MEETING COMMITTEE

Mr. G. C. Birchette, Atlanta U.
Dr. R. H. Brisbane, Morehouse
Mr. James Greene, Clark
Dr. S. L. Lynd, Spelman
Mr. William Pace, Morris Brown
Dr. Edward Sweat, Clark
Dr. S. W. Williams, Morehouse
Dr. S. D. Cook, Atlanta U., Chairman

THANKS FOR YOUR PRESENCE;

PLEASE COME BACK NEXT MONTH.

Exploitation of Neg - by Bizmen...
Sep life of slave exploited for ~~A~~ + ¢...
Not just San said exit the Negro... in reconstruction... (or now)...

Misuse of Polit Power...
Ed - Health - Training - Housing...
Free enterprise has its men in office -
~~to~~ Discharge pol power for them so new order can be estab —

Unless we can have some form of polit power, ~~that~~ impose whole economic program... should have cooperatives are basis for polit power...
Full employment... Emphasize Negro jobs to enforce full empl - sets up first the polit kingdom and all else will come to you...
(as in Africa)
go into slums... black belt...

Truth of Editor fell to — 'Sine Nat' into coal sta - sell up only -
Poor + uneducated...
WE Dubois: Boston educated life do literate men, sep - Negro —
Buy a home in Allen Heights — Tallahassee - Negro - or go in Bethanville Bethany...
Wilkinsville ice cream factory...
Negro + Baptist — Dominant White City see...
Have same Birth-in-Nation...
Illinois U.P.I. Can't get in tele not same facing Negro...
Capital fight right, left —
Negro Urban Minority —
Make place by himself...
Run with Rec units...
Negro Mass White... Negro & White
Miller — as much as mass... mass students

Work in white neighborhoods... do one can struggle for neighbor...
Human for real citizenship: Neighborhood...
Peoples National Union — Liberties owners other religions —
Conflict: Cutting middle upset of Negroes...
Go matrix do state or nationally
Battle ds. and Clergy ~~Com~~ neither Estimate Nationally

SNCC

Pat - do you get copies of WAGA-TV editorials? Wilson.

-SNCC-

1018 W. PEACHTREE ST.
ATLANTA 2, GEORGIA

Channel 5 EDITORIAL

KEN BAGWELL
GENERAL MANAGER

DALE CLARK
DIRECTOR OF NEWS & PUBLIC AFFAIRS

Route to: HB

Tuesday, February 4, 1964

On Tuesday of last week Channel 5 called for an end to the disorderly demonstrations in downtown Atlanta because of our conviction that the issue had become not a matter of who was right or wrong, but a matter of disturbing the peace and endangering human lives.

The editorial time is given now to a spokesman for one of the participating organizations, the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee. This is in response to a request from the organization that its viewpoint be heard. Here is an official of that organization, Mr. Julian Bond.

BOND: Atlanta's excellent record of using reason and common sense is indeed getting smeared across the nation. But the cause goes deeper than the recent demonstrations.

Atlanta's record has been built almost wholly on the reason and common sense of Atlanta Negroes.

It is they who have had to reason their way to the acceptance of the few and superficial concessions which white officials and businessmen have been willing to make.

It is their common sense which has dictated patience and understanding of the white man's problem.

But a time comes when patience and understanding are merely self-delusion.

That time is here and now for Atlanta's Negroes.

How can reason and common sense any longer accept the gratuitous insult of discrimination in places of public accommodation? Of continued discrimination in education, housing, employment, medical facilities and public services?

How can reason and common sense any longer conclude that white officials and businessmen will correct these abuses voluntarily?

WAGA-TV offers a reasonable opportunity to reply to the views expressed in the editorial to a responsible person or group representing a significant opposing viewpoint, provided request for reply time is submitted to WAGA-TV within one week of this telecast.

Thus the demonstrations, in our opinion, are serving a very good purpose--good not only for Atlanta Negroes, but for all Atlanta citizens.

The demonstrations are communicating to Atlanta officialdom that we will have justice now, in Atlanta.

The demonstrations are focusing on the real issue of Atlanta's record--will it be made a reality, or will it be admitted a fraud?

And it does matter, vitally, who is right and who is wrong. (Despite Channel 5's statement that it "isn't a matter of who is right and who is wrong".)

Our Committee is completely opposed to violent demonstrations and will do everything it can do to prevent them.

But if the demonstrations are caused by injustice, it is always possible that the strong feeling engendered by injustice will result in some violence.

Fundamentally, Atlanta can restore peace and order in two ways. It can remove the injustice and right the wrongs done its Negro citizens, or it can suppress or discredit all dissent.

Atlanta must choose.

CLARK: The editorial time has been given to the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee for response to the Channel 5 editorial of January 28. The spokesman was Julian Bond.

WAGA-TV Editorial is telecast weekdays:

7:15 am
6:15 pm in PANORAMA
11:20 pm in 11TH HOUR PANORAMA

File: organizations: S-O-C-C

The following statement was adopted by a group of Southern students from predominantly white colleges and communities in a majority of the Southern states--Alabama, Florida, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia--meeting in Nashville, April 3-5, 1964.

WE'LL TAKE OUR STAND -- Nashville, April 4, 1964

It has been 35 years since a group of young intellectuals calling themselves the Southern "Fugitive Group" met here in Nashville and declared their hopes of stopping the clock and preventing social, spiritual and economic forces which are today still coming of age in the South. They wrote a statement called "I'll Take My Stand" in which they endorsed the old feudal agrarian aristocratic order of the South and opposed what they saw coming in the new order--widespread industrialization and urbanization with democracy and equality for all the people.

We do hereby declare, as Southern students from most of the Southern states, representing different economic, ethnic and religious backgrounds, growing from birthdays in the Depression years and the War years, that we will here take our stand in determination to build together a New South which brings democracy and justice for all its people.

Just a few years after the Fugitives took their stand, Franklin D. Roosevelt assumed the presidency of the U.S. and called our Southland "America's number one domestic problem." He talked about the needs of those Americans who were ill-housed, ill-fed, and ill-clothed. Today, in 1964, when a majority of our nation is living in an affluence which makes the spectres of poverty and racism tenfold more inexcusable, a Southerner is in the White House. Yet the struggle for equal opportunity for all men--white and non-white, young and old, man and woman, is by no means completed. Our Southland is still the leading sufferer and battleground of the war against racism, poverty, injustice and autocracy. It is our intention to win that struggle in our Southland in our lifetime--tomorrow is not soon enough.

Our Southland is coming of age, they say. But we both hope and fear for her new industries and her new cities, for we also are aware of new slums, newly unemployed, new injustices, new political guile--and the Old as well. Is our dream of democracy to be dashed just as were Jefferson's dreams and the Populist struggles lost in the blend of feudal power, racial fear and industrial oligarchic opportunism? Only as we dare to create new movements, new politics, and new institutions can our hopes prevail.

We hereby take our stand to start with our college communities and to confront them and their surrounding communities and to move from here out through all the states of the South--and to tell the Truth that must ultimately make us free. The Freedom movement for an end to segregation inspires us all to make our voices heard for a beginning of a true democracy in the South for all people. We pledge together to work in all communities across the South to create non-violent political and direct action movements dedicated to the sort of social change throughout the South and nation which is necessary to achieve our stated goals.

Our region must be an exemplar of the national goals we all believe in, rather than a deterrent to them:

(1) Not only an end to segregation and racism but the rise of full and equal opportunity for all;
(2) An end to personal poverty and deprivation;
(3) An end to the "public poverty" which leaves us without decent schools, parks, medical care, housing, and communities;
(4) A democratic society where politics poses meaningful dialogue and choices about issues that affect men's lives, not manipulation by vested elites;
(5) A place where industries and large cities can blend into farms and natural rural splendor to provide meaningful work and leisure opportunities for all--the sort of society we can all live in and believe in.

We, as young Southerners hereby pledge to take our stand now together here to work for a new order, a new South, a place which embodies our ideals for all the world to emulate, not ridicule. We find our destiny as individuals in the South in our hopes and our work together as brothers.

Fil: SNCC

Social Struggle and Weariness

Robert Coles

REPRINTED FROM

PSYCHIATRY

JOURNAL FOR THE STUDY OF INTERPERSONAL PROCESSES

1610 NEW HAMPSHIRE AVE., N. W., WASHINGTON 9, D. C.

VOL. TWENTY-SEVEN NO. FOUR, NOV. 1964

Copyright 1964 by The William Alanson White Psychiatric Foundation, Inc.

Social Struggle and Weariness

Robert Coles*

STRUGGLE to make our world a better one for more people demands effort and commitment, and these are sometimes repaid with exhaustion and despair. I am writing this paper to describe the onset of weariness in veteran activists of the civil rights movement in America and to indicate that there are ways to help diminish its paralyzing effect upon those who suffer from it.

I speak as a white psychiatrist, a New Englander who first came upon the South —upon Mississippi, in fact—during a tour of military duty. After a brief return North, I went back—this time to Georgia —in order to observe further how individual Negroes and whites manage the social changes obviously afoot throughout the region.

In my work, much of which has been done in association with the student civil rights movement, I have tried to carry psychiatric study into an active social struggle. The method of observation employed may be described as just short of participant observation. That is, though I have never taken part in a "sit-in," picketed, or accompanied a Negro trying to register or vote, I have watched demonstrations of all kinds all over the South for four years, I have lived with the students staging these demonstrations, followed them about, interviewed them at great length, visited them in jail and even treated some of them there, in consultation with prison doctors, for temporary episodes of anxiety, borderline psychosis, and severe depression; in addition, I have attended their meetings and conducted "groups" at their request, groups where they could talk about their feelings and problems. The Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) called me their "staff psychiatrist"; and the real heart of the work, besides leading many discussion groups, consisted of my prolonged interviews with—relationship with —23 students, white and Negro, men and women, over a span of four years and under the various conditions mentioned above.

Young men and women in the American South have been staging nonviolent protest demonstrations against segregationist laws and customs for several years. How they manage the various inner stresses and outer trials of their lives, engaged as they are in full-fledged social struggle, is the question that I am considering here. Some understanding of this question can perhaps be gained, I propose, by looking at how an increasing number of them don't manage; how they grow weary and lose interest in themselves and their cause. Since I have worked with these young Southerners and studied them for a long time indeed, I feel that I have some sense of what ails many of them and how they can be helped.[1] My observations,

[1] I have given my general impressions of many of these youths in a chapter called "Serpents and Doves: Non-Violent Youth in the South" in Youth: Change and Challenge, edited by Erik Erikson; New York, Basic Books, 1963. Also, in studying children going through initial desegregation in Southern schools, I have come to know young Negro students

* A.B. Harvard College 50; M.D. Columbia Univ. 54; Intern, Univ. of Chicago Clinics 54-55; Res. in Psychiatry, Mass. General Hosp. 55-56; Res. in Psychiatry, McLean Hosp., Belmont, Mass. 56-57; Res. in Child Psychiatry, Judge Baker Guidance Center (Children's Hosp.) 57-58; Teaching Fellow in Psychiatry, Harvard Med. School 55-58; Staff Member and Chief of Girls' Section, Children's Unit, Metropol. State Hosp. 57-58; Staff Member, Alcoholism Clinic, Mass. General Hosp. 57-58; Chief of Neuro-Psychiatric Service and Wards, USAF, Keesler Hosp., Biloxi, Miss. 58-60; Fellow in Child Psychiatry, Judge Baker Guidance Center (Children's Hosp.) 60-61; Psychiatric Consultant, Lancaster Industrial School for Girls 61; Clin. Asst. in Psychiatry, Harvard Med. School, and Member of Psychiatric Staff, Mass. General Hosp. 60-62; Rsc. Psychiatrist and Consultant on "Psychiatric Aspects of Desegregation in the South," Southern Regional Council 61-; Rsc. Psychiatrist, Harvard Univ. Health Service 63-.

therefore, may be useful to others. It is with this hope that I am reporting them.

Social Protest in the Southern Setting

Sit-ins are not as new as they seem to many of us. A number of them were staged spontaneously in the earlier years of this century, isolated, ineffective expressions of resentment by Negroes at their peculiarly hard lot in this country.[2] The fact that such efforts in our time have emerged as a "movement" illustrates the intersection of private struggles with the historical enablement of them. That is, events in the life of our nation have transformed random discontent into a highly complicated, organized social and political phenomenon. This development contrasts with other kinds of social protest which have from the start been more deliberate and planned, or with those which have been taken up by groups already firmly in existence.[3]

The demonstrations have had several purposes: To call attention to the exclusion of Negroes from hotels, restaurants, movie houses, even voting booths; to try to end this practice by entering such places in the hope of being served or accepted; to exert moral, social, and economic pressure on private businesses or on public institutions such as schools and libraries so that they will reconsider their policies; or to prepare the basis for litigation by testing customs clearly illegal constitutionally. The persons taking part in the demonstrations may not all have these aims precisely in mind. Many of them think of their goal in terms of abstractions like "justice," and rely much more heavily on feelings, such as their sense of being denied and scorned.

In the South this kind of social struggle has been chosen by a relative handful in the face of strong resistance, open and devious. Indeed, any discussion of nonviolent protest in that region must somehow establish the psychological quality of the Southern Negro's life and, reciprocally, that of his white neighbors, grounded as they both are in history, customs, and hard legal, economic, and political realities. The Negro's daily life is determined by his terrible past and his present condition of relative poverty, powerlessness, restriction, and isolation from his fellow countrymen. There may be no reason to repeat such obvious facts; they have been fully established by historians, political scientists, economists, and sociologists.[4] Yet, there is every reason for a psychiatrist studying the adjustment of students involved in social protest to keep constantly in mind what it means to grow up as a Negro; how it feels; how the world is seen and engaged; what is lacking for these people and what they expect, and how much of either is grounded in fantasy and how much in reality. The reality of the Southern Negro's life is unrelentingly menial in its public and private relationship to the white world; to appreciate this fact fully, perhaps, one must have had some residence in the South.

Composition of the Protest Movement

No convenient generalizations quite do justice to the astonishing number of

as they slowly become involved in more general protest activities in contrast to their court-sanctioned admission and attendance at formerly all-white schools—a stress enough despite its "legality." See "Southern Children Under Desegregation" in Amer. J. Psychiatry (1963) 120:332-344.

[2] See, for example, E. Franklin Frazier, The Negro in the United States; New York, Macmillan, 1957.

[3] The labor movement in the 30's in this country resembles the civil rights movement in certain ways, but it drew upon a long history of protest that had become increasingly organized and institutionalized. There are a number of organizations whose stated purposes are various kinds of reform, and, of course, our two national parties differ in their goals and actions with respect to social changes.

[4] A very suggestive book which combines a historical, sociological and psychological approach is Stanley Elkins' book, Slavery; Chicago, Univ. of Chicago Press, 1959. Gunnar Myrdal's An American Dilemma is indispensable. It has recently been revised: New York, Harper and Row, 1962. C. Vann Woodward's various historical works are stimulating and filled with the artist's keen sense of irony and paradox. For example, The Strange Career of Jim Crow; New York, Oxford Univ. Press, 1955. Wilber J. Cash's Mind of the South (New York, Knopf, 1941) is still the moving classic on the general background of the South's pride and agony. Another classic from a sociological viewpoint is Allison Davis and John Dollard, Children of Bondage; Washington, D. C., Amer. Council on Educ., 1940. And Lillian Smith's Killers of the Dream (New York, Norton, 1961) is for me the most sensitive and acute psychological study written on how whites have come to get along with Negroes and see one another in the South.

ways in which the mind can handle an unpleasant or curbed fate. The rationalizations, denials, projections, and reaction-formations developed under such circumstances will easily be imagined by psychiatrists, as conscious as we are now of "ego psychology"; and they have been set forth.[5] Such information, in fact, cautions us against any supposition that all Negroes feel alike, respond to their situation in like fashion, or are prepared to take similar arms against their "sea of troubles."

On the contrary, we are presented with the question of who does join these demonstrations, or who, given what kind of personality and background, would.

Many reasons indeed have caused Negroes, and for that matter whites, to join the several protest movements. They may generally be stated as combinations of private experiences or emotions engaging with public events in the context of a summoning historical time. I have seen the most diverse kinds of youths join sit-ins for a wide variety of personal reasons, and participate in them in highly individual ways, briefly and fearfully, steadfastly, defiantly, quietly, exhibitionistically.

Those who bulk largest in the Southern movement and are most influential in it are Negro college students or recent graduates from college. Several reasons explain this fact. This is their generation's time. Their parents could scarcely have envisaged, let alone help bring about, what has happened in race relations in the past fifteen years. This is also their own, their personal time, when they are grown enough to leave home and develop their own attitudes, yet still largely young enough to be spared the heavy social and economic responsibilities of parenthood, while granted the flexibility and mobility of studenthood. Many are only fresh out of college and their condition has been best described by Erikson.[6] They are trying to figure out who they are, what they believe, how to live their lives, and with what ideals to guide them; or they are a bit older and have been storing their energies for a ripe kind of exertion of them.[7]

There are, of course, much older men and women in the movement too, persons who have found their professions in social work, the ministry, teaching, or law, but have found also that their "work" is impossible without prior dedication to the achievement of their dignity as human beings. For the most part they are the well-known leaders, particularly so in the more established Negro civil rights organizations. Yet a good deal of the most earnest social struggle, in the hardest, most unyielding counties of the "deepest" South, is today carried on by youths, and indeed is organized and directed by them. These are the ones who rode the freedom buses, and the same ones who are often called by newsmen "the shock troops" of the movement; long hours a day over months of time their work demands almost impossible sacrifices of living conditions and freedom in towns whose existence and character in this nation are perhaps unbelievable if not seen and confronted in some depth of experience.

The work of these students is not totally the action caught by cameras or reported in the news. The brunt of it is taking actual residence in towns where their goals are considered illegal at best and often seditious; considered so by local police and judges, by state police and judges, by business and political leaders. Their very presence in these towns, in fact, is regarded as a violation of law and order. Most significantly, they are also feared, and resented too, by their own kind, by Negroes as well as whites. The job of organizing Southern Negroes into effective groups for sustained assertion of their rights is a hard one, and one not

[5] See, for example, A. Kardiner and L. Ovesey, The Mark of Oppression; New York, Norton, 1951, and New York, Meridian, 1962.

[6] Erikson's well-known discussion of identity formation in young people, and, for that matter, of identity problems in Negroes, is continually helpful in research of this kind. More than that, his ideas have now become what Auden called, referring to Freud and his works, "a whole climate of opinion." See his Childhood and Society; New York, Norton, 1963, Young Man Luther; New York, Norton, 1958, and "Identity and the Life Cycle" in Psychological Issues; New York, Internat. Univ. Press, 1959.

[7] Erikson's discussion of "moratorium," for example, in his study of Luther's life is helpful in looking at these students in the midst of a similar kind of struggle; that is, inward as well as outward, in their growing up as well as their demonstrating on streets.

suitably described by a rhetoric which denounces segregation and fails to consider what such a system does to those segregated, or, for that matter, to those born to enforce segregation, believe in it, and often profit from it.

Negroes in Southern towns are heavily apathetic, widely illiterate, predominantly anxious, and afraid of any protest in their own behalf; let alone joining such protests, they are stubbornly reluctant to believe those who advocate them. At the same time, they are largely poor, menially worked, constantly susceptible to unemployment, and subject to laws often hardly sensitive to their civil rights though acutely sensitive to their history and their customary position in society. These are grim psychological realities for those youths who take up the struggle against them. They are the facts of the oppressor's disposition, of the victim's submission, of the fear they both share for different reasons. Every tape I have from every student tells these facts, and they help explain the development of some of the psychiatric symptoms this paper aims to describe.

Clinical Symptoms of Weariness in the Cause

What unites all of these students is the development in each of them of certain specific clinical symptoms. These symptoms emerge in youths of different classes and ages and with different reasons for participating in such struggles; they crop up in people whose character structures vary, whose choice of defense mechanisms encompasses the entire range of the ego's possibilities. To develop they take time and certain kinds of experiences; but given both, they occur, in my experience, almost universally. They are clinical signs of depression. They constitute "battle fatigue." They indicate exhaustion, weariness, despair, frustration, and rage. They mark a crisis in the lives of those youths who experience them, and also one in the cities which may experience the results, translated into action, of such symptoms.

Because of these symptoms students may depart the movement, go "back to the world" of schools, jobs, pursuit of career, to be replaced by younger or fresher cadres. Or they may linger on, disabled. Or they may stay on but become troublesome, bitter, and a source of worry, of unpredictable action, of potential danger to themselves and their "cause." The development of these symptoms, these depressive episodes, is a problem for civil rights organizations, and for the country too. Leaders of the civil rights organizations well know that their struggle is a long one, not to be resolved in a year or two. In a sense they are more than leaders of organizations; they are generals worried about "war-neuroses" in their front-line troops. The rest of the country is the scene of the battle, and thus has good reason for regarding closely the state of mind that develops in many of these young men and women.

Briefly the symptoms reveal fear, anxiety, and anger no longer "controlled" or "managed." Depressions occur, characterized by loss of hope for victory, loss of a sense of purpose, and acceptance of the power of the enemy where before such power was challenged with apparent fearlessness. The youth affected may take to heavy drinking or become silent, sulky, and uncooperative. Frequently one sees real gloom, loss of appetite, withdrawal from social contacts as well as from useful daily work in the movement. Sometimes withdrawal from the movement becomes a precursor of the abandonment of a commitment to nonviolence, the advocacy of total, disruptive assault upon the society, or complete, hateful disengagement from it. In such cases the nonviolent movement itself may be attacked instead of the segregated society formerly felt to be the enemy. One very bright and exceptionally intuitive young man summarized his feelings very concisely:

> I feel I've lost those years. They've come to nothing, really. No real change. So I feel betrayed by the movement, and I guess it's easier to get angry at it than at the white world. I just want to pull out of the white world. I mean you can't hate it the way I do and live with it . . . . That's it, my hate for the movement is a release or something . . . . I can hate it and do something about it. You know, attack them or undermine them. But what can a Negro do to the white world without getting destroyed eventually?

There are warning signs, and they are increasingly spotted these days by certain leaders. But full-fledged depressions still appear without being anticipated, and I have treated several of them. They are difficult to treat because they seem to have developed over a long period of time and in people resourceful at concealing them. Once they make their appearance, they seem refractory to anything but the strongest of medical and psychiatric measures—medication, psychotherapy, a change of environment, even temporary hospitalization. On the other hand, increasing sophistication has enabled certain key "officers" to recognize the beginning of weariness, the first stages foreshadowing collapse, with their signs of anxiety and fretfulness and with their subtle changes in thinking and feeling.

For example, minor complaints of insomnia or headaches may herald depression. So also may comments like, "What's the use?" or "Why fight them, they're too strong?" Such remarks may be quickly denied even by those making them, but experience in the movement has shown that it is wise not to ignore their significance. Somatic complaints are also significant: stomach pains, or menstrual cramps newly bothersome and disabling, or vague skin itching and nondescript and self-ascribed "allergies." Then there are the "accidents," with bikes, with cars; and the injuries, due to drinking, or to "friendly" fighting, or "horsing around," or suffered in athletic games. They are often the result of rising tensions deflected by consciences not easily prone to acknowledge their presence, let alone their strength and pervasive influence.

The forms of despair and exhaustion are really only limited by the ingenuity of the human mind. We have seen pregnancy serve as an "escape," not only for women who must leave to have a baby, but for men who must leave for marriage. We have seen parental disapproval of protest activity suddenly accepted and embraced as a means of dodging one's own depression and guilty wish to leave the struggle. We have seen reckless, defiant behavior adopted to deal with the guilt over the wish to leave, as if severe punishment at the hands of the segregationists would satisfy the demands—often quite unconscious—of the student's conscience. It is as if a voice tells them, "For wanting to leave you must seek and get punishment, and from the very people you were up to this point managing so well through your controlled, nonviolent behavior." Two young men showed bursts of dedication, a kind of outlandish zeal quickly seen for its compulsive and strange quality by others; the denial of other feelings, of inertia and apathy based on depression, explained their actions. And I have seen exhaustion attributed to others; or young people become exquisitely sensitive to the weakness of others as they struggle with their own budding feelings of dejection.

The very institutional development of the sit-in movement parallels such individual psychological developments. At first there were simply youths—vigorous, unfatigued, keen to protest, indifferent to organizational concerns, and inexperienced in just how to sustain their momentum—that is, how to raise social, political, and economic support for themselves. But as it became clear that sit-ins were "working," more participants became available, and organizational developments began: The students formed committees, they met, elected leaders, opened up offices, bought equipment for them, appealed for money, became conscious of publicity. The makings of a bureaucracy were thus established, and within time came the tensions, the rivalries, rigidities, and inertia associated with such developments. One student—a political science major—put it quite bluntly:

I'm tired, but so is the whole movement. We're busy worrying about our position or our finances, so we don't do anything any more . . . . We're becoming lifeless, just like all revolutions when they lose their first momentum and become more interested in preserving what they've won than going on to new challenges . . . . Only with us we haven't won that much, and we're either holding to the little we have as an organization, or we get bitter, and want to create a new revolution . . . . You know, one like the Muslims want, which is the opposite of what we say we're for. It's as if we completely reverse ourselves because we can't get what we want.

Both bitterness and organizational preoccupations can be a refuge or outlet for anxious, depressed veterans of active protest, and often these two developments occur together. For example, a 24-year-old veteran of numerous sit-ins came to see me because he knew he had been depressed for several weeks, and more recently had become aware of his reluctance to join any active demonstration. Even the "softest" demonstrations in the more northerly South bothered him. He was afraid, hence unwilling to do anything but work in the regional headquarters of the organization. The thought of going to jail, once regarded as a laughing matter and almost welcomed as a means of earning pride in himself and esteem from others, terrified him now. He had trouble sleeping, and nightmares afflicted him:

I dream I'm going to be hurt, you know, kicked and manhandled by those jailers. [There had always been reason for him to fear such possibilities as probabilities; but until now he had been able to "dismiss" or make light of such "reality."] Sometimes I wake up in a cold sweat, and I remember that I've actually dreamed that the whole movement was arrested . . . . I mean all of us were taken in custody, and then I escape and a few of us get a boat and go to Africa, or we take refuge in one of the African embassies . . . . I mean to get away from whites, all of them, that's what the dream says; the reverse of integration, you might call it.

This young man was actually quite agitated when he came to see me, and he was "furloughed" for "rest and rehabilitation." (The language of the students is commonly "war language.") He became a member of a small group I was asked to lead as a means of dealing with such "casualties."

The Role of Psychiatry in the Civil Rights Struggle

The problem of just what can be done to help such students is not easily solved. Some simply leave, to go back to school or work. Others are torn idealistically between their rage at an unfair society and their fear of its punishment of their protests, their despair at their own ineffectiveness in social struggle, and their natural worry at the personal sacrifice of valuable time and energy. ("I'm giving the best years of my life, and what will I have at the end to show? . . . . How will I make a living and support myself? . . . and will it all do any good, anyway?") These youths may express their ambivalence with symptoms; and, in my experience, psychiatric care, individually and in groups, has been helpful.

Yet, working with these students, I have found, is not the most conventional psychotherapeutic task. Many of them are profoundly distrustful of outsiders, even those recommended to them by their fellows; and I am white, an obstacle for many Southern Negroes who need time and experience to feel even remotely comfortable with any white, even those standing beside them in demonstrations, let alone a watching psychiatrist.[8]

Some of these problems of suspicion and aloofness yielded to the slow formation of relationships between many of these students and me. Such relationships took a good deal of time to develop, months becoming several years, and they took several forms: Casual "consultations in the field"; more formal prison visits to certain students in clear need of emergency sedation, tranquilization, and support; participation in general discussions on policies, strategy, and tactics, occasions which made more "formal" my association with the students and their goals; teaching certain students specifically assembled for lectures on such topics as the "psychological development of prejudice"; and, finally, repeated meetings with individual students, many self-referred ("I'm depressed," or "My nerves are thin") and [8] I have briefly referred to some of these problems in my paper, "Southern Children Under Desegregation" (see footnote 1). Excellent discussion of some of the problems of psychotherapy involving Negro and white encounter in an office may be found in articles by Viola Bernard, "Psychoanalysis and Members of Minority Groups," J. Amer. Psychoanal. Assn. (1953) 1:256-268, and Amer. J. Orthopsychiatry (1956) 26:459-466.

many evaluated as troubled by others ("They say I'm jittery, but who isn't?").

In general, a variety of responses were needed to the complaints brought forth. Some students were clearly seriously disturbed—a very few psychotic—and had to be encouraged to leave the movement and eventually be referred to whatever psychiatric facilities were available in their home states. Others were comparatively less disturbed, but heavily enough depressed to suggest both to them and me that separation was the indicated choice for them too. These were also few in number, and all of them were to recover within several months of a more "normal" life. The majority of students seen individually for clinical signs of depression (13 of 17) responded encouragingly to a relatively small number of visits, as few as 3 and as many as 10.[9]

These meetings were both "supportive" and "clarifying." By those words I mean that my intention was to talk openly and warmly, yet firmly and realistically about what it means to take on a resistant and powerful social system, what it means generally to groups and individually to their members. I rarely had trouble in hearing the various symptoms of depression and anxiety. Hearing them, I would relate them to their precipitating causes, the stresses of social struggle and protest, and then discuss with the individual students or groups the ways of handling such stresses, the limits which all people have, variable for different people but at some point of tension inclusive of all humanity. We would then usually relate the particular difficulty or symptom, often hidden from others, to the real provocations for them, and try to assess alternatives to continued suffering—withdrawal, rest or vacation, change of scene or type of job (from "field" to office), or reduction of responsibilities with some help from tranquilizers and further medical and psychiatric visits.

As I review my notes and listen to my tapes, I can now see what I must have somehow realized all along, that the chief purposes of psychiatric intervention in work like this were quick evaluation of who could stay "on the firing line" and who had to be relieved, and the provision of several kinds of support to those who could stay. Furthermore, in working with those who were to stay, the problems of guilt and the real nature of the external threats were the two most common challenges.

In most cases, after all, these were highly ethical and idealistic youths, perhaps prematurely so in contrast to those from certain more comfortable, white middle-class homes where aggressive feelings are more easily or variously indulged and consciences are less quickly and fearfully buttressed by social customs or laws. The "morality" of many of these students is a rather complex development. Either with the help of their parents or by themselves they have had to reject the stereotype of the lazy, indifferent, apathetic, and "instinctual" — drunken, promiscuous — Negro. At the same time they have had to live under the powerful coercion of a segregationist society, and the restrictions of such a society have become part of their own consciences long before they decide to abandon them and even fight them. They must, therefore, in Erikson's terms, abandon an old identity, achieve a new one, and fight for it. They must reject an old morality, that of their own society, and fight for a new one against strong odds.

Small wonder that many of them feel anxious and guilty, then depressed.[10]

[9] Of the 23 students I have followed intensively, 8 became depressed enough to request more "formal" interviews with me relating to their symptoms. They would call or write me from their various "homes" or "battle stations" over the South. I would frequently go to see them, or they would come to see me in Atlanta or New Orleans, where most of my time was spent. All of these 8 students (6 Negro and 2 white; 2 Negro women and 1 white woman) responded favorably to treatment. Five additional students also responded well. But 4 students, all Negro and all from very poor families with little education, if much persistence and determination, became deeply enough depressed to warrant prolonged separation from the movement. Two of the four were clearly in psychotic depressions. There were many more students who needed—in some cases, urgently—and requested interviews. The limiting factor was, as might be expected, my time and energy. I worked with larger numbers in 4 groups which met for varying lengths of time, 6 sessions in one case to 14 in another.

[10] My work has been chiefly with students. Yet, theirs is not the only energy applied to the cause of civil rights. A variety of local, regional, and national organizations have been involved in this effort. Some, like the NAACP, measure their life in decades; others, like Martin Luther King's group,

Often they do not know the guilt they feel; and often, in order to function, they have had to "forget" the really tough, often unshakable, frequently treacherous and punitive social and political resistance they face. When disabled, they feel additionally guilty for that. What often seems to help is coming to grips with the guilt directly and relating it to some larger perspective of the relationship between personal effort and social reform. To explain this last statement, I shall draw on my work with a young man, recently graduated from college, who interrupted his law school career to join a major sit-in movement in Alabama.

Charles came to me—a 23-year-old veteran of 18 arrests for countless sit-ins—with a recent history of severe insomnia, restlessness, and increasingly chronic fatigue. A friend of his, an officer in the organization, felt him to be depressed and recommended that he see me. In our first meeting Charles acknowledged "some depression" but quickly followed the admission with protestations of his own worthlessness. He had no "right" to be depressed. People had gone through "worse" and had suffered no ailments or grievances doing it. Why should he, then? Why did he feel so low? He was bad. He didn't want to go on, go on with our talk, or go on with his participation in sit-ins. He would either have to "stop this silliness" or quit.

In the course of 8 interviews in 6 weeks' time it was possible for us to explore his feelings, his fears and his sense of badness and failure. Fairly directly I defined what I had come to know were his likely troubles: He felt depressed, felt bad even to know that, and was struggling hard to push his feelings aside, to mention them to nobody, including, if possible, himself. He was slowly feeling "out of touch" and "different." Others weren't so "weak," and their bravado, their light-hearted humor, proved it.

Of course their overworked jesting and often fairly hurtful games and quarrelsome scuffles showed just the opposite, how nervous and worried they were, too. I mentioned that, and from there we were able slowly to go into his feelings of loneliness and failure, and how he used guile and pretenses to hide such feelings from others, only to feel lonelier and guiltier. His father was a minister and disapproved of his son's "illegal" activities. One day Charles summarized the grim linkage of external and internal accusations confronting him: "I'm damned by my own parents and damned by the police, and then I feel I'm not doing the best for the movement either."

He was clearly helped by talking about such matters, and I actively defined for him his feelings as I heard them and told him how similar they were to those of other students I'd met in the movement. Several times I told him that I thought he was unduly "rough" on himself and that a strong part of his mind was giving him a hard time for crimes of fantasy rather than fact. In moments like this I would proceed to take up with him the facts of the struggle he was helping support. I tried to relate his aims to those of the movement. Many of these students, and he was one of the them, come from the Negro schools and colleges of the South; and many of these institutions, state owned and supported, are hardly places likely to kindle the fire of social protest or furnish some social, political, and economic context for its occurrence.

Charles had first become aware of the movement in watching television, and had then stumbled upon a moment when that passive acquaintance became for him a real event. He had long endured various restrictions in his Alabama town, but now they were becoming harder to bear precisely because similar segregationist confinements seemed to be crumbling all over the South, and he knew about that, saw them collapsing before his eyes on nightly news programs. One day he boarded a bus in his home town and tried to sit in the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, mark the onset of our present accelerated Negro protest and collapsing segregationist resistance. It is quite clear that many adults, such as ministers or lawyers, have essentially committed themselves to this struggle. Indeed, in varying degrees they have made its trials their challenges, its tasks their new occupation. I have certainly seen some of them fall victim to the same complaints here described in their younger allies. Some return to their previous work under such circumstances. Others I know have become increasingly bitter, humorless, and quick to anger, as well as tired and even apathetic.

front. "Actually I didn't think I was going to do that," he says, and thus qualifies the story as he tries to convey the subtleties of human courage and fear blended into the flash of a moment's decision. "I just started for the rear as usual, and found I didn't get there, but had sat down in the front." He was quickly rebuked by the bus driver and the few white passengers, while the Negroes in the rear sat silently looking on. He would not budge. He was arrested for "disorderly conduct." It was this deed which set his engagement with the sit-in movement going. When he joined, he was, in his own words,

> . . . optimistic, that's what I was, plain optimistic. I thought we'd demonstrate and then they'd fold up before us. But it's been tougher than I ever dreamed . . . you know you learn slowly how this country runs and how it's not so easy to get what you want if you're colored . . . . I suppose if I'd known that when I first joined I never would have done it.

The naïveté and its slow loss described by Charles defines a very real stage in the psychological development of most of these youths. Much of their most fearless and vigorous protest occurs in this first period, a time of both innocence and denial, where much isn't known and much that is slowly perceived can still be blotted out or pushed aside. Soon, however, it becomes harder and harder to do so. Victories are not permanent, and sometimes not to be had at all. In the Deep South, Negro students find that they must make do with the long, wearisome job of working with their own people rather than the more dramatic and satisfying assaults upon white storekeepers. (The silent Negroes on that bus were a portent of what Charles was later to recognize as the most frustrating part of his work: Fighting his own race's—and his own—long-developed fears and inhibitions.)

Psychiatric intervention was most helpful in this time of transition. It seemed helpful for the students to hear their moodiness and gloom "approved" by relating them to their very real causes. It was also helpful that we talked about what could and could not be done by them, separating the possibilities of their actions from their larger hopes for our society. In this regard some very realistic balance had to be achieved between concentrating too much on socioeconomic abstractions, usually pessimistic ("What's the use?" or "You can't really change much because of the whole system," or "Very little really comes of our actions"), and overly optimistic heroism in its last nostalgically hopeful moments like the following: "If we really pulled off a mass demonstration, I mean one where a few of us might have to die, then the whole country would be so electrified that I think Mississippi would crack wide open . . . we would get federal troops in there because of the riots and deaths, and that would change the whole state."

The point to be emphasized is that there are some very real things which can be done, and done to great purpose and accomplishment, but that they must be chosen and approached carefully and with specific goals in mind. Or, as Charles told me after his depression had lifted: "If we're in a war, we've got to be professional about it and have our tactics and strategy and not just beat ourselves against a wall and then fold up."

He was right. He had been bloodied doing just that, physically and emotionally. Now he recognized more fully his job and its relationship to his broader wishes for his country. He had been able to talk about his guilt and fear and to realize that they are shared by others, certainly shared by his co-workers. He had been able to look at how he had come to join the movement, how he had changed in it, and how his symptoms reflected that change but did not necessarily doom his continued if different participation. "Now," he told me in our last formal meeting, "I suppose I won't be as hopeful as I once was, but I still think I'll be able to knock down a few barriers to freedom. Even if I persuade one man to register to vote, that's worth it."

It is a delicate equilibrium these students seek, and one we psychiatrists must respect if we are to work with them: Trying to keep their courage and initiative while accepting the often sour lessons that come with growing older and living through unexpected and dismaying experiences. They must keep their moral initiative, maintain their ethical resolve, yet somehow avoid succumbing either to depression as an inward expression of frustration or to disorganized rage and antisocial behavior as equivalent outward forms.

It is, of course, tempting for social scientists to simplify lives—which, after all, are often lived in considerable and continual ambiguity and even contradiction—by dividing them into "stages" or "periods" which sacrifice some of their truth to the needs for clarity and order. There is no denying the value of outlining predominant or preponderant trends in life. There is no doubt that our struggles —personal and social—change in content and intensity over time. Yet, I am reluctant to make easy generalizations about the personal histories of these youths in the movement, including the development in many of them of exhaustion or "battle fatigue."

I am no statistician, no expert in culling attitudes from large groups and tallying them. But my own observations and those of many leaders in the civil rights groups lead me to say that weariness touches almost all the students who stay in the movement for any significant period of time—that is, long enough to taste its less than quixotic or flashy quality and its hard, grinding daily demands which are not always relieved by spectacular successes and are often encumbered with the new burden of hopes sparked but not realized. That I report this "syndrome" here is, therefore, a reflection of observations and concern shared by myself and by veteran leaders about veteran fighters.

It might well be asked what students are most likely to become incapacitated by this common weariness, and what, precisely, the various alternatives are for those who become involved in the movement—to stay for short or long spells only to leave, to combine "normal life" with bouts of protest, or to stay involved "permanently."

I have seen no particular kind of person specially vulnerable to this "battle-fatigue." Constant exposure to frustrating social struggle seems to be the critical element in a "syndrome" which affects those with widely different characters and ways of handling stress. I have seen youths prone to depression before involvement in the movement manage perfectly well—that is, use their cynicism, their concealed anger, with detached, gloomy effectiveness—until the reality of the hard struggle and its very actual wounds of insults, threats, jailing, or disappointment became felt. I have seen, on the other hand, hopeful, winningly active and energetic youths give way under the same cumulative burdens.

Since these youths are not fast adventurers but, by the definition of their voluntary, prolonged exposure to severe hardship, conscientious and steadfast people, the natural history of their relationship to the social struggle they have joined is still to be concluded. It is true, of course, that personal struggles of growing have found expression in this social struggle. But many of these young men and women are now grown, married, with families, graduated from schools and colleges, in pursuit of specialized professional training, and are still heavily involved in this movement. Since the movement itself is only a few years old, it would be indeed presumptuous of me to define too closely the complicated and—I really think—highly personal and variable course of its members' relationship to it. Some join, stay to fight hard, leave in a time whose length is defined by a desire to return to school or a job. Others stay and are still staying after participation from the very beginning of the student movement in 1960. One important factor in deciding whether a person stays or leaves is how he handles (and is helped to handle) this period of tired, fateful realization of the difficulties ahead as well as at hand. Working against continued involvement may be family pressures, public ones, or private wishes—the desire to be a doctor; a fiancee who opposes this kind of life; an ill father who needs his son at home to take up new financial responsibilities; social and economic harassment which extends to a family, to brothers and sisters, to parents.

What will be needed is further documentation on how these young men and women decide the coming questions of their relationship to this movement. The battles—even with new legislation—are still being waged. The fatigue arrives. They can muster themselves out of service—go back to home, school, other jobs—or they can persist.

Meanwhile, in such dilemmas certain psychiatrists, psychologists, and social workers, interested in their cause and anxious to help them, may indeed be of considerable service. I suspect that we shall not soon see the end of many kinds of protests; and, hopefully, they will be useful, constructive, and self-fulfilling. That is, they will spend themselves in the achievement of their purposes. The problems these students face are clearly not all psychiatric, but social, political, or economic. But some of them are psychiatric. Many of these youths are increasingly recognizing their own need for medical and psychiatric help, and have begun seeking it out in certain cities and from certain doctors who, they feel, are likely to be attentive and sympathetic to their needs and aims.

In many ways these young civil rights workers are in a war and exposed to the stresses of warfare. And in many ways they can be helped to deal with these stresses. Such help would perhaps, by strengthening their movement, enable it to be more successful; and, as a result, freedom would be more universally enjoyed in our country. This seems to me a worthy objective for psychiatrists to pursue.

Coolidge Road
Concord, Massachusetts

January 7, 1965

Mr. John Else
Student Non-Violent
Coordinating Committee
8½ Raymond Street, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear John:

To add to all of that mail that you were telling me about, here are the letters from people who want to volunteer for next summer that I was telling you about. I have written to them suggesting that they address any other queries to you.

It was good talking to you. Best of luck.

Yours truly,

Pat Watters
Director of Information

PW:p

Enclosures - 2

February 1, 1965

Mrs. Dorothy Zellner
Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee
Harvard Epworth Methodist Church
Cambridge, Massachusetts

Dear Dorothy:

I'm sorry mot to have gotten by to see you in the SNCC office--the loss being of course all mine.

The Zinns told me the good news that you all are expecting a baby. That's wonderful. Next time--if ever--I get to Boston, I hope I can see the whole family.

Yours truly,

Pat Watters, Director of Information

File

XERO COPY

XERO COPY

PW

MARTIN OCHS

SRC

Demons Peace

Dangers Beyond the Demonstrations

Chatta Times 10/28/65

THE HEAVY majority of Americans who are supporting the United States efforts in South Viet Nam are beginning to let the people who are fighting there know it—as they should. Americans are there by direction of the President as authorized by Congress. A job is to be done there and the United States is going to do it. The demonstrators include some who honestly differ, fuzzily-minded or not, some chronic showoffs, kooks, graduate school slackers and hard-core leftists. The draft-card burners merit the martyrdom they crave, behind bars. None of these is going to deter the United States, providing our troops have the backing they need.

As Presidential Assistant McGeorge Bundy said on Monday, "the prospect of military collapse which clearly darkened all other aspects of the (Vietnamese) problem nine months ago has disappeared."

Bundy pointed out that the Soviet-Chinese split, which some predicted would lessen on account of U.S. intervention, has instead deepened.

The heralded monsoon offensive of the Viet Cong has been "badly blunted," he said.

He added with what he called irony: "There always is in each generation of students a substantial number of people who will seek public demonstration of their firm, resolute, invincibly ignorant opposition—to the wisdom of the rest of us."

SOME light has been thrown upon the communist or pro-communist maneuvering against the Vietnamese war, on the West Coast, by a series of three articles concluded Tuesday in The Times.

Noted in the ranks of these people are several leaders of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, a group at the radical end of the civil rights spectrum.

As Southern Regional Council officials say, the position of many civil rights leaders on the Vietnamese war seems not well thought out. Their involvement in foreign policy issues damages them in their principal areas of concern. James Farmer's participation in a "Stop the War" demonstration, and Dr. King's opposition to parts of U.S. policy have done them no good.

SNCC is farther out. And the Southern Regional Council, the foremost Southern organization concerned with racial justice, has made these careful but piercing observations:

"...in the usual refusal of SNCC people even to discuss the Communist issue, there is a denial of their most cherished ideals, the civil liberties of those who are genuinely concerned about it. It is anti-anti-communism as dogmatic as extremist anti-communism. . . .

"SNCC seems to say it is simply uninterested in the ideological clash between communism and democracy, that it is not pertinent in the existential reality of the personal clash with racism."

But some SNCC leaders are interested in communism.

* * *

GREATER than the danger to the war effort in Viet Nam, in the recent type of demonstration, is the danger of a wave of anti-intellectualism in this country. The university communists have that to consider, as well as their unquestioned freedom of expression. Those who encourage the marches do not only the nation but the intellectual forum a disservice.

On the other side, the greatest danger is not the John Birch Society or any of the others but the collective tendency to make conservatism appear ridiculous. The radical right wants the world stopped and wants off. It is becoming more of a fad than it should be. Chattanooga incidentally should realize that it is becoming the principal far-right crossroads in Tennessee.

The radical right's day will ebb when it stops getting encouragement from community and political voices who know better; when it is realized that to suspect virtually everyone of communism who disagrees is only to confuse and to make infinitely more difficult the battle against communism.

Just as the civil rights battle is made so much more difficult by those who want to exclude everything else; or who want to tie civil rights to this, that or the other thing.

FACE THE NATION Interview with Stokely Carmichael, Chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, Sunday, June 19, 1966.

Interviewer: Mr. Carmichael, you said that you would achieve black power by using the franchise -- by using the vote -- yet you have also said that your organization in Lowndes County, while out to take power legally, if it was stopped by the government from doing it legally, and I quote your words now, "We're going to take it the way everyone else took it, including the way many Americans took it in the American Revolution." This would seem to imply that you are advocating taking power by force and violence -- by the overflow, in effect, of the government. Is that what you meant?

Carmichael: Let me say this: in Lowndes County, that county is 80% black, 20% white. Its been ruled by the minority by force, by violence, and by every illegal trick that one can think of. Now, the black people in Lowndes County have organized themselves around the question and around the issue that they have been oppressed which is their blackness. They have been oppressed because they are black. And like any other group in the country, they organized around the issue of oppression. The unions, the workers, organize around the question of low wages. And they are going to try to achieve taking over the power structure according to the democratic processes in this country. Now, if no one is willing to assure the fact that that process is carried on, then that leaves the black people of Lowndes County, it seems to me, no alternative except to stay in the condition which they have been in for the last 100 years.

Interviewer: Mr. Carmichael, supposing the Black Panther Party loses the election in Lowndes County, what do you propose to do?

Carmichael: First, let me say that the name of the organization in Lowndes County is not the Black Panther Party. The symbol happens to be a black panther. The name is the Lowndes County Freedom Organization. I am very concerned about that, you see, because Americans, particularly white Americans, have been referring to it as the Black Panther Party. And it is their problem with sex and color. They do not refer to the Alabama Democratic Party as the White Rooster Party, and that happens to be the emblem of that party.

-- If they lose and its a Democratic process, then there is nothing they can do. But, now, if they are cheated out of the vote, then it seems to me there must be some means for them to achieve power.

Interviewer: What means?

Carmichael: Well, that would have to develop out of the Lowndes County movement and the discussions that the people of Lowndes County want to carry on.

Interviewer: Mr. Carmichael, do you reject the ultimate use of violence as a final, last resort in bringing down the power structure?

Carmichael: I don't organize around violence or around non-violence. The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee organizes black people to get certain things that they have to get: decent houses, decent jobs, decent schools, and a right to participate in decisions that effect their lives. Now, that is what we organized for. The question of violence and nonviolence just happens to be tactical, as far as we are concerned.

Interviewer: Then, what is your tactic, as a last resort?

Carmichael: Well, then we would have to decide that; depending on how stiff the resistance was in the country.

Interviewer: You'll reject it, then.

Carmichael: Oh, no, I've never rejected it.

Interviewer: You don't reject it -- violence -- then?

Carmichael: No, I've never rejected it.

Interviewer: How can you not reject violence and be the head of the Student Coordinating Nonviolent Committee?

Carmichael: Nonviolence has always been a tactic with SNCC; it has never been a way of life. We've made that clear since 1960; that it is just tactical. In my own thinking, I have never rejected anything; I only object to a host of means.

Interviewer: Mr. Carmichael; there is a lot of confusion about what you mean when you say, as you have said, and I quoted these words a moment or so ago, that "if we are stopped by the government from doing this legally, we are going to take it -- [power, that is] -- the way everyone else took it, including the way Americans took it in the American Revolution." Are you advocating a violent way if you can't get it legally? That is all we want to know.

Carmichael: This country, Mr. _____, is fighting in Viet Nam.

Interviewer: Right.

Carmichael: They are dropping bombs in Viet Nam around the whole question of selection and the right for people to participate in the decisions that effect their lives. That is precisely the same thing we are doing now in Lowndes County, Alabama: We are fighting for people to have free elections, and that this government and this country has a responsibility to back the people in Lowndes County to assure them of free elections. Now, if this country neglects to do that, then it seems to me that the responsibility of assuring free elections lies in the hands of the black people in Lowndes County, and anybody else in the country who is willing to have free elections at whatever means left up to them -- they are completely justified in doing that because they then have done all the legal processes that this country has demanded that they do.

Interviewer: Under these circumstances, you feel there is a justification for these violent means?

Carmichael: I think its justified whatever they do. If they have tried every legal means in this country, and there is no response.

Interviewer: Following that up, Mr. Carmichael, you said last week on the march that Negroes now fighting in Viet Nam should leave and come back here and fight for these elections you are talking about. Now, do you want them to desert? And if they do, what kind of fighting do you want them to do?

Carmichael: I think the number one answer is that this is an individual decision. My own feeling is that there is no reason why black people should be fighting for free elections in Viet Nam for some other people to get free elections, when they don't have it in their own country. They should first have free elections in their country, and then decide whether or not they in fact want to participate in that war.

All of those black soldiers who are from Alabama, all of them from Mississippi, did not even decide whether or not they wanted to participate in that war.

Interviewer: Would you be advocating(?) [unintelligible] a mass desertion of Negro soldiers?

Carmichael: I think that if they would do that it would have to be an individual decision based upon what the consequences are, if in fact they are willing to face the federal government and a jail sentence.

Interviewer: Can you separate black soldiers from white soldiers? There may be many white soldiers who also had no choice at all about fighting in Viet Nam. None of us have a choice if we are drafted.

Carmichael: On the contrary, I can separate it, because black people in this country are oppressed because of their color. Because of blackness. The black people of Alabama and Mississippi were denied the right to vote because they were black. They are forced to live in ghettos because they are black; and that whether this country wants to realize it or not, you cannot sugar-coat that and say that they are all the same. It is a question of black and white.

Interviewer: No one makes an effort to sugar-coat it. In fact, all of the civil rights legislation that has been passed demonstrates how completely aware the government is of exactly what you are saying, and legal --

Carmichael: In terms of words.

Interviewer: In terms of words?

Carmichael: That's correct.

Interviewer: You don't feel, then, that -- would you feel that all civil rights legislation is dictated by hyprocrisy?

Carmichael: I think that certainly the fact that no federal registrars have not been sent into the 600 counties, and in fact, to have federal registrars, black people must begin demonstrating. You see, I don't go along with this feeling in this country that the government is doing so much, and I give the response and allthe credit to the black people in this country who stood up and started to rebel. The rebellion brought the civil rights bill; a rebellion brought the voting rights bill. And that voting rights bill had to be passed because the government was aware of the fact that if they did not do it, black people would move to disrupt this country. And internationally, this country could not afford that. So, it had to pass the voting rights bill.

And that voting rights bill is very tricky, I mean, the literacy portion of that voting rights bill expires on August 6 of 1970; the literacy test can once again be used. What than means is that if a federal registrar is not in Mississippi, and black people do not vote, the Eastlands can move to reinstitute literacy tests by 1970 and be elected again by 1972 because he will block black people from voting. And the government has not spoken to that issue. And they will not because Eastland happens to be a very powerful figure.

Interviewer: You are talking about a theory now that depends on its waiting until 1970. But speaking about terms of words. I'd like to ask you about your words. Last Wednesday you witnessed people registering to vote in Greenwood, Mississippi, in the county courthouse. That night, you told a rally of young people, "every courthouse in Mississippi should be burnt down tomorrow so that we can get rid of the dirt." My question is: How does statements like this -- and you have made many of them which incite both your friends and your enemies -- how do they advance the cause of Negro equality?

Carmichael: Well, number one, the cause of black equality will be decided by black people because they are the oppressed; that is what we have to understand. And that it is a reality that all the courthouses in Mississippi are full of filth and dirt. There is no such thing as justice in any of those courthouses for black people, and the history of Mississippi speaks for itself. The history of the murders from Emmett Till all the way down to the shooting of Mr. Meredith two weeks ago speaks to Mississippi.

Interviewer: Can you register voters if you burn down courthouses? Are you going to burn down courthouses? I am talking about a literal translation of that; I wasn't talking figuratively -- I was talking about literally getting rid of the people inside those courthouses. Getting rid of the (unintelligible), sheriffs.

(Interviewer and Carmichael speaking simultaneously)

Carmichael: I mean literally burn down. That analogy is used in this country all over by many people.

Interviewer: You are talking in analogies, and yet when we ask you, you know, (laughter from Carmichael, I assume) are you a nonviolent person, or are you talking in violent analogies because you want to see a Negro violent uprising? Can you answer that question?

Carmichael: I told you the question of violence and nonviolence to me is irrelevant; that is not what I am working for. I am not organizing for riots. Iaam not organizing to make black people nonviolent. I am organizing for them to get the things they are supposed to have in this country -- that every other group has in this country --

(Interviewer and Carmichael speaking simultaneously; unintelligible)

Interviewer: But do you dismiss the matter as irrelevant?

Carmichael: I certainly do, Mr. _____.

Interviewer: Well, you may, but it doesn't make sense for you to do that. You tell me its irrelevant whether or not you get it by peaceful means or by use of force. You really don't want it that way, do you?

Carmichael: For _____ years we have been speaking to the issues in this country. This is the richest country in the world. It is a shame and a tragedy that in 1966, government officials can stand up on national television and say that the only hope for black people in this country is that they go into the army. That is tragic.

Interviewer: Who said that?

Carmichael: Many officials say it all the time.

Interviewer: Who?

Carmichael: (Slight pause) I can't think of any right now. You have never heard this statement that the hopes of black people - - -?

Interviewer: I know of no responsible spokesman who has ever said that.

Carmichael: You have never heard that the hope for black people is to go into the army? That this is the reason they leave the ghettos?

Interviewer: I heard James Meredith say that his time in the air force did more for him than anything else.

Carmichael: That's Mr. Meredith. You should speak to him.

Interviewer: Mr. Carmichael, if the means are irrelevant, is there a condition under which you can see a usefulness in a Watts riot, or a Chicago riot?

Carmichael: I think that the tragedy of the Watts riot is that it was romanticized by white people and their articles about, "let's get Whitey," and that the other tragic thing about it was that the black people once have not benefitted. They were not able to use that riot to achieve anything at all. And that is tragic, because what it means is that it leaves an atmosphere for more riots.

Interviewer: If all means are legitimate, then, are you saying that this riot is a legitimate means?

Carmichael: I am not to define legitimacy; I will not say to the people in Watts who rioted that they have no right to riot -- that it is outside of the way to get whatever they want to get. They have the right to decide whatever means they want to use to achieve that, and that is up to them. They live in Watts; they live with rats and roaches; they live in Harlem; they live in Chicago; they live in the Delta in Mississippi; they earn $3 a day; they are the poverty-stricken people, and they have to speak to ____(unintelligible)_____, and I cannot and will not define for them that they must do it this way.

Interviewer: Mr. Carmichael, the Negro in this country is a minority. Are you telling us thatiit is possible that there could be a Watts riot -- there could be an uprising of Negroes when it would not be tragic?

Carmichael: That it would not be tragic?

Interviewer: Yes. Are you telling us the Negro can riot and take over? What do you mean by black power? Are you saying the Negro can take over parts of the country?

Carmichael: I am saying that in the counties where black people outnumber white people in the majority that they have the right to organize themselves politically and to, via the vote, seize the power. The Irish people did that in Boston; just like Jewish people do that in their communities; just like people did it in New York with LaGuardia; that black people in the areas where they outnumber racist whites, who rule the counties with terror, should take over their counties.

Interviewer: No one denies that right that the majority rule -- that's the democratic procedure.

Carmichael: Of course, no one denies it -- but the only difference is that when that majority is black.

Interviewer: We are trying to ask you a different question: If, by the democratic method, let us assume that there could be a fair election in Lowndes County, and let us assume that the Negroes could win under that democratic method, then let us assume that the government would not permit, locally, the taking over by the Negroes the power they won in a free election. Then, certainly, the government [federal] would have to step in. Then you would be justified. But you seem to be arguing that wherever the Negroes cannot get what they wish, they are entitled to use violent methods to achieve it.

Carmichael: On the contrary. I never said that. I am not saying that. When I talk about black power, I talk about black people in the counties where they outnumber them, to get together to organize themselves politically and take over those counties from the white racists who now run it. When I talk about black power, I talk about black people independently outside of the both parties since they do not now speak to the needs of the black people, organizing themselves first and if they decide to move into those parties, to move into those parties as a strong black vote so that they can force the politicians who do not now speak to their needs, to speak to their needs. The tragedy of the Watts riot is that in every report that came out of Watts, they agreed that black people were asking for Chief Parker to be dismissed. And one year later, Parker is still chief of police. If that were a Jewish community, if that were an Irish community, if that were an Italian community, the man would be gone, and I'm saying the reason why he is not gone is because black people in Watts do not have the power. They have to organize to get the power so that the people who work in their communities will respect and speak to their needs.

Interviewer: Would you agree, Mr. Carmichael, that the Watts riot and any violence like that is irrelevant and doesn't make sense?

Carmichael: I would not say that because I would be saying that the people in Watts are irrelevant and they don't make sense. I cannot say that. I would have to say that the white power structure of Watts is responsible; I will not shift the blame to black people.

Interviewer: Can we pinpoint here your feeling on violence? You say you are not advocating it, and yet you say means are irrelevant, violence or nonviolence are irrelevant, are you saying that is an acceptable form?

Carmichael: Mr. Hart, I am saying that people who participate in violent revolutions decide for themselves whether or not it is acceptable. I will not define it for them. When I myself decide to be violent, if that is my objective, then it becomes acceptable.

Interviewer: Have you decided to be violent?

Carmichael: I have not yet decided to.

Interviewer: Are you against the use of violence to achieve the objective of the Negro movement?

Carmichael: I have said that I am not against the use of violence; the people who participate in it must decide it. I work for the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee. The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee has never yet said it is working for violence.

Interviewer: You use language which seems to imply that you advocate violence --

(Interviewer and Carmichael simultaneously; unintelligible.)

-- you say that it is not your responsibility to define what you mean. It is your responsibility.

Carmichael: I just defined for you precisely what I meant --

Interviewer: You have not defined it; you said, "I stand aside," that's what you said.

Carmichael: No, I said that I cannot and I will not say that all black people in this country should be nonviolent, that they should lay down their arms. I will never say that. I will say that the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee accepts that -- nonviolence -- however it is defined, as a tactic. It is not a way of life for me; it never has been, it is not for most people in the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee. Some people in SNCC do accept it as a way of life.

Interviewer: Mr. Carmichael; lets return to the subject of integration. You observed that it is an "insidious subterfuge for white supremacy." What do you mean by that?

Carmichael: Well, you will have to use the whole quotation. It has been quoted out of context. The entire quotation is that "integration is an insidious subterfuge for white supremacy when initiated by blacks." What I mean by that is that throughout this country since 1954, there has been a move of integration. That's all we talk about. And we ask for decent homes, for decent jobs, for decent schools, and the answer is to integrate. And we have to observe what that means.

Interviewer: One of the most distinguished American Negro leaders, Dr. Martin Luther King, advocates integration, and very strongly. Do you regard Dr. King as a stooge for the white establishment; for the white power structure?

Carmichael: I am going to define what I mean by integration and then Dr. King will define what he means. What has been happening in this country is that you have to (unintelligible) with black kids. For example: in the South, black children are told to go to white shhools because they are good. They leave their black schools which they are told are bad. They have to go through mobs; they are being beaten to go and sit in a white school; They never speak of the issue of that black school which has in it now the rest of the students. In the North, you take the black kids out of the ghettos and bus them to white neighborhoods again to good white schools; they heighten in the inferiority process in those children who are left and that didn't go there. White kids never initiate a move for integration; they never move into black schools. White people who believe in integration in Westchester and in Hollywood -- they never move into Watts and into Harlem as if they truly believe in integration. And what I am saying is that what black people have to do is to, among themselves, develop their communities first. They must control their school board. And when they control their school board, they will have good schools. And then you can talk about integration. Then you can send white kids to black schools, and black kids to white schools. Until you can do that you have an insidious subterfuge for white supremacy. You have black people being asked to forsake their neighborhood and come into good neighborhoods because these are white neighborhoods. And that is an insidious subterfuge for white supremacy.

Interviewer: Mr. Carmichael, you are talking about black isolation. What can you show us that will indicate to us that if the blacks elect sheriffs in the South, control their own school boards, that that alone aside from the governmental process in this country, is going to give them good school systems and its going to get the tenant farmer a better job and money in his pocket?

Carmichael: It is not. I mean, I see the problem in this country as in economic problem in terms of black people being exploited. Now, there may be other people being exploited, but they [Negroes] are exploited, ~~and that~~ they don't have an economic base. We are the property-less people in this country; and we have to seek to regress that and the only means open to us now are political mean. So, we grasp that political power now and then we see how we can work with that political power to then achieve economic power. You are absolutely right; we never received our 40 acres and a mule.

Interviewer: Mr. Carmichael, if you are after economic power, how is the Negro in the Delta Mississippi who is looking to make $500 a year -- what kind of handle does he have on any kind of economic power?

Carmichael: He doesn't; that's why he has to grab ahold of political power.

Interviewer: How do you propose to give it to him?

Carmichael: I don't. I say that he first grasps the political power that is now available to him; you grasp what you can. He now has at his disppsal, via the voting rights bill, political power. He grasps that political power and he starts through that, seeing what terms he can use. He controls the CAP board if he has the political power so that the chief of police in Indianola, who was the chief of police last year who beat up black people who is now the CAP director in Sunflower County, Mississippi, will not have that power; That Eastland does not have the power and cannot say the things he has said. For example; he said on April 22nd, and I quote: "I have objected to the sending of every federal registrar into Mississippi." Orginarily, the Justice Department will inform me the day it plans to send a registrar into a Mississippi county, and I have been able to block some." Now, that shows that black people can't do anything about that.

(Interviewer and Carmichael speaking simultaneously; unintelligible.)

Interviewer: How do you know that its true? There have been registrars in the area.

Carmichael: Number one, the voting rights bill was passed to get voting registrars into Birmingham. Southern Christian Leadership Conference had to demonstrate for rights; they had to get more black people beaten and more black people arrested, and then the country spoke to the issue. We have to do that all over. We have 600 counties where we don't /have registrars/; why don't they send them in there if Johnson is in fact sincere about it? Why doesn't he dispatch federal registrars where he knows that they need it, and they need it in the counties where they have not registered black people.

Interviewer: Mr. Carmichael, if you do gain political power in those counties where Negroes outnumber whites -- in all those counties -- if you gain the courthouse and clean out all the dirt, as you say, and elect sheriffs, and education boards, what kind of real leverage do you have in Mississippi and Alabama -- in states where you do have these counties -- against the remaining power structure on a state level? You are still a minority in this state. What kind of real leverage or equality can you gain from that kind of power?

Carmichael: Number one, first thing, is that for once, you are going to have political fallacy. Up to this point, black people in this country have only had moral force. They talked about moral power; they tried to get to the conscience of people so that the so-called "white liberals" (I use that word in quotes because I am not quite sure what it means) would then speak and say the poor black people need this, its a good thing morally. But black people themselves have not had the power to sit down. Now, if in fact that black people in Mississippi have all the Delta they can sit down with Johnson -- Paul Johnson -- and they can say, now, we represent X number of votes, we want this. They don't have that now. And that's what they have to get.

Interviewer: Mr. Carmichael, you had the chance to sit down with President Johnson at the White House Conference. Why didn't you?

Carmichael: Well, we outlined that very clearly. Number one, we felt that the problems of racism in this country doesnot exist in the black community, it exists in the white community, and that we didn't see why we needed a conference to talk about fulfilling our rights.

Interviewer: Why not take the opportunity to tell the president this?

Carmichael: We had other reasons. Number two, we felt that the president was calling that conference at a time when his international prestige and in this country was at a low ebb, and he was going to try to use us to try and build up his prestige, and we refused to be a part of that.

Interviewer: (Question asked unintelligible.)

Carmichael: That's correct.

Number three, he was discounting(?) [unintelligible] the war in Viet Nam which flagrantly violates the life of colored people. Its [unintelligible] to sit down and talk about human rights --

Interviewer: I sincerely regret that our time is up.

Carmichael: I also regret it.

Interviewer: Thank you for being here on Face the Nation.

- : -

(Black Power) P.W.

Missouri Teamster Editorials

THE ONCOMING CATASTROPHE

It is almost, in Viet Nam, as if we are being propelled toward a condition of human disaster by circumstances beyond our control. The time has come for drastic measures to prove that man is not that bankrupt.

It is the Congress, and not the President, in whom the decision rests to wage war. Yet, despite Senate hearings, the Congress, usually jealous of any usurpation of its powers, has shown notable cowardice to date in facing up to its responsibilities in this instance. It has let the President (and the military establishment) make the decisions and has effectively washed its hands of the whole affair.

With Congressional elections just a little more than three months away, we believe the Congress should undertake ful-scale debate on the subject, and let the electorate make its wishes known on the subject come November, by choosing between the 'hawks' and the 'doves.'

In such a Congressional debate, all the facts should be unfolded before the American people—and all the alternatives—and the machinery of governmental propaganda should be stilled for the period.

At the same time, national assemblies of the learned people of our society should be convened, and the most thorough airing given to the issues involved.

We should try to ascertain whether the tragic events that unfold in Southeast Asia arise out of our own failure to understand what is happening there.

As Hanoi threatened this week to put American flyers on trial as war criminals, American voices warned of 'dire consequences" if this happened. What does that mean? We should know.

One of the many tragedies of Viet Nam is that we have been given the truth only in carefully-measured doses, when we have been given it at all.

We wonder how many Americans were shocked to learn, a few weeks ago, that eight of the nine generals in the ruling junta of South Viet Nam (the government we support) had fought for the French and against the Vietnamese people in an earlier stage of the war for independence there, including Premier Ky.

How many other evils can we perpetuate in the name of fighting Communism? What does the national conscience say about how many people—young Americans or young Viet Namese—can be killed without national deliberation and national consensus? Does any nation—or any people—have the right to risk nuclear war for any cause?

It seems to us these questions are too enormous to remain—and be decided—behind closed doors in secret deliberations. No man, and no small group of men, have either the right or the capability to make decisions of such far-reaching consequences that a wrong decision may destroy mankind as we have known it.

We do not any longer live in an age when warfare can be contained within a battlefield perimeter where armed soldiers contend with each other. Now all of society becomes involved.

All of society, therefore, ought to weigh the monstrous possibilities of our Viet Namese adventure and, before we become too jaded to think about it any more, make a human effort to resolve the oncoming catastrophe before it is too late.

THE POWER FAILURE

Union Electric, while arbitrarily sus-public, but in reality it is an attempt to

—MISSOURI TEAMSTER

BREAKTHROUGH FOR THE MOVEMENT

What 'Black Power' Means To The Negro In The South

By JOANNA TAULMAN

(Special to the Missouri Teamster)

The term "black power" used by civil rights leaders in describing future activities has been causing repercussions across the country this summer. No one seems to know just what it means, but everyone who has heard the term wants to know.

losing its grasp on many of the young, vital element within the movement.

The philosophy of the young dissenters is not so sympathetic to the white man's dilemma. When southern restaurants forced by law to serve Negroes publicly donate the profits from these sales to the KKK, the most patient Negro must doubt the white man's good intentions. When white "liber-are being propelled toward a condition of human disaster by circumstances beyond our control. The time has come for drastic measures to prove that man is not that bankrupt.

It is the Congress, and not the President, in whom the decision rests to wage war. Yet, despite Senate hearings, the Congress, usually jealous of any usurpation of its powers, has shown notable cowardice to date in facing up to its responsibilities in this instance. It has let the President (and the military establishment) make the decisions and has effectively washed its hands of the whole affair.

With Congressional elections just a little more than three months away, we believe the Congress should undertake ful-scale debate on the subject, and let the electorate make its wishes known on the subject come November, by choosing between the 'hawks' and the 'doves.'

In such a Congressional debate, all the facts should be unfolded before the American people—and all the alternatives—and the machinery of governmental propaganda should be stilled for the period.

At the same time, national assemblies of the learned people of our society should be convened, and the most thorough airing given to the issues involved.

We should try to ascertain whether the tragic events that unfold in Southeast Asia arise out of our own failure to understand what is happening there.

As Hanoi threatened this week to put American flyers on trial as war criminals, American voices warned of 'dire consequences" if this happened. What does that mean? We should know.

Nam is that we have been given the truth only in carefully-measured doses, when we have been given it at all.

We wonder how many Americans were shocked to learn, a few weeks ago, that eight of the nine generals in the ruling junta of South Viet Nam (the government we support) had fought for the French and against the Vietnamese people in an earlier stage of the war for independence there, including Premier Ky.

How many other evils can we perpetuate in the name of fighting Communism? What does the national conscience say about how many people—young Americans or young Viet Namese—can be killed without national deliberation and national consensus? Does any nation—or any people—have the right to risk nuclear war for any cause?

It seems to us these questions are too enormous to remain—and be decided—behind closed doors in secret deliberations. No man, and no small group of men, have either the right or the capability to make decisions of such far-reaching consequences that a wrong decision may destroy mankind as we have known it.

We do not any longer live in an age when warfare can be contained within a battlefield perimeter where armed soldiers contend with each other. Now all of society becomes involved.

All of society, therefore, ought to weigh the monstrous possibilities of our Viet Namese adventure and, before we become too jaded to think about it any more, make a human effort to resolve the oncoming catastrophe before it is too late.

THE POWER FAILURE

Union Electric, while arbitrarily suspending service to its subscribers during the heat wave, took to the air to ask the citizenry for sympathy and understanding. It had a hollow ring to anyone who has had dealings with high-handed public utilities.

Despite its exhortations, Union Electic failed the public badly. It is a limping explanation to claim that they could not anticipate such weather—100-degree days are part of reasonable expectation in a city like St. Louis.

The fact seems to be that Union Electric gambled with the public welfare by trying to cut corners—to maintain less equipment than prudent foresight would demand—all in the interests of higher profits for the "investor-owned" utility.

It is difficult to understand, anyway, why utilities should operate to the profit of anyone. It challenges propriety to imagine a group of private individuals controlling something like electricity for their own profit—and having a monopoly on it, to boot. If you don't like Union Electric's service, you can do without electricity, and that's that.

The subterfuge of Union Electric's advertising slogan—"investor-owned"—may sound reassuring to much of the public, but in reality it is an attempt to hide the awful truth that some people get rich on the electricity the people of the community pay for.

We believe public utilities should be not-for-profit, that they should be held to strict accounting for failure to render proper service, and that they should operate with a compassion suitable to the public welfare.

We know how little sympathy and understanding Union Electric shows to people who can't pay their bills for awhile because of "unforeseen circumstances." The thousands of people who have had their electricity "turned off" at one time or another will be hard put to shed tears over the company's recent predicament. In typical fashion, it passed on its lack of service to the consumer public, with untold hardship resulting.

A thorough investigation should be made, and true facts developed as to why Union Electric failed the public as it did. We should know whether its zeal for profit outweighs its sense of public responsibility. If so, maybe we ought to think twice about the logic of "investors" owning, for their own aggrandizement, something so essential to human life. It doesn't make sense to us.

END OF THE THIRD DEGREE

We sympathize with the difficult job policemen face in apprehending those who commit crimes and we can understand their relief when a suspect admits his guilt. At the same time, we must laud the recent Supreme Court decision which said police must advise felony suspects of the following conditions: that the suspect has the right to refuse to answer any and all questions; that anything the suspect might say may be used against him in court; that the suspect has a right to legal counsel during interrogation; and that if the suspect has no money, he is entitled to court-appointed counsel.

All the court was really saying was that it upholds a man's constitutional right not to incriminate himself.

This makes it a little difficult to understand critics of the decision, who contend that it will "hamper" police work. It sounds like they are really saying the police are incapable of compiling evidence against a suspect. After all, under our system of law, a man remains a suspect until a jury determines his guilt or innocence.

The old "third-degree" still exists in places, despite new methods of public relations employed to dissuade the people from this opinion, and the Supreme Court ruling says the prosecution will be under a "heavy burden" to prove that a suspect was fully advised of his rights before answering questions or making a confession.

As easy as the old method might have seemed, we believe most police officers of the modern era want to see justice done, and justice is best served when constitutional guarantees are observed, as the Supreme Court reminded us.

—MISSOURI TEAMSTER

BREAKTHROUGH FOR THE MOVEMENT

What 'Black Power' Means To The Negro In The South

By JOANNA TAULMAN

(Special to the Missouri Teamster)

The term "black power" used by civil rights leaders in describing future activities has been causing repercussions across the country this summer. No one seems to know just what it means, but everyone who has heard the term wants to know.

In a debate with Tuskegee Institute's James McDade, Courtland Cox of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee attempted to clear up some of the confusion, and at the same time raised some very intriguing questions.

"Black power," he said, "has been defined by the white press. They're concerned with how it will affect whites. The press," Cox continued, "asks two questions: whether black power will result in the alienation of whites, and whether it means the end of non-violence." This interest of the white nation in "black power" according to Cox is not in equal representation for the Negro, but in the effect any black representation may have on the white.

If Mr. Cox's observations are accurate, then the white masses of America are betraying a dangerous paranoia in the face of a rising black political force. One young southerner stated the white supremist's position when he said, "If they (Negroes) start getting elected, the whites will have to move out of this town."

SNCC workers and other young Negroes are fast losing interest in the plight of the white southerner who is expected to revise the social and political atmosphere of his home soil in a decade. To the statement that "black people should share power with the whites," Cox replied, "That is the greatest joke I have heard lately. How can you share something that is non-existent?"

Black power, according to Mr. Cox, consists in representation sufficient to channel tax money paid by blacks back into the black community, to give Negroes a voice in affairs outside the black community, and to educate Negroes to their worth as a race with a unique history and culture.

A rapidly increasing number of zealous Negroes are convinced that political and economic power are the only methods by which the Negro condition will see any improvement. The philosophy of non-violence used by civil rights groups to appeal to the conscience of America for the past sixteen years is being abandoned for a more immediate philosophy.

A Southern Christian Leadership Conference publication of 1963 contains this statement by Mrs. Dorothy Cotton of that group: "Our white brothers often find it painful to change the teachings and habits of a lifetime. The nonviolent resister understands this pain and through love helps them to accept the new way of life."

Non-violent resistance has done much for the Negro's case. Civil rights legislation resulted from peaceful demonstrations, and that success brought hope to many. Legislation has not done the whole job, however, and SCLC with its tenuous philosophy is losing its grasp on many of the young, vital element within the movement.

The philosophy of the young dissenters is not so sympathetic to the white man's dilemma. When southern restaurants forced by law to serve Negroes publicly donate the profits from these sales to the KKK, the most patient Negro must doubt the white man's good intentions. When white "liberals" balk at the term "black power" and discuss with ill-disguised concern whether white power will suffer, the Negro questions whether justice will ever be willingly accorded the black race in America.

It is an unhappy fact that there are those who are conditioned beyond rational thought on the issue of racial justice. It is unfortunate that a Negro man who was ambushed on a peaceful march in Mississippi should vow to finish his march with a gun in his hand instead of a Bible. The Civil Rights Bill has not, however, ensured the Negro his dignity as well as his legal rights.

Cox made a statement which illustrates the disappointment suffered by impatient young Negroes during the years since the passing of the Civil Rights Bill. "I don't believe that all white people are racists," he said, "but they all believe in white supremacy."

The tone of the movement is changing. Whether the attitude expressed by Mr. Cox is gaining impetus remains to be seen, but it does provide food for liberal thought.

Election Costs

A few weeks ago the White House made public a letter from President Johnson to the Congress in which he asked for significant amendments to the laws dealing with campaign financing.

"Public confidence in the elective process is the foundation of public confidence in government," Johnson wrote. "There is no higher duty of a democratic government than to insure that confidence."

Organized labor long has been concerned about the laws which govern our campaign expenditures.

The Taft-Hartley Act, for example, restricts unions to using only volunteer monies for campaigns for federal offices.

At the same time, we have seen a report of a U. S. Senate committee, following a study of a Presidential election, which shows that 12 wealthy families in the United States contributed $1,153,735 of which $1,040,526 went to the Republican Party and $107,000 to the Democratic Party.

Officials of 225 of the largest U.S. corporations, as listed by Fortune Magazine, contributed $1,816,000 to the GOP and $40,975 to the Democrats.

Officials of the 35 largest oil companies gave the Republicans $344,997 and $14,650 to the Democrats.

In the same election, the Senate committee found that the net expenditures of organized labor were $941,000 or $100,000 less than come from 12 families alone.

File

They Are Suppose To have a Meeting Today At 12 O'Clock At the Canterbury House ON Pair + Raymond Sts.

PRESS RELEASE
From: The Atlanta Project of the SNCC
142 Vine Street NW
Atlanta, Georgia

February 20, 1967

STOP THE TORTURE OF OUR BLACK MEN!

How long will the torture of Black men continue .....

Seven Black men who dared to object to the drafting of Black men to serve as hired killers for this white racist government are being tortured .....

Seven Black men who dared to say "Freedom, Justice, and Equaltiy for Afroamericans are being tortured .....

Seven Black men who dared to say "VietCong never called me Nigger" are being tortured .....

On February 16, 1967, in Atlanta, Georgia, USA, Donald Stone, Larry Fox, J.P. Tillman and John Wilson have been indicted by a Federal Grand Jury for " Interfering with the administration of the Universal Military Training Act", plus "Destroying Federal Property". On that same day, Robert Moore, Michael Simmons, and Simuel Schutz have been indicted for "Destruction of Federal Property.

This is but another link in the chain conspiracy against twelve young Blacks by the racist City, State and Federal officials.

It all began August 18, 1966, when 10 Black men and 2 Black women were arrested and charged with disorderly conduct, disturbing the peace, and resisting arrest; 4 of the 12 were also charged with assault and battery on police officers, and one with Insurrection which carries the death penalty here in Georgia, as a result of their protesting the illegal drafting of Black men to fight in racist wars of oppression. The twelve were tried August 19, 1966 and convicted in racist Judge T.C. Little's court in Atlanta. They were given the maximum penalty for the charges (Judge Little at time of sentencing said that he wished he could give them life in prisonment) - 3 months in jail at the Atlanta Prison Farm.

The twelve served two months because Judge Little would not allow the posting of an appeal bond for the twelve even thought their cases were being appealed.

The twelve spent most of their time at the Prison Farm in solitary confinement known as the "hole". It's an area 5'x7' with no sleeping or sanitary or toilet facilities (a tin can with jagged edges was provided to contain bodily excrement). Bread and water was the food. The bread was left over and partially eaten by other prisoners. The bread was thrown upon the floor. Prisoners were expected to scramble for these partially eaten morsels or else loose them to the roaches. The water was not fresh; water was served in a can which had not been sanitized; it often tasted of other ingredients such as urine, spit, etc. A few of the men soon fell sick of hemmoroids and swelling joints from a combination of damp quarters, pig-pen like food, and Vermin producing unsanitary facilities. These and other conditions forced the men to go on hunger strikes against these inhuman -concentration camp-like treatments. These men ate no food and drank only water for periods lasting up to 15 consecutive days.

Phase II of the conspiracy

On February 1-2 of this year, Johnny Wilson was tried in Fulton County Superior Court on 4 charges - assault and battery (2 counts), abusive and profane language (2 counts) stemming from the August 18th demonstration. Racist Judge Alverson presided over the all white jury - State, eliminated 8 perspective jurors who were Negroes. The State's witnesses, white policemen and white army officers failed to positively identify Wilson as even being present at the scene of the demonstration. Nonetheless the all white jury brought in a verdict of guilty on all counts. The 19 year old Wilson was sentenced to three years on the chain gang.

Wilson, a native of West Point, Mississippi is well known for his strenous and serious dedication to the Civil Rights Struggle in the South. Wilson has been arrested 35 times by the state of Mississippi for work in Voter Registration campaigns and and political organization.

Phase III

Simuel Schutz, Larry Fox, and Donald Stone are due to be tried February 21, 1967 at Fulton County Superior Court before Judge Dan Dukes on assault and Battery charges stemming from the August 18th Demonstration. (Since its a common practice for additional charges to be brought against Blacks in the racist Kangaroo Courts of Georgia, it wouldn't be suprising if more Assault and Battery Charges were brought against the three. Since the Judge, State's Attorneys and the Police Department work in conspiracy together, its likely that additional charges will be brought against the three. Th ee were between 20 and 30 cops at the demonstration scene. It's possible in Georgia that Stone, Schutz, and Fox will be charged with assaulting all of them. The white racist have the power to give these men twenty years on the "chain gang" or "concentration camp" ..... When you have time, do some research on the the methods that were used on the jews .....

Phase IV

The seven named above who were indicted on February 16th by the Federal Grand Jury on the charge of "Interfering" and Destroying Federla Property are the latest victims of the conspiracy. Conviction of interference brings a penalty of 5 years in the Federal Penitentary and a $10,000 fine. The destruction of property brings 1 year in the Federal penitentiary and $1,000 fine.

The following is a list of the names and ages of all 12 victims of the racist conspiracy:

John Wilson -19 years; Donald Stone-31 years, Simuel Schutz-20 years, Michael Simmons-21 years, Larry Fox-23 years, Dwight Williams -22 years, Bob Moore-22 years, Donald Howard-22years, Bob Smith-23 years, Regina Pleasant-19years, and Flora Goodloe-19years.

These are young men and women of America. They are of African Descent. They are too young to accept the conditions which oppress them and their not too much older parents. They are too young not to protest and too young not to resist; too young not to make known their feelings. They are young, strong Afro-american. They are the future of the Afro-american Nation. They have been active in the Civil Rights Movement ofor several years facing the racist Mississippi-Alabama-Georgia officials; the police dogs, the fire hoses, the cattle prods, the billy clubs, the night sticks, the rifle butts, the snipers bullets and now openly the racist US government has entered into the conspiracy to destroy the Black Youth

As proof of the conspiracy take the case of Simuel Schutz. After serving nearly two months in the Atlanta Prison Farm's "hole" Schutz was removed therefrom by the Federal Agents and taken to jail in Montegomery. The charges: Draft Evasion. Schutz had been one day late in reporting for induction. Schutz was working as a Field Secretary for the SNCC in Lowdnes County, Ala. He had been involved with the Black Panther Party since its beginning. On May 3rd, the day of the elections Schutz was organizing the County Convention in order to gain a political voice for the Afro-americans in Lowdnes County. He was told on that day that it was rumored that he had received an induction notice and was suppose to report either "today, yesterday, or tomorrow". The contradictions of fighting against racism in Lowdnes County while being forced to fight in the racist armed forces were the contradictions facing this young man and all Black young men who are concerned about Blacks in this country. Fighting within the armies (reserve, national guard, army, navy, airforce) which have already been used to enforce racist polices in Lowdnes County, Atlanta, Montegomery, Mississippi, New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Watts, and in every City, County, and State where Afroamericans have had to do battle with racists for the right to organize other afro-americans. This is the contradiction that Schutz and all concerned Black youth have reaped in this country of vicious white sowers. Schutz reported the next day and was informed by the clerk that he was one day late. Schutz said that he had been called out of turn and was a victim of a racist conspiracy to get rid of him.

Schutz was tried and convicted, October 21, 1966 in the United States District Court for the Middle District of Alabama, Eastern Division, Judge Virgil Pittman, presiding. Racist Judge Pittman would not permit Schutz's attorney to permit any evidence proving that Schutz was a victim of a conspiracy perpertrated against him by racist selective service officials, FBI and local police.

Judge Pittman refused to permit the files of the selective service (which had been gotten by a court order)which proved that Schutz had had been called out of turn to be put in the record or offered as evidence. After the testimoney had been given, Pittman said: "Guilty as Charged; is there anything you would like to day before I pass sentence." He then sentenced Schutz to three years in the Federal Penitentiary. Schutz is presently out on appeal bond.

Southern white racist, northern white racist, Federal agents, selective service boards and officials and white america in general see men like these ten as a Vanguard, or an extension of the collective WILL of Black People to be FREE. These agents, clerks, whites are going to make examples of these young men who penalty is thinking, moving, and organizing Afro-americans for Freedom, Justice and Equality.

They will through them in jails, beat them, starve them, torture them and use, finally kill them until we do something about it.

Only you can stop the torture of Black men.

Bail money should be sent to the Legal Aid and Defense Fund of the SEVEN 360 Nelson STreet SW Atlanta, Georgia.

MR. AND MRS. NATHAN H. SCHWERNER
34 FIFTH STREET
PELHAM, NEW YORK 10803

File

Dear Friend,

The chips are down. The broadsides against SNCC in most of the press, distorting SNCC's position, have caused uneasiness to some of our liberal-minded friends. We've heard criticisms that SNCC is now Black Nationalist -- too militant.

But where does the truth lie? It is as right and necessary for a Julian Bond or a Fannie Lou Hamer to represent a Negro majority in a particular community as it is for an Irishman or an Italian to wield political power in an Irish or Italian-dominated area. Negroes must speak out for their needs through their own representatives. For us, this is what SNCC's Chairman Stokely Carmichael means by "black power." And for us, that is the bare bone of civil rights; that is the goal of SNCC's "new policy" which is, in fact, as old as SNCC itself.

We're enclosing a statement from Mr. Carmichael and an analysis by I. F. Stone. We think they'll be helpful in discussions with your friends.

And then, please join us in supporting this most courageous group of young people. We understand that they are now entering another summer of work and that they will be joined this month by a Freedom Force of over 100 volunteers. We fear for them, and with reason. They are the combat troops of democracy, brave and tough -- but they need your help. Join us in supporting them in their fight to help all of us, black and white, attain those "inalienable rights" which are still unrealized by so many Americans.

Very Sincerely,

Anne Schwerner Nat Schwerner

P.S. We must add that this letter was not solicited by SNCC; it was volunteered.
Please show your support by sending a check to SNCC — The need is Great and most urgent.
A.S.
NS

File

Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee

National Headquarters: 6 Raymond Street, N.W. • Atlanta 14, Georgia • Area Code 404 — 688-0331

Tel. 387-7445

107 Rhode Island Ave., N. W.
Washington, D. C. 20010

Enclosed is a complete copy of a SNCC Special Report on School Desegregation in the deep South. We are sending you the entire 65 page report in addition to the Summary and our open letter to Secretary Gardner because we know of your deep concern for and interest in civil rights information.

Please don't hesitate to contact us if you want additional information.

Someday we shall have our talk. Hope you enjoy the report. Freedom, Betty

Sincerely,

John Robert Lewis

John Robert Lewis
Chairman, SNCC

Marion Barry, jr.
Director, Washington SNCC office

Betty Garman

Betty Garman,
Federal Programs Coordinator, SNCC

"One Man, One Vote"

34

File: SNCC

American Youth in a Social Struggle: The Mississippi Summer Project

Robert Coles, M.D.* and Joseph Brenner, M.D.

The student sit-in movement is this year 5 years old. (22,39) The willingness of four Negro students to ask for service from a cafeteria in Greensboro, North Carolina soon developed into the determination of hundreds of students to engage in similar non-violent assertions or requests over the South and in the North, too. Though for a number of years there had been a slow progression of decisions in the federal courts (3) which indicated that the high tide of legally sanctioned segregation embodied in the "separate-but-equal" decision of Plessy vs. Ferguson had long passed, it was the post-war climate itself along with the 1954 school desegregation decision which set the stage for the various protest actions we have seen in the South these past few years. (3,27,28) Indeed, a Negro woman's refusal to yield her seat to a white man started a chain of events which progressed from a boycott in Montgomery, Alabama, to the emergence of a national leader in the person of its leader, Dr. Martin Luther King, and his eventual designation as a Nobel Award winner for his contributions toward world peace. (26)

Such events illustrate the way individual lives can engage with a ripe historical moment to produce significant social change. (10,11,17,22) No view of the nature of social struggle in the South can ignore the history of the region, the political and economic climate there, and the long-standing consolidation in the section of an essentially rural caste system. (4,6,12,13,14,25,31,32,34) Psychiatrists looking at the motivations and adjustment of those taking on such a formidable social system must keep these considerations constantly in mind. To walk into a cafeteria and ask for coffee -- and be a Negro -- or to walk into a county court house so as to register to vote -- and be a Negro -- requires a certain kind of person, a certain kind of psychological preparation and endurance in that person; but to realize what such acts mean -- to the white people -- requires placing the desires and deeds of private people in the context of what they have learned in their family rearing, and what generations of Southern families, white and Negro, have learned about themselves and one another. (5,6,7,9,13,31,32,33,34,38) As one Negro student reminded us: "When I go near a voting registrar in Mississippi I feel I'm dueling with the whole history of my race and the white race. It gets you just like that, in your bones. You're not just a person who is scared. You're doing something for the books; for history, too."

---

*Research Psychiatrist, Harvard University Health Services.

Psychiatrist, Medical Department, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Background of the Project

Similarly, the state of Mississippi must be looked at in some historical depth, so that its current racial struggle fits into a larger significance -- a whole way of life for people. We cannot here do justice to the remarkable series of events which have seized that state over these past decades. Its beautiful land has been touched with the blood of warriors fighting against the North, soldiers fighting for the preservation of the Union, men lynched for the color of their skin, or other men dead prematurely out of a poverty which persisted for them even though they were white, even in the face of their hatred of Negroes.

Particularly relevant are the descriptions of Mississippi's political structure, its social system, the cherished ideals of its white leaders, the grim living of its white yeomen, and the almost unbelievable conditions of existence endured by its Negro sharecroppers. (1,13) Faulkner's novels (19,20,21) are eminently heroic works of literary art, but they are also an incredibly accurate storehouse of psychological and socio-cultural information about life in Mississippi as it is differently yet mutually lived by white and Negro people there. Nor does Faulkner stand alone; from George Washington Cable (5) to Eudora Welty (36,37) a long and fine literary tradition has illustrated the agony of the state, the muted often sad humor, the poverty, the desolation, the loneliness of its people -- afraid of the rest of the country, sometimes even of the rest of their own South, always of themselves, split into dark and light, few rich and many poor, or suspicious, hard-pressed farmers and self-consciously recent city folk.

The intersection of private lives with an enabling time in our national life has its parallel in the meeting of Mississippi's increasingly guarded, aloofly defiant posture in respect to desegregation with the momentum of the student civil rights groups. There is a special quality to the state's resistance to national laws and pressures, a quality of firm, unrelenting opposition described by political scientists, journalists, and its own leaders. (6,7,25,27,28,32,33,35) No other Southern state has committed itself so totally to so unyielding a stand, and no one studying the white and Negro youth in confrontation with such a stand can overlook the psychological climate of fear and hostility likely to arise on both sides, those challenged and those making the challenge.

Relatively isolated forays had been made into Mississippi before, in the few short years of increasingly organized student protest. Several of the organizing leaders of the 1964 project had experienced the threats, jailings, beatings, and injuries that can go hand in hand with trying to work for the voting rights of Negroes in the state. The segregationist racial customs in those towns are so solidly established and that aspect of their living is so effectively removed from the will or practices of the rest of the nation that centuries of difference seem to separate the one from the other.

Such attempts had inevitably persuaded these young men and women that they were no match -- as small groups of committed civil rights workers -- for the power of those deeply Southern states who were set upon last ditch resistance to federal laws or pressures to obey those laws. Since Mississippi seemed the bastion of such unyielding opposition, and since some of them were tired of seemingly disconnected expeditions often culminating in futile attempts and prolonged arrests, it was decided to attempt a specific, carefully planned project which would try to work toward desegregation in the toughest state of the nation -- and in a large scale fashion which would draw upon the national support of sympathetic students and see itself as taking on not simply one town or county here and another there, but the segregationist laws, frame of mind and resolution of the state of Mississippi itself.

Well before the summer project began these youths travelled over the country making their plans known to student groups in the various colleges and discussing them with various sympathetic educators or religious and political leaders. By the spring of 1964 recruitment on college campuses was well on its way, and plans had become firm for a preliminary, two week period of orientation followed by a summer's project likely to witness hundreds of students from over the nation converging on dozens of Negro communities in the state.

Our Role in the Project

Our role in the project was defined by the students and the ministers of the National Council of Churches, which decided to support their efforts and formally affiliate itself with them. We were asked to help evaluate applicants, be available for any medical or psychiatric advice needed during the two week orientation period in Oxford, Ohio, and continue such work during the rest of the summer in Mississippi. One of us had had four years of experience working with Southern youth involved in the sit-in movement, as well as with Negro and White children involved in the desegregation of the elementary and high schools of the region. The other one of us is an internist with long experience in general medical problems as well as a psychiatrist particularly practiced in working with college students.

We both went out to Oxford several days before the summer volunteers were to arrive, so that we might talk with those who were organizing the project. For several months before that, however, we had been sharing in the preliminary process of interviewing, group discussions, and selection which took place at several New England colleges where students were specially interested in civil rights.

From those first meetings in the early spring of the year, to our work in Oxford, Ohio and then in the experiences of the one of us who spent the summer with the project in Mississippi, records were constantly kept of individual and group interviews. Some of the interviews were taped. Photographs were made, to illustrate the preparation in non-violence at the workshops, and the living conditions and activities of the students in Mississippi. Our intention has been to document -- with clinical material gathered and recorded -- the manner of survival of a group of American youths embarking upon a serious endeavor in changing the nature of part of their nation.

The Onset of the Project

From the very beginning, even before Oxford, Ohio, we noted that the students interested in the project seemed consistently serious, dedicated, and well aware of the serious implications facing the kind of work they were asking to do. Every effort was made to acquaint them with the hard facts of life facing the Negro citizens of that state, and the firm conviction of its leading white citizens that no change in those facts be accomplished. Some students decided well before the orientation meeting that the risk to life or limb was not only real and substantial, but too much for them. Some of these students were afraid, others insufficiently concerned about civil rights. "I thought it might be an interesting summer," one college junior told us "but I frankly don't care enough to risk my life over this problem."

The real time when motivations were tested and responses to fear and tension quite apparent came at Oxford, Ohio where for two weeks, on the lovely campus of Western College for Women, about 400 college students from every section of the country assembled to learn about their coming summer, and once and for all decide whether it would suit their wishes and capacities. We cannot here recount the background which soon befell that orientation period: the constant presence of reporters and television cameras; the anxiety in the nation and over the world; the threats spoken in Mississippi and the concern expressed by many people in the North, including officials of the government; within a few days the disappearance of three members of the project -- their death appearing an increasing likelihood, then a certainty, as each day passed with no discovery of their whereabouts. Such a grim general atmosphere became for each volunteer a specific confrontation: going to Mississippi meant the concrete, explicit risk of death.

Orientation of the Students

The job of Oxford was one of informing and preparing students for the summer. They had to be made aware of the political, economic and social situation in the state, and given a description of the historical development of the project -- how it came about, at whose initiative, for what purposes. There were serious logistical problems to be solved: transport, housing, security, lines of communication with one another and with the press, congressmen, senators, families and friends; in addition the geographic deployment had to be arranged, the financial basis of the project established, the legal help set up, and provision for the medical and psychological welfare of the workers secured.

Before the students arrived workshops in non-violent technique were prepared by the 100 students who were also veteran activists of the civil rights movement. (They met for several days before the orientation began.) Discussions among these students were held, too. They had also their fears and anxieties. (2,8,9,10,11,14,22,24) Some Negro Southerners resented outsiders even as they welcomed and needed them -- and particularly resented volunteers who were white and relatively privileged ones at that. Many were afraid, not as they had been before in their comparative isolation and powerlessness, but in the face of the new significance that had come upon their struggle, and the tensions, rivalries and fears of the increasing organizational life which accompanied it. Some felt guilty. Did they have the right to ask aid of others, knowing -- as only those who have fought for civil rights in a small town in the Delta can possibly know -- the fateful hazards and gambles attached to the work, the constant jeopardy of its achievement?

Preliminary Medical and Psychiatric Operations

Our work began as soon as we arrived on the campus. We met with small and larger groups of the project's leaders, and with them individually. We looked upon ourselves as guests, and were at first quite unsure what we could do of value. It soon became clear, however, that there was a good deal for us to do, and that our help was very much wanted by the leaders of the project -- they called it COFO, or Council of Federated Organizations, an alliance of the major civil rights organizations in the state.

Even as those meetings were proceeding the volunteers started arriving. Besides the various tasks already mentioned to be accomplished -- they might be called those of "outer orientation" -- there was perhaps the hardest one of "inner orientation." Within each of these students lived the slowly awakening conscience of much of their country. Yet, there were really few people or groups giving them clear sanction to set out to do what they did. Even many of those morally sympathetic to their aims felt hesitant, doubtful, or fearful before their actions as they slowly took shape. Nor were these volunteers simply lonely or isolated from the approval of others. An aroused conscience does not automatically generate the will to change things, and even given the will such events in the life of the mind as fear, inertia, the onset of rationalizations and denials -- or the legitimate rise of feelings of helplessness or despair before the magnitude of a difficult ordeal -- combine to stay action, to spread doubt, to start anxieties in motion that can become paralyzing worries, suspicions, or tensions between people. (11)

It was thus apparent from the very beginning that this tiny handful of young people, a fraction of 1% of the college population of this country, would have to come to some conclusion -- even if in the private thoughts or the fantasies and dreams of their own minds -- about why they were taking on this kind of summer, and how they would expect to manage it.

First Period of Self-examination

Both the leaders of the project and the volunteers later went through this first period of self examination. They hassled and argued with their guilt and self-doubt, the racking accusations, the continual analysis of motives which bespeak inner uncertainty coming to grips with outer uncertainty. Many of them wondered whether they were hopelessly "neurotic" or "masochistic," perhaps doing the right thing for the wrong reasons, and if this was the case whether their position was tenable. Some could resolve such conflicts quickly; others did so only with difficulty, or only over time, or only with our help or the help of a person or event which somehow "made it all clear."

For example, during one long heated meeting a young Negro woman from Mississippi replied to a series of remarks which largely reflected apprehension and hesitation with the following words, spoken with a gentleness and simplicity which only added to their force: "I've been listening to you all for two hours, and I suppose if I didn't get up to speak you might be talking two days or two years from now about whether you should go and what will happen when you do. But I'm going to tell you something; I don't want to know why you're here. I want to know what's taken you so long to come; and I want to be thankful you're here."

Racial Tensions Rise

Another issue besides those of anticipatory fear or personal motivation was that of racial attitudes. The very problem summoning them to Mississippi was also part of their own problem as a group of white and Negro Americans with widely different backgrounds and experiences. For many of the white volunteers this was the first time they would be living on "equal" terms both physically and psychologically with Negroes; living with them as a preparatory group in Ohio, and then in the Negro quarters of Southern towns and villages under the strongly disapproving eye of a white society. The common nervousness of all concerned, from poor Southern Negroes to wealthy Northern whites (there were Southern whites and Northern Negroes there, too) was expressed variously: in sly avoidance, in forced, awkward encounters at meal time, in humorous exchanges while watching television, in all the ways that people find to meet and accommodate themselves to one another -- in the hope that the clumsy, embarrassing moments of introduction will ultimately yield to genuinely pleasant friendships at a later time.

Group Formations Occur

Meanwhile overriding all such matters was the central binding obligation of all concerned, teachers and students, long time activists and new recruits, to organize themselves quickly and expeditiously for the hard work ahead. The critical means of accomplishing this were the small groups of about 20 to 30 students. In them the real testing of individual commitment, solidarity, and understanding of the project took place. These groups formed themselves within a day or two of the arrival of the volunteers and were organized in terms of the geography of the state.

The overall project was divided into literally dozens of smaller ones, each one attached to a particular town or county, and each one destined to have its own aims, style of living, traditions, risks and opportunities. Though the state has certain quite general racial customs, it also is by no means without variations in them. Some of it borders on TVA territory. Some of it is on the Gulf of Mexico, anxious for tourists and sandwiched in between two old sophisticated port cities, Mobile and New Orleans. The capitol is a growing city, a distribution center for national business concerns. On the other hand there are those miles of plantation country in the Delta, or those small-farm counties along the hill country.

While a psychiatric report cannot do justice to the intricate historical and social forces at work in shaping racial relations in these areas, neither can such a report ignore the very real psychological consequences of those forces. What has been reported by Allport, Clark, Dollard, Myrdal or Kardiner and Ovesey (2,8,13,24,29) as happening to Negroes under various kinds of isolation and discrimination simply begins -- and only that -- to describe the way many Negro families in the rural areas of the South feel about themselves and the white people for whom they largely work. Nor is it fair to overlook the long and deeply held feelings of white people in those regions. Those sections of the South which have found themselves able and willing to change such feelings -- or at the very least the customs grounded in them -- have been heavily persuaded by other changes, economic, political and cultural, which have so far largely ignored the rural South.

In each of the small groups there were several staff members who knew such facts all too well. Joining them were the volunteers, ranging from 5 or 6 to about 20 in each group. The volunteers were encouraged to move from group to group so as to get a sense of the people with whom they would be working, and their particular interests. As these groups were forming, general lectures were being given -- about the state as a whole, its economy and traditions; or about the history of the civil rights movement, or the nature of non-violent protest. Other lectures dealt with more specialized problems, such as the legal ones likely to arise in the face of unfriendly police or the medical and psychiatric ones brought on by hot, humid weather coupled with the strains of everyday life as a worker for the voting rights of colored people.

Openly and quietly the members of these groups came to know one another. At first there was a good deal of shifting about from one group to another. Someone interested, say, in teaching might find herself in a group seeing itself as primarily geared toward voter registration; or a young man interested in helping rural folk become aware of public health programs or those sponsored by the department of Agriculture might sense other concerns in his group -- teaching history or reading and writing. Mutual trust and respect and a clear knowledge of the order of command within the group was stressed. The need to accomplish such attitudes and feelings, the urgent need to do so in a short time, seemed to accelerate the cohesion and willfulness of the groups.

Our Work as Consultants

We shared in giving general lectures and leading more informal discussions on medical and psychiatric topics. Our major task was initially felt to be the evaluation of those who -- at their own behest or because of the doubts of others -- were referred to us as possibly unsuitable for the project. It certainly would not be possible for us -- two among 500 staff and volunteers -- to interview even a majority of the students individually. Moreover, what criteria were we to use in evaluating the fitness of these students for this project? One of us has already discussed this problem elsewhere: (10). standards which might apply in determining the "mental health" of certain kinds of people -- white, suburban, middle-class -- do not necessarily apply to others, be they Negroes or a kind of idealistic youth struggling to find their own identity or sense of themselves.

We did, however, give over long stretches of hours, day and night, to individual interviews, sitting in as well with the various groups, where we might help spot any particularly anxious or troubled person. In addition, one of us is an internist, and thus acted as the general physician as well as a psychiatrist to the assembled youth.

General Reassurance for the Majority

There is no doubt that we were able to be of some help. There were a good number of frightened, anxious students on that campus, particularly so following the news of the disappearance of three of their fellows. Many students were ashamed to admit their doubts, their mixed feelings. They felt able to talk with us about them because we were doctors -- psychiatrists who were a bit removed from the immediate moral thrust of the project. Many talked of their lack of commitment, their sense of inadequacy before the anticipated ordeal facing them. For most of these students we could directly relieve some of their feelings of isolation and worthlessness by telling them what we had come to know was the truth: all the students there, in one fashion or another, shared such worries with them. Facing uncertainty and a good chance of injury, arrest, or even death, many of them were lonely and perhaps secretly preoccupied as well as frightened. It was relieving for individuals to know that in fact such sensations were quite common, and to be expected.

Individual Problems

Indeed, the few who troubled us were those who were not fearful and mildly to moderately anxious. There were several kinds of such youths. One group relied almost exclusively on bodily expressions of tension or nervousness. These were the young men and women who came to us with headaches, stomach and intestinal disorders, troubles with insomnia, muscle aches or back pain or with menstrual irregularities. We think it fair to say that for a while we were rather hard pressed with such complaints. In large measure bearing them were fresh "recruits" from various colleges who not only had no experience in the South, but little sustained contact with Northern civil rights work. They suddenly found themselves confronted with all the difficulties of making contact with Negro students -- often from a different class and region as well as race -- as well as those specially hard problems associated with facing danger. Being highly conscientious, and responsive to firm ethical ideals and goals, they found it particularly hard -- in so short a time -- to acknowledge their quite reasonable apprehensions.

Our job with them was both to treat their somatic symptoms and gently assist them in becoming more comprehensively and less fearfully aware of their inner conflicts. In example, a 19 year old student from Minnesota, a white farm girl who was a junior in college and from a highly religious Lutheran family, came to see us with complaints of a "head cold," including a headache and post-nasal drip. Further questioning revealed insomnia starting directly with her first night at Oxford. When asked about how she was managing at the orientation meetings she replied with a tense, defensively assured "fine." She followed that quickly with a reference to the headaches which plagued her. In a while she acknowledged that she rarely suffered headaches; and that was our clue to indicate to her that she -- or anybody else -- rarely became involved in the kind of activity and peril now facing her. Her reluctance to accept such an observation appeared fairly quickly on her face. Yet, on the basis of past experience with youth in the sit-ins, we felt that we should press on with an amplification of our view of her inner struggle between on the one hand her ideals and her willingness -- her determination -- to put those ideals to the test of action in their behalf, and on the other hand her perfectly natural want of confidence in how she would be able to cope with a kind of physical danger and psychological intimidation that was daily being spelled out for her, and coming closer to her.

We saw her for 3 interviews during her stay at Oxford; and she was able to talk openly with us about her feelings. We always emphasized the many, very important possibilities open to civil rights workers outside of Mississippi; but at the same time stressed the fear and uncertainty common to all there, each person calling upon his own style for expression of it. She decided to go South, and once her decision was made (or confirmed in her mind once again) she lost her headaches and slept more soundly. We had given her a small supply of miltown and aspirin. She returned her unused pills to us after the last interview. "I think I can make it without these," were her words, followed by "I guess it takes time to find out that what bothers you bothers everyone."

More Serious Problems

There were other medical and psychiatric problems of a more serious nature, requiring the usual clinical diagnostic work-up and finally a decision about the person's fitness for the project. We encountered three youths near psychosis -- one suspicious and withdrawn, the other two clearly near panic. It was of interest to us that they were referred to us by the students themselves as a bit odd or seemingly "troubled" or "distracted" and in need of our help. They were willing to leave the project, in fact pleased to do it for medical reasons.

A more difficult few to evaluate were those with "neurotic" personalities or "character disorders" which did not seem to be working to the advantage of them as participants in the project. (We have surely reached a stage of sophistication in psychiatry that asks us to consider t the person's personality in relationship to his environmental condition rather than abstractly.) Our experience at Oxford was that 5 students knew that they were "in trouble," realized that however well they had managed before, they were headed for serious difficulty under the kinds of stresses likely in Mississippi. Three of them sought us out fairly quickly, and were helped to leave without excessive guilt, or sense of failure. Two others were spotted by their roommates or friends, and similarly helped to decide upon departure from the project. They themselves had wanted to see us, hesitating out of guilt at abandoning their summer's objectives. Three of these five had been in treatment for depression, anxiety, or phobias. The other two were of rather rigid, brittle make-up, each of them quite attached to an orderly, punctual kind of living. The "confusion" of Oxford, that is the lack of precise timing for meetings, the tendency for lectures and discussions necessarily to carry on so long as there were intense pre-occupations and uncertainties to be aired, bothered them and showed them and us that the similar but even more marked disorder (and consequent need for flexibility) of active social struggle was not for them.

There were 4 others who presented a different order of problems. In each case the way the person came to the conference was an important clue to the kind of person we were seeing. One 19 year old Northern Negro arrived on the second day without any advanced notice. He had gone through none of the preliminary registration procedures at his college; he had in fact, we learned later, shunned them. His behavior and reasons for coming seemed appropriate at first, but within a few days he had managed to summon attention to himself by complaining about a variety of trivial things -- weather, food, length of orientation sessions. In his group he was either stonily silent or else registering a lone dissent on matters not very arguable, such as "choice" of living quarters in rural towns where there was in fact no choice to be had.

Seen by one of us we learned that he had twice been in jail for petty thievery, was now on probation, and had just been discharged from a part time job for reasons uncertain to us. Psychotherapy had once been suggested to him, and refused. He was trying to obtain the support of the group, but was unable to do so. His childhood had been confused and impoverished both in socio-economic fact and psychological experience. We suggested psychiatric care in his native city, and made referral for him to a clinic there. He showed no reluctance to leave.

A 20 year old white student made another impulsive arrival at Oxford. He called by phone the first day to say that he was hitchhiking, and only 200 miles away. He came the next day, lean, jaunty and filled with excitement and enthusiasm. Yet, in a short time his good-spirited eagerness became tiresome as its nervously excessive quality wore upon others -- several of whom suggested we talk with the youth.

He showed no surprise when one of us asked to talk with him, and with evident relief his story tumbled out, punctuated with pleas to be allowed to stay. After one and a half years of college he had become acutely psychotic and had been in a mental hospital for several months. Though now recovering, he still feared a recurrence of his illness, and in point of fact, as we learned later, had supposed that participation in the project would help him integrate himself emotionally with others of like purpose and ideals. It was not his rather open display of feeling that bothered others but the rather forceful, slightly inappropriate nature of their expression. They feared that while he might well be able to make a worthwhile contribution to the project, in sensitive situations his fragile controls might give way.

He was relieved that we were able to get some perspective on his life situation, and he was able to accept reassurance that his history indicated that while it would not be wise for him to participate in the program this year there was every hope that with continued personal progress he might help in a variety of ways in the future. We had to help him leave and get on a bus; he was sad and near tears. Again, referral for further psychiatric treatment was made.

Our Conclusions as the Orientation Period Ends

Important questions in our minds at Oxford (and of course, later, in Mississippi) were what kinds of youths came there, for what reasons, and how did they manage the strains of preparing themselves for a hard and threatening summer -- particularly since the death of 3 of their comrades came upon them as they were preparing themselves to do so. We realized after one day's interviews and observations followed another that we were dealing with a wide range of personality types -- quite similar to the many kinds of college students we each customarily see in our respective jobs. Largely absent were the psychotic, the sociopathic or psychopathic. These were almost uniformly intelligent, determined youth, willfully desirous of ending what to most of them was a deeply felt state of injustice in their country. A few were more abstract: they did not so much feel the indignity of others as respond to the momentum of their own ideas; they objected to "injustice" or deprivation of "constitutional rights."

Doubtless the age of these youths, their position in our society as still predominantly single (or newly married, without children) and concerned with achieving, and consolidating their own rights and opportunities, their own dignity and self respect, made them specially sensitive to the plight of others similarly struggling for freedom in its many senses. Moreover, as Erikson (15,16,17,18) indicated, growing up in our middle-class Western world involves a rather long and complicated effort and struggle within the mind as one's individual past engages with social, cultural and historical events in pursuit of some feeling of coherence about oneself and the world.

At this particular moment in our national life, the civil rights movement, its ideals and struggles, has strong general interest for all of us; but for young Negroes and young white college students -- each for different reasons -- it has added relevance. For many young Negroes it is a chance to assert their worth in a new and increasingly successful way. In this regard, as one of us has discussed at some length, (10) the natural, partial estrangement of youths from their parents becomes even more pronounced as even children do things (in schools or demonstrations) never dreamed possible by their parents. Moreover, for many white students the civil rights movement seems the only possible way for them to work practically toward some improvement in our society. As one of them said to us in Ohio: "It's real, like work, and it's doing something for people we can see and who need it; and they're American citizens, like us; and we seem to be the only ones who go out and do it in the tough places. Then the country follows along."

If most of these youths were idealistic, intelligent and hardworking, if few were ruled out because of mental or physical disease, then the fact remains that even before they left for Mississippi they had to contend with the ominous news of the disappearance of three of their co-workers, and the beginning of the arrests, explosions, and beatings which would continue the rest of the summer.

We were struck at how successfully they kept their spirits high, their resolve undiminished. The purposes of the orientation session were to instruct the students in what they would be doing, and where; to help them get to know one another, and form some cohesive bond among themselves; to prepare them for the challenges and problems ahead, by lectures, demonstrations and even films; and to filter and select out those not quite suited to the project. The terrible news from Philadelphia, Mississippi revealed how effectively these aims had been accomplished.

There was a noticeable increase to the consultations we made. In point of fact we worked almost round the clock because the conference almost did. Minor medical complaints, bruises, cuts, aches and pains came in higher numbers, we thought because many students were quite doubtful of their strength -- of body and mind both -- to face a continuation of what had happened in Philadelphia. There was an increase in those openly anxious, fearful or unable to sleep soundly. Yet the general drift of those tense hours and days after Philadelphia was toward a final consolidation of the entire group of several hundred youths. They assembled in song and prayer, in silent marches, in circular, hand-holding communication and recital of their collective determination to proceed. The emotional power and support of those songs can hardly be conveyed here. One has to be there, feel the emotional strength and reassurance of the words, the melodies, the youth united in saying and singing.

In Mississippi

The Activities of the Project

The rest of the summer, from mid-June until late August, was spent by these youths, and one of us, in Mississippi. The activities of the project can only be briefly summarized here. To nearly every part of the state, from its larger cities to its very small towns, groups of students came, settled, and lived. They established a variety of programs: schools, libraries, food and clothing distribution centers, efforts at voter education and registration, research into ways of making federal programs in health or agriculture more available to people most in need of them, cultural activities, such as drama classes or music hours, even instruction in sewing as well as in history, writing and spelling, science, or foreign languages.

The general purpose of the project was to help the cause of civil rights in Mississippi by introducing a state-wide community of willing and able volunteers who by their very presence would symbolize the interest of the entire nation. These volunteers would also contribute their various skills to people badly in need of them. Of course not only students were among the volunteers, but a number of teachers, and an additional number of lawyers, doctors, nurses, clergymen, all interested in making the project work. The leaders of the project hoped that such an infusion of heavily white, middle-class youth would inspire as well as help educate the fearful Negro people who would be housing and often feeding them as well as listening to them and taking lessons from them. They also hoped that the volunteers would learn a bit about the realities of life for the people they would meet in the state -- something hard to do merely by reading newspapers or books. They hoped, finally, that the project would itself serve as an instrument of social and political change, creating a force of its own, of national origins, within this state.

One of us entered the state with some of these volunteers, and spent the summer moving from town to town, staying with the students, talking with them, observing their work, in several cases (instances of emergency injuries secondary to bombings) treating some of their medical problems, and generally obtaining a sense of how these youths (and at times the psychiatrist studying them) managed under stress. We were interested in the medical and psychiatric responses of these young men and women to what was for many of them a rather trying and even dangerous summer. We also wanted to know how the project affected the attitudes of the participants and those they encountered: that is, how Negroes and whites managed together, and how the whites of the state responded to the experience of a social system developing before their eyes unlike any before allowed -- indeed only feared and hated. The one of us who went to Mississippi had lived there for two years long before racial unrest had come upon the state, and had visited the state continually since then. Having excellent sources of information there, he followed his summer's observations of the project with extensive interviews of ordinary white citizens there whose lives had been significantly confronted by the project. "It was a spectacle," one of them said. Our job was (and is) to find out what such a continuing sight or spectacle does to her and those like her -- does to their thoughts and feelings about Negroes, segregation, Northern students, about, in sum, the continuing and accelerating social change occuring in their region.

Our Work in the State

Before taking up the brunt of our work, which concerned the "normal" responses of people under heavy pressures, we should report that in only two instances was it necessary for psychiatric intervention to be of such a kind as to suggest the separation of a person from the project. In both people psychotic behavior was becoming manifest and disturbing to all concerned, and we were able to use tranquillizers to calm the young man and woman and arrange for them to go home without mishap. In each case we obtained evidence of pre-existing difficulties, experience with psychotherapy, and somewhat rigid personality structure.

It was of course part of our work to talk continually with students temporarily anxious, depressed, fearful and suffering from a variety of medical expressions of stress, such as trouble sleeping, loss of appetite, headaches, stomach ailments of one sort or another, or menstrual irregularities. Individually and in groups, through talks and often with the recommended help of such mainstays of general practice as aspirin, miltown, phenobarbitol, donnatol, vitamin preparations, and paregoric we were able to assist in diminishing the severity of what might appropriately be called "war-neuroses." Indeed, as in war, in several cases we had to recommend temporary removal of one person or another from an "exposed" or dangerous location to a quieter and safer station. In general cases, too, there was some incompatibility of members in these small groups or "outposts," and we would talk with the people involved and try to point out some of the sources of friction. Then, too, some shifts in personnel to other areas were occasionally needed.

In the youths we noted a variety of responses to stress. Again, this report cannot do justice to those stresses simply by documenting their variety and severity. Arrests, jailings, bombings, shootings, beatings, threats occurred by the hundreds in the weeks of June, July and August. To some extent those facts are known to the country more than the harder-to-establish ones of psychological adaptation, change and growth in both the volunteers and the citizens of the state, Negro and white alike.

Four Psychological Stages Noted

There are certain definite trends to be reported among the volunteers. In a general sense they went through four psychological stages during the project -- though we hasten to insist that these are not meant to be inflexibly defined, universally applied or even temporally sequential. (A past attitude can emerge again when the present makes it "suitable.")

First Stage

At first there was the naive and awkward period. Many of these youths had never been South, had never been face-to-face with the kinds of poverty they were now calling upon themselves to live with intimately, had never had to contend with the twin difficulties of the considerable gap in social and cultural customs between them and their Negro hosts (with all the personal effort and trials required on both sides to overcome such a gap) and the equally significant gulf that separated them from the white people of the state. It may be one thing to read of poverty in the Delta; it is another matter to enter a sharecropper's cabin and live there -- eat and sleep there, attempt to make conversation there. Two gifted writers, James Agee and George Orwell (1,30) have perhaps written all that can be written on such a challenge, but the experience has to be each individual's who takes it up.

Here are the recorded words of one volunteer, indicating some of the psychological problems encountered in this first stage: "It's like I never could have imagined. I read all the books, but they don't tell you what to say when you're left with a family and you're there to help them, but you find they're scared stiff of you, and pretty soon you're scared of them. . . . They treated me as if I was some strange God, and I mean a dangerous one as well as a good one. They tried to be nice, but they were so respectful; and I kept trying to be "equal" with them, because that's what we were there to do . . . . Well, it was awkward as hell. First I told them not to call me 'Sir.' Then I could see they couldn't help it . . . and I stopped trying to pretend, too. I didn't like being without running water and good toilet facilities; and I didn't like some of their food either. It was too fried and greasy. . . . Well, we grew accustomed to one another, and then we'd slip up once in a while, let our guard down; really, let it down, like getting annoyed, or just plain speaking the truth of how we felt. . . . And the work we did was what made a go of it for us. My teaching, and their learning and they taught me so much, too -- about farming and animal life and how to live with nature. I never did anything but study nature, coming from a city."

That same volunteer described the other part of his difficult accommodation as follows: "You know, at first I thought 'who cares about the whites; they're blind, and we'll just show them the light.' Well, it's not that simple. You go down town to mail a letter, or buy some razor blades, and they stare at you, and make you feel like an enemy spy. . . . It's not the way we dress, they call us beatnik if we don't wear a tie in 100° weather, when they don't themselves. Look at the way the klansmen dress; not just 'on duty' but 'off-duty,' with sweatshirts and khakis just like ours. . . . What you slowly begin to realize is that they're not just enemies. They're you, in a different society; or what you're struggling with yourself. . . . So, sometimes I feel lonely for them; just to have a good talk with them. It's easier in ways than with the people I'm with. All I have to do, though, is think about what the whole system of segregation does to half of those in it, and I lose that idea pretty fast. . . . No, I don't hate them . . . I feel sorry for them. . . . Yes, sometimes I do hate them, maybe. It's hard not to hate, sometimes. Like when a guy is swearing at you and has a gun in his hand. . . . I think this summer has made me a better friend of theirs [the white Mississippian] than ever, because now I see what they pay for their hate. . . . I mean, what hate does to them, too. . . . Yes, it took a while to see it; I'll admit. . . ."

Second Stage

The time taken to integrate the experiences of such a summer includes, as we saw it, two intermediate periods. Following the first "naive" encounters came a period of what we think of as "isolated, determined sophistication." The volunteer realizes how much he hadn't known. He now feels he knows so very much that the ignorance of others (including his previous self) seems almost unforgivable. This is a dangerous time, in the sense that arrogance and self-defeating withdrawal from the life of the state and nation can result. The volunteer sees himself not only progressively "removed" from the immediate hostility of the local area, but from many people over the country whose commitment, he feels, is not as strong as his. To some extent he is necessarily trying to disengage from the very real antagonism nearby; but the price sometimes becomes a more general emotional disengagement from our society. He feels abandoned and then angry at it. The sense of abandonment measures his increasing adjustment to his tasks in Mississippi. The anger shows that such tasks take time, energy, and perhaps some unacknowledged pain and frustration.

Third Stage

In any case, the project aims to integrate the Negroes (and ultimately the whites) of the state into the nation; and this purpose will hardly be achieved when bitterness dominates the emotional tone of the volunteers. A third stage marks the more realistic yielding of such withdrawal and anger to self-examination with considerable attendant risk and incidence of depression and despair. The volunteer realizes that he and his cause are going nowhere when his own work is purchased constantly at the price of haughty, self-righteous -- and sometimes exclusively ideological -- criticism of others.

One student describes his tired despondent feelings (and their relationship to earlier feelings) as follows: ". . . I suppose you'd call it a 'depression.' Some of us just wonder if we're getting much done in the long run, or whether it's a drop in the bucket, and we'll never see the bucket filled. . . . Last month I was mad at everyone who wasn't down here with us. Now I realize that it's a tough job, and we're making tremendous progress if you look at it with perspective. So I keep my perspective, until I see those cops patrolling and arresting us for nothing. Then I lose it fast, I'll tell you. . . . But there's no point calling everyone names who isn't here, that's using the project like a club over the world. . . . I think it's a danger, though. You do it, and forget you're doing it, and you become as unrealistic and cut-off down here, in one way, as you were in another way back home. There's got to be a balance. You take the 'long view' most of the time, but grit your teeth and try to get the work done the rest. If you don't take the 'long view' you get depressed . . . and if you take it too much, you get lethargic or so philosophical you don't do anything because you say, 'What's the use?'"

Fourth Stage

Better than any description or analytic remarks from us, these tape-recorded words -- and there are many others like them -- indicate the delicate balance needed by these students in such work. When that balance is accomplished -- and it has been by many, but not all the volunteers -- a fourth stage of what might be called effective confidence is achieved. There may be times of low spirits or bitterness, yet on the whole the young man or woman can both do his job and relate it in some reasonable not fatuous way to the national and even world changes occurring simultaneously.

Psychological Mechanisms Seen

The psychological mechanisms employed in these various "periods" in what is, of course, a continuity of time are of some interest. Considerable denial and projection of personal doubt or ambivalence occurs in the early period of adjustment, when the volunteer finds it necessary to protect himself from many of his own uncertainties and fears. The identification of these youths with their Negro hosts, with their problems and attitudes, even their ways of talking, eating, and walking, is quite moving to witness over a period of months. Nor can their hosts resist a similar tendency to pick up the habits and ways of the volunteers.

We saw, naturally, a variety of maneuvers meant to ward off the fears and tensions of near battle-like situations. Denials and reaction-formations enabled youths to maintain a spirit of hopefulness when in fact they felt gloomy and frightened. Displacements caused them to worry over minor details of teaching or daily life (the spark plugs of a car, the vitamin content of food) when in fact they feared arrest and even death. Much of their energy went into work, so much so and so zealously so -- in the face of a hot, soggy climate that is unnerving to resident and stranger alike -- that doubtless energies coming from their consciences, their compassions and affections, and their fearful collective sense of awareness were gathered and chanelled into work. The powerful help of one another, of group feeling, songs and discussions must again, as in our discussion of the orientation meetings, be mentioned. Help from visitors, lawyers, ministers, doctors, and reporters was also valuable and sometimes quite protective, too. When those people left they may have felt the mixed feelings of the volunteers -- who recognized the need for them to leave, to move about the state, but also wished they perhaps might stay longer.

Postlude to the Project

What of the postlude to the project, both for the volunteers, the people they met and lived with, and the white population of the state? Even now what we say must be considered tentative, because there is a continuity to both the civil rights movement in Mississippi, the involvement of these volunteers in it, and the relationship of white Mississippians to local and national events. Many of these volunteers will be back in the state next summer, and a whole new set of experiences will probably befall them. Some (about one fifth of the students) stayed longer than the formal limit set at the beginning as from June to August, over 100 staying for the whole year. One of us made follow-up visits to the state during the months after the summer project ended, and also interviewed at length many volunteers who have returned to school or work. Moreover, in Mississippi we were concerned not only with the psychological development of the project's workers, but the attitudes of the white population in the state once the project had ended.

Some Students Remain

With respect to the students we first wondered why some chose to stay the year. No one explanation holds. Prominent contributing causes were strong identification with the movement, deep empathy with the Negro people and their hard living conditions, anger at such misfortune and an idealistic determination to fight for a better world, guilt at being able to return or for leaving, or finally a fear of returning to what many called a more commonplace and less fulfilling kind of life as a student or even professional (teacher, nurse, lawyer). In some we could see personal problems strongly at work. In others it seemed almost a matter of fear -- for instance, that a return would be marked by a time of depression and a sense of uselessness or futility. As one 19 year old woman said to us: "How can I go back to books and lectures after really doing something here? I'm afraid I'll just go into one big slump. . . ."

Most Students Leave

Those who did return -- a majority -- thus had their problems in "readjustment." Some became depressed -- now that it was "safe" to become so. ("I knew it was in me down there, but I just kept on working and fought it off" were the words of one young lady.) Others became fighting mad at the police or segregationist organizations who had so constantly harassed them during the summer. ("I couldn't dare let even myself know how angry I was at them when I was down there, or I would have landed myself in jail for a long time," said a boy two months back in Boston.) Many felt a sense of temporary "unreality" in northern campuses. The contrast between active work in a social struggle and reading or going to lectures was strong, and the necessary accommodation clearly difficult and slow. The "group spirit" of many of these students still persists, sometimes to the point of excluding rather arbitrarily all others. Their attachment to Mississippi and its struggles persists. Many plan to return next summer. Many returned during vacation time -- as with the summer project itself, at their own expense. Some brought their Negro friends north for the holidays.

Letters and phone calls back and forth persist. As we noticed even at Oxford, Ohio -- when the maps of the state were examined and its land, economy and traditions discussed -- there develops in these youths a real concern and interest in the state as a whole, not only for some of its Negroes, that becomes a genuine affection. They savor the names of the towns and counties, the provincial words and colloquialisms; they seek after, often in vain, the special food; they even find in mid-winter a nostalgia for the steamy summer weather.

Changing Attitudes of the Whites in the State

In these students -- as we have indicated -- many new attitudes develop based on actual experience with conditions heretofore only known abstractly. Yet the whites of the state have not been untouched by this project either. Six years ago, when one of us lived in the state, a project such as this one would have been utterly inconceivable. The very spring before the project started was filled with rumors, fears, and anxieties on the part of a population often as frightened as resentful of desegregation. Yet, the state "survived" the project, and witnessed its determination, even in the face of continual threats and worse. In repeated interviews we have seen again and again subtle changes in many white Mississippians. Still opposed to desegregation, they now accept its inevitability. Many now feel the stirrings of interest in solving some of the problems between the races, and even have found themselves with a certain grudging respect for the students who "involved" them. One lady said before the project: "I think it's the worse thing that will ever happen to us. They're awful, just awful people to do this." In October she remarked, "Some of them looked like my sons. I think they're foolish, but they're harmless -- I think we've learned that. I think in the long run the nigras will have to talk with us and not them." That once feared and hated people can be seen as only "foolish" and even resembling one's own kin, that recognition of the need for talking about some of the issues besetting both races is acknowledged, represents no small change in attitude to be achieved, to some extent, over a summer's time.

One doctor in the state told us: "Those college kids have given a kind of psychotherapy to many of our moderate whites. They've watched them work all summer, and lost some of their anger and fear about the whole thing. It's a kind of desensitization."

Summary and Recommendations

We have described an attempt by American youth to participate in an active social struggle. We have tried to give some of the background to the issue itself, then a view of the kinds of students involving themselves in it, their purposes, their adjustment under the strains of it all, and our job in both documenting all this and working to make it a more effective effort. We have also tried to indicate the psychological processes at work over time in these youths, and indeed in those with whom they worked or in the sight of whom (unfriendly, often enough) they worked. We feel strongly that there is a specific role for psychiatrists, psychologists and social workers in the civil rights struggle. (11) We are in a good position to see clearly some of the individual and group tensions at work, and help diminish them with our various skills. To do so requires a respectful willingness on the part of the professional. These are not "sick" people; nor is their struggle in its essence anything but part of our common need for the dignity of all men. Yet, a struggle can founder upon psychological distractions and blind alleys as well as political resistance or social rigidities. Many of these students are defiantly suspicious of any outside help; but many are not, and welcome it -- indeed seek it out. We feel that when asked by them, some of us should be available to them, really for the sake of all of us as well as those we see and try to help.

We would like to close with Anna Freud's words prompted by viewing the English face the Nazi blitz: "We have seen plenty of evil in the world, but one can have only respect and admiration for these human beings." (23)

References

1. Agee, James, and Evans, Walker. Let Us Now Praise Famous Men. Cambridge: Houghton Mifflin, 1960.

2. Allport, Gordon W. The Nature of Prejudice. Cambridge: Addison-Wesley, p. 1954.

3. Bickel, Alexander. "The Decade of School Desegregation: Progress and Prospects," Columbia Law Review, Vol. 64, No. 2, February 1964.

4. Brooks, Cleanth. William Faulkner: the Yoknapatawpha Country. New Haven: Yale, 1963.

5. Cable, George Washington. The Negro Question; a Selection of Writings on Civil Rights in the South. Ed. by A. Turner. Garden City: Doubleday, 1958.

6. Cash, W.J. The Mind of the South. New York: Knopf, 1941.

7. Carter, Hodding. Southern Legacy. Baton Rouge: Louisiana State Press, 1950.

8. Clark, Kenneth B. Prejudice and Your Child. Boston: Beacon Press, 1955.

9. Coles, Robert. "Southern Children Under Desegregation," American Journal of Psychiatry, Vol. 120, No. 4, October 1963.

10. _____. "Serpents and Doves: Non-Violent Youth in the South," in Youth: Change and Challenge, ed. by Erik Erikson, New York: Basic Books, 1963.

11. _____. "Social Struggle and Weariness," Psychiatry, Vol. 27, No. 4, November 1964.

12. Daly, Robert. "Psychiatry in the Deep South," American Journal of Psychiatry, Vol. 120, No. 11, May 1964.

13. Dollard, John. Caste and Class in a Southern Town. Garden City: Doubleday, 1957.

14. Elkins, Stanley. Slavery: A Problem in American Institutional and Intellectual Life. Chicago: University of Chicago, 1959.

15. Erikson, Erik H. Childhood and Society. New York: Norton, 1963.

16. _____. "Identity and the Life Cycle" in Psychological Issues. New York: International University Press, 1959.

17. _____. Young Man Luther. New York: Norton, 1958.

18. _____. Insight and Responsibility. New York: Norton, 1964.

19. Faulkner, William. The Sound and the Fury. New York: Random House, 1946.

20. _____. As I Lay Dying. New York: Random House, 1946.

21. _____. Light in August. New York: Random House, 1950.

22. Fishman, Jacob and Solomon, Fredric. "Youth and Social Action: Perspectives on the Student Sit-In Movement," American Journal of Onthopsychiatry, Vol. 33, No. 5, October 1963.

23. Freud, Anna, and Burlingham, Dorothy. War and Children. New York: International University Press, 1944.

24. Kardiner, A. and Ovesey, L. The Mark of Oppression. New York: Norton, 1951.

25. Key, V.O. Southern Politics. New York: Knopf, 1949.

26. King, Martin Luther. Stride Toward Freedom: The Montgomery Story. New York: Harper and Bros., 1958.

27. Lewis, Anthony, and The New York Times. Portrait of a Decade: The Second American Revolution. New York: Random House, 1964.

28. Muse, Benj. Ten Years of Prelude: The Story of Integration Since the Supreme Court's 1954 Decision. New York: Viking Press, 1964.

29. Myrdal, Gunnar. An American Dilemma. New York: Harper & Sons, 1962.

30. Orwell, George. The Road to Wigan Pier. New York: Harcourt, Brace and World, Inc., 1958.

31. Penn Warren, Robert. Segregation: The Inner Conflict in the South. New York, Random House, 1956.

32. Percy, William A. Lanterns on the Levee. New York: Knopf, 1959.

33. Silver, James W. Mississippi: The Closed Society. New York: Harcourt, Brace and World, Inc., 1963.

34. Smith, Lillian. Killers of the Dream. New York: Norton, 1961.

35. VonHoffman, Nicholas. Mississippi Notebook. New York: David White, 1964.

36. Welty, Eudora. Selected Stories. New York: Random House, 1943.

37. _____. Delta Wedding. New York: Harcourt, Brace and Co., 1946.

38. Woodward, C. Vann. The Strange Career of Jim Crow. New York: Oxford University Press, 1955.

39. Zinn, Howard. SNCC: The New Abolitionists. Boston: Beacon Press, 1964.

STUDENT NONVIOLENT COORDINATING COMMITTEE
6 Raymond Street, NW
Atlanta 14, Georgia
Telephone: 688-0331

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

SNCC FILM "WE'LL NEVER TURN BACK" IS RELEASED

ATLANTA, GEORGIA, August 12--The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee announced today the release of its film "We'll Never Turn Back". The film, produced by Harvey Richards of Atherton, California, has been described by the San Francisco Sun Reporter as "an extremely moving documentary film depicting the activities of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee in Mississippi." The story of Mississippi violence and the struggle to gain the right to vote is told by local citizens and SNCC workers. The San Francisco Chronicle noted that the film was "so truly moving that the British Broadcasting Corp. promptly bought it."

"We believe this film will be one of the most significant means at our disposal for helping people outside the South understand the work we are attempting to do here," commented Sandra Hayden, SNCC Northern Coordinator.

The film, which runs 24 minutes, is available free of charge from the Atlanta or New York SNCC offices or from the office of any Friends of SNCC group. Copies of the film may be purchased from Harvey Richards, 14 Flood Circle, Atherton, California. Purchase cost is $50.00.

-30-

ATLANTA PROJECT AIDS STRIKING CAR WASH WORKERS

ATLANTA, GEORGIA, August 14 -- A field worker for the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) reported the successful end of a one-day strike of female car-wash workers.

Judy Walborn, a SNCC worker who has been active in desegregation campaigns and a community improvement project with the Committee On Appeal For Human Rights - the local student sit-in group - said that woman workers at the Atlanta Car Wash voted last night to strike for higher pay and better working conditions.

After a half-day of picketing, the workers met with management and signed an agreement.

-30-

PRESS RELEASE
STUDENT NONVIOLENT COORDINATING COMMITTEE
6 Raymond Street, N.W.
Atlanta 14, Georgia
688-0331

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

SENATOR SALTONSTALL ASKS J.D.
PROBE OF SNCC WORKER'S ARREST

WASHINGTON, D.C., SEPTEMBER 20 -- Massachusetts Senator Leverett Saltonstall has asked Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy and the Civil Rights Commission to investigate the arrest in Americus, Georgia of a field secretary from the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC).

Saltonstall said in a letter to SNCC Chairman John Lewis he had asked Kennedy and the Civil Rights Commission head Berl I. Bernhard to investigate the arrest of Ralph Allen, a white SNCC worker from Melrose, Massachusetts.

Allen and two other SNCC workers was arrested August 8 in Americus. The three have been charged with attempting to incite insurrection, a capital offense in Georgia. A CORE worker, Zev Aleong, jailed in Americus on August 20, also face the insurrection charge. The SNCC workers have also been charged with unlawful assembly, and obstructing a lawful arrest. The three also face 8 peace warrants, filed against them by local Americus citizens.

In Atlanta, the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee said three Colorado lawmakers - Senators Peter Dominick and Gordon Allot and Representative Byron Rogers - had made a similar request on behalf of SNCC worker John Perdew, who is in jail with Allen. The SNCC office said New York Senator Jacob Javits and Representative William Fitts Ryan had also asked for investigations into the arrests on behalf of Don Harris of New York, the third SNCC worker held in Americus.

SNCC Chairman John Lewis said appeals in Allen's behalf had also been made to Massachusetts Senator Edward M. Kennedy and to Representative Bradford Morse.

-30-

STUDENT NONVIOLENT COORDINATING COMMITTEE
6 Raymond Street, N.W.
Atlanta 14, Georgia
Tel: 688-0331

Lena Turner, being duly sworn deposes and says:

I Lena Turner, am willing to testify in court that I saw the police of Americus, Ga., bring into the jail the beaten bodies of Milton Wilkerson, James Williams and Mr McClendon, who is 67 years old. I could clearly see that they had been beaten and told the FBI investigators that during the week of Aug. 12.

After they came in I saw Milton with blood all over his shirt. I said to Milton, "What happened?" And he said, "It was rough, it was rought." He turned his head and I could see blood all running down his face. By this time they brought James Williams in, and he was crying and moaning and the others who had been arrested crowded around him. Someone hollered out, "His leg is broken, call the cops!" The cops had gone out the back into the hall leading to the white cell. Then they stood aside and I could see him lying down on the floor. He was stretched out on the floor and I could see blood on his pants and his head was rolling from side to side. I could tell he was in pain. I was in my cell. They kept yelling and yelling that James' leg was broken and finally the cops came back with more prisoners. They were told again that his leg was broken. So they said, "Okay, all you guys who are hurt bad enough--let's go." The prisoners said, "We can't carry him, his leg is broken." Everybody crowded around him again and then moved through the back door and someone must have picked him up and carried him out.

When they came back Milton Wilkerson had his head bandaged. Mr. McClendon had a bandage on the top of his head and others had bandages on their heads and arms. You could see cuts on their arms. They were open wounds, not exactly bleeding, just that somehow the skin had been opened. It was awful. I had never seen anything like it before. The cuts looked like what you see when you go to the movies see wierd tales.

About thirty minutes before the arrests I had seen the policemen come in, go to their lockers, get their equipment. They got their hats, the kind they use to play football, the billy sticks and a box with wires and something on the front of it. One of the officers said, "You want to use that tear gas?" But I don't know whether they ever got it.

The following week of Aug. 12 I was upstairs in the courthouse cleaning the floors. Lorine Sanders and I were singing freedom songs as we mopped the floors and the men who later turned out to be the FBI men went into the courtroom. We went into courtroom and Lorine asked one of the two men for a match. He introduced himself as an FBI man by showing us his credentials. He asked us why we were there. He asked us if we were among those arrested Friday, Aug. 9. I told him that we weren't among them, but that we surely know about it. He said he already knew about it! That was the reason he was there, he said.

I then volunteered to tell him about the fact that several people had been beaten, that James Williams had his leg broken by the police and about the others, too, although I didn't actually mention their names. I did tell him that many had required stitches and gone to the hospital. I explained to him that there was a man 67 years old, Mr. McClendon, still in the city hall and that he had been beaten.

In a few minutes I saw him talk with McClenden and I saw him talk with three or four cops.

Sworn to before me this 10th day of September, 1963.

sig.: Lois Barnum Holley
Notary Public Ga. State
at large. My commission expires Aug. 29, 1967

sig.: Lena Turner

Memo . . . FROM THE DESK OF

JANET SHORTT

DATE 8/10

Pat:

Curry informs me they are selling this report for $210.00 per copy! -- to help raise money.

!

File

COMPLIMENTS OF DARBY PRINTING COMPANY

Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee

360 Nelson Street, S.W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30313

688-0331

Janet
please order 6 copies
Pat

Dear Sir,

Just off the press of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee is an exclusive comprehensive report entitled, "Stokely Carmichael Responds to Vital Questions America Asks," edited by George Curry. $2.10.

The report hits on such hard core issues as black power, integration, the use of violence, free elections, hypocrisy and civil rights legislation, S.N.C.C. 's direction, finance of SNCC, coalition, a special message to white America, and many other topics of immense concern.

For our Communications Department's special news service we charge the same rate you pay for a regular news service,

If you are interested in this report you may make requests through me.

Sincerely,

George Curry

George Curry, Editor
"Stokely Carmichael Responds to Vital Questions America Asks"

"One Man, One Vote"

WASHINGTON STUDENTS PROTEST ALABAMA RACISM

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 8 - One hundred Negro and white students from the Washington area picketed two Alabama senators yesterday here and will continue to demonstrate until "violations of humab rights cease in Alabama."

The students, from American University, George Washington University, Howard University and Catholic University, were sponsored by the Nonviolent Action Group, and affiliate of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

The student demonstrators had an open letter to Senator John Sparkman which they intend delivering in person to his home on May 10.

They also visited congressmen and senators and asked them to speak on the floor of both houses against the arrests of "Freedom Walkers" and about police brutality in Birmingham. Picketing will be held every day from 4 to 7 p.m. They are requesting that government representatives urge the release of all walkers and demonstrators in Alabama, a halt to police brutality, the guarantees of the right of peaceful protest, and the beginning of talks to end segregation.

Charles McDew, Chairman of SNCC, wired Congressmen Adam Clayton Powell, William Dawson, Charles Diggs, Robert Nix, Augustus Hawkins and Senator Jacob Javits asking them to take a public stand "in behalf of the 18 Freedom Walkers imprisoned in Alabama and on behalf of innocent Negroes being jailed and beaten in Birmingham."

-30-

Southern conference for students (Thanksgiving)

Study of Economics of the South w/ reference to creating a system of political

Why could it be held in the United States. I don't see how it could be held in the United States.

JACK

How to stay relate to each other, treat women — research etc.

Programs

1. Intensive seminar in direction of revolutionary ethics this summer to which we would invite revolutionari from Africa, Latin America. History of SNCC to be included in seminar (Mrs. Baker)

2. That our programs move in direction of independent black political organizing (Ike)

3. That we develop ways to speak to black communities about "black cutlure" specifically through a magazine or newspaper (Cobb)

4. That we set up educational workshops for students being placed on staff (Bob Smith)

5. Interstaff education workshops (Cleve)

6. Develop new Campus-oriented program (Cleve)

7. Examine concept of "independent political organizing" (Cleve)

8. Hold writers' conference in Oct. geared to Negro students who work on college newspapers (Forman).

9. Set up project in Texas (Tex)

10. Consider setting up affiliated but independent black studnet organizations with separate budget (hamlett)

11. In-group training in how certain skills are carried out efficiently, eg. typing, mimeo-ing, etc. (Monroe)

BEAUTIFUL → 12. That SNCC initiate a program of protest against the selective service system (Shutz)

→ 13. That we open projects in areas where the black populations represent less than 50% (Shutz)

14. That we set up a sel-evaluation program (Shutz)

15. That we set up some alternate source of research information so that we're not dependent upon Minnis (Shutz)

16. That SNCC make it possible for all its violent personnel to set up a violent Liberation Front (Matthew

Programs continued

17. That we
   1. Have workshops in the Audio Room on tape recording
   2. " " on use of radios in states where they are needed
   3. Make a list of counties or staff where better communication system other than telephone is needed.
   4. Have a one-week workshop on communication equipment, its importance and how to operate it

(Mr. Sellers)

18. That SNCC accept no more speaking engagements unless they are within the Negro community (Wise)

19. We should send no news to any publications except the Negro community, i.e. Africa, Latin America and Caribbean

20. We should have no news conferences except for the above mentioned groups.

21. We should not report any act of violence ever again to any official governmental agency, such reports and mechanisms for combating violence must come from communities and from ourselves.

22. We must cancel all contracts that we have with "capitalist " agencies, i.e. (insurance, tele-type,) etc.

23. We should enter no more contracts with the capitalist agencies and concentrate on making contracts with Negroe or just forget it.

24. Before we consider organizaing Negro males to evade the draft, I believe that black males in SNCC must take such a position.

25. Projects should invite African groups into their areas.

26. Printing of the Freedom Primers be stopped and that the majority of space in such publications be developed to the revolutionary thought and people before us such as Pres. Nkrumah, Malcolm X, Patrice Lumumba, Marcus Garvey, Frederick Douglas, and perhaps a few others

27. We should invite college theatical groups, spiritual groups, rock and roll groups and jazz into our areas for mass rallies, etc.

Programs continued

28. Our policy on insurrections scuh as Watts, Harlem, etc. be "pro" whatever occurs.

29. We must seek never again to involve the "Church" in our activities outside the Black community, i.e. the Catholic church

30. Psychologically, mentally, physically, we must seek to develop ties and friends among the countries of our heritage--Africa

31. None ofour forthcoming meetings should be without revolutionaries who have engaged physically in revolution, especially those from African countries.

end of Stanley's proposals

Proposal --- Fred Meely

Committees be formed within SNCC responsible to Chairman and to Executive Secretary and Executive Committee

I. National Propaganda Committee
(Chairman to be member of Ex. Com.)

A. Publications

B. Written speeches

II. National Action Committee

A. Area Coordinators

B. Sub Committees

C.

coordinate protest action

III. National Economics and Political Committees

A. Study Area (Histoyy, Economics, etc.)

Sub committee

IV. National Organizing Committee

A. Project Heads

Training sub Committee

V. International Affairs Committee

VI. Cultural Affairs Committee

VII. Welfare Committee

A. Medical Aid

B. Insuranne

C.

VIII. Skills Committee

A. College opportunities (sub committee)

B. Basic skills Committee

C. Conferences

Offices

1. That we abandon all northern offices (Porter)

2. That SNCC support a central office for project (McLauren)

3. That the Selma office be closed, and the Alabama office re located for a more equal distribution of funds and resources among Alabama projects (John Tircuit)

4. That the function of northern offices be revised to accomodate new direction in SNCC (Lyn Wells)

Miscellaneous proposals

1. Drop "non-violent" from name of organization (Ike)

2. That we appoint a Committee on Meetings and Conferences (Porter)

3. Create mechanism to interpret to sympathetic whites what SNCC is doing (Ed Hamlett)

P R E F A C E

In attempting to analyse where the movement is going, certain questions have arisen as to the future roles played by white personnel. In order to make this issue clearer, we have written a few paragraphs, stemming from our observations and experiences, which serve as a preview to a broader study on the subject.

The answers to these questions lead us to believe that the form of white participation, as practiced in the past, is now obsolete. Some of the reasons are as follows:

The inability of whites to relate to the cultural aspects of Black society; attitudes that whites, consciously or unconsciously, bring to Black communities about themselves (western superiority) and about Black people (paternalism); inability to shatter white-sponsored community myths of Black inferiority and self-negation; inability to combat the views of the Black community that white organizers, being "white", control Black organizers as puppets; insensitivity of both Black and white workers towards the hostility of the Black community on the issue of interracial "relationships" (sex); the unwillingness of whites to deal with the roots of racism which lie within the white community; whites, though individual "liberal", are symbols of oppression to the Black community -- due to the collective power that whites have over Black lives.

Because of these reasons, which force us to view America through the eyes of victims, we advocate a conscious change in the role of whites, which will be in tune with the developing self-consciousness and self-assertion of the Afro-american people.

[illegible]

In [illegible]

have [illegible] by which [illegible]

make this issue [illegible]

In concluding, we state that our position does not stem from "hatred" or "racism" against white people, but from a conscientious effort to develop the best methods of solving our national problem.

The myth that the Negro is somehow incapable of liberating himself, is lazy, etc. came out of the American experience. In the books that children read, whites are always "good" (good symbols are white), Blacks are "evil" are seen as "savages" in movies, their language is referred to as a "dialect", and Black people in this country are supposedly descended from savages.

Any white person who comes into the Movement has these concepts in his mind about Black people, if only subconsciously. He cannot escape them because the whole society has geared his subconscious in that direction.

Miss America coming from Mississippi has a chance to represent all of America, but a Black person from neither Mississippi or New York will ever represent America. So that white people coming into the Movement cannot relate to the Black experience, cannot relate to the word "black", cannot relate to the "Nitty Gritty", cannot relate to the experience that brought such a word into being, cannot relate to chitterlings, hog's head cheese, pig feet, ham hocks, and cannot relate to slavery, because these things are not a part of their experience. They also cannot relate to the Black religious experience, nor to the Black church unless, of course, this church has taken on white manifestations.

Negroes in this country have never been allowed to organize themselves because of white interference. As a result of this, the stereotype has been reinforced that Blacks cannot organize themselves. The white psychology that Blacks have to be watched, also reinforces this stereotype. Blacks, in fact, feel intimidated by the presence of whites, because of their knowledge of the power that whites have over their lives. One white person can come into a meeting of Black people and change the complexion of that meeting, whereas one Black person would not change the complexion of that meeting unless he was an obvious Uncle Tom. People would immediately start talking about "brotherhood", "love", etc.; race would not be discussed.

If people must express themselves freely, there has to be a climate in which they can do this. If Blacks feel intimidated by whites, then they are not liable to vent the rage that they feel about whites in the presence of whites---especially not the Black people whom we are trying to organize, i.e., the broad masses of Black people. A climate has to be created whereby Blacks can express themselves. The reason that whites must be excluded is not that one is anti-white, but because the efforts that one is trying to achieve cannot succeed because whites have an intimidating effect. Oft times the intimidating effect is in direct proportion to the amount of degradation that Black people have suffered at the hands of white people.

It must be offered that white people who desire change in this country should go, where that problem (of racism) is most manifest. That problem is not in the Black community. The white people should go into white communities where the whites have created power for the express of denying Blacks human dignity and self-determination. Whites who come into the Black community with ideas of change seem to want to absolve the power structure of its responsiblity of what it is doing, and saying that change can only come through Black unity, which is only the worst kind of paternalism. This is not to say that whites have not had an important role in the Movement. In the case of Mississippi, their role was very key in that they helped give Blacks the right to organize, but that role is now over, and it should be. People now have the right to picket, the right to give out leaflets, the right to vote, the right to demonstrate, the right to print.

These things which revolve around the right to organize have been accomplished mainly because oftthe entrance of white people into Mississippi, in the summer of '64. Since these goals have now been accomplished, their (whites) role in the Movement has now ended. What does it mean if Black people, once having the right to organize, are not allowed to organize themselves? It means that Black's ideas about inferiority are being reinforced. Shouldn't people be able to organize themselves? Blacks should be given this right. Further (white participation) means in the eyes of the Black community that whites are the "brains" behind the Movement and Blacks cannot function without whites. This only serves to perpetuate existing attitudes within the existing society, i.e., Blacks are "dumb", "unable to take care of business", etc. Whites are "smart", the "brains" behind everything.

How do Blacks relate to other Blacks as such? How do we react to Willie Mays as against Mickey Mantle? What is our response to Mays hitting a home-run against Mantle performing the same deed? Is our interest in baseball ordered by our appreciation of the artistry of the game, or is it ordered by the participation of Negroes in Baseball? One has to come to the conclusion that it is because of Black participation in baseball. Negroes still identify with the Dodgers because of Jackie Robinson's efforts with the Dodgers. Negroes would instinctively champion all-Black teams if they opposed all-white or predominately white teams. The same principle operates for the Movement as it does for baseball: a mystique must be created whereby Negroes can identify with the Movement.

Thus an all-Black project is needed in order for the people to free themselves. This has to exist from the beginning. This relates to what can be called "coalition politics". There is no doubt in our minds that some whites are just as disgusted with this system as we are. But it is meaningless to talk about coalition if there is no one to align ourselves with, because of the lack of organization in the white communities. There can be no talk of "hooking-up" unless Black people organize Blacks and white people organize whites. If these conditions are met, then perhaps at some later date- and if we are going in the same direction- talks about exchange of personnel, coalition, and other meaningful alliances can be discussed.

In the beginning of the Movement, we had fallen into a trap whereby we thought that our problems revolved around the right to eat at certain lunch counters or the right to vote, or to organize our communities. We have seen, however, that the problem is much deeper. The problem of this country, as we had seen it, concerned old Blacks and old whites (and therefore) if decisions were left to the young people, then solutions would be arrived at. But this negates the history of Black people and whites. We have dealt stringently with the problem of "Uncle Tom", but we have not yet gotten around to Simon Legree. We must ask ourslves who is the real villian? Uncle Tom or Simon Legree? Everybody knows Uncle Tom, but who knows Simon Legree?

So what we have now (in SNCC) is a closed society. A clique. Black people cannot relate to SNCC, because of its unrealistic, non racial atmosphere; denying their experiences of America as a racist society. In contrast, SCLC has a staff that at least maintains a Black facade. The front office is virtually all-Black, but nobody accuses SCLC of being 'racist".

If we are to proceed towards true liberation, we must cut ourselves off from white people... We must form our own institutions, credit unions, co-ops, political parties, write our own histories. One illustrating example, is the SNCC "Freedom Primer". Blacks cannot relate to that book psychologically, because white people wrote it and, therefore it presents a white viewpoint.

To proceed further, let us make some comparisons between the Black Movement of the (early) 1900's and the Movement of the 1960's -- the NAACP with SNCC. Whites subverted the Niagra Movement which, at the outset, was an all-Black Movement. The name of the new organization was also very revealing, in that it presupposed that Blacks have to be advanced to the level of whites. We are now aware that the NAACp has grown reactionary, is controlled by the power-structure itself, and stands as one of the main roadblocks to black freedom. SNCC, by allowing the whites to remain in the organization, can have its efforts subverted in the same manner, i.e., through having them play important roles such as community organizers, etc. Indigenous leadership cannot be built with whites in the positions they now hold.

These facts do not mean that whites cannot help. They can participate on a voluntary basis. We can contract work out to them, but in no way can they participate on a policy-making level.

The charge may be made that we are "racists", but whites who are sensitive to our problems will realize that we must determine our own destiny. If persons insist on remaining because of their longevity, or because they have feelings that we are indebted to them. We, as Black people, must re-evaluate our history, our ideas of self, the world, Africa and her contributions to mankind. We must take the credit for our contributions to this society and to the world. Credit will be given to white people where it is due, but surely our contributions must be given credit. These myths (of inferiority and "savagery") must be broken by Black people, so that no mistake can be made about who is accomplishing what for whom. This is one way to break the myths.

As to the charge of "Black racism", as against white supremacy: we can say that the racial makeup of any organization does not make it racist, i.e., supreme court makeup of all white judges, Black churches and Black businesses being all Black.

The naming of the newspaper, "Nitty-Gritty", which served to polarize the feelings of race, illustrated in a very graphic manner the attitudes that whites have towards cultural aspects of our society. The whites were opposed to the name and Blacks were affirmative on the issue. The alternative was the "Atlanta Voice" surely such a name could not speak to the needs of grass-roots Black people.

Black people can say to the "Nitty-Gritty": I can see myself there. Can say to Mays hitting a home run: I see myself there. Can say to the Atlanta Project: I see myself there!

In an attempt to resolve an internal crises that is now confronting SNCC, the Black-White issue (which is causing eruptions that are seriously hampering our struggle for self- determination) must now be dealt with.

In an analysis of our history in this country, we have been forced to come to the conclusion that 400 years of oppression and slavery suffered in this country by our Black forebears parallels in a very graphic way the oppression and colonization suffered by the African people. The questions can be rightfully asked, what part did the white colonizers play in the liberation of independent African Nations; who were the agitators for African independence?, Answers to those questions compel us to believe that our struggle for liberation and self- determanation can only be carried out effectively by Black people.

The necessity of dealing with the question of identity is of prime importance in our own struggle. The systematic destruction of our links to Africa, the cultural cut-off of Blacks in this country from Blacks in Africa are not situations that conscious Black people in this country are willing to accept. Nor are conscious Black people in this country willing to accept an educational system that teaches all aspects of western civilization and dismisses our Afro-American contribution with one week of inadequate information (Negro History Week) and deals with Africa not at all, Black people are not willing to align themselves with a western culture that daily emasculates our beauty, our pride and our manhood. It follows that white people being part of western civicization in a way that Black people could never be are totally indequate to deal with Black identity which is key to our struggle for self-determination.

When it comes to the question of organizing Black people, we must insist that the people who come in contact with the Black masses are not white people who, no matter what their liberal leanings are, are not equipped to dispel the myths of western superiority. White people only serve to perpetuate these myths; rather, organizing must be done by Black people are able to see the beauty of themselves, are able to see the important cultural contributions of Afro-Americans, are able to see that this country was built upon the blood and backs of our Black ancestors.

In an attempt to find a solution to ourdilema, we propose that our organization (SNCC) should be Black staffed, Black controlled and Black financed. We do not want to fall into a similar dilema that other Civil Rights organizations have fallen. If we continue to rely upon White financial support we will find ourselves wntwined in the tentacles of the white power complex that controls this country. It is also important that a Black organization (devoid of cultism) be projected to our people so that it can be demonstrated that such organizations are viable.

More and more we see Black people in this country being used as a tool of the white liberal establishment. Liberal whites have not begun to address themselves to the real problems of Black people in this country; witness their bewilderment, fear and anxiety when Nationalism is mentioned concerning Black people. An analysis of their (white liberal) reaction to the word alone (Nationalism) reveals a very meaningful attitude of whites of any ideological persuasion towards Blacks in this country. It means that previous solutions to Black problems in this country have been made in the interests of those whites dealing with those problems and not in the best interests of Black people in this country have been made in the interests of those whites dealing with those problems and not in the best interestof Black people in this country. Whites can only subvert our true search and struggle for self-determination, self-identification, and liberation in this country. Re-evaluation of the white and Black roles must NOW take place so that whites no longer designate roles that Black people play but rather Black people define white people's roles.

To long have we allowed white people to interpret the importance and meaning of the cultural aspects of our society. We have allowed them to tell us what was good about our Afro-American music, art and literature. How many Black critics do we have on the "jazz" scene? How can a white person who is not a part of the Black psyche (except in the oppressor's role) interpret the meaning of the Blues to us who are manifestations of the songs themselves?

It must also be pointed out that on whatever level of contact that Blacks and whites come together, that meeting or confrontation in not on the level of the Blacks but always on the level of whites. This only means that our everyday contact with whites is a reinforcement of the myth of white supremacy. Whites are the ones who must try to raise themselves to our humanistic level. We are not, after all, the ones who are responsible for a genocidal war in Vietnam; we are not the ones who are responsible for Neo-Colonialism in Africa and Latin America; we are not the ones who held a people in animalistic bondage over 400 years.

We reject the American Drean as defined by white people and must work to construct an American reality defined by Afro-Americans.

One point I would like to emphasis is the failure on the part of conscious whites and Blacks in dealing with the American reality in terms of differences. We are beginning to emphasize the analysis of the differences between Black and white people.

There has been an escapist attitude on the part of SNCC of looking at the problem as if race did not matter. This negates the special history of Black people in this country, mainly the slavery period and the inhuman forms of segregation we have been forced to suffer. Another important point is that most Blacks and whites tend to view Blacks in the light of the myth that the power structure has created and perpetrated in this country. Black people are considered as "citizens" along the same lines as white people in this country, when in reality, Black people are a semi-colonialized people, victims of a domestic colonialism. Our introduction into this country occured during the same time as the partition of Africa and Asia by the European powers, so that the American institution of slavery was, too, a form of Western Colonialism. Therefore Black people in this country act in the same way as do other colonial peoples to their environment and experience, but the myths of America labels them citizens which is an unreal attitude.

Also, one of the main blocks in terms of Black self-recognition and self-identification in this country has been interference from the dominant white society. From the 1900's to the present time Afro-American writers and thinkers have had to contend with the encroachment of white intellectuals upon their culture and upon their thoughts. Not only did the white intellectuals encroach upon their thought and culture but they brought to it their whole American background of racism and paternalism so that Black culture was potrayed as something being base, second-rate or below the culture of the United States, which was considered "serious" or "real". One graphic example of this is modern Afro- American music. This music which is rooted in the whole experience of our people in this country was not even named by Black people. Modern Afro-American music is named "jazz", which is a term that is derived from white American society. It is white slang for sexual intercourse; so that our music which may be called the mainstram of our culture was looked upon as being base and second-rate or dirty and containing sensousness, sexuality and other exoticisms. This however says more about the white American psyche than it does about aspects of Afro-American culture.

One of the criticisms of white militants and radicals is that when we view the masses of white people we view the overall reality of America,we view the racism, the bigotry, and the distortion of personality, we view man's inhumanity to man; we view in reality 180 million racists. The sensitive white intelectual and radical who is fighting to bring about change is conscious of this fact, but does not have the courage to admit this. When he admits this reality, then he must also admit his involvement because he is a part of the collective white America. It is only to the extent that he recognizes this that he will be able to change this reality. Another concern is how does the white radical view the Black Community and how does he view the poor white community in terms of organizing. So far, we have found that most white radicals have sought to escape the horrible reality of America by going into the Black Community and attempting to organize Black people while neglecting the organization of their own people's racist communities. How can one clean up someone else's yard when one's own yard is untidy? Again we feel that SNCC and the civil rights movement in general is in many aspects similar to the anti-colonial situations in the African and Asian countries. We have the whites in the Movement corresponding to the white civil servants and missionaries in the colonial countries who have worked with the colonial people for a long period of time and have developed a paternalistic attitude toward them. The reality of the colonial people taking over their own lives and controlling their own destiny must be faced. Having to move aside and letting this natural process of growth and development taking place must be faced. These views should not be equated with outside influence or outside agitation but should be viewed as the natural process of growth and development within a movement; so that the move by the Black militants in SNCC in this direction should be viewed as a turn towards self-determination.

It is very ironic and curious how aware whites in this country can champion anti-colonialism in other countries in Africa, Asia, and Latin America, but when Black people move towards similar goals of self-determination in this country they are viewed as racists and anti-white by these same progressive whites. In proceeding further, it can be said that this attitude derives from the overall point of view of the white psyche as it concerns the black people. This attitude stems from the era of the slave revolts when every white man was a potential deputy or sheriff or guardian of the State. Because when Black people got together among themselves to work out their problems, it became a threat to white people, because such meetings were potential slave revolts. It can be maintained that this attitude or way of thinking has perpetuated itself to this current period and that it is part of the psyche of white people in this country whatever their political persuasion might be. It is part of the white fear-guilt complex resulting from the slave revolts. There have been examples of whites who stated that they can deal with black fellows on an individual basis but become threatened or menaced by the presence of groups of Blacks. It can be maintained that this attitude is held by the majority of progressive whites in this country.

It is a very grave error to mistake Black self-assertion for racism or Black supremacy. Black people in this country more so than the colonial peoples of the world know what it means to be victims of racism, bigotry, and slavery. Realizing our predictament from these inhuman attitudes it would be ridiculous for us to turn around and perpetuate the same reactionary outlook on other people. We more than anyone else realize the importance of achieving the type of society, the type of world whereby people can be viewed as human beings. The means of reaching these goals must be, however, from the point of view of respecting the differences between peoples a and cultures and not pretending that everyone is the same and the refusal to respect differences is one of the reasons that the world is exploding today. Also expanding upon the differences among peoples and the respect it should be accorded:

if one lookes at "integration" as progress then one is really perpetuating the myth of white supremacy. One is saying that Blacks have nothing to contribute, and should be willing to assimilate into the mainstream of Great white civilization, i.e. the west.

A through re-examination must be made by black people concerning the contributions that we have made in shaping this country. If this re-examination and re-evaluation is not made, and Black people are not given their proper due and respect, then the antagonisms and contradictions are going to become more and more glaring, more and more intense until a national explosion may result.

When people attempt to move from these conclusions it would be faulty reasoning to say they are ordered by racism, because, in this country and in the west, Racism has functioned as a type of white nationalism when dealing with Black people. We all know the havoc that this has created throughout the world and particularly among non-white people in this country.

Therefore any re-evaluation that we must make will, for the most part, deal with identification. Who are Black people; what are Black people; what is their relationship to America and the World?

It must be repeated that the whole myth of "Negro Citizenship", perpetuated by the White Power Elite, has confused the thinking of radical and progressive blacks and whites in this country. The broad masses of Black people react to American Society in the same manner as colonial peoples react to the west in Africa, and Latin American, and have the same relationship - that of the colonized towards the colonizer.

File
SNCC

I have been asked to tell you tonight just what it is that Negroes want. I think I should warn you that I don't - and no one should - presume to speak for any or all of America's Negroes. Anyone who does misleads himself.

Before I can tell you what "Negroes" want, I think I'd better tell you what SNCC is, how it was organized, and what it does.

We are not a membership organization, like the NAACP, but what lawyers call a voluntary association. We were founded on Easter Weekend in 1960, at Raleigh, North Carolina, at a conference of student sit-in leaders, called by the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

You must all remember the times. "Sit-ins" were news then and you gentlemen - unknowingly - were helping to spread the movement by printing, in your papers, detailed blue-prints of "how" to hold a sit-in. I can remember sitting in a drugstore near Morehouse College here in February, 1960 and reading "The Negro college students, each well dressed and carrying a text book, entered the store and took seats. They sat quietly and did not strike back when white hoodlums attacked them."

At the Raleigh Conference, students leaders from Nashville, Louisville, Atlanta, Birmingham and other Southern cities came together and decided they needed an organization that would speak directly to their needs, an organization that would be student run and student staffed. They set up an office in Atlanta, and began to publish a newsletter. They didn't really do anything for almost a year. They did send delegations to the Democratic and Republican platform committee meetings that year, but they took no real action until January of 1961, a year after the first sit-ins. Students in Rock Hill, South Carolina, had sent SNCC a plea for help. In the past, we had responded to such pleas with an answering telegram, sort of a "We're with you" message. But this time, four members of our Executive Committee left school, went to Rock Hill, demonstrated, were arrested, and served 30 days in jail.

To me, this marked the beginning of a new phase in the movement. For the first time, people who lived in one area and who went to school in another area had gone to a third area to lend assistance to people with whom they shared a knpwledge of what it means to be black in America.

That summer, the Freedom Rides were news. SNCC became a member of the Freedom Ride Coordinating Committee, and helped to steer riders through Atlanta and Nashville and New Orleans into Jackson and Parchman Penitentiary.

That summer saw the second great change in the movement. If you remember the Freedom Rides, those who made it to Jackson and were arrested spent 49 days in jail. On the 49th day, they paid their appeal bonds and left the state, confident they would win their cases on appeal. Incidentially, the Mississippi Supreme Court is just now hearing some of those cases.

But some of them remained. We set up our first project in Southwest Mississippi, sent in student volunteer workers, lived and sweated with the farmers, sharecroppers and laborers of that state. Workers from that project moved into Albany, Georgia, and began working there, trying to persuade Southwest Georgia Negroes that politics is not "white folks business".

That was 1961. We had 16 workers then. We have 135 now, and we work in Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Mississippi, and North Carolina.

We are entering the third phase of the movement. This summer, in Mississippi, we will have over 1500 full time workers, most of them Northern college students, who will teach in Freedom Schools, work in Community Centers, register at least 400,000 Negroes on a Freedom Registration list, and will challenge the right of Mississippi's white Demonratic party to send representatives to the convention in August and to elect representatives from the state.

There are four Negroes running for Congress in Mississippi today, one in Alabama, one in Georgia and one in North Carolina.

If the Mississippi candidates lose - there are fewer than 20,000 registered Negroes in the state.- they plan to challenge, on the floor of the House and Senate, the right of Senator Stennis and Representative Whitten to represent only the white voters in their state.

We have begun a campaign - in Mississippi and across the South - which we call "one man - one vote". By this we mean that all prerequisites to voting - especially literacy - should be removed and the only requirements should be residence and age.

In other words, we don't think Mississippi should refuse to give Negroes andequal education, and then require them to be literate before they can vote.

The United States Department of Justice agrees with our "one man - one vote" program. They have pending now in the federal courts a suit which would declare Mississippi's literacy requirements unconstitutional, because Negroes in that state - and other states- are denied the opportunity to become literate.

Certainly one dpesn't need to know how to read or write to be able to choose intelligently the best - or worse - of two candidates for public office.

We've discovered ~~that~~ - and the Justice Department has also - that literacy requirements are being administered unfairly in the South, and that white illliterates are being allowed to vote.

The Mississippi Summer Program and the "One Man One Vote" slogan mean two things.

First, that the ordinary avenues of social shange - the courts, institutionalized education, persuasion, the ballot even protests - will not work in the deep South. The forces of reaction and repression are too strong in Mississippi and Alabama and rural Georgia to permit these forces to operate freely. There have been five murders in Southwest Mississippi since December, and cross burnings across the state. The Ku Klux Klan is re-organizing in Mississippi, an indication that the more respectable methods of the White Citizens Councils are not sure enough, or brutal enough.

Second, it means that a regular voter registration drive - like that going on in Atlanta now - will not work in the face of ~~imposed and~~ arbitrarily administered literacy tests, of police repression of voter registration drives, of police state tactics aimed at halting all legitimate voter registration activity. It means the Federal government is either unable or unwilling to move forcibly against Southern registrars and Southern law enforcement officials - under exisiting laws - to prosecute and restrain inteference with legitimate voting activity. It means that ~~subtle~~ subtle patterns of disrcimination must be proved, suits must be filed, testimony heard, judgements made, by racist judges in a hostile situation.

It means that the federal government has failed its responsibility. It means that the federal government - or President Johnson, to be more explicit, must act to insure that Negroes in the deep South have the right to vote, the right to peacefully assemble, and the right petition their government for a redress of greievances.

It means that this summer - with 1,000 white and Negro workers doing in Mississippi the things people are allowed to do in most other states in the union - may provide the first real test of the government's willingness or reluctance to insure that democracy, in this country, is for everyone.

The ~~I can~~ only answers I can give you when you ask what Negroes want, is to ask you, what do you want?

You want a job, the right to vote, the chance at a decent education, a chance at every thing every other American has a chance to get.

You want to know that your country respects you as a person, and that your country will back you up when your rights are in danger.

You want the right to eat where you choose, to buy a home anywhere you can afford to, and to earn enough money to buy that home.

You want to know that when you go downtown in Atlanta you don't have to go to Rich's or a dime store to get something to eat, but that if your clothes are neat and you have money in your pocket, you can go anywhere and order anything.

I think you all ~~wanted~~ want to be treated decently. You want to know that the Constitution means you, too.

File
Civil Rights Organizations = CRIS

C I V I L R I G H T S I N F O R M A T I O N S E R V I C E
1810 N. Larrabee St. Chicago 14, Illinois 312/ 664-8707

Dear Friend,

This is to announce the formation of the Civil Rights Information Service, an organization which intends to function as a central clearing house for news of the civil rights movement in the United States. It is the purpose of the service to exploit all possible communications techniques in an effort to remedy the generally acknowledged insufficiency of civil rights coverage in the conventional news media.

To begin with, we have set up an audio news service, a facility for providing radio stations with on-the-spot news of civil rights activity all over the country. The substance of these reports is tape recorded telephone interviews with persons involved in or affected by (or resisting) specific protest actions wherever they occur. Certain technical innovations and the extensive cooperation of the telephone company make it possible for us to make in-person reports available to broadcasters over the phone with little or no delay, thereby providing the radio audience with current and sustaining coverage of developments in the movement as they occur. This service is already being used by nine stations in eight cities.

Another immediately contemplated CRIS project is the inception of a weekly or biweekly newsletter, composed of written communications from persons involved in the movement, whoever and wherever they may be; a newspaper, so to speak, consisting entirely of letters to the editor and want-ads; devoted to reports, impressions, information, requests, announcements, etc. - whatever, subject to practical limitations, movement people may have to say to each other in print. This newsletter will be the subject of a further communication in the near future.

A third project already under way is the establishment of a teletype service which will provide a daily national roundup of civil rights activity to all public (TWX Public Teletype System) subscribers. This service will be begun as soon as available resources permit.

It will readily be seen that such a service cannot hope to function without the active participation and support of the people and organizations involved in the struggle for civil rights We are able only to provide a central connecting point for the collection and distribution of news and information. We must look to the people in the movement for our material, with the idea that we can build a network of contacts within local civil rights organizations, on whom we can rely as reporters. It is furthermore our belief that by thus dealing with the news directly from its actual sources, rather than through the agency of what are called disinterested observers, we can better serve the interests of both the movement and the public.

Such services as it can muster will be offered by CRIS free of charge, and we must regretfully announce that we are entirely dependent on the contributions of interested parties for our financial support. We have an application before the Internal Revenue Service for tax exempt status, and while it is pending we are known as the Civil Rights Information Service Administration Fund. Our needs are modest but will be continuing, and our success depends absolutely on the interest and support of all freedom fighters. Accordingly we hereby invite comments, suggestions and, above all, contributions, from all concerned.

Sincerely,

Robert C. McNamara
Director

NOTICES

Sam Lynde of 892 Oak St., Winnetka, Ill., who is Chairman of the Winnetka Human Relations Committee is attempting to organize forty of the spontaneously formed human relations groups in the Chicago area. He asks that anyone with practical experience in organizing coordinating councils of such pro-civil rights homeowners groups to write him detailed suggestions.

Arthur Evans, Chairman of Cleveland CORE, wants information in the form of studies and research on the psychological effects of de facto school segregation. Write him at 1740 Crawford, Cleveland, Ohio.

COFO wants a fairly accurate polling of the number of workers planning to go to Mississippi this summer. Church groups, news organizations, and student groups sending people there should write to Robert Wylde , 1017 Lynch St., Jackson, Miss., the COFO Headquarters. COFO is the "Umbrella Group" that was founded late last year by SNCC leader Robert Moses to coordinate all Mississippi educational and voter registration efforts.

Mary King at SNCC in Atlanta asks for ideas on where to place articles on the Mississippi Summer Project. She also asks the people to read the April 11 New Yorker piece on the Free Southern Theater Project and the coming Redbook article on SNCC Southwest Georgia Director, Don Harris. Write her at 8½ Raymond St., N.W., Atlanta, Georgia.

SZOO

We, the . . . . students who make up the staff of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, and the thousands that make up its base, have staked our lives on the principle that an interracial democracy can be made to work in this country, even in the fields, bayous, and deltas of our deep South.

We have not spared ourselves in attempting to make that faith good. We call on the federal government to do likewise. We would have it understood that we are not calling on the country for what she might do for us, but rather to inform her of what she must be prepared to do for herself.

. . . from S N C C testimony, before the House Judiciary Committee,
May, 1963

HISTORY

The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee was born out of the history-making sit-in movement that erupted across the South in the spring of 1960. At Easter of that year, the first southwide meeting of sit-in leaders was held in Raleigh, North Carolina. Here a temporary committee to promote communication and coordination of activities among protest groups was set up. This Committee met monthly during the summer, opened an office in Atlanta, and at a second conference held in Atlanta, October, 1960, the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee was formally organized. One representative from each Southern state and the District of Columbia made up the Coordinating Committee.

Participation in the Freedom Rides in 1961 and a growing sense of the depth of fear that shackled most Negroes of the South convinced SNCC leaders that some one would have to TAKE the freedom movement to the millions of exploited, disfranchised and degraded Negroes of the Black Belt. . . .

SNCC DID JUST THAT.

. . . August, 1961—SNCC launched its first voter-registration project . . . choosing Walthall, Pike and Amite Counties of Mississippi.—This sparked nonviolent direct action by hundreds of high-school students in McComb, Miss., and led to the development of a statewide voter registration program, recently dramatized by the use of snarling police dogs to stop Negroes from registering in Greenwood, Mississippi.

. . . October, 1961—SNCC workers went to Albany, Georgia, and became the catalytic fuse for the massive protests of the Albany Movement.

. . . By November, 1961, some sixteen students had volunteered to take out a year or more from school to work in the hard-core rural areas for subsistence only.

SAVANNAH, GA.

PROGRAM

SNCC's grass-roots approach is designed to .
college and high school campuses, and in local c

 * * In recruiting potential student leaders work in rural communities, SNCC hopes to bri
the work-a-day communities.

 * * SNCC workers have organized and guid identified as SNCC projects. This is part of its ening indigenous leadership.

This program has captured the imagination c than 150 SNCC field secretaries are symbols of often tedious and tiring, and always dangerous wo
Mississippi—Southwest Georgia—Central Ala

These students work for subsistence salaries wh chopped cotton and picked squash to secure food.
of local residents, for the weeks and months that a and intimidation. The students' courage helps em strength to act. Sustained personal contact, discuss with them and their problems, give the local people he advocates. The people then begin to gain eno their rights.

In the community SNCC workers organize fo registration efforts give disenfranchised Negroes t denied this right since Reconstruction. And, fully of the meaning of first class citizenship, develops and support among people who too often have be

As of summer, 1963, SNCC had initiated an 49 cities in 13 states. . . .

ATLANTA, GA.

. . . . build indigenous, trained leadership . . . on communities . . .

s from college campuses and sending them to ridge the gap between centers of learning and ided local protest movements which are never s program of developing, building, and strength-of students all over the country, and today more of courage and dedication as they undertake the vork, in the most difficult areas of the South. . . .

labama—Eastern Arkansas—Southern Virginia hen funds are available, but at times they have

d. They live in the community, often in the homes are required to break through generations of fear merging leaders achieve a new self image and the ssion and persuasion and his determination to stay le confidence in the SNCC worker and the program ough confidence in themselves to seek and assert or voter registration and direct action. SNCC voter the right to vote in areas where they have been as important, the program deepens an awareness a community of action, and creates mutual trust een suspicious and divided by fear.

nd participated in . . . . direct action campaigns in

THE FUTURE...

The future means redoubled efforts to continue . . .

—introducing educated and determined young workers into hard core areas;

—maintaining a college contact that leads to militant action in cities and provides new recruits for full time work.

The future means . . .

—expanding our pilot voter registration projects in cities to provide workers in surrounding counties.

—finding more funds to support students willing to work at subsistence wages and share the life of the Southern rural Negro while trying to convince him of his rights.

—providing more and better workshops and conferences on the meaning and techniques of nonviolent community action and political involvement.

Change will be slow, but change must take place. SNCC will need three times our current staff to do the job we have only begun. We will also need three times our current budget.

The future means your support . . .

—in contributions and in stimulating your local community to break down every form of racial discrimination now.

—in letting us know how we can help you and how you can help us.

DANVILLE, VA.

WE BELIEVE AND WE ASK YOU TO BEL

ELIEVE WITH US: WE SHALL OVERCOME!

SNCC

SNCC: Structure and Leadership

The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee is not a membership organization, but rather an agency attempting to stimulate and foster the growth of local protest movements.

The Coordinating Committee itself consists of representatives of protest groups which meet regularly to formulate strategy. The Committee elects an executive committee, which is responsible for employing staff and overseeing the general program.

Chairman: JOHN LEWIS
Executive Secretary: JAMES FORMAN
Staff Coordinator: WORTH LONG
Communications Director: JULIAN BOND Project Directors:
Mississippi: ROBERT MOSES
Southwest Georgia: CHARLES SHERROD
Central Alabama: BERNARD LAFAYETTE
Arkansas: WILLIAM HANSEN
Eastern Shore: REGINALD ROBINSON

Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee
8½ Raymond Street, N. W., Atlanta 14, Georgia
Telephone: 688-0331

Photos: Danny Lyon
August, 1963

NEWS RELEASE
STUDENT NONVIOLENT COORDINATING COMMITTEE
6 Raymond Street, N. W.
Atlanta 14, Georgia
688-0331

For Immediate Release

SNCC WORKER BEATEN IN SELMA, ALABAMA

SELMA, ALABAMA, JUNE 12 - A young minister, brutally beaten here last night because of his voter registration activities, has vowed to continue his drive to get Negroes registered to vote.

Reverend Bernard Lafayette, clubbed three times last night by a white man who had asked him to give his car a push, said from a hospital here that he would continue his work. His head wounds required six stitches. Lafayette, a field secretary for the Atlanta-based Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), has been working here with his wife since February. He said today that over 190 Negroes had registered since February.

The Lafayettes' have also been working in neighboring Wilcox County where no Negroes had even made registration attempts before they set up voter schools.

Lafayette said he was parking his car in front of his house when one of two white men parked across the street asked him to give them a push. He agreed, and when he bent over to see if his car's bumpers would match, he was slugged three times. When he tried to rise, he was hit again.

In Atlanta, the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee protested the beating to Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy. The SNCC office asked Kennedy to send Federal Marshalls to Dallas County, to "protect Negro citizens and voter registration workers."

The SNCC office also protested the jailing and beating of seven voter registration workers arrested in Winona, Mississippi on Sunday.

-30-

SNCC WORKERS JAILED IN ALABAMA

GADSDEN, ALABAMA, JUNE 12 - Two field secretaries from the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) were jailed here today during anti-segregation demonstrations.

Arrested were: Eric Rainey and Landy McNair. Both were leading a march through downtown Gadsden, climaxing the third day of anti-segregation protests here. Charges against them could not be learned.

-30-

SNCC COMMITTEE HOLDS ATLANTA MEET

ATLANTA, GEORGIA - The Coordinating Committee of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee will meet in Atlanta this weekend, June 14 - 16.

V.E.P.
VOTER EDUCATION PROJECT, INC. • 5 FORSYTH STREET N.W. ATLANTA, GA. 30303 (404) 522-7495

June 4, 1971

Mr. Robert Keighton
Curry College
Milton, Massachusetts 02186

Dear Mr. Keighton:

In regard to your request for permission to use material from Negroes and the New Southern Politics by Donald R. Matthews and James W. Prothro, Harcourt, Brace and World, Inc., owns the copyright to this publication, and permission would have to come directly from them. A credit line naming the authors, the Voter Education Project of the Southern Regional Council, Inc., and Harcourt, Brace and World, Inc., copyrighted 1966, should be acceptable to them.

When your college textbook, One Nation, is published, we would appreciate receiving a copy for the Voter Education Project, and one for the Southern Regional Council, which are now separate organizations.

If we can be of further assistance, please let us know.

Sincerely yours,

(Mrs.) Janet C. Shortt
Administrative Secretary

jcs

cc: SRC – Research Dept.

The Voter Education Project, Inc.

A New South

During the 1960's black Americans in the South made remarkable gains in their struggle for full citizenship and the right to participate meaningfully in the political process. Registration of black voters more than doubled; the number of black elected officials increased over six-fold; and many white officials have begun to display greater sensitivity to black constituents.

These are extremely important accomplishments. It is crucial, however, to recognize just where they have brought us. The fetters of political acquiescence have been shattered. The march toward an equal share of political power has begun. Many barriers, particularly the most blatant ones, have been overcome. Yet, the goal of a truly representative system of government is still distant.

If we fail to realize how incomplete this movement now is and do not attend to the remaining needs, the accomplishments thus far may turn out to be an empty achievement, a cruel hoax leading to the final embitterment of those who have invested so much faith and work in trying to make democracy a reality.

Julian Bond, Ben Brown, Bobby Hill, and Bill Alexander, four of the fifteen black members of the Georgia legislature.

Fred Gray, one of two black members of Alabama legislature, addressing VEP-sponsored statewide meeting of black elected officials in Montgomery.

We must not allow this to happen. All of us who are concerned about the health and justice of this society must support those men, women, and children who are still struggling for some control over their destinies in urban ghettos, small towns, and rural areas all over the South. Their progress during the last decade was one of the most promising developments in this troubled land. This promise must be fulfilled. The Voter Education Project, Inc., is dedicated to this mission.

Jefferson Davis HOTEL

The Voter Education Project

The Voter Education Project (VEP) was created in 1962 as part of the Southern Regional Council, Inc., a bi-racial organization devoted to equal opportunities for all peoples of the South. In June 1970 VEP separated from the Council and became an independent corporation with its own tax-exempt status. This separation was prompted by certain provisions of the 1969 Tax Reform Law.

VEP was established to investigate the causes and remedies of low political participation by southern blacks. By using the method of direct grants for voter registration drives, VEP was able to promote greater participation and also document the problems and progress of these activities. Voter registration continues as a major concern of VEP, but recently attention has also been given to citizenship education and assistance to black elected officials.

VEP works primarily out of Atlanta, but there are state VEP offices in Arkansas, North Carolina, and South Carolina. VEP also sponsors college-related service centers for elected officials in Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, and Mississippi.

Voter Registration

When VEP began its work in 1962, less than a million-and-a-half black voters were registered in the eleven states of the Old Confederacy. By 1971 the number had passed three million. During this period VEP made thousands of grants to communities throughout the region to support the voter registration drives which brought about this change.

Today there are still approximately two million voting-age blacks who are unregistered, not including those under twenty-one years of age. Clearly the work is not finished. Many areas of the South were relatively untouched by the movement of the last decade; other areas face the necessity of re-registering when redistricting takes place. While most of the blatant obstacles of an earlier day have been destroyed, there remain in many places subtle but effective hindrances to registration of black people. Financial and technical support of local groups is still needed, if the proportion of eligible blacks who are registered is to equal the registration percentages of other groups in the population.

VEP is also beginning to expand its registration activities into Mexican-American and poor white communities. And VEP will be sponsoring registration programs aimed at the newly enfranchised youth between eighteen and twenty years old.

Groups receiving grants from VEP differ widely in their make-up; some are temporary ad hoc organizations, while others are local branches of national organizations. Grant applicants must indicate the need for registration in their area, the methods they will use, and the nature of their organization. The typical grant ranges from one to two thousand dollars and helps defray the unavoidable costs of training workshops, publicity, canvassing, and transportation to registration offices.

Grant recipients are instructed that no funds can be used for partisan purposes, and they must submit weekly financial and program reports. VEP staff members monitor and assist these groups during the period of the registration drive.

Citizenship Education

Registration to vote is indispensable to political participation, but by itself it is not enough. Persons who have long been excluded from the political process need instruction in the ways this process works. They need to be informed of their rights and the procedures used in exercising and protecting these rights. They need information about the nature and operation of various government offices and programs. They need to be acquainted with how their participation may influence the manner in which government affects their lives.

VEP has promoted citizenship education of this kind through the sponsorship of workshops and conferences and the production of written and audio-visual materials. VEP believes there must be greatly increased attention to such educational services if the expanded suffrage is to yield meaningful returns.

7 PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS
YES
NO
YES
NO
OFFICIAL BALLOT
FULTON COUNTY, GEORGIA
GENERAL ELECTION
NOVEMBER 3, 1970
TO CONTINUE VOTING GO TO NEXT PAGE

Assistance To Elected Officials

One of the dramatic and rewarding results of the expanded black suffrage in the South is the increasing number of blacks elected to public office. This number climbed above 650 in the 1970 elections. Since blacks were excluded from political office in the past, most of these newly-elected men and women lack governmental experience. Also many of them must operate in still hostile environments. And the resources available to most of their white counterparts are not so accessible to them.

Thus there is a real need and justification for various kinds of assistance to these black officials. It is critical that they be given every opportunity to demonstrate that the election of blacks to public office can bring significant benefits to their constituents. Otherwise, it will be hard to maintain the belief that adherence to the rules of the political system is a fruitful activity for poor and aggrieved people.

As these needs have emerged in recent years, the Voter Education Project has tried to develop programs to meet them. Conferences and workshops have been held. Materials have been distributed. Legal and professional consultation has been supplied. Interns have been provided.

On four predominantly black college campuses, Centers for Elected Officials have been established. They are located at Clark College in Atlanta, Miles College in Birmingham, Southern University in Baton Rouge, and Tougaloo College in Jackson. They are designed not only to serve the needs of elected officials, but also to involve students and faculty in this undertaking. Assistance to officials in other states is conducted by the VEP office in Atlanta and the state VEP offices in Arkansas, North Carolina, and South Carolina.

The resources presently available to assist minority group officials are not adequate even for the current number, and this number is certain to grow each year. In addition to providing these officials with a proper orientation to their new positions, there is an urgent need to give them technical assistance in their efforts to tap the only source of large-scale aid for their communities—federal assistance programs.

Workshop for Coroners, sponsored by VEP.

Sheriff John Hulett (L.) and deputy, Lowndes County, Alabama. Hulett is one of four black sheriffs recently elected in Alabama.

Research

VEP maintains statistics on registration and voting, data on black elected officials, and other information concerning black political participation in the South. VEP also undertakes on occasion in-depth studies of elections or other events which promise to reveal more about the problems and progress of this participation. This research not only is useful to the other functions of VEP, but it has become the main source of such information for government agencies, the news media, scholars, and others.

Reports From Recent VEP-Sponsored Projects

"A 93 year old woman was registered for the first time. Said she was glad to be able to vote before she dies."

Ripley, Tennessee
August 1970

"A 70 year old man said that he had gone to register a long time ago, but because of the inhuman treatment he received and the literacy test, he was just afraid to go back and try again."

Coahoma County, Mississippi
September 1970

"I went into the Register's office with 5 people Saturday morning. Four walked out, one got registered, they was afraid that the Plantation owner would make them move or maybe the Welfare would cut them off, someone must have said something to them."

Sharkey County, Mississippi
March 1969

"Some persons feared going out of there area to register. They feared taking a test, the publicity of being there, trouble they may cause, losing there jobs if they would get off to register, and the long ways over town."

Moore County, North Carolina
April 1969

"Our only registration day is the second Saturday in each month from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. We asked for two extra days but did not get them.

Amelia. Virginia
September 1970

"This project represented a new involvement of a segment of the poor community which has never been involved in political affairs and were never thought about by prior political leadership."

Laurinburg, North Carolina
April 1969

"We know there is only two things the white man know, and that is the ballot and dollar, he understand both very well. He has done a good job of selling them the idea that their ballot does not mean anything. I long to see the Negro wake up and take his rightful place in this America."

Baton Rouge, Louisiana
August 1969

"There is not a water or sewage system there, nor do they have a paved street in the Black vicinity. They invited the Mayor for the July 7 meeting, he failed to respond."

Lincoln County, Arkansas
July 1969

VEP's Future

Virtually all of VEP's funding in the past has come from foundations. In 1969 the Tax Reform Law greatly restricted the use of tax-exempt funds for voter registration activities. Among the new conditions are requirements that an organization must operate in five or more states and in more than one electoral period. VEP is one of the few organizations in the country which is able to comply with these requirements. Another new condition is that no more than twenty-five percent of an organization's budget can come from a single source. This means that VEP cannot rely on one or two large foundations for the bulk of its support.

Thus VEP must broaden its base of support if the continuation and expansion of its programs is to be assured. Efforts are being made to find new contributors not only among foundations and corporations, but also among private citizens throughout the country.

VEP is confident that progressive individuals and groups will support the efforts to achieve real democracy in the South. This nation cannot allow the 1970's to become a time of retreat from the needs and promises that face it.

You can help support the programs of VEP by sending a contribution to the address below. Donations are tax deductible.

Voter Education Project, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Board of Directors of the Voter Education Project, Inc.

PRESIDENT
Donald L. Hollowell
Regional Director
Equal Employment Commission
Atlanta, Georgia

VICE PRESIDENT
Frank Smith
Director
Tennessee Valley Authority
Knoxville, Tennessee

SECRETARY
Joan Cashin
Community Leader Huntsville, Alabama

TREASURER
The Hon. Henry Marsh
Vice-Mayor
Richmond, Virginia

LEGAL COUNSEL
Joseph F. Haas
Attorney-at-Law
Atlanta, Georgia

Vivian W. Henderson
President,
Clark College
Atlanta, Georgia

John H. Wheeler
President
Mechanics and Farmers Bank
Durham, North Carolina

James E. Youngdahl
Attorney-at-Law
Little Rock, Arkansas

Hodding Carter, III
Editor, Delta-Democrat Times
Greenville, Mississippi

Raymond M. Wheeler
Physician
Charlotte, N.C.

Harry Huge
Attorney-at-Law
Washington, D.C.

John Ruffin, Jr.
Attorney-at-Law
Augusta, Georgia

James H. Chubbuck
Director
Institute of Politics
Loyola University
New Orleans, Louisiana

The Hon. Julian Bond
Georgia House of Representatives
Atlanta, Georgia

Robert J. Palmer Businessman
Sumter, South Carolina

John Lewis
Executive Director

Organizer of Nashville student "sit-in" movement in 1960. One of original "Freedom Riders" in 1961. National Chairman of Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, 1963-66. One of leaders of 1963 March on Washington and 1965 March from Selma to Montgomery. Associate Director of Field Foundation, 1966-67. Community Organization Project Director for Southern Regional Council, 1967-70.

VOLUME XLVII

The Reader's Digest

An article a day of enduring significance, in condensed permanent booklet form

Humbly starting with $1.65 and a vision, Laurence Clifton Jones has enriched the lives of thousands of Negroes

The Little Professor of Piney Woods

Condensed from The Rotarian

NELSON ANTRIM CRAWFORD

A HUSKY black boy of 13 lifted a gunny sack to the top of the teacher's desk. Behind the desk the short, scholarly-looking Negro glanced up.

"What is it, son?" he asked with a smile.

"Sweet 'taters — they's all Ah got," answered the boy. "Pappy says Ah needn't to come here without no money, but preachah says you'd take me. Ah'll wuhk hahd to learn things." He wriggled his bare toes in an agony of uncertainty.

"Of course I'll take you," said the teacher. "Nobody's ever been turned away from Piney Woods School because he hadn't any money."

Today, grown to manhood, that boy, R. P. McGhee, is head of the manual-training department in a Mississippi Negro high school. "I'd be an ignorant field hand if it hadn't been for the Little Professor of Piney Woods — and so would a lot of the boys I've taught," says McGhee. "He taught me to do things. What's more, he inspired me to help other people do things."

"The Little Professor" is Laurence Clifton Jones, Missouri-born, northern-educated Negro, who turned his back on good jobs and comfortable living to bring practical education and opportunity to members of his race in the most backward region he could find. In 1909 he founded Piney Woods Country Life School, near Jackson, Miss., on a pine stump with three illiterate pupils and $1.65 cash. The school now has a $250,000 plant, 1700 acres of well-tended land, and an enrollment of 440 pupils ranging in age from six to 40, drawn from 15 states and one foreign country. It has sent out to rural communities thousands of trained farmers, mechanics and housekeepers and hundreds of practical, competent teachers. In addition it has carried the gospel of good farming, healthful homemaking, sensible religion and stimulating social life to Negroes for miles around.

The only Negro in his class, at Copyright 1945, Rotary International, 35 E. Wacker Drive, Chicago 1, Ill.

(The Rotarian, October, '45)

44

1

the University of Iowa, Laurence Jones was a favorite of faculty and students because of his musical and dramatic talent, his scholastic ability and his sterling character. When he was graduated in 1907, the white owner of the hotel where he had worked as night clerk was ready to set him up in business. Fathers of wealthy classmates offered him positions. One wanted to finance a dramatic and musical career for him.

But the young man had his mind made up. "I want to do something for my people," he said.

He went to the deep South, where he had never been before, and worked as a farm hand, a cattle herder, a porter. In the heart of the piney woods, 25 miles south of Jackson, he found hundreds of blacks who sharecropped cotton, watched over a few razorback hogs, drank corn liquor hot from the still. They were 80 percent illiterate.

Here Jones started teaching, his pupils three illiterate boys. He made his living picking cotton and peas and cutting hay. When he tried to interest Negroes in the region he met suspicion and misunderstanding. They didn't want education, especially from a "furriner." Within three months, however, his pupils showed off their newly acquired learning so well that he had 29 students. A well-to-do Negro in the community donated a tumble-down cabin and 40 acres of land. Jones and his pupils fixed up the old cabin for a schoolhouse and living quarters for himself. The county board of education appropriated $18 a month.

As the school grew, another building was needed. Jones approached a wealthy white mill owner, who listened to his story and said: "I've always claimed it was plumb silly to try to educate these Negroes. But, young man, you've got guts and a practical idea. I'll give you 10,000 feet of lumber, and you can have credit for any more you need."

Other white men made contributions. The Negroes gave their mites. With their own hands Jones and his students put up a substantial building. Enrollment leaped to 85. The 40-acre tract was planted to corn and garden truck. When a white farmer gave the school a Duroc-Jersey sow that was about to farrow, the professor and his pupils built a hog-tight fence — a lesson to a community where swine were allowed to run wild. Jones was soon able to devote the arithmetic lessons to figuring profits from good crops and well-cared-for livestock, and the English classes to essays about sound farming.

Then one day two brothers, who were members of the college fraternity where Jones had waited on table, paid a surprise visit. "I made up my mind to ask for $100," Jones says, "but before I could get my courage up, one of them said, 'We own 800 acres near your school. If you want that land, it's yours.' "

A local family started a fine herd of purebred Ayrshires for the school, and a retired businessman whose hobby was orcharding gave 500 fruit and pecan trees. More gifts arrived daily — clothing which the students made over, bedding, old furniture, a plow.

Money came in, too, but not fast enough. Jones organized a group of singers from the student body, built a makeshift bus on an old chassis, and took them over the country giving concerts. At Marshalltown, Iowa, where he had grown up, the Rotary Club sponsored a concert and cleared $1000 for the school. Jones wrote a song, "Sweet Memories of Dixie," which brought in enough money to provide for 40 penniless boys and girls. He gave Chautauqua lectures, and organized a semipro baseball team that earned money for Piney Woods by playing in many communities.

Now, in addition to a fine farm which produces 60 percent of the food consumed by the students, the school has five handsome brick buildings and 20 frame structures. Students made the brick, cut the lumber and put up the buildings.

From the beginning Jones's formula has been: Teach boys and girls how to work with their hands so they will be able to make a living, academic subjects to make them articulate and adjusted to American culture, and sane moral and religious training as a substitute for superstition and fear. Today 30 teachers, mostly Negro, offer first-class vocational training in agriculture, carpentry, plumbing and steamfitting, auto mechanics, masonry, printing, cooking, sewing, laundry work, bookkeeping, stenography. Every student must learn at least two trades, so that if work is scarce in one he can turn to the other. Courses range from primary grades through junior college.

The students learn by doing. They milk 50 cows daily, learn modern farm methods such as terracing and contour plowing, and experiment in growing tung trees and kudzu. From the school garden they put up 15,000 quarts of fruit and vegetables each year. The girls make out menus, cook and serve the meals.

On a press obtained for the school by C. W. Winn, the white publisher of the Brandon (Miss.) News, students in printing get out two papers, one for themselves, one for distribution to friends of the school. There is no piece of machinery on the campus that students in mechanics cannot repair. Piney Woods boys can roof a building or grind a valve, build a kitchen cabinet or weld a broken iron rod.

A blind colored girl who had formerly begged for a living learned chair caning at Piney Woods. Other blind children followed her example. One of the teachers studied Braille. Now there are 26 blind students. Every blind boy or girl who has gone out from the school is self-supporting.

Seriously crippled children are also trained at the school. Beatrice Price, crippled by infantile paralysis, became an expert seamstress. John Gilmore, legless, is now telephone supervisor in a New Orleans factory.

Commencement exercises at Piney Woods are like those in no other school in America. For example, Milton Weathersby, valedictorian of the Class of 1945, spoke for three minutes of Negro opportunities, then took off his dark-blue cap and gown and stood in overalls. "Bring in the pig," he called out.

Two colored youngsters brought in a young Duroc-Jersey and laid it on a table. "I am going to demonstrate how to vaccinate against hog cholera," Weathersby said. As he explained the process and its scientific basis, he took a syringe and plunged the needle into the pig's shoulder so skillfully that the animal made no sound.

Lenora Collins, salutatorian, laundered and ironed a blouse that would have taxed the skill of an expert. Gertrude Adams canned a mess of beans in a modern pressure cooker, while Epsy Jane Johnson canned tomatoes by the hot-water-bath method. A group of girls exhibited a luncheon set made from flour sacks, sheets made from bleached feed bags. Every one of the 27 graduates presented something that could be used to improve the life of the vast Negro population of the region.

Piney Woods has never departed from its original ideal of education for poor children. If a boy or girl can pay, the charge, including board and room, is $20 a month. Most of the students pay what they can and earn the rest of their way by working.

Through the extension department of the school — reaching 15,000 Negroes annually — and the influence of its graduates, three fourths of the colored farmers in two adjacent counties own land, as against less than five percent when Piney Woods was started. Twenty home-economics graduates are now housekeepers for well-to-do families, at $75 to $175 a month. Others teach in 26 states.

Georgie L. Myers, a member of the first graduating class, started teaching a one-room country school. She and her pupils gave entertainments, made and sold candy, picked peas, begged contributions, and erected a three-room schoolhouse costing $2500. She repeated this achievement in two other communities. The counties, seeing what she had done, furnished funds to maintain the schools adequately.

Bettye Mae Jack, graduate of Piney Woods and of the University of Chicago, has for eight years been supervisor of three Negro high schools and 46 grade schools in Scott County, Mississippi.

Small wonder that Piney Woods has won the continued confidence and support of white and Negro alike. And small wonder that Laurence Clifton Jones is called "one of the first citizens of Mississippi" by Dr. J. S. Vandiver, state superintendent of public instruction.

I asked the Little Professor how he managed to persevere through the long years of his early struggles. He smiled.

"I just kept on praying as if everything depended on God, and kept on working as if everything depended on me. You can't get discouraged if you do that."

Politics } =

CIO

Copyright, 1946
The CIO NEWS

August 19,

SPECIAL SUPPLEMENT PREPARED BY CIO

VOTING RECORDS

19, 1946

O & CIO POLITICAL ACTION COMMITTEE

BREAK REACTION'S GRIP

WHAT THE SENATE DID

"This last Congress did a bum job. I'm here to say that the next one had better be better!"

A Note of Explanation...

THIS is a record of the 79th Congress that failed to act on many of the most important issues affecting the welfare of the people. Congress mangled price control. It looked the other way on housing. It buried health and minimum wage legislation. It refused even to debate the question of an extended Fair Employment Practices Committee, to abolish racial discrimination. It failed to act on the anti-polltax bill. It watered down the full employment bill.

The 79th Congress was pleasing to the Natl. Assn. of Manufacturers. Congress adopted 11 bills which NAM supported; Congress defeated 10 bills which the NAM opposed.

The American people fared less well at the hands of the law makers than did the powerful NAM. Between now and November the people must rally their forces. Labor, farmers, consumers, small businessmen, professional people—all must turn to political action to make sure that the next session of Congress will heed their plight and act in their behalf.

This special supplement was prepared by the CIO Legislative and Publicity Depts. and the CIO-Political Action Committee, as a weapon in the coming battle of ballots. On the following pages, you can find how your Congressman and Senators voted on 12 issues of major importance to the American people.

This voting guide does not constitute a "black list" or a list of endorsed candidates. Political action comes from the people at home, in the state or the Congressional district. PAC endorsement of a candidate is based on many factors. This voting record attempts to turn the spotlight on only one factor—the formal votes on the floor of House and Senate.

A voting record must be read with an understanding of its limitations. It does show the black-and-white record of votes. It does not show how a Congressman or Senator voted in committee or how he talked in debate. It does not show whether he fought aggressively for or against a particular issue, or whether he merely went along. Your Representatives and Senators know that. Frequently they play for the record in the same way that a ball player "plays for the grandstand."

Nevertheless, the voting record shows—in general—how your Congressmen acted during the past session. If you want further details, contact the PAC committee of your local or international union; or write to your union's legislative representative in Washington; or to Nathan Cowan, CIO Legislative Director, 718 Jackson Pl. N. W., Washington 6, D. C.; or to CIO-PAC, 205 East 42nd St., New York, N. Y.

ISSUES IN THE SENATE*

Here's an explanation of the issues selected for the voting record on the next page. Read these summaries to understand the significance of the major votes—then see how your Senators stand up.

1. CASE BILL—HOBBS "ANTI-RACKET" AMENDMENT. This was one of several amendments added to the Case Bill by anti-labor Senators. It wrote into the Case Bill all the provisions of the Hobbs Bill, which would hamstring labor in the courts. (After the Case Bill was vetoed, the Hobbs Bill was passed separately by Congress and signed by Pres. Truman). It gives anti-union employers a chance to shout "racketeer" when they fight labor. Opposed by CIO. Passed 59-22 on May 25, 1946.

2. CASE ANTI-UNION BILL. This was the measure which "threw the book" at labor with a spicey brew of restrictions. It would have watered down the Wagner Act, repealed the Norris-LaGuardia anti-injunction act, permitted widespread suits against unions in Federal courts. Opposed by CIO. Passed, 49-29, on May 25, 1946, but President's veto was sustained in the House.

3. TRUMAN ANTI-LABOR BILL. This measure, outlawing strikes in plants seized by the government, was a blow at civil rights. It provided for drafting of strikers into army, sweeping penalties against strikers and union leaders. Opposed by CIO. Passed 61-20 on May 31, 1946; but House failed to act and the bill never became law.

4. PATMAN VETERANS' HOUSING BILL—REVERCOMB AMENDMENT. This removed price ceilings from existing homes; it was a blow at price control and at the federal home-building program. Opposed by CIO. Amendment passed by 41-33 on April 10, 1946. Patman bill, in weakened form, was eventually passed and became law; but Wagner-Ellender-Taft bill, badly needed to spur homes program, failed to come up for vote in House. It had been approved by voice vote in the Senate.

5. FEPC—CLOTURE RULE. This was the Senate's key test on racial discrimination. Supporters of the Fair Employment Practices Commission sought a cloture rule, which would have limited debate and avoided a polltaxers' filibuster. Supported by CIO. With a two-thirds vote needed, results were 36-48 against, on February 9, 1946. As a result, the FEPC bill never came up for a vote.

6. 65c MINIMUM WAGE BILL—RUSSELL AMENDMENT. The 65c Wage Bill would have lifted base pay for workers from 40c-an-hour starvation level to 65c and more. Unable to defeat it, opponents of the bill tacked on the Russell amendment to give big price bonuses to farm commodity speculators. Amendment brought a warning from Pres. Truman that he would be forced to veto. Senators voting for the Russell amendment knew they were voting to kill the Minimum Wage Bill. Amendment opposed by CIO. Passed by Senate, 43-31, on March 29, 1946.

7. BRITISH LOAN—McFARLAND AMENDMENT. This would have given U. S. an option on British strategic bases; it would have made loan impossible for Great Britain to accept without humiliation. Loan was necessary to spur international trade and recovery from war. Amendment opposed by CIO. Amendment passed 43-31 March 29, 1946; subsequently Senate reconsidered and without a record vote defeated the crippling amendment and approved the loan.

8. PRICE CONTROL—TAFT AMENDMENT. This would have guaranteed price mark-ups to manufacturers and distributors of goods, without regard to their present profits, by basing ceilings on "average" increase of production costs since October, 1941. Would have destroyed effective OPA. Opposed by CIO. Amendment passed, 44-29 on June 12, 1946.

9. PRICE CONTROL—WHERRY AMENDMENT No. 1. This amendment would have lifted all price ceilings and controls from livestock, poultry, eggs and their by-products. Opposed by CIO. Passed by 49-26 vote on July 9, 1946.

10. PRICE CONTROL—WHERRY AMENDMENT No. 2. This would have lifted all controls and price ceilings from milk and such by-products as cream, butter, cheese, ice cream, etc. Opposed by CIO. Passed by 51-27 vote on July 10, 1946.

11. PRICE CONTROL—PEPPER "AS IS" AMENDMENT. This would have substituted a simple extension of the old price control act for the amendment-ridden bill then under consideration. Strongly supported by CIO. Defeated by 52-23 vote, on July 12, 1946.

12. ANTI-POLLTAX BILL—CLOTURE RULE. This was an effort to limit debate and forestall filibuster on the bill to remove the polltax in federal elections in seven southern states. Cloture rule was only method possible of avoiding filibuster and bringing the issue up for a vote before Congress adjourned. Cloture was strongly supported by CIO. With two-thirds vote necessary, cloture was defeated, though its supporters mustered a majority, 39-33, on July 31, 1946.

*READING THE SENATE RECORD

A plus symbol (+) means a favorable vote from the progressive point of view, supported by the CIO.

A minus symbol (—) means an unfavorable vote.

A zero (O) means that the Senator did not vote.

Party designations: D, Democrat; R, Republican; P, Progressive.

	Party	1. Case Bill—"Racket" Amdt.	2. Case Anti-Union Bill	3. Truman Anti-Union Bill	4. Patman Housing—Revercomb Amdt.	5. FEPC—Cloture Rule	6. 65c Wage—Russell Amdt.	7. British Loan—McFarland Amdt.	8. OPA—Taft Amdt.	9. OPA—Wherry "Meat" Amdt.	10. OPA—Wherry "Milk" Amdt.	11. OPA—Pepper "As Is" Amdt.	12. Anti-Polltax Bill—Cloture Rule
ALABAMA
John H. Bankhead	D	O	O	O	+	—	—	—	O	Deceased
Lister Hill		—	+	—	O	—	—	+	+	+	+	+	—
G. Robin Swift	D									—	—	—	—
ARIZONA
Carl Hayden	D	—	+	—	+	—	—	+	+	+	+	O	—
Ernest McFarland	D	+	+	—	—	—	—	—	+	O	O	O	—
ARKANSAS
J. W. Fulbright	D	—	—	—	+	—	—	+	O	+	O	—	—
J. L. McClellan	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
CALIFORNIA
Sheridan Downey	D	+	O	+	+	+	O	+	+	+	+	+	+
William L. Knowland	R	—	—	—	+	+	+	+	—	—	—	—	+
COLORADO
Edwin C. Johnson	D	—	+	—	+	+	—	—	O	—	+	—	+
Eugene Millikin	R	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
CONNECTICUT
Thomas C. Hart	R	—	—	—	—	+	+	+	—	—	—	—	—
Brien McMahon	D	—	+	—	+	+	O	+	+	+	+	+	+
DELAWARE
Clayton D. Buck	R	O	—	—	—	+	O	—	—	—	—	—	O
James M. Tunnell	D	O	O	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
FLORIDA
Charles O. Andrews	D	—	O	O	+	—	O	O	—	—	—	O	—
Claude Pepper	D	+	+	+	+	O	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
GEORGIA
Walter F. George	D	—	—	—	O	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—
Richard Russell	D	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—
IDAHO
Glen H. Taylor	D	+	+	O	+	+	+	+	+	O	+	+	+
Charles C. Gossett	D	O	O	O	O	O	—	O	O	O	—	—	—
ILLINOIS
C. Wayland Brooks	R	—	—	—	—	O	O	—	—	—	—	—	O
Scott W. Lucas	D	—	—	—	O	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	O
INDIANA
Homer E. Capehart	R	—	—	—	+	+	—	—	O	O	—	—	O
Raymond E. Willis	R	O	O	—	O	+	O	—	O	—	—	O	O
IOWA
Bourke B. Hickenlooper	R	—	—	—	—	+	—	+	—	O	O	O	O
George A. Wilson	R	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	+	—	—	—	O
KANSAS
Arthur Capper	R	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—	—	+
Clyde M. Reed	R	—	—	—	—	+	—	+	—	—	—	O	+
KENTUCKY
Alben W. Barkley	D	—	+	—	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	—	+
William A. Stanfill	R	—	—	—	—	O	—	+	—	—	—	—	O
LOUISIANA
Allen J. Ellender	D	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	+	O	O	O	O
John H. Overton	D	—	O	—	+	—	—	O	—	—	+	—	—
MAINE
Ralph O. Brewster	R	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	O	O	O	—	O
Wallace H. White, Jr.	R	—	—	—	O	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—
MARYLAND
George L. Radcliffe	D	O	O	—	O	—	—	+	O	—	O	—	—
Millard E. Tydings	D	—	—	O	O	—	O	—	—	O	O	O	O
MASSACHUSETTS
Leverett Saltonstall	R	—	—	—	—	+	O	+	—	O	O	O	O
David I. Walsh	D	—	O	—	O	+	+	—	+	+	O	+	+
MICHIGAN
Homer Ferguson	R	—	—	—	O	+	+	+	O	—	—	—	+
Arthur H. Vandenberg	R	—	—	—	—	O	+	O	—	O	O	O	+
MINNESOTA
Joseph H. Ball	R	—	—	—	—	+	—	+	—	—	—	—	+
Henrik Shipstead	R	+	+	+	—	+	—	—	—	O	O	O	O
MISSISSIPPI
Theodore G. Bilbo	D	O	O	O	—	—	—	O	—	O	O	O	—
James O. Eastland	D	—	—	—	O	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—
MISSOURI
Frank Briggs	D	+	+	—	+	+	+	+	O	+	+	—	O
Forest C. Donnell	R	—	—	—	+	O	+	+	—	—	—	—	+
MONTANA
James E. Murray	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	O	+	O	+	+	+
Burton K. Wheeler	D	+	+	+	—	+	+	—	+	O	O	O	—

	Party	1. Case Bill—"Racket" Amdt.	2. Case Anti-Union Bill	3. Truman Anti-Union Bill	4. Patman Housing—Revercomb Amdt.	5. FEPC—Cloture Rule	6. 65c Wage—Russell Amdt.	7. British Loan—McFarland Amdt.	8. OPA—Taft Amdt.	9. OPA—Wherry "Meat" Amdt.	10. OPA—Wherry "Milk" Amdt.	11. OPA—Pepper "As Is" Amdt.	12. Anti-Polltax Bill—Cloture Rule
NEBRASKA
Hugh Butler	R	O	O	—	O	+	O	—	O	O	O	O	O
Kenneth S. Wherry	R	—	—	—	—	+	O	—	—	—	—	—	+
NEVADA
E. P. Carville	D	O	O	O	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	O
Patrick A. McCarran	D	+	+	+	—	—	O	—	+	—	—	—	—
NEW HAMPSHIRE
Styles Bridges	R	—	—	O	—	—	O	O	—	—	—	—	—
Charles W. Tobey	R	—	—	O	O	+	O	+	—	—	—	O	O
NEW JERSEY
Albert W. Hawkes	R	—	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—	—	O
H. Alexander Smith	R	—	—	—	—	+	+	+	—	—	—	—	+
NEW MEXICO
Dennis Chavez	D	O	O	O	O	+	O	O	O	+	+	+	+
Carl A. Hatch	D	—	—	—	+	—	+	+	+	O	O	O	O
NEW YORK
James M. Mead	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Robert F. Wagner	D	+	+	+	+	O	O	+	O	+	+	+	+
NORTH CAROLINA
Josiah W. Bailey	D	O	O	O	O	—	—	O	O	O	O	O	O
Clyde R. Hoey	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	+	—	—	—
NORTH DAKOTA
Wiliam Langer	R	—	+	O	+	+	—	—	O	—	—	—	+
Milton R. Young	R	—	—	O	—	O	—	—	O	—	—	—	—
OHIO
Harold H. Burton	R	Resigned
James W. Huffman	R	—	—	—	O	+	+	—	+	+	+	+	+
Robert A. Taft	R	—	—	+	—	+	+	—	—	—	—	—	+
OKLAHOMA
E. H. Moore	R	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Elmer Thomas	D	O	+	—	—	+	—	+	—	—	—	—	+
OREGON
Guy Cordon	R	—	—	+	—	+	—	—	—	—	—	—	+
Wayne L. Morse	R	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	O	—	+	+
PENNSYLVANIA
Joseph Guffey	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Francis Myers	D	+	+	—	O	+	O	+	+	+	+	+	+
RHODE ISLAND
Peter G. Gerry	D	—	—	—	—	—	+	+	+	—	—	—	—
Theodore Green	D	+	+	—	+	+	+	—	O	+	+	+	+
SOUTH CAROLINA
Olin D. Johnston	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Burnet R. Maybank	D	O	O	—	O	—	—	+	—	—	—	O	—
SOUTH DAKOTA
Harlan J. Bushfield	R	—	O	O	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	O	O
Chan Gurney	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—
TENNESSEE
Kenneth McKellar	D	O	O	—	—	—	—	+	—	+	+	—	—
Tom Stewart	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
TEXAS
Tom Connally	D	—	—	—	O	O	O	O	—	O	O	O	—
W. Lee O'Daniel	D	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
UTAH
Abe Murdock	D	+	—	—	+	+	+	+	+	+	—	+	+
Elbert D. Thomas	D	+	—	O	+	+	+	+	+	O	+	+	+
VERMONT
George D. Aiken	R	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	—	—	—	O
Warren R. Austin	R	—	—	—	—	+	O	+	—	—	—	—	+
VIRGINIA
Harry Flood Byrd	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	O	+	+	O	—
Carter Glass	D	O	O	A	O	O	O	O	Deceased
Thomas G. Burch	D	A	A	—	A	A	A	A	—	+	O	—	—
WASHINGTON
Warren G. Magnuson	D	+	+	+	O	+	O	—	+	+	+	+	+
Hugh D. Mitchell	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	O	O	+	+	+
WEST VIRGINIA
Harley M. Kilgore	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	—	+	+	+	+	+
Chapman Revercomb	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	O
WISCONSIN
Robert M. LaFollette	P	+	+	+	+	+	+	—	+	+	—	—	+
Alexander Wiley	R	—	—	—	—	O	—	+	O	—	—	—	+
WYOMING
Joseph C. O'Mahoney	D	—	+	—	+	O	+	+	O	—	—	+	+
Edward V. Robertson	R	—	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—	—	O

WHAT THE HOUSE DID

"Sure I've tried to find a decent house to live in. I like my mother-in-law, but not enough to live with her all the time. But housing is scarcer around here than a blonde in Tokyo.

"I wrote my Congressman about it. It didn't seem to do any good.

"Frankly, mister, I'm sore that Congress missed the boat on the Wagner-Ellender-Taft housing bill. They'd better do something about it next time — or I'll know the reason why."

ISSUES IN THE HOUSE*

Scores of bills were acted upon by the House of Representatives. On these pages are the record of how your Congressmen voted on 12 key issues involving the people's welfare. Here's a quick look at the highly significant issues chosen for this record. After reading them over, see how your Congressman stacks up.

1. HOBBS BILL—RULE. The House passed the Hobbs "anti-racket" bill without a record vote—but the votes were noted on the rule by which the measure was brought to the floor for debate. A vote for the rule was a vote for the bill; the bill is a vicious instrument to tie labor up in the courts and to interfere with bona fide picketing and strike activities. Opposed by CIO. Rule was approved by House 259-108, Dec. 11, 1945; bill became law after Senate vote and Presidential signature on July 3, 1946.

2. CASE ANTI-UNION BILL. This would have cut Wagner Act protection to the bone, practically repealed the Norris-LaGuardia anti-injunction law, severely restricted labor's rights to organize and strike. Opposed by CIO. Passed by House 257-155, Feb. 7, 1946.

3. CASE BILL—PRESIDENT'S VETO. The Case Bill, passed by House and Senate, was vetoed by Pres. Truman because of its loose language, sweeping attack on unions. Veto supported by CIO. House sustained the veto, 255-135—insufficient for the necessary two-thirds to over-ride the President's action, on June 11, 1946.

4. U.S.E.S.—DIRKSEN AMENDMENT. The Dirksen Amendment was intended to return the United States Employment Service to the states on June 30, 1946. This would have tied service up in knots of varying state rules and regulations, hindered the task of placing war workers and vets in new jobs. Opposed by CIO. Passed by House, Jan. 29, 1946.

5. PATMAN HOUSING BILL—PRICE CEILINGS ON EXISTING HOMES. The Patman Housing Bill was intended to help finance homes for vets—a program badly hampered by Congress' failure to pass the long-range Wagner-Ellender-Taft Housing Bill. A key section of the Patman Bill provided for price ceilings on existing homes, which would have helped keep down prices on new ones, too. Supported by CIO. This provision was defeated 246-134 on March 6, 1946. The Patman Bill, without this feature, became law May 22, 1946.

6. NLRB—ELLIOTT RIDER. The Elliott Rider was a back-door amendment to the Wagner Act, which took the form of limiting the Labor Board's appropriation. It barred the NLRB from acting in all cases involving hundreds of thousands of food processing workers. It was opposed in the Senate, finally adopted in the form of a limitation only on workers employed on farms. The Elliott Rider was opposed by CIO. Passed by the House 213-136 on July 16, 1946.

7. ATOMIC ENERGY BILL—MOVE TO RECOMMIT. The key issue on the atomic energy bill was whether our greatest potential "powerhouse" would be controlled by civilian government or by the armed forces. With popular and Congressional sentiment favoring civilian control, the Representatives favoring military supervision sought to recommit the bill rather than have any action at all. The move to recommit was opposed by CIO. It was defeated in the House 195-146 on July 20, 1946. The bill subsequently passed.

8. UN-AMERICAN COMMITTEE—APPROPRIATION. Involved in this vote was the question of protecting civil liberties of majority and minority groups from the unprincipled and irresponsible staff of the Wood-Rankin Committee. CIO opposed granting the committee its request for an additional $75,000. House voted the appropriation, 240-81.

9. OPA-WOLCOTT AMDT. No. 1. This proposal would have guaranteed "cost plus" prices on all products controlled by OPA, and would have led to across-the-board increases. This was the strongest amendment offered by price control foes in Congress. Strongly opposed by CIO. Adopted by House, 259-137 on April 17, 1946. Subsequently eliminated from compromise OPA bill.

10. OPA—WOLCOTT AMDT. No. 2. This would have drastically reduced all government subsidies on food commodities and forced an immediate rise in prices. Opposed by CIO. Adopted by House, 245-150 on April 17, 1946.

11. OPA—FLANNAGAN AMDT. This called for ending immediately all government subsidies aimed at keeping down the retail price of meat. Opposed by CIO. Adopted by House, 214-182, on April 17, 1946.

12. OPA—GOSSETT AMDT. This called for removing price ceilings on all commodities when their 12-month production was greater than in 1940-41. It ignored growing population, increased demands, changes in buying habits—and would have "taken the lid off" many products. Opposed by CIO. Approved by House, 228-166, on April 17, 1946.

	District	Party	1. Hobbs Bill—Rule For Vote	2. Case Anti-Union Bill	3. Case Bill—President's Veto	4. U.S.E.S.—Dirksen Amdt.	5. Patman Housing Bill—Price Amdt.	6. NLRB—Elliott Rider	7. Atomic Energy Bill—Move to Recommit	8. Un-American Committee Appropriation	9. OPA—Wolcott Amdt. No. 1	10. OPA—Wolcott Amdt. No. 2	11. OPA—Flannagan Amdt.	12. OPA—Gossett Amdt.
ALABAMA
Andrews, George W.	3	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—
Boykin, Frank W.	1	D	—	—	—	—	—	O	O	—	—	—	—	—
Grant, George M.	2	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—
Hobbs, Sam	4	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	—	+	—
Jarman, Pete	6	D	—	—	—	—	O	—	+	O	O	O	O	O
Manasco, Carter	7	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—
Patrick, Luther	9	D	+	+	+	+	+	O	O	O	O	O	O	O
Rains, Albert	5	D	O	—	+	—	O	—	+	—	O	O	O	O
Sparkman, John J.	8	D	—	—	+	+	—	O	O	—	+	+	+	+
ARIZONA
Harless, Richard F.	AL	D	—	+	+	+	+	+	O	O	—	+	+	+
Murdock, John R.	AL	D	—	+	+	+	+	+	+	O	+	+	+	O
ARKANSAS
Cravens, Fadjo	4	D	—	—	—	—	—	O	O	—	—	—	—	—
Gathings, E. C.	1	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Harris, Oren	7	D	O	+	O	—	—	O	+	O	—	+	—	—
Hays, Brooks	5	D	—	—	—	+	+	—	+	—	+	+	+	+
Mills, Wilbur D.	2	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—
Norrell, W. F.	6	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—
Trimble, James W.	3	D	—	—	—	+	—	—	+	—	+	+	+	+
CALIFORNIA
Anderson, Jack Z.	8	R	—	—	—	—	—	O	O	—	—	—	—	—
Douglas, Helen Gahagan	14	D	O	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Doyle, Clyde	18	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Elliott, Alfred J.	10	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—
Engle, Clair	2	D	—	+	+	+	—	—	+	O	—	—	+	+

(Continued on next page)

*READING THE HOUSE RECORD

A plus symbol (+) means a favorable vote from the progressive point of view supported by the CIO.

A minus symbol (—) means an unfavorable vote.

A zero (O) means that the Senator or Congressman did not vote.

An "A" means the person was not holding Congressional office at time of vote.

Party designations: D, Democrat; R, Republican; P, Progressive; AL, American Labor.

WHAT THE HOUSE DID

(Continued From Page 4)

	District	Party	1. Hobbs Bill—Rule For Vote	2. Case Anti-Union Bill	3. Case Bill—President's Veto	4. U.S.E.S.—Dirksen Amdt.	5. Patman Housing Bill—Price Amdt.	6. NLRB—Elliott Rider	7. Atomic Energy Bill—Move to Recommit	8. Un-American Committee Appropriation	9. OPA—Wolcott Amdt. No. 1	10. OPA—Wolcott Amdt. No. 2	11. OPA—Flannagan Amdt.	12. OPA—Gossett Amdt.
CALIFORNIA
Gearhart, Bertrand W.	9	R	O	—	O	O	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—
Havenner, Franck R.	4	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Healy, Ned R.	13	D	O	+	+	O	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Hinshaw, Carl	20	R	O	—	—	—	—	—	+	O	—	—	+	+
Holifield, Chet	19	D	+	+	+	+	+	O	O	+	+	+	—	+
Izac, Ed. V.	23	D	+	+	+	O	+	+	O	+	O	O	O	O
Johnson, J. LeRoy	3	R	—	+	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	+	+	+
King, Cecil R.	17	D	+	O	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Lea, Clarence F.	1	D	—	—	—	+	—	—	+	O	—	—	+	—
McDonough, Gordon L.	15	R	+	+	+	—	+	—	+	O	—	—	+	+
Miller, George P.	6	D	+	+	+	+	+	O	O	+	O	O	O	O
Outland, George E.	11	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Patterson, Ellis E.	16	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	O	+	+	+	+
Phillips, John	22	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Sheppard, Harry R.	21	D	+	+	O	+	+	—	+	O	O	O	O	O
Tolan, John H.	7	D	O	+	O	+	+	O	O	+	+	+	+	+
Voorhis, Jerry	12	D	—	+	O	+	+	+	+	+	+	—	—	+
Welch, Richard J.	5	R	+	O	O	+	+	O	O	O	+	+	+	+
COLORADO
Chenoweth, J. Edgar	3	R	—	+	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Gillespie, Dean M.	1	R	—	—	—	—	—	O	O	—	—	—	—	—
Hill, William S.	2	R	—	—	—	O	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—
Rockwell, Robert F.	4	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
CONNECTICUT
Geelan, James P.	3	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Kopplemann, Herman P.	1	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Luce, Clare Boothe	4	R	—	+	+	—	—	+	+	O	O	O	+	O
Ryter, Joseph F.	AL	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Talbot, Joseph E.	5	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	+	—
Woodhouse, Mrs. Chase Going	2	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
DELAWARE
Traynor, Philip	AL	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	O	O	+	+	—	+
FLORIDA
Cannon, Pat	4	D	O	O	—	O	O	O	O	O	+	+	+	+
Hendricks, Joe	5	D	—	—	—	—	—	O	O	—	—	—	—	—
Peterson, J. Hardin	1	D	—	—	O	—	—	—	+	—	O	O	O	O
Price, Emory H.	2	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—
Rogers, Dwight L.	6	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—
Sikes, Robert L. F.	3	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—
GEORGIA
Brown, Paul	10	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	+	+	—
Camp, A. Sidney	4	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	+	+	—
Cox, E. E.	2	D	—	—	—	—	—	O	O	—	—	O	O	—
[redacted]	8	D	—	—	—	—	—	O	O	—	O	O	O	O
Mankin, Helen Douglas	5	D	A	A	+	A	+	O	O	O	+	+	+	+
Pace, Stephen	3	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—
[redacted]	1	D	—	—	—	—	O	O	O	—	—	—	+	—
Ramspeck, Robert	5	D	—Resigned
[redacted]	7	D	—	—	—	—	—	O	O	—	—	—	—	—
Wood, John S.	9	D	O	—	—	—	—	O	O	O	—	—	—	—
Vinson, Carl	6	D	O	—	—	Resigned			O	—	—	—	—	—
IDAHO
Dworshak, Henry C.	2	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
White, Compton I.	1	D	O	+	O	O	+	—	—	O	O	+	+	+
ILLINOIS
Allen, Leo E.	13	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Arends, Leslie	17	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Bishop, C. W. (Runt)	25	R	+	+	+	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—	—
Chiperfield, Robert B.	15	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Church, Ralph E.	10	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Clippinger, Roy	24	R	A	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Dawson, Wm. L.	1	D	+	+	+	+	+	O	+	O	+	+	+	+
Dirksen, Everett M.	16	R	—	—	—	—	—	+	+	—	—	—	—	—
Douglas, Emily Taft	AL	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Gordon, Thomas S.	8	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Gorski, Martin	4	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Howell, Evan	21	R	+	+	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
ILLINOIS
Johnson, Anton J.	14	R	—	O	—	O	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Kelly, Edward A.	3	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	—	—	+	+	+
Link, Wm. W.	7	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Mason, Noah M.	12	R	O	—	—	—	—	O	O	—	—	O	O	O
McMillen, Rolla C.	19	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	O	O	O	O
O'Brien, Thomas J.	6	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Price, Melvin	22	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Reed, Chauncey W.	11	R	—	—	—	O	—	+	—	—	—	—	—	—
Resa, Alexander J.	9	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	O	+	+	+	+
Rowan, Wm. A.	2	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	O	+	+	+
Sabath, Adolph J.	5	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	O	+	+	+
Simpson, Sid	20	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Sumner, Miss Jessie	18	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	O
Vursell, Charles W.	23	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
INDIANA
Gillie, George W.	4	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Grant, Robert A.	3	R	—	—	O	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Halleck, Charles A.	2	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Harness, Forest A.	5	R	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Johnson, Noble J.	6	R	—	—	O	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—
LaFollette, Charles M.	8	R	+	+	+	O	+	+	+	O	+	+	+	+
Landis, Gerald W.	7	R	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Ludlow, Louis	11	D	+	+	O	+	+	O	O	O	+	+	+	+
Madden, Ray J.	1	D	+	+	—	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Springer, Raymond S.	10	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Wilson, Earl	9	R	—	O	—	—	—	—	—	—	O	O	O	O
IOWA
Cunningham, Paul	5	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Dolliver, James I.	6	R	O	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—
Gwynne, John W.	3	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Hoeven, Charles B.	8	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Jensen, Ben F.	7	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
LeCompte, Karl M.	4	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	O	—	—	—	—
Martin, Thomas E.	1	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—
Talle, Henry O.	2	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
KANSAS
Carlson, Frank	6	R	O	—	O	O	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—
Cole, Albert M.	1	R	—	—	—	O	O	—	+	—	—	—	—	—
Hope, Clifford R.	5	R	—	—	—	O	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—
Rees, Edward H.	4	R	O	—	—	O	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Scrivner, Errett P.	2	R	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Winter, Thomas D.	3	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
KENTUCKY
Bates, Joe B.	8	D	+	+	+	—	+	O	O	—	+	+	—	+
Chelf, Frank L.	4	D	—	—	—	—	+	—	+	—	—	—	—	+
Chapman, Virgil	6	D	—	—	—	O	O	—	+	—	+	+	—	+
Clements, Earle C.	2	D	+	+	+	—	+	+	+	—	—	—	O	+
Gregory, Noble J.	1	D	—	—	—	+	+	—	+	—	+	+	—	+
May, Andrew J.	7	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	+	+	+	+
O'Neal, Emmet	3	D	O	+	+	+	+	—	+	—	O	O	O	O
Robsion, John M.	9	R	+	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—	—
Spence, Brent	5	D	+	+	—	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
LOUISIANA
Allen, A. Leonard	8	D	—	—	—	—	—	O	O	—	—	O	O	—
Brooks, Overton	4	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	—	+	—
Domengeaux, James	3	D	O	—	—	—	O	—	O	O	—	+	—	—
Hebert, F. Edward	1	D	—	—	—	—	—	O	O	O	—	—	—	—
Larcade, Henry D., Jr.	7	D	O	+	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—	—
McKenzie, Charles E.	5	D	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—	+	—	—
Maloney, Paul H.	2	D	O	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	+	+	+
Morrison, James H.	6	D	—	+	O	O	O	—	+	—	+	+	+	+
MAINE
Fellows, Frank	3	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Hale, Robert	1	R	—	—	—	—	O	+	+	—	—	—	—	—
Smith, Margaret Chase	2	R	—	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
MARYLAND
Baldwin, H. Streett	2	D	—	—	—	O	—	O	O	O	—	—	—	—
Beall, J. Glenn	6	R	—	+	+	—	O	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
D'Alesandro, Thomas, Jr.	3	D	—	+	+	—	+	+	+	—	+	+	+	+
Fallon, George H.	4	D	—	—	—	—	+	+	+	—	+	—	+	+
Roe, Dudley G.	1	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	O	—	O	—	—
Sasscer, Lansdale G.	5	D	—	—	—	—	+	+	+	—	+	+	—	+
MASSACHUSETTS
Bates, George J.	6	R	—	—	—	O	—	+	—	—	—	—	+	+
Clason, Charles R.	2	R	+	—	—	—	—	—	+	O	—	—	+	+

(Continued on Page 8)

OUR ECONO

MESSAGE FROM TH ON THE STATE OF

"Sidney Hillman was a crusader for justice and all the principles of democracy.

"I speak these sentiments in behalf of the millions of organized workers in the United States, and I am sure, the organized workers all over the world.

"We of the CIO pledge ourselves to carry forward the attainment of our political emancipation and our true political freedom, both in the CIO and in all matters pertaining to the activities of the Political Action Committee."

—PHILIP MURRAY

"We want a better America, giving its citizens a higher and higher standard of living, so that no child will cry for food in the midst of plenty. An America where the inventions of science will be at the disposal of every American family, for all groups regardless of race, creed or color to live in friendship.

"We want an America carrying forward its great mission of helping other countries to help themselves—not exploiting but creating plenty for all everywhere."

—SIDNEY HILLMAN

IN OUR DAY these economic truths have self-evident. We have accepted, so to spe Rights under which a new basis of securi be established for all—regardless of statio

Among these are:

The right to a useful and remunerativ or shops or farms or mines of the Nation;

The right to earn enough to provide ad
ing and recreation;

The right of every farmer to raise and return which will give him and his family a decen

The right of every businessman, larg in an atmosphere of freedom from unfair compet
by monopolies at home or abroad;

The right of every family to a decent

The right to adequate medical care a achieve and enjoy good health;

The right to adequate protection from old age, sickness, accident, and unemployment;

The right to a good education.

MIC BILL OF RIGHTS

E PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES
THE UNION, January 11, 1944

become accepted as ak, a second Bill of y and prosperity can n, race, or creed.

job in the industries,

equate food and cloth-sell his products at a t living;

e and small, to trade ition and domination

home;

nd the opportunity to the economic fears of

All of these rights spell security. And after this war is won, we must be prepared to move forward, in the implementation of these rights, to new goals of human happiness and well-being.

America's own rightful place in the world depends in large part upon how fully these and similar rights have been carried into practice for our citizens. For unless there is security here at home there cannot be lasting peace in the world.

WHAT THE HOUSE DID

(Continued From Page 5)

	District	Party	1. Hobbs Bill—Rule For Vote	2. Case Anti-Union Bill	3. Case Bill—President's Veto	4. U.S.E.S.—Dirksen Amdt.	5. Patman Housing Bill—Price Amdt.	6. NLRB—Elliott Rider	7. Atomic Energy Bill—Move to Recommit	8. Un-American Committee Appropriation	9. OPA—Wolcott Amdt. No. 1	10. OPA—Wolcott Amdt. No. 2	11. OPA—Flannagan Amdt.	12. OPA—Gossett Amdt.
MASSACHUSETTS
Curley, James M.	11	D	O	O	O	O	O	O	O	O	O	O	O	O
Gifford, Charles L.	9	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—
Goodwin, Angier L.	8	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Herter, Christian A.	10	R	—	—	—	O	O	+	+	—	—	—	+	+
Heselton, John W.	1	R	—	—	—	—	—	+	+	—	—	—	+	+
Holmes, Pehr G.	4	R	—	—	—	—	O	+	—	O	—	—	—	—
Lane, Thomas J.	7	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	—	+	+	+	+
McCormack, John W.	12	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	O	+	+	+	+
Martin, Joseph W., Jr.	14	R	—	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—	—	—
Philbin, Philip J.	3	D	+	+	+	—	+	+	—	—	—	—	+	+
Rogers, Edith Nourse	5	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—
Wigglesworth, Richard B.	13	R	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	+	+
MICHIGAN
Blackney, William W.	6	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—
Bradley, Fred	11	R	—	O	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—	—
Crawford, Fred L.	8	R	—	—	O	—	—	O	O	—	—	—	—	—
Dingell, John D.	15	D	O	O	+	O	O	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Dondero, George A.	17	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Engel, Albert J.	9	R	—	+	+	O	—	O	O	+	—	—	—	—
Hoffman, Clare E.	4	R	—	+	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Hook, Frank E.	12	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	O	+
Jonkman, Bartel J.	5	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Lesinski, John	16	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	—	+	+	+	+
Michener, Earl E.	2	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—
O'Brien, George D.	13	D	+	+	+	O	+	O	+	—	+	+	+	+
Rabaut, Louis C.	14	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	O
Sadowski, George G.	1	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Shafer, Paul W.	3	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Wolcott, Jesse P.	7	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—
Woodruff, Roy O.	10	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
MINNESOTA
Andersen, H. Carl	7	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Andresen, August H.	1	R	O	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—	—	—
Gallagher, William J.	3	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Hagen, Harold C.	9	R	—	+	O	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Judd, Walter H.	5	R	—	—	—	—	O	+	+	—	—	—	+	+
Knutson, Harold	6	R	—	O	—	—	O	—	—	O	—	—	—	—
O'Hara, Joseph P.	2	R	O	—	O	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Pittenger, William A.	8	R	—	+	—	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—	—
Starkey, Frank T.	4	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	O	+	+	+	+
MISSISSIPPI
Abernethy, Thomas G.	4	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Colmer, William M.	6	D	—	—	O	—	—	O	+	—	O	O	O	O
McGehee, Dan R.	7	D	—	—	O	—	—	O	O	—	—	—	—	—
Rankin, John E.	1	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Whitten, Jamie L.	2	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Whittington, William M.	3	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—
Winstead, Arthur	5	D	O	—	O	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
MISSOURI
Arnold, S. Wat	1	R	—	O	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Bell, C. Jasper	4	D	—	+	+	—	—	—	+	O	—	—	—	+
Bennett, Marion T.	6	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Cannon, Clarence	9	D	+	+	+	+	O	—	+	—	+	—	—	—
Carnahan, A. S. J.	8	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	—	+
Cochran, John J.	13	D	+	+	O	+	+	O	O	O	O	O	O	O
Cole, William C.	3	R	+	+	—	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—	—
Ploeser, Walter C.	12	R	O	—	—	—	—	+	O	—	—	—	—	—
Schwabe, Max	2	R	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Short, Dewey	7	R	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Slaughter, Roger C.	5	D	—	—	—	—	—	O	O	—	—	—	—	—
Sullivan, John B.	11	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Zimmerman, Orville	10	D	—	—	—	+	—	—	+	—	+	—	—	—
MONTANA
D'Ewart, Wesley A.	2	R	—	+	—	—	O	—	—	O	—	—	—	—
Mansfield, Mike	1	D	+	+	+	+	+	O	O	+	+	—	+	+
NEBRASKA
Buffett, Howard H.	2	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Curtis, Carl T.	1	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Miller, A. L.	4	R	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Stefan, Karl	3	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
NEVADA
Bunker, Berkeley L.	AL	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	O	O	O	O	O	O
NEW HAMPSHIRE
Adams, Sherman	2	R	—	—	—	—	—	+	O	O	—	—	—	—
Merrow, Chester E.	1	R	O	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—	—
NEW JERSEY
Auchincloss, James C.	3	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	+	—	—	—	—
Canfield, Gordon	8	R	—	+	+	O	+	+	+	+	—	+	+	+
Case, Clifford P.	6	R	—	+	—	—	—	+	+	—	O	—	+	+
Eaton, Charles A.	5	R	O	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Hand, T. Millet	2	R	O	—	—	O	—	+	+	O	+	—	—	—
Hart, Edward J.	14	D	+	+	+	+	—	+	+	O	O	+	+	+
Hartley, Fred A., Jr.	10	R	O	—	—	—	—	—	O	O	O	—	—	—
Kean, Robert W.	12	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	+	+	+	+
Mathews, Frank	4	R	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	+	—	—	+	—
Norton, Mary T.	13	D	O	O	O	O	O	O	O	O	O	O	O	O
Sundstrom, Frank L.	11	R	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—	O	—	+	—
Thomas, J. Parnell	7	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	—
Towe, Harry L.	9	R	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	+	O	—	—	O
Wolverton, Charles A.	1	R	O	+	+	—	—	+	—	—	—	+	+	+
NEW MEXICO
Fernandez, Antonio M.	AL	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
NEW YORK
Andrews, Walter G.	42	R	—	—	O	—	O	O	O	O	O	O	O	O
Baldwin, Joseph C.	17	R	+	+	+	+	O	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Barry, William B.	4	D	O	+	+	+	+	+	+	—	+	+	+	+
Bennet, Augustus W.	29	R	—	O	—	—	O	O	O	O	—	—	—	+
Bloom, Sol	20	D	+	O	+	O	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Buck, Ellsworth B.	16	R	—	—	—	—	O	—	+	—	—	—	—	—
Buckley, Charles A.	25	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	O	+	+	+	+
Butler, John C.	44	R	+	+	+	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	+	—
Byrne, William T.	32	D	+	+	+	+	+	O	+	O	+	+	+	+
Celler, Emanuel	15	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Cole, W. Sterling	39	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—
Delaney, James J.	6	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	O	+	+	+	+
Delaney, John J.	7	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	O	+	+	+	+	+
Elsaesser, Edward J.	43	R	O	+	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	+	+	+
Fuller, Hadwen C.	35	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—	—
Gamble, Ralph A.	28	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	O	—	—	+	—
Gwinn, Ralph A.	27	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—
Hall, Edwin Arthur	37	R	—	+	+	—	—	O	O	—	—	—	—	+
Hall, Leonard W.	2	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	O	—	—	+	—
Hancock, Clarence E.	36	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	O	O	O	O
Heffernan, James J.	11	D	+	+	+	+	+	O	+	O	+	+	+	+
Kearney, Bernard W.	31	R	O	+	—	—	—	+	+	—	—	—	+	—
Keogh, Eugene J.	9	D	+	+	+	+	—	+	O	+	+	+	+	+
Kilburn, Clarence E.	34	R	—	—	—	—	O	—	O	—	—	—	+	—
Klein, Arthur G.	19	D	—	+	—	—	+	+	O	+	+	+	+	+
Latham, Henry J.	3	R	—	+	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—
LeFevre, Jay	30	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Lynch, Walter A.	23	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	O	+	+	+	+
Marcantonio, Vito	18	AL	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
O'Toole, Donald L.	13	D	+	+	+	+	+	O	O	+	+	+	+	+
Pfeifer, Joseph L.	8	D	O	+	+	+	+	O	O	O	+	+	+	+
Powell, Adam Clayton	22	D	+	+	+	+	O	O	O	O	+	+	+	+
Quinn, Peter A.	26	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	O	+	+	+	+
Rabin, Benjamin J.	24	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Rayfiel, Leo F.	14	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Reed, Daniel A.	45	R	—	O	—	O	O	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Roe, James A.	5	D	O	+	O	O	+	O	O	O	O	O	O	O
Rogers, George F.	40	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Rooney, John J.	12	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	O	+	+	+	+
Sharp, Edgar A.	1	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	O	O	+	O
Somers, Andrew L.	10	D	O	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Taber, John	38	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Taylor, Dean P.	33	R	O	—	—	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	+	—
Torrens, James H.	21	D	+	+	+	+	+	O	O	O	+	+	+	+
Wadsworth, James W.	41	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
NORTH CAROLINA
Barden, Graham A.	3	D	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—
Bonner, Herbert C.	1	D	—	—	—	—	O	—	+	O	—	—	—	—
Bulwinkle, A. L.	11	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	+	—	+	+
Burgin, W. O.	8	D	O	—	Deceased
Clark, J. Bayard	7	D	—	—	—	—	O	—	+	O	+	+	+	+
Cooley, Harold D.	4	D	—	—	+	O	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Doughton, Robert L.	9	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—
Durham, Carl T.	6	D	O	—	O	—	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	+
Ervin, Joe W.	10	D	—	Deceased
Ervin, Sam J. Jr.	10	D	A	—	—	A	—	—	+	—	—	—	+	+
Folger, John H.	5	D	—	—	O	+	+	—	+	O	+	+	+	+
Kerr, John H.	2	D	—	—	—	—	—	O	O	O	—	—	—	+
Pratt, E. Jane	8	D	A	A	—	A	A	—	+	O	A	A	A	A
Weaver, Zebulon	12	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	O	O	O	O	O
NORTH DAKOTA
Lemke, William	AL	R	O	+	+	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Robertson, Charles R.	AL	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—
OHIO
Bender, George H.	AL	R	O	+	—	—	—	+	+	O	—	—	+	+
Bolton, Frances P.	22	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Brehm, Walter E.	11	R	O	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—

WHAT THE HOUSE DID

	District	Party	1. Hobbs Bill—Rule For Vote	2. Case Anti-Union Bill	3. Case Bill—President's Veto	4. U.S.E.S.—Dirksen Amdt.	5. Patman Housing Bill—Price Amdt.	6. NLRB—Elliott Rider	7. Atomic Energy Bill—Move to Recommit	8. Un-American Committee Appropriation	9. OPA—Wolcott Amdt. No. 1	10. OPA—Wolcott Amdt. No. 2	11. OPA—Flannagan Amdt.	12. OPA—Gossett Amdt.
OHIO
Brown, Clarence J.	7	R	O	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Clevenger, Cliff	5	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Crosser, Robert	21	D	+	O	+	O	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Elston, Charles H.	1	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Feighan, Michael A.	20	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Gardner, Edward J.	3	D	+	+	+	+	O	+	+	+	—	+	+	—
Gri...ths, P. W.	15	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Hess, William E.	2	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Huber, Walter B.	14	D	+	+	+	—	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Jenkins, Thomas A.	10	R	+	—	—	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—
Jones, Robert F.	4	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	—
Kirwan, Michael J.	19	D	+	+	+	—	+	+	O	O	+	+	+	+
Lewis, Earl R.	18	R	O	+	O	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	+	—
McCowen, Edward O.	6	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
McGregor, J. Harry	17	R	—	—	O	—	O	—	+	—	—	—	—	—
Ramey, Homer A.	9	R	+	—	—	—	—	+	+	—	—	—	—	—
Smith, Frederick C.	8	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Thom, William R.	16	D	+	+	+	+	O	+	+	O	+	+	+	+
Vorys, John M.	12	R	O	—	—	—	—	+	+	—	—	—	+	+
Weichel, Alvin F.	13	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
OKLAHOMA
Boren, Lyle H.	4	D	O	—	—	—	—	O	O	O	—	—	—	—
Johnson, Jed	6	D	—	—	—	+	+	O	O	—	—	—	—	—
Monroney, A. S. Mike	5	D	—	—	—	+	+	+	+	O	+	+	+	+
Rizley, Ross	8	R	O	—	—	O	—	O	—	—	—	—	—	—
Schwabe, George B.	1	R	O	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Stewart, Paul	3	D	—	—	O	—	—	O	O	O	—	—	—	—
Stigler, William G.	2	D	—	—	O	+	O	+	+	O	—	+	—	+
Wickersham, Victor	7	D	O	—	—	O	+	O	O	—	—	—	—	—
OREGON
Angell, Homer D.	3	R	—	+	+	—	—	+	+	—	—	+	+	—
Ellsworth, Harris	4	R	—	—	O	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Norblad, Walter	1	R	A	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—
Stockman, Lowell	2	R	—	—	—	—	—	O	—	+	—	—	—	—
PENNSYLVANIA
Barrett, William A.	1	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Bradley, Michael J.	3	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Brumbaugh, D. Emmert	22	R	—	—	O	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—
Campbell, Howard E.	29	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Corbett, Robert J.	30	R	—	+	—	—	—	+	—	—	—	+	+	+
Eberharter, Herman P.	32	D	—	+	+	+	+	O	+	+	+	+	+	+
Fenton, Ivor D.	12	R	—	+	O	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Flood, Daniel J.	11	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Fulton, James G.	31	R	+	O	+	—	+	+	—	O	+	+	+	+
Gavin, Leon H.	19	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—
Gerlach, Charles L.	8	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—
Gillette, Wilson D.	14	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—
Graham, Louis E.	25	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	O	O	O	O	O
Granahan, William T.	2	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Green, William J., Jr.	5	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Gross, Chester H.	21	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Hoch, Daniel K.	13	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	O	+	+	+	+
Hoffman, Carl	23	R	A	A	—	A	A	—	—	O	A	A	A	A
Kelley, Augustine B.	27	D	+	+	+	+	O	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Kinzer, J. Roland	9	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—
Kunkel, John C.	18	R	+	+	—	—	—	+	—	O	+	—	+	+
McConnell, Samuel K.	16	R	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—	—	+	—
McGlinchey, Herbert J.	6	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	—	+	+	+	+	+
Morgan, Thomas E.	24	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	O	+	+	+	+
Murphy, John W.	10	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	O	—	+	+	+	+
Rich, Robert F.	15	R	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—
Rodgers, Robert L.	28	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	O	O	O	O	O
Sheridan, John Edw.	4	D	+	+	+	O	+	O	O	+	O	O	O	O
Simpson, Richard M.	17	R	—	—	—	—	—	O	—	O	—	—	—	—
Snyder, J. Buell	23	D	+	+	A	+	O	Deceased
Tibbott, Harve	26	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Walter, Francis E.	20	D	—	+	+	+	—	+	O	O	+	+	+	+
Weiss, Samuel A.	33	D	O	O	A	O	O	A	A	A	A	A	A	A
Wolfenden, James	7	R	—	—	O	—	—	O	—	O	—	—	—	—
RHODE ISLAND
Fogarty, John E.	2	D	+	+	+	O	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Forand, Aime J.	1	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	O	+	+	+	+
SOUTH CAROLINA
Bryson, John R.	4	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	+	+	—
Hare, Butler B.	3	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	O	+	—
McMillan, John L.	6	D	—	—	—	+	—	O	O	—	—	—	—	—
Richards, James P.	5	D	—	—	O	—	—	—	+	—	—	+	+	—
Riley, John J.	2	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	+	+	—
Rivers, L. Mendel	1	D	—	—	—	O	O	—	—	—	—	—	+	—
SOUTH DAKOTA
Case, Francis	2	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Mundt, Karl E.	1	R	O	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
TENNESSEE
Cooper, Jere	9	D	—	—	—	—	+	O	O	—	+	+	+	+
Courtney, Wirt	7	D	—	—	O	—	+	—	O	O	+	+	+	+
Davis, Clifford	10	D	—	+	+	—	+	O	+	—	O	O	O	O
Earthman, Harold W.	5	D	—	—	—	—	—	O	O	—	—	—	—	—
Gore, Albert	4	D	—	—	—	+	+	—	+	O	+	+	+	+
Jennings, John, Jr.	2	R	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Kefauver, Estes	3	D	O	+	+	+	—	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Murray, Tom	8	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Priest, J. Percy	6	D	—	—	—	+	—	O	O	—	+	+	+	+
Reece, B. Carroll	1	R	O	—	O	—	—	O	O	O	O	O	O	O
TEXAS
Beckworth, Lindley	3	D	—	—	—	O	+	O	O	—	+	+	+	—
Combs, J. M.	2	D	O	+	+	+	—	O	+	O	+	+	+	+
Fisher, O. C.	21	D	—	O	—	O	O	—	+	—	O	O	O	O
Gossett, Ed	13	D	—	—	—	—	O	O	O	—	—	—	—	—
Johnson, Luther A.	6	D	—	—	O	+	—	—	O	—	+	+	—	+
Johnson, Lyndon B.	10	D	—	—	—	O	+	O	O	+	+	+	+	+
Kilday, Paul J.	20	D	—	—	—	—	—	O	O	—	—	—	—	—
Lanham, Fritz G.	12	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Lyle, John E.	14	D	—	—	+	—	—	—	+	—	+	—	+	—
Mahon, George H.	19	D	—	—	—	+	—	O	O	—	—	—	—	—
Mansfield, Joseph J.	9	D	—	—	—	—	—	O	O	—	O	O	O	O
Patman, Wright	1	D	—	—	—	+	+	—	+	O	+	+	+	+
Pickett, Tom	7	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Poage, W. R.	11	D	—	—	—	O	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—
Rayburn, Sam	4	D	Speaker of the House
Russell, Sam M.	17	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	O	—	—	—	—
Sumners, Hatton W.	5	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—
Thomas, Albert	8	D	—	+	+	+	O	+	+	+	—	+	+	+
Thomason, R. Ewing	16	D	—	—	—	+	—	+	+	—	+	+	+	+
West, Milton H.	15	D	—	—	—	—	—	O	O	—	—	—	—	—
Worley, Eugene	18	D	—	—	—	+	—	O	+	—	—	—	—	—
UTAH
Granger, Walter K.	1	D	+	+	O	+	+	O	+	+	+	—	+	+
Robinson, J. W.	2	D	O	+	O	O	O	O	O	+	+	+	+	+
VERMONT
Plumley, Charles A.	AL	R	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—
VIRGINIA
Almond, J. Lindsay	6	D	A	—	—	A	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—
Bland, Schuyler Otis	1	D	—	—	—	—	O	O	+	O	+	+	—	O
Burch, Thomas G.	5	D	—	—	A	—	—	Resigned		—	—	—	—	—
~~Daughton, Ralph H.~~	2	D	—	—	—	—	—	O	O	—	—	—	—	O
Drewry, Patrick H.	4	D	—	—	—	—	+	—	+	—	+	—	—	+
Flannagan, John W., Jr.	9	D	—	+	+	+	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—
Gary, J. Vaughan	3	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	+	—	+
Robertson, A. Willis	7	D	—	—	—	O	—	—	+	—	+	—	—	+
Smith, Howard W.	8	D	—	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—
Woodrum, Clifton A.	6	D	O	Resigned		O
WASHINGTON
Coffee, John M.	6	D	O	+	+	+	+	O	O	+	+	+	+	+
DeLacy, Hugh	1	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	O	O	+	+	+	+
Holmes, Hal	4	R	—	—	—	—	+	O	O	O	—	—	+	+
Horan, Walt	5	R	O	—	O	—	—	—	—	O	—	—	—	—
Jackson, Henry M.	2	D	O	+	+	+	O	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Savage, Charles	3	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
WEST VIRGINIA
Bailey, Cleveland M.	3	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	O	+	+	+	+	+
Ellis, Hubert S.	4	R	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—	—
Hedrick, E. H.	6	D	+	+	+	—	+	+	+	+	—	+	+	+
Kee, John	5	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Neely, Matthew M.	1	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Randolph, Jennings	2	D	O	+	+	+	O	O	+	—	—	+	—	—
WISCONSIN
Biemiller, Andrew J.	5	D	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Byrnes, John W.	8	R	—	—	—	—	—	+	O	—	—	—	—	—
Henry, Robert K.	2	R	—	—	—	—	O	—	+	—	O	O	O	O
Hull, Merlin	9	R	+	+	+	—	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Keefe, Frank B.	6	R	O	—	—	—	—	+	+	—	—	—	—	—
Murray, Reid F.	7	R	—	+	—	—	—	+	+	—	—	—	—	—
O'Konski, Alvin E.	10	R	+	+	O	—	+	—	O	—	—	—	—	—
Smith, Lawrence H.	1	R	—	—	—	—	—	+	+	—	—	—	—	—
Stevenson, William H.	3	R	O	—	—	—	—	—	+	—	—	—	—	—
Wasielewski, Thad F.	4	D	—	+	+	—	+	+	+	O	+	—	—	+
WYOMING
Barrett, Frank A.	AL	R	—	—	—	—	—	+	+	—	—	—	—	—

UNFINISHED BUSINESS

THE LAST CONGRESS didn't do much for the people. There's a big pile of unfinished business awaiting the representatives you elect in November.

It's your job, as a citizen and voter, to know exactly what the issues are. It's your job, to elect Congressmen who will fight and vote for you. You've got to keep your eye on Congress 365 days of the year, or you'll wind.. up ..in.. trouble.

A majority of the 79th Congress was elected to office on the basis of supporting the progressive people's program of Franklin Delano Roosevelt. You know how many of your Congressmen and Senators forgot their pledges during the past two years.

In 1944, under the leadership of a great American, our nation was forging ahead in the world-wide battle against fascism. We looked forward to great social advances at home when our war was won. The 79th Congress failed to live up to that program.

America, in these fluid postwar years, has a golden opportunity to prove to itself and to the world that we can match our great industrial techniques with imaginative programs to help the people.

When the 80th Congress convenes in January, its agenda will be heavy with unfinished business. This is the time to learn the issues— and even more important, to get your future Congressman firmly committed to supporting labor's demands.

"So this bird says, 'Well, what about free enterprise, huh?' That burns me up. Here's Congress giving big business everything but the kitchen sink; but when I want some public health insurance or better social security, they say that's socialism. I say it's baloney.

"I'm for enterprise—but I want protection for my family, too. That next Congress needs to be told to get on the ball and do something for me once in a while."

WHAT ARE those issues?

1. THE STANDARD OF LIVING of the American people. The 79th Congress wrecked the possibility of effective price control. The cost of living is up; up at least 5.5% on a national average since mid-June, up considerably more in many industrial centers. Conservative economists estimate it may be up 20% or 25% by the middle of 1947; OPA spokesmen have said it may jump 35% or 40%.

Obviously the cost of living is problem number one for the next session of Congress. Get your Representatives pledged now to fight for more effective price control, to reinstitute subsidies on foods.

Full employment, at decent wages, under conditions where prices are not excessive, is a "must". The 80th Congress must act for the people, as the 79th Congress acted for the big corporations.

2. HOUSING. ..America needs millions of homes. The Wagner-Ellenden-Taft housing bill died in committee during the 79th Congress. It was the one measure that would have cleared the way for big-scale building of homes at prices that workers and vets can afford. The W-E-T bill was passed by the Senate; but it was stalled in the House Banking & Currency Committee.

Such inaction at a time of crisis is inexcusable—it can't be allowed to happen again.

3. 65c Minimum Wage. Millions of Americans are living on close- to-starvation wages. The present minimum pay set by the Wage-Hour Act is only 40c an hour—$16 a week for 40 hours. No family can live on that sum. But a combination of northern Republicans and southern Democrats fought like caged tigers to prevent passage of the 65c Bill.

They succeeded—through the device of the Pace-Russell amendments. These provided for huge government payments to farm commodity speculators, which would only have helped intensify the inflation. Because of the amendments, the bill was not passed.

Get your Congressman committed to a 65c Minimum Wage Bill and to resisting every effort to load it down with defeatist amendments.

4. THE PEOPLE'S WELFARE. The country's social security system is beginning to look as old-fashioned as an old Model T. Congress had spent $50,000 to study the situation, and had a report recommending improvements and streamlining. But the advice of the people and of the experts went unheeded—with the result that changes, although good in themselves, were just a drop in the bucket.

The Wagner-Murray-Dingell Bill lumps all the needed improvements under one title. CIO and progressive organizations have supported it, and they're going to demand its passage at the next session.

The same thing goes for the Wagner-Murray-Dingell health insurance bill. It would set up a nationwide system of payments to finance a real program for the sick and ailing. It doesn't call for charity—each employee would pay for it, just as he does for social security. It wouldn't be "socialized medicine" either.

But it would make possible real medical attention for the millions who need it and can't afford to pay big doctor's bills.

5. ANTI-POLLTAX BILL. If you live in seven southern states, you've got to pay for the right to vote. HR 7, which would have ended that tax on the right to choose your representatives, was stalled in the Senate during the final days of the session.

The fight is going on—and you'd better get your Congressman signed on the dotted line to support the anti-polltax bill and to fight the filibuster bloc from the solid south.

6. LABOR EDUCATION BILL. This bill was introduced late in the session, too late for action. It calls for the establishment of an education service in the Dept. of Labor to promote classes for workers, to finance workers' schools and university extension courses. It's long overdue, and badly needed.

THERE ARE LOTS of other good bills that need to pass. And there are lots of bills to rob the people of their progressive gains and civil rights which Congressional reactionaries are sure to push.

The Case bill and other anti-union measures will be in the hopper as soon as Congress reconvenes. There'll be new efforts to cut down the Wagner Act and the Wage-Hour Act. A lot of reactionaries are playing around with schemes to get out from under the tax burden and soak the poor instead. And in the background will be powerful forces trying to move this country into another deadly war.

You've got to be on the alert against them. And you've got to be sure that the Congressmen you elect will be on guard, too.

You can help protect your rights by political action.

Contribute your dollars today. Study the voting record. Get together with your union and help its political action campaign to influence all the voters in your community.

And be sure to register and vote in November for a progressive Congress committed to cleaning up all the unfinished business.

The future is in your hands on election day.

IT'S YOUR BUSINESS!

- To Keep Your Eye on Congress
- To Help Elect a Better Congress
- To See That Your Friends and Union Brothers Know the Score

YOU CAN DO IT

By ordering copies of this Voting Guide. Send your orders by mail or wire to:

CIO PUBLICITY DEPT.
718 Jackson Pl. N.W., Washington 6, D. C.

Price for the Voting Record
5 cents a copy; 100 for $4; 500 for $15; 1,000 for $2

* * *

THIS WEEK AND EVERY WEEK

READ THE CIO NEWS

$1 a Year; $1.50 in Canada

Bundle Orders: 1½c a copy up to 1,000; 1¼c from 1,000 to 2,000; 1c a copy over 2,000.

Group Subscriptions (100 or more) individually mailed: 1¼c per member per week (plus 4c per name, payable once only, for stencils).

JACK KROLL

Director, CIO Political Action Committee

"Whether or not labor and the people will meet the challenge and realize the opportunity that this Labor Day holds out depends in large measure upon what they do in the short two months remaining before the national elections on November 5, 1946.

"Labor and the common people have the power to reverse the course chartered by the unlamented 79th Congress. They demonstrated that power in 1944 when they showed that, firmly organized and solidly united, they represent the decisive political force in our nation. The success already achieved in the 1946 primary campaigns re-affirms this basic political truth.

"Labor's 1946 political tasks are clear.

"A militant group of fighting progressives in the House and Senate carried on a consistent and courageous fight for the people's program. America needs them in Washington, and we must spare no effort to assure their re-election.

"Other Congressmen and Senators have spearheaded the reactionary onslaught in brazen violation of the mandate which the people gave them in 1944. They must be repudiated by their electorate and retired to private life.

"The CIO Political Action Committee, its national office, its state and local organizations, and the whole membership of CIO in every shop, mine, mill and factory, must dedicate themselves to these key tasks during the coming two months."

DAVID J. McDONALD

Sec.-Treas., CIO Steelworkers

"After winning a conclusive victory in a long war, America today is facing the problems of peace. They are no less difficult than those of war.

"The United Steelworkers of America are concious of their responsibility to lead in the campaign for effective political action in steel centers throughout the nation. We realize it will be the active participation of every member of our union in cooperation with other CIO groups, in the effort to elect men and women truly representative of the people, which will elect a Congress this year committed to a program of peace, prosperity and progress.

"At our recent international convention, political action was one of the vital subjects to come before the delegates. At that time we resolved to give all-out support to the CIO Political Action Comittee and to carry out our solemn duty and obligation—for the protection of our nation to strive for the complete political unity of all labor and progressive forces to the end that the common people throughout America can attain and enjoy the heritage which is rightfully theirs.

"On this Labor Day, our political action program is clear. To achieve our ends, we are continually striving to strengthen our political action set-up on a local, district and national scale."

GEORGE ADDES

Sec.-Treas., CIO Auto Workers

"The events of the 12 months from Labor Day 1945, to Labor Day 1946, have forced the workers of the U. S. to the conclusion that the brave new world of peace, prosperity, and equality—which had been promised by the war leaders of our nation and others—is in grave jeopardy.

"The reactionary monopolists of Wall Street married the reactionary politicians of Capitol Hill during the past year, and already that marriage has produced such misbegotten offspring as the Case Bill, the monstrous Price Control Act, the Lea Act, and the Hobbs Act. Reaction is on the rampage. FEPC is scuttled; the Full Employment Bill is emasculated; social security legislation is blocked; housing legislation is stymied; anti-polltax legislation is shelved 'by an agreement among gentlemen'; talk of new wars fills the air.

Why? Because an unholy axis of reactionary Republicans and polltax Democrats has succeeded in taking control over Congress.

"This reactionary attack against the welfare of the people must be broken, it can be broken, but only if American labor takes the lead in mobilizing the American people for effective political action during the elections of 1946.

"The job will be tough; it will be long. But it will be done, because the peace and security of the people depend upon it."

JULIUS EMSPAK

Sec.-Treas., CIO Electrical Workers

"During the past few months our membership has seen how an anti-labor Congress acted as the accomplice of the corporations in stealing from the people the benefits of wage increases won through the determined fight of the unions of the CIO.

"We have found that it is necessary for labor to organize its struggle for a better standard of living against the political accomplices of big business, as well as against the corporations themselves.

"The 1946 congressional elections, which will have an important bearing upon the outcome of the 1948 national elections, offer to the ordinary people of America an opportunity to loosen the grip of the corporations upon Congress and to check the drive of American big business against the living standards and liberties of the American people as a preliminary to a new war for domination of world markets.

"The Political Action Committee of the CIO is the instrument through which the working people can most effectively carry forward the political side of their fight for a decent living in a peaceful world.

"Our future standards of living, our security and the peace of our country and the rest of the world will be greatly influenced for better or worse by the amount of effort and support that we throw into the PAC campaign.

"We must register, canvass, vote and contribute financially to the workers' political battle against the corporations with the same energy, determination and unity that we showed on our picket lines."

WILLIAM POLLOCK

Sec.-Treas., CIO Textile Workers

"Our Labor Day celebration comes at a most opportune moment, at a time when out of the chaos of a world struggling for full permanent peace and security there rises as never before the unified spirit of working people throughout America, dedicated unswervingly to the basic rights of man.

"We are the people who have not forgotten these rights and on this 64th observance of Labor Day we take time out to review the progress labor has made during the past generation, to mirror our achievements against the job that is yet to be done, and to renew our determination to achieve our ends.

"We know now that economic and political action are indivisible. We know today that we cannot sit idly by while uncontrolled prices, prices legislated by Congress, devour the wage gains won on the picket line.

"Textile workers, who have just won the largest wage increases in their history, are as determined in their new and enthusiastic flowering of political activity as are all workers of CIO to correct this situation.

"American labor speaks out today with one voice for peace, equality and security by bringing to the American people the vital isues of the 1946 elections, by accelerating its drive to register every eligible voter and get them to the polls on Election Day, November 5 in support of progressive candidates.

"This is American labor's answer to enemies in the Congress who seek to destroy it."

"I've seen the record. It's punk, rotten.

"Plenty of other CIO guys feel the same way.

"What are we going to do about it, brother? Plenty!

"I'm going to give a buck to PAC.

"I'm going to be sure to register, and get my family and friends to register.

"And I'm going to vote, me and the millions of other guys like me, we're going to vote to change that Congress."

The Presbyterian Outlook

Established 1819

AUBREY N. BROWN
Editor and Manager
ERNEST TRICE THOMPSON
Co-Editor

Associate Editors
J. M. Alexander — Ansley C. Moore
Wm. Crowe, Jr. — Charles Pratt
K. J. Foreman — J. Calvin Reid
J. W. Jackson — Holmes Rolston
J. H. Marion, Jr. — Mrs. J. N. Thomas
Mrs. Alexander Maitland

Contributing Editors
Wallace M. Alston — Harris E. Kirk
D. Maurice Allan — Albert Kissling
WyndhamB.Blanton — George Lang
Marion A. Boggs — Julian Price Love
Frank H. Caldwell — F. L. McCluer
S. A. Cartledge — P. D. Miller
J. Harry Cotton — C. Ellis Nelson
J. R. Cunningham — Dunbar H. Ogden
D. H.Edington — S. R. Oglesby
W. M. Elliott, Jr. — Frank W. Price
Felix B. Gear — W. E. Price
B. Frank Hall — J. A. Redhead
Mrs. E. F. Horine — Charles G. Rose
Karl G. Hudson — David H. Scanlon
Margaret M. Jacobs — Lewis J. Sherrill
Ilion T. Jones — Henry Louis Smith
Charles L. King — Russell C. Stroup
Laurence F. Kinney — George Summey

Continuing
The Missionary (1819)
The Georgia Reporter (1826)
The Charleston Observer (1827)
Watchman of the South (1837)
The Southern Presbyterian (1847)
The N. C. Presbyterian (1858)
The Southwestern Presbyterian (1869)
The Texas Presbyterian (1892)
The Presbyterian of the South (1909)

Printed by Richmond Press, Governor Street.
Served by (RNS) Religious News Service.
Subscription—$3.00 a year.
Editorial and Business Offices
Room 203, 13 North Fifth Street
Telephone 2-9492
Richmond 19, Virginia

EDITORIAL

A Church Must Grow—But How?

Last year, as the Assembly's moderator, Dr. Young, made his way across the church he never ceased to try to shake lethargic Presbyterians out of their complacency, to stir the fires of evangelism, to awaken some degree of pride in building up the church, in branching out, in extending the message and ministry of Christ. Here and there he used an illustration which should make many a church look at itself to discover its right to add numbers to an already unwieldy membership; to consider frankly and honestly the fundamental principle of growth.

Looking back at his biology, he said a growing thing will do anything to preserve itself. Pointing to the activity of the unicellular organism, he underscored its expansion from nucleus to circumference until it breaks in two and forms others. Hear him:

"Being alive, it is natural to want to grow. Throughout the full reach and variety of living things the most persistent characteristic of healthful life is the principle of growth. . . . So strong is that tendency that when by its nutrition it expands so as to imperil its existence, it divides itself into portions by some strange venturing impulse, and then each part assumes responsibility for living so as to fortify and fulfil its ever-complicating destiny. As the scale ascends, the organism becomes increasingly complex . . . but with the same urge. . . ."

This deeply rooted law of the universe has something to say to us if we have ears to hear; and there are other laws of the gospel which have more to say toward the same end. Let us see, in the paragraphs which follow, how it worked out in one situation.

One Became Two

When the new White Memorial Presbyterian Church was organized in Raleigh, N. C., last May, it could have been, to the superficial observer, just another church being started. It was far more than that. It was a pattern of heroic and adventurous faith on the part of minister and people which needs to be told and re-told—and then emulated—throughout the church.

The White Memorial church is not an outpost organization, looking simply for detached or unenlisted prospects for church membership. It is a colony of the well-established First church of Raleigh, inspired by the minister and leaders of the mother church. That colony is made up of 250 of the finest members of the First church, including five of its elders and nine of its deacons. It will have its own plant as soon as building conditions permit. Meanwhile, after organization in the building of the First church, it is using a convenient school building.

The pastor did so good a job of selling his idea of decentralization to his people that his own son, along with many other young people of his own age, decided to become a charter member of the new church and to give it his full support. Like a good many other people, this pastor (M. O. Sommers) has become convinced that a church begins to lose in efficiency when it passes the 1,000-mark and that the only way to keep people active and interested, considering themselves as much more than cold statistics, is to organize smaller churches where they may know each other and be known. (At least one student of the subject maintains that the church of 300-500 is the most efficient size.)

Demands which are made upon the parent organization test its real Christianity. In such times will it develop its latent leadership? Will it put its nominal members to work? Will it dig deeper to provide the essential finances for its tasks? Will it advance or retrench? Will it continue to grow or will it die? This, of course, is the crucial test; it is the test of any living organism.

Is there any record of a church killing itself by colonizing? There are abundant illustrations of spiritual death by failing to obey this demanding law. As for Raleigh's First Church, there are evidences of awakening interest and a greater life even than before—while the White Memorial Church, named for the late great colonizer, Dr. W. McC. White —goes on to bring merited pride to a worthy parent.

"And My People Love To Have It So"

On the South's Political Leaders

"A wonderful and a horrible thing is committed in the land: The prophets prophesy falsely, and the priests bear rule by their means; and my people love to have it so" (Jeremiah 5:30, 31). The words which we have quoted are the words of Jehovah to Jeremiah. The prophets of the time were prophesying falsely. They were obscuring the real gravity of the situation which Judah faced and lulling the people into a false sense of security which made impossible the genuine repentance which might have saved the nation. A corrupt priesthood was using the voice of the prophets as a means of staying in power. But this was not the wonderful and the horrible thing that was being committed in the land. The horrible thing was that the people of Judah knew in their hearts that the prophets were prophesying falsely and that priests and prophets were feeding them with lies as a means of power. The people knew this and loved to have it so. What could Jehovah do with a nation in which the people themselves were in favor of lying prophets and corrupt priests?

It would be proper to draw a parallel between the situation in Judah and religious situations which often appear. Even in their religious life the people demand at times that they be comforted with illusions. But an equally valid application of it can be made to that which is happening in the political scene in the South today. Progressive leaders of the South are becoming increasingly concerned at the character some of the political leaders who have been elected or re-elected to high office in the South. They are concerned about the character of the political machines which dominate cities and in some cases states. The individual reader of this editorial can fill in the details out of his own knowledge but the general character of the thing that is happening must be obvious to all.

The really alarming thing, however, is not that we have demagogues, and bigoted and ignorant politicians, corrupt political machines, and groups dominated by race prejudice and hatred. There always have been men and groups of this kind. The horrible thing is that the people love to have it so.

Of course, all the people do not love to have it so. In many elections, probably in the great majority of them, the people have chosen men of character and ability. And where men of a different type have been elected they have never had the unanimous support of the voters. In many cases they have received a bare majority.

But the fact remains that in a democracy the people are responsible for the character of the men they elect. A wonderful and a horrible thing is committed in the land when the people elect to high office men whom they know are not fitted, either in terms of character or ability, for the responsibilities of the office. The Germans were not responsible for all that Hitler did but those who voted for him were responsible in that they knew his character before they placed him in power. (Cf. Sunday School lesson, page 14.) In the end it is usually true that a people get just about the kind of government they deserve. What kind of government do a people deserve when they persist in reelecting to important positions in state and national life men of obvious incompetence and proven dishonesty? What kind of government will they get?

HOLMES ROLSTON.

MAN IN A JALLOPY

By KENNETH J. FOREMAN

"There shall in no wise enter into the city anything unclean."—Rev. 21:27.

ONCE THERE WAS A MAN riding in what was in former times an Automobile; but it was old and not all of it was there, and it was called no longer a Car but a Jallopy. The seat covers were torn and insects made their home within, and the windshield suffered from cracks and a permanent fog, and the brakes were not to be trusted and the bumpers had bumped once too often, the dashboard dials gave out no information and nothing about the engine was as it should be with proper engines. The man who drove it did the best he could, but he was a menace to traffic and to himself, for it was evident that the end of that jallopy was near at hand.

Now, there were certain philosophers sitting by the roadside, and they observed the jallopy how it drove, and they perceived that it was insanitary and uncertain and full of dangers within and without. And they said one to another, What shall now be done about yonder jallopy?

One of them said to his companions: The end of all jallopies is at hand. No jallopy deserves to survive; its doom and judgment are sure. Let us rejoice that it falls to pieces, for all attempts to mend it are but putting off the judgment and flying in the face of destiny.

And another spake and said: A jallopy is nothing, but man is everything. If the driver's heart be right, and he be a man of prayer and integrity of soul, the sort of thing he drives makes no difference. Let the guardians of public safety improve the man and let the jallopy go.

Nay, said another, but the jallopy makes the man. The driver is a menace only because of that which he drives. Give him a real car, perfect in all its parts and pistons, and he will turn into a perfect driver.

Then spake another roadside philosopher, and he said, There is no getting a new car, the man will have to make his jallopy do. We cannot get a new man over the week-end, but the jallopy can be made roadworthy by a good mechanic. Let us hail our friend and help him, and that right speedily, and aid him to become a better member of society by driving in a safer car.

Which of these philosophers gave the best counsel?

THE driver of the jallopy is Man and the vehicle is his Environment; the institutions in and by which he lives—home and school and society—all that touches his life and affects him, all that he touches and affects. The first philosopher is the religionist who sees nothing ahead but the Great Bonfire, who holds back from every effort to make the world better, who sits like Jonah waiting for fire to consume the city which he has condemned but which he will not help. The second is the thinker who sees so clearly that the key to man's problems is man himself that he forgets how much man is made by his very environment, that he is a child of his time and circumstances as truly as ever he was a child of his father and mother. The third is the type of person who sees so clearly that man is a product of his environment that he overlooks man's actual freedom and power of will, and fails to see that a bad man may misuse a better environment to his own destruction.

The last is the practical Christian who agrees that a wreck is predictable, but not that it is inevitable; recognizes that man is more important than his institutions yet sees that institutions help to make the man; realizes that something new is needed, yet learns from history that new worlds do not come overnight, that we always have to begin with what we have. Aware that the best he can do is never enough, he nevertheless does what he can. He does not suppose that good laws are a substitute for goodwill, but he works for better laws, for the sake of better men. He does not think that bathtubs cleanse the soul, but he will vote for waterworks. He does not look on education as a patent medicine, but he pays his school tax gladly. He does not expect the United Nations to inaugurate the Millennium, but he thinks this better than Disunited Nations. If environment actually makes no difference, if the soul can live in one as well as in another, then why should God go to the trouble of shutting out of the New Jerusalem any evil at all?

AN ANNUITY

THAT GUARANTEES YOU A REGULAR FIXED INCOME FOR LIFE . . . THEN HELPS PERPETUATE THE WORK OF FOREIGN MISSIONS.

Through the Annuity Gift plan of our Executive Committee of Foreign Missions, it is possible to buy an annuity . . . for yourself, for another, or jointly —guaranteeing an attractive, fixed income for life . . . AND at the same time make a gift of the principal to Foreign Missions.

Your annuity check will come to you semi-annually as long as you live. If you so desire, you may arrange to have it continue coming to another should they survive you. The annuity rate is liberal compared with interest rates today, and your money is safely invested in your behalf.

Equally important, your money will help carry on the work of Foreign Missions, sending missionaries to distant lands and paying the necessary expenses of their work.

We will be glad to send you copies of our free booklets telling about this plan of Annuity Gifts in detail. Write today to

Curry B. Hearn, Treasurer

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF FOREIGN MISSIONS

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN THE U. S.

P. O. Box 330 Nashville 1, Tenn.

RECEIVED
NOV 8 1946
Southern Regional Council

THE REAL SOUTHERN SPIRIT

Back in the old days, colored people called white folks who were good to colored people "Shunuff white-folks."

This was the result of good-will and cooperation.

Modern times have caused us to drift apart. We need a revival of good-will and cooperation.

The above thoughts always come when I experience or read of a manifestation of the spirit of good-will between white and colored people.

A few days ago brought it forcibly to mind when the telephone rang and a friendly voice said "Professor Jones, because of the good work you are doing in our state and your standing among our white folks, Mrs. Williams and I have decided to quit the dairy business and donate my herd of seventy-five registered milk goats to your school. I value the herd very highly, some of the individuals cost as much as $150.00 each. We get fifty cents a quart for their milk. You may come for them anytime."

The voice was that of Mr. Otto Williams of the widely-known "Tourist Goat Milk Dairy," the voice of a present day Southern white man with the spirit of the "old school of Southern Aristocracy."

This gift near the time of my sixty second birthday makes him Colonel Otto Williams - how come?

> Well once upon a time some Yankees asked their colored waiter in the hotel how there happened to be so many men in the south with titles - the waiter answered--
>
> "Well sah - dey gits dat way like dis - deminute you looks at some mens down yhear you knows deys a Kunel or Major or Jedge - dey just looks like it and sides dat its in de blood.
>
> Den anoder class a white mens gits pinted to be Kunels and Majors by de Guvernor but most white folks gits de title by being kind to colored folks, now when I waits on a party of white folks when dey gits up, if I find a great big round silver dollar under dey plate, dat man is a Kunel to me hencefoth and foebber."

Please rejoice with us for this "goat diary" means we have another means of teaching colored boys and girls to be useful citizens.

Laurence C. Jones
Founder and Principal
Piney Woods School
Piney Woods, Miss.

file: Raymond Paty

MEET GEORGIA'S NEW CHANCELLOR

THE PANTS worn by the fellow who's about to become the chancellor of the University System of Georgia cover a man, not straw. Close friends say that about him, and he even got around to saying it once himself.

Those friends—of whom he has stacks, especially in the Atlanta area—say that the least-generally-known fact about Dr. Raymond Ross Paty, chancellor-elect of the University System, is that "he's got plenty of 'Irish.'"

More specifically, that he's a scrapper and loves a good fight, and that anyone who thinks the new chief of colleges will be a smiling, acquiescent opponent in the battles that come along had better think some more . . . and then look out!

"Bill" Paty—and it always has to be added at this point that how "Bill" derived from "Raymond Ross" remains a mystery—has received little public notice for his scrapping. The man in the street, if he's thought about it at all, probably has concluded that the Tennessean simply soared to his present position in education by virtue of notable ability and charm.

But there was that case early in his career, when he was principal of the Cumberland Mountain School in Crossville, Tenn., which offers other evidence.

SHORTLY after his graduation from Emory University in 1921, Bill Paty was married to Miss Adelaide Pund, of Augusta. After a honeymoon in a little Tennessee coal-mining town they went to Crossville, where the Tennessee Conference of the Methodist Church had just established the school, three miles from town. Paty had been chosen its first principal.

Crossville was rather set in its ways and looked with no great favor on a schoolmaster who thought he should take a part in its governmental and political affairs. When a bond issue was to be voted on, then, one of the political leaders of the community undertook to wait upon the young principal and instruct him how to act.

Bill Paty's face glowed red and his voice went high with indignation as he fingered his trousers and said to the politico:

"You see these pants? There's a man in them. They're not stuffed with straw."

As an intimate friend explains it, "Bill's first interest is his love of people, all people. He makes the roughest, most ignorant man feel at ease, and he's not just playing up to him or to anybody. It's hard to put it into words that mean anything, but first of all he's an exponent of real, fundamental democracy.

"On the other hand, his love of people isn't a weakness. Where principles are involved he can be ruthless with people who haven't stood the test. He's not gullible."

CHANCELLOR Paty regards with favor those pastimes which bring him into contact with people. He likes fishing, but not for the sake of catching fish, and hunting, but not for what he can shoot. He likes to do both with friends.

He plays bridge for the same reason, but "he's not made for bridge; it doesn't fit his taste and habits." The same is true of athletics. He plays golf with friends, but badly. At the Cumberland school and at Birmingham-Southern College, where he was president before going to his present post at Alabama, he engaged in team sports with members of the faculty.

The chancellor's love of people dates back to his childhood in Bell Buckle, Tenn. There his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Paty, reared a family of five boys and three girls. Their home was further crowded by the presence of several students from Bell Buckle's famed Webb School who boarded there. Contributing to the stock of human beings who lived in the house were those many friends and relatives from near and not so near who made "Ma" and "Pa" Paty's their gathering place.

The Paty family. Left to right, Jane, Mrs. John A. Reynolds (Martha Anne Paty), Dr. Paty, Mrs. Paty and Mary. Dr. Paty has served as president of Birmingham-Southern College and the University of Alabama.

Bill Paty's own early training at Webb, with its strict but kindly discipline, had its part in his making. He later returned there to teach.

For many years his chief interest was in religious education. In fact, at one point he and Mrs. Paty planned to go abroad as missionaries but that ambition was sidetracked in favor of working in and with schools at home. One summer he was enrolled in the Emory School of Theology, but withdrew because of illness.

All eight of the Paty brothers and sisters at Bell Buckle went through college, the older ones helping out the younger ones as they moved along.

Georgia can look for things to happen, once Bill Paty gets back to the state. He's never content unless he's building something—exploring new ideas and possibilities. He despises deadly routine, and is not content simply to get up an efficient organization which can then run itself.

There are many examples of this, an outstanding one being his work in pushing through to establishment in the middle of the war years the long-discussed four-year Medical College of Alabama, situated in Birmingham.

He loves, too, to build with his own hands and is described as a jack of many trades. He is "a pretty fair rough carpenter," can do electrical wiring, repair a pump, and mix and lay concrete. All these and numerous other odd jobs he has done, especially at Crossville, where the head of the school also was building and maintenance man, and at his 40-acre farm near Panthersville, in DeKalb.

FOR some five years this farm has been one of the chief delights of Bill Paty's life. He likes to go there with members of the family, when he can find time, don old clothes, dig in the ground, and get away briefly from the hurly-burly that has been his life.

Picturesquely, the place is known as Cocklebur Patch and is located on Cocklebur Road. It has an old-fashioned, rambling farmhouse which is not occupied when the Patys are not there. The building, which has no phone, is set in a big oak grove. In the early spring thousands of jonquils make the little farm vivid.

When he moves to Atlanta to take over his new job on January 1, Dr. Paty probably will find—or try to find—a house in Atlanta. But it's safe to say he will spend many a week-end at Cocklebur Patch.

For the first time in many years, as they have moved on and up to new positions, Dr. and Mrs. Paty will not be accompanied by the three lovely daughters who have made their home about the brightest place in the community to which they happened to go.

Their oldest daughter, Martha Anne, is married to John Reynolds, of Birmingham, a former Marine who is now president of the Student Government Association at Alabama. She is managing a women's shop in Tuscaloosa, seat of the University, while her husband completes his studies.

Mary, a freshman at Alabama, and Jane, a senior at Tuscaloosa High School, will finish out the school year at their respective schools.

Finally, all Georgians who don't know might be forenotified that it's pronounced "Pay-ty," not "Pat-ty."

FIRST NATION-WIDE PLANNED PARENTHOOD CAMPAIGN

NEWS BULLETIN

FEBRUARY $2,000,000 MARCH

Issued from — NATIONAL CAMPAIGN HEADQUARTERS, 501 Madison Avenue, New York 22, N. Y.

FEBRUARY 1, 1947 303

NETWORK SPOT FOR N. Y. OPENING DINNER

A Columbia network broadcast of the campaign dinner talk of Mrs. William E. Stevenson on Feb. 10 will find a wide listening audience among friends of Planned Parenthood everywhere.

Mrs. Stevenson's broadcast will precede the dinner, going out from the CBS studio at 5:45 P.M. (Eastern time), while she will later repeat the address for the 600 present at the dinner.

PPFA committees in Columbia network cities have been contacted to urge local Columbia station directors to carry the broadcast (a sustaining feature) and if possible to arrange for its rebroadcast later that evening to coincide with their own opening dinners.

Known as "Bumpy" Stevenson to a wide audience of Saturday Evening Post readers for her series of articles, "I Knew Your Soldier," based on ETO experiences with the American Red Cross, Mrs. Stevenson is the wife of the president of Oberlin College, who is a member of our national sponsoring committee.

Dr. Alan Guttmacher, of Johns Hopkins School of Medicine, is New York's other speaker at the opening dinner at the Hotel Plaza. He is associate professor of obstetrics at Hopkins and will be recipient of the annual Lasker Award on that occasion.

Charles E. Saltzman, chairman of the N. Y. City campaign, will preside.

A dramatic highlight of the opening dinner, in New York and in many other cities, will be presentation of the playlet, "A Sunday Afternoon," prepared for Planned Parenthood by the American Theatre Wing.

Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, for two years president of the Federal Council of Churches and chairman of our national sponsoring committee, will address the opening dinner in Detroit on the same date.

Similar dinners or luncheons will be held by PPFA committees across the nation on Feb. 10 or during that week.

PPFA

500,000 Leaflets Can't Be Wrong

All but two pieces of campaign materials have been distributed to local committees to arm them for their campaign task ahead. Almost 500,000 pieces of these specially prepared materials have been shipped out to locals.

A national circular piece and a reprint of a forthcoming Look magazine story are still to be distributed.

The national circular is designed to show the geographical scope of the Planned Parenthood program and its support and will list more than 4,000 names from all across the country. Its campaign use is for follow-up mailings, but as it does not specifically mention campaign facts and figures it can be used all year-round.

The Look magazine layout is scheduled for the April 1 issue, which will be on the newsstands March 18. It is hoped the reprints will be ready at the same time. These reprint booklets can be used for late follow-up mailings and education pieces throughout the year.

IN THE CAMPAIGN FIELD

LOCAL COMMITTEES READY ALL ALONG THE LINE; PRESS, RADIO, SPEAKERS SELL PARENTHOOD PROGRAM

This last pre-campaign issue of the News Bulletin calls for a bit of stock-taking. And from this bird's-eye perch in national headquarters the picture is good . . . quite inspiring, in fact.

Our 75 participating committees are right in line, chests out, as we march to the Feb. 10th starting point. Most of the pre-campaign jobs have been well done and pretty close to schedule. Local committees are well organized and energetic. Many of National's suggestions not only have been followed but have been topped with good and original ideas worked out in the field.

But the main job is still ahead . . . something to do with pledges and dotted lines. The same energy will finish that job, too, and with flying colors.

PPFA

In Michigan the public attention has been caught at East Lansing, seat of Michigan State College, where emphasis has been placed on Planned Parenthood services for G. I. wives on the campus.

PPFA

A long editorial in the Youngstown (O.) Vindicator Telegram was worth a dozen news stories. It reflects a good job done by some persistent worker.

PPFA

Position is everything, especially in radio. . . . For instance, the radio listing secured by the Dutchess (N.Y.) County league in a Poughkeepsie newspaper — between "Lum and Abner" and "Town Meeting of the Air"! . . . Spotting a program between such widely tuned network features helps to insure a good listening audience.

PPFA

It's a Baby Contest in Baltimore (Northwest branch) as one of the special events for the opening of the campaign. This clinic is also planning a one-day institute on the theme, "What Makes Good Parents." . . . Two interesting ideas for other centers to consider.

PPFA

There's a busy Speakers' Bureau in Montclair, N. J. A recent report shows eleven campaign speaking engagements filled in recent weeks — before women's clubs, church guilds, nursing services, Junior Leagues, etc. . . . Congratulations to the speakers' bureau chairman, Mrs. John Little, for doing a big job!

PPFA

"A Sunday Afternoon," the playlet written and produced by the American Theatre Wing for the campaign, has met with an enthusiastic response at several previews in New York. The skit will be presented at the New York opening dinner on Feb. 10 and simultaneously by amateur casts at other opening events — more than a dozen

(Continued on page 2, column 3)

Men Roll Up Sleeves To Put Campaign Over

The interest and leadership of men in Planned Parenthood is a noteworthy feature of the 1947 Campaign.

Our national leadership — under Bishop Oxnam, Pierre S. du Pont, 3rd, and Prescott S. Bush — is matched in the communities by vigorous groups of leaders active in business and civic affairs who are comparative newcomers to the Planned Parenthood program.

In Kansas City, Mo., a men's committee of more than 50 includes Frank Theis, past president of the Chamber of Commerce; Milton McGreevy, of Harris Upham; Ralph Gray, president of Sheffield Steel; Louis Rothschild, department store head, and J. R. Battenfeld, industrialist.

A comparable group in Minneapolis was formed by Alfred Wilson, vice-president of Minneapolis-Honeywell, John S. Pillsbury and John Cowles, publisher.

In Toledo, Frank Lenihan, former head of the Community Chest and head of Macy's, and Wm. E. Levis, president of Owen-Illinois Glass, are among the men's committee leaders.

Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Wilmington and other major cities are enlisting key men to work in the campaign. And in New York City the campaign, mustering 100 business men, is headed by Charles E. Saltzman, vice-president of the New York Stock Exchange, with Archibald S. Alexander, member of the firm of Carter, Ledyard & Milburn, as chairman of the men's committee, and Walter N. Rothschild, of Abraham & Strauss, as vice-chairman.

DR. STONE'S LASKER AWARD MONEY TO PLANNED PARENTHOOD CAMPAIGN

One of the campaign's most heart-warming gifts will have been made public by the time the Bulletin goes to press.

Dr. Abraham Stone, medical director of the Margaret Sanger Research Bureau, editor of the Journal of Human Fertility and recipient of the 1947 Albert and Mary Lasker Foundation Award, will turn his award over to the campaign fund in memory of his wife, Dr. Hannah Stone.

Dr. Stone

The $500 cash award is made every year in recognition of work in the field of planned parenthood. Dr. Stone's citation reads:

"To, Dr. Abraham Stone for distinguished leadership in marriage counseling in many roles, as author, editor, speaker and organizer, as well as personal advisor and clinic director."

Dr. Hannah Stone was one of the country's first doctors to become identified with the Birth Control movement under Margaret Sanger. She was medical director of the Sanger Bureau at the time of her death in 1941.

PPFA

Procedure Important In Handling Campaign Funds

The handling of contributions is one of the most important campaign jobs from now until the end of the campaign.

A memo from Prescott Bush, national treasurer, has been sent to all local treasurers outlining procedure and enclosing the official form on which local contributions are to be reported to national headquarters.

A pre-campaign report on funds raised has been requested of all locals so that a statement can be made at the opening of the campaign as to the advance gifts raised.

The importance of having these forms returned to national on a weekly basis after Feb. 21 was heavily stressed by Mr. Bush in the memo.

These local reports are the sole guage of progress for the national campaign. A full explanation of the procedure for locals is included in the memorandum.

PPFA

Committees Set to Roll

With only a fortnight to go before the official campaign opening, the campaign structure throughout the 75 participating locals is virtually complete.

In all but eight participating committees by mid-January a campaign chairman was in command. Publicity chairmen, radio subcommittees and speakers' bureaus have been on the job in most cases for a month or two.

Sleeves are rolled up — the campaign is set to roll — in high gear!

Gallup Conducting Poll On Planned Parenthood

Bulletin:

A Gallup Poll on Planned Parenthood!

We have just learned at campaign headquarters that the Institute of Public Opinion is preparing a national poll on two important phases of our program.

One of the questions to be asked will relate to the ideal sized family. The other question will test opinion on whether child-spacing services should be made available in public health clinics.

Results of the poll will be published about the middle of February.

If the results follow the trend of all previous polls, the timing could not be better to help the PPFA campaign.

RESEARCH PROGRAM BOOSTS CAMPAIGN

Research is proving a strong campaign selling point, reports from the field indicate.

The research program will have the twofold aim of investigation into causes and cure of infertility and the discovery of a simple, acceptable method of contraception.

Dr. Felix J. Underwood, executive officer of the Mississippi State Board of Health, which includes child-spacing information in its clinic services, defines the need for a simple, inexpensive contraceptive as "an urgent public health need — indeed, a life-saving measure."

While maternal death rates have been markedly reduced in this country in the last decade, there has been little reduction in the number of still-births and neo-natal deaths, which total around 150,000 annually. Dr. Leona Baumgartner, director of the Bureau of Child Hygiene of the N. Y. City Health Department, attributes this high rate in great part to lack of knowledge in the whole field of human physiology. The Federation's proposed research program in this field is expected to reduce these deaths substantially.

The program will be conducted under a permanent research director and through grants to established laboratories and universities.

How Mats Are Used

The illustration of the campaign symbol appearing below and at the left is from one of the half-column mats sent out to committees. It shows how your local newspaper can make use of these mats to embody the symbol in the campaign stories.

IN THE CAMPAIGN FIELD

(Continued from page 1, column 3)

communities have already ordered the script.

Groups that have thus far voiced unanimous approval of "Sunday Afternoon," after seeing it enacted, include members of the campaign men's and women's committees, both New York and National.

The playlet looks like a sure hit wherever it's produced.

PPFA

If you could glance through the nearly 1,000 cards returned to Bishop Oxnam, accepting his invitation to join the national sponsoring committee for the campaign, you'd find many heartening comments. . . . To cite just a few ——

"I was among the first three, if not the first, of American clergymen to champion Birth Control," wrote the Rev. Charles Francis Potter. "I was with Margaret Sanger when she was arrested in Town Hall. I fought with her through the early days. Of course, you can use my name!"

Said Dr. S. Ralph Harlow, of Smith College: "For the physical, moral and spiritual progress of America, this cause is important. . . . I use your fine material in a course of 100 juniors and seniors."

And Dr. Orland E. White, of the University of Virginia — "As a biologist and geneticist I am in entire sympathy with this movement and fully aware of the crimes involved in accidental births."

Writes Dr. Ada B. Carter, executive director of the Bureau for Colored Children, Philadelphia: "This program needs the support of all those in the children's field."

"It is a Christian cause," writes the Rev. Frank J. Frye, Baltimore, "and worthy of the support of the church."

George H. Robinson, executive secretary of the New Jersey Urban League, says: "I consider this one of the most essential programs of the present time."

"The Federation has a real mission among rural people in light of the high infant and maternal death rate," observed the Rev. Moses N. DeLaney, director of the Department of Rural Church, Shaw University, Raleigh, N. C.

"One of the major ways of insuring a sturdy motherhood and building a healthy people," says the Rev. W. K. Fox, of Southern Christian Institute, Edwards, Miss.

And Mrs. Malcolm Keir, of Hanover, N. H., calls our program "a basic step in developing healthy and socially adjusted citizens."

To Anton J. Carlson, University of Chicago, "Planned Parenthood is a must for the human race."

"The Planned Parenthood program is vital in any consideration of our national welfare," says the Rev. Dr. James H. Woodruff, of San Francisco, in returning his acceptance.

And Mrs. Henry Ford, of Dearborn, Mich.: "I am heartily in favor of the work."

PPFA

Send Us Your News!

With this issue, the News Bulletin goes on a fortnightly schedule till the end of the campaign.

Send us news of your campaign progress . . . others want to know how you're doing . . . so do we!

Address material to the News Bulletin at national campaign headquarters.

FIRST NATION-WIDE PLANNED PARENTHOOD CAMPAIGN

NEWS BULLETIN

FEBRUARY $2,000,000 MARCH

Issued from—NATIONAL CAMPAIGN HEADQUARTERS, 501 Madison Avenue, New York 22, N. Y.

FEBRUARY 15, 1947 303

CAMPAIGN OFF TO FLYING START

For Service in the Cause of Planned Parenthood

After the Award. Dr. Alan F. Guttmacher (left) and Dr. Abraham Stone (right) inspecting the model of the Albert and Mary Lasker Award of which they were recipients at the New York opening dinner on Feb. 10. Holding the plaque is its creator, Dr. Robert L. Dickinson, gynecologist and foremost medical artist and sculptor, while the Rev. Cornelius P. Trowbridge, PPFA chairman who made the presentation, looks on.

Networks Carry Story To Nation's Millions

Planned Parenthood's story really took to the air with the opening of the campaign.

The night before the official opening, listeners to Walter Winchell's Sunday evening, Feb. 9th broadcast — a potential audience according to the American Broadcasting Co. of 26,000,000 homes — heard the following just after the mid-program commercial:

"Tucson, Arizona — Thirty years ago tonight, Ladies and Gentlemen, Margaret Sanger was put in a prison cell in Queens County, Long Island, for starting America's first clinic for birth control. Tomorrow night in Tucson, where she lives, Mrs. Sanger, now a grandmother, will speak at an event for Planned Parenthood.

"Thirty years ago she went to jail for trying to protect mothers with advice. Today there are 584 such clinics in the United States. Thanks to the courage of Margaret Sanger, Birth Control is now legal in every state except Massachusetts and Connecticut."

Thus, Walter Winchell — speaking from WJZ, in New York, over a network of 208 radio stations — dramatically opened the campaign for Planned Parenthood. The nation's No. 1 radio reporter deserves the thanks of the friends of Planned Parenthood.

(Continued on page 2, column 1)

Corporate Gifts Urged As Bulwark of Local Quota

Between one-third and one-fourth of campaign goals should be sought from corporate gifts, according to Pierre S. du Pont, 3rd, National Men's Committee Chairman.

Solicitation in the field of corporate giving will be a pioneer and difficult effort this year, principally because it is an untouched field of giving for Planned Parenthood.

A good example of what can be done with business firms is found in Des Moines, Iowa, which has raised $3,000 in new money from nine business firms, against a total goal of $12,000. No corporate gift had ever been asked for or received prior to this campaign.

Similar results have been achieved in Toledo, Birmingham, Rochester, Chicago, Detroit and other cities where for the first time business concerns are being asked to support Planned Parenthood.

Several important points in soliciting corporate gifts were stressed by Mr. du Pont in a recent meeting of the national men's committee:

First, corporation gifts will be obtained largely on a friendship basis between the solicitor and the prospect, and, secondly, that effort should be made generally to obtain comparatively small corporate gifts ranging from $100 to $1,000. Finally, solicitation for larger gifts will be generally successful, the committee felt, only in cases where the solicitor is well known to the prospect or where a specific project or need exists in which the corporation may be particularly interested.

Members of women's committees were advised to review their prospect lists with corporate gifts in mind, bolstering visits to such men prospects by taking along a member of the men's committee.

"This year," du Pont said, "we are establishing the precedent of corporate giving. The groundwork laid in this campaign will pay off even more handsomely in our next campaign."

Advance Gifts Help Many Local Quotas

The First Nationwide Campaign is on its way!

At scores of dinners and opening events, in New York and cities across the country, Planned Parenthood's greatest fund appeal got off to a flying start on Feb. 10th.

Advance gifts, announced at the New York opening dinner by Mrs. Robert M. Ferguson, executive chairman, total $203,000 — more than 10 percent of the $2,000,000 goal.

Two cities — Houston, Tex. and Wilmington, Del. — reached 50 percent of their quotas with advance gifts. Several other cities are not far behind. New York's $67,000 in advance gifts, as announced by Charles E. Saltzman, city chairman, includes one contribution of $20,000.

The campaign dinners were well attended, well publicized. More than 600 men and women attended New York's opening at the Hotel Plaza. The address of Mrs. William E. Stevenson was broadcast over the CBS network. Dr. Alan Guttmacher's arresting report on the first countrywide poll of physicians on their attitudes toward contraception received solid treatment in the New York press and went out across the country via the wire services.

In Detroit the dynamic address of Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, speaking in Central Methodist Church, received excellent coverage in Detroit newspapers.

Now the opening flurry is past. The campaign is rolling and it's for you to keep it rolling. Good luck — and good going!

NATIONAL CIRCULAR SHOWS PROGRAM SCOPE

The scope of the program — the scope of the need — and the scope of national support are shown in a national circular which is to be shipped to local committees and state leagues this week.

The circular does not specifically mention the campaign. To adapt it to follow-up mailing use in the campaign, a special subscription card form has been designed to enclose with it.

The circular lists the names of more than 5,000 business, civic, labor and professional leaders who are sponsoring the Planned Parenthood program and campaign.

Showing as it does the numerical as well as geographical support behind the Planned Parenthood program, the circular is a powerful ally to gain year-round and campaign support of local programs.

It should be included in all mailings to prospects not heard from in initial solicitation. It may also be used throughout the year as an educational piece to enlist interest and support in Planned Parenthood.

PPFA

Networks Carry Story

(Continued from page 1, column 1)

On Feb. 10th Mrs. William E. Stevenson broadcast for fifteen minutes over Station WCBS and affiliated stations of the Columbia Broadcasting System. Her discussion titled "The Soldier Takes a Wife," repeated later at the New York campaign dinner, was a cogent appeal for support of the Planned Parenthood campaign.

Among the CBS stations, four that we have already heard from were persuaded by local PPFA committees to rebroadcast the Stevenson feature at another hour. In Kansas City a rebroadcast over KMBC was arranged for 9:45 P.M. that same evening, through the efforts of Mrs. J. R. Battenfeld, association president. In Buffalo, Mrs. C. W. Pooley, executive secretary, arranged for the broadcast at 4:45 o'clock on the following day. The program was aired that Monday night at 10:30 in Cincinatti (WKRC) and in Boston (WEEI) it was scheduled for Feb. 12.

Citing but four radio stations is an inadequate way of describing the coverage on the Stevenson talk. Many CBS stations carried the program at the regularly scheduled hour — others at deferred times as yet unreported.

The return of postcards indicates fine cooperation by local workers in getting audience mail to the radio stations.

After these network programs the local committees may be expected to place renewed emphasis on local broadcasts, especially the use of spot announcements. Don't neglect the "spots" — they are an excellent way of keeping your local appeal before the public!

PPFA

Attention, Please!

The next issue of the News Bulletin will be what you make it. Between now and March 1st, every committee will have had a chance to pull up in sight of the campaign goal. Make your report the best of all!

MEMORANDUM

February 15, 1947

To: All Workers

From: Frances H. Ferguson, Executive Chairman

Let's finish the job as soon as possible!

Get your assignments — see your prospects — make your report.

The dates of the intensive campaign period, February 10-March 8, were chosen after careful deliberation so as to give us the maximum opportunity for success.

In another two weeks the Red Cross campaign will open and while it is true there is no conflict in the objective of either organization the average giver is limited in the causes he can afford to support. So . . . let's get there first.

February 21st is the first report date. Make yours a good one.

"MEN AT WORK" SPELLS GAIN FOR PPFA PROGRAM, SAYS POOL

Just returned from a four-week midwestern field trip that touched ten principal campaign cities, Beekman Pool, associate director, reports an upswing of confidence and determination to meet campaign goals.

PLANNED PARENTHOOD

SAVES LIVES – SAVES HOMES

Pool's trip took him to Chicago, Des Moines, Omaha, Kansas City, St. Louis, Dallas, San Antonio, Houston, Denver and Colorado Springs.

One of the most encouraging campaign signs, according to Mr. Pool, was the widening interest of men in the Planned Parenthood program and campaign. However, he added, in many communities this has not yet been translated into work. According to Pool, hard work by men is one of the most urgent campaign needs in most local committees.

Coupled with a growing awareness of the scope and importance of the national program is the realization on the part of most local committees that as they enter the fight for the philanthropic dollar in their community they must strengthen their own organizations, according to Pool.

The result in many communities is that boards are being expanded and new blood is being brought into the organization.

According to Mr. Pool, doors are being opened to Planned Parenthood that have never been opened before. He cited increased newspaper and radio publicity as one evidence of this, and the successful solicitation of corporate and business gifts.

The force of a national program, a large enough goal to command attention of big givers, and the widening circle of informed interest through use of campaign and educational literature were cited by Pool as reasons for the increasing acceptance of Planned Parenthood.

According to Pool, the strongest selling point in the Planned Parenthood case is that it is "the program that anticipates the disaster." The emphasis on prevention is the factor that has rung the bell.

Du Pont Answers Clerical Attack; Urges "Fairness. . . . Good Taste"

Branding an opposition attack as "poor taste to say the least," Pierre S. du Pont, 3rd issued a statement which was published in the Wilmington Morning News, Wilmington, Del., Feb. 11th. The du Pont statement was issued in answer to an attack on the Planned Parenthood group made by a priest before a meeting of the Holy Name Society in Wilmington.

The statement of Mr. du Pont, member of the executive board of the Delaware League for Planned Parenthood, Inc. as well as chairman of the national men's committee, said in part:

"Planned Parenthood holds the health, happiness, moral and spiritual welfare of the family to be of paramount importance . . . our organization does not seek to impose its views upon anyone, but it does believe that the information it has acquired on the subject should be made available to all who desire it.

"Since the question of good morals has been raised, I have this to say for my group. We believe that it is immoral to bring children into the world unless they may have the benefit of the advantages which are essential to their moral, mental and physical development; we believe it is immoral to force a mother to bear children with such frequency that it endangers her health and renders her unfit for the responsibilities of parenthood; we further believe that the best way to avoid these evils is to space intelligently the birth of children.

"For a Christian clergyman to so violently attack his fellow citizens with whom he differs is poor taste to say the least. I am confident that every fair minded Roman Catholic, Protestant and Jew will join with me in the effort to avoid the bad feeling which always results from unfair and unnecessary criticism."

FIRST NATION-WIDE PLANNED PARENTHOOD CAMPAIGN

NEWS BULLETIN

FEBRUARY $2,000,000 MARCH

Issued from—NATIONAL CAMPAIGN HEADQUARTERS, 501 Madison Avenue, New York 22, N. Y.

MARCH 10, 1947 303

'LOOK' MEANS A LOT TO YOU IN CAMPAIGN

Look for LOOK — on March 18!

And look for a big campaign spurt from there on in.

When the April 1st issue of Look Magazine hits the newsstands in your community on March 18, reprints of the dramatic five-page article on Planned Parenthood will be going out to your committee. And well in advance of that date your committee will have acted on a plan for staging a "Look at Planned Parenthood Week" to include:

Mailing a Look reprint to all prospects who have not yet contributed.

Solicitation of all special gift and assigned prospects via personal calls and telephone.

Newspaper and radio publicity that will take advantage of the Look magazine article.

The most complete presentation our program has ever received, the Look article is titled The Fight for Better Babies. In picture and text its five pages dramatically feature the major social evils at which our program is directed, our program in action, current acceptance of Planned Parenthood and its endorsement by national leaders, and the detailed aims of PPFA's $2,000,000 campaign.

The reprints, ordered in large quantity for use by the participating committees, comprise eight pages, reduced to letterhead size from the original magazine format. The cover reproduces the April 1st cover of Look, the five-page article follows, the back cover (both sides) carries two pages of our campaign appeal for gifts. A subscription form will accompany each reprint. Your committee has received a form for ordering reprints and the special envelopes to go with them; many orders have already come into headquarters.

Here, then, is Planned Parenthood's biggest piece of promotion. It is perfectly timed to help you down the campaign home stretch.

Look for LOOK — on March 18!

PPFA

Reader's Digest, Too

An unusual phase of PPFA clinic service gets national attention March 25 when the Reader's Digest, April issue, carries an article on referral of cancer cases from the Mineola, L. I., clinic.

The article cites the unique value of the clinic's records of patients who have come for child-spacing advice and upon examination have been referred to a cancer clinic or specialist.

DOWN THE HOME STRETCH

FIRST MILLION IN SIGHT, BUT FINAL PUSH NEEDED; CHAIRMAN CALLS FOR PROGRESS REPORTS

Urging redoubled efforts in raising lagging campaign totals, Mrs. Robert M. Ferguson, national executive chairman, has announced that after ten days of active campaigning, 42 local committees have reported that they have obtained nearly $350,000 of their combined goals of $915,000 or 38 percent of these goals. These figures were taken from the February 21st report.

Failure of more than 30 local committees to file progress reports with national makes it extremely difficult to gauge progress on the national campaign, Mrs. Ferguson pointed out.

"Complete reports should indicate that we are well on our way to the first million of our campaign," Mrs. Ferguson said. "Many committees, after just a few days of campaigning, have reported that they have doubled and tripled last year's quota. Several reported on the 21st that four, five and six times last year's quotas have been raised."

Campaign efforts will be concentrated in a final "push" drive to solicit all prospects who have not yet contributed during the week of March 17th, which has been designated as "Look at Planned Parenthood Week."

The 42 committees reporting showed a total of approximately 10,000 gifts. Reports also showed that one-third more contributions had been received in the first two weeks of campaigning than in any previous campaign.

The inability of special gifts committee workers to contact many special gifts prospects early in February because they were away has affected campaign totals considerably, according to Mrs. Ferguson.

The lack of foundation solicitation by February 21st, and the fact that corporate solicitation was just getting under way in many committees, were also important determining factors in many reports, Mrs. Ferguson said.

Not included among the committees reporting on the 21st were Chicago, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Dallas, whose combined goals represent almost one-fifth of the national goal.

Executive Chairman

Mrs. Robert M. Ferguson

As energetic as she is charming, Mrs. Robert M. Ferguson is devoting all of her time to the success of Planned Parenthood's greatest campaign.

Gallup Poll 3 to 1 For Clinic Service

The three-to-one Gallup poll favoring birth control service by government health clinics — announced in the press on March 1 — provided excellent national publicity midway in our campaign.

The poll was on the question: "Would you approve or disapprove of having government health clinics furnish birth control information to married people who want it in this country?" Those questioned were American citizens of voting age.

The replies:

Yes	64%
No	23%
No opinion	13%

The last previous Gallup poll on the same question (1940) used a different statistical method, eliminating the "no opinion" figure and converting "yes" and "no" answers in terms of 100%. By this method — as explained to us by an executive of the American Institute of Public Opinion — our 1947 poll would have come out as 74% "yes" and 26% "no," approximately the same as 1940's 77-23 ratio. (The Institute has consistently stressed a possible error range of four percentage points in evaluating poll results.)

Commenting on the percentage scores in both 1940 and 1947 polls on birth control, a representative of Dr. Gallup observed:

"In few polls since we began sampling in 1935 has this degree of approval been attained."

Three-to-one for birth control — that's the score among American men and women — that's the vote of the people in your community. That is the attitude you can translate into support for Planned Parenthood, support of your campaign.

LARGER GIFTS SWELL TOTALS; COMMITTEES DOUBLE '46 EFFORT

Many New Small Givers Broaden PPFA Support

An analysis of the gifts reported by 42 committees on Feb. 21 shows that almost 80 percent of the total reported came from gifts of $100 or more.

This follows closely the proportion of large gifts the national planning committee felt would be necessary to achieve the campaign goal.

One of the most important and encouraging trends of the current campaign, according to Prescott S. Bush, national campaign treasurer, has been the great increase in the number of small givers and the fact that more than one-third of past contributors to Planned Parenthood have more than doubled their gifts to this campaign.

Eleven committees, according to the Feb. 21 report, had more than doubled the amount raised last year. Outstanding among those taking the lead are Omaha, which reported almost seven times the amount raised last year; Indianapolis, four times; and Houston, five times over last year's goal.

Montclair, N. J., has reported three times their quota of last year already raised; Rochester has more than doubled its stiff quota of last year; Tuscon is two and one half times over last year's amount raised; Wilmington, within 90 percent of this year's goal, is four and a half times over last year.

Denver reports one and a half times more money raised by Feb. 21 than last year; Des Moines, by the first report date, had raised three and a half times last year's goal; Toledo is three times over last year; Binghampton four times; Niagara Falls two and a half times; and Kansas City has one and a half times more gifts reported than last year.

PPFA

Wide Clergy Activity A Potent Campaign Force

Protestant and Jewish clergymen the country over have been one of the strongest sources of strength and support of the First Nationwide Planned Parenthood Campaign.

The signing of the clergymen's resolution by more than 3,200 outstanding ministers and rabbis resulted in some of the strongest nationwide publicity of the campaign — and at a time when it was most needed by local committees in their preliminary organization tasks.

The prestige and moral character this endorsement lent to the campaign efforts all over the country gave a strong impetus to enlistment efforts.

Clergymen have been active in their support of local campaign efforts. In response to a request from Bishop Oxnam, more than 2,500 campaign posters were sent out by national headquarters to more than 700 clergymen for posting in churches and meeting places.

Many clergy, such as in Minneapolis, have participated in campaign efforts by announcing the campaign from their pulpits and by using Planned Parenthood material in sermons and in radio talks.

LOOK TO NEXT YEAR MRS. VALENTINE URGES

If Winter comes . . . etc.

Taking a long and shrewd look ahead, Mrs. Alan Valentine, national women's chairman, reminds the participating committees that between now and the close of the campaign is the time to appoint a campaign chairman for next year.

Well spoken, Mrs. V.!

The fact is every committee has learned a lot in the past few months, has gained a lot of know-how that must not be wasted. With the techniques learned, the lists built up — most of all, the leadership developed — next year's campaign will be much smoother sailing, the goal much easier of attainment.

Take full advantage of this year's experience by selecting now your next year's chairman. He (or she) will, of course, be a member of your present campaign organization who has shown leadership and a grasp of your campaign needs. And choice of a chairman now will give this person opportunity to assess this year's achievement and plan next year's campaign.

Summer's coming . . . and just as sure as next August's golf score, autumn is going to follow . . . sooner than you think. With your 1947-48 chairman named this spring, he can be on the job when the vacations are over, ready to name his lieutenants and organize next year's appeal.

It's not only a sensible idea, it's a must for every committee. The floor is now open to nominations. . . .

PPFA

Orchid Dept.

Orchids to the Tucson Publicity Committee for one of the best reported press, radio and speakers bureau jobs of the campaign.

Mrs. William Pictor and Mrs. Emery Johnson, in charge of press and radio, have piled up an impressive coverage in their media. The two main Tucson stations, KVOA and KTUC, representing both networks, have each used eight 15-minute weekly programs, two 5-minute programs and spot announcements.

Tucson dailies have run ten campaign news stories, printed nine letters pro and con.

Mrs. Charles Mattingly, Speakers Bureau head and her committee, Mrs. Benson Bloom, Mrs. Boriz Zemsky and Richard Wallen, have scheduled talks for Planned Parenthood speakers before fourteen groups.

Congratulations on an outstanding job!

APPEAL CARRIED TO NATIONAL FOUNDATIONS

Foundations are being approached in the First Nationwide Planned Parenthood Campaign to a greater extent than in any previous campaign, Pierre S. duPont, 3rd, national men's committee chairman, reports.

More than 500 national foundations have received a special foundation appeal over Mr. duPont's signature. Foundations solicited by the Federation in this campaign roughly fall into four categories — general, medical, educational and research. Response from many of these foundations is slow, due to the fact that most foundation boards meet in March to consider appeals.

A special covering letter highlighting the interests of each foundation has been prepared. Sample copies of these four letters, together with the basic foundation appeal booklet, have been sent to local committees. Complete booklets are available for ordering by locals in their task of soliciting local foundations.

Scattered returns indicate that local committees are receiving foundation gifts. St. Louis reports $1,000 from the Boettcher Foundation. The Cowles Foundation has contributed $250 to the Des Moines local campaign and Minneapolis has reported a gift of $250 from an anonymous local foundation. The $20,000 national gift to the National underwriting fund from an anonymous foundation is still the largest single foundation gift on record. Two other foundation gifts of $10,000 have been received in New York City.

!! WORKERS !!
MARCH IS THE MONTH TO FINISH THE JOB

As in every phase of the campaign, the greatest responsibility for the success of the "Look at Planned Parenthood Week" will rest with you — the workers. This national publicity will help you in your task.

1. Complete all your prospect assignments and if at all possible add a few new ones from among the unassigned prospects who have not yet responded to the campaign.
2. These prospects — whether or not they have contributed to Planned Parenthood before — have been educated on planned Parenthood through a variety of printed material and other forms of publicity through the early stages of the campaign. The Look article provides the clincher — a strong, objective presentation that spells "sold" for the undecided. Because it is impartial, because it presents a complete analysis of Planned Parenthood and what it does and means, this magazine article does the kind of selling job that will make your approach to the propect easy. Take full advantage of it!
3. Report solicitation results during that week promptly. It is important that chairmen know the results of your special week's effort at once so they can report to national.

. . . . MARCH IS THE MONTH TO FINISH THE JOB . . . .

GOOD LUCK!

P— Patton

FARMERS EDUCATIONAL AND COOPERATIVE UNION of America

3501 EAST 46th AVENUE, DENVER, COLORADO

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

May 25, 1948

RECEIVED
MAY 27 1948
Southern Regional Council

Mr. George S. Mitchell
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear George:

Jim is in Europe, so I will acknowledge your letter of May 20.

I just talked with our editor about the pamphlet on Southern housing. We intend to give some attention to economic conditions in our July issue of the National Union Farmer. I think we will be able to run an article on housing, featuring the Southern pamphlet. I am sure this will carry out the idea you had in mind.

I doubt that any of us have given you any information on the developments for the Nashville area since the meeting in December. This meeting was very worth while, I believe, because the ideas agreed upon are used constantly in our discussions of the Southern situation in Executive Committee and other meetings. At the last meeting of the Executive Committee, it was decided that the small grant of funds we received from the Whitney Fund should be used for making an economic study of the Piedmont area as a preliminary step to larger-scale cooperative development. This work will probably be done during late summer of this year.

We are also trying to arrange some joint work with A. F. Whitney, of the Brotherhood, to be done in the Tennessee-Alabama-Mississippi-Carolina-Virginia area. Jim may have discussed this with you, if you were attending the meeting in Nashville in April sponsored by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

It was mighty fine to see you last December. I expect to have a visit with Beanie Baldwin within a week. I am sure we will mention your name.

Sincerely yours,

Lee,

Lee Fryer
Administrative Assistant to JAMES G. PATTON

49

P-

June 11, 1948

Editor, THE PAMPHLET INDEX
Schulte Press, Inc.
119 West 23rd Street
New York 11, N. Y.

Dear Sir:

Enclosed is a copy of Housing in the South, with synopsis, published by the Southern Regional Council since the April issue of THE PAMPHLET INDEX.

May I also call your attention to The Condition of Our Rights, listed on page 17 of your April issue? As you will see from the enclosed copy, it has now been published in printed form and the price has been increased. The last line of your synopsis should be changed as follows: "Published by The Southern Regional Council, Inc., Atlanta, Ga., June, 1948. 6 x 9, 44 pp., 20¢."

With appreciation for your valuable publication, I am

Sincerely,

Harold C. Fleming
Director of Information

enclosures
1 cy Housing in the South
1 cy The Condition of Our Rights

HC7

THE PAMPHLET INDEX

A CATALOGUE OF SMALL PUBLICATIONS IN SOCIAL AFFAIRS

June 5, 1948

The July issue of The Pamphlet Index is now in preparation.

Would you send us copies of your pamphlets which have appeared since our April issue.

The deadline for the July issue is July 3.

To assure regular listings, may we suggest that you place The Pamphlet Index on your mailing list and send us your material as it appears.

In order that our listings may be accurate, please make sure that the price and date of publication appear on each piece of your literature.

Cordially

THE PAMPHLET INDEX

Please handle, giving synopses

RECEIVED
JUN 9 1948
Southern Regional Council

SCHULTE PRESS, Inc., 119 West 23rd Street, New York 11, New York, CHelsea 2-0326 - 0327

P-Miscl Pielstick

Telephone GRamercy 5-8585

COMMITTEE ON TOWN AND COUNTRY

Constituted Jointly
by
The Home Missions Council of North America
The Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America
The International Council of Religious Education

297 FOURTH AVENUE, NEW YORK 10, N. Y.

EDWIN L. BECKER
Chairman
BENSON Y. LANDIS
Secretary
DON F. PIELSTICK
Associate Secretary

July 21, 1948

Mr. George S. Mitchell
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432, 63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

Thank you for your letter of July 19th. In response to your request I am sending you the preliminary report of the Evanston Conference entitled, " Protestant Program for the Family Farm." This report does not mean that the program has been authorized. We are still in the stages of discussion as to whether all these recommendations should be used.

Sincerely yours,

Don F. Pielstick

Don F. Pielstick

RECEIVED
JUL 23 1948
Southern Regional Council

28-P- Misc -
Protestant Film Commission

July 27, 1948

Protestant Film Commission
45 Astor Place
New York 3, New York

Dear Sirs:

Your lately-at-Junaluska Miss ___?___ Cocke (?), very kindly sent for my review the script of the film on prejudice, which I return herewith.

I liked it very much indeed and thought it effective and, by reason of the neat twists of its plot, sustained in its interest.

The minister's talk comes out wonderfully.

I do hope you can get it made and widely circulated.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

Enclosure: Film script, "Prejudice"

GSM:eb

28-Publisc-Penn School

August 16, 1948

Miss Linnie Schley
430 West Stafford Street
Philadelphia 44, Pennsylvania

Dear Miss Schley:

I am very late in returning copy No. 47 of the manuscript on Penn School.

I greatly enjoyed reading it and was filled with admiration for the incisive way that Ira Reid and the others went about their job.

I remain one who praises the life-long effort which has gone into the school.

Sincerely yours,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

jdh
Enclosure--Manuscript on Penn School.

Pa-Penn Normal

May 6, 1948

Miss Linnie Schley, Executive Secretary
Penn Normal Industrial and Agricultural School
430 West Stafford Street
Philadelphia 44, Pennsylvania

Dear Miss Schley:

I appreciate your letter of May 3.

Copy Number 47 of the evaluation of Penn School will be returned to you separately and shortly.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:eb

PENN NORMAL INDUSTRIAL AND AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL

FROGMORE POST OFFICE, ST. HELENA ISLAND, SOUTH CAROLINA

HOWARD KESTER
Principal

MRS. HOWARD KESTER
Supervisor of Instruction

MISS LINNIE SCHLEY
Executive Secretary
Philadelphia, Pa.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES
William E. Cadbury
Chairman
Philadelphia, Pa.
L. Hollingsworth Wood
Vice-Chairman
New York, N. Y.
Paul W. Brown, Jr.
Treasurer
1632 Chestnut Street
Philadelphia, Pa.
Mrs. W. W. Smith, II
Secretary
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.
Dr. George H. Aull
Clemson, S. C.
George A. Buchanan, Jr.
Columbia, S. C.
Miss Rossa B. Cooley
New York, N. Y.
Miss Isabella Curtis
Boston, Mass.
Mrs. Thomas H. Eliot
Cambridge, Mass.
Harold Evans
Philadelphia, Pa.
Miss Grace B. House
Long Island, N. Y.
Mrs. Horace H. Jenks
Haverford, Pa.
Dr. Jane McAllister
Washington, D. C.
Dr. B. E. Mays
Atlanta, Ga.
Mrs. John F. Moors
Brookline, Mass.
Mrs. Reinhold Niebuhr
New York, N. Y.
Henry W. Pope
New York, N. Y.
Robert Ogden Purves
New York, N. Y.
Mrs. William A. Shurcliff
Washington, D. C.
John A. Silver
Philadelphia, Pa.
Dr. William R. Valentine
Bordentown, N. J.
Hon. Marion A. Wright
Conway, S. C.

ADVISORY BOARD
Mrs. Y. W. Bailey
St. Helena Island, S. C.
Francis R. Cope, Jr.
Dimock, Pa.
Miss Lucy Davis
Cambridge, Mass.
J. Nelson Frierson
Columbia, S. C.
The Rev. Arthur Howe
West Orange, N. J.
Mrs. John A. Jeffries
Santa Barbara, Cal.
Paul Kellogg
New York, N. Y.
Miss Ellen Morris
Villa Nova, Pa.

430 West Stafford Street
Philadelphia 44, Pa.

May 3, 1948

RECEIVED
MAY 5 1948
Southern Regional Council

Dr. George S. Mitchell
Executive Director
The Southern Regional Council
Room 432, 36 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Auburn, Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

At the direction of Mr. William E. Cadbury, Chairman of our Board, I am sending you, enclosed, a copy of the letter to contributors announcing the changes at Penn School, and a copy of the press release which was distributed on May 1.

Under separate cover I am sending you a copy of "An Evaluation of the Facilities, Program and Objectives of the Penn Normal, Industrial and Agricultural School," which is the report of the Survey made at Penn School in January. This report is of a highly confidential nature, Your copy is Number 47.

If there is other material which would be helpful to you, please let me know.

Sincerely yours,

Linnie Schley

Executive Secretary.

ENC:

cc: Hon. Marion A. Wright
Linville Falls, North Carolina

PENN NORMAL INDUSTRIAL AND AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL

FROGMORE POST OFFICE, ST. HELENA ISLAND, SOUTH CAROLINA

HOWARD KESTER
Principal

MRS. HOWARD KESTER
Supervisor of Instruction

MISS LINNIE SCHLEY
Executive Secretary
Philadelphia, Pa.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

William E. Cadbury
Chairman
Philadelphia, Pa.

L. Hollingsworth Wood
Vice-Chairman
New York, N. Y.

Paul W. Brown, Jr.
Treasurer
1632 Chestnut Street
Philadelphia, Pa.

Mrs. W. W. Smith, II
Secretary
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Dr. George H. Aull
Clemson, S. C.

George A. Buchanan, Jr.
Columbia, S. C.

Miss Rossa B. Cooley
New York, N. Y.

Miss Isabella Curtis
Boston, Mass.

Mrs. Thomas H. Eliot
Cambridge, Mass.

Harold Evans
Philadelphia, Pa.

Miss Grace B. House
Long Island, N. Y.

Mrs. Horace H. Jenks
Haverford, Pa.

Dr. Jane McAllister
Washington, D. C.

Dr. B. E. Mays
Atlanta, Ga.

Mrs. John F. Moors
Brookline, Mass.

Mrs. Reinhold Niebuhr
New York, N. Y.

Henry W. Pope
New York, N. Y.

Robert Ogden Purves
New York, N. Y.

Mrs. William A. Shurcliff
Washington, D. C.

John A. Silver
Philadelphia, Pa.

Dr. William R. Valentine
Bordentown, N. J.

Hon. Marion A. Wright
Conway, S. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

Mrs. Y. W. Bailey
St. Helena Island, S. C.

Francis R. Cope, Jr.
Dimock, Pa.

Miss Lucy Davis
Cambridge, Mass.

J. Nelson Frierson
Columbia, S. C.

The Rev. Arthur Howe
West Orange, N. J.

Mrs. John A. Jeffries
Santa Barbara, Cal.

Paul Kellogg
New York, N. Y.

225 South 15th Street
Philadelphia 2, Pa.

April 29, 1948

Dear Friend of Penn School:

This letter brings you an announcement of great importance. Your interest in Penn School and the generous support you have given it entitle you to know in advance of the press and general public of the new program we are planning to undertake on St. Helena Island.

At the recent special meeting of the Board, it was decided that at the end of the present school term the elementary and secondary school program of Penn School will be discontinued, and our efforts directed toward a contemplated program of "community planning, education and improvement; of community sanitation and health; of community recreation and sport; and of community mental and spiritual hygiene."

The Board's decision was based on a comprehensive Survey of the School made in January 1948, by a staff of specialists in Negro education directed by Dr. Ira DeA. Reid, Chairman of the Department of Sociology at Atlanta University. The Survey findings indicated that the great advances in public education in South Carolina have made adequate public schools available to the Negro children of St. Helena Island. The responsibility, capability and willingness of the public school officials are demonstrated in their plans for next year which provide for every elementary and high school student now attending Penn School. It is with pride and satisfaction that the Board turns this function over to the public school officials, for Penn School's work has been well done, its mission of formal education accomplished.

The present needs of the people of the Sea Islands are recognized in the Survey recommendations for a program of private-public cooperation in community work at the adult education level. When Miss Laura Towne and Miss Ellen Murray began their work among the liberated people on the plantations in 1862, their objectives were both social and economic. Today, community needs are apparent and the setting is ideal for a project of great significance in Negro life. We anticipate your continued interest in the people of the Sea Islands and your financial support which is of fundamental importance. We shall keep you informed as our plans develop into action, and feel that you may be proud of your share in making this project possible.

In these days of social unrest, the new Penn School project is a pioneering effort to meet today's needs and develop opportunities for the Negro in rural life. We shall aim to raise the level of Negro rural life, supply adult education, and promote social and economic adjustment in our beloved Sea Island community. We rely on your cooperation, we invite your comment and suggestions in this new work, and we repeat, we must have your continued liberal contributions if these plans are to succeed.

Sincerely yours,

W. E. Cadbury

WEC: ls

Chairman of the Board

NEWS RELEASE For release on receipt

From the oldest school for Negroes in the South comes an announcement of importance in the field of rural education and community work.

Penn Normal, Industrial and Agricultural School on St. Helena Island, South Carolina, will discontinue its program of formal education at the end of this school year, and will focus its efforts on a contemplated program of rural community work possibly including vocational training for Negro Veterans.

Recognition of the responsibility, capability and willingness of the South Carolina public school system to assume the full elementary and secondary school function, frees the resources of Penn School for a pioneering project at the adult education level in the Sea Islands community.

The Penn School Board's decision to turn the formal educational responsibility over to the public school authorities was founded on a recent comprehensive survey of the School directed by Dr. Ira DeA. Reid, Chairman of the Department of Sociology at Atlanta University. Dr. Reid was assisted by a staff of specialists in education including Dr. J. Curtis Dixon, Executive Director of the Southern Education Foundation. The findings of the survey indicated that adequate public education facilities could be made available for the Negro children of the Sea Islands, and recommended the shift to a program of private-public cooperation in adult education and other community work.

Penn School's rich background of history and tradition goes back to 1862, when Miss Laura Towne of Philadelphia and Miss Ellen Murray came to the Sea Islands immediately after the fall of Port Royal. They worked among the liberated people on the plantations and founded Penn School to take care of their educational needs. Soon after the turn of the century, Miss Rossa B. Cooley and Miss Grace B. House who had been instructors at Hampton Institute, took over the work, and during their forty years as principals Penn School won national recognition and fame abroad for its academic and vocational training and its pioneer program of rural community work. Francis R. Cope, Jr., of Dimock, Pa., as chairman of the Board of Trustees, contributed guidance of inestimable value to the growing institution. Many rural teachers were trained at Penn School, and graduates went on to study for the professions and became leaders in their chosen communities in different sections of the country.

Howard Kester became the principal in 1944, and Mrs. Kester became supervisor of instruction. Under their leadership the Veterans Training Program was inaugurated and developed so that 160 Negro Veterans are now enrolled. Mr. Kester brought to this position broad knowledge and understanding of the educational needs and problems in the South. He formerly traveled extensively as a worker and lecturer in schools and colleges under the auspices of the Fellowship of Reconciliation and the Fellowship of Southern Churchmen.

Inter-racial cooperation in educational effort has been demonstrated for a number of years in the membership of the Penn School Board. William E. Cadbury of Philadelphia is the present chairman, and L. Hollingsworth Wood of New York is vice-chairman. Other members are: Dr. Benjamin Mays, President of Morehouse College, Atlanta; Dr. William R. Valentine, head of the Bordentown Manual Training School, New Jersey; Dr. Jane Ellen McAllister, Professor of Education, Miner Teachers College, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. W. W. Smith, II, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; Miss Isabella Curtis, Mrs. John F. Moors and Mrs. William A. Shurcliff, Boston; Dr. George H. Aull, Clemson College, S. C.; George A. Buchanan, Jr., editor of the Columbia RECORD, South Carolina; Hon. Marion A. Wright, Linville Falls, N. C.; Mrs. Horace H. Jenks, Paul W. Brown, Jr., Harold Evans and John A. Silver, Philadelphia; Mrs. Thomas H. Eliot, Cambridge, Mass.; Henry W. Pope, Mrs. Reinhold Niebuhr, Lithgow Osborne (former Ambassador to Norway), Miss Rossa B. Cooley, Miss Grace B. House, and Robert Ogden Purves of New York.

Community services contemplated under a new program would include utilization of public agencies and cooperation with them in an expanding program of social and economic objectives. Agricultural demonstration and farm improvement with development of marketing facilities, community health and social welfare, as well as recreation and work with the rural church would center at the present Penn School site. Six hundred acres of farm and forest lands owned by the School offer possibilities for testing projects in agriculture and forestry.

A program of retirement and severance pay to benefit the teachers of long service at Penn School has also been announced by the Board.

* * * * *

28-P — Misc.
Pickett, Clarence

September 20, '48

Mr. Clarence E. Pickett
American Friends Service Committee
20, South Twelfth Street
Philadelphia, Pa.

Dear Mr. Pickett,

Thank you for sending me a copy of Employing Minorities Successfully. It is simple, direct, and should be very useful indeed.

It must have taken a lot of work to boil the whole matter down to these few, workable rules. Each of them rings true with what we know of the problem.

I send you a copy of the full text of a statement by our Executive Committee, for yesterday's papers. Deppite the length it got carried in full in several Southern papers, and had good stories in most of them. We think it temperate and in a right spirit, and hope you will agree.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

28-P-Misc
Poe, Clarence

September 20, '48

Mr. Clarence Poe
The Progressive Farmer
Insurance Building
Raleigh, NC

Dear Mr. Poe,

Here is a full copy of the statement released for yesterday by the Executive Committee of the Southern Regional Council. This was reprinted in full by the Chattanooga Times and the Birmingham-Age-Herald-News, for two that we know of, and had good play in the New York Times and in most of the larger Southern newspapers.

We think it is good sense, and are glad it got such wide use.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

28-P-Misc-
Peters, E. C.

PAUL D. WILLIAMS, RICHMOND
PRESIDENT
P. B. YOUNG, NORFOLK
FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT
GUY B. JOHNSON, CHAPEL HILL
SECOND VICE-PRESIDENT
CARTER WESLEY, HOUSTON
THIRD VICE-PRESIDENT
HAROLD L. TRIGG, RALEIGH
FOURTH VICE-PRESIDENT
CHARLES S. JOHNSON, NASHVILLE
CHAIRMAN, EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE
GEORGE S. MITCHELL
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
MRS. AGNES McKOY
SECRETARY-TREASURER
HAROLD C. FLEMING
DIRECTOR OF INFORMATION

Southern Regional Council, Inc.

ROOM 432, 63 AUBURN AVENUE, N. E. ATLANTA 3, GEORGIA

A Council to attain, through research and action, the ideals and practices of equal opportunity for all peoples in the South.

October 5, 1948

RECEIVED
OCT 11 1948
Southern Regional Council

President E. C. Peters
Paine College
Augusta, Georgia

Dear Mr. Peters:

Thank you very much indeed for sending back the story from the Chattanooga Times. We are delighted to have it.

I send you separately fifteen copies of the "Honest Answer." More should you need them.

Sincerely yours,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:t

Thanks for enclosed
E. C. Peters

Paine College

ESTABLISHED 1882

AUSPICES METHODIST CHURCH AND COLORED METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

E.C. PETERS, PRESIDENT

Augusta, Georgia

Sept. 27, 1948.

RECEIVED
SEP 28 1948
Southern Regional Council

Mr. George S. Mitchell
Southern Regional Council
710 Standard Building
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

I am returning the page from the Chattanooga Times for Sunday, September 19, regarding the article on "Current Controversy Over Civil Rights Recall the Bitter Days of 1850's.

I have read this statement with great interest and shall look forward to securing a number of copies of the printed pamphlet as soon as it is available. I shall try then to circularize a number of people here in Augusta.

With all good wishes, I am

Sincerely yours,

E C Peters

ECP:G
Encl.

28 P-Misc —
Pfuetze, Paul

October 11, 1948

Mr. Paul E. Pfuetze
Department of Philosophy
The University of Georgia
Athens, Georgia

Dear Mr. Pfuetze:

So far as I know, at the time being my only engagement in the last half of November is for the period November 17-21. Otherwise I am free in middle November or late November to come over to Athens any day you may wish.

Let me know when, and I will mark it on the calendar and be there.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:t

RECEIVED
OCT 8 1948
Southern Regional Council

THE UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA
DEPARTMENT OF PHILOSOPHY
ATHENS, GEORGIA

Dear George Mitchell —

Will you be in these parts around the middle or latter part of November and available for a speaking engagement for my classes? I have two classes this term, of 45 students in each, which meet at 2:30 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. from Monday through Friday —

Sincerely yours —

Paul E. Gluckstein

P
Pfuetze

May 14, '48

Dear Professor Pfuetze,

This confirms my undertaking to be at your classroom for the 2.30 meeting on Monday, May 24. I'll plan to turn up a few minutes before 2, to give time for some discussion.

The Council appreciates this opportunity to get its story known to your group.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

P - Pfeutze

THE UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA
DEPARTMENT OF PHILOSOPHY
ATHENS, GEORGIA

May 13, 1948

Mr. George S. Mitchell
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
63 Auburn Avenue, NE
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

Will it be possible for you to come to Athens any time within the next two weeks to talk to my senior class about the work of the Council in the Southern states?

This will probably be our last chance in this spring quarter and it will be appropriate in any event because we shall be considering problems of social and political philosophy.

Cordially yours,

Paul E. Pfuetze

Paul E. Pfuetze

PEP/ddm

RECEIVED
MAY 14 1948
Southern Regional C

P-Pfuetze

April 7, 1948

Professor Paul E. Pfuetze
Department of Philosophy
The University of Georgia
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Professor Pfuetze:

Many thanks for your letter of April 2.

We should be most grateful for the opportunity to be in touch with your graduating seniors. We did in this batch of letters enclose a leaflet describing the Council.

I should be delighted to come over two or three times a year, as you might wish, to talk about the South and the Council. I have done that sort of thing several times at Emory and at other near-by and remote colleges. I am properly a college teacher myself, so it is a special pleasure to get back into harness every now and then.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

PAUL D. WILLIAMS, RICHMOND
PRESIDENT
P. B. YOUNG, NORFOLK
FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT
GUY B. JOHNSON, CHAPEL HILL
SECOND VICE-PRESIDENT
CARTER WESLEY, HOUSTON
THIRD VICE-PRESIDENT
HAROLD L. TRIGG, RALEIGH
FOURTH VICE-PRESIDENT
CHARLES S. JOHNSON, NASHVILLE
CHAIRMAN, EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE
GEORGE S. MITCHELL
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
MRS. AGNES McKOY
SECRETARY-TREASURER
HAROLD C. FLEMING
DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC RELATIONS

Southern Regional Council, Inc.

ROOM 432, 63 AUBURN AVENUE, N. E. ATLANTA 3, GEORGIA

A Council to attain, through research and action, the ideals and practices of equal opportunity for all peoples in the South.

April 5, 1948

Sent to attached list (names and addresses and salutations filled in)

We should like very much to have you as a member of the Southern Regional Council. You will be doing useful things in the South. The Council will keep you in touch with others, and the little magazine, New South, coming to you every month sometimes will have ideas that will be helpful.

Careful, informed judgment is the need of the day. Can you help us get more of it in the South?

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

Enclosure: Fleming pamphlet

NAMES AND ADDRESSES OF FORMER STUDENTS

Mr. Fred F. Baggs
Cobb Hall
University of Georgia
Athens, Georgia

Miss Nancy Bowling
1190 South Milledge Ave.
Athens, Georgia

Mr. Carl Cowart
Floyd Hall
Ag Hill Center
Athens, Georgia

Mr. Paul Crotto
784 Prince Avenue
Athens, Georgia

Miss Martha Edwards
Lucy Cobb Dormitory
University of Georgia
Athens, Georgia

Mr. C. R. Elliott
645 South Milledge Ave.
Athens, Georgia

Mr. William M. Evans
Sigma Nu House
University of Georgia
Athens, Georgia

Mr. G. B. Gaines
Joe Brown Dormitory
University of Georgia
Athens, Georgia

Mr. Richard L. Gnann
187 North Milledge Ave.
Athens, Georgia

Mr. J. A. Godwin
277 Hill Street
Athens, Georgia

Miss June Elder Hall
Tri Delta House
University of Georgia
Athens, Georgia

Mr. William E. Harden
252 West Clayton Street
Athens, Georgia

Mr. L. S. Hardwick
c/o Mrs. W. W. Young Milledge Avenue
Athens, Georgia

Miss Theodora Harrison
Alpha Delta Pi House
University of Georgia
Athens, Georgia

Mr. W. A. Jones
480 South Milledge Avenue
Athens, Georgia

Mr. E. F. Keeter
S. A. E. House
University of Georgia
Athens, Georgia

Miss Sarah Kent
Soule Hall
University of Georgia
Athens, Georgia

Miss Mable G. Moragne
263 Milledge Circle
Athens, Georgia

Miss Addie Jim Rollins
Mary Lyndon Hall
University of Georgia
Athens, Georgia

Mr. George B. Rushing
Milledge Hall
University of Georgia
Athens, Georgia

Miss Betty Ann Sasseville
1190 South Milledge Avenue
Athens, Georgia

Mr. George Scott
238 Springdale
Athens, Georgia

and 7 pamphlets

Miss Kathryn Sessoms
Mary Lyndon Hall
University of Georgia
Athens, Georgia

Mr. John L. Smith
1680 South Lumpkin Street
Athens, Georgia

Mr. Wesley Stephens
475 King Avenue
Athens, Georgia

THE UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA
DEPARTMENT OF PHILOSOPHY
ATHENS, GEORGIA

RECEIVED
APR 5 1948
Southern Regional Council

April 2, 1948

Mr. George S. Mitchell
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
63 Auburn Avenue, NE
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

Thank you for your note of appreciation for my gesture of giving you the names of some of my former students. Incidentally, I shall be giving this course every quarter and I have in mind to let you have the class roll each time in order that you may make contact with these graduating seniors, telling them about the work of the Council and enlisting their membership and support. I am assuming, of course, that in writing to these students you have made available to them some of your publicity material.

You ask how you can serve us. One way immediately comes to mind. Could you or one of your staff in whom you have confidence come to Athens, say one day during each quarter, and speak to my class on the Philosophy and program of the Southern Regional Council? I must add that at present I have no funds in my departmental budget to pay the expenses of one of your staff people, but perhaps you would consider this a legitimate service of the Council within your own budget requirements.

I am eager to meet you myself and talk with you about the work of the Council. I have only recently come to the South and your Southern Regional Council strikes me as one of the really hopeful movements in the South, working through research and education to lift the level of life for everyone in this area.

Cordially yours,

Paul E. Pfuetze

Paul E. Pfuetze
Professor of Philosophy

PEP/ddm

P-
Pfuetze, Paul E

March 31, 1948

Dr. Paul E. Pfuetze
Professor of Philosophy
The University of Georgia
Athens, Georgia

Dear Dr. Pfuetze:

That was exceedingly thoughtful, generous and useful of you. I have written each of the former students of your "Philosophy and Society" course as enclosed.

They are just the sort of people I am sure the Council needs as members. We are much in your debt. Can we serve you in any way?

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

Enclosure
GSM:eb

THE UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA
DEPARTMENT OF PHILOSOPHY
ATHENS, GEORGIA

RECEIVED
MAR 31 1948
Southern Regional Council

March 30, 1948

Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
63 Auburn Avenue, NE
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Sir:

I have been telling some of my students about the work of the Southern Regional Council and, furthermore, I have told them that I was sending in their names to the Council office with the hope that they might become interested in membership.

Enclosed, therefore, you will find the class roster of a group of seniors who have just completed a senior course entitled "Philosophy and Society". These young men and women will soon be taking their place as responsible citizens in their various communities, and I am hoping that you might be able to enlist their interest in and support for the work of the Southern Regional Council.

Cordially yours,

Paul E. Pfuetze

Paul E. Pfuetze
Professor of Philosophy

PEP/ddm

October 19, 1948

Mrs. C. H. L. Pennock
Vassar College
Poughkeepsie, New York

Dear Mrs. Pennock:

The president of our Council, Mr. Paul D. Williams, asked me to send you a copy of the recent statement of our Executive Committee on civil rights.

Here is one, with pleasure. If we can help you in any way, let us know.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:t
Enclosure

cc: Paul D. Williams

28- P. Misc -
Presby. Church, Ctte on Women's work

November 15, 1948

Miss Mary S. Quidor, Treasurer
Committee on Woman's Work
The Presbuterian Church in the United States
Henry Grady Building
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Miss Quidor:

Please accept and convey to Miss McGaughey our thanks for your check of $25.00 as the appropriation of the Committee on Woman's Work for the year ending March 31, 1948.

Such gifts are of great importance to us since our budget is a very slender one and our tasks are great. We are very grateful to you and to Miss McGaughey and to the Committee on Woman's Work.

Cordially and sincerely yours,

(Mrs.) Agnes McKoy
Secretary-Treasurer

AM:s

THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN THE UNITED STATES
Committee on Woman's Work
HENRY GRADY BUILDING
Atlanta 3, Ga.

JANIE W. McGAUGHEY
SECRETARY OF WOMAN'S WORK

MARY S. QUIDOR
TREASURER

October 27, 1948

RECEIVED
OCT 28 1948
Southern Regional Council

Mrs. Inez B. Tillerson, Secretary-Treasurer
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

My dear Mrs. Tillerson:

At the request of Miss McGaughey I am enclosing a check for $25.00 as the appropriation of the Committee on Woman's Work for the year ending March 31, 1948.

We are again happy to make this contribution to the work of the Council.

With all good wishes, I am

Sincerely yours,

Mary S. Quidor

Treasurer.

MSQ:m
Encl. ck.

Presby. Church

THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN THE UNITED STATES

Committee on Woman's Work

HENRY GRADY BUILDING

Atlanta 3, Ga.

JANIE W. McGAUGHEY
SECRETARY OF WOMAN'S WORK

March 31, 1948

RECEIVED
APR 1 1948
Southern Regional Council

Dr. George S. Mitchell
Southern Regional Council
Wesley Memorial Building
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

Although it is over four weeks since you were with us and made such a real contribution to our Conference on Intergroup Work on February 26, nevertheless, we would like to express appreciation to you for coming and sharing in that conference. We realized at the time that it was quite a favor we were asking of you, but you very graciously consented and came in spite of a busy schedule. The conference appreciated what you contributed and we of this Committee are grateful for your splendid cooperation.

Those who came were most enthusiastic and appreciative of the opportunity which the conference gave and expressed the hope that there would be one held in 1949.

With best wishes to you in your own special phase of Christian work, I am

Cordially yours,

Annie Tait Jenkins

Annie Tait Jenkins
Director Christian Relations

ATJ:MSH

Presbyterian, U.S.
Committee on Woman's Work

THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN THE UNITED STATES

Committee on Woman's Work

HENRY GRADY BUILDING

Atlanta 3, Ga.

March 4, 1948

JANIE W. McGAUGHEY
SECRETARY OF WOMAN'S WORK

MRS. W. MURDOCH MacLEOD
ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF WOMAN'S WORK

RECEIVED
MAR 5 1948
Southern Baptist Council

Dr. George S. Mitchell
Room 432, 63 Auburn Ave., N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

How very much I appreciate the reading suggestions which came to me this morning in your letter of March 3. It makes me long for more time to do such reading. Certainly I appreciate your interest and your helpful guidance.

Most cordially yours,

Dorothy S. MacLeod

Mrs. W. Murdoch MacLeod
Assistant Secretary of Woman's Work

DSMacL/ssp

March 3, 1948

Mrs. W. Murdoch MacLeod
Assistant Secretary of Woman's Work
Committee on Woman's Work
The Presbyterian Church in the United States
Henry Grady Building
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mrs. MacLeod:

I have been puzzling every now and then about books that you might like to read.

"An American Dilemma" would be one. You probably have read it.

Another would be Charles Johnson's recent book, "Into the Main Stream." This is a review of best practices in the field of race relations.

You ought to be closely in touch with Lake Success and the United Nations. I don't know what to recommend. I believe I would begin by subscribing to the magazine, United Nations World, 383 Madison Avenue, New York 17, N. Y., which sells at four dollars for one year's subscription. That ought to list everything that comes out about the UN.

On Russia my own prescription would be Sydney and Beatrice Webb's book, "So Be It Communism." I have never read it. They are supposed to have swallowed things hook, line and sinker, but even so they are very wise people.

I think the best American economic history is one recently completed and printed, which my brother Broadus wrote. It is called "American Economic History," and was published by Houghton Mifflin.

Some fairly unbiased book about modern China would be good to read. There were books a couple of years ago which talked about how things were from the inside of so-called Communist China. Any informed world view would require a knowledge of what's going on there.

An excellent book on organized labor is by R. R. R. Brooks, "When Labor Organizes," about five years old. A moderate man who writes sincerely.

I don't know any really good book on American agriculture. You ought to read the best you can find. The bottom of our Southern problem is an agricultural problem.

The best book on housing that I know of was written by Catherine Bauer about eight or nine years ago.

These would all be good to read. However, I haven't real faith that anybody these days would find time to read that much.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:eb
Dictated but not read

NOV 23 1945
RECEIVED
Southern Regional Council

NATIONAL CONGRESS BULLETIN

NOVEMBER 1945 PUBLISHED BY THE NATIONAL CONGRESS OF PARENTS AND TEACHERS • CHICAGO 5 • VOL. 13, NO. 3

MONTHLY MEMO TO LOCAL PRESIDENTS

NOVEMBER is a real parent-teacher month, isn't it? All across the country we celebrate not only the great home festival of Thanksgiving but also American Education Week.

Education. This year we should give special attention to the meaning of education in our own nation and in other countries. We have to remind ourselves that the sort of education is of great importance, for remember that both Germany and Japan believed strongly in education. Nevertheless, theirs was an education that poisoned the minds of their own children and youth and which is still an active evil force in the world today even though these countries have been conquered in war. Ideas can be defeated only by other ideas. Therefore we must build up ideals of cooperative and friendly living in the world to replace those of racial superiority and military aggression. It was especially fitting that Germany's formal surrender took place in a French schoolhouse. We hope that the schoolhouses of the world may finally destroy the vicious ideas of the Hitler regime.

At this time the delegates from many of the United Nations are meeting in London to take the first steps toward bringing into being an International Educational Organization. The most active work of the parent-teacher consultants at San Francisco was done in cooperation with others to get the words "educational cooperation" into the United Nations Charter and thus make possible the meeting now going on in London. We shall hear more about this later. Watch for news of it.

Home. May this season bring you happy family reunions and many other reasons for thanksgiving this year. Also, in the midst of your happiness and plenty, will you take thought of the millions in Europe who are likely to starve or to suffer seriously from the ills of malnutrition and the lack of clothing and shelter unless help is given them. If you haven't already done so, won't you send cards to your representatives in Congress and also to Representative Clarence Cannon, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, asking that the United States Congress vote the UNRRA appropriations immediately. The unpaid balance of the 1945 UNRRA has just been voted out of committee, and now the work is to receive funds for 1946—which should be the last year for this type of relief activity. However, it will still be necessary this winter and next year until crops can be raised, buildings and railways restored to some extent, and opportunities renewed for people to care for themselves.

Mrs. William A. Hastings

Compulsory Military Training. Will you help us? The National Board of Managers meets early in December, and we will discuss the important subject of compulsory military training. We want to know how you, the members, feel about this matter. Will you send me a note or a card to the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, 600 South Michigan Boulevard, Chicago 5, before November 25? That means you should write at once. When the members of your National legislation committee speak for us in Washington, they will want to know what you think. Your National Board also wants to know.

Remember that we are supposed to be trying to build a peaceful world for our children to live in; and now an organization for this purpose has been formed. We must be able to protect ourselves when necessary, but we have no desire to make war on others. We also have to think about whether or not the atomic bomb has changed all our earlier ideas of what constitutes the best method of protection.

Some people think it would be advisable to have a commission of able men and women study this whole matter and make recommendations to Congress. There is no hurry for an immediate decision, for we still have all the men and materials we need for any emergency, and we shall have them for some time to come. Are we ready yet to decide this issue as a nation? Do we know enough about all that is involved? What do you think? This is your opportunity to help shape national thinking on an issue of importance to every one of us.

Racial Attitudes. While we are striving for world unity we must not forget that we should build better relations among the many different sorts of people who are American citizens. At times I am afraid that some of the Nazi doc-

(Continued on page 2)

Through the cooperation of the National Broadcasting Company, our National Congress radio program will go on the air for fifty-two weeks, starting December 8, 1945. Be sure to plan now to listen to this outstanding program. The Baxters have become a parent-teacher byword in homes throughout the country.

IT WON'T BE LONG NOW!

• National Congress Radio Program on the Air December 8, 1945

IT WON'T be long now, parent-teacher members! Get your listening groups organized and plan your Saturday schedule so you'll be ready to welcome the Baxters, our own radio family, back into your homes. They'll be on the air Saturday, December 8, at the same time—12:30 p.m.—over the same nation-wide NBC network.

And from that time on they'll be with you each week for a whole year! For fifty-two Saturdays you'll be sharing the fun, the day-to-day problems, and the general three-ring-circus atmosphere of life in the Baxter household.

If you haven't yet been so fortunate as to meet this turbulent, rollicking family let us introduce them to you now. There are, first of all, Marge and Bill, youthful parents of three irrepressible youngsters. They are intelligent parents, too. They love their children, but they neither monopolize them nor seek to cast them in a mold of their own making. And Janey, Bud, and Sandy reflect this wise and gentle care. Each has a vivid personality, well tempered with family love and loyalty.

(Continued from page 1)

trines have traveled to this country and must be fought here as well as abroad. There is no group in America today that has a better opportunity to help different sorts of people to know each other than our parent-teacher organization, because all kinds of people send their children to the public schools. We meet in a natural way and find that parents of every race and creed have much in common, for they all want the best advantages for their children. Won't you work with your educators in helping avoid or eradicate any racial prejudices in your school district? I have received copies of resolutions taken by several associations in schools where unfortunate things have happened, and I am delighted to know that our leaders understand the dangers in racial and religious discrimination and have taken a determined stand against it.

Thanksgiving is an appropriate time to remind ourselves that all of us—or our fathers or forefathers—came from some other land. All of them gave something to the building of this country and each one received many advantages from being here.

Do you recollect the words on the Statue of Liberty?

"Give me your tired, your poor,
Your huddled masses yearning to breathe free,
The wretched refuse of your teeming shore,
Send these, the homeless, tempest-tossed to me;
I lift my lamp beside the golden door."

Perhaps at your Christmas program you might remember that the Jews celebrate an old, old festival at the same season and then see what you can learn about it. You might possibly have people of various races tell about their Christmas traditions or sing their Christmas songs as part of your program.

• • •

Our third Object, "the care and protection of children and youth," takes us into many subjects these days and demands of us an interest in all that is going on at home and abroad. We must do our best to make this world a good home for our own and for all other children, and that is indeed a large order in these troubled times. Each of us can do something, although none of us can do everything. Nevertheless, the efforts of 3,500,000 people added together can truly be a mighty force! May we use this power patiently and courageously in the slow and difficult task of trying to build orderly ways of living in a chaotic and confused world. This task demands even more of us than uniting in war against common foes.

Minnetta A. Hastings
President
National Congress of Parents and Teachers

Membership cards are distributed from the state congress office—not from the National Office.

29204!

DURING October alone this year 29,204 persons subscribed to National Parent-Teacher: The P.T.A. Magazine! Each day the magazine gains new friends and new readers. Why? Because . . .

- It is the best counselor and helper a parent-teacher member can find.
- It contains answers to home-school questions that are constantly being asked.
- It supplies parent-teacher information not obtainable elsewhere.
- It is published by parent-teacher people whose long and varied experience enables them to choose the type of articles and features that will school successful leaders at all levels of the organization.
- It is just plain, good business to pay $1 for something that will be worth one hundred times $1 in terms of information brought into the home, the school, and the community.

Was your subscription among the 29,204 we received in October? If so, we take this means of thanking you for it, and if you subscribed earlier, we thank you, too. If you haven't subscribed yet, we hope we'll receive your subscription this month. If you are a local president, by all means urge your association to budget at least $1 for a subscription for the association. Your group should not be missing the type of material that is being published monthly in the National Parent-Teacher. It is really a remarkable publication.

To subscribe, send a check or money order for $1 payable to the National Parent-Teacher magazine and mail to

National Parent-Teacher
600 South Michigan Boulevard
Chicago 5, Illinois

NATIONAL CONGRESS BULLETIN

Volume 13 NOVEMBER 1945 Number 3

Published monthly from August through May, bimonthly June and July, at 600 South Michigan Boulevard, Chicago 5, Illinois, by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers. Subscription price: 20 cents a year. Entered as second class matter at the Post Office, Chicago, Illinois, Jan. 18, 1941. Additional entry at Aurora, Illinois, Dec. 21, 1939. Under Act of March 3, 1879.

CONGRESS CONTACTS

THIS year, as always, the National Congress has been well represented at meetings and conferences of those organizations whose aims are in accord with ours. However, because of the drastic curtailment of transportation, the selection of National officers and chairmen to represent the Congress has been determined largely by geography. Meetings have been attended by those members of the Board of Managers who live within a reasonably short distance of the meeting place. Since most national organizations and government agencies met in cities on the East Coast, the majority of the Congress representatives were selected from that area. Here is a list of important meetings in which they participated.

- American Association for Health, Physical Education, and Recreation, meeting of representatives of national organizations to study the nation-wide legislative program for health and physical fitness. Mrs. Glen L. Swiggett, member of our Washington, D. C., legislation committee.
- American Association of School Administrators, 1947 yearbook committee meeting. Howard V. Funk, former second vice-president.
- American Association for the United Nations, meeting. Mrs. Clifford N. Jenkins, president, New York State Congress.
- American Forum of the Air. Mrs. Bess N. Rosa, National chairman, committee on Social Hygiene.
- American Council on Education, conference to discuss the proposed plans for the organization of an international office of education. Mrs. William A. Hastings, National president.
- American Social Hygiene Association, meetings. Mrs. William A. Hastings, National president; Mrs. Bess N. Rosa, National chairman, committee on Social Hygiene.
- American Women's Voluntary Services, Inc., meeting to discuss the holding of a forum on household employment. Mrs. Newton P. Leonard, regional vice-president.
- Association for Childhood Education, meetings. Mrs. Glen L. Swiggett, member of our Washington, D. C., legislation committee.
- British Columbia Parent-Teacher Federation, annual convention. Mrs. J. S. Stewart, regional vice-president.
- Camp Fire Girls, meeting of the world friendship committee. Mrs. Clifford F. Thompson, former regional vice-president.
- Child Study Association of America, conference: "The Decisive Decade Ahead; What Will It Bring to Our Children?" Mrs. P. B. Digby, former regional vice-president.
- Children's Book Week, gala luncheon. Mrs. Newton P. Leonard, regional vice-president.
- Children's Bureau and the executive board of the National Congress of Colored Parents and Teachers, joint conference. Mrs. William A. Hastings, National president.
- Citizens Radio Anniversary Committee, luncheon. Mrs. Albert L. Gardner, regional vice-president.
- Committee on Physical Fitness and the Council on Dental Health, American Dental Association, meeting. Mrs. James C. Parker, regional vice-president.
- Community Chests and Councils, advisory committee on volunteer service, meeting. Mrs. Albert L. Gardner, regional vice-president.
- Cooperating Committee on School Lunches, meeting. Mrs. Paul H. Leonard, National chairman, committee on School Lunch.
- Conference on Long-Term Cooperative Planning for Young Children. Mrs. Malcolm McClellan, National chairman, committee on Legislation; Charles W. Phillips, second vice-president.
- Emergency Conference on the World Food Crisis. Mrs. Glen L. Swiggett, member of our Washington, D. C., legislation committee.
- Food for Freedom, Inc., meeting with President Truman. Mrs. William A. Hastings, National president.
- National Association of Broadcasters, Association of Women Directors, conference on women of the United Nations. Mrs. Clifford F. Thompson, former regional vice-president.
- National Conference for Cooperation in Health Education, meetings. Martha L. Clifford, M.D., National chairman, committee on Health and Summer Round-Up of the Children.
- National Congress of Colored Parents and Teachers, meeting. Mrs. E. N. Howell, president, North Carolina Congress.
- National Planning Association, meeting to discuss plans for a national conference on family life. Mrs. Albert L. Gardner, regional vice-president.
- National Safety Council, meeting to discuss school safety education. Mrs. Albert L. Gardner, regional vice-president.
- National Share-the-Food Day, starvation luncheon. Mrs. Clifford N. Jenkins, president, New York State Congress.
- National Society for Crippled Children and Adults, committee on convalescence, conference on convalescent care for children. Elise H. Martens, National chairman, committee on the Exceptional Child.

"TAKE IT EASY"

- National Women's Advisory Committee on Social Protection, meeting. Mrs. Bess N. Rosa, National chairman, committee on Social Hygiene.
- National Youth Conservation Clearinghouse, meetings. Mrs. H. S. Klein, National secretary; Mrs. Newton P. Leonard, regional vice-president; Mrs. C. D. Lowe, member of Washington, D. C., legislation committee.
- New York Herald Tribune Forum. Mrs. Albert L. Gardner, regional vice-president; Mrs. Newton P. Leonard, regional vice-president.
- Ninth Annual School Broadcast Conference. H. B. McCarty, National chairman, committee on Radio.
- Office of Price Administration, consumer advisory committee, conference. Mrs. Glen L. Swiggett, member of our Washington, D. C., legislation committee.
- Twenty-Fifth Anniversary of the Founding of the United Nations, observance. Howard V. Funk, former second vice-president.
- U.S. Office of Education, home fire safety conference. Mrs. L. K. Nicholson, National chairman, committee on Safety.
- U.S. State Department, meeting to discuss ways and means of achieving lasting peace as proposed by . . . international conferences. Mrs. L. W. Hughes, first vice-president.
- U.S. State Department, meeting to discuss the draft of constitution of the educational and cultural organization of the United Nations. Mrs. William A. Hastings, National president.
- War Food Administration, conference to discuss additional ways to stimulate and encourage home food production and conservation. Mrs. Glen L. Swiggett, member of our Washington, D. C., legislation committee.

BUY CAREFULLY!

PARENT-TEACHER groups can render a much-needed national service by helping interpret the next few months' necessity for thoughtful buying. They can keep themselves and their communities informed of clothing and textile situations and can suggest buying practices that will help spread the short supply equitably. Major Herbert Rose, head of CPA's Textile, Clothing, and Leather Division, believes the following practices will be a definite asset in stabilization while our country is changing over to its peacetime economy:

1. Be patient and understanding. Remember that reconversion from wartime to peacetime production and distribution can't come over night.

2. When articles are scarce, buy only what you really need now.

3. Remember that each month will find a bigger selection in the stores and that any possible future shortages will be for brief periods only.

4. Before buying any scarce-supply article that you've decided you really need now, consider once more the possibility of making over some old garment to take its place, or of mending the old article still another time to make it last even a little longer.

NATIONAL CONGRESS OF PARENTS AND TEACHERS
600 SOUTH MICHIGAN BOULEVARD, CHICAGO 5, ILLINOIS
State Office: 308-09 Chamber of Commerce Bldg., Los Angeles 15, Calif.
ALL-INCLUSIVE MEMBERSHIP CARD
NATIONAL, STATE, AND LOCAL, 1945-1946
This certifies that (NAME) (TOWN) IS A MEMBER OF THE
A UNIT OF THE STATE AND NATIONAL CONGRESS OF PARENTS AND TEACHERS AND THAT ALL ANNUAL DUES HAVE BEEN PAID.
MRS. WILLIAM A. HASTINGS
National President
MRS. J. J. GARLAND
State President
President of the Local Association
(OVER)

• This card is a symbol of parenthood and teacherhood united in volunteer service to America's children.

"Our CARD"

ONE of our "publications" that needs particular emphasis at this time of year is the smallest one printed, yet which has the greatest significance—the membership card.

• We rarely even think of it as a publication because we do not use it in committee meetings nor sell it. In many instances we give it as a receipt for dues, and it is often filed away as that and nothing more.

In reality, however, we pay more in proportion for that tiny bit of pasteboard than for any other publication except our books of several hundred pages. It should accordingly be recognized more often as the badge for which it stands—the privilege of service to our children and their schools.

• There are times when we ask for other publications that are far more bulky and less costly. We guard our pamphlets carefully—so carefully, in fact, that sometimes their circulation is not as free among members as one might wish!

• But we know that last year at least 3,487,138 cards were printed, handled, signed, circulated, and transferred from one to possibly three different persons and landed—where? Some in the files or in someone's desk drawer!

THIS tiny membership card, which costs but a fraction of a cent to produce, has a value far greater than the amount of money we exchange for it. We might well fill a whole page with the material benefits alone that are gained through the possession of a P.T.A. membership card—even as a means of identification for opening charge accounts or cashing checks in hotels! In one case, a woman while traveling had her purse containing all her money and her return-trip ticket stolen. When found, the purse was minus all but a few papers and her membership card in her local parent-teacher association. The policeman who helped recover it also loaned her money for her return trip on the grounds that he knew she was honest because of the organization to which she belonged!

• However, such material benefits are merely incidental. The spiritual benefits that accrue from belonging to this democratic association are beyond number. The fact that one tiny card entitles its possessor to take an active part in improving educational policies, legislative platforms, health conditions, and recreational activities brings a new appreciation of its value.

Most men's service clubs and fraternal organizations and many women's clubs turn away their own members unless they present a card or receipt for dues at the door. Although that seems like rather drastic action, it does make them carry and show their membership cards as a badge of admission and acceptance.

PERHAPS we need to stress a greater respect for our P.T.A. membership cards. Naturally, in our democratic organization we bar no one from a local meeting; rather, we welcome all visitors and guests. But the feeling of "belonging," which many people need, would be increased if they were one of a group who could vote on important questions only if their membership card gave them the privilege.

• Many of our thousands of new members are not aware (since conventions have been canceled during wartime) that a local membership card is the only way by which one is entitled to vote at state or National conventions.

There is a belief that if we limited discussion in local meetings to those holding cards, we might enhance their value and dignify their use.

• The membership card, then, is truly small but mighty, and its strength is what we make it. This power, magnified three and a half million times, is magnificent to contemplate. The very essence of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers lies in the value we ascribe and the use we give to that tiny bit of pasteboard upon which is printed our right to belong to the greatest organization for good in the United States today.

—Mrs. E. T. Hale, National Chairman
Committee on Congress Publications

P.T.A. ALMANAC FOR NOVEMBER

Within the association:

- Close of the Summer Round-Up campaign.
- Time to take Christmas gift subscriptions to National Parent-Teacher: The P.T.A. Magazine.
- Poll of local members for opinions on compulsory military training. Send card or letter stating consensus of opinion to Mrs. Hastings by November 25.
- Completion of membership enrollment.

Within the community:

- November 11–17—American Education Week. Sponsored by the National Education Association, the American Legion, the U.S. Office of Education, and the National Congress of Parents and Teachers. Emphasize the role of education in promoting the general welfare in a world at peace; encourage parents' visits to schools.
- November 11–17—Children's Book Week. Sponsored by the Children's Book Council, 62 West 45th Street, New York 19, New York. Direct members' attention to the essential services of the public library.
- November 22 or 29—Thanksgiving Day. Cooperate with social agencies in doing welfare work on whichever date is celebrated in your state. Give individual support to the Victory Loan drive, to the Community Fund campaign, and to the Red Cross.

Attention . . .
Local Presidents and Magazine Chairmen!

Not Ours

We have no connection whatever with the Parents' Magazine. We do not publish it; we do not sponsor it; we do not give certificates for subscriptions to it. We have not authorized any school superintendent or other school person to give the names and addresses of our local presidents to its publishers. The only magazine published and promoted by your National organization is National Parent-Teacher: The P.T.A. Magazine.

Buy Victory Bonds

28 - P - Music
Potts, John F.

Avery High School

CHARLESTON 16. S. C.

JOHN F. POTTS, M. A.
Principal

November 24, 1948

RECEIVED
NOV 29 1948
Southern Regional Council

Mr. George S. Mitchell, Executive Director
SOUTHERN REGIONAL COUNCIL, INC.
Room 432
63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlant 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

I shall be delighted to arrange to have your pamphlets of the Southern Regional Council displayed at the forth-coming Palmetto State Teachers Association. I also hope that this effort will result in the recruitment of new members. The dates of the meetings are March 23-26. I shall keep in touch with you.

Very truly yours,

John F. Potts

John F. Potts

28-P-Misc - Potts, John A.

Condition of our Rights, Race and Suffrage, Honest Answer, Fleming mp 12

November 18, 1948

Mr. John Avery Potts
Avery Institute
Charleston, South Carolina

Dear Mr. Potts:

Mr. Nelson Jackson told me that the South Carolina State Teachers Association will be meeting before so very long.

Our Council has had good success in interesting teachers' groups in its pamphlet literature. The president of the Council, Mr. Paul Williams, appeared before the Virginia meeting last month, and we have also worked with the Jeanes teachers from time to time.

Our pamphlets, as you doubtless know, are mighty useful in teaching in the South. I think particularly of three or four, which I send along with this letter.

If you could very kindly arrange permission, we would like to have a table at the meeting, with one of our South Carolina members present to offer our pamphlets for sale and to recruit an occasional new member. The pamphlets are mostly ten, fifteen, and twenty cents, so they don't break anybody. It would help us a lot to strengthen our work in South Carolina.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:t

cc: Mr. Nelson Jackson

John Averett Potts

S. C.

Stole Jehu ~~[illegible]~~ cow (?)

Wife,

Average Most

Character

Permits him to get a SRC food. etc,

N. Jackson

P—B4

Avery High School

CHARLESTON 16, S. C.

JOHN F. POTTS, M. A.
Principal

January 29, 1948

Dr. George S. Mitchell
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

Many thanks for your letter, the mat, and the biographical sketch which you sent yesterday. I turned the latter two items to our publicity chairman.

I am glad to hear that you are going to stay with Mrs. Childs. She told me that she was planning to write to you.

If we need to get in touch with you before the time of the meeting I will contact you through her.

We are very glad to know that you found it convenient to accept and we are looking forward to your visit with a great deal of pleasure.

Sincerely yours,

John F. Potts

JOHN F. POTTS

JFP/cmw

P-

January 26, 1948

Mr. John F. Potts, Principal
Avery High School
Charleston, South Carolina

Dear Mr. Potts:

I have planned to take the sleeper over from Atlanta to Charleston and arrive at Charleston about eight o'clock Sunday morning, February 8. Mr. and Mrs. St. Julien Childs of 73 King Street have asked me to spend some of the Charleston time with them, so I will go directly to their home Sunday morning. With their help I will be on hand at Mt. Zion Church on Glebe Street at a quarter to four that afternoon. If I am needed earlier I can be reached in care of Mrs. Childs.

My plan is to take the train out for Washington that evening about eight o'clock.

Here is a fair mat. My secretary has been kind enough to copy out the entry from Who's Who, from which you may pick out what you want.

If you would prefer other arrangements about my Sunday morning in Charleston, let me know. For the time being, I shall write the Childs that I will be on their hands.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

Enclosures

GSM:eb

Avery High School

CHARLESTON 16, S. C.

JOHN F. POTTS, M. A.
Principal

January 21, 1948

RECEIVED
JAN 23 1948
Southern Regional Council

Mr. George S. Mitchell
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

The local chapter of the Southern Regional Council had a meeting last night and they were very pleased to know that you could come and deliver the address for our inter-racial meeting on Sunday February 8th. The meeting will be held at the Mt. Zion Church on Glebe Street at four o'clock of that date. The group voted to have you use speech number three and include the highlights of the first two.

One of our projects of the year is to get Negroes appointed as policemen in this city. Another project has been the placing of books written about Negroes in the libraries of white schools. If possible, I would like for you to touch upon the first project since we have not been able to make too much progress about that.

As soon as possible, I would like to have you send a picture of yourself (preferably a mat) and biographical sketch to be used for publicity purposes. If I could get this information by Monday, I would greatly appreciate it. We are looking forward, with a great deal of pleasure, to your coming.

Please let me know what time you plan to arrive.

Sincerely yours,

John F. Potts

JOHN F. POTTS

JFP/cmw

2 P —

January 14, 1948

Mr. John F. Potts, Principal
Avery High School
Charleston 16, South Carolina

Dear Mr. Potts:

Thank you very much. I shall be delighted to come.

I could talk about the Report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights or about the importance of technical and vocational education at the secondary level in the modern South, and I have also a speech that draws a map of the regions of the South and prescribes measures of improvement for the mountain country, the Piedmont industrial area, the coastal plain and the piney woods. The third one is the best and includes the high lights of the first two. But I should be glad to do either one that you might wish. Let me know as far ahead as you can as to exact time and place and subject, since I have to be in Chicago for February 2-6.

I will allow plenty of time for getting to Charleston by surface conveyance!

I must have told you that Charleston has a special place in my affections.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:eb
Dictated but not read

Avery High School

CHARLESTON 16, S. C.

JOHN F. POTTS, M. A.
Principal

January 10, 1948

RECEIVED
JAN 14 1948
Southern Regional Council

Mr. George S. Mitchell
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

I am writing to extend an invitation to you to be our guest speaker on Inter-Racial Sunday, February 8th, here in Charleston.

I am not sure yet the exact time, but it will not be before five in the afternoon and not later than eight in the evening. This is the annual program of our Inter-Racial Council, which recently voted to become a chapter of the Southern Regional Council.

I know that you are very busy but we would greatly appreciate your putting forth every effort to accept this invitation.

Charleston has made some progress in the area of race relations in the last few years and we wish to give this movement more impetus.

We will bear all of your expenses and give you an honorarium.

An early reply will be greatly appreciated.

I was very pleased to have the opportunity of meeting you recently at the meeting of the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools at Prarie View, and I enjoyed your contribution to the meeting immensely.

Very truly yours,

John F. Potts

JOHN F. POTTS

JFP/cmw

28 - P. Misc
Palmetto State Teachers College

December 2, 1948

Mr. John F. Potts, President
Palmetto State Teachers Association
c/o Avery Institute
Charleston 16, South Carolina

Dear Mr. Potts:

I do greatly appreciate the kind invitation in your letter of November 30 to be part of the program for the March 24-25 meeting of the Palmetto State Teachers Association. I am glad to accept, and shall plan to be there for both days.

* → Is the meeting to be in Columbia, or Charleston, or where?

If your Association would pay my travel expenses over there and back, I would be most grateful. That should not come to more than $30.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:t

*
M. Gerard Anderson wrote us on 2/7/49.
We wrote asking about place. 2/11/49.
MEJ

OFFICERS

J. F. POTTS
President
Avery Institute
Charleston, S. C.

J. C. PARLER
Vice President
Wilkinson High School
Orangeburg, S. C.

A. T. BUTLER
Executive Secretary
1719 Taylor Street
Columbia 77, S. C.

D. G. CURETON
Ass't to Exec. Secretary
Carver High School
Spartanburg, S. C.

C. V. BING
Treasurer
Allendale Co. Training School
Allendale, S. C.

J. T. McCAIN
Past President
Morris College
Sumter, S. C.

Palmetto State Teachers Association

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

At Large
REV. H. B. BUTLER
417 Broad Street
Georgetown, S. C.
I. M. A. MYERS
Allen University
Columbia, S. C.

1st District
C. S. McIVER
P. O. Box 138
Summerville, S. C.

2nd District
I. C. BRACEY
210 W. Oakland Ave.
Sumter, S. C.

3rd District
H. A. ASHE
P. O. Box 153
Ware Shoals, S. C.

4th District
C. A. REUBENS, Jr.
Sanders High School
Laurens, S. C.

5th District
S. L. FINLEY
Finley High School
Chester, S. C.

6th District
J. M. McALISTER
Tomlinson High School
Kingstree, S. C.

November 30, 1948

RECEIVED
2 1948
Southern Regional Council

Dr. George Mitchell
Room 432
63 Auburn Avenue N.E.
Atlanta 3, Geogia

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

At the recent meeting of the program committee, of the Palmetto Teachers Association, I suggested your name along with Mr. Nelson Jackson, as possible participants in a symposium which we are arranging for Thursday March 24, during the forthcoming meeting of our Association. The general theme of our convention is EDUCATION FOR IMPROVING COMMUNITY LIFE. There are three aspects of this theme, which we would like to have discussed. They are: 1. IMPROVING COMMUNITY LIFE THROUGH ADULT EDUCATION (For which we hope to get a speaker). 2. IMPROVING COMMUNITY LIFE THROUGH THE COOPERATION OF THE SCHOOL WITH OTHER COMMUNITY AGENCIES. We hope Mr. Jackson will discuss this topic. 3. IMPROVING COMMUNITY LIFE THROUGH INTER-RACIAL COOPERATION. We would like to have you discuss this third aspect. Each speaker will be limited to twenty minutes. This will also give you an opportunity to arrange for the other matter we discuss in our previous correspondence. We would also like for you to remain until Friday as one of the consultants, for our group meetings. Most like ly you will be assigned to the College Group.

Please let me know if you will be available to serve in this capacity. Kindly also state what you estimate this service will cost us. In a few days you will hear from Mr. Anderson, our chairman, who will extend to you this same invitation. I hope your reply will be favorable.

Sincerely yours,

John F. Potts

John F. Potts

RECEIVED
2 1948
Southern Regional Council

28-P-Misc-
Phifer, Rev. K.G.

December 17, 1948

Rev. Kenneth G. Phifer
Oakland Avenue Presbyterian Church
Rock Hill, South Carolina

Dear Mr. Phifer:

We are delighted to have your letter of December 14. Margaret Price is being married this Christmas, and gave up her job the first of December.

It is fine that your group will form a chapter of the Southern Regional Council.

Under separate cover we are sending 30 copies of the general leaflet. Each has on the back a blank for new members to fill in. You could either ask everyone to fill it in, or simply send us a list of those who are becoming members of the Council, with their dues or with indication that we may bill them.

You will, of course, wish to be in touch with the chairman of the South Carolina Division, Mr. J. M. Dabbs, Rip Rap, R. F. D. #1, Mayesville, South Carolina, and with the executive secretary, Mrs. Eugene Spearman, Algene Acres, Newberry, both of whom will wish to welcome the Rock Hill chapter.

To help you in explaining the Council, I send along also a selection of our various publications.

We have been urging that local groups of the Council's members put in a good deal of work on equalization of school facilities. The signs are clear that that must come soon. It would be so much better if each southern community knew in advance the cost of it and had begun, out of its own sense of justice, to prepare ahead of time.

JP. 12-23-48

Please call on us for anything we can do to be helpful.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:t

Sending separately:

2 each of: Healthy South, Vance, Race & Suffrage, Educated South, Machines in the Cotton Fields, Housing, Negro Police New South (Oct. 1947) October 1948 New South, November 1948 New South.

5 "Honest Answer"

3 price lists

30 Flemings

Oakland Avenue Presbyterian Church
Rock Hill, South Carolina

KENNETH G. PHIFER MINISTER

December 14, 1948

RECEIVED
DEC 17 1947
Southern Regional Council

Miss Margaret Price
Southern Regional Council Office
63 Auburn Avenue
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Miss Price:

Some time ago I wrote you in regard to the interest among the members of the Inter-racial Committee in Rock Hill in the formation of a unit of the Southern Regional Council. I inclosed a membership list of our group and you wrote to them inclosing several of your publications. Since that time we have given further consideration to the matter and at the last meeting of our council it was unanimously voted to dissolve and to reconstitute ourselves in January as a chapter of the Southern Regional Council.

I would appreciate it if you could send me some pamphlets stating the purpose of your organization that I might send out to other interested people in Rock Hill. I also would appreciate your sending us some application blanks for the dozen or so who have already expressed their desire to become members of the council. I am already a member as are one or two others in this city.

If there are any further steps which we can take at this time I would appreciate the information in regard to them. Thank you for your co-operation and your interest.

Sincerely yours,

Kenneth G. Phifer

Kenneth G. Phifer

KP/fc

28 - P - Misc. -
Parrish, C. H

December 30, 1948

Dr. C. H. Parrish
926 South Sixth Street
Louisville 3, Kentucky

Dear Mr. Parrish:

Here, at last, is a typing of our most tentative beginning of a manual for police training.

We would not print it in anything close to this form, but I send it to you because ideas from it may be useful.

Please send it back within a reasonable time.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:t

December 15, 1948

Mr. C. H. Parrish, Jr.
Louisville Municipal College
Seventh and Kentucky Streets
Louisville 5, Kentucky

Dear Mr. Parrish:

Very many thanks for your check for $2.40 for the leaflets.

Just after the Chicago meeting, I had the material toward a police manual fished out. It is being retyped, and will go up to you just as soon as we can get it done. It is a poor thing, I must say, but it may give you some hints as to directions in which to go or not to go.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:t

LOUISVILLE MUNICIPAL COLLEGE
SEVENTH AND KENTUCKY STREETS
LOUISVILLE 3, KENTUCKY

~~OFFICE OF THE DEAN~~

December 9, 1948

Dr. George S. Mitchell
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

RECEIVED
DEC 13 1947
Southern Regional Council

My dear Dr. Mitchell:

The materials you sent were distributed among the members of our committee on police training. I am certain that the results will be gratifying. City officials, particularly, are in need of information about what is going on in other parts of the country and need to be conscious of the fact that the police departments in Southern cities are in the spot light.

Did you tell me that you had some materials which had been collected with the purpose of organizing a police manual? If you have such materials, I hope you give me a chance to look over them while we are in the process of organizing our course.

I am sending herewith a check for the pamphlets. 2.40 / To a. mck. 12/13/48 EMM

With kindest personal regards and best wishes for the coming holiday season, I remain

Very truly yours,

C. H. Parrish Jr.

28. P - Misc - Parrish, C. H.

12 copies "Condition of our Rights"
12 October, 1947 New South
12 September, 1948 New South

November 19, 1948

Dr. C. H. Parrish
926 South 6th Street
Louisville 3, Kentucky

Dear Dr. Parrish:

I promised you copies of our material on police, and "The Condition of Our Rights."

They are going up separately today.

The police material we have been giving out freely. The "Condition" sells ordinarily for twenty cents. You are a Board member and you are putting it to good use, so I can be at peace about sending the twelve "Conditions" to you free. But in case they will be supplied by you to somebody with ready means for paying for them, we would appreciate the $2.40 involved.

Maybe the new members you are going to try to get us would more than balance these small pamphlets!

Miss Price, who is our police expert, tells me that since publication of our September, 1948 issue with its table the following changes have been made:

	Uniformed Policemen
Savannah	12
Louisville	27
Newport News	6
Memphis	9

Let us know if you need other materials.

Sincerely,

G.S.M.
11/19/48

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:t

Memo

11/18

Margaret,

In letter to Mr. Parrish of Kentucky, Dr. Mitchell says:

Miss Price, who is our police expert, tells me that since publication of our September, 1948 issue with its table the following additions have been made:

Columbia, S. C. - not actually employed yet.
Memphis, Tennessee " - 9 -

Any others?

other

met

changes in our table uniformed policemen
Savannah - 12
Louisville - 27
Memphis - 6

The Southern Regional Council, Inc.

63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.

ATLANTA, GA.

28 - P - Misc -
Parker, Kenneth

January 31, 1949

Dear Adele and Ken:

You were mighty kind to me. I enjoyed the company and the fire and Pingry and my bed and my breakfast and my trip to the train.

Come back to Georgia again and let me know ahead of time when you do.

Appreciatively,

George S. Mitchell

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Parker
Plainfield Road
R.F.D. 2
LaGrange, Illinois

3/29

Have we heard?

Follow up?

met

They're

No, unfortunately resolution.

Think!

28 - P - Misc -
Pembroke

February 15, 1949

Mrs. W. Pate Lowry
Pembroke Progress
Pembroke, North Carolina

Dear Mrs. Lowry:

Mrs. Guy Johnson told me what a good paper you are putting out about Pembroke.

I would like to be one of your readers.

If you will tell me how much the paper costs a year, I will send you the money, and will hope that after that each week I will hear all the news about Pembroke.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:t

28 - Palmetto State Teachers' Assoc.

PTA's etc in office bodies expand social functions serving.

Journal attd 2 p.m. Col. S.C.

February 15, 1949

Mr. Gerard A. Anderson, Chairman
Program Committee
c/o Wilson High School
215-221 Athens Street
Florence, South Carolina

Dear Mr. Anderson:

Thank you for your letter of February 7.

Here is a mat.

I look forward very much to the meeting March 24-25.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:t

February 11, 1949

Mr. Gerard A. Anderson, Chairman
Program Committee
c/o Wilson High School
215-221 Athens Street
Florence, South Carolina

Dear Mr. Anderson:

Your letter of February 7 has reached the office in Dr. Mitchell's absence.

He is looking forward to being with your Association at the March 24-25 meeting. Mr. Potts has not let us know, however, where the meeting will be held. Could you write us about that?

Sincerely yours,

Elizabeth Taylor
Secretary to Dr. Mitchell

WILSON HIGH SCHOOL
215–221 ATHENS STREET
FLORENCE, SOUTH CAROLINA

OFFICE OF THE PRINCIPAL

February 7, 1949

RECEIVED
FEB 9 1949
Southern Regional Council

Mr. George D. Mitchell
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

We are looking forward to your visit March 24 and 25 at our annual state teachers' meeting. As Chairman of the Program Committee, this letter comes to confirm your letter of estimated expenses to Mr. John F. Potts under the date of December 2, 1948.

If I can be of any service whatever, please do not hesitate to write. Newspaper mats or glossy-type pictures will be needed for our program and advance publicity.

Very sincerely yours,

Gerard A. Anderson

Gerard A. Anderson, Chairman
Program Committee
Palmetto State Teachers' Association

GAA:fgr

28-P-Misc-
Parker, Kenneth

February 16, 1949

Dear Adele:

Mighty kind of you to spread the good name of our Southern Regional Council. I will look forward to a letter from Mr. Hubert Bebb.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell

Mrs. Kenneth Parker
Plainfield Road
R.F.D. 2
LaGrange, Illinois

Saturday afternoon

Dear George S. Mitchell:

And thank you for a very entertaining P.M. It isnt often we are so fortunate in our guests.

Our very dear friend Hubert Bebb, architect, engineer and Humanist has been wanting to meet you these many years for he is vastly interested in your work and would like to discuss with you its many aspects. But because we never know when you will be with us I've not been able to introduce you. Sunday, following your visit, I went armed to church with the literature you gave us only to have Hubert pounce upon it and carry it off. I assured him I would introduce you via mail until such time as you are with us again, so he will write and you will respond, I hope!

Hubert is a fine man. He went into war as a matter of principle and was with the U.S.A. Engineers, I3IIth Gen Regiment of colored and whites, serving in New Guiana while his dear Frau and 2 kids lived with us. You may reacll that their small son died here of spinal mengingitis.

My little family all flew off to New England to call upon Grandmother and skii with Peter while their earthbound ma keeps the home fires burning.

Best to All,

Adele

28 - P- Misc -
Pickett, Clarence

February 17, 1949

Mr. Clarence Pickett
Executive Secretary
American Friends Service Committee
20 South Twelfth Street
Philadelphia 7, Pennsylvania

Dear Mr. Pickett:

I am happy to tell you that President Clyde Milner at Guilford College has accepted the membership on the Board of Directors of our Council to which he was elected at our annual meeting in November, 1948.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:t

Palmetto
~~SRC — Ex Dir.~~

April 1, 1949

Mr. A. T. Butler, Executive Secretary
Palmetto State Teachers Association
1719 Taylor Street
Columbia 77, South Carolina

Dear Mr. Butler:

That was mighty kind of the Palmetto Teachers Association to send us the check for $50.00 to cover expenses and honorarium for my appearance at the meeting.

I have covered my own expenses out of the check and listed the rest as lecture fees donated by me to the Southern Regional Council. So you have helped us in many ways.

I enjoyed the opportunity the meeting gave me to talk, even though briefly, with you.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:t

OFFICERS

J. F. POTTS
President
Avery Institute
Charleston, S. C.

J. C. PARLER
Vice President
Wilkinson High School
Orangeburg, S. C.

A. T. BUTLER
Executive Secretary
1719 Taylor Street
Columbia 77, S. C.

D. G. CURETON
Ass't to Exec. Secretary
Carver High School
Spartanburg, S. C.

C. V. BING
Treasurer
Allendale Co. Training School
Allendale, S. C.

J. T. McCAIN
Past President
Morris College
Sumter, S. C.

Palmetto State Teachers Association

HEADQUARTERS:
1719 Taylor Street
COLUMBIA 77, SOUTH CAROLINA
TELEPHONE 2-9383

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

At Large
REV. H. B. BUTLER
417 Broad Street
Georgetown, S. C.
I. M. A. MYERS
Allen University
Columbia, S. C.

1st District
C. S. McIVER
P. O. Box 138
Summerville, S. C.

2nd District
I. C. BRACEY
210 W. Oakland Ave.
Sumter, S. C.

3rd District
H. A. ASHE
P. O. Box 153
Ware Shoals, S. C.

4th District
C. A. RUBENS, SR.
Sanders High School
Laurens, S. C.

5th District
S. L. FINLEY
Finley High School
Chester, S. C.

6th District
J. M. McALISTER
Tomlinson High School
Kingstree, S. C.

March 30, 1949

Mr. George S. Mitchell, Executive Director
Southern Regional Council
63 Albany Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

The Program Committee of the Palmetto State Teachers Association wishes to take this opportunity to express to you its sincere thanks for your having been one of the speakers on the symposium Thursday Night of last week.

Enclosed is a check for $50.00 to defray your expenses incident to the convention of the PSTA. The balance is a small honorarium for you.

I regret that I did not have an opportunity to talk with you before you left the city. Throughout the entire convention I was unusually busy.

Many thanks again for the service you rendered the PSTA.

Appreciatively yours,

A. T. Butler

A. T. Butler, Executive Secretary
Palmetto State Teachers Association

ATB:dnr
Encl. check

RECEIVED
APR 1 1949
Southern Regional Council

cc: Mr. Nelson Jackson

March 28, 1949

Mr. John A. Potts
Avery Institute
Charleston, South Carolina

Dear Mr. Potts:

I greatly enjoyed the meeting of the Palmetto Teachers Association, and appreciate your kindness in inviting me.

My apologies for not being present as a consultant on the morning of the 25th. It had not been made clear to me just when I was to be available, and I had booked a meeting of certain South Carolina members of our Council for that morning and had to be present.

My expenses for the trip were as follows:

Mileage: 436 miles @ 3¢ a mile (via Crosley)	$ 13.08
Hotel at Columbia	2,50
Meals at Columbia	1.70
	$ 17.28

I took over with me in the Crosley Mr. Nelson Jackson, so that all in all, it seems to me the Association gets a reasonable travel bill.

It was good of you to make it possible for me to get some of the Council's pamphlets out. Actually, I did sell seven or eight dollars worth, which was helpful in cash and still more helpful in fame.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:t

28- P- Misc.
Peck, Elizabeth

Send:
punch pamphlet
Fleming
WANTED: SOUTH'S FUTURE FOR THE NATION
WANTED: EDUCATED SOUTH
WANTED: HEALTHY SOUTH HOUSING IN THE SOUTH
NEGRO IN OUR ECONOMY RACE AND SUFFRAGE...
CIVIL RIGHTS DIGEST CONDITION OF OUR RIGHTS HONEST ANSWER REPRINT
NEW SOUTH: Dec.-Jan., Feb., March, April 1949 price list
MACHINES IN THE COTTON FIELDS

May 12, 1949

Mrs. Elizabeth S. Peck
Berea College
Berea, Kentucky

Dear Mrs. Peck:

Miss Gundlach wrote me about your new course, "Problems of the South", for next year.

I send you a stack of the Council's publications, in the hope that quite a number of them will be useful to you. I send a list of them all, and you can see the figures at which they could be supplied.

Many of these have been used successfully as text material in various colleges. The University of Louisville buys several hundred dollars worth a year; so do Emory University, University of Miami, and others.

If we can help you in any way, please let us know.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:t

cc: Harold Fleming

28: P, Misc
Pfuetze, Paul E.

May 16, 1949

Prof. Pauel E. Pfuetze
Department of Philosophy
University of Georgia
Athens, Georgia

Dear Mr. Pfeutze:

Thank you for your invitation to speak to your classes this Wednesday. Unlike Dr. Mitchell, I am not an old hand at platform delivery, but I shall try to do justice to the Council's view of the South.

It is thoughtful of you to suggest that we have lunch together. I shall plan to arrive at your office about noon.

Sincerely,

Harold C. Fleming
Director of Information

28 P. Misc

Pfuetze, Paul E.

THE UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA
DEPARTMENT OF PHILOSOPHY
ATHENS, GEORGIA

May 13, 1949

Mr. Harold Fleming,
Southern Regional Council,
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Mr. Fleming:

I had asked our good friend George Mitchell to come to Athens to speak to my classes about the Southern Regional Council. He wrote that his schedule precludes a visit at this time; and he suggested that you might come. Perhaps he has already spoken to you about the assignment. In any event, I am writing now to ask if you could come and talk to my students. Mr. Mitchell suggested that next Wednesday, May 18, might be agreeable. If that date is suitable for you, I shall arrange my time-table to make a place for you at that time.

The students in these classes are seniors and juniors. It is a required senior course called "Philosophy and Society" -- and it is really a survey course which includes methodology, value theory, ethics, and political philosophy -- critical thinking about contemporary problems. And I want to introduce the students to The New South through the approach which the Southern Regional Council makes. You can help them "see" the South and interpret its problems and resources. There are two classes, rather two sections of the of the same course, meeting at 2:30 and again at 3:30 of the same day. Therefore you will have two appearances before two different groups of students. I would suggest that you talk for 30-40 minutes, leaving a few minutes for questions and discussion. The period is 50 minutes.

My office is in Academic Building, Room ### 112, on the first floor. Academic building is an old building, on Broad Street on which you come into town. Come a bit early, if possible, so we can talk. Perhaps you could come early enough to join me for lunch.

Cordially,

Paul E. Bruetz

Paul E. Bruetz
Professor of Philosophy.

28 P- Misc
Pfeutze, Paul E

May 9, 1949

Professor Paul E. Pfeutze
Department of Philosophy
University of Georgia
Athens, Georgia

Dear Mr. Pfeutze:

We appreciate the invitation to talk to the class again. I have got a Kentucky trip for the next five days and a New York trip for the next six after that, which pushes me anyway, and runs me very close to your June 1 deadline.

How about my very able assistant, Mr. Harold Fleming? He is a guy lately out of Harvard after a turn in the war. He runs the little publication New South and generally does the writing and much of the thinking hereabouts. He is not one of these real hoe-down, gesticulating, rafter-shaking speech makers, but he is calm, interesting, informed, Georgia, white, and what he has to say carries a nice turn of wit. I think you would be well off with him.

He is willing to go to Athens Wednesday, May 18, if that is agreeable with you. He has a fancy Nash and I daresay would drive it over there. Why don't you write him and tell him if you do or don't want him, and if you do, when and where.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:t

THE UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA
DEPARTMENT OF PHILOSOPHY
ATHENS, GEORGIA

May 6, 1949

RECEIVED
MAY 9 1949
Southern Regional Council

Mr. Georgia Mitchell,
63 Auburn Street, N.E.
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

Is there any chance of your coming to Athens within the next two or three weeks to speak to my classes again? I think I could meet your convenience as to days. We don't have Saturday classes, but almost any other day would be all right. Friday classes are sometimes not so well attended. But come when you can -- if your schedule will permit a visit.

Cordially yours,

Paul E. Pfuetze

Paul E. Pfuetze

PS. Exams state June 1, so your visit should come before that -- ### by several days if possible.

28-P-Misc
Poynter, Juliet

June 10, 1949

AIR MAIL

Miss Juliet Poynter
Shelbyville, Kentucky

Dear Miss Poynter:

We have told Mr. Sells personally about your nomination of the Reverend Mr. Charles Nunnery of Pleasureville, Kentucky, which came in by wire.

The Progressive Farmer will need to have a full letter describing why Mr. Nunnery should receive a scholarship. The enclosed clipping outlines the "rules".

It is already late for the letters to be in, so please hurry.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:t

cc: Mr. J. M. Tydings

May 30, 1949

Miss Juliet Poynter
Shelbyville, Kentucky

Dear Miss Poynter:

Enclosed is a very interesting letter from Dr. Mitchell with regards to scholarship for a country preacher from Kentucky to attend a two-weeks Town and Country School for Religious Workers, at Emory University, in Atlanta, for the period July 4-21.

My first thought was of a young Methodist minister who is working in the Henry County Parrish.

Please see if he is interested, and furnish me the information I will need to write a letter of nomination to the Progressive Farmer.

Very truly yours,

J. M. Tydings

JMT:oh
cc: Dr. Mitchell

RECEIVED
MAY 31 1949
Southern Regional Council

Show to Mr. Sells Files

The PROGRESSIVE FARMER
RALEIGH BIRMINGHAM MEMPHIS DALLAS

June 10, 1949,
63 Auburn Ave.,
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Friend:

Your letter nominating your pastor as a candidate for the award "Rural Minister of the Year" has been received. You may be sure that your letter has been carefully considered by the committee that makes the award.

It has been with a great deal of interest and appreciation that I have read the many letters speaking of the fine and consecrated work of the preachers so recommended. The only regret that we have is that we are not able to make more awards or to give more scholarships.

Next year, I hope to be able to issue a scorecard which you can use in nominating your pastor for one of the awards or scholarships. Let me thank you again for your letter and your interest in this program of recognition.

If you will read the August issue of The Progressive Farmer, you will find there the names of the ministers who have received these awards, as this decision has not been made as yet.

Sincerely yours,

James W. Sells

James W. Sells,
Rural Church Editor.

S:a

Five Editions .. TEXAS .. MISSISSIPPI VALLEY .. KENTUCKY-TENNESSEE .. GEORGIA-ALABAMA-FLORIDA .. CAROLINAS-VIRGINIA

28 P-Misc
Presbyterian Church Committee on Women's Work

July 5, 1949

Miss Mary S. Quidor, Treasurer
Committee on Woman's Work
Presbyterian Church in the United States
Henry Grady Building
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Miss Quidor:

Here is a good article from the current issue of Collier's by Hodding Carter which warmly praises S.R.C.

We are greatly appreciative of the support which the Committee on Woman's Work has given us.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:wgd

Enclosure

28- P- Misc
Pennington, Wayne

WAYNE PENNINGTON Suite 300 · 205 East 42nd Street · New York 17, N. Y. · MUrray Hill 4-1102

July 11, 1949

RECEIVED
JUL 13 1949
Southern Regional Council

Mr. George S. Mitchell
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Ave., N.E.
Atlanta 3, Ga.

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

Thank you very much for your prompt reply. And please keep me in mind if a promising possibility should present itself.

I like the pamphlets you enclosed. They show deep thinking, clean, long-range planning.

If I can be of help to you, just let me know.

My very best regards,

Wayne Pennington

28 - P. Parrish
Parrish, C. H.

August 3, 1949

Mr. C. H. Parrish
8th & Kentucky Streets
Louisville, Kentucky

Dear Mr. Parrish:

Last year in November when we had the Annual Meeting of the Council, you generously undertook to find $25.00 for the Council for 1949.

We need it particularly badly right now. We are having a hard time meeting our payrolls for the next few weeks until further funds come in.

If you can find your $25.00 quite soon, it would be doubly welcome.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:wgd

BEST COPY AVAILABLE

28-P-Misc-
Parrish, C. H.

February 3, 1949

Mr. C. H. Parrish
926 South Sixth Street
Louisville 3, Kentucky

Dear Mr. Parrish:

We sent you yesterday at Mr. Mynders' request some dope about me.

I don't know what more to tell you. My father was for many years active in the Virginia Commission and in the Commission on Interracial Cooperation. I guess he taught me sense.

I look forward to seeing you February 12.

Sincerely yours,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:t

926 South Sixth Street
Louisville 3, Kentucky
February 1, 1949

Dr. George S. Mitchell
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

RECEIVED
FEB 3 1949
Southern Regional Council

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

This is to say, belatedly, that the materials you sent are proving quite useful in our project for police instruction on dealing with minority groups. If you need the manuscript in a hurry, let me know.

Meanwhile, we are looking forward to your visit to Louisville next week. The pleasant task of introducing you has been assigned to me. You can help me by sending such information about yourself as may be necessary to keep me from making embarassing mistakes. In addition to the usual items, I would like to know the beginning of your interest, the length and nature of your connection with the Southern Regional Council.

I hope you will be in town long enough to meet some of the members of the committee on police training. I think an exchange of ideas will prove beneficial to us and make new friends for SRC.

Cordially,

C. H. Parrish

C. H. Parrish

4 P Co. 90 3 w hp.

28-P-Misc
Pritchard, J. C

August 4, 1949

Mr. J. C. Pritchard
Carroll Service Council
Carrollton, Georgia

Dear Pritch,

A final meeting of "our committee" has been arranged for this coming Sunday Afternoon, August 7th, at 906 Lullwater Road, at five o'clock.

My house is within a mile of Emory. Lullwater is off Ponce de Leon heading toward Emory.

We all do hope that either this or other things will bring you to Atlanta Sunday and you can come.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell

GSM:wgd

28- P - Misc
Polier, Shad

August 4, 1949

Mr. Shad Polier
1834 Broadway
New York 23, N. Y.

Dear Mr. Polier:

Thank you so much for sending me August 1, the copy of HR2270, and the analysis.

That looks like a good bill.

I would be grateful for your kindness in sending copies to as many of the following as you may wish. They are officers of the Council's several State Divisions or affiliated Interracial Committees.

Dr. A. D. Beittel	Talladega College	Talladega, Ala.
Mr. H. C. Trenholm	State Teachers College	Montgomery, Ala.
Dr. T. Ruth Brett	P. O. Box 397	Tuskegee Institute, Ala.
Mr. R. P. Daniel	1103 Florida Nat'l Bank Bldg.	Jacksonville, Fla.
Mr. Herbert Davidson	News-Journal	Daytona Beach, Fla.
Mrs. William C. White		Okeechobee, Fla.
Dr. R. E. Russell	63 Auburn Ave. Room 408	Atlanta, Ga.
Rev. G. E. Clary	224 Barnard St.	Savannah, Ga.
Dr. F. B. Washington	Atlanta University of Social Work	Atlanta, Ga.
Mr. J. M. Tydings	Lincoln Institute	Lincoln Ridge, Ky.
Mr. R. B. Atwood	Ky. State College	Frankfort, Ky.
Mrs. Hortense Young	818 S. Sixth St.	Louisville, Ky.
Rev. Brent Schaeffer	1525 Robinson St.	Jackson, Miss.
Mr. L. C. Jones	Piney Woods School	Piney Woods, Miss.
Mrs. Ruby S. Lyells	1116 Montgomery St.	Jackson, Miss.
Mr. C. M. Johnson	P.O. Box 1208	Raleigh, N. C.
Rev. Leon Russell	Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church	Greenville, N. C.
Mr. C. C. Spaulding	P. O. Box 201	Durham, N. C.

PAGE PARTIALLY ILLEGIBLE

Mrs. Irving Cohn	1122 Lowerline St.	New Orleans, La.
Rabbi Emil W. Leipziger	Touro Synagogue	New Orleans 13, La.
Miss Florence Sytz	Tulane School of Social Work	New Orleans, La.
Mr. James M. Dabbs	"Rip Rap" Route #1	Mayesville, S. C.
Mrs. Marion B. Wilkinson	S. C. State College	Orangeburg, S. C.
Miss Rebecca Reid	29 E. Calhoun St.	Sumter, S. C.
Mr. Alfred Mynders	The Chattanooga Times	Chattanooga, Tenn.
Dr. C. S. Johnson	Fisk University	Nashville, Tenn.
Mrs. C. B. Smith	The Methodist Parsonage	Donelson, Tenn.
Mrs. James S. Crate	2410 Inwood Drive	Houston, Texas
Mr. W. R. Banks		Prairie View, Texas
Dr. J. L. Clark	1421 W. 14th St.	Huntsville, Texas
Rev. Mr. Emerson Smith	109 Grace St.	Richmond, Va.
Mr. J. M. Allison	Va. Union University	Richmond 20, Va.
Mr. J. E. Moreland	Randolph-Macon College	Ashland, Va.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell

GSM:wgd

PAGE PARTIALLY ILLEGIBLE

28-P-Race
Powell, Dan

August 26, 1949

Mr. Dan Powell
136½ South Second Street
Memphis, Tennessee

Dear Dan,

GSM's reply in 6-CIO-PAC

A lady named Mrs. Frank R. Veal, 529 Rutledge Ave., Charleston, South Carolina, wrote to me on August 14, addressing me as Regional Director of CIO PAC and asking for literature to get PAC known around Charleston. She is working particularly on getting Negro citizens registered. She says she is the wife of a Methodist minister and has had some experience with CIO in Cincinnati.

I gave her your name and Franz Daniel's name as two people who can help her. My suggestion would be that you send her a selection of literature items and offer to send her more of any particular one that she might like.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:wgd

28 - P - Misc
Pepper, Claude

August 26, 1949

The Honorable Claude Pepper
United States Senate
Washington, D. C.

Dear Senator Pepper:

As I know you are concerned for orderly enforcement of law, I send you, as a matter of information, a copy of the Council's just published account of the recent outburst of mob violence in Lake County, Florida.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:wgd

Enclosure

28 - P - Misc
Pepper, Claude

TOM CONNALLY, TEX., CHAIRMAN
WALTER F. GEORGE, GA.
ELBERT D. THOMAS, UTAH
MILLARD E. TYDINGS, MD.
CLAUDE PEPPER, FLA.
THEODORE FRANCIS GREEN, R. I.
BRIEN MC MAHON, CONN.
J. W. FULBRIGHT, ARK.
ARTHUR H. VANDENBERG, MICH.
ALEXANDER WILEY, WIS.
H. ALEXANDER SMITH, N. J.
BOURKE B. HICKENLOOPER, IOWA
HENRY CABOT LODGE, JR., MASS.
FRANCIS O. WILCOX, CHIEF OF STAFF

United States Senate

COMMITTEE ON FOREIGN RELATIONS

August 13, 1949

Mr. George S. Mitchell
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432, Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

Thank you very much for your letter of August 8 with enclosure of an account of the lynching at Irwinton, Georgia, and analysis of possible legislation. I have read this with profitable interest.

Sincerely yours,

Claude Pepper

CP:jv

RECEIVED
AUG 17 1949
Southern Regional Council

28 - P - Misc
Pepper, Claude

August 8, 1949

The Honorable Claude Pepper
United States Congress
Washington, D. C.

Dear Senator Pepper:

Here is a useful account of the lynch-inch at Irwinton, Georgia and an analysis of possible legislation.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:wgd

Enclosure

38- H- Misc
Washington Post

August 29, 1949

Mr. Eugene Meyer, Editor
The Washington Post
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Meyer:

This is a remarkable editorial column.

I believe the nation will be helped if it could be reprinted in the Washington Post.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:wgd

Enclosure

28-P- Misc
Patterson, F. D.

September 7, 1949

Mr. F. D. Patterson, President
Tuskegee Institute
Tuskegee Institute, Alabama

Dear Mr. Patterson:

I have mailed over to you the Tuskegee pictures, which you were kind enough to write about September 1.

With every good wish,

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:wgd

Tuskegee Institute

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
ALABAMA

September 1, 1949

OFFICE OF
THE PRESIDENT

Mr. George S. Mitchell
Southern Regional Council, Inc
Room 432, 63 Auburn Avenue, NE
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

Please send the photographs you have on hand to us at Tuskegee Institute. We will be glad to pay postage on them. There may be some we would like to keep and would prefer to look at them at least before they are disposed of otherwise.

Heartiest thanks for your letter.

Sincerely yours,

F. D. Patterson

F. D. Patterson
President

h

RECEIVED
SEP 6 1949
Southern Regional Council

27- Misc -
Office of Education

FEDERAL SECURITY AGENCY
OFFICE OF EDUCATION
WASHINGTON 25, D. C.

September 15, 1949

RECEIVED
SEP 19 1949
Southern Regional Council

Mrs. Jane P. Simpson
Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mrs. Simpson:

This is in reply to your letter of the 6th.

I regret very much that it is impossible for us to provide you with the figures showing the number of high school graduates in agriculture by States for the years of 1947 or 1948 and 1940. I am sending you a list of the state supervisors of agricultural education. I am sure that a number of them will be able to supply you with this information from the records that they keep in the States but are not kept in this office.

filed: 9- directors

Sincerely yours,

D. M. Clements

D. M. Clements
Assistant Chief Agricultural Education Service

Enclosure

28 - P. Mss
Phylon

September 15, 1949

The Editor
Phylon
Atlanta University
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Sir:

I thought perhaps this little pamphlet, just out, might deserve a notice somewhere in Phylon.

We had the good news the other day that the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association will distribute it to all its members.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:wgd

28 - P. Inc
Petersburg Progress-Index

September 15, 1949

Petersburg Progress Index
Petersburg, Virginia

ATTENTION: The Editor

Dear Sir:

Our Council has been working for some time to get together a pamphlet on Race in the News. It came back from the printer just the other day. You will see that its final subject gives merited praise to your paper.

We heard just the other day that the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association intends to send the pamphlet out to all its members.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:wgd

PAGE PARTIALLY ILLEGIBLE

28 - P - Misc
Parents Magazine

September 27, 1949

Mr. George J. Hecht
c/o Parents' Magazine
52 Vanderbilt Avenue
New York 17, New York

Dear Mr. Hecht:

Back in December of 1948, I promised I would send you, when it would be done, our pamphlet Race in the News.

It is at long last out.

We think it can do a lot to speed and shape the already perceptive movement in the South for better handling of Negro matters.

If you can, in any way, help us to get wider circulation of it, please do. I keep seeing evidences that Parent's Magazine is respected in the South.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:wgd

Enclosure

PAGE PARTIALLY ILLEGIBLE

28 - P - Price
Popham, John

October 7, 1949

Mr. John N. Popham
c/o The Chattanooga Times
Chattanooga, Tennessee

Dear John:

Here is the material on the Council's fund-raising effort. I have put it in release form purely as a matter of convenience. I know you will have to juggle the facts about and perhaps leave out some of them.

I don't have to tell you how much we think of you and how grateful we are for your interest in the Council -- particularly at this rough time.

Also enclosed are the Fulton Oursler letter which Dr. Mitchell spoke of and a copy of our promotion leaflet which gives the essential dope about the council.

Your story on the Gammon affair was a beaut -- and in the News Index too! Dr. Richardson and Mr. Holsey are both exulting over it and admire you greatly.

By the way, I'll be on the lookout for that magazine article on the North-South difference in discrimination. That's too good an idea to pass up.

Regards,

Harold C. Fleming
Director of Information

encls

P. Murcel

Oct.16,1949

Dear Harold:

I received your data on the funds campaign for the council. I was unable to write for Sunday's paper of today, as I had to go to New Orleans on a world-wide congress of the International Society of Surgery. I have a heavy ~~xxxxxxxx~~ schedule for the next few weeks, so probably won't submit it for a Sunday piece for another weekxx or two. Anyhow, it will keep, and I want to do the best I can to spot it for a Sunday play. So have faith, and perhaps we will yet get it used. Hope to see you soon again.

Yours

Johnny Popham

RECEIVED
17 1949
Southern Regional Council

28 - P - Misc -
Pierce, J. E.

October 18, 1949

Mr. J. E. Pierce
Alabama State College
Montgomery, Alabama

Dear Mr. Pierce:

Dr. Mitchell, who is out of the city, has asked me to answer your kind letter.

We were happy to get the clipping from the Alabama Journal which tells the story of Mr. Emmanuel Brown, and we value your appreciative comment about "Race in the News." Enclosed is an illustrated leaflet which describes our major publications, as well as a complete publications list. I hope some of them will appear useful to you.

Sincerely yours,

Harold C. Fleming
Director of Information

hcf/t
enclosure

HCF
Please answer this GSM says

Alabama State College
Montgomery, Alabama

Mr. George S.Mitchell
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta,Georgia

Dear Sir:

At the request of Mr Emory O. Jackson of Birmingham, I am sending you a clipping for the Advertiser which appeared in the Sunday Edition of October 9,1949.

I wsih to state here that I think that your new publication of Racein The News is one of the best piece of literature to come to my desk in a long time. I will be ordering quite a few very soon.

The author of the article enclosed has done a number of very fine ones lately. However, there is some question of the author stand does not reduce the effectiveness of his writing.

Please send me a list of publicationnow available for use and sale.

Sincerely yours
J. E. Pierce
J. E.Pierce

RECEIVED
17 1949
Southern Regional Council

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1949

Rankin File

Emmanuel Brown: He Cast Down His Bucket Where He Was

By Allen Rankin
Daily In The Alabama Journal

MINTER, ALA.

THIS IS THE STORY of Emmanuel Brown.

In 1904 he left his one-room log cabin here in the heart of the Black Belt. With one frayed suit to his name, he did what was then almost impossible for a Negro to do. He entered Harvard, and six summers later—summers were the only time he could spare—he got his degree from Harvard.

It was a strange story this slight, hungry Negro told as he pounded the pavements of Boston. He told people he needed money to return to Alabama and start a school for his own race. Now and then someone dropped from $2 to $5 in Emmanuel's hat and wondered what his dodge really was.

'Look about you and see what's wrong,' said Emmanuel. The Negroes of the Black Belt did, and learned pride.

His "dodge" was to come back to Alabama and start a school, just as he said.

He started it the winter before he enrolled at Harvard's summer school. He started it in a one-room shack here with 15 Negroes as students—ranging in age from 6 to 18. He called his school The Street Manual Trade School after a Negro who had given him bread when he was hungry in Boston. He told the Negroes of his community here that if they would send him their children he would teach them how to work better, improve their lives in practical ways.

Today, 45 years later, Emmanuel's school that began with a one-room shack is a modern campus of brick, stone and steel, enrolling 300 students and 14 teachers, and valued at $300,000. Its value to Emmanuel's race and to the state as a whole cannot be figured in dollars.

"Look about you and see what's wrong," Teacher Emmanuel told the first pupils who showed up for his course in the one-room shack.

★

'Now The First Thing We Learn Is '

'Look about you and see what's wrong,' said Emmanuel. The Negroes of the Black Belt did, and learned pride.

His "dodge" was to come back to Alabama and start a school, just as he said.

He started it the winter before he enrolled at Harvard's summer school. He started it in a one-room shack here with 15 Negroes as students—ranging in age from 6 to 18. He called his school The Street Manual Trade School after a Negro who had given him bread when he was hungry in Boston. He told the Negroes of his community here that if they would send him their children he would teach them how to work better, improve their lives in practical ways.

Today, 45 years later, Emmanuel's school that began with a one-room shack is a modern campus of brick, stone and steel, enrolling 300 students and 14 teachers, and valued at $300,000. Its value to Emmanuel's race and to the state as a whole cannot be figured in dollars.

"Look about you and see what's wrong," Teacher Emmanuel told the first pupils who showed up for his course in the one-room shack.

★

'Now The First Thing We Learn Is . . .'

Right from the first Emmanuel taught every student that he had a "desk place" of his own. It was up to each one to look about and see whether this place was trashy or neat and well-kept. And, on the same theme, the teacher explained: What each Negro made of his life was no one's fault except his.

"The first thing we learn here," said the Harvard graduate who chose to come back and teach his fellow sharecroppers, "is to respect ourselves. If we don't have respect for ourselves, nobody is going to have respect for us—I don't care who we are."

To the older ones Emmanuel made himself clearer: "The Negro's worst fault is that he has no pride in his own race. That pride cannot be given; it must be built from within."

Among the Alabama tenant farmers and cotton pickers he began to build bigger pride as well as bigger school rooms. And even after they left the school room Emmanuel's boys and girls began to look around them, and put them in order.

They met his challenge, "You know nothing and you can do nothing!" From him and the 14 teachers he was eventually able to hire, the boys learned better farming, plumbing, carpentering, plastering, electricity. The girls learned how to be better cooks and seamstresses.

Today many a student of Emmanuel's is no longer a tenant farmer. Many own their own prospering farms and their own new houses. When Emmanuel began a new $50,000 vocational school now under construction, he did not have to call on anyone from outside for expert labor. His students and graduates are building their school from foundation to roof. His carpentry teacher, Timothy Lewis, designed it.

★

Larnin' Through Chattering Teeth

Emmanuel, who now guesses his age at 62, grew up poor as dirt, one of a family of 10 in his father, Aaron's one-room shack. He learned first of all to keep the family's two cows out of other peoples' pastures. His ambition at 8, was to be able to own a plow. "What a time I'll have," he thought, "when we can afford a plow."

At 5 1-2 he began walking three miles to a one-room school in which teemed 250 Negroes from ages 6 to 20. In snow or in rain, more than half the pupils had to wait outside chattering by bonfires until time for them to come in and get their "larnin'".

When he finally went to the Snow Hill Trades School 15 miles away Emmanuel's eyes were opened. He should have been learning the carpentry trade all the time. He determined not to be a carpenter but a teacher who would take his learning back home to his own community. Fifteen miles was a long way in those days. It was long enough for Emmanuel to have wasted the first years of his life without education. He determined it wouldn't happen to those coming after him.

★

'The Edicated Wall'

Negroes were so ignorant when he arrived to teach them that many thought they could become wise by going to school one day and "brushing de haid against de edicated wall."

"What's become of Elijah?" Emmanuel inquired about a missing pupil one day. "Why, Lawd, he don't need to go to school no more," said Elijah's father proudly. "Why, he done passed de mailbox!"

"Passed the mailbox?" said Emmanuel.

"Yeah? Elijah he can writ a letter to Seecago an get back an answer. He is finished!"

Most Negroes then thought "passing the mailbox" was the ultra-ultra in knowledge.

Emmanuel passed his "mailbox course" when he found a scrap of paper in the road listing a Mrs. Edwin Mead of Boston, who had inscribed after her name "peace-worker." Out of curiosity Emmanuel, then a school child himself, wrote Mrs. Mead to see if he could get an answer. That was a feat in those days. He did. Mrs. Mead also returned his letter with corrected spelling and penmanship.

For Emmanuel, it was a lucky scrap of paper that bore the name Mrs. Mead. For years she continued to help him by correspondence and she helped him get into Harvard.

★

The School That Wouldn't Die

Emmanuel's trade school could be called "The School That Wouldn't Die." Built almost entirely on his constant solicitation of funds from both white and colored, it is his creation, sweated and wrestled up out of the Black Belt dirt. Twice more than half of the institution has burned down—the last time in 1943. Each time, Emmanuel has set about slowly building it back.

Waterman Steamship Lines offered to put up $25,000 for the replacement of the big vocational school razed by fire in 1943, if Emmanuel could raise the other $25,000.

For five years he struggled, but the total contributions he was able to raise stood at $13,000.

Then one night about a year ago Emmanuel got a surprise invitation. It was to speak before a group of prominent Selma men. At the end of his talk, he learned what was happening. All the doctors and lawyers and businessmen met here were paying $65 a plate at a banquet held just for him. As a surprise, they handed him a check for the long-needed $12,000!

"Tears filled my eyes," Emmanuel said. "It is time to be deeply grateful." The gratitude was mutual. The Black Belt and the State of Alabama have decided it is time to be deeply grateful to a distinguished man who is a credit and an honor to his race.

28 - P - Misc
Phillips, Cabell

October 21, 1949

Mr. Cabell Phillips
New York Times
311 Albee Building
Washington, D. C.

Dear Cabell:

I read with much interest the article about Camden, Alabama. I don't know Camden, but I think the story you wrote about it should be acceptable to any but Camden's most intolerant residents.

We are lining things up for a story to send you such as you and I talked about.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

gsm/t

28-P Misc.
Phillips, Cabell

August 9, 1949

Mr. Cabell B. H. Phillips
The New York Times
Albee Building
Washington 5, D. C.

Dear Cabell:

Our man did a good story on the lynching at Irwinton, Georgia. Here it is, with some analysis overleaf of possible legislation.

Warm regards to you and Xi.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:wgd

Enclosure

PAGE PARTIALLY ILLEGIBLE

38 P. Inc
Phillips, Cabell

July 6, 1949

Mr. Cabell Phillips
The New York Times
Albee Building
Washington 5, D. C.

Dear Mr. Phillips:

I hope this suggestion will reach you in time to be of use. I delayed writing you because I learned that Dr. Mitchell would be back in Atlanta today. Herewith his advice.

Sumter, S. C., would be a good bet for a profile, for the following reasons:

(1) It is reasonably small. The population in 1940 was slightly less than 16,000.

(2) It is a town of contrasts. Although it is located well in the plantation country, it has a lively woodworking industry. The workers have been pretty well organized, and at least half the union members are Negroes. While it is not a harmoniously progressive town, its contrasts epitomize the changes which are spreading in the South — and the kind of opposition which they meet.

(3) You could probably work in some interesting sidelights on the Democrat vs. Dixiecrat struggle now prominent in the state. Dr. Mitchell feels that a good bit of that current contest for power is centered about Sumter.

(4) There are good persons in and around Sumter who are informed about and active in race relations. The Council has several members and friends there who would be of help to you.

Those are Dr. Mitchell's observations as he gave them to me briefly over the telephone. Sumter may not be just the sort of Southern community which you had in mind, but it should provide a colorful article and one that would be meaningful in terms of the whole South.

If you decide on Sumter -- or any other place -- we will be glad to put you in touch with our people in that area. Let us know how we can help you.

Dr. Mitchell asks me to give you his warm regards.

Sincerely,

Harold C. Fleming
Director of Information

GENERAL

Nov.7,1949.

P-Mixed

Dear Harold:

Enclosed is an item which you sent me in the data on the council's campaign drive, and which Dr.Mitchell would like to have returned. Will you see that he gets it? I have sent the campaign fund story on to the Times and am hopeful that it will appear Sunday,Nov.13. That's the only open chance I have had to plant the story, since I have had some major assignment to cover every Saturday since I received your material and I knew I couldn't get a decent break with the council story at the same time. I don't know of anything worthwhile that is scheduled to come up for me this coming week-end. What did you think of the play the Times gave several weeks ago to the story on the council calling upon the South to consider the racial problem from an international standpoint. Mr.Mynders tells me that Senator Kefauver inquired about the council pamphlet containing that material. I think he wanted to send it on to some person in the State [redacted] Department. Hope to see you soon again.

Best wishes

John

John N.Popham

RECEIVED
8 1949
Southern Regional Council

DOMESTIC SERVICE
Check the class of service desired; otherwise this message will be sent as a full rate telegram
FULL RATE TELEGRAM	X	SERIAL
DAY LETTER		NIGHT LETTER

WESTERN UNION

W. P. MARSHALL, PRESIDENT

1206

INTERNATIONAL SERVICE
Check the class of service desired; otherwise this message will be sent at the full rate
FULL RATE		DEFERRED
CODE		NIGHT LETTER

NO. WDS.-CL. OF SVC.	PD. OR COLL.	CASH NO.	CHARGE TO THE ACCOUNT OF	TIME FILED
	pd		Southern Regional Council, Inc.

Send the following message, subject to the terms on back hereof, which are hereby agreed to

P-Misc 11/14/49

Mr. John Popham
Chattanooga Times
Chattanooga, Tennessee

What a magnificent story. Our warmest thanks.

Harold Fleming

28 - P - Misc -
Perlman, Philip B.

Office of the Solicitor General
Washington, D. C.

November Fourteenth 1949

NCF

Dear Mr. Mitchell:-

Thank you very much for your letter of November 10th and for the September edition of THE NEW SOUTH.

I am interested - very much - in reading the article on "Law and Discrimination". It is a most timely exposition of one of the most important problems with which the courts are required to deal. I am glad to have it.

Best wishes.

Sincerely yours,

Philip B. Perlman
Solicitor General

Mr. George S. Mitchell,
Southern Regional Council, Inc.,
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia.

RECEIVED
16 1949
Southern Regional Council

28- P- Misc. —
Perlman, Philip B.

November 10, 1949

Mr. Philip B. Perlman
Solicitor General of the United States
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Perlman:

Mr. Jacob Billikopf at Philadelphia, who is a member of our Council, received a copy of the September issue of our magazine New South. He has written me and asked particularly that a copy be sent to you, your attention being drawn to the article called "Law and Discrimination."

I have the honor of complying with Mr. Billikopf's request.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

gsm/t
enclosure

November 10, 1949

Mr. Jacob Billikopf
805 Bankers Security Building
Philadelphia 7, Pennsylvania

Dear Mr. Billikopf:

Thank you so much for suggesting that a copy of that issue of New South be sent to Mr. Perlman.

I have done so.

With warm regards,

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

gsm/t

October 28, 1949

Dear George:

What an illuminating article entitled LAW AND DISCRIMINATION in the September issue of the New South! Is Philip B. Perlman, Solicitor General, U.S. on your list? If not, please send him the September issue with a covering note saying you are doing it at my request.

Kindest regards.

Yours,

L.B.

R. Powell

November 22, '49

Dear Mr. Popham,

Most newspaper stories break the heart of anyone deeply informed about what the story is about; so many things go in wrong. But yours in general, and this one of Sunday in particular, get the facts straight, order them duly, and touch each point deftly and fairly. And they got the headline just right, and so on.

It will help us enormously, and we are very grateful.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell

28 - P - Misc -
Poteat, McNeill

November 28, 1949

Reverend McNeill Poteat
Raleigh, North Carolina

Dear McNeill:

Baptist Headquarters sent straight on through the copy of the statement. I can see that it is somewhat less vigorous but still good.

Everything moves fairly fast, I think.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:wgd

P-Misc

December 9, 1949

Mr. Chat Paterson, Executive Director
Committee for the Nation's Health
Kellogg Building
1416 F. Street, N. W.
Washington, D. C.

Dear Chat:

Thank you lots for your letter.

I quite understand and would probably take the same position myself. Les thought that you might find it possible to strengthen our hand.

I am overjoyed that A.V.C. has new strength.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:wgd

COMMITTEE FOR THE NATION'S HEALTH

KELLOGG BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D. C.

1416 F STREET, N. W.
TELEPHONE: EX. 8156

CHAIRMAN
Channing Frothingham, M.D.

HONORARY VICE-CHAIRMAN
Gov. Chester Bowles
Russell Davenport
William Green
Bishop Francis J. McConnell
Philip Murray
Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam
Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt
Gerard Swope
Walter Wanger

TREASURER
John J. Corson

SECRETARY
V. Henry Rothschild, 2nd

CHAIRMAN EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE
Michael M. Davis

BOARD OF DIRECTORS
Channing Frothingham, M.D.
Barry Bingham
Ernest P. Boas, M.D.
Wayne Chatfield-Taylor
Morris Llewellyn Cooke
Paul B. Cornely, M.D.
John J. Corson
Michael M. Davis
Mrs. Tobe Davis
Albert W. Dent
Gen. William J. Donovan
Abe Fortas
Harry Goldblatt, M.D.
John Gunther
Mary Dublin Keyserling
Mrs. Albert D. Lasker
Mrs. David M. Levy
Mrs. Daniel Mahoney
Newbold Morris Dorothy Norman
Eric Peterson
Lillian Poses
Emil Rieve
Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr.
Anna M. Rosenberg
V. Henry Rothschild, 2nd
Samuel I. Rosenman
Theodore Sanders, M.D.
Max Seham, M.D.
Robert E. Sherwood
Robert F. Wagner, Jr.
R. M. Walls, D.D.S.
Hubert Will Matthew Woll

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
Chat Paterson

Corporate Office:
50 Broadway
New York 4, New York

December 7, 1949

RECEIVED
DEC 7 1949
Southern Regional Council

Mr. George S. Mitchell
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Ga.

Dear George:

Re your letter of December 2: There is nothing I would like to do more than to help the Council. My admiration for your courage and vision in a tough field has always been great. As for my putting you in touch with Mrs. Blaine, about all I can suggest is that you write her directly, and if she calls me for advice on this I shall be very glad to push it with whatever force I have in the situation.

I do not have "backing" to give. My relation with Mrs. Blaine is purely because of her interest in American Veterans Committee and its program. It is not in my power to transfer this feeling in any way.

I don't want you to feel that this in any way indicates a lack of interest or support for your program. I want to help and nothing would please me more than to have my opinion asked, but I must confine my relationship with Mrs. Blaine to AVC.

With best regards,

Chat

Chat Paterson

cc: Les Persells

CP/o

America needs "a system of pre-paid medical insurance which will enable every American to afford good medical care . . . without further delay."—President Harry S. Truman, January 5, 1949.

P

December 28, '49

Mr. Richard L. Plaut
National Negro Scholarship Service
31 West 110th Street
New York, N.Y.

Dear Mr. Plaut,

We have been a very long time, in our exigencies, in getting around to our note in NEW SOUTH about the Service and Fund, but here at last it is.

~~Sincerely~~

This will go out to about 4,500 members or subscribers, almost all in the South.

Sincerely,
George S. Mitchell
Executive Dir.

(Send him 5 copies) of Nov-Dec New South

9d postage including the letter

1st class

P

December 28, 1949

The Hon. Phillip B. Perlman
Solicitor General
U. S. Department of Justice
Washington, D. C.

My dear Mr. Solicitor General:

Our small magazine has made bold to reprint in shortened, summary, form the important brief which you submitted in the Elmer Henderson case.

I send you herewith five copies. We are hopeful that this additional circulation will have some influence in increasing the willingness of Southern people to contemplate change.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:wgd

P

January 5, 1950

Mr. John Popham
c/o Chattanooga Times
Chattanooga, Tenn.

Dear Mr. Popham:

We had still another check, this time for twenty-five dollars from some one in Philadel hia - nominee Biddle - which was made and sent to Dr. Howard W. Orum at Chapel Hill, who duly sent it on.

We thank you too, again.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:wgd

January 5, 1950

Miss Lucy Clark Perry
Brier Hill
Yardley, Pa.

Dear Miss Perry:

How very kind indeed that was of you to send us December 30 your check for twenty dollars. Mrs. Tilly's program was a good many months ago now, and it is doubly pleasant to us to know that you remember (and in this way) her talk.

She is in Palestine just now on a church mission, as I understand, with a church group which is being shown the arrangements made and pending for care of the various holy places in Jerusalem.

I send three or four things about the Council.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:wgd

YSM deposited $20.00 Jan. 5

BRIER HILL
YARDLEY, PENNSYLVANIA

December 30-1949

Southern Regional Conference
Wesleyan Memorial Bldg.
Atlanta, Georgia

Gentlemen -

Some time ago I heard Dorothy Tilly on Mary Margaret McBride's program and resolved, whenever I could, to send you something to keep in your work.

It is people like you who are the hope of this uncertain world.

Sincerely yours

Lucy Clark Penry.

RECEIVED
JAN 5 1950
Southern Regional Council

1/13/50

GSM -

Thanks to La Stoney, a Yellow Thing has been sent to each of these bozos.

HCF

Board of Directors
HARRY J. CARMAN
Chairman
MRS. NATHAN STRAUS
Vice-Chairman
REV. JAMES H. ROBINSON
Secretary-Treasurer
FELICE N. SCHWARTZ
RICHARD L. PLAUT
Executive Vice-Chairmen
Advisory Board of College Presidents LISTED ON REVERSE SIDE

NATIONAL SCHOLARSHIP SERVICE AND FUND FOR NEGRO STUDENTS

31 West 110th Street, New York 26
RIverside 9-5660

P-Misc

MRS. EDITH ALEXANDER
DANIEL J. BERNSTEIN
HON. JANE BOLIN
RICHARD S. CHILDS
EDWIN F. CHINLUND
JOHN ELLIS
EDWIN R. EMBREE
MARGARET HALSEY
MRS. SELIG HECHT
MRS. ROBERT KINTNER
HENRY R. LUCE
ARTHUR S. MEYER
KENDALL WEISIGER
MRS. RALPH ZIMET

January 6, 1950

Dr. George S. Mitchell, Executive Director
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear George Mitchell:

Thanks for sending me the current NEW SOUTH and thanks again for the piece about us.

I was also very much interested in your reports about Jefferson College and about the current legislation in the Supreme Court. I think it is altogether a very fine issue.

I recall with pleasure our talks in Chicago and I hope they will be resumed again sonn, somewhere.

Best regards,

Cordially,

Richard L. P.

Richard L. Plaut
Executive vice-Chairman

RLP:lg

Contributions are deductible for income tax purposes

Yellow Thing - 117

ADVISORY BOARD OF COLLEGE PRESIDENTS

RAYMOND B. ALLEN
University of Washington

PAUL R. ANDERSON
Pennsylvania College for Women

WINSLOW S. ANDERSON
Whitman College

SISTER ANTONIUS
College of St. Catherine

GEORGE H. ARMACOST
University of Redlands

HUGH P. BAKER
University of Massachusetts

JAMES P. BAXTER, 3rd
Williams College

BANCROFT BEATLEY
Simmons College

ADAM D. BEITTEL
Talladega College

HOWARD J. BELL
Jamestown College

CONRAD BERGENDOFF
Augustana College

HOWARD L. BEVIS
Ohio State University

EUGENE G. BEWKES
St. Lawrence University

JULIUS S. BIXLER
Colby College

SARAH G. BLANDING
Vassar College

LUCIA R. BRIGGS
Milwaukee-Downer College

KENNETH I. BROWN
Denison University

LYNDON O. BROWN
Knox College

FREDERICK BURKHARDT
Bennington College

ROBERT E. BURNS
College of the Pacific

VICTOR L. BUTTERFIELD
Wesleyan University

SISTER MARIE J. BYRNE
College of St. Elizabeth

SAMUEL P. CAPEN
University of Buffalo

LEONARD CARMICHAEL
Tufts College

EVERETT CASE
Colgate University

JAMES H. CASE, JR.
Washington and Jefferson College

GORDON K. CHALMERS
Kenyon College

MARY ASHBY CHEEK
Rockford College

MARGARET CLAPP
Wellesley College

ROBERT C. CLOTHIER
Rutgers University

RUSSELL D. COLE
Cornell College

WILSON M. COMPTON
State College of Washington

ARTHUR G. COONS
Occidental College

CAREY CRONEIS
Beloit College

CARTER DAVIDSON
Union College

THURSTON J. DAVIES
Colorado College

EDMUND E. DAY
Cornell University

HARRY L. DILLIN
Linfield College

THEODORE A. DISTLER
Franklin and Marshall College

HAROLD W. DODDS
Princeton University

WILLIAM W. EDEL
Dickinson College

MILTON S. EISENHOWER
Kansas State College

CALVERT N. ELLIS
Juniata College

JOHN S. EVERTON
Kalamazoo College

FRANK D. FACKENTHAL (emer.)
Columbia University

PAUL H. FALL
Hiram College

CHARLES E. FRILEY
Iowa State College

C. HARVE GEIGER
North Central College

HARRY D. GIDEONSE
Brooklyn College

LAURENCE M. GOULD
Carleton College

CLEMENS M. GRANSKOU
St. Olaf College

RICHARD L. GREENE
Wells College

JAMES H. GRIER
Monmouth College

REUBEN G. GUSTAVSON
University of Nebraska

ERNEST H. HAHNE
Miami University

ROSWELL G. HAM
Mount Holyoke College

VIRGIL M. HANCHER
State University of Iowa

JOHN A. HANNAH
Michigan State College

HENRY W. A. HANSON Gettysburg College

C. FREDERICK HARD
Scripps College

FRANKLIN S. HARRIS
Utah State Agricultural College

ARTHUR A. HAUCK
University of Maine

PAUL S. HAVENS
Wilson College

ROWLAND HAYNES
University of Omaha

HENRY T. HEALD
Illinois Institute of Technology

DAVID D. HENRY
Wayne University

HORACE HILDRETH
Bucknell University

BYRON S. HOLLINSHEAD
Coe College

MERRIL J. HOLMES
Illinois Wesleyan University

SISTER HONORA
Marygrove College

NELSON P. HORN
Baker University

BRYN J. HOVDE
New School for Social Research

FREDERICK L. HOVDE
Purdue University

J. GORDON HOWARD
Otterbein College

H. GARY HUDSON
Illinois College

RALPH C. HUTCHISON
Lafayette College

WILLIAM M. JARDINE
University of Wichita

HOWARD B. JEFFERSON
Clark University

CHARLES S. JOHNSON
Fisk University

ERNEST A. JOHNSON
Lake Forest College

MORDECAI W. JOHNSON
Howard University

ROBERT L. JOHNSON
Temple University

THOMAS E. JONES
Earlham College

WILLIAM C. JONES
Whittier College

WILBUR K. JORDON
Radcliffe College

ALBERT N. JORGENSEN
University of Connecticut

WILLIAM L. KELEHER
Boston College

CHARLES B. KETCHAM
Mount Union College

PAUL KLAPPER
Queens College

CLARK G. KUEBLER
Ripon College

WINFRED G. LEUTNER
Western Reserve University

HOWARD F. LOWRY
College of Wooster

IRWIN J. LUBBERS
Hope College

E. WILSON LYON
Pomona College

J. WALTER MALONE
James Millikin University

DEANE W. MALOTT
University of Kansas

DANIEL L. MARSH
Boston University

CLARENCE P. McCLELLAND
MacMurray College for Women

GEORGE W. McCLELLAND
University of Pennsylvania

HOWARD S. McDONALD
Brigham Young University

ROBERT W. McEWEN
Hamilton College

LAWRENCE J. McGINLEY
Fordham University

HELEN McKINSTRY
Russell Sage College

ALEXANDER H. MENEELY
Wheaton College

JOHN S. MILLIS
University of Vermont

ROBERT N. MONTGOMERY
Muskingum College

HENRY T. MOORE
Skidmore College

JAMES L. MORRILL
University of Minnesota

JOHN O. MOSELEY
University of Nevada

JOHN W. NASON
Swarthmore College

JOHN A. O'BRIEN
College of the Holy Cross

ELEANOR M. O'BYRNE
Manhattanville College of the Sacred Heart

PETER H. ODEGARD
Reed College

DAVID B. OWEN
Bradley University

CHARLES N. PACE
Hamline University

ROSEMARY PARK
Connecticut College

McLEOD M. PEARCE
Geneva College

SISTER MARY PETER
Rosary College

WILLIAM S. A. POTT
Elmira College

NATHAN M. PUSEY
Lawrence College

ROLAND R. RENNE
Montana State College

NELSON V. RUSSELL
Carroll College

GRANGER RYAN
Seton Hill College

CHARLES SEYMOUR
Yale University

WILLIAM A. SHIMER
Marietta College

GEORGE N. SHUSTER
Hunter College

KENNETH C. M. SILLS
Bowdoin College

HEZZELTON E. SIMMONS
University of Akron

FRANKLIN B. SNYDER
Northwestern University

WILLIAM G. SPENCER
Franklin College

ROBERT G. SPROUL
University of California

SAMUEL S. STRATTON
Middlebury College

ROBERT L. STEARNS
University of Colorado

SAMUEL N. STEVENS
Grinnell College

WILLIAM E. STEVENSON
Oberlin College

BRYAN S. STOFFER
Washburn Municipal University

HAROLD W. STOKE
University of New Hampshire

AUGUST L. STRAND
Oregon State College

CLARENCE C. STOUGHTON
Wittenberg College

HAROLD TAYLOR
Sarah Lawrence College

FRANK W. THOMAS
Fresno State College

WILLIAM P. TOLLEY
Syracuse University

CHARLES J. TURCK
Macalester College

LEVERING TYSON
Muhlenberg College

ALAN VALENTINE
University of Rochester

HENRY P. VAN DUSEN
Union Theological Seminary

EDWIN E. VOIGT
Simpson College

J. EDWARD WALTERS
Alfred University

RAYMOND WALTERS
University of Cincinnati

HERMAN B. WELLS
Indiana University

JOHN C. WEST
University of North Dakota

GILBERT F. WHITE
Haverford College

LYNN T. WHITE, JR.
Mills College

CLYDE E. WILDMAN
Depauw University

CAROL R. WOODWARD
Rhode Island State College

BENJAMIN F. WRIGHT
Smith College

HARRY N. WRIGHT
College of the City of New York

HAROLD L. YOCHUM
Capital University

Names of colleges and universities included for identification purposes only.

P-Misc

Office of the Solicitor General
Washington, D. C.

January Ninth 1950

RECEIVED
JAN 11 1950
Southern Regional Council

Mr. George S. Mitchell,
Executive Director,
Southern Regional Council, Inc.,
Room 432, 63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.,
Atlanta 3, Georgia.

Dear Mr. Mitchell:-

Thank you very much for your letter of December 28th and for the enclosed copies of the edition of the magazine containing a summary of the Government's brief in the Henderson case.

I am glad to get it in this form and I appreciate your courtesy in sending it to me.

Best wishes.

Sincerely yours,

Philip B. Perlman

Philip B. Perlman
Solicitor General

January 24, 1950

Mr. Everett L. Perry
Research Assistant
Dept. of City & Industrial Work
Board of National Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America
156 Fifth Avenue
New York 10, New York

Dear Mr. Perry:

Thank you for your letter of January 20.

A self-survey quite like the Jacksonville one is now nearly finished at Greenville, South Carolina. In connection with it, we developed a special questionnaire for Religious Resources, copy of which I enclose along with a copy of our general manual for surveys of this kind.

Lesser surveys have been completed at Madison, Georgia and Mobile, Alabama and we expect surveys to be started soon in Rock Hill, S. C., West Palm Beach, Fla., and two or three other places.

I also send you up two or three of our pamphlets with a list of the others. We would be happy to supply any that you might need.

Do stop and see us; there will be many things we would like to talk of. The Council is here to help you in any way it can.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:wgd

P.S. If Miss Gladfelter is still part of the Board's work, please remember me warmly to her.

Board of National Missions
of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America
156 Fifth Avenue, New York 10, N. Y.

RECEIVED
JAN 23 1950
Southern Regional Council

January 20, 1950

Dr. George S. Mitchell
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

On a recent survey trip to Florida I ran across a copy of a study of the Jacksonville Negro community which was made by your organization in cooperation with the local Council of Social Agencies. Since I am at present engaged in a survey of our Negro Presbyterian work in the South I am wondering whether other studies of this nature are available, and if so, whether I might purchase copies. I would appreciate hearing from you concerning the resources for understanding the Negro in the South which you may have available. I hope to stop at your office at the earliest opportunity.

Very cordially yours,

Everett L. Perry

Everett L. Perry, Research Assistant
Department of City and Industrial Work

ELP:gls

noted - JPS

28- P-Misc —
Perry, Everett L.

Memo to Jane:

At Dr. Mitchell's request, I sent him:

The Manual (incl. section on Relig. Resources
Several survey leaflets
Race in the News
Reprint of Time-Newsweek story
Honest Answer
Publications List
A couple of yellow books
Religious Resources
New Negro Police
Fellowship of the Concerned
Wanted an Educated South
Wanted: The South's Future for the Nation
Fleming

WGD

P-Miscl

February 20, 1950

Dr. F. D. Patterson
Tuskegee Institute
Tuskegee Institute, Ala.

Dear Dr. Patterson:

I was in Chicago the other day and happened into the offices of the Henry Strong Educational Foundation, 50 South LaSalle Street, Chicago, Illinois. This is an old foundation making loans to students. The prefer to help Juniors and Seniors and an occasional graduate student. Loans usually run from around one hundred dollars to three, four or five hundred dollars. The interest is three per cent, which begins to accrue only upon graduation. The first tenth of the principle repayable one year after graduation and in later years, increasing amounts. Their money accumulated pretty well during the G.I. period, but is currently in great demand.

They do not help students in eastern institutions but bracket the South with the West as their territory. They have no affiliation with the Hattie Strong Foundation in New York, which merely happens to have a similar name and do a similar job.

I was told that Tuskegee, along, with Dillard, Fisk, and Morehouse, was some years ago put on the Strong Foundation's approved list. Few or no loan requests have come from any of these institutions. The implication was obvious that the Strong Foundation was prepared to help students in those colleges.

They were proud of the minimum of red tape involved in a loan from them. In ordinary applications, the loan is approved by the appropriate college official (frequently a loan officer) and an application so approved usually gets a check from mailed on the same day the request was received. I thought perhaps it would be well to let you know of this current opportunity.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:wgd

P - Misc

February 20, 1950

Mr. Clyde N. Parker, Head
Department of Sociology
Merdith College
Raleigh, N. C.

Dear Mr. Parker:

The Southwide Conference on Discrimination in Higher Education is being organized by the Southern Conference Educational Fund of New Orleans. The S.C.E.F. is a non-political offshoot of the Southern Conference for Human Welfare, which latter organization has now disbanded.

I was offered an opportunity to serve as a sponsor but did not care to serve.

I am satisfied that the SCEF has no communistic involvements and I think it in the long run useful to the South that people prepared to take quite advanced stands should do so. Nevertheless, the organization has not seemed to me to be the sort of thing the Council would care to stand behind.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:wgd

MEREDITH COLLEGE
DEPARTMENT OF SOCIOLOGY AND ECONOMICS
RALEIGH, NORTH CAROLINA

February 16, 1950

RECEIVED
FEB 17 1950
Southern Regional Council

Dr. George S. Mitchell, Executive Director
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

I have a communication from an organization called The Southwide Conference On Dircrimination In Higher Education asking me to participate as a sponsor. I am not sure that this group can serve any purpose that is not already being served by the Southern Regional Council of which I am already a member. I should like to have your advice about the status of this new organization before I reply to their invitation. I will appreciate a candid word from you and will regard your reply as entirely confidential if you desire.

Very truly yours,

Clyde N. Parker

Clyde N. Parker, Head
Department of Sociology

P:mg

March 8, 1950

6

Professor Paul E. Pfuetze
The University of Georgia
Department of Philosophy
Athens, Georgia

Dear Mr. Pfuetze:

Many thanks for your nice note. I enjoyed coming as I always do.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:wgd

THE UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA
DEPARTMENT OF PHILOSOPHY
ATHENS, GEORGIA

March 6, 1950

Mr. George Mitchell
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

This is to express our gratitude for your visit last week and for your willingness to speak to my classes about the Human and Natural Geography of the South. I think it gives the students a slant and an interpretation which few of them otherwise get.

I hope you can come to us again, perhaps this spring along toward the end of May.

Cordially yours,

Pfuetze

Paul E. Pfuetze

Farmers Union EDUCATIONAL & COOPERATIVE OF AMERICA · NATIONAL OFFICE
1555 SHERMAN STREET · DENVER 5, COLORADO

Office of President

March 16, 1950

RECEIVED
MAR 20 1950
Southern Regional Council

Mr. George S. Mitchell
Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E., Room 432
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear George:

Of course the private handling of labor camps isn't any solution, as you and I have often agreed; nor is state control of labor camps any solution. They almost become concentration camps.

I hope I will get to see you one of these days.

Kindest regards.

Sincerely,

JAMES G. PATTON
President
National Farmers Union

WASHINGTON OFFICE · 300 "B" STREET S. E. · WASHINGTON 3, D. C.

Misc P.

April 12, 1950

Mr. William C. Pryor Jr.
306 East Healey Street
Champaign, Illinois

Dear Mr. Pryor:

I regard your ten dollars as benevolently radioactive. I wish you could observe its efflorescence as it flows about through the veins of our necessitous capital. Which is to say, Thank you.

We are for you.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:er

Dict. by GSM;
signed in his absence

RECEIVED
APR 5 1950
Southern Regional Council

306 East Healey st.
Champaign, Illinois
April 3, 1950

Mr. George S. Mitchell
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council
Rm. 432 63 Auburn ave., NE
Atlanta, 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

Enclosed find a ten-dollar money order for a membership. I'll make no bones about it, it wasn't easy. But I feel that this is ten dollars exceptionally well spent so am glad to it. But don't look for this sort of thing every year. If I hadn't gotten an insurance dividend recently, well, you know the rest.

The extra twenty-five cents is to buy one of the pamphlets described in one of notices you sent. I'm doing a paper in my labor problems course on the influence of the mechanical cotton picker on the south. So, I would be pleased if you would send me a copy of "Machines in the Cotton Fields" by Arthur Raper. ~~I would be most appreciative.~~

Sent 4/6/50 HCF

I was tickled with all the dope you sent and will look it over thoroughly the first chance I get--probably this summer. I was greatly moved by the urgent financial plea and feel that the great shame is that you must be put in the position of making it. I'm only sorry I can't make a real contribution to the Council.

It's only fair to warn you, I believe, that I will shift my address at least twice in the coming year so I'd appreciate your standing by to effectuate the necessary changes. And finally, if any jobs crop up which might fit my abilities, I hope you'll let me know.

Thanks again for the literature and best of luck in the coming year.

Sincerely,

William C. Pryor, jr.

William C. Pryor, jr.

P.S.
Pardon the errors;
done in a necessary hurry

Misc - P

April 26, 1950

Mr. Charles F. Palmer
Palmer Building
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Mr. Palmer:

I wanted to be sure that this beautiful account of the Council got to you.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:er
Encl.

Mis P

May 8, 1950

Mr. Hollis F. Price, President
LeMoyne College
Memphis, Tennessee

Dear Mr. Price:

Here is a grand story in print about our Council.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:er

Encl.

Mis P.

May 9, 1950

Miss Elisabeth S. Peck, Chairman
Dept. of History & Political Science
Berea College
Berea, Kentucky

Dear Miss Peck:

Thank you for your letter of May 2.

Our leaflet The Changing South in Print lists our main things. These are all in print. In addition, we have Race in the News, copy herewith. It has done a lot of good and I should think would be a good one or two day text.

Do you use Vance's Human Geography of the South? Nothing is more fruitful than for a class to put together the regional geography of the South. That lays a foundation for everything else.

Here is an outline we prepared for courses arranged for Georgia Baptist ministers in local communities. They haven't yet used it, but will, I think, this year.

I don't know of any good inclusive book. Everybody else who arranges such a course puts it together out of fugitive literature.

Have you seen V. O. Key's book on politics in the South? Surely it would be worth a couple of weeks.

An interesting new book is Plain Folk of the Old South, by Frank Lawrence Owsley. I think he pushes his thesis too far, but it is a good corrective.

Let us help you in any way we can.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:er/Encls.

BEREA COLLEGE • BEREA • KENTUCKY

DEPARTMENT OF HISTORY
AND POLITICAL SCIENCE

RECEIVED
MAY 3 1950
Southern Regional Council

5-2-50

Secretary, Southern Regional Council
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Sir:

Again I am to offer in Summer School 1950 the course on Problems of the South. Last summer I had 47 enrollees. I hope to do as well this summer. I come to you with the problem of study material.

I need a general textbook, but it must be very recent. Odum's Southern Regions is not recent enough for a text. Last year I used his Way of the South — too sketchy and emotional and Headlines Hist. of the South — not enough emphasis on recent problems. I used also a selection of your SRC pamphlets.

What books do you recommend to me? Do you have any new pamphlets since last summer? Are any of your fundamental booklets now out of print?

I will appreciate whatever help you can give me as to material available in SRC, — a folder of available booklets, present prices, and recent folders keeping things up to date. I know of no better place for showing your material than in such a course of college juniors and seniors.

Sincerely and with appreciation,

Elizabeth S. Peck
Chairman, Dept. of Hist. & Pol. Science
Berea College, Berea, Ky.

GSM –

Can you advise re: textbook?

HCF

May 15, 1950

My dear Mr. Mitchell,

P. Miss Parkes

This is a personal invitation for you and members of your staff to hear Dr Rita Hinden, Secretary of the Fabian Colonial Society of Great Britain and an associate of Creech Jones – She'll be at the Hungry Club Wednesday. – Sincerely – C. T. Parkes

Misc P

May 19, 1950

President F. D. Patterson
Tuskegee Institute
Tuskegee Institute, Alabama

Dear Dr. Patterson:

This turned up in our clippings. On the off-chance that you had not seen it I send it on.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:er

Encl.

P-Misce
Public Affairs Clinic

EMORY UNIVERSITY
EMORY UNIVERSITY, GEORGIA

RECEIVED
MAY 23 1950
Southern Regional Council

COMMUNITY EDUCATIONAL SERVICE

May 19, 1950

Dr. George Mitchell
63 Auburn Ave.
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

You received a few days ago an invitation to join a group of other Alumni and friends of Emory in the informal discussions of Emory's third Public Affairs Clinic on the campus June 1, 2, and 3. The purpose of this letter is to give you additional details and to ask you to return the enclosed post card to us.

We shall meet first Thursday night, June 1, at 6:30 at a dinner meeting in the Banquet Room of the new Alumni Memorial Building, where all Clinic sessions will be held. Following the banquet program, we shall divide into discussion groups for a brief organizational meeting. These small groups will meet again Friday morning and afternoon. No Clinic session is scheduled Friday night (the group leaders and secretaries are asked to meet Friday night to prepare summaries of the discussion sessions to be considered Saturday morning). The whole group of us will meet at breakfast Saturday morning for a summary session. The Alumni Day activities begin with registration around 10 o'clock and the Alumni Day program formally begins at 11 A.M. Some of the other details you may need to know are:

1) A very limited number of private rooms are available in the new Alumni Memorial Building; those wishing reservations should write to us at once. The charge will be $3.50 per person in single rooms; $2.50 in double rooms.
2) The whole Clinic group is asked to meet at mealtime only three times, Thursday night, Friday noon, and Saturday morning.
3) Each participant is asked to pay a registration fee of $2.50. This fee includes the ticket for the opening banquet Thursday night. Each participant is expected to handle the cost of his other meals on the campus and whatever housing costs he may incur.
4) The general Clinic costs have been underwritten by the University.
5) As was pointed out in the other letter the general topic for this year's discussions is "The Future Role of Emory University." This topic can be divided into sub-topics as may seem appropriate.

We look forward to seeing you on June 1 and to having your help in making this third annual Public Affairs Clinic a success. Won't you scribble your name on the enclosed post card and mail it to us?

Sincerely,

James A. Mackay

James A. Mackay, Chairman
Grady Clay, Jr.
John A. Dotson
Cullen B. Gosnell
John A. Griffin
Boisfeuillet Jones
Calvin Kytle
Judson C. Ward
James H. Wilson, Jr.

P - Misc
Public Affairs Clinic

RECEIVED
EMORY UNIVERSITY
MAY 4 1950
EMORY UNIVERSITY, GEORGIA
RECEIVED
Southern Regional Council

April 29, 1950

Dr. George Mitchell
Southern Regional Council
Wesley Memorial Church Bldg.
Auburn Ave.
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

You will recall perhaps, that we have had two annual sessions of the Public Affairs Clinic. At these informal meetings the participants--alumni and others--spent the time talking about significant problems in the field of public affairs. The atmosphere was informal; nonetheless, the problem was submitted to a sort of clinical analysis based on the study and experience of those attending.

"Educational Problems of the Southeast" was the general topic for last year's clinic. One of the three discussion groups talked about Emory University's responsibility to the community and to her own students. This group created such enthusiastic interest it has been decided to make the general theme for this year's clinic "The Future Role of Emory University." This framework is sufficiently large for the consideration of special problems in professions for which Emory is training students and in which alumni work.

Chairman Grady Clay Jr. promised in the invitation to the first clinic that it would not be a public affairs pressure group, a political rally, nor a series of long-winded addresses. His promises were kept that year and last year. There was only one formal address each year; the real emphasis was on the small, intimate discussion groups.

This year's clinic will begin on Thursday night, June 1. There will be a morning and afternoon session on June 2, and a breakfast session on Saturday, June 3. Thus the clinic plans dovetail with the Alumni Day activities, which begin about 10 o'clock Saturday, June 3.

Detailed plans for this year's program of the clinic will be sent you in a few weeks. In the meantime, the committee hopes that you will mark these dates on your calendar and begin making plans to come back to Emory in June.

The Planning Committee

James A. Mackay

James A. Mackay, Chairman
Grady Clay, Jr.
John A. Dotson
Cullen B. Gosnell
John A. Griffin
Boisfeuillet Jones
Calvin Kytle
Judson C. Ward
James H. Wilson, Jr.

Misc P-

May 22, 1950

President F. D. Patterson
Tuskegee Institute
Tuskegee Institute, Alabama

Dear Mr. Patterson:

Harold Fleming, as editor of our little magazine, New South, wants to print the Tuskegee speech in full -- June issue.

Does that conflict in any way with your plans? Our could it supplement your plans in any way?

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:er

P-Misc
Patterson

Tuskegee Institute

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
ALABAMA

OFFICE OF
THE PRESIDENT

June 9, 1950

Dr. George S. Mitchell
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

Thanks for your thoughtfulness in sending the information on African students in southern states. I am pleased to have this material.

Regards,

Sincerely yours,

F. D. Patterson

F. D. Patterson
President

p

RECEIVED
JUN 10 1950
Southern Regional Council

P-Misc-Patterson

HF

(GSM has seen)

Tuskegee Institute

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
ALABAMA

OFFICE OF
THE PRESIDENT

May 26, 1950

Dr. George S. Mitchell
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432, 63 Auburn Avenue, NE
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

I am delighted that Mr. Fleming will print in full your Tuskegee Commencement Address. This will not in any way conflict with our plans. I am happy that it will get this splendid distribution.

Again our hearty thanks for your presence and most inspiring and informative address.

Sincerely yours,

F. D. Patterson

F. D. Patterson
President

h

P.S. Thanks for the clipping on our concrete block housing. I am glad to have this.

FDP

MAY 29 1950
Southern Regional Council

The Encyclopedia of Labor article

The Encyclopedia of Labor
7203 BELWOOD STREET, DISTRICT HEIGHTS,
WASHINGTON 19, D. C.

RECEIVED
JUN 14 1950
Southern Regional Council

CO-EDITORS
MILTON M. PLUMB, JR.
OTTO NEUBURGER

June 12, 1950

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

We appreciate very much your acceptance of our invitation to contribute to The Encyclopedia of Labor.

I am enclosing a copy of our "Guide for Contributors" which you may find useful. We shall look forward to receiving your article on LABOR IN THE SOUTH by August 1, 1950.

I perhaps should note that we are carrying separate surveys on labor in each State in the union. Your article is therefore intended to analyze the Southern labor picture in general rather than to stress particular details of particular States.

Cordially,

Milton Plumb

Milton M. Plumb, Jr.

Dr. George S. Mitchell
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Ga.

PUBLISHER: PHILOSOPHICAL LIBRARY, INC.
NEW YORK

THE ENCYCLOPEDIA OF LABOR

Guide for Contributors

I. Central Theme

The central integrating theme of THE ENCYCLOPEDIA OF LABOR is indicated by its name. The term is used in its broadest aspect, so that it embraces much more than the limited concept of the "labor movement", for which it is sometimes used, and topics related to labor, such as social security, are included. Contributions should relate as much as possible to the central theme of LABOR, and since the scope of the work is universal, important information concerning foreign labor should be included. Emphasis, however, should be given to labor in the United States and (to a lesser degree) in Great Britain, Canada and the British Empire.

II. Originality

All manuscripts submitted must be original, and must in no way violate a copyright held by any other party.

III. Quotations

No material may be quoted from copyrighted sources without acknowledgement of the source and written permission from the publisher; the latter should accompany any article for which it has been obtained when the manuscript is submitted to the editors. Publications of the United States Government are not subject to copyright. Sources of quotations must be cited under REFERENCES and quoted material should be enclosed in quotation marks. Generally, quoted material should be kept to a minimum.

IV. References

Number all footnotes, including sources of quotations, if any, consecutively. Insert a raised number (e.g., [1]) in the text at the end of the statement quoted or referred to, and then cite the references under a corresponding number at the end of the article under the general heading of REFERENCES. Follow this general style:

1. Browne, Waldo R.: What's What in the Labor Movement, New York, B. W. Huebsch, 1921. 28-29.
2. Haber, William: "Manpower" in Lumpkin, Katharine du Pre, ed.: Yearbook of American Labor, Vol. 1, New York, Philosophical Library, 1945. 225-232.
3. Higgins, James: "How Long Can He Compromise?", New Republic, October 20, 1947. 12-15.

V. Bibliography

Expert selection of bibliographical material can greatly increase the usefulness of THE ENCYCLOPEDIA OF LABOR, and it is hoped that at least two main reference sources will be cited after each article. Any important works not mentioned under REFERENCES should be listed alphabetically by author under another heading of ADDITIONAL BIBLIOGRAPHY or, if no REFERENCES are given, BIBLIOGRAPHY. The same style of listing as that indicated for REFERENCES should be used. Bibliographies should be highly selective, based upon the expert knowledge of the contributor, but they should, if possible, represent divergent viewpoints and include all major works. Titles in English are preferrable, but important works in foreign languages may be cited.

VI. Illustrations

Please send us any suggestions you may have for illustrating your article, either with photographs, drawings, diagrams or charts. If you cannot send original pictures, information concerning a possible source should be submitted to us as soon as possible, in advance of your manuscript. The space required for tables, charts and diagrams, or illustrations to be run in the text, should be included in calculating the total length of your article. Please indicate clearly the position of such inserts in your text. The use of illustrative material is limited, but careful consideration will be given to all suggestions received.

VII. Spelling

The spelling, hyphenation, capitalization and abbreviations in Webster's New International Dictionary should be followed. Names of persons should follow the spelling given in Webster's Biographical Dictionary. In general, use American rather than English spellings. Foreign words with accents should retain them unless they appear without accents in Webster's New International Dictionary.

VIII. Numbers

Spell out numbers from one through ten and use figures for 11 or more, except that any number beginning a sentence should be written out and when several numbers, one or more of which are 11 or more, are given together, all should be written in figures. Decimals should be used instead of fractions wherever practicable, especially in statistical material.

IX. Statistics

Statistical information should be as current, and as accurate, as possible, and sources should always be cited under REFERENCES. When foreign statistics include amounts expressed in the currency or the weights and measures used in the country described, follow such statistics with parentheses c ontaining their equivalents in the currency, weights and measures of the United States. Note particularly that this applies to the English gallon, which has a different content from that used in the United States. In citing measures in tons, distinguish between "long tons" and "short tons". When it is not possible for you to make the conversion to the United States equivalent, please leave space for the editors to insert this information when you type your manuscript.

X. Abbreviation

Abbreviate common terms of measurement when they are preceded by a number, and abbreviate the name of the month when the day of the month is given, but spell out the name of the month in all cases where only the year accompanies it. Do not abbreviate the months of March, April, May, June or July. Names of persons and of Government agencies should be written out in full the first time they appear in an article, but the surname alone or the abbreviation should be used respectively, thereafter.

XI. General Style Rules

The use of "etc." and first personal pronouns should always be avoided. The present, future and present perfect tenses should not be used except in statements that will not be affected by the passage of time, and a past tense, with a date if necessary, should be used instead. Also use a past tense with a date to avoid such words and phrases as "now", "at present", "recently", and "thirty years ago".

Examples:

Not: The cost of living has risen sharply since price controls were removed.

But: The cost of living rose sharply following the removal of price controls.

Not: Technological unemployment is still a matter of concern to some economists.

But: Technological unemployment was still a matter of concern to some economists in 1948.

A technical term which may not be familiar to the general reader should be followed by a few words of explanation the first time it is used. Articles should be written in language which the general reader can understand, and long, involved sentences should be avoided.

XII. Organization of Material

Each article should open with an identification of the topic to be discussed, not in the form of a dictionary definition, but rather as a short explanation of the word, or words, used as the article title, or a brief indication of the scope of the subject. An example of an approved opening is the following:

CHRISTIAN SOCIALISM. A political movement originating in England about 1848-52, seeking to apply Christian ethics to social reform and to replace economic competition by co-operative effort and mutual aid. It is distinguished from Marxist socialism by its aversion to the class struggle.

A brief historical treatment of the subject should follow the opening, and a discussion of the functions, applications and the past and present significance of the topic should then form the main body of the article. The opening sentence of a biographical article should indicate the subject's dates, his nationality and principal occupation or significance, his birthday and his birthplace. An example of this form follows:

McDONAGH, JOSEPH S. (1878-1944) Amer. labor leader, was born on May 13 in Brooklyn, N.Y.

If the exact day and place of death is known, it should be indicated in the course of the article. When exact dates are not known, approximate dates should be indicated, and in such cases the abbreviations c. and fl. may be conveniently employed. Do not attempt to discuss in detail the relation of the subject to other figures or to social, political or other movements, but simply name them and rely on cross-references for further information.

XIII. Impartiality

Impartial treatment should be given all controversial questions, and conflicting views should be stated. Critical, or evaluative judgments should be avoided, and when used they must be stated against a full and objective statement of the alternative positions.

XIV. Typing

In preparing copy for submission, contributors are requested to use a typewriter, if possible. Double space. Please make one carbon of all typewritten articles for submission with the original. The title of the article should be written in capitals and underscored at the beginning of the text. Tabular matter and lengthy quotations should be marked for smaller type by drawing a line in pencil down the margins opposite such material.

XV. Sub-headings and Cross-References

Sub-headings should be included for all longer articles, so that readers may find at a glance a specific point of interest, and such sub-heads should be written at the beginning of paragraphs and underscored. In articles of more than 2,000 words, the titles of main subdivisions should be centered on a separate line and topical headings should be run in with the paragraph following them. Cross-references to other articles will be indicated by capitalizing the subjects referred to in the text of the article from which the reference is made.

XVI. Signature

Please sign your article at the end, following this style:

JOHN J. JONES, Ph.D., LL.D.
University of Chicago (university or other institution associated with)

XVII. Deadline and

Your adherence to the schedule agreed upon for the submission of copy is essential to insure publication during 1959. If your article runs over the allotted space, we will make every effort to print it entire, but you are requested to indicate such cuts as may be made if necessary. Authors who write more than one article may shift space from one to another as they choose.

XVIII. Revisions

When submitted, your manuscript should be in final form, ready for publication, as our tight production schedule will not permit checking of proof by the authors. However, we will make an effort to make changes requested up to the moment of publication. For this reason, you should make a second carbon to retain for your use. Revisions designed to bring your article more up to date on the basis of new information, or to correct errors, will be especially welcome.

XIX. Glossary

A glossary of labor terms, including slang, will be included in the ENCYCLOPEDIA. Your suggestions of words in your field which should be noted are requested.

XX. Biography

Please send with your article material for your biographical entry in the List of Contributors. Please type this information on a separate sheet of paper, giving your name (typed last name first, in capitals), academic degrees, your present title and position, important former posts, etc., and after the word "Author:" at the end of your biography, list your writings.

Otto Neuburger
Milton M. Plumb, Jr.
Co-editors

Philosophical Library, Publishers
15 East 40th Street
New York 16, N. Y.

P-Misc

June 21, 1950

President F. D. Patterson
Tuskegee Institute
Tuskegee Institute, Alabama

Dear Dr. Patterson:

My most cordial appreciation for the interesting and delightful three days at Tuskegee.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell

GSM:er

P. Micall

June 22, 1950

President F. D. Patterson
Tuskegee Institute
Tuskegee Institute, Alabama

Dear Dr. Patterson:

When I came to a paste-up job for the June issue of New South, I found I could not run the whole of the Tuskegee Commencement address without incurring the expense of eight more full pages in the magazine. We wanted most earnestly to carry in full the three Supreme Court decisions. We did that; but it meant cutting the Tuskegee speech to a few paragraphs. At least, I got the printer to save a few galleys, one of which I send you for your convenience.

Any use of the talk that is helpful to you, you are most welcome to, as you know.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:er
Encl.

P- Misc

July 6, 1950

Mr. Clarence Poe
Progressive Farmer
Raleigh, North Carolina

Dear Mr. Poe:

I have been meaning for some time to write you of my deep appreciation for your series of editorials on peace. I do hope that this wisdom coming out of your lifetime of service to the people of the South will strengthen resolve to find peace.

I enclose a fly sheet our Council has mailed out to its members telling about the new Government program for housing in rural non-farm places.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:er

Encls.

Signed in Dr. Mitchell's absence

P-Misc
Presbyterian Church

Board of National Missions
of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America
156 Fifth Avenue, New York 10, N. Y.

July 6, 1950

Mr. George S. Mitchell
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Re: JAMES P. WILSON

Dear Mr. Mitchell,

Thank you for your letter of May 29th, 1950. Since writing you last I have been in touch with Dr. William H. McConaghy, Director of the Institute on Racial and Cultural Relations of The Board of Christian Education of thePresbyterian Church in the United States of America, who is arranging an appointment for me with the Attorney General of the United States, who has been investigating the Wilson Case. Until I have a report from him, which will, I trust, put me in a position to have more definite information than I now have, I think it would be well for me to delay my visit to you.

As soon as I have had this conference, I will write you further.

Very truly yours,

Lucien H. Tribus
MAC

Lucien H. Tribus
Legal Counsel

LHT:MAC

RECEIVED
JUL 13 1950

BOARD OF WOMAN'S WORK, PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, U. S.
HENRY GRADY BUILDING, ATLANTA 3, GEORGIA

May 25,1950

Dr. George S. Mitchell,
63 Auburn Ave., N.E.,
Atlanta 3, Ga.

Dear Dr. Mitchell,

Thank you for the 2 copies of the Greenville survey received this morning. I will want to read it as soon as possible. There will be ways in which we can make use of such information. We are glad that another city in this area has had a careful survey made and hope that results will be favorable as was the case in Jacksonville.

Cordially,

Annie Tart Jenkins

Director Field Program

P-Misc

Tuskegee Institute

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
ALABAMA

OFFICE OF
THE PRESIDENT

July 12, 1950

Dr. George S. Mitchell
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432, 63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

Our SERVICE Magazine can make good use of the galley which you have sent.

Hearty thanks.

Sincerely yours,

F. D. Patterson

F. D. Patterson
President

p

RECEIVED
JUL 17 1950
Southern Regional Council

P

August 7, 1950

AIR MAIL - SPECIAL

Mr. Milton M. Plumb, Jr.
The Encyclopedia of Labor
7203 Belwood Street
District Heights
Washington 19, D. C.

Dear Mr. Plumb:

On looking through the copy of Labor in the South which we have kept here, I find an error in a date.

The paragraph on page 1 immediately under the sub-head "Early Period," second sentence, should read:

"Although it has proceeded at a rapid pace, it was not until 1950 that the first Southern State ..."

I will thank you for correcting this error, and am sorry to have to bother you with it.

Sincerely,

Beth Rogers
Secretary to George S. Mitchell

P

August 9, 1950

Mr. James G. Patton
324 Church Street
Decatur, Georgia

Dear Mr. Patton:

Many thanks for your kind interest this morning.

I will go and see Mr. Broyles at an early date.

Meanwhile, here are some things that will give you an idea of what the Council does.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:er
Encls.

Honorary Chairman
CHARLES E. SCRIBNER
Chairman of the Board
MRS. ROBERT M. FERGUSON
Chairman, Executive Committee

Vice Presidents
MRS. FRANCIS N. BANGS
MRS. DEXTER BLAGDEN
ROBERT L. DICKINSON, M.D.
PIERRE S. DU PONT 3rd
MRS. F. ROBERTSON JONES
MRS. ALBERT D. LASKER
MRS. WALTER N. ROTHSCHILD
ABRAHAM STONE, M.D.
REV. CORNELIUS P. TROWBRIDGE
C.-E. A. WINSLOW, Dr. P.H.

HAVEN EMERSON, M.D.
Chairman Nat'l Medical Council
MRS. HENRY C. TAYLOR
Secretary
HENRY J. MALI
Treasurer
D. F. MILAM, M.D.
National Director

28-P Miscel

Planned Parenthood Federation of America, Inc.

Formerly — Birth Control Federation of America, Inc.

501 Madison Avenue, New York 22, N. Y., PLaza 5-8600

October 23, 1950

RECEIVED
OCT 25 1950
Southern Regional Council

Mrs. Jane P. Fleming
Research Assistant
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mrs. Fleming:

We certainly appreciated your prompt reply of October 11 and the nice supply of literature which has just reached our office.

We are looking forward to having a good Annual Meeting this year and thank you for your contribution to one of our workshops.

Sincerely yours,

Grace Hale

Grace Hale
Field Consultant

GH:mw

J. MITCHELL PILCHER - 3918 SOUTHMONT DRIVE - MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA

RECEIVED
OCT 28 1950
Southern Regional Council

Tel.: 3-6040 (residence)

October 26th 1950

P - J Mitchel Pilcher

Mr. George S. Mitchell
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Mitchell,-

Many thanks for your letter of October 24th, written at the request of our Council President, Mr. Paul Williams, about a scholarship program.

Your reference to the new scholarship program of the John Hay Whitney Foundation sounds interesting and worth a try for a prospective beneficiary with my daughter Ann's background and qualifications.

It was kind of you to write and ask for the blank, and I note with particular interest that applications for scholarship aid are being considered by the Foundation at this time.

Meanwhile, I reciprocate your suggestion and shall look forward to being favored by a talk with you on your next trip to Montgomery.

Sincerely,

J. Mitchell Pilcher

P Perry Miscel

25 South Channing Avenue
Saint Louis 3, Missouri
November 8, 1950

Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432, 63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Staff,

I have received your wealth of materials that were sent to me for use in one of my classes at the Stowe Teachers College. The information will certainly be of great help to me in my study of American Minority Groups.

Thank you very much for your prompt reply.

Gratefully yours,
Edwynna Perry.

RECEIVED
NOV 10 1950
Southern Regional Council

Vester M Crosby
304 Peachtree Arcade Bldg

is running a new organization, We
The People, located 423½ Marietta St.

28-P-Anc.
- Price, Margaret

M. S. C. W.
Columbus, Mississippi
December 16 -

Dear Folks,

I'm here for a couple of days in my old haunts, killing time til the 26th, I guess! While my little sister is in class I'll borrow her pen and paper and dash off a note to you -

I have the radio on, tuned to the station in Starkville, Mississippi - and the program happens to be advertising Negro business firms! I was so amazed and quite pleased. Help spread the word around that Mississippi shows a twinge of progress now and then! It's a very good program - the only allusion to prejudice and discrimination has been the ad for the Negro theatre - "nice and comfortable, with plenty of seats on the ground floor" -

Dr. Mitchell, I am afraid I probably won't make the trip to Jackson — time and money are both running out — simultaneously, thank goodness! I'm anxious to hear how the survey is progressing — How many towns have you signed up so far? Also, what is the response to the $10 letter and the other? Hope to hear we're now heavily endowed.

I'm afraid I know little news other than wedding news. It's all a lot of fun, but I'm getting a bit tired of nothing but domesticity and small rooms! Not much longer to go, though (thank heavens!)

Our set of silver is growing, helped considerably by the place setting you folks gave me. We have enough now to have you all to dinner, provided you don't particular which piece you use!

Merry Christmas to all of you — Surely do miss you. I wish you'd transfer the office to Augusta, then to Jersey City —

Hope to see you sometime in January — by which time the Council will be a millionaire, I know! Affectionately, Margaret

(Is Dr Fuller "Doc" to me.)

Southern Regional Council...

An effort to raise $500,000 for a ten-year program of interracial progress in the South was announced today by the Southern Regional Council.

The council, with headquarters in Atlanta, Ga., is made up of religious, business, labor and educational leaders representing both races and thirteen southern states. It is widely regarded as the most effective interracial organization in the South.

In announcing the plan, Dr. George S. Mitchell, executive director, declared: "The Southern Regional Council's effort is to draw out action by the people of the South in meeting their own responsibilities for human well-being. It rejects sectionalism, but simply urges that the South do its own share in this field in cooperation with the nation as a whole."

Prior to this year, said Dr. Mitchell, about half the council's annual budget was contributed by the Julius Rosenwald Fund, while the remainder came from church groups, private individuals, and other foundations. Now that the Rosenwald Fund has ceased operations, the organization is looking for new support.

Dr. Howard W. Odum, noted sociologist of the University of North Carolina, has asked that a hundred other persons match his contribution of $250 to make up a sum of $25,000 for the council's needs this year.

The fund-raising work is under the general supervision of the board of directors of the council, which includes such prominent southerners as Dr. Charles S. Johnson, president of Fisk University, Virginius Dabney, editor of the Richmond Times-Dispatch, Dr. Rufus E. Clement, president of Atlanta University, Monsignor T. James McNamara of Savannah, Ga., E. W. Palmer of Kingsport, Tenn., Dr. Benjamin Mays, president of Morehouse College in Atlanta, Alfred Mynders, editor of the Chattanooga Times, and Bishop E. A. Penick of the Episcopal Diocese of North Carolina. Paul D. Williams, publisher of Richmond, Va., is president of the organization.

The council points to a number of significant achievements since its founding six years ago.

In the first two post-war years, it carried out a special program to aid Negro veterans. A staff of nine World War II veterans, eight of them colored, visited veterans services officials throughout the South, familiarizing them with Negro needs and acquainting Negro veterans with the full range of services available to them.

In 1946 the council served as technical consultant for the Jacksonville, Fla., survey of its Negro community. To date the survey has resulted in close to a hundred specific improvements in the living conditions of the city's Negro citizens.

Other southern towns have also gone into action with the council's self-survey program. They include Greenville, Spartanburg, and Rock Hill, S. C., Madison, Ga., and Mobile, Ala.

The organization has launched successful campaigns in dozens of southern towns and cities that resulted in the employment of more than two hundred Negro policemen. This represents a 100 per cent increase since 1945 when the council began its work in this field.

Strong support for the interracial body has come from church and religious groups. Only last month the council sponsored a southwide meeting of church women leaders, who pledged themselves to fight discrimination and inequality in their communities.

(more)

Council members in every southern state provide a network of conscientious people ready to take preventive action when racial violence threatens. They also promote better relations in specific fields, as, for example, working for fairer and more complete coverage of Negro news by southern newspapers.

Since it began the council has issued half-a-million publications giving the facts about the region's health, housing, education, law enforcement and race relations. Many of these are used by schools and colleges in their courses on the south.

#

PEN POINTS

PUBLISHED QUARTERLY BY

THE METHODIST CHILDREN'S HOME

Volume 2 Decatur, Georgia Number 2

Dear Folks,—

I am Billy Reynolds and I am three years old. They call me the baby 'cause I am the youngest in the Home. I have a lot of fun playing with the other children, who are awful good to me, and my sister and brothers.

It is wonderful for us to have this home, my sister and brothers, I mean 'specially, for we can grow up together and be able to know and love each other. It would break our hearts to be separated. (If you will look inside on another page, you will see our picture. We are not the largest family here, but almost the largest.)

You remember Patsy, Gail, and Betty wrote you last fall asking you not to forget us on Work Day? Well, you DIDN'T! You gave a lot more than fifty thousand dollars just to feed, clothe, educate, doctor, and house us. We, little as we are, know that is a lot of money and that some of you took from yourselves to give to us. The only way we can thank you is just to make fine boys and girls who love and serve Jesus. We feel that is the kind of thanks you would rather have as your reward. We will not fail you!

Please come to see us!

Love to all,

Billy.

A Merry Christmas was had by All

March winds are blowing across the spacious campus but they can, in no way, dim the memories of the HAPPY CHRISTMAS the children HAD!

Recently a child said, "Oh, don't you wish we could go back to Marietta?" She was referring to the Christmas party given by the First Church at Marietta, which, by the way, is fast becoming an institution and the most festive and gala affair in the lives of the children. For those grand Marietta folk leave no stone unturned to provide the maximum in fun, entertainment, and good food for their more than one hundred and twenty-five young guests.

This year's party began at 2 o'clock on the afternoon of December 21, when two special street cars, sent all the way from Marietta, set out on the return trip, loaded to the bursting point with laughing children and all the staff personnel. (No one stayed at home.) As the miles sped by, bright eyes looked out car windows and young hearts outran car wheels in delightful anticipation of the good time to come.

Reaching the city proper, the fun began in earnest, for the cars stopped in front of a movie house where a group of smiling folk waited to take their small guests inside. A picture show first, what could be jollier? Next, they walked over to the Church where, in the recreation hall, was a turkey dinner with all the delectable trimmings. As the last delicious bite of dessert vanished, Santa appeared to preside at the "brilliant Christmas tree's undoing" and to present each child with gifts. The pastor and his wife, Dr. and Mrs. John Tate, were there to welcome the children and to lead in the singing of carols.

When Santa had finished his task, a group of talented Marietta young people presented a clever and delightful play entitled, "Santa Claus in Blunderland," which was thoroughly enjoyed and proved a fitting climax to a perfect evening.

. . . It was a happy bunch of children that crawled into bed at the Methodist Children's Home late that night. And back in Marietta there must have been many tired folk, for it goes without say-

(Concluded on Page 4)

PEN POINTS

Mrs. Alva Maxwell, Editor

Published Quarterly by the Methodist Children's Home, Decatur, Ga.

Board of Trustees: C. H. Blount, Pres.; J. L. Morris, Vice-Pres.; Mrs. Alva Maxwell, Secretary; Mrs. Hugh Carithers, Mrs. Stewart Colley, Edmund Cook, H. W. Dent, Mose Gordon, Rev. Z. C. Hayes, Jr., Charles F. Hope, Mrs. E.C. Houston, Homer Hutchinson, Smith Johnston, Baxter Maddox, Rev. J. W. O. McKibben, Rev. Frank Quillian, Mrs. R. A. Radford, Rev. J. S. Thrailkill.

Editorial

The first issue of Pen Points went to press with a plea for support of Work Day on October the 14th. This one carries a partial tabulation of what was given on that date and an expression of thanks from the Board of Trustees to every man, woman, or child who contributed to make the day such a wonderful success. It was heart-warming how Pastors, Sunday School Superintendents, and Teachers presented the needs of the children and co-operated in so many ways. Key women in the different Women's Societies of Christian Service lent their help in stressing the day, and, as a result, the total offering was gratifyingly large and makes possible a better standard of living for the children.

Every week there are many requests for admission of needy children and the Committee on Admissions, with Col. H. W. Dent, Chairman, finds it impossible to answer every plea favorably. Each case is thoroughly investigated by the Superintendent and whenever possible aid is rendered. The crying need now is more living space and it is a pleasure to announce that, at the last Board meeting, it was decided to immediately build another cottage. Plans for this are now being made and as soon as building conditions permit will be started.

A generous gift in November from the Whitehead Foundation assures the modernization of the kitchen, the addition of an adequate refrigeration system and the building of a recreational and vocational wing adjoining the school building. Two thousand dollars has been spent to modernize the laundry and the Chapel has been furnished with stable attractive seats and altar furniture. Much painting and badly-needed minor repairs have been done and the whole plant is being constantly improved both from a standpoint of comfort, convenience, and appearance.

A sincere, honest effort is made by the Board to spend wisely the funds entrusted to them and to secure a fair and honest return for money spent. With prices steadily rising and needs multiplying as the Big Family grows, this is no easy task and requires a maximum of thoughtful, painstaking analytical planning. The aim ever is to constantly expand the program of the Home with suitable physical facilities, skilled leadership, and sympathetic direction.

Recently an Atlanta man was heard to say, "If I could not care for my teenage boys, I could not think of a better place for them than the Methodist Children's Home. I know what the Home is trying to do and I KNOW the sort of man they have there now as the Superintendent." (A well-deserved compliment, don't you think?)

The Board does not feel that it is begging when it goes out after funds with which to carry on the work. Rather it feels that it is merely offering the opportunity for Christians to participate in a magnificent, humanitarian service to their fellowmen.

In truth the Home has a great future. The hard, lean years are behind; the golden years are ahead. Some day many will be proud to look back and remember that they had a part in building this monument unto Time. After all, we only save what we give!

Thanks again for every gift, large or small!

Introducing

As was stated in the first issue of Pen Points, it is the plan to introduce certain persons who have a large part in carrying on the work of the Home. Today it is our pleasure to present two business leaders who are making a wonderful contribution as they donate the richness of their experience and business acumen. They are: Mr. Baxter Maddox and Mr. J. L. Morris.

Mr. Maddox: For a long time Mr. Maddox has served as Chairman of the Finance Committee and the Trustees have leaned heavily on his advice pertaining to investments and securities. Prominent banker that he is, he has never been too busy to bother with the most intricate detail of management and to help guide with counsel. He is Executive Vice President of the First National Bank, President of the Atlanta Community Fund, and a recognized leader in the social and civic life of Atlanta. He is a member of the Board of Stewards of the First Methodist Church.

Mr. Morris: Mr. Morris. like Mr. Maddox is well-versed in business management and thoroughly at home in the world of finance and investment. He is Vice President of Robinson, Humphrey Company, Investment Bankers, a steward in the Druid Hills Methodist Church, a Director of Camp Fire Girls, and has taught a Sunday School class of Senior boys for several years. Now, as Chairman of the Building Committee he gives many hours in service to the Home.

Chinese Children

Left to right: Rosa Lee Wong, Annie Ruth Wong, Willie Wong.

Still They Come

Alone, in twos, in threes, even in sixes, destitute children come to the Home and share its kindly ministrations. We present our latest!

THE REYNOLDS FAMILY
Front Row: Imogene, Walter, Billy.
Back Row: Jesse, Bartley.
From GRIFFIN

THE GREEN FAMILY
Left to right: Martha Sue, Billy, Ann.
From ATLANTA

THE MOTE FAMILY
Left to right: Front Row—Helen, Dorothy, Barbara Ann, Robert. Back Row—Lawrence, Jackie.
From NEWNAN and ATLANTA

Our Chinese Children

Today, if you visit the Home, you will see playing happily with the others, three Chinese children, Rosa Lee, Annie Ruth, and Willie Wong. And, as you observe them you will notice nothing unusual, for their being there seems as it should be, perfectly natural and right. It just goes to prove that we learn race-prejudice as we grow older and that childish minds care nothing about it. It shows something else, too, that the Home is applying its Christianity in its vital contention that "All men are brothers."

Last fall the father, who was a respected Atlanta citizen, died. The mother passed on six years ago. The father was a native-born American and was a veteran of the First World War; the mother was born in China and came to America soon after their marriage.

The family attended the Wesley Memorial Church and were members there. The children loved the Sunday School and were never absent if it could be helped. In all, they were fine, stalwart citizens, plying their humble trade as laundry workers and making a modest living until death came and took the parents. Then, there was no money and no where for the children to go. Their condition was desperate. If there were relatives in China, the war made it impossible to contact them. Rev. Hoke Sewell, their pastor, who was doing all he could for them, appealed to the Home for help.

Mr. Kerr decided to talk the matter over with the children and so one night at supper he told them the whole story. He ended by asking them to raise their hands if they would like to share their home with these children who were not like them in color, race, or heritage. Every little hand went up and the children were loud in their assurances of welcome. They told Mr. Kerr that they would do everything they could to make these children feel at home. This they have done. It would warm your heart to know how kind and considerate they have been in their own inimitable, childish ways. And you can not look at the radiant smiles on the faces of these young Chinese without realizing that, in the Home, they have found love, care, refuge. They have shown their appreciation by fitting in well. They are good students in the school and are obedient and helpful. Yes, brotherhood in action is being demonstrated at the Methodist Children's Home and in the years to come may bear their fruit as our nations seek a lasting peace.

Mrs. Green
New Auxiliary President

At the fall meeting of the Auxiliary Mrs. Rembert Green was named to succeed Mrs. W. B. Hodges as president. Mrs. Green comes to her new job admirably equipped as she served in various capacities of church leadership. For a number of years she was Secretary of Publicity and Promotion in the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the North Georgia Conference. Her husband was formerly pastor of the Sardis Methodist Church and is now connected with the City Schools.

Mrs. Hodges' administration was marked by many advances. New and enlarged interest in the Home and its activities resulted from the splendid efforts of Mrs. Hodges and her efficient corps of officers. She is to be congratulated on a good job well done.

The following is the Auxiliary report:
January 1, 1945—October 31, 1945

RECEIPTS:
Linen Shower (cash	$ 937.22
Other funds	1,279.45
Total (10 months)	$2,216.67
DISBURSEMENTS:	$1,075.57
Balance	$1,141.20
Brought Forward 1944	632.72
Balance November 1, 1945	$1,773.92

Mrs. W. B. Hodges, President
Mrs. E. C. Houston, Treasurer

Our Christmas Party

At the Christmas party in Marietta. Dr. John Tate, center, visits with a young guest while Mr. Kerr, extreme right, reaches for some of the "goodies."

A Merry Christmas

(Concluded)

ing that it took much unselfish labor and time to make ready for such a party. Only those who have worked at such know! However, we are sure that, as those same wonderful people fell asleep, they knew the "peace that passeth understanding," for had "they not ministered unto the least of these, and, for a space of time, made possible a bit of Heaven for orphaned, needy children?

Our hats are off to you, Marietta First Church.

* * *

Uncounted small gifts were sent the children. Again the great, generous gift from the Whitehead Foundation made possible plenty for all. Sears sent a truck load of toys as did the Goodyear Company. In all it was a truly MERRY CHRISTMAS!

Regarding Sponsors

Numbers of interested Church leaders show their interest in the Home by visiting and seeing first-hand its policies in action, contributing largely of their means, and inspiring others to give as well. Such a man is Mr. Herman M. Thompson, President and General Manager of the Southern States Chemical Company, and a prominent leader in the Peachtree Road Church. Mr. Thompson writes: "We, of the Wesley Fellowship Class, are delighted that the Board has seen fit to do away with individual sponsorship of children. We believe that it is to the best interest of the children if Churches, Sunday School Classes, and individuals make their contributions directly to the Home to be used as seen fit, rather than to certain children in the Home, whom they have chosen to sponsor. The reason is obvious. When a child enters the Home to live he becomes another member of a very large family, just as an addition would be accepted in any normal home when brothers and sisters are born. He or she should be made to feel the complete dependency on the Home for every need. These necessities naturally would include such items as lodging, meals, clothes, medical care, education, and in fact, every thing which you or I as parent would provide within our means for our children. We most earnestly desire that the boys and girls in our Methodist Home be reared in a family-home-like atmosphere. This can only be accomplished if all are made to feel that they are loved, respected, and treated as equals. We rejoice that an extensive effort is constantly being made to make these children feel that their lot in life is not any different from that of others, but that they have the privilege and the opportunity to grow and develop as children in any average family.'

It is good to know that others agree with the Board in its decision to abolish sponsorship. The Wesley Class at Peachtree Road, of which Mr. Thompson, is a valued member, is showing its interest in a tangible way.

Five hundred dollars is in the bank which they will use to fix a play porch on the back of the Walton Cottage where small girls live. The large porch will be enclosed in glass and will provide a marvelous place for the children on rainy days. Effort is being made to locate necessary materials and as soon as possible actual construction will begin. This fine class plans to go further and to spend an additional five hundred on other improvements. The amount of one hundred dollars per month for the Home has been put in the class budget. Words are empty things but we want these men and women to know that our hearts are full of gratitude and that we envision the joy that will be theirs sometime, somewhere when the Heavenly Fathers rewards them for their goodness to needy children, children who have to make their way through this world with proxy "daddies and mummies." The waiting will be worthwhile.

Some Figures

Methodists, throughout the North Georgia Conference, proved cheerful, generous givers to the Home last year, proving once again that "True generosity, when it once starts, knows not when to stop?" For your information we list these figures:

District	Cash	Supplies
Athens-Elberton	$ 5,500.74	$ 316.65
Atlanta-East	14,648.27	817.14
Atlanta-West	16,740.91	1,166.14
Augusta	5,636.84	171.50
Dalton	4,417.23	747.27
Decatur-Oxford	6,189.47	1,419.97
Gainesville	3,950.09	370.00
Griffin	4,309.82	403.70
LaGrange	5,848.61	1,888.20
Rome	3,217.10	137.50
Grand Total	$70,459.18	$7,438.07

St. Marks, First Church, and Druid Hills, Atlanta, and West Point led the Conference with $4,412.66, $4,203.05, $3,192.99, and $2,142.86 respectively. Next came Grace (Atlanta), Decatur First, Athens First Church, Inman Park (Atlanta), St. John (Augusta), and Dalton First with $1,884.77, $1,489.74, $1,382.86, $1,360.93, $1,068.00, and $1,037.95, respectively.

RRY-GO-ROUND

low His Closest Confidant

he met at the Mayo Clinic, who later became Mrs. Jimmy. So he left for Hollywood.

Later Franklin Jr., while studying law at the University of Virginia, was around the White House frequently.

Now all four boys are in the armed services and the President has fallen back on his daughter, who perhaps even more than Jimmy, always has been the apple of his eye.

Negro Troops Ok'd

Members of the Mississippi congressional delegation met last week to welcome one of their state's war heroes—Lieutenant Van T. Barfoot, of Carthage, Miss., who has been awarded the Medal of Honor, the Silver Star, the Bronze Star and the Purple Heart. A soft-spoken lad who had never been out of Mississippi before entering the Army, Lieutenant Barfoot fought with distinction in Africa, Sicily and Italy.

A little embarrassed at being surrounded by congressmen, Barfoot told some of his experiences in combat and tried to answer questions. One of them finally came from Senator Theodore (The Man) Bilbo on his favorite subject.

"Lieutenant," Bilbo asked, "did you have much trouble with Negroes over there?"

"Mr. Senator, I found out after I did some fightin' in this war the colored boys fight just as good as the white boys. I have changed my ideas a lot about colored people since I got into this war, and so have a lot of other boys from the South. We've found the colored boys all right."

Then Lieutenant Barfoot quietly volunteered this information:

"Going up to Washington on the train I went into the diner and found it full. The waiter told me I'd have to wait, but I could see, behind a little curtain, a colored Army captain sitting at a table by himself. I said, 'What's wrong with that table?' The steward told me he didn't think I'd want to sit with a colored man, and I said:

"'Why not? I've fought with colored men—why shouldn't I eat with 'em?' I sat with that colored captain and we had a fine chat."

Senator Bilbo then launched into a long peroration about what a great friend of the Negro race he is, telling among other things, how he proposed transplanting American Negroes to Liberia.

Not present at the Mississippi meeting was Congressman John Rankin.—(c1945.)

BEST COPY AVAILABLE

December third, 1953

Dr Charlotte Hawkins Brown
THE PALMER MEMORIAL INSTITUTE
Sedalia, North Carolina

Dear Dr Brown:

If even a fourth of our friends were as faithful and thoughtful and helpful as you we could do ten times as much as we do. Our warmest gratitude to you.

Increasingly, as I stay in this job, I feel the weight of those of you who in the early days got it all moving. You and Major Moten, and Mrs Bethune and Gordon Hancock and Ashby Jones and old Dr Wilmer and Plato Durham and of course at the center Dr Will Alexander ploughed all the roughest ground.

We are having increasing success in getting distribution of the pamphlet on the schools and the courts. I could run on for pages with a list of organizations who have bought it and sent it out to their members in quantities of one hundred, five hundred and a thousand. Our own North Carolina Division sent three copies to the chairman of each city and county school board in the state. The Mississippi State Department of Education got a thousand of each pamphlet, and the National Council of Negro Women is sending out four hundred. Elmer Henderson, of the American Council on Human Rights, is sending out two hundred, the Board of Education of the Methodist Church has sent one, with a letter, to each district superintendent from Virginia to Texas. The Southern Baptist Convention spread around two hundred fifty and they will get more. The Southern Presbyterian Church Board got over two thousand, and so on.

We are pushing the pamphlet for use by local discussion groups. Perhaps I flatter us over much but surely it has had some effect in producing in the Southern states greater calmness about the changes to come in our schools.

Our warmest wishes for your full recovery and for many remaining years of just the influence you have always wielded in this crucial area.

Sincerely yours

George S Mitchell
Executive Director

gsm-t

Receipt for $25.00 enclosed

MISS WILHELMINA M. CROSSON
PRESIDENT

J. W. BURKE, TREASURER
THE BANK OF GIBSONVILLE
GIBSONVILLE, N. C.

THE PALMER MEMORIAL INSTITUTE

INCORPORATED

IN MEMORY OF ALICE FREEMAN PALMER

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

SEDALIA, NORTH CAROLINA
(10 MILES EAST OF GREENSBORO)

DR. CHARLOTTE HAWKINS BROWN
FOUNDER-PRESIDENT EMERITA

RECEIVED
NOV 18
Southern Regional Council

November 17, 1953

George S. Mitchell, Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432 63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

My dear Mr. Mitchell:

Thank you for your very nice letter. I am glad to have it written thus because I have wanted to resign for a long time. I have not been well for three years and have had to disconnect myself with many organizations with which I have been a part. I believe I am the only woman living that was on that first committee that met at either Memphis or Nashville, Tenn. (I am not sure of the place.)

My misfortune of being aroused from a berth and marched to a jim crow car created a fervor that made the people feel that something should be done. I thank God for what the Southern white people have done toward remedying humilating circumstances under which Negro women travel.

I am no longer a well woman and at seventy years of age; I can graciously retire from every board except The Board of Trustees of Palmer Memorial Institute.

What a wonderful experience it was in those years but the many fires at Palmer destroyed so much of what I had labored hard to build and it finally affected my heart so that I am almost a semi-invalid in these days.

I am enclosing a small sum of twenty-five dollars 10.5. out of a retirement salary which you may be able to use for postage in keeping up the fine work of interricial understanding in the beginning of which I was the first Negro woman to be asked to address that large assembly of Caucasian women who met to find a way.

May God add His greatest blessing to the work of your committee which has done such a fine job.

Very sincerely yours,

Charlotte Hawkins Brown

Dr. Charlotte Hawkins Brown

Encl:

RECEIVED
JAN 6
Southern Regional Council

P. O. Box 296
Tuskegee Institute, Alabama
January 4, 1954

Dr. George S. Mitchell, Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

This will partly express my sincere appreciation for your kindness in mailing me a copy of your address - The Extension of Citizenship, that you so eloquently delivered on the occasion of the Inauguration Exercises held at Tuskegee Institute.

Here is hoping that the New Year will offer an abundance of peace, happiness and prosperity for you and yours.

Gratefully yours,

George H. Paris

GHP/c

February 5, 1954

Mr. Frederick B. Parker
University of Delaware
Newark, Delaware

Dear Mr. Parker:

Many thanks for your kind letter from a college and a town which I cherish.

Such light as I have on the problem can be put in two lamps. No. 1: Wherever you possibly can, get started local bi-racial discussion groups totalk in a friendly, quiet way about the purpost of possible decisions of the Supreme Court, and to make plans on what to do one way or the other. Our two pamphlets called "Questions and Answers" and "Check List" are helpful for these two stages. Youare further on in Delaware than we are hereabouts but, generally speaking, what I have seen is this situation: A creek has tobe crossed. Nary a log over it. And yet here comes, dinning and honking at it from either side, an approaching stream of traffic. The first little group of people - maybe six or eight church ladies - who meet and talk over the matter will throw a log over the creek; and over the log, more quickly than most of us guess, will go the PTA and the Teachers' Associations, the School Board, and in the long run, the general citizen public. No. 2: 'Tis a flat statement but I make it. The South has come to that pass in which its largest public service, namely the schools, can no longer be successfully administered within the customary white monopoly of government. Which is tosay that the time is here when each Southern town and county should elect or appoint to its school board an able, courageous and representative Negro citizen. He should not be asked for concessions in the Negro purpose of unsegregated schools, but his presence (only if he is truly representative) will in most situations enable that confidence between citizen groups, white and Negro, without which the petty smoothings-down of friction spots will not occur. I am pretty sure I am right on that point.

Now, maybe Blackbird and Georgetown have already provided themselves with good Negro school board members; but if I know my Kent and Sussex, I doubt it.

The Fund For The Advancement of Education will publish, about May 1, a notable and quickly made and therefore fresh study of what the problem is and of the partial solutions in the fringe areas. SRC will do a boiled-down version of it and so, I think, will the Public Affairs Pamphlet. UNC Press will get out the full volume.

If you have not read it, pay most particular attention to those passages in Brownell's brief which weigh the public considerations against the personal and present rights of plaintiffs. Most constructive thinking.

I send you a report that a parson from the National Council of Churches did on one area in central Kentucky. I have half-formed agreements with the National Council and with barious denominational bodies to spread that technique into other parts of the South. I daresay if you quickly got hold of Marmion, over in Wilmington, before he gets turned into a Pisky bishop, he could enable the adoption of some such device most helpfully in Delaware.

If you are curious as to my knowledge of Cooch's Bridge and Quality Hill, consult Dean Squire.

By the way, Oscar Lee, National Council of Churches, said that he was going to suggest to you that you haul me up to Delaware to expound. Do consider it gravely - I would love to come!

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive-Director

GSM:hh

Separately:
Q & A ✓ CHECK LIST ✓
Dec. NEW SOUTH ✓
Vastine Report ✓
Pub List ✓

UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE
NEWARK, DELAWARE

DEPARTMENT OF SOCIOLOGY AND ANTHROPOLOGY

January 18, 1954

Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Sirs:

As you could surmise, teacher and community groups in Delaware are concerned about the problems that may arise as a consequence of the possible ending of segregation in our school system. We at the University are being approached with increasing frequency with appeals for speakers, consultation and other forms of assistance as these groups attempt to prepare for the transition to integration. I am writing to ask if you might be willing to help us by sending pamphlet and other materials which we could use in these activities. We are most in need of information on actual or suggested practical "human relations" strategies or techniques that might be brought to bear on the school integration problem. I believe we have an adequate supply of general studies of inter-group relations.

We would very much appreciate whatever help you may give us.

Sincerely yours,

FBParker

Frederick B. Parker
Chariman

FBP:pb

September 9, 1954

Mrs. Adele Parker
R. R. 1
La Grange, Illinois

Dear Adele:

Appreciation.

I dared not wink, but I looked my most humane and friendly toward all Parkers.

Don't know when I'll get back, but will, and will visit sure 'nuff.

Warmly,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM/eab
Answers for Action sent under separate cover.

August 27th
R.R.I La Grange -
Illinois

Dear George:

It was very nice to see you again.

After our conversation, I reported your TV appearance to the family while dinning and they issisted I make T.V. arrangements with our neighbor, as we are setless to date, so Julie, Peter's fiancee, Peter and self beheld you. D and the gals left for a Michigan week-end. We got in on the last of the individual speakers and then beheld the panel. I rather hoped you'd wink acknowledgement! Thot you and Mrs. Samson the best.

Almost wrote you at the time of the Supreme Court momentous decision to congratulate you on the realization of your work, but time gets by. Understand the Ford Foundation has made $240,000 available to you. Is'nt it wonderful to be reconized at last!

Give my best to Alice and do plan to SEE US the next time you are in Chicago.

Sincerely,

Adele

RECEIVED
AUG 31 1954
Southern Regional Council

September 22, 1954

Mr. Russell Partington
2120 Blodgett Street
Muskegon, Michigan

Dear Mr. Partington:

How kind it was of you to send us five needed dollars. It helps us keep going.

Here are three copies of Answers for Action, and a list of our other things.

Write us if we can help you at any time.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM/eab
Encls.

Check with Dr. Fleming re

Sept. 12, 1954

Dear Dr. Mitchell & Mr. Fleming:

RHA 9/15/54

With this letter is $5 for your good work for progress in so much of the South. So much has been good since the Court's OK on all of us; but still things are to be done. Special thanks to each of you for help last year.

My 3½ month in Washington were full of so many contradictions that comment cannot be made here. One month in Winston-Salem & N.C. was great.

Sincerely
Russell D. Partington

P.S. Please send me your publications for class & community use. Thanks.

May 19, 1955

TO: GTH

From MAW's ltr dtd 5/2/55

"3. We are all urging the integration of PTAs. A woman from Sweet Briar College writes that her group would be glad to admit Negroes if they applied for membership. Of course, the invitation should come from the whites. But the matter ought not to go begging because each group is waiting for the other to make the first move.

I wonder if our state units might not get our colored friends to swallow their natural pride and petition for membership in local PTAs. I firmly believe that in the great majority of instances they would be accepted. And I also believe that such acceptance would be of great significance."

Put your mind on the PTAs and return your suggestions to me.

GSM/eab

June 17, 1955.

Mr. E. E. Patton
Delegate
1983 Maplewood Drive
Knoxville, Tennessee

Dear Mr. Patton:

Thank you for your letter of June 6.

We should be very glad to read your article on practical educators. However, from this brief characterization of it, I doubt that it falls within the subject-matter scope of NEW SOUTH. As you may know, NEW SOUTH is mainly concerned with developments in race relations in the Southern region.

If I have insufficiently grasped the nature of your article and you feel that it would be appropriate for NEW SOUTH, I should be very glad to have you send it along.

Sincerely,

Harold C. Fleming
Associate Director.

HCF/vc

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION

1953 · NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

EUGENE E. PATTON DELEGATE
1983 MAPLEWOOD DRIVE
KNOXVILLE, TENNESSEE

June 6, 1955

Dear Mr. Fleming:

I have an article on the necessity of having practical education and practical educators.

Would you be interested in seeing the article with the idea of publishing it in The NEW SOUTH?

I thank you in advance for your courtesy in this matter and shall await your replywith interest.

Sincerely yours,

Eugene E. Patton

September 20, 1955

Mr. W. E. Solomon
Executive Secretary
Palmetto Education Association
1719 Taylor Street
Columbia, South Carolina

Dear Mr. Solomon:

Nice to talk with you just now.

Harold Fleming will come up and will try to be there for some of the Saturday meeting and certainly for some of the ~~Saturday~~ morning meeting. He will be there to talk and will talk informingly and encouragingly. I wish I could come, but my schedule is just so tight that if I were to fit it in I would be dog tired and of little good to you.

We are grateful for your undertaking to cover Mr. Fleming's expenses.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM/eab
(Dictated September 19th)

bc: HCF

February 28, 1956

Mrs. Miriam F. Garwood
Field Consultant
Planned Parenthood Federation of America, Inc.
501 Madison Avenue
New York 22, New York

Dear Mrs. Garwood:

We will be glad to have you in Atlanta March 12, and I will be glad to do anything I can to be helpful to you.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:mef

CABLE: PARENTHOOD, NEW YORK

Planned Parenthood Federation of America, Inc.

501 MADISON AVENUE, NEW YORK 22, NEW YORK
PLAZA 5-8600

RECEIVED FEB 14 1956

February 8, 1956

Dr. George Mitchell
Southern Regional Council
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

In the past your advice and guidance has been valued and appreciated. May I assume that you are interested in our Planned Parenthood educational program and ask for ten minutes of your time when filling an assignment at Morehead College?

I shall call you on the telephone when I arrive in Atlanta, where I shall spend the week of March 12, 1956.

Sincerely yours,

Miriam F. Garwood

(Mrs.) Miriam F. Garwood
Field Consultant

mfg/km

HONORARY PRESIDENT: MRS. MARGARET SANGER • PRESIDENT: MRS. ROBERT M. FERGUSON • CHAIRMAN, EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE: MRS. MORTON BAUM
VICE-PRESIDENTS: MRS. FRANCIS N. BANGS, MRS. DEXTER BLAGDEN, PIERRE S. duPONT 3rd, ALAN GUTTMACHER, M.D., MRS. F. ROBERTSON JONES, MRS. ALBERT D. LASKER, MRS. WALTER N. ROTHSCHILD, ABRAHAM STONE, M.D., REV. CORNELIUS TROWBRIDGE, C.-E. A. WINSLOW, Dr. P.H. • CHAIRMAN, MEDICAL ADVISORY COUNCIL: HAVEN EMERSON, M.D. • SECRETARY: MRS. REYNOLDS duPONT • TREASURER: MARK E. RICHARDSON • NATIONAL DIRECTOR: WILLIAM VOGT, Sc.D.

June 13, 1957

Miss Doris M. Leake
Georgia Leadership School
Paine College
Augusta, Georgia

Dear Miss Leake:

Thank you for your letter of this day. I am most grateful for the good and kind invitation to have me participate in the Georgia Leadership School. I particularly regret that I did not learn of this invitation until the 10th, since, prior comitments make it impossible to be in Augusta at the time of your school.

Mrs. Tilly of our staff has told me of the fine work done by the school and were it possible, we would be more than happy to make any possible contribution to it.

We at the Council extend our best wishes for a successful and productive week. And, again my deepest regrets over not being able to be with you. Perhaps in the future we will be able to contribute to the school.

Sincerely yours,

Paul Anthony
Administrative Assistant

PA/mf

Paine College
ESTABLISHED 1882
AUSPICES METHODIST CHURCH AND
COLORED METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH
E.C. PETERS, PRESIDENT
Augusta, Georgia

June 12, 1957

Mr. Paul Anthony
Administrative Assistant
Southern Region Council, Inc.
Room 432, 63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Mr. Anthony:

As a member of the staff for Georgia Leadership School, I have been asked to send you a copy of the program. I hope it will answer many of your questions connected with the school. You will find you name on page 2 under the topic in which you are to assist.

Sincerely,
Doris M. Leake
Doris M. Leake

MEMBER
UNITED NEGRO COLLEGE FUND

June 11, 1957

Dr. E. Clayton Calhoun
President
Paine College
Augusta, Georgia

Dear Dr. Calhoun:

I am happy to have your letter of the 10th and to know that I have been invited to participate in the Georgia Leadership School.

Unfortunately, however, our collected memory and files fail to turn up any information or communication concerning the School. I am, of course, familiar with the association of many years which our Mrs. Tilly has had with the program. I had hoped that Mr. Lucius Pitts might be able to clarify the situation. He is out of town but his secretary confirms the fact that I am listed on the program as a participant.

I hope this is not confusion arising on our own coordination here. Could you please check and help us clarify this situation. I note that the school begins on the 16th and on hearing from you I will respond immediately by phone.

Sincerely,

Paul Anthony
Administrative Assistant

PA/mf

Paine College

ESTABLISHED 1882

AUSPICES METHODIST CHURCH AND CHRISTIAN METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

E. CLAYTON CALHOUN, PRESIDENT

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

Augusta, Georgia
June 10, 1957

Mr. Paul Anthony,
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Mr. Anthony:

We have just been through two very high moments at Paine, the inauguration and the commencement exercises, both of which reached a very high peak in spiritual quality and rededication to the principles of higher education.

We are looking forward to your coming to Paine for the Georgia Leadership School. You will bring with you the continuing ministry of these high experiences. For that and personal reasons we look forward to your coming.

I hope I may have the pleasure of many moments of personal fellowship with you while you are here.

Very sincerely yours,

E. Clayton Calhoun/w

E. Clayton Calhoun

ECC:W

MEMBER
UNITED NEGRO COLLEGE FUND

GEORGIA LEADERSHIP EDUCATION SCHOOL FOR CHRISTIAN WORKERS

Paine College - Augusta, Georgia

June 16 - 22, 1957

The School is under the direction of the General Board of Christian Education and the Georgia Conferences of the Christian Methodist Episcopal Churches. The School is ably assisted by the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the North and South Georgia Conferences of the Methodist Church and the Board of Education of North Georgia Conference.

It is designed to help pastors, presiding elders, local preachers, women of the Missionary Societies, laymen and young people.

Those who desire to attend should plan to reach Augusta, during the afternoon of Sunday, June 16, as the first meal will be served at 7:00 P. M., on that day. The School will end with the noon meal on Saturday, June 22.

The total charges for attending the School will be $15.00, divided as follows:

Room and Board.....$11.00

Registration 4.00

In addition to these expenses each person should bring at least $5.00 extra for use in the purchase of necessary books and incidentials.

Lodging:

Women and girls will live in Epworth Hall, Miss Doris Leake, Dean

Men and boys will live in Bennett Hall, Mr. L. R. Harper, Dean

Meals:

Served in Dining Room, Mrs. Freddie P. Jackson, Dietian

Breakfast ..... 7:00 A. M.

Dinner .....12:30 P. M.

Supper..... 5:30 P. M.

Necessary materials and supplies:

Each person should bring two sheets, a pillow case, necessary covering, towels, soap and other toilet articles. The College does not provide these. Young people should bring Tennis shoes (or shoes with low heels) for recreation. Most important of all, each person should bring a Bible and come with an open mind, and a yearning to contribute in a worthwhile manner to the work of the school.

REGISTRATION

Sunday, June 16, 8:00 P. M. - Holsey Hall

Monday, June 17, 7:30 A. M. - Holsey Hall

Classes and Instructors

Hour	Course	Instructor	Room
7:45-9:15	929 A	Pastoral Counselling Rev. E. Clayton Calhoun, President Paine College	6 - 2nd Floor
	122 B	The New Testament, Its Conts and Values Rev. T. C. Lightfoot, Teacher, Pastor of West Mitchell Street Church, Atlanta	17 - 3rd Floor
	125 A	The Life and Works of Paul Rev. U. A. Hammonds, Pastor Clifford Temple and Midway, Thomasville	5 - 2nd Floor
9:20-10:45	150 A	Missionary Education in the Local Church Mrs. Ida Prather, Principal, Teacher W.C.C. Officer.	5
	927 A	The Ethics of the Ministry Rev. P. R. Shy, Pastor St. Paul Church Member of the Faculty, Lane College, Jackson, Tennessee	6
	613 A	Planning A Vacation Church School Miss Bessie Hester, Local Church and District Director of Youth Activities and Teacher in Public Schools of Fulton County	12
		Youth in Changing Social Patterns Rev. L. H. Pitts, Executive Secretary Ga. Teachers & Education Association; Mr. Paul Anthony, Southern Regional Council; Mr. David Levin, Anti-Defamation League of B'Nai B'Rith	17
11:00-12:00 - Chapel		Bishop B. Julian Smith, Presiding Bishop of the Eighth Episcopal District C.M.E. Church, Speaker for each day.
12:30		D I N N E R
2:00-3:20	139 A	History of the C.M.E. Church Dr. W. L. Graham, General Secretary, Board of Lay Activities C.M.E. Church, Vice President and Professor, Paine College	5
		Missionary Workshop	6
		Minister's Fellowship Bishop Womack, Rev. R. B. Shorts, Leaders	Bennett Hall

2:00-3:20	312 A	The Youth Fellowship Rev. M. S. Cherry, Pastor C.M.E. Church, Montezuma, Georgia, President National Youth Conference of the C.M.E. Church	Haygood Chapel
3:30-5:00 P. M.		Activity Period Mrs. M. E. Wesley, Director Christian Education of Central Georgia Conference	Room 17

ACTIVITIES

Monday - 7:00-9:00 P. M. - Social

Tuesday -7:00-8:00 P. M. - Movie - Assembly

Wednesday 7:00-8:00 P. M. - Movie - Assembly

Thursday 7:00-9:00 P. M. - Talent Night

Friday 7:30 P. M. -- Committment Services

Stamps may be purchased from the Bookstore at 7:30 - 7:55 A. M., and 12:30-1:15P.M.

The Co-Op Store will be open for refreshments from 12:30 - 1:15 and 40 minutes after Evening Sessions.

Leadership Books may be purchased in School Post Office.

Monday first hour classes will meet at 3:30.

ADMINISTRATION

Rev. L. Q. Brown, General Secretary, Board of Christian Education C.M.E. Church
Rev. C. D. Coleman, Director Leadership Education and Youth Work
Bishop Arthur W. Womack, Presiding Bishop of Georgia C. M. E. Conferences
Rev. H. H. Davis, Chairman Regional Committee
Rev. M. C. Pettigrew, Dean
Rev. Grover C. Jay, Registrar
Rev. M. S. Cherry, Director of Youth Work
Rev. L. H. Pitts, Director, Division of Adult Work
Rev. Grover H. Carter, Book Agent
Mrs. Annie Mayfield, Counselor for Women and Girls
Rev. R. B. Shorts, Counselor for Men and Boys
Mrs. Ruby Harling, Director of Missionary Education
Mr. W. C. Ervin, Business Manager of the College
Dr. E. Clayton Calhoun, President of the College

STAFF

Mrs. T. E. Sibley
Mrs. Ruth Pickens
Miss Doris Leake

October 31, 1957

Mr. Amos Leon Parker
Post Office Box 2
Dunbar High School
Morganfield, Kentucky

Dear Mr. Parker:

Your recent letter and the manuscript you sent to Mr. Marion Wright have been referred to me as Director of Information and person in charge of our publication New South. I am extremely sorry that I have not answered your letter sooner, but it is sometimes necessary for several people to read submitted manuscripts.

While your article is extremely good, we are now concentrating on more specific elements in the segregation-integration controversy rather than on broad pictures such as you present.

I like your style and am extremely interested in seeing additional material from you. Since you are headquartered in Kentucky I wonder if you might not do us an article based on some actual integration process in your state. I believe this would be of great interest to our readers.

I do hope you will let us see any additional material you might have for publication.

Sincerely,

John Constable
Director of Information

Enclosure.

JC:fcl

File

Dunbar High School
OFFICE PHONE 476
Morganfield, Kentucky

Post Office Box 2
28 October 1957

Mr. Marion A. Wright, Pres.
Southern Regional Council
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Mr. Wright:

This correspondence has reference to an article that I submitted to New South for consideration of same being published in this great pamphlet. The article, sent about 5 weeks previous to date, is an original with myself and is unpublished. I thought that New South would be ideal for its publication and I await a reply as per the same. I shall appreciate immensely hearing from you relative to this article; and too, I shall be thankful for any consideration given the same.

Please give my best regards to Dr. Rufus E. Clements whom I knew when he resided in Louisville, Kentucky some few years ago.

Sincerely, I am

Amos Leon Parker
Post Office Box No. 2
Morganfield, Ky.

Post Office Box 2

File

Dunbar High School
OFFICE PHONE 476
Morganfield, Kentucky

From: ..... Amos Leon Parker, Professor & Head Teacher, Elementary Dept., Dunbar High School, Above City

To: ..... Your very, very good magazine — The New South, Atlanta, Ga.

Subject: ..... Request for consideration of the attached article being published in New South.

This article, wholly original with myself, is unpublished and has occurred in no magazine, newspaper, pamphlet or other publication.

No one can deny the fact that the Negro in America is the number topic — not only within the boundaries of the U. S. — but of the whole civilized world — TODAY. Every leading newspaper in the country and other outlets for dissemination of information carry daily something about the Negro.

I shall appreciate immensely the consideration given this article. Any additions, deletions and or other editing are permissable so long as the main idea about what I have tried to write is not destroyed.

May I hear from you as per this article as soon as possible?

Many thanks in advance.

Amos Leon Parker
P. O. Box 2
Morganfield, Ky.

September 9, 1958

Mrs. William C. Pauley
943 Clifton Road, N. E.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Frances:

Many thanks for undertaking to talk with Dr. McCain.

Enclosed is material which describes the Commission on Civil Rights, the nature of the state advisory committees, and so on. The members of the national Commission are: Dr. John A. Hannah, chairman, president of Michigan State University; Doyle Carlton, former governor of Florida; John S. Battle, former governor of Virginia; Robert G. Story, dean of the SMU Law School; J. Ernest Wilkins, Assistant Secretary of Labor; Father Theodore M. Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame University.

The state committees announced so far have been made up of quite influential and often conservative people. The Georgians who (informally and confidentially) are understood to have agreed to serve are: William Turpin, prominent Macon lawyer; Monsignor T. James McNamara, of Savahnah; L. D. Milton, president of the Citizens Trust Company of Atlanta; Dr. F. D. Funderburg of Monticello (a Negro medical man); and Sylvan Meyer, editor of the Gainesville Times. There will be two additional members--the chairman and one other as yet not selected.

I do hope Dr. McCain will consider the appointment. Again, thanks and regards.

Sincerely,

Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director

HCF:ls

May 19, 1959

Mrs. Walter Paschall
899 Briarcliff Road, N. E.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Eliza:

We received today a contribution from Walter Sharp -- who is a member of our board -- with the notation "in memory of Walter Goode Paschall."

As I wrote Walter Sharp, I am pleased not only organizationally but personally that he chose the Council for this purpose. It means a lot to be identified with the good efforts that you and Walter have always worked for.

You have been much in our thoughts, and Jane and I hope to see you very soon.

Yours,

Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director

HCF/mf

May 19, 1959

Mr. George Goodwin
c/o First National Bank
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear George:

Enclosed is a check representing the Council's modest contribution to the Walter Paschall Educational Fund. Walter was not only a personal friend, but a friend and supporter of the things for which the Council stands, so we felt that this was fitting.

Cordially,

Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director

HCF/mf
Enclosure - 1 (Check, $25.00)

Atlanta, Georgia
May 20, 1959

Southern Regional Council, Inc.
% Mr. Harold C. Fleming

RECEIVED MAY 21 1959

Thank you so much for your contribution to the Walter Paschall Educational Fund. All contributions have been deposited in a special account in the First National Bank of Atlanta. It is anticipated that, with the approval of Eliza Paschall, the fund will be invested by First National's trust department in order that it may enhance in value until it is needed for the education of the Paschall children.

George Goodwin

George Goodwin, Treasurer
Walter Paschall Educational Fund

ARLINGTON, VA.

3500 N. Jefferson St.
Arlington, Va.
July 21, 1959

Dear Hal,

I've been pp here, and in NYC, for about 2 weeks now, visiting various friends and family. I plan to come back to Atlanta about theend of this month, to try to start to get unpacked at our new house and get the children somewhat settled before school starts. We moved to 1957 Westminster Way, N.E., down the street from where Bob & Emily Stuart have been.

I've mentioned to several peoplein different kinds of work that after school starts, I'd beinterested in some part-time work, have thought of trying my hand at substitute teaching to see if it was something I might like to "take up" seriously. Fortunately we can mange without additionalincome, but of course we would manage better with more!The main thing is that it would probably be better for me to concentrate on one thing that I more or less have to do than be able to decide whether this or that is something I'm up to at the moment.

Ido believe so strongly that the field of human relations is the most important thingin our society just now, paticularly in thesouth that I have wondered if there is some job, with the Council or one of its affiliates that I could do on a limited basis. On the other hand, I can see thatone could do a great deal in that field working in other jobs, such as school teaching! I find myself in need of vocational guidance at this point - not just in terms of jobs that are available but jobs that are desirable, for my own sanity and for any possible good of the community. If you have any ideas, I'd appreciate a line from you. .. I like to read, and write, and talk - almost anything except deal with figures!

3801 LORCOM LANE

ARLINGTON, VA.

One thing I do resolve - perhaps my spirit will weaken when the time comes to live this - but at the moment I feel that whatever I do, I must do wholeheartedly and honestly - not necessarily aggressively or "crusadingly", but with no apologies or subterfuges about my own belief in life and people - otherwise, I think I would simply dry up inside.

Love to you and Jane,

Eliza Parsobell

1951 Westminster Way N.E.

Mrs. Walter G. Paschall

~~899 BRIARCLIFF ROAD, N. E.~~
ATLANTA 6, GA.

Rec'd 10/16/59

Dear Hal,

I copied the part of the application I thought you'd want to see. Sounds rather vague, like their announcement, but I hope will givesome idea of my interest.

Again, many thanks - I feel that I owe the SBC several days of work to help make up for some of your time that I've taken up!

Eliz

Mrs. Paschall, this is Mr. Fleming's recommendation typed onto the "Confidential Reference Form" from the Fund for Adult Education.

M. Flowers

COPY

There are few people in the Atlanta area whom I could recommend as unreservedly for a Leadership Training Award as Eliza Paschall. In various capacities, most notably as an officer and former president of the League of Women Voters of Georgia, she has a wide circle of acquaintance and influence among civic leaders in the state and community. She has skills and experience in organizational work, education, opinion-making, and the field of government. Above all, she has an original and inquiring mind, and deep commitment to democratic values.

It will be evident in all of this that I feel her capacity for further development and her leadership potential are impressive.

If the Fund gives her an award, it can be confident that the investment will be returned in terms of community education. Along with her other qualities, Mrs. Paschall is endowed with unusual energy and motivation. Her future involvement in the learning and decision-making processes of the community is as certain as anything can be.

Executive Director, Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Ave., N. E., Atlanta, Georgia

Study Project : Part time study at Emory University Graduate School , Dept. of Sociology. Proposed courses:

Summer - Seminar in Community Organization
Fall - courses in Social Investigations andPublic Opinion
Winter - Seminar in Sociological Theory andCourse in Social Disorganization
Spring - Course in Social Change and Industrial Sociology

These on Dr. Wiggins' recommendations

Objectives: What are your objectives in adult education? How is the fulfillment of you proposal expected to help achieve these objectives?

I wouldcontend that all "adult" activity is "adult education" and theobjective is the same as for all education - to permit and encourage the development of each human being to hisfullestpotential as a thinking, feeling social human being. Within the context of this application, I would list my objectives in two categories, in terms of my own development and in terms of the community.

In terms of my own development, my objectives would be to increase my understandin of the means by which individuals can and do participate in the decisions which determine the kind of society in which they operate and to increase my competence in subject matter and techniques by which social action is taken, by individuals or group

In terms of the community, my objectives in adult eudcation would be for it to provide opportunities for individual growth and for development of conditions which would promote "communal responsibility". Responsibility implies acceptance of an obligation, information on which to base judgments, channels for communication, methods of acting to fulfill the responsbility.

(Question: How is the fulfillment of your psoposal expected to help achieve these objectives?) By studying matters of social organization, Iwould be better equipped to participate in developing social means necessary to meet new situations, particularly as the Atlanta metropolitan area of 1 million people in 5 counties becomes really a "metropolitan area". Besides organizational needs, there is need for ability in securing factual information and in using iteffectively, once it is secured. Why do people form the groups they do? What are their purposes? Do they accomplish them? These are the questions towhich I would direct my study and use my knowledge in further community activities and perhaps in professional activity in thecommunity later, as my children need less of my time.

Asked for $3150, estimating appr. $700 university costs, $1258 for household help, $1220 for additional income - I put a note saying that I have no way of figuring yet what our "monthly minimal family expenses are really since our business has been so confused, since May. I figured that thiswould be what I would hope to make if I got a part time job - in other words, if I took my "half time" to study instead ofworking for income, this is what I would need to feel "safe" about current expenses, keeping up the house, insurance, etc., above what we now get from Social Securityand insurance, etc..

Listed Dr. Allen Albert as advisor - he agreed.

Didn't put this in, don't know if it is pertinent, but feel that thiswould be a way of deciding if I do want to study more + am not teaching - hiring help

PRENTICE-HALL, Inc.
Englewood Cliffs, New Jersey

To give you the promptest possible answer to your inquiry we are noting our reply on your letter and are returning it to you.

It's always a pleasure to be of help to you, and we will be glad to serve you at any time.

Dear Mr Anthony

This was originall shipped to you on January 8, 1960 on our invoice PP151457.

A duplicate shipment has been sent to you at no charge on March 1 and should reach you shortly.

Cordially,

Arthur Denton

Arthur Denton
3/15

JAMES M. DABBS, PRESIDENT
MARION A. WRIGHT, VICE-PRESIDENT
ALBERT W. DENT, VICE-PRESIDENT
PAUL D. WILLIAMS, VICE-PRESIDENT
RUFUS E. CLEMENT, CHAIRMAN, EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE
JOSEPH HAAS, COUNSEL
HAROLD C. FLEMING, EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Southern Regional Council, Inc.
ROOM 432, 63 AUBURN AVENUE, N. E. ATLANTA 3, GEORGIA
JAckson 2-8764

A Council to attain, through research and action, the ideals and practices of equal opportunity for all peoples in the South.

March 8, 1960

Parker Publishing Company, Inc.
Englewood Cliffs,
New Jersey

Gentlemen:

Several months ago we ordered from you a book Non-Profit Corporations and Associations by H. L. Oleck. On receiving no response from you on this order, I wrote you on February 2 again requesting this book. In response, I received from you an invoice, but no book.

On February 16 I wrote stating that we had not received the book and asked that you determine the disposition of the order. In response I have your invoice (again number 151457) dated February 18, along with a notice stating that the bill is some 40 days past due.

We still don't have the book.

Please send the book, or determine the disposition of the shipment if it has been sent, or let's strike a truce. It is costing you quite a bit in time and postage to prepare and send bills, and we too are building a sizeable investment in time and postage.

Sincerely,

Paul Anthony

Paul Anthony
Executive Assistant

PA/mf
cc: Collection Manager

INVOICE NUMBER

PP 210311

INVOICE DATE 030860

INVOICE

PARKER PUBLISHING CO., INC. ENGLEWOOD CLIFFS, NEW JERSEY

000000

ACCOUNT OF

P ANTHONY
SOUTHERN REGIONAL COUNCIL INC
63 AUBURN AVE NE
ATLANTA 1 GA

	TITLE CODE	ROY	UNIT PRICE	AMOUNT	TAX	POSTAGE & SHIPPING	TOTAL
NONPROFIT CORP ASSC ORGZ 1	62333	00		0 00			0 00

DUP SHPT PP 151457

TOTAL DUE

IMPORTANT→ TEAR ALONG PERFORATION AND RETURN TOP WITH YOUR REMITTANCE

PARKER PUBLISHING CO., INC., ENGLEWOOD CLIFFS, NEW JERSEY

Goods or services covered by this invoice were produced in compliance with Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, as amended.

PP210311

CALIF. USE TAX CERT. NO. B 46124-U

February 16, 1960

Parker Publishing Company, Inc.
Englewood Cliffs,
New Jersey

Dear Sirs:

We have your duplicate invoice, No. 151457, dated 010860, and your notice that shipment was made four weeks ago. Since we have not received the book listed, would you please check your shipping records to determine the disposition of this request.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Paul Anthony
Executive Assistant

PA/mf

February 2, 1960

Via Air Mail

Parker Publishing Company
Englewood Cliffs
New Jersey

Gentlemen:

Some weeks ago we ordered your book Non-Profit Corporations and Associations by Howard L. Oleck. Please send this to us at your earliest convenience.

Sincerely,

Paul Anthony
Executive Assistant

PA/sm

Memo FROM THE DESK OF HAROLD FLEMING

Telegraphed 2/21/61

LESLIE PAFFRATH

Your invitation deeply appreciated and I regret exceedingly that I ~~cannot~~ cannot accept. Efforts to rearrange my schedule ~~have~~ to no avail. Regards and best wishes for a most timely undertaking.

Harold C. Fleming

THE JOHNSON FOUNDATION IN RACINE, WISCONSIN

RECEIVED
FEB 20 1961

February 18, 1961

JA 2-3700

RECEIVED
FEB 20 1961

Mr. Harold C. Fleming
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Ave., N.E.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Harold Fleming:

I am writing to invite you to participate in the Wingspread Assembly on National Goals to be held in Racine, Wisconsin, March 16-19, 1961.

Last November the White House released the report of the President's Commission on National Goals. This Assembly, a national meeting to steer the intelligent, constructive discussion desired by the President and the Commission, is being held at Wingspread, a conference center recently inaugurated by The Johnson Foundation. The meeting is sponsored by The American Assembly of Columbia University and the Foundation. The American Assembly was official administrator of the President's Commission on National Goals.

Background reading for the Assembly will be Goals for Americans, which comprises a series of essays prepared for consideration by the Commission, and the Commission's Report. For three days sixty men and women prominent in national life will engage in round-table discussions of the issues raised in this volume. On the fourth day, in plenary session, the participants will approve a report of findings and recommendations of their own.

Henry M. Wriston, President of The American Assembly and Chairman of the Commission on National Goals, will address the Assembly at one session. Details relating to the full program will be mailed to participants well in advance of the meeting.

The Wingspread Assembly on National Goals will convene for luncheon at noon, Thursday, 16 March, and will continue through luncheon on Sunday, 19 March. You will be the guest of the co-sponsoring organizations during the entire period. Because the report of findings and recommendations is that of the participants, not of The American Assembly or The Johnson Foundation, it is important that those who come should remain through the plenary session on Sunday morning.

Wingspread, the Assembly site, is a building designed by the late Frank Lloyd Wright in 1938. It is located in the Village of Wind Point, north of Racine, Wisconsin. In recent months Wingspread, the last in a series of Wright-designed "prairie houses", has been adapted for use as a national educational conference center.

Discussion of national goals by the group of outstanding leaders invited to participate will prove to be a valuable public service. May we have your response to this invitation at the earliest possible date, preferably by wire, so that we can complete arrangements for a successful meeting on this challenging subject?

Sincerely yours,

Leslie Paffrath
President

LP/ms

File

THE UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS
AUSTIN

DEPARTMENT OF THE HISTORY AND PHILOSOPHY OF EDUCATION

February 21, 1961

New South
Southern Regional Council
John Constable, Editor
63 Auburn Ave., N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Editor:

If you think it possibly suitable for review, may I send you a complimentary copy of Franklin Parker, AFRICAN DEVELOPMENT AND EDUCATION IN SOUTHERN RHODESIA, Ohio State University Press, 1960, 165 pp., $1.75, paperback.

Contents

1. Introduction
2. Southern Rhodesia Today
3. The Coming of the White Settler to Rhodesia
4. Government Policy on African Development
5. Historical Review of African Education
6. Problems of African Education
Appendix A. Present Structure of African Education
Appendix B. Visit to a Village School

Sincerely,
Franklin Parker
F.B.
Franklin Parker
Assistant Professor

1010 KC, 1000 WATTS

August 30, 1962

PA - pls reply
PR - f.y.i.
Clips + 2nd page file in Research
MA - file

Mr. Leslie W. Dunbar
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street NW
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Dunbar:

I have just written Dr. Dabbs the enclosed letter in connection with his acceptance of our invitation to address the Eighth Annual Institute of Human Relations to be held here in Kinston at 8:00 p.m. Sunday, February 10, 1963.

When convenient, we would appreciate receiving some biographical material on Dr. Dabbs, a newspaper mat or photograph, and any brief descriptive material available on the aims and activities of the Southern Regional Council. This will help us greatly in publicizing the Institute and also assist the person who will introduce Dr. Dabbs.

Many thanks for your assistance.

Cordially yours,

William S. Page

William S. Page
President

August 30, 1962

Dr. James M. Dabbs, President
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Rip Raps Plantation
Mayesville, South Carolina

Dear Dr. Dabbs:

Returning yesterday from a three-week trip to the West Coast, I was delighted to find your letter of August 12, 1962 saying that you would be able to accept our invitation to address the Eighth Annual Institute of Human Relations here in Kinston at 8:00 p.m. on Sunday, February 10, 1963.

Later in the Fall, I will write you further about our plans for the Institute. Meantime, please know that we will be looking forward to having you address the Institute here February 10th.

Kindest personal regards.

Cordially yours,

William S. Page

September 12, 1962

Mr. William S. Page
President
WELS
Farmers Broadcasting Service, Inc.
Kinston, North Carolina

Dear Mr. Page:

Enclosed is the biographical material you requested on Mr. Dabbs and a brief description of the Southern Regional Council. We do not have a photograph available, but are writing Mr. Dabbs to see if he can provide you with one.

Best wishes on your Institute. Also enclosed is a list of publications available from the Southern Regional Council. If any of them would be helpful to you we will be happy to send them without cost.

Sincerely,

Paul Anthony
Executive Assistant

PA:mg

Enclosures

file
"P" gen. corr.

via air mail special February 25, 1964

Mr. Jason Paige, Jr.
Carrington Farm
Delaplane, Virginia

Dear Mr. Paige:

I am looking forward to lunch on Friday. I shall be at the Willard at noon.

With best wishes,

Sincerely yours,

Leslie W. Dunbar
Executive Director

LWD/mmj

CARRINGTON FARM
DELAPLANE, VIRGINIA

RECEIVED
FEB 12 1964

February 12, 1964

Dear Mr. Dunbar:

I am so pleased that we will have a chance to meet in Washington on February 28. If it is convenient for you, plan to lunch with me at the Willard Hotel at twelve o'clock noon. That should give us time for a talk before your 1:30 meeting.

As you may recall, the main lobby of the Willard runs through to the F Street side of the building. I would suggest we meet at the F Street end of the lobby; I will be wearing a dark gray double breasted suit - but there really should be no problem in recognition.

If any other location is more convenient for your schedule, it will be quite satisfactory for me. Will look forward to receiving the publications you have put in the mail.

Very sincerely yours,

Jason Paige, Jr.

Jason Paige, Jr.

Leee
" pa - gen. Corresp.
also Mat Reese 3rd
address cont

March 11, 1964

Mr. Jason Paige
Carrington Farm
Delaplane, Virginia

Dear Mr. Paige:

I greatly enjoyed our lunch the other day in Washington. I hope that we may see more of each other. I understand from Ben that he has seen you since, and that you have also met with Mat Reese. Good luck all the way.

To my disappointment I find that we do not have extra copies of the kind of descriptive material about the Democratic Coalition which you want. I am, therefore, writing today to Larry Goodwyn in Texas asking him to send some things directly to you.

I wish you would let me know if you have not yet received that bundle of material I ordered sent to you long ago.

With very best regards,

Sincerely yours,

Leslie W. Dunbar
Executive Director

LWD/mmj
Enclosure - 1. (Annual Report, 1963)

MJ-7

File "Pa" gen corresp

Materials re-sent 3/25/64

CARRINGTON FARM
DELAPLANE, VIRGINIA

March 14, 1964

Dear Mr. Dunbar:

Thanks so much for your note of March 11. It arrived just as I was about to write thanking you for giving me Matt Reese's name. He is a splendid fellow and has suggested several things I might do to help him in his work. If all goes well, I should be able to spend three days a week in his office and sincerely hope that I will be able to be of assistance.

The materials you mentioned when we lunched have not yet arrived as of this morning. If they're en route, they will probably turn up eventually.

We will definitely have to get together from time to time. Any time you're travelling this way we would be delighted to have you spend a night with us here in the country.

With best regards,

Jason Paige, Jr.

Jason Paige, Jr.

Separate mailing: December/NEW SOUTH
B. Coles pamphlet
Federal Executive.....
Executive Support.....
100 Years Later

file
p - gen corresp

February 6, 1964

Mr. Jason Paige
Carrington Farms
Delaplane, Virginia

Dear Mr. Paige:

Mr. Benjamin Muse was in the office last week, and told me of his recent and very pleasant conversations with you. I hope that we may have the pleasure sometime soon of meeting you. I am planning to be in Washington February 28 for an afternoon meeting, beginning at 1:30. I cannot come up untilthe night before, but if it would be convenient for you to have lunch on the 28th, I wish you would let me know. If not, I hope to see you on a subsequent trip, or here in Atlanta if you are ever this way.

In the meantime, I am sending you, under separate cover, a couple of our recent publications which we would like for you to have.

Sincerely yours,

Leslie W. Dunbar
Executive Director

LWD/mmj

February 6, 1964

TO: BC

From: MMJ

Bernice,

Please package up the following materials and mail to Mr. Jason Paige (label attached):

Re-ordered 3/25/64

December/NEW SOUTH
Coles pamphlet
Federal Executive.....
Executive Support.....
100 Years Later

thanx, mmj

JOHN H. WHEELER, PRESIDENT
ALBERT W. DENT, VICE PRESIDENT
MARION A. WRIGHT, VICE-PRESIDENT
JOSEPHINE WILKINS, VICE-PRESIDENT
RUFUS E. CLEMENT, VICE-PRESIDENT
JOSEPH HAAS, COUNSEL
LESLIE W. DUNBAR, EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 FORSYTH STREET, N. W. ATLANTA, GEORGIA 30303
JAckson 2-8764

A Council to attain the ideals and practices of equal opportunity for all peoples in the South

MEMORANDUM May 7, 1964

To: JSmith

From: MMJohnson

Janet,

Les would like for you to send to the following person a subscription&&&&& blank for New South -- without a covering letter.

Mr. Jason Paige, Jr.
Carrington Farm
Delaplane, Virginia

Lud
fyi → he paid #2 12-2-63 exp. 11-64 p

WB

WB
PAF for LD

Send
Sec. blank - w/no ltr.

CARRINGTON FARM
DELAPLANE, VIRGINIA

April 5, 1964

Dear Mr. Dunbar:

Thanks so much for the envelope of material which arrived last week. It will be most helpful to me for background on the civil rights movement and in regard to the work of the Southern Regional Council.

The work with Matt Reese is most interesting and will certainly consume all my surplus time and energy for the next few months. I am really enjoying it thoroughly and have high hopes that the end result will be all that we would like to see it.

Please let me know if you will be in Washington later on this spring. I would like to keep in touch with a view to being of any possible assistance to the Council, and hope that we can have the opportunity to lunch together again when you're up this way.

With best regards,

Jason Paige, Jr.

Jason Paige, Jr.

PA - gen. Corresp
(please make folder if we don't have one)

October 13, 1965

The Sherman House
Randolph, Clark and La Salle Streets
Chicago, Illinois

Gentlemen:

I have your confirmation of my reservations for the nights of October 19 and 20. May I please change these to October 18 and 19; arriving around 7:00 p.m., on the 18.

Sincerely,

Paul Anthony
Executive Director

PA/mmj

cc: of invoice for $3.00 to Janet Smith
KM

April 25, 1966

Mr. L. G. Patterson, Mgr.
HoL-DeM Electric Fencer Co.
Old Highway 80 East
Box 5736
Jackson 8, Mississippi

Dear Mr. Patterson:

Under separate cover we are sending you the first issue of our new quarterly, New South. Enclosed is our bill for your subscription for the year.

It was good to see you in Jackson and we very much appreciate your continued interest in our publication.

With best wishes.

Sincerely,

Paul Anthony
Executive Director

PA/km

Enc.

1

PHONE 939-3485

HoL-DeM ELECTRIC FENCER CO.

MANUFACTURERS' WAREHOUSE AND MANUFACTURERS' REPRESENTATIVE

OLD HIGHWAY 80 EAST
BOX 5736
JACKSON 8, MISSISSIPPI

L. G. PATTERSON, MGR.

See "Pa" General

May 7, 1968

Mrs. Wilma Paynter
1119½ Vermont
Quincy, Illinois

Dear Mrs. Paynter:

Through error you placed an order with us for the book "DEATH AT AN EARLY AGE." We are returning your check for $1.00.

Yours truly,

(Mrs.) Katharine Martin
Secretary

KM

Enclosure

CPA
file

July 11, 1969

Miss Verne Moberg
Pantheon Books
201 East 50th Street
New York, New York 10022

Dear Miss Moberg:

We received your letter of July 9 addressed to Mr. Leslie Dunbar today. We are pleased and delighted that Pantheon Books is interested in the possibility of publishing a book by Mr. Dunbar.

The author of the booklet, however, is Mr. Anthony Dunbar not Mr. Leslie Dunbar. Tony is Leslie's son and deserves, I think, your letter rewritten and addressed to him. I am so certain that you will agree with this that I am enclosing your original letter with absolute confidence that you will rewrite it.

the Wise Is Service

Yours very truly,

James N. Wood, Jr.
Executive Assistant

JNW/km

Enclosure - 1

Rec'd 7/11/69 mj

PANTHEON BOOKS

201 East 50th Street New York, N.Y. 10022 (212) 751-2600 CABLE: COLUMNS NEW YORK

A DIVISION OF RANDOM HOUSE, INC.

Verne Moberg

July 9, 1969

Mr. Leslie Dunbar
c/o Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N.W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Mr. Dunbar,

A while back Pat Watters passed on to us your booklet of material on Southern poverty, and we read it with very high interest. Earlier, Pat had mentioned that you were also interviewing and writing about poor whites in Appalachia.

We'd be very pleased indeed to hear more about your work and your writing. Do you think that the material from your booklet, along with your interviews from Appalachia and additional commentary might be developed into a book? Offhand, it seems as if such a comparative work might make for really important, exciting reading.

What do you think?

Sincerely,

(Miss) Verne Moberg

Verne Moberg

January 20, 1970

The Patterson-Barklay Memorial Foundation
1020 Spring Street, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30309

Gentlemen:

This will acknowledge with appreciation your contribution made jointly to the Council and the Atlanta School of Business. All of these funds have been deposited in the School's foundation for assistance to student aid.

Sincerely,

Paul Anthony
Executive Director

PA/mmj

Patterson - Barclay
Memorial Foundation
1020 Spring St.
NW

$1.00 30309

deposit -
Titus -

Best thing that ever happened to air travel!

February 11, 1970

Mr. J. David Palmer
Associate Professor
Political Science
Georgia State University
33 Gilmer Street, S. E.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Mr. Palmer:

Under separate cover, we are sending you a copy of the February issue of South Today, which contains the article you refer to.

We would be happy to place you on our mailing list to receive future publications and to have you visit our research department to determine if our resources would be helpful to you. Also, I would like to discuss with you the future use of some of your students.

Sincerely yours,

Paul Anthony
Executive Director

PA:js

GEORGIA STATE UNIVERSITY
33 GILMER STREET, S. E. • ATLANTA, GEORGIA 30303

February 10, 1970

Mr. Paul Anthony
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N.W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Mr. Anthony:

Please send me a copy of your latest report regarding attitude toward racial integration of faculties and students in our public schools by public officials. Also I would be grateful if you would place my name on your mailing list to receive periodically your reports on various issues confronting politics in the South.

Since I teach State and Municipal government courses at Georgia State, it is important to keep abreast of the numerous activities and research undertakings of the Southern Regional Council. Perhaps you have some research projects that might involve some of my students from time to time.

Thank you for your help.

Sincerely,

J. David Palmer

J. David Palmer

Associate Professor
Political Science

panel brochure to AH

September 23, 1954

Mr. Edwin J. Lukas
The American Jewish Committee
386 Fourth Avenue
New York 16, New York

Dear Ed:

I have puzzled a good deal about any useful relationship between the Panel of Americans and the Council. About the only thing I know is that local interracial meetings in several Georgia towns or cities, and in places in South Carolina and Virginia, and elsewhere, within the last year have found the most successful program bit to be a rather sketchily connected up panel of white and Negro college students from nearby colleges. The ready acceptance by the young people of decent ideals has been instructive to the older ranks in the audiences, and I am sure that the young people grew a bit as they expounded too. So far as I know, in none of these area of the Central South has the idea grown to include general inter-groupism, or more plainly, nobody has asked for a Catholic student and a Jewish student also. And I think that has not simply been neglect, but a sound instinct. The truth is that in the queer situation in the South religious minorities among white people are so nearly integrated anyhow into the general white culture that it seems artificial and invidious to pluck out from anonymity some pleasant young lady and say, "observe, a Catholic girl." Nobody was concerned about her being a Catholic before. And, similarly, with Jewish students.

Fred Routh, who is now with us, tells me that they came very near to getting a Panel of Americans in Miami -- and there I can see that it would fit.

I think the size of it is about this: If the movement could keep going on its own steam, and could reach into ~~such Jewish, or~~ the Jewish one new state groups now getting going, the state groups could and would use the panels. But I think they ought to find some other sponsor for the organizational backing than ours.

But if worse come to worse, and the Panel of Americans as an organized body goes under, I can promise you that we will be encouraging our state people to use panels of college students at many locality meetings, and that by contrivance here and there, the panels can include people of various religious backgrounds.

I am coming to New York October 18, 19, and 20, and will come in your office in the course of the 20th. And for once I will try to call up ahead of time and see whether you are going to be there, or whether I can find Larry, or whom.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM/eab

THE AMERICAN JEWISH COMMITTEE

386 FOURTH AVENUE, NEW YORK 16, N. Y. Cable Address, "WISHCOM, NEW YORK"

Telephone MURRAY HILL 5-0181

IRVING M. ENGEL, President
HERBERT B. EHRMANN, Chairman, Executive Committee
SIMON H. RIFKIND, Chairman, Administrative Committee
MAURICE GLINERT, Treasurer
SIDNEY S. MOYER, Associate Treasurer
EDWARD A. NORMAN, Secretary
JOHN SLAWSON, Executive Vice-President

JACOB BLAUSTEIN, Honorary President
JOSEPH M. PROSKAUER, Honorary President
MRS. SIDNEY C. BORG, Honorary Vice-President
HERBERT H. LEHMAN, Honorary Vice-President
SAMUEL D. LEIDESDORF, Honorary Vice-President
JAMES H. BECKER, Chicago, Vice-President
GUSTAVE M. BERNE, New York, Vice-President

MAX H. BLOCK, Seattle, Vice-President
MAX FREEDMAN, Cleveland, Vice-President
BEN HERZBERG, New York, Vice-President
MILTON W. KING, Washington, D. C., Vice-President
FRED LAZARUS, Jr., Cincinnati, Vice-President
RALPH E. SAMUEL, New York, Vice-President
JESSE H. STEINHART, San-Francisco, Vice-President

September 13, 1954

Mr. George Mitchell
Southern Regional Council
Room 432
63 Auburn, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

RECEIVED
SEP 17 1954
Southern Regional Council

Dear George:

It occurred to us that the Panel of Americans -- about which you may have heard -- could be enormously useful to you in the educational program you are carrying on, to prepare Southern communities for the ultimate pattern of desegregation in the public schools. Some descriptive literature concerning the Panel and the mode of its operation, is enclosed herewith. This project has been a particularly successful device on high school and college campuses, and has come to be widely accepted over the period of its existence (since 1942).

The American Jewish Committee, together with a number of other interested agencies, has been furnishing the annual budget of the Panel; but the time has come for us to seek support for it elsewhere. It already has funds which would carry it into, perhaps through, the month of October, and will need additional subsidy to carry it to the end of the year -- and beyond. In casting about for possibilities, it occurred to me that the current program of SRC would find the Panel of infinite value, and that some of your funds might profitably be usable for the purpose of incorporating the Panel as one of your educational instrumentalities. (Incidentally, the Fund for the Republic, until recently, seriously considered granting a subsidy to the Panel, but because its funds available for work in the inter-group field had been more or less exhausted, it reluctantly turned down the Panel's application.)

I would appreciate having your views of the Panel's usefulness to you, and the possibility of their visit into your area, with funds made available by SRC. If the latter is not possible, although the Panel's utilization is considered to be of value, perhaps you could indicate to us whether private funds might be tapped in the South to make the Panel's visit possible.

As always, my warmest regards.

Sincerely,

Edwin J. Lukas

EJL:ig
enc.

261
148-2-54

THE AMERICAN JEWISH COMMITTEE
386 FOURTH AVENUE
NEW YORK 16, N. Y.
MURRAY HILL 5-0181

September 27, 1954

Mr. George S. Mitchell
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432, 63 Auburn Avenue, N.W.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear George:

Thank you for your letter of the 23rd. I look forward to seeing you and to discussing further with you the Panel project when you get here on the 20th of October.

Sincerely,

Edwin J. Lukas

EJL:ig

RECEIVED
9/29/54
Southern Regional Council

261 158-4-54

national council for the

PANEL OF AMERICANS

Tenth Floor, 386 Fourth Avenue, New York 16 • MUrray Hill 5-0181

November 11, 1954

RECEIVED 11/15/54 Southern Regional Council

Mr. George Mitchell, Executive Director
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

Recently I heard from Mrs. Helen F. Schwartz of the St. Louis Jewish Community Relations Council. She made the very helpful and splendid suggestion that the Panel of Americans be discussed with you as a very timely and useful instrument in the southern section of the country at this time.

I received Mrs. Schwartz' letter only shortly after having the nice, if brief, opportunity to meet you when you were up seeing Mr. Edwin Lukas at the American Jewish Committee. I know that Mr. Lukas has discussed the Panel with you, therefore, and that he has provided you with some of the material describing it.

However I shall enclose at least one piece here which probably has not come to your attention and which indicates the activity which is under way this fall. St. Louis and Kansas City are the only "border" states in which Panels are functioning at this time.

We certainly welcome your interest in the program and are most eager to encourage the development of the Panel wherever it can be the most effective and useful.

Sincerely yours,

Marian Hargrave

Marian Hargrave
Field Director

encl.

426 channel

National Council for the Panel of Americans

Fall, 1954

A SEPTEMBER "HAPPY NEW YEAR"

The Panel of Americans staff, at the outset of this new academic year, wants to welcome back the Panel members and wish you a very successful season in your Panel work and University life. As you are well aware, this will be a particularly important year for the Panel. The Supreme Court decisions affecting segregation and the public schools have created difficult adjustments and exciting opportunities. All of us who are familiar with the Panel's impact know it will meet this year of decision with an effectiveness never before matched.

YOUR PANEL AND THE NATIONAL PANEL PROGRAM

In a few short years the Panel of Americans program has grown from a local experiment into a new national pattern in intergroup education. It has grown rapidly because many university, community and student leaders are convinced that the Panel vigorously demonstrates the fact that when a man understands and appreciates his own tradition and feels the importance of his place within it, and when he has confidence in those around him, however profoundly they may differ in faith, experience or culture - he will not fear, he will not hate.

To encourage and strengthen the newly adopted Panel pattern in universities throughout the country, community leaders from a number of major cities, coast to coast, have joined together to form the National Council for the Panel of Americans. In serving as the national sponsoring and advisory group for the Panel, the National Council seeks to continue and to expand its services to all those universities and communities where the Panel can help to build confidence and unity among diverse people and groups. We would like you to meet the members of the National Council:

The Rev. John M. Krumm, Chaplain, Columbia University, New York City
Chairman of the Executive Board of the National Council for the Panel of Americans

Mrs. Raymond B. Allen, Los Angeles
Dr. Ethel J. Alpenfels, New York City
Rt. Rev. Stephen F. Bayne, Bishop of Olympia
Rev. Shelton Hale Bishop, New York City
Robert J. Block, Seattle
Dean John A. Brown, Jr., Temple University
Mrs. Ralph J. Bunche, Jamaica, N.Y.
Robert J. Callaghan, Philadelphia
Milton T. Daus, Cleveland
Mrs. Robert E. Draddy, New York City
Philip S. Ehrlich, San Francisco
Martin Gang, Los Angeles
Edward G. Gilbert, Kansas City
Dr. Edgar J. Goodspeed, Los Angeles
Gilbert A. Harrison, Washington, D. C.
Alex E. Holstein, Syracuse
Edgar M. Kahn, San Francisco
Mrs. Madeleine M. Low, New York City
Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin, Los Angeles
Dr. Howard Y. McClusky, Ann Arbor
B. F. McLaurin, New York City
Dr. John S. Millis, Western Reserve
Dr. Charles C. Noble, Syracuse
Anthony P. Nugent, Jr. Kansas City
Fred L. Rosenbloom, Philadelphia
Fred H. Roth, Cincinnati
Louis B. Seltzer, Cleveland
Francis C. Shane, Pittsburgh
Carlton M. Sherwood, New York City
Joseph R. Silberstein, Pittsburgh
Jade Snow Wong, San Francisco
Richard S. Zeisler, New York City
Charles S. Zimmerman, New York City

BUILDING A SPEECH, A TEAM, A SUCCESSFUL PANEL . . .

So many students have asked us, "Where do I start in composing a speech?" that we thought the first issue of Channel should tackle this question. The answer will come from probing your own ideas and experience perhaps along these lines . . .

YOU:

- who are you, what is your identification?
- why are you on the Panel? how do you fit into its scheme?
- why do you think it is important?

YOUR GROUP:

- what is it about your background that makes you both different from and similar to other Americans?
- why do you have a feeling of pride to be yourself and a member of this group?
- as a member of a particular group, what bearing does your religious or cultural tradition, your racial identification have on the problem of living in a diverse nation?
- what has been your experience as a member of this group?
- what have you learned from your religion, your family, your education that has helped you to understand people, their differences, and that has helped you to meet the problems that often arise out of the differences?

SOME PROBLEMS AND RELATIONSHIPS:

- how do the problems arising from group differences affect you as a person, as a member of a particular group, as an American?
- what are some of the causes? outcomes?
- what relationship do you see between yourself and your group? between your group and other groups?
- what relationship do you see between prejudice that affects you or your group and that which is felt by other individuals or groups?

SOME IDEAS FOR SOLUTIONS:

- what do you think can be done to improve relationships among our people?
- what in your own tradition causes you to make such recommendations?
- what are you doing about it?
- why are you taking this responsibility?

If all these points were explored by each speaker, the audience might fall into a Rip Van Winkle slumber. The key to avoiding repetition is to build each Panel team as an integrated unit in which each of you makes an approach reflecting your own personality, experience and interest. The effectiveness of your team basically depends on your relationship with each other. If you genuinely enjoy being together and if you are at ease within yourself and with traditions which differ from your own, you are sure to win your audience's confidence and friendship. These are the vital forerunners to winning the listeners' readiness to change. The esprit de corps of the Panel not only speaks louder than words, but it is the heart of the integrity of the Panel.

PUBLIC SCHOOL INTEGRATION IN THE SOUTH - PROGRESS BRIEF

Across the borders of the South - Delaware, Maryland, Missouri and the District of Columbia - the color bars already are being lifted in the public schools. When the Supreme Court ruled last May that segregation in the public schools was unconstitutional, it refrained from issuing an order to specify how its decision should be put into effect.

Interested states have been asked to submit advice which can be used to formulate a plan of action. On December 6 the Supreme Court will convene again to hear the integration plans and arguments and to set the steps for enforcement of the decision.

While the border states are acting, 14 of the 17 states affected by the court ruling plan to do nothing about the problem in the coming school year. South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi and Louisiana have been the most outspoken in announcing intentions to evade the Supreme Court mandate. All of these states have heavy Negro populations.

Most drastic of the plans to avoid integration of the public schools is the "private school plan" endorsed by Georgia's Governor and presently considered by the Mississippi legislature. If followed, this plan would abolish all state laws and provisions for public education and would turn the schools over to private operators. The plan to abandon public education as a state function has been criticized strongly as legally unworkable and educationally disruptive. In Georgia, the State Education Association, the State Congress of Parents and Teachers, the League of Women Voters and various church groups have voiced strong opposition to the private school proposal.

Two of the region's widely recognized authorities on race relations (Harry S. Ashmore, editor of the Arkansas Gazette and George S. Mitchell, Executive Director of the Southern Regional Council) believe that the white-Negro population ratio is the best indication of when integration will be accomplished in any given place. They predict that segregation probably will end first where the Negro population is lightest. They warn, however, that density of Negro population is no absolute yardstick. Many other factors are important: urbanization, the quality of local leadership, economic and political arrangements, and the mixture of memory and habit which gives a community its unique traditions.

While the idea of racial integration at the grade school level came as a shock to many white Southerners, it has been occurring without friction, particularly at the graduate level, in most of the South since 1935. Prior to the May 17 Supreme Court decision, 24 state colleges or universities admitted Negroes to the graduate level. Undergraduates were admitted to 13 state and municipal colleges and to 46 denominational colleges. Last year, the best available estimate indicates, between 1,000 and 2,000 Negroes attended institutions which previously had been all white. The University of Louisville became in 1951 the only Southern university in which Negro and white undergraduates are integrated.

(The New York Times of Sunday, September 26, 1954, page 6E carries a good Progress Report on Desegregation which might be helpful to you.)

FROM WHAT WE HEAR . . .

The University of Minnesota Panel burst into action in the Spring semester with more than 30 engagements in two months. On hearing this group in action, one high school member's comment was, "I didn't know Negroes were so much like white people." A Macalester college group responded to the Panel by stating, "We cannot destroy prejudice until we destroy our artificial complacency that leads us to think we are not prejudiced." A University of Minnesota college student commented, "I saw the deeper feelings towards prejudice from the minority side — people have prejudice whether they know it or not, and they must recognize it."

The Panels are reaching people in all kinds of settings. The UCLA Panel continues to set pace and records. The Panelists on a whirlwind Spring vacation speaking trip through Arizona and Northern California reached some 139,000 listeners. In San Francisco, the producer of the "What's Your Opinion Show" featured the Panel. Throughout the program the station switch board received a steady stream of calls - some asking questions, others asking for copies of the speeches and still others suggesting that a whole series be run on the same excellent idea.

The University of Omaha Panel won enthusiastic support on its own campus early in the year before an all-university convocation of some 7,000 students and faculty. Subsequently, they spoke to the American Legion Auxiliary, Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Omaha Real Estate Board.

The University of California Panel appeared on a Bay Area TV show last spring, while a Syracuse team made a two day trip to New York City which included a radio interview with columnist Mary Margaret McBride. The University of Cincinnati and Carnegie Institute of Technology Panels are concentrating on high school students in Ohio and Pennsylvania. They find that no wiser use of their time can be found than to reach the teen age audience.

The University of Kansas City Panel has made an exciting new contribution to its own campus through the Panel. The Panelists felt that the tensions and issues they found so close to the surface in Kansas City audiences needed more intense probing with experts. Consequently, monthly sessions were arranged on the campus with leading Kansas City professional men as guests. Faculty and students flocked to the sessions to explore with leading community attorneys, psychologists and public officials issues vital to them all as residents of Kansas City.

SCHEDULE OF VISITS - EARLY FALL

Oct. 4 - 6 Syracuse University
Oct. 7 - 11 Wayne University
Oct. 14 - 15 University of Minnesota
Oct. 18 - 20 University of Washington
Oct. 22 - 27 San Francisco State College
University of California

Oct. 5 - 6 Washington University
Oct. 7 - 8 University of Kansas City
Oct. 11 University of Omaha
Oct. 12 - 13 Purdue University
Oct. 18 - 19 Carnegie Institute of Technology
University of Pittsburgh

Joan Meyersieck, Field Representative
Marian Hargrave, Field Director

NATIONAL COUNCIL FOR THE PANEL OF AMERICANS
386 Fourth Avenue
New York 16, N.Y.

JEWISH COMMUNITY RELATIONS COUNCIL

602 FULLERTON BLDG. - SAINT LOUIS 1 - TELEPHONE: CHESTNUT 1-2584

November 1, 1954

RECEIVED
11/3/54
Southern Regional Council

Miss Marian Hargrave, Field Director
National Council for The Panel of Americans
386 Fourth Ave.
New York 16, N.Y.

Dear Marian:

As I was reading Rev. Krumm's description and explanation of the National Council for the Panel of Americans it occured to me that perhaps the South is ready for Panels.

I wonder if George Mitchell, of the Southern Regional Council, is familiar with the Panel ideal. As you may know, the Southern Regional Council is opening offices in several of the Southern states and, if interested, could be a valuable agency to promote the Panel idea in Southern Universities. George Mitchell is quoted in the section on Public School integration, but I notice the National Council for The Panel of Americans does not include any Southerners.

The difficulties we have had in St. Louis have in no way diminished my enthusiasm for the merit of the Panel, hence my suggestion that the Panel be discussed with Mr. Mitchell if this has not been done.

If Mr. Mitchell does not know of the Panel, perhaps it would be helpful to send him some of your recent material, or else this letter itself will be unintelligible to him. His address is 63 Auburn Ave., N.E. Atlanta 3, Ga.

Sincerely yours,

Helen F. Schwartz

HFS:ah

cc: George Mitchell

FILE COPY

October 18, 1955

Miss Marian Hargrave, Field Director
National Council for the Panel of Americans
Tenth Floor, 386 Fourth Avenue
New York 16, New York

Dear Miss Hargrave:

Please forgive this delay in answering your letter of sometime ago inquiring about Southern Regional Council materials.

Since we are a non-profit organization and make our publications available at cost, we are able to supply almost no free material, with the exception of promotion material. However, we could supply a limited number of copies of our monthly publication NEW SOUTH in order to acquaint such a group as yours with it.

I am enclosing a sample copy of NEW SOUTH and a complete publication list.

Sincerely,

Harold C. Fleming
Assistant Director

HCF/ys
Enclosures

national council for the

PANEL OF AMERICANS

Tenth Floor, 386 Fourth Avenue, New York 16 • MUrray Hill 5-0181

HCF

September 23, 1955

Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue
Atlanta 3, Georgia

20 copies changing patterns
$1,00 CR
rha.

Attention: Pamphlet Distribution

Gentlemen:

I am enclosing a request for some copies of your recent pamphlet publication.

We would appreciate very much receiving as well a list of the pamphlets or other publications which you make available to such organizations as the Panel of Americans.

We in turn, distribute your material to the various college and university projects around the country where the Panel of Americans is in action.

I would be interested in knowing if there are any of the materials which might be circulated to the college student participants in the Panels without cost to us.

Thank you so much for your attention to this request.

Sincerely,

Marian Hargrave

Marian Hargrave
Field Director

TIME

THE WEEKLY NEWSMAGAZINE

The following article appeared in TIME MAGAZINE, June 6, 1955, copyright TIME INC.

How It Feels

As the seven students from the University of California's Berkeley campus began their program in the big A.F.L. Labor Temple in Oakland, a baldheaded truck driver in the audience snorted: "College kids. Bet they tell us how to save the world. I wish I'd stayed home and watched TV."

The truck driver was probably not alone in his wish, for the program of the evening was anything but light entertainment. Each of the seven students belonged to what the group calls a "minority"—and each had come to describe, in a highly personal way, how it feels to be a member of a minority.

"My name," said one 20-year-old junior, "is Harry Brock. I'm a Catholic." Then he went on to describe his conversion and what it had meant to him ("It's a wonderful feeling when I go to Mass every Sunday to know that 400 million other people are worshiping as I am—united as one body, worshiping one God"). After him came Sophomore Judy Sklar, who bluntly announced: "I am an American and a Jew and I am very proud to be both." "What does the Negro want?" asked Negro Graduate Student Nathan Huggins. "If there is any single answer I think it lies in the definition of the word dignity." And so it went through other speeches and an hour-long question period afterward. Much to his own surprise, the baldheaded truck driver stayed the evening out.

A Good World. This year, students on campuses all over the U.S. have put on such shows. Though nominally under a national organization called Panel of Americans, they operate autonomously within their own colleges or universities. Since the first panel started at U.C.L.A. in 1942, the movement has spread to a score of campuses, is now a permanent part of the academic scene. Its purpose, says Los Angeles' Adaline ("Gramma") Guenther, who founded the first group, is not so much to preach as to inspire. "We merely offer something for the audience to think about. We appeal to their conscience. We say in effect, 'This is a good world, but you must make it so.' "

In the last seven years the panel at the University of Cincinnati has made more than 80 appearances, spoken to well over 80,000 people. When it began, the city was still seething with tension between its Negroes and the new wartime population of Southern workers. The various panels have spoken at clubs, plants and schools, but some of their best work has been done at the university itself. When this year's chairman, Roman Catholic Ann Grieme, first arrived at Cincinnati and unpacked her statue of the Virgin, a classmate mocked: "What are you trying to do, make a church out of this place?" Chairman Grieme hears no more such talk at the university.

Crime & Wolf Whistles. The Western Reserve panelists have faced the usual questions: "Why is so much crime committed by Negroes?", "Why don't Negroes fix up their homes?" and thousands of others. In Detroit, the Wayne University panelists have made 338 appearances, have been kept on stage answering questions for as long as four hours. The Purdue panel has grown to 40 members, has done everything on its programs from singing a Jewish hymn to describing how it feels for a Negro to cross the Mason-Dixon line and suddenly have to shift to the back of the bus. The panels' accomplishments, however, cannot be boiled down to statistics; they are really nothing more than the accumulation of individual scenes. From U.C.L.A., for instance, a group of girls once had to face an audience of steelworkers. As Adaline Guenther tells the story:

"I was worried at first. The men were in a party mood and there were plenty of wolf whistles when the girls went on the platform. But the girls were so effective that, at the end of the meeting, the men rose to applaud. The head of the group said he had never seen the steelworkers rise for anybody but Philip Murray. But the best came when one of the Negro union members came up to one of the girls and said, 'This is the first time I've ever felt like Joe Smith, American.' "

* From left: Nathan Huggins, Barbara Goor, Martin Rosen, Marilyn Child, Robert Cornelison, Judy Sklar and Harry Brock.

national council for the

PANEL OF AMERICANS

386 Fourth Avenue, New York 16, New York

PANEL OF AMERICANS
Fact Sheet
January, 1955

What It Is

The Panel of Americans is a new and different program in intergroup education that is spreading to universities all across the nation. The program uses the frank and untarnished idealism of young people to dramatize the genius of America.

Protestant, Catholic, Negro, Jew, first or second generation American - these are the students on each Panel team. Theirs is a positive declaration of faith and demonstration of the unity in diversity that lies at the heart of our nation.

How It Works

Students selected and trained by their university are brought before community audiences which range from Real Estate Boards to high school assemblies. With a faculty moderator, they discuss the road blocks which obstruct our ability to live together in a diversified society.

Each student speaks for about five minutes. Each tells something of his own personal life, conditioning, experiences and concerns. More specifically:

- the religious, cultural or racial ties which distinguish him from other Americans, which make him proud to be himself and which indicate his unwillingness to "whitewash" differences
- the ideals and loyalities which he has in common with every American citizen
- his analysis of the conflict between what we say we believe as Americans and what we actually do about it

The Panel pulls no punches. After the first part of the presentation, all questions are welcomed, no matter how difficult, loaded or unpopular. As the students talk over the questions, they do not pose as experts on anything but their own experience and conviction.

Its Impact

Some 400 students, 100 faculty advisers and numerous other university and community leaders are participating actively in this new technique. Each Panel meets between 25 and 100 audiences a year which range from 80 to 2,000 listeners each. Most projects prefer to concentrate on teenage audiences, but groups of all ages respond to the Panel.

This means that from one half to one million Americans of all ages are reached annually by the Panel of Americans in communities from coast to coast.

PANEL OF AMERICANS
Fact Sheet - 2

History

The Panel of Americans began in 1942 when the University of California students joined the civic effort to ease the racial and religious tensions which had erupted in Southern California during the war. Born under emergency conditions, the Panel worked on a fire-alarm basis at first. Welded into speaking teams by an inter-religious organization, the University Religious Conference, the young people broke through the barriers that separated one group from another by using stories of their own experience and conviction. They spoke not only before audiences in Los Angeles, but throughout the state. The United States Army and Air Force flew the Panel teams up and down the California coast to speak before orientation programs in all of the major army installations in the state.

In 1947 the University of California at Los Angeles Panel made a demonstration tour across the nation. The demand for developing similar Panels in a dozen cities subsequently caused the University Religious Conference to create a Panel Extension Service. For three years this organization provided one field representative to consult with those universities which wished to undertake sponsorship of the program.

By 1953, it was evident that the Religious Conference, a local California organization, no longer could assume responsibility and direction for the national program. In June of 1953 the National Council for the Panel of Americans was formed in order to provide the realistic national structure so urgently needed.

Why It Is Important

The Panel is one of the rare but important efforts in intergroup education which involves students. Universities themselves are sponsoring it not only for use on their own campuses but for their communities as well. Universities and their leaders know what a deep concern college age people have for the vital social issues involving racial, religious and ethnic differences. They recognize the compulsion young people have "to do something" about their convictions. They recognize the need for opportunities to get students into the community in order to develop experience and skills essential for resppnsible adult leadership.

PANEL OF AMERICANS
Fact Sheet - 3

Panels have been and are being developed in the following universities:

Arizona State Teachers College
Boston University
Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh
Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana
San Francisco State College
Syracuse University, New York*
Temple University, Philadelphia
University of California, Berkeley
University of California at Los Angeles
University of Cincinnati
University of Kansas City
University of Minnesota
University of Omaha
University of Pittsburgh
University of Washington, Seattle*
Washington University, St. Louis
Wayne University, Detroit
Western Reserve University, Cleveland
Wisconsin State College, Milwaukee*

---

* Undergoing reorganization

The members of the Executive Committee of the National Council for the Panel of Americans are the following:

The Rev. John M. Krumm, Chairman
Mrs. Raymond B. Allen
Dr. Ethel J. Alpenfels
Rt. Rev. Stephen F. Bayne, Jr.
The Rev. Shelton Hale Bishop
Robert J. Block
John A. Brown, Jr.
Mrs. Ralph J. Bunche
Robert J. Callaghan
Dean Harry J. Carman
Milton T. Daus
Mrs. Robert E. Draddy
Philip S. Ehrlich
Martin Gang
Edward G. Gilbert
Dr. Edgar J. Goodspeed
Gilbert A. Harrison
Alex E. Holstein
Edgar M. Kahn
Mrs. Madeleine M. Low
Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin
Dr. Howard Y. McClusky
B. F. McLaurin
Dr. John S. Millis
Dr. Charles C. Noble
Anthony P. Nugent, Jr.
Fred L. Rosenbloom
Fred H. Roth
Louis B. Seltzer
Francis C. Shane
Carlton M. Sherwood
Joseph R. Silberstein
Jade Snow Wong
Richard S. Zeisler
Charles S. Zimmerman

MURRAY HILL 5-3148 MURRAY HILL 5-0181

with John Sullivan SCJ — son dying —

PANEL OF AMERICANS, INC.

386 FOURTH AVENUE

NEW YORK 16, N. Y.

DOROTHY S. BAUMAN
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

MARIAN HARGRAVE
ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR

November 25, 1958

Miss Marian Hargrave
Associate Director
Panel of Americans, Inc.
386 Fourth Avenue
New York 16, New York

Dear Marian:

It was good to talk with you at the NAIRO Conference. I believe that several of our state groups could be helpful to the Panel of Americans; I am equally convinced that the Panel of Americans could be helpful to all our state groups. I am enclosing, therefore, the names and addresses of our State Councils.

I am sending the State Councils a brief memo explaining that I suggested that you contact them. I would suggest you include this in your letter to them.

Hoping to hear from you in the not too distant future I am,

Cordially yours,

Frederick B. Routh
Assistant Director

FBR:LS

December 1, 1958

Miss Marian Hargrave
Associate Director
Panel of Americans, Inc.
Room 1210, 386 Fourth Avenue
New York 16, New York

Dear Marian:

Thanks for your recent letter. I have already sent you a list of our state organizations.

I would suggest that the four most likely states at this time are Virginia, Florida, Tennessee, and Arkansas. There are others where it could also be done, but I believe that the situation in the state, plus the staff of the local Council makes these four the most suitable.

I will be happy to come to the Friday, March 6 session of the National Training Conference for the Panel of Americans at Perdue. I believe a better title for the session than "The South--Little Rock and the Law," would be, "The South--State's Rights vs Federal Authority." This would make it a little more inclusive.

Best wishes.

Cordially,

Frederick B. Routh
Assistant Director

FBR:ls

national council for the

PANEL OF AMERICANS

Room 1210, 386 Fourth Avenue, New York 16 • MUrray Hill 5-3148 or 5-0181

THE REV. JOHN M. KRUMM
Chairman

MRS. RAYMOND B. ALLEN
MRS. YORKE ALLEN
DR. ETHEL J. ALPENFELS
RT. REV. STEPHEN F. BAYNE, JR.
ROBERT J. BLOCK
JOHN A. BROWN, JR.
MRS. RALPH J. BUNCHE
ROBERT J. CALLAGHAN
MRS. GEORGE D. CANNON
DEAN HARRY J. CARMAN
JEROME K. CROSSMAN
DR. DWIGHT W. CULVER
STEPHEN R. CURRIER
MILTON T. DAUS
LADY MALCOLM DOUGLAS-HAMILTON
PHILIP S. EHRLICH
MARTIN GANG
EDWARD G. GILBERT
GILBERT A. HARRISON
WALTER HIRSHON
ALEX E. HOLSTEIN
MISS EMILY KIMBROUGH
MRS. ROBERT E. KINTNER
MRS. HERBERT N. LANGNER
GUSTAVE L. LEVY
MRS. MADELEINE M. LOW
RABBI EDGAR F. MAGNIN
DR. HOWARD Y. McCLUSKY
B. F. McLAURIN
ROBBINS MILBANK
DR. JOHN S. MILLIS
DEAN CHARLES C. NOBLE
ANTHONY P. NUGENT, JR.
DR. FRANKLIN K. PATTERSON
DEAN O. D. ROBERTS
THE REV. JAMES H. ROBINSON
FRED L. ROSENBLOOM
FRED H. ROTH
MRS. SANFORD SAMUEL
LOUIS B. SELTZER
FRANCIS C. SHANE
CARLTON M. SHERWOOD
DR. GEORGE N. SHUSTER
JOSEPH R. SILBERSTEIN
THE REV. RALPH W. SOCKMAN
MRS. CHARLES P. TAFT
CHARLES VAN DOREN
MISS JADE SNOW WONG
RICHARD S. ZEISLER
CHARLES S. ZIMMERMAN

MRS. DOROTHY S. BAUMAN
Executive Director
MARIAN HARGRAVE
Associate Director

November 26, 1958

Dr. Frederick B. Routh
Southern Regional Council
American Jewish Committee
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Dr. Routh:

It was so nice to meet you in Pittsburgh this past week and to have the good chance to discuss the Panel of Americans with you. We are enormously encouraged by your recommendation that we be in touch with your state representatives for their advice on several schools in the south where pilot Panel projects may be developed. I look forward to having your specific advice on the persons to consult on this.

It is wonderful, too, to know that you may be able to join us at the Third National Training Conference for the Panel of Americans which will be held on Friday and Saturday, March 6th and 7th, 1959 at Purdue University, West Lafayette, Indiana. We certainly will be pleased to arrange for your travel expenses and want you to know how much we appreciate your willingness to come on that basis if your schedule will permit it.

As I mentioned, we hope very much that you can be at the conference particularly on Friday, March 6th, to be the main speaker in the morning session devoted to "The South -- Little Rock and the Law." If you think the statement describing that session should be changed, I certainly will welcome your suggestions. I am eager to see the film you mentioned and to work out the session along the lines you suggested.

Your presence at that part of the conference and as much of the remainder as your time will allow will be tremendously worthwhile for the students and all of us associated with the program.

I look forward to hearing from you with great interest and hope very much that we may have the good news soon that you can be with us in March.

Thank you again for your many suggestions and your encouraging interest in the Panel.

Cordially yours,

Marian Hargrave

Marian Hargrave
Associate Director

MH/lwb

national council for the

PANEL OF AMERICANS

Room 1210, 386 Fourth Avenue, New York 16 • MUrray Hill 5-3148 or 5-0181

THE REV. JOHN M. KRUMM
Chairman

MRS. RAYMOND B. ALLEN
MRS. YORKE ALLEN
DR. ETHEL J. ALPENFELS
RT. REV. STEPHEN F. BAYNE, JR.
ROBERT J. BLOCK
JOHN A. BROWN, JR.
MRS. RALPH J. BUNCHE
ROBERT J. CALLAGHAN
MRS. GEORGE D. CANNON
DEAN HARRY J. CARMAN
JEROME K. CROSSMAN
DR. DWIGHT W. CULVER
STEPHEN R. CURRIER
MILTON T. DAUS
LADY MALCOLM DOUGLAS-HAMILTON
PHILIP S. EHRLICH
MARTIN GANG
EDWARD G. GILBERT
GILBERT A. HARRISON
WALTER HIRSHON
ALEX E. HOLSTEIN
MISS EMILY KIMBROUGH
MRS. ROBERT E. KINTNER
MRS. HERBERT N. LANGNER
GUSTAVE L. LEVY
MRS. MADELEINE M. LOW
RABBI EDGAR F. MAGNIN
DR. HOWARD Y. McCLUSKY
B. F. McLAURIN
ROBBINS MILBANK
DR. JOHN S. MILLIS
DEAN CHARLES C. NOBLE
ANTHONY P. NUGENT, JR.
DR. FRANKLIN K. PATTERSON
DEAN O. D. ROBERTS
THE REV. JAMES H. ROBINSON
FRED L. ROSENBLOOM
FRED H. ROTH
MRS. SANFORD SAMUEL
LOUIS B. SELTZER
FRANCIS C. SHANE
CARLTON M. SHERWOOD
DR. GEORGE N. SHUSTER
JOSEPH R. SILBERSTEIN
THE REV. RALPH W. SOCKMAN
MRS. CHARLES P. TAFT
CHARLES VAN DOREN
MISS JADE SNOW WONG
RICHARD S. ZEISLER
CHARLES S. ZIMMERMAN

MRS. DOROTHY S. BAUMAN
Executive Director
MARIAN HARGRAVE
Associate Director

December 3, 1958

Dr. Frederick B. Routh
Assistant Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Fred,

Your letter of December 1st just arrived, and we are extremely pleased that you can come to the Panel of Americans National Training Conference on March 6th. This is simply splendid news and will be of enormous interest to the projects around the country. Thank you, too, for your suggestion on broadening the title of the session.

I appreciated so much your kind letter of November 25th. I believe mine must have crossed it, and due to a clerical error, I fear you received a duplicate of my letter. Please forgive me.

Attached is a copy of the letter I am sending to the persons you suggested I approach in connection with exploring development of the Panels in their areas. The letter will be sent the first of the week when a new brochure we are preparing will be ready. We will await the advice of your State Councils with very great interest and will be in close touch with you as this excellent opportunity takes form.

Cordially yours,

Marian

Marian Hargrave
Associate Director

MH/lwb
Encl.

December 8, 1958

Dr. Robert E. Hughes
Executive Director
Alabama Council on Human Relations
Room 1218, Comer Building
Birmingham 3, Alabama

Dear Dr. Hughes:

At the suggestion of Dr. Frederick B. Routh, I am writing in connection with the Panel of Americans, a program in intergroup education which nineteen universities and colleges sponsor as an educational experience for their students and a public service to their communities.

The students on each Panel -- Catholic, Negro, Jewish, Protestant and first or second generation of New American -- appear with a faculty moderator before a variety of campus and community audiences to make brief, personal statements about themselves and their respective groups and to stimulate a free and friendly discussion with their listeners. I am attaching some information which describes the program in more detail.

When I saw Dr. Routh recently, he urged me to write to you and other persons in the State Councils for your advice on schools in which you think there might be a readiness to develop such a program as the Panel of Americans. If there are several schools in the border or middle section of the south in which Panels could be formed on an experimental basis, we would be very eager to help in any way we can with the exploration and formation of such projects.

Dr. Routh told me that he recently had sent a brief memorandum to the State Councils indicating that I would be writing in this regard. We will appreciate very much having your thinking on ways our student-centered program might be helpful in your state at this time.

I look forward to hearing from you with many thanks for your interest and advice.

Sincerely yours,

Marian Hargrave
Associate Director

MH/lwb
Encl.

cc: Dr. Routh

"To strive through education, research, information and consultation to improve the educational, economic, and civic conditions of the people of North Carolina without regard to ethnic or national origins; to combat the causes of intergroup friction and misunderstanding, and to encourage intergroup cooperation for the common welfare; to interpret to the public the needs and aspirations of minority groups; to strive to attain the goal of equal opportunity for all the people of the state."

—from article II of the bylaws.

North Carolina Council on Human Relations

Room 209
121 East Third Street
Charlotte, N. C.

File

Officers

Chairman:
RAYMOND M. WHEELER
CHARLOTTE

1st Vice-Chairman:
S. E. DUNCAN
RALEIGH

2nd Vice-Chairman:
W. W. FINLATOR
RALEIGH

Secretary:
WILLIAM M. BOYCE, JR.
CHARLOTTE

Treasurer:
JOHN H. WHEELER
DURHAM

Executive Secretary:
HARRY S. JONES
CHARLOTTE

Associate Secretary:
W. C. CHANCE
PARMELE

Executive Committee

MOSES S. BELTON
CHARLOTTE

HUBERT H. CREFT
MONROE

JOSEPH D. CLARK
RALEIGH

CARL DOCKERY
SHELBY

MRS. CHAS. F. GOLDTHWAIT
RALEIGH

W. L. GREENE
RALEIGH

L. B. HAIZLIP
HIGH POINT

T. C. JERVAY
WILMINGTON

GUY B. JOHNSON CHAPEL HILL

LUTHER W. KELLY, JR.
CHARLOTTE

JOHN R. LARKINS
RALEIGH

C. P. MORRIS DURHAM

MRS. T. S. NEWBOLD
ROCKY MOUNT

BOYD PAYTON
CHARLOTTE

WILLA B. PLAYER GREENSBORO

HENRY G. RUARK
LAURINBURG

A. E. SPEARS
CHARLOTTE

MRS. EDNA B. TAYLOR
PINEHURST

December 22, 1958

Copy

Miss Marian Hargrave
National Council for the
Panel of Americans
Room 1210, 386 Fourth Avenue
New York 16, New York

Dear Miss Hargrave:

I hardly know what to say about the "Panel of Americans" in the South. I doubt if any college or university in North Carolina would sponsor such a panel. State institutions are under pressure to hold the line in integration. Private colleges which have admitted Negro students--I know of only two--are not anxious to advertise the fact.

Your program is one which, like a mayor's friendly relations committee or an FEP ordinance, is possible where the idea is supported by majority opinion. Here the panel of American idea would have minority, not majority, support. That makes a big difference.

The interfaith angle would be a problem too in North Carolina. The NCCJ at one time sponsored trio teams of Protestant, Catholic and Jew, but the resident Catholic Bishop no longer allows Catholic--Priests or laymen--to participate on these teams.

The Charlotte-Mecklenburg Council on Human Relations, has an interracial youth panel which has given several programs in local churches, and a monthly interracial youth forum. This is in the high school level. The only interracial organization in the college level in this area is the Collegiate Council for the United Nations, and it is not very active.

I've said enough to show you that a simple idea like "Panel of Americans" is not simple to carry out in the South. It would take a great deal of promoting to keep it going even if it could get started. The big question, I think, is: Who has time and money to promote the idea?

Our Council might be interested in promoting a Collegiate Interracial Panel. We wouldn't be particularly interested in the interfaith angle. We feel that, at this time, the race problem is our major concern.

Sincerely,

Harry S. Jones

Harry S. Jones
Executive Secretary

HSJ/hng

cc: Dr. Frederick B. Routh

January 21, 1959

Mrs. Dorothy S. Bauman
Executive Director
National Council for the Panel of Americans
Room 1210
386 Fourth Avenue
New York 16, New York

Dear Mrs. Bauman:

I enjoyed our recent conversation and I am writing to summarize some of those points that seem to me to emerge most clearly.

First, let me say that I appreciated the opportunity to get a more thorough understanding of the Panel of Americans and the work you are carrying on with college youth. Despite the current interracial tensions in the South, I think there are good potentialities for extending your program to selected colleges and universities within the region.

The institutions that seem most promising to me are the University of North Carolina, University of Kentucky, University of Louisville, and University of Texas, where you have already been at work. With the help of Paul Rilling of the Virginia Council on Human Relations, it is entirely likely that the program might be developed at one or two of the Virginia colleges; I would trust Rilling's judgment on this and would follow his advice on the best ways to proceed there.

The best way to discover the possibility of Southern program would, I believe, be to concentrate on two or three institutions at most. The choice might be made in terms of interest shown by suitable faculty members. We agreed that one appropriate category of faculty members through whom to take a sounding would be the campus directors of religious life. These persons would undoubtedly be sympathetic with the aims of the Panel of Americans and would be in position to estimate the chance for successful development of the program at their respective colleges. They would also be able to suggest the names of others on the faculty who might be willing to assume the leadership in organizing the panel. You may have ready access to a directory of the religious directors. If not, I suggest you check with such other organizations as the student councils of the YMCA and YWCA. Although I doubt that Emory University, here in Atlanta, would be a suitable institution, the religious adviser there, Mr. Sam Laird, might well be able to advise you further along these lines through correspondence.

As you recall our conversation we further agreed that the best way to start would be by writing and sending descriptive materials on the Panel of Americans to these and other likely faculty members. Assuming that this results in expressions of interest, the next step might be field visits to these campuses and invitations to the interested persons to visit a campus where a panel is functioning.

Considering the fear and timidity which are all too prevalent in the South these days, it might be well to forgo the step in your program which calls for the panel to extend its activities into the general community. This might later develop, but emphasis on this aspect of the program at the beginning might dampen the enthusiasm of faculty and administrative people whose approval would be important.

Finally, I believe we were in agreement that it would be best to keep your efforts clear of any overt identification with organizations publicly involved in desegregation advocacy and activities. While the principle of integration is clearly implicit in your approach, it would be taking on a needless handicap to represent it as an action program.

We will be happy, however, to give you any advice or assistant that we can and I am sure that the state councils on human relations and other groups active in this field will also be glad to cooperate.

With kindest regards to you and Miss Hargrave,

Sincerely,

Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director

HCF/mf

national council for the

PANEL OF AMERICANS

Room 1210, 386 Fourth Avenue, New York 16 • MUrray Hill 5-3148 or 5-0181

THE REV. JOHN M. KRUMM
Chairman

MRS. RAYMOND B. ALLEN
MRS. YORKE ALLEN
DR. ETHEL J. ALPENFELS
RT. REV. STEPHEN F. BAYNE, JR.
ROBERT J. BLOCK
JOHN A. BROWN, JR.
MRS. RALPH J. BUNCHE
ROBERT J. CALLAGHAN
MRS. GEORGE D. CANNON
DEAN HARRY J. CARMAN
JEROME K. CROSSMAN
DR. DWIGHT W. CULVER
STEPHEN R. CURRIER
MILTON T. DAUS
LADY MALCOLM DOUGLAS-HAMILTON
PHILIP S. EHRLICH
MARTIN GANG
EDWARD G. GILBERT
GILBERT A. HARRISON
WALTER HIRSHON
ALEX E. HOLSTEIN
MISS EMILY KIMBROUGH
MRS. ROBERT E. KINTNER
MRS. HERBERT N. LANGNER
GUSTAVE L. LEVY
MRS. MADELEINE M. LOW
RABBI EDGAR F. MAGNIN
DR. HOWARD Y. McCLUSKY
B. F. McLAURIN
ROBBINS MILBANK
DR. JOHN S. MILLIS
DEAN CHARLES C. NOBLE
ANTHONY P. NUGENT, JR.
DR. FRANKLIN K. PATTERSON
DEAN O. D. ROBERTS
THE REV. JAMES H. ROBINSON
FRED L. ROSENBLOOM
FRED H. ROTH
MRS. SANFORD SAMUEL
LOUIS B. SELTZER
FRANCIS C. SHANE
CARLTON M. SHERWOOD
DR. GEORGE N. SHUSTER
JOSEPH R. SILBERSTEIN
THE REV. RALPH W. SOCKMAN
MRS. CHARLES P. TAFT
CHARLES VAN DOREN
MISS JADE SNOW WONG
RICHARD S. ZEISLER
CHARLES S. ZIMMERMAN

MRS. DOROTHY S. BAUMAN
Executive Director
MARIAN HARGRAVE
Associate Director

23 January 1959

Dear Mr. Fleming:

Thank you very much for your clear and helpful analysis of the situation with respect to the possible development of Panels in southern colleges.

We shall follow your advice on sending descriptive materials to likely faculty members and if interest is shown, follow this by field trips where possible and inform them of the national training conference at Purdue March sixth and seventh, in case they should be interested in observing.

I am leaving on Sunday, February 1st, on a trip to the West Coast and plan to return via Dallas, Houston and Austin. The Texas trip will be for the purpose of bringing certain interested individuals up to date on the program of the Panel, soliciting support for our national program, and sounding out faculty who were enthusiastic about the Panel when the California group demonstrated in Texas in 1957. I appreciate your advice to move discreetly and slowly and realize that any development must come only after thoughtful consideration.

It was a pleasure to talk with you and both Miss Hargrave and I are grateful to you and other members of the Southern Regional Council staff for giving us your assistance and cooperation.

Sincerely,

Dorothy S. Bauman

Mrs. Dorothy S. Bauman
Executive Director

DSB/lwb

Mr. Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432, 63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

March 24, 1959

Miss Marian Hargrave
Associate Director
Panel of Americans
386 Fourth Avenue - Room 1210
New York 16, New York

Dear Marian:

Many thanks for your recent letter with the kind words about my participation at the Purdue Training Conference. I agree with you that Paul Rilling did an outstanding job. He is, in my opinion, one of the more able intergroup staffers in the South.

I hope I asked you to make the expense check out to the Southern Regional Council, for I have already drawn against my SRC expense account for that trip.

I look forward to cooperating with you in the future. And I am sure that you will find further encouragement from Kenneth Morland and Paul Rilling.

Best personal wishes,

Cordially,

Frederick B. Routh
Assistant Director

FBR:ls

national council for the

PANEL OF AMERICANS

Room 1210, 386 Fourth Avenue, New York 16 • MUrray Hill 5-3148 or 5-0181

THE REV. JOHN M. KRUMM
Chairman

MRS. RAYMOND B. ALLEN
MRS. YORKE ALLEN
DR. ETHEL J. ALPENFELS
RT. REV. STEPHEN F. BAYNE, JR.
ROBERT J. BLOCK
JOHN A. BROWN, JR.
MRS. RALPH J. BUNCHE
ROBERT J. CALLAGHAN
MRS. GEORGE D. CANNON
DEAN HARRY J. CARMAN
JEROME K. CROSSMAN
DR. DWIGHT W. CULVER
STEPHEN R. CURRIER
MILTON T. DAUS
LADY MALCOLM DOUGLAS-HAMILTON
PHILIP S. EHRLICH
MARTIN GANG
EDWARD G. GILBERT
GILBERT A. HARRISON
WALTER HIRSHON
ALEX E. HOLSTEIN
MISS EMILY KIMBROUGH
MRS. ROBERT E. KINTNER
MRS. HERBERT N. LANGNER
GUSTAVE L. LEVY
MRS. MADELEINE M. LOW
RABBI EDGAR F. MAGNIN
DR. HOWARD Y. McCLUSKY
B. F. McLAURIN
ROBBINS MILBANK
DR. JOHN S. MILLIS
DEAN CHARLES C. NOBLE
ANTHONY P. NUGENT, JR.
DR. FRANKLIN K. PATTERSON
DEAN O. D. ROBERTS
THE REV. JAMES H. ROBINSON
FRED L. ROSENBLOOM
FRED H. ROTH
MRS. SANFORD SAMUEL
LOUIS B. SELTZER
FRANCIS C. SHANE
CARLTON M. SHERWOOD
DR. GEORGE N. SHUSTER
JOSEPH R. SILBERSTEIN
THE REV. RALPH W. SOCKMAN
MRS. CHARLES P. TAFT
CHARLES VAN DOREN
MISS JADE SNOW WONG
RICHARD S. ZEISLER
CHARLES S. ZIMMERMAN

MRS. DOROTHY S. BAUMAN
Executive Director
MARIAN HARGRAVE
Associate Director

March 12, 1959

Dr. Frederick B. Routh
Assistant Director
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Room 432
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Fred,

Thank you so much for your letter and the attached expense account — but most of all for being with us at Purdue for the Panel of Americans Training Conference.

I hope you know how much everyone gained from all you had to say and how enormously important it was for the students to meet and learn from you. This goes for all of us, and we are deeply grateful to you for taking the time and trouble to be with us.

Many, many thanks again, and we will keep in close touch with your office and Paul Rilling on the encouraging opportunities in Virginia.

I will send a check to cover your expenses just as soon as it is processed and signed.

Cordially yours,

Marian

Marian Hargrave
Associate Director

MH/lwb

national council for the

PANEL OF AMERICANS

Room 1210, 386 Fourth Avenue, New York 16 • MUrray Hill 5-3148 or 5-0181

THE REV. JOHN M. KRUMM
Chairman

MRS. RAYMOND B. ALLEN
MRS. YORKE ALLEN
DR. ETHEL J. ALPENFELS
RT. REV. STEPHEN F. BAYNE, JR.
ROBERT J. BLOCK
JOHN A. BROWN, JR.
MRS. RALPH J. BUNCHE
ROBERT J. CALLAGHAN
MRS. GEORGE D. CANNON
DEAN HARRY J. CARMAN
JEROME K. CROSSMAN
DR. DWIGHT W. CULVER
STEPHEN R. CURRIER
MILTON T. DAUS
LADY MALCOLM DOUGLAS-HAMILTON
PHILIP S. EHRLICH
MARTIN GANG
EDWARD G. GILBERT
GILBERT A. HARRISON
WALTER HIRSHON
ALEX E. HOLSTEIN
MISS EMILY KIMBROUGH
MRS. ROBERT E. KINTNER
MRS. HERBERT N. LANGNER
GUSTAVE L. LEVY
MRS. MADELEINE M. LOW
RABBI EDGAR F. MAGNIN
DR. HOWARD Y. McCLUSKY
B. F. McLAURIN
ROBBINS MILBANK
DR. JOHN S. MILLIS
DEAN CHARLES C. NOBLE
ANTHONY P. NUGENT, JR.
DR. FRANKLIN K. PATTERSON
DEAN O. D. ROBERTS
THE REV. JAMES H. ROBINSON
FRED L. ROSENBLOOM
FRED H. ROTH
MRS. SANFORD SAMUEL
LOUIS B. SELTZER
FRANCIS C. SHANE
CARLTON M. SHERWOOD
DR. GEORGE N. SHUSTER
JOSEPH R. SILBERSTEIN
THE REV. RALPH W. SOCKMAN
MRS. CHARLES P. TAFT
CHARLES VAN DOREN
MISS JADE SNOW WONG
RICHARD S. ZEISLER
CHARLES S. ZIMMERMAN

MRS. DOROTHY S. BAUMAN
Executive Director
MARIAN HARGRAVE
Associate Director

March 27, 1959

Mr. Frederick B. Routh
Assistant Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432
63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Fred:

Thank you for your letter of March 24. I am enclosing a check for $123.67, to cover the expenses involved in your visit to the Panel of Americans Training Conference. I regret the delay in processing the check and do hope it has not inconvenienced you too much.

When I sent some materials the other day to some of the Panel schools not represented at the training conference, I was reminded again of your kindness in bringing all those excellent publications from the Southern Regional Council for the students. We are still appreciating your thoughtfulness very much.

Mrs. Bauman and I are looking forward to the visit to several campuses in Virginia in April. Paul Rilling is arranging an itinerary, as you know. We look forward to being in touch as those dates draw near and of course will welcome your suggestions at any point.

Cordially yours,

Marian Hargrave
Associate Director

April 2, 1959

Miss Marian Hargrave
Panel of Americans, Inc.
386 Fourth Avenue
New York 16, New York

Dear Marian:

Thanks for the check, reimbursing the Southern Regional Council for the expenses I incurred in attending the Third National Training Conference of the Panel of Americans, at Purdue University.

I am returning herewith a questionnaire you sent out, marked in appropriate places. I would be most interested in the participants' evaluation of the Conference.

Cordially,

Frederick B. Routh
Assistant Director

FBR:ls
Enclosure

VIA AIR MAIL

May 12, 1959

Miss Marian Hargrave
Associate Director
Panel of Americans
386 Fourth Avenue, Rm. 1210
New York 16, New York

Dear Miss Hargrave:

Your recent visit to Virginia sounds very promising. I'm glad Paul Rilling could be of help.

Recent developments within our staff might influence your plans for pilot meetings in Atlanta. Fred Routh is resigning to accept the directorship of the Michigan FEPC, and Paul Rilling will become SRC's Director of Field Activities as of July 1. Since Paul knows your program and has been in college work here, he would be admirably fitted to set up an Atlanta visit for you somewhat later.

I realize the advantages of a stop-over on June 1, when you will be passing through anyway. But with Fred out of the picture and Paul not yet in it, we could do far less to get you started here than we could a few months later. Would this be possible?

Cordially,

Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director

HCF/mf

national council for the

PANEL OF AMERICANS

Room 1210, 386 Fourth Avenue, New York 16 • MUrray Hill 5-3148 or 5-0181

THE REV. JOHN M. KRUMM
Chairman

MRS. RAYMOND B. ALLEN
MRS. YORKE ALLEN
DR. ETHEL J. ALPENFELS
RT. REV. STEPHEN F. BAYNE, JR.
ROBERT J. BLOCK
JOHN A. BROWN, JR.
MRS. RALPH J. BUNCHE
ROBERT J. CALLAGHAN
MRS. GEORGE D. CANNON
DEAN HARRY J. CARMAN
JEROME K. CROSSMAN
DR. DWIGHT W. CULVER
STEPHEN R. CURRIER
MILTON T. DAUS
LADY MALCOLM DOUGLAS-HAMILTON
PHILIP S. EHRLICH
MARTIN GANG
EDWARD G. GILBERT
GILBERT A. HARRISON
WALTER HIRSHON
ALEX E. HOLSTEIN
MISS EMILY KIMBROUGH
MRS. ROBERT E. KINTNER
MRS. HERBERT N. LANGNER
GUSTAVE L. LEVY
MRS. MADELEINE M. LOW
RABBI EDGAR F. MAGNIN
DR. HOWARD Y. McCLUSKY
B. F. McLAURIN
ROBBINS MILBANK
DR. JOHN S. MILLIS
DEAN CHARLES C. NOBLE
ANTHONY P. NUGENT, JR.
DR. FRANKLIN K. PATTERSON
DEAN O. D. ROBERTS
THE REV. JAMES H. ROBINSON
FRED L. ROSENBLOOM
FRED H. ROTH
MRS. SANFORD SAMUEL
LOUIS B. SELTZER
FRANCIS C. SHANE
CARLTON M. SHERWOOD
DR. GEORGE N. SHUSTER
JOSEPH R. SILBERSTEIN
THE REV. RALPH W. SOCKMAN
MRS. CHARLES P. TAFT
CHARLES VAN DOREN
MISS JADE SNOW WONG
RICHARD S. ZEISLER
CHARLES S. ZIMMERMAN

MRS. DOROTHY S. BAUMAN
Executive Director
MARIAN HARGRAVE
Associate Director

RECEIVED MAY 6 1959

May 4, 1959

Mr. Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director
Southern Regional Conference, Inc.
Room 432
63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Fleming:

The recent visit to Lynchburg, Blacksburg and Richmond which Paul Rilling arranged for Mrs. Bauman and me was quite encouraging. We met with religious advisers, students and in some cases faculty people from most of the campuses in order to describe the Panel of Americans to them and to help stimulate interest in forming one or more projects in that area. The prospects may be the best in Lynchburg with an intercollegiate Panel, but we have not yet heard from Dr. Morland at Randolph-Macon on the discussions which were to follow our visit.

Mrs. Bauman and I are taking a demonstration Panel to the Mary McLeod Bethune Memorial Celebration in Daytona Beach on May 29. We could be in Atlanta on Monday, June 1, if it would be useful or advisable.

After our encouraging experience in Richmond with religious advisers from most of the seven schools in that area, Mr. Rilling urged me to write you to inquire about the possibilities of arranging to meet with a similar group from schools in Atlanta. Do you think this is feasible at this time and would June 1 be a good time to try to do this?

If we received encouragement at all from the religious advisers we met, this might put formation of a Panel one step ahead for the fall when we could make a return visit to follow up on the interest we hope will be aroused.

We would be happy to meet with anyone you suggest who might be interested in exploring the Panel. We so much appreciated all Mr. Rilling did to pull groups together in the various centers we visited in Virginia. It helped obviate any feeling of a Northern group trying to urge its experience and program on Southern schools. If a similar procedure could be arranged in Atlanta, it would be wonderful.

We will welcome your advice on the wisdom of "planting a seed" with people on Atlanta campuses at this time and certainly will be glad to come by June 1 if you wish us to do so.

Sincerely yours,

Marian Hargrave

Marian Hargrave
Associate Director

MH:rn

May 14, 1959

Miss Marian Hargrave
Associate Director
Panel of Americans
Room 1210, 386 Fourth Avenue
New York 16, New York

Dear Marian:

Thank you for the materials you sent, which have just arrived in the office.

On looking over the evaluation summary I discover that our session on the South was more helpful, in the estimation of the panelists, than everything but the banquet and bull sessions. Anytime a lecturer can rank this close to food and informality he should indeed be pleased with his performance.

I have read with considerable interest the address by Dr. Steven J. Wright, President of Fisk University. I believe it demonstrates that Dr. Wright is an educational statesman. Interestingly enough, he is on the Board of the Southern Regional Council.

I don't believe I have told you that I have accepted the executive directorship of the Michigan FEPC, effective June 1. I regret leaving the South and the Council, but the opportunity for service and professionally as head of a major state agency was too much to turn down.

Best regards to you and Mrs. Bauman.

Cordially,

Frederick B. Routh
Assistant Director

FBR:ls

CHANNEL SUPPLEMENT

national council for the panel of americans
33 east 68th street, new york 21

May 1959

Dear Panel Members and Advisers:

Your evaluations of the 1959 Panel of Americans Training Conference were very helpful. A summary of comments and reactions is attached.

It has been a busy spring since the big weekend at Purdue and filled with many good things for the Panel.

. . . Vance Packard's new book The Status Seekers mentions the Panel as "an interesting experiment in promoting understanding."

. . . Students and advisers in several Virginia schools now are exploring the Panel as a result of our visit in April to Lynchburg, Blacksburg and Richmond. We do not know what the outcome of these explorations will be but are encouraged by the initial interest.

. . . An intercollegiate Panel will appear in Daytona Beach, Florida, at the Mary McLeod Bethune Memorial Celebration on May 29.

. . . An intercollegiate Panel will appear at Harvard University before Deans of Students at the annual meeting of the National Association of Student Personnel Administrators.

. . . The national office is experimenting with new ways to tell people about the Panel and win new friends for our work. Some 75 New York leaders of public opinion heard the Panel story at a highly successful luncheon on April 28. Father Andrew J. O'Reilly and Law student Greg Taylor from New York University, Lillian Ortiz from the City College Panel and Dr. John A. Brown from Temple University acquainted the Panel's guests with its work throughout the country. A tape of the program is available if you would like to hear it.

. . . The national office is moving to 33 East 68th Street, New York 21. If you are in New York this summer, please note the new telephone number, REgent 4-2254 - 5, and come by to see us.

. . . Meantime, we look forward to hearing from you with comments on the Conference Evaluation or on achievements of your Panel this spring.

Sincerely,

Dorothy S. Bauman, Executive Director
Marian Hargrave, Associate Director

COMMENTS FROM DELEGATES AND GUESTS

I can't forget the concluding words of Dr. Wright's keynote address. They keep coming to my mind whenever our Panel speaks. "The world has become too large and dangerous for anything but the truth, and too small for anything but peace." This is my estimation and the true message of the conference.

It renewed my faith in students and makes me feel, once again, that teaching is not in vain. While the students are not representative of all university students, there is the ever enduring hope that we will get more like them. I hope that I might be included in the next-year conference. Our students are enthusiastic about the session and we have already begun our training program based on the conference results. (Dr. Leonard Moss, Wayne State University.)

I had the opportunity to gain insight into the functionings and technicalities of many Panels, to meet many new and excitingly different people, to explore ideas with other college students and to travel farther west than I ever had before.

It is my judgment that we had a highly successful workshop this year. (Dean William Stielstra, Purdue University.)

It was exciting to be with the Panel of Americans at their Training Conference. I much enjoyed the obvious intelligence and consistent interest of the group. If this particular group is indicative of the calibre of young people who participate with the Panel, it is indeed a "wealthy" organization. (Frederick B. Routh, Southern Regional Council.)

It was a very enlightening experience to attend. Each year there is something new and important to learn which can be applied to operating Panels at different colleges and universities, thus making the Panel of Americans more efficient and effective.

Particularly helpful for me was meeting Panel members and talking with them personally. They reassure one about America's future. Surely they are not "a generation without a cause." (Dr. Kenneth Morland, Virginia Council on Human Relations.)

It is a wonderful experience to mingle with such a fine group of young people who have conquered native prejudice and can associate with so much ease and sincerity with one another. Really refreshing, from a more positive view, to see them doing something about one of our most crucial problems today.

I found it to be a very stimulating experience and a wonderful way to gather points of information from other Panels on how to improve our Panel.

The national office should continue to seek financial support from citizens. In this way, the national organization could finance more students for conference meetings. Attendance would be much greater if students could afford to go.

I feel that the Panel on interreligious questions might have been more informative if the points of difference were emphasized more . . . The greatest effect of the conference to me was that I could see tangible evidence that the Panel was really doing something. The inspiration and drive which was gained is the most useful tool with which I returned.

I think the National Conference gives the students from different parts of the country a chance to find out what the problems are in other parts of the country and how these problems are solved . . . I think only on the national level would we be able to get the fine speakers that we had.

The regional conferences sound like a very good idea. We at Wayne State have held our own training weekend in September at one of the nearby camps. At that time we perfected our speeches and had many of the same discussions that were held at the national conference. We feel that the ideal time for this is the weekend between registration and school.

The very fact that the conference offered the opportunity to meet and be with people of different backgrounds was good. Ordinarily, most people lack the opportunity to get to know others outside of their own racial, religious and cultural group . . . On both Friday and Saturday nights after the day's programs were over, Negroes, Jews, Catholics, Orientals and Protestants all sat around and sang favorite songs, told favorite jokes. They sat around and laughed at themselves, laughed at their neighbors, made fun of traditions and prejudices. I believe these are healthy expressions, necessary for the growth of better understanding and other high ideals of the Panel of Americans.

It was a wealth of information. However, I don't see the reason for having a Prize Panel. Some people can do a wonderful job on a Panel, but "freeze up" during a competition.

During the Prize Panel Competition, much more time should be spent on questions, possibly taking the competitors by categories instead of by Panels.

As Carnegie Tech has said a number of times, I feel that the whole concept of the Prize Panel Competition is not in the spirit of the Panel.

Would not one vote per delegation (college) be desirable?

The schedule was much too crowded. I realize time is short and much needs doing, but really the schedule got in the way of the learning experience. There should be several hours of scheduled free time for people to use in conversation. Cutting down the formal program would strengthen, not weaken, the conference.

I feel that the conference was slightly rushed. An extra day would have cured this problem as well as making possible a greater interchange of ideas . . . I have noted that much of the productive exchange of ideas takes place immediately following a meeting, when interest and enthusiasm is running highest.

I would like to see a three or four day conference, in order to be able to attend and assimilate the materials presented at the conference. This year's conference had too much in too short a time. More time for discussions and buzz sessions is needed. I enjoyed the conference very much and arrived home very enthusiastic and eager to help my Panel progress in a rapid and desirable fashion.

At the future conferences I would like to see more delegates from the various colleges rather than blocks of students from a particular college. I believe that the problems of the West Coast are unknown to a large majority of students who should and would be interested in them. A move to hold the next conference in San Francisco would greatly enhance one's knowledge of national problems.

Although thoroughly inspiring and wonderful, it might be stimulating to meet on another campus next year, despite reluctance at the thought of leaving the Purdue campsite.

Purdue is a good site. In a city setting, we might be tempted to cut sessions for visiting, shopping, etc.

For future conferences, I would like to offer as a program suggestion that we have a well thought-out and prepared discussion seminar concerning, "How can a Panel try to evaluate its effect upon an audience or group of audiences." This could use people from agencies like the Mayor's Commission on Human Relations who have experience in the human relations field.

I would like to suggest that there be a special feature merely for new Panel groups to be held at the very beginning of the conference. This program would explain the practical aspects and problems of initiating a new Panel.

One last note, I think that the Panel should be sent on a good-will tour of the European countries.

PANEL of AMERICANS

COMMUNITY RELATIONS BUREAU of the Jewish Federation and Council of Greater Kansas City
Room 425, 20 West 9th St. Bldg.
KANSAS CITY 6, MO.

The ~~enclosed item~~ may be of interest to you

Sidney Lawrence

LWD
PR
HCF

"Every culture has something to add to our American heritage— every person should be respected for the individual he is, without regard for race, religion or color."

Composing a "Panel of Americans" are, left to right, Mrs. Elliott Jacobson, Mrs. Margaret Holliday, Mrs. Paul Brown, Sister Christine, Mrs. Ernest Dick, and Mrs. William Wu.

PANEL of AMERICANS

by Doris Quinn

■ A vital blow at the roots of prejudice is being struck by a group of Kansas City women who are known as "A Panel of Americans."

Their approach is simple. A moderator presents the panel which is made up of a Jewess, a Negro, a Catholic nun, an "Average American" white protestant, and a Chinese. They talk before many different kinds of groups, and the eloquence of their words is fortified by their charm and sincerity. Casual acquaintance tells one these are gentlewomen, the kind of people one likes to know. And this, of course, is the crux of their message. Widely divergent backgrounds need not set us apart from each other. Every culture has something to add to our American heritage — every person should be respected for the individual he is, without regard for race, religion or color.

But come along and listen in on one of their sessions.

The moderator, Mrs. Paul Brown, begins by saying, "We are not here as experts. We are not representing our respective religions or organizations. We are only representing ourselves. The members of the panel were chosen because they have a deep interest and feeling for all individuals, regardless of their differences, and they want to help establish a clearer understanding that while we may be different in our religion, our color and our ancestry, we can still sit down together to discuss these differences."

The first panel member, a tall, tanned, extremely attractive young woman with red-brown hair and a generous smile, rises to speak. Without a trace of an accent she says, "I am Ann Jacobson, born in Berlin, Germany, a Jewess and naturalized citizen of the United States. I am the mother of three children."

She goes on to tell of her family's flight from Germany to Austria to the United States during her childhood, fleeing from Nazi persecution. She speaks briefly of her college days, when she could not be a sorority member because of her religion; of wanting to go into the diplomatic service but being warned that she would encounter prejudice; of wanting to buy a home after her marriage and finding Jews excluded from the neighborhood they had chosen. Of her religion, she says Reform Jews differ from the Orthodox Jews in the observance of certain laws and rituals. She says Reform Judaism believes in the Messianic age which will be brought about by man himself. It will only come when all men can live together in peace and brotherhood in this world..

She ends on this happy note: "Prejudice exists in many places and for many people. I find that when I take part in community activities and do my part as a citizen., people consider the job I do and not the faith to which I belong."

A second panel member, wearing a nun's habit, rises. Her pleasant face glows with good will as she begins to speak. "I am Sister Christine, one of 160,000 women in the United States who live in communities under the rules of life approved by Rome. The Sisters of Social Service, the order to which I belong, was started in Budapest and brought to this country in 1923. Our Sisters are social workers. Most of them work in parishes, in neighborhood centers, settlement houses, and Catholic charities bureaus. I am director of the Catholic Community Library here."

She smiles as she confesses, "My father is an agnostic, my mother a Catholic. We lived happily together despite the difference in their beliefs, and when I told my father of my wish to enter the convent, he said that he wanted only my happiness."

She goes on to tell of her church's beliefs. "Catholicism is a religion of revelation. The Catholic must be ready with God's help to die for his faith if necessary, and therefore to live for it, too. Catholics believe that God has revealed Himself progressively to mankind, first through nature. We believe God chose Israel to be the tool of His greatest revelation, however. And we believe this revelation came to its fullness in the person of Jesus Christ, who as God, took on our humanity in order that He might share with us His Divinity.

"He is our bond of unity, making each one of us very important. For whatever we do to one another, He says, we do to Him. This is the basis of Catholic social teaching. He will judge us on love."

Earnestly leaning forward she continues. "We need all of the minorities with common interests which flourish in America today. They enrich the whole body of our culture with fresh ideas and trends. They help keep our vast society in balance. Democracy depends for its continuance on our ability to respect one another even though we may differ.

The Kansas City Panel of Americans, an autonomous, unaffiliated program, was patterned after similar programs on college campuses.

"Today more than a score of Panels are functioning on American campuses and new Panels are in the making . . . An adult Panel has been functioning in Kansas City."

Handbook of Panel of Americans
33 E. 68th, New York 21. N.Y.

That means we must forego illogical generalizations, fears based on misinformation, and that oh, so human tendency for always broadcasting—never tuning in."

Next to rise is a beautiful Negro woman, exquisitely groomed, and smiling pleasantly. She says, "I am Margaret Holliday, a Negro, married, with two children." Her soft voice charms the audience as she tells of her girlhood in Lawrence, Kansas, where she lived in an integrated neighborhood and attended integrated schools. "Whenever I am asked to speak solely as a Negro, I find it difficult to suspend myself completely from the matrix of American culture and to think solely as a Negro. When I am asked to speak as an American I find it equally difficult to forget the injustices against my people. I can recite numerous incidents, some humorous, some embarrassing, and often inconvenient related to being a Negro. My children often feel the injustice of segregation, but I have always answered their questions truthfully. I tell them some people think we are different, but we know we are not. We only have the obligation to perform to the best of our abilities, because some folks do think we are different.

"I am a district director with the Girl Scouts, Kansas City Area Council. Recently I attended a training camp for about 35 girls, most of them white and from the south. When the course was over, a white girl named Charlene came three times to say something to me before leaving. Finally she screwed up her courage and blurted, 'Margaret, I am from Mississippi, and I am so glad that you like me.' This was quite an admission for a girl from Mississippi.

"My husband was the first Negro admitted to the University of Kansas City, enabling him to practice law. Many people who did not know us, but who believed in equality of opportunity, helped make his admission possible. This is the kind of thing that points to a richer world for your children and mine."

The next speaker is a petite, blonde woman, with sparkling blue eyes and a merry smile. "I am Jane Dick, wife of Ernest Dick, and we are the parents of three children, Larry, an Eagle Scout; Susan, a Girl Scout; and Ann, a Brownie Scout. We are all members of the Episcopal Church. I had a warm, protected, friendly girlhood. As I look backward on my growing-up years, I feel that I have been unbelievably lucky. For me no doors have ever been closed just because of my religion or race. As a youngster, I didn't have to sit in the balcony when I went to the theatre, because of the color of my skin, and I was not excluded from parties because of my religion. Today, if I have the money, I can go blithely around the world without worrying about being accepted. This makes me feel good, because I can move in an uninhibited way. All of this I enjoy, because I am a white, protestant American.

"I believe it is my particular responsibility to help make these same opportunities come true for all people. I don't mean I am going to revolutionize the world. First of all, I must be honest enough with myself to say that I need not wait for my neighbor or my minister or a bureau of human relations to give me my cue.

"I can encourage my children to make friends with children of all races and faiths, so they will begin to know how much an appreciation of our differences can add to the enrichment and understanding of life. If they should come into the house chanting, 'eenie, meenie, minie, mo, catch a nigger by the toe,' I can take them aside and say 'nigger' is a word that hurts people with brown skin. I can make sure that none of my children's friends are excluded from the parties we give just because of the faith they hold. I can be the one to take the seat beside the Negro on the bus, with a word and a smile.

"If my neighbor calls to inquire who bought the house across the street, and learning the name, says, 'Thank God they didn't sell it to Jews,' isn't there some quiet remark I can make that isn't 'holier than thou' which will make her stop and think just what it is she has said?

"I can remember that such terms as 'Jew you down,' 'fish eater,' and 'Chinaman's chance' tend to prolong the feeling that those who are different from us are somehow not quite as good as we are. I must begin then to give more than lip service to the ideal of brotherhood which we all share. When I meet anyone I will try to know him as the individual he is and not as a part of the group which he represents. Perhaps if I can remember to do these things, then at the close of the day when I bow my head in prayer, I will not wear the face of a hypocrite."

The last speaker, a lovely woman with beautiful coloring and expressive dark eyes, rises to address the group. "I am Cecil Franking Wu."

She speaks of her family background—her mother, a Caucasian American married a Chinese fellow student in an era when such interracial marriages were extremely uncommon—and the background of her husband, Dr. William Q. Wu, who became an American citizen during World War II while serving in the U. S. Army Medical Corps.

As she mentions school, church, scouting and other activities in Prairie Village where she and her husband live with their sons, Billy and Christopher, the listener gathers that the Wus are, in many ways, a typical suburban family.

The panel as a whole gives a glimpse of the varying streams which flow together in the American way of life. But each talk makes a specific point on some aspect of human relations in the community. This is clear as Mrs. Wu remarks, "One of my functions on the panel is to add that being different does not always make things more difficult. There have been times when the racial tag has been helpful. Patients have found their way to 'the Chinese neurosurgeon' who might not have had he been a man named Smith. On the other hand, my husband and other local Chinese doctors are frequently mistaken for one another.

Reprinted from
"THE SECRETARY"—JUNE, 1959
THE MILLARD MAYER FUND
COMMUNITY RELATIONS BUREAU
20 West 9th Street
Kansas City, Missouri

It may be true to some, all Chinese look alike."

Illustrating preconceived notions of a favorable kind, she continues, "People sometimes say 'The Chinese are so skillful with their hands.' Perhaps it is natural to conclude that mass manual dexterity is evidenced by the fact that all Chinese can eat with chopsticks.

"Others occasionally remark that my husband shows a stoic Eastern calm in time of crisis as though it were something derived inevitably from Buddha. Still others have given him credit for a devious Oriental cunning in ferreting out an obscure diagnosis — a sort of Charlie Chan astuteness.

"Obviously, these latter examples are not unkind in intent, nor harmful in practice. But many Chinese, Wus included, are frequently not skillful, stoic, or astute. And to assume that these are inevitable characteristics of the inscrutable Oriental is to prejudge. As such it is as irrational as summing up the entire Chinese mentality in the words, 'no tickee, no laundry.' "

The speaker concludes with an incident in which a colleague asked that a Chinese be called to interpret for an accident patient. When reminded that one was standing beside him, he exclaimed, "Oh, I forgot Bill was Chinese." This she suggests shows an ideal attitude, in which the individual, with his background known, accepted and in general, dismissed.

She has pointed out earlier that her family's loyalties are in no way divided by reason of their being so-called hyphenated Americans—that whatever traditions they cherish such as celebrating Chinese New Year's, they do in the spirit that Peking duck and Cantonese lobster are valid contributions to the American culture—that forsaking old loyalties is only right, but that rejecting one's heritage ends in loss.

She concludes, "When we can see people in terms of the individual each is, we will not refrain out of cautious delicacy from mentioning differences which do exist, nor will we assign either good or bad qualities automatically because of color or creed. Instead, we will judge as each of us would like to be judged—on the basis of our own personal character and ability."

The moderator rises to conclude the program. Earnestly she reminds the audience, "Prejudice and intolerance can only breed in our ignorance of what the other fellow and his group believes. If we will learn to take the little time we have to find out how others believe, we will not repeat statements that are damaging and inaccurate. We hope we have shown that Americans can have amity without uniformity — and agreeable disagreement.

"We can all use the lesson of the little boy who was to have a birthday party. He was making up his guest list and reading it to his mother. She stopped him at one name and asked, 'Isn't that the little boy who is colored?'

" 'I don't know,' he replied, 'but the next time I see him, I'll look.' "

PR
sgi
Return mf

Review
b
H

September 27, 1960

Mrs. Dorothy S. Bauman
Executive Director
Panel of Americans
33 East 68th Street
New York 21, New York

Dear Mrs. Bauman:

It was good to hear from you again and to learn of your continuing interest in Southern programming.

The situation does shift down here as time goes on, and I think it is wise to re-evaluate the possible role of the Panel periodically. The next time I am coming to New York I shall be glad to write ahead to see if we can find a mutually convenient time to get together. Meanwhile, as I believe you know, Paul Rilling is serving on our staff as field director and would be glad to render any advice or help he can.

Sincerely,

Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director

HCF/mf

...revive

NATIONAL COUNCIL FOR THE
PANEL OF AMERICANS
33 East 68th Street, New York 21, New York • REgent 4-2254

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

The Rev. John M. Krumm
Chairman
Mrs. George D. Cannon
Stephen R. Currier
William vanden Heuvel
Walter Hirshon
William H. Kennedy, Jr.
Mrs. Robert E. Kintner
Gustave L. Levy
Mrs. Madeleine M. Low
William T. Rafael
Paul C. Sherbet
Frank A. Weil

Mrs. Dorothy S. Bauman
Executive Director
Marian Hargrave
Associate Director

September 14, 1960

Mr. Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director
Southern Regional Conference
5 Forsyth Street, N. W. - Room 201
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Fleming:

It has been a long time since we have had an opportunity to talk and I wondered if on one of your trips to New York you could spare some time to discuss the Panel in the South.

Information has reached us that at this particular time the Panel might be of real value in developing a bridge between the dissident factions in both the religious and racial groups. We have had to curtail our program nationally because of lack of staff and of funds, but in any situation which is urgent, we can always try for a special grant.

I know how busy you must be and how many calls there are on your time when in New York, but if you can arrange it, it would be very helpful to talk with you.

Sincerely,

Dorothy S. Bauman

Dorothy S. Bauman
Executive Director

DSB:mf

PANEL OF AMERICANS

Third National Training Conference Evaluation

An opinion questionnaire was sent to the 115 students and faculty delegates from 19 universities who attended the second national training conference of the Panel of Americans held at Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana, on March 6 and 7, 1959. The 64 responses to the questionnaire received by April 17, 1959, are summarized here.

1. 43 said "I found the Conference very helpful to me."
   23 found it "somewhat helpful."
   None said it was "not very helpful."

2. 26 say there should be at future conferences about the same number of delegates.
   38 say there should be more delegates.
   None say there should be fewer delegates.

3. Tentative plans are being made for regional conferences in 1959-60.
   37 would prefer to attend a regional conference in the Fall.
   26 would prefer to attend a regional conference in the Spring.
   In the West, the best time for the conference is in the Spring.
   In the Midwest, the best time for the conference is in the Spring.
   In the East, the best time for the Conference is in the Fall.

4. 39 would prefer that the next national conference be held in the Midwest; 15 would prefer the East; 12 would prefer the far West.

5. 43 would prefer future conferences to be held on about the same schedule as this year; 22 would like the conferences to be longer; and none would prefer shorter conferences.

6. 35 would like more discussion.
   20 would like about the same balance between speakers and discussion as this year; 19 would like more buzz sessions; 9 would like more speakers.

7. Conference features were rated as follows:

	Very Helpful	Somewhat Helpful	Not Very Helpful
(a) Discussion on the South	42	11	3
(b) Panel Round-up	27	26	2
(c) Lecture on Prejudice	16	24	12
(d) Panel on Interreligious Questions	32	18	4
(e) Prize Panel Competition	34	19	5
(f) Discussion on Practical Problems of Operating a Panel	29	15	8
(g) Discussion on Use of an Agnostic on the Panel	16	8	21
(h) Lecture on the Therapy of Laughter	12	16	21
(i) Banquet	46	10	2
(j) Informal meetings, Bull Sessions, etc.	54	2	1

In THE STATUS SEEKERS by Vance Packard, just recently published, The Panel of Americans is one of the few organizations mentioned.

Following is the paragraph taken from page 336, in the chapter, "Problems of Understanding":

"An interesting experiment in promoting understanding between people who seem on the surface different is the Panel of Americans. At twenty-five American colleges and universities, teams or panels consisting typically of five students go about the countryside talking about themselves and inviting searching, blunt questions. Typically, a panel will consist of students of these five group identifications: Catholic, Puerto Rican, Jew, Negro and white Protestant. They go into high schools and junior high schools, into union halls, churches, P.T.A. meetings, etc. Each member tells what it means to be a member of his or her group. The New York University panel, for example, went to Peekskill, New York, where there had been a great deal of hostility between different groups, and appeared before junior high school students in the afternoon. That evening, the panel was to appear before the P.T.A. So many pupils insisted their parents attend that the session drew the largest crowd in the organizations history. Weeks later, reports came back to the P.T.A. that the effects of the meeting were being noted even in supermarkets where more neighborly chatting was observed between housewives of different ethnic and racial groups.

THE FORD FOUNDATION
320 EAST 43RD STREET
NEW YORK, NEW YORK 10017

JW ✓ JL ✓
MJ-fb

September 9, 1968

COPY

Dr. Ray Marshall
Department of Economics
College of Business University of Kentucky Lexington, Kentucky

Dear Ray:

Mike Miller left papers re Panola Land Buyers with me, and from what I can see, the matter is dead as far as we are concerned.

McKnight has flexibility to lend up to $25,000 if the deal would otherwise go through. Accordingly, I am filing the papers away under Panola, etc., and marked no further action required. If you see it differently, please let me know.

Sincerely yours,

Christopher F. Edley

CFE/fb
cc: Mr. Paul Anthony ✓

Please return to me - CH.

July 1, 1953

Mr. P. L. Prattis
Executive Editor
PITTSBURGH COURIER
P. O. Box 1828
Pittsburgh 30, Pa.

My dear Mr. Prattis:

Perhaps the courteous gesture would have been to have acknowledged, with thanks, your letter of May 1 and the very stimulating book which reached me shortly afterward. But I have delayed doing so with the hope that the stray ideas I have been turning over in my mind might fall together into a pattern that would make enough sense to pass along to you as a comment on Dr. Barr's revolutionary proposal. Although as yet no completely satisfactory scheme of organization has occurred to me, I am writing you what I have.

The attitudes here in America which may well prevent the early acceptance of Dr. Barr's suggestion for a "World TVA" stem from a stupid branch of isolationist thinking that, while recognizing, superficially, some of the material changes in the world situation, seems incapable of understanding the social and spiritual implications of these changes. For most of us the rapidity of technological change is beyond belief. A few weeks ago, out of curiosity, I asked the public relations office of a local TV station for an estimate of the number of receivers in our immediate area. To my amazement, I learned that there was a TV set available to every three persons within a fifty mile radius. At about the same time that I made this discovery I had occasion to take a trip to a city some four hundred miles away. The fastest train would have taken me there in nine hours; actual flying time was an hour and twenty minutes. In thinking about these things, I began to realize how commonplace they were and how casually I had accepted them. I had come to take for granted the fact that the world is one tenth the size it was in 1918 when the Armistice was signed and that people have available to them new devices of communication undreamed of thirty-five years ago. These commonplace facts have tremendous implications.

Only in the last few years have we here in America become dimly aware of the one and a half billion people of the world who are outside the immediate orbit of NATO activities. Two thirds of them, at least, have not yet taken sides with either the Russians or ourselves; they constitute the almost forgotten major portion of the so-called "free world." As Barr points out, these people are restless, they are hungry and desperate. They will not be content until their demands are satisfied. America has been thrust, willy nilly, into a position of world leadership not only because of her productive capacity and her flair for technological miracles but also, perhaps more significantly, because America is the moral "citadel of democracy"—the symbol of freedom for men everywhere.

It would appear then, on the basis of Dr. Barr's analysis, that our greatest danger lies in our reluctance to accept the challenge of moral leadership thrust upon us by our new status in world affairs. This reluctance is no more clearly demonstrated than by the persistence of discriminatory practices in dealing with the racial and religious minorities within our borders. Thus it happens that there is no group in the world today that occupies a more strategic position in international relations than the fifteen million Negroes in the United States.

They--perhaps I should say, we--are called upon to perform in a new and somewhat unfamiliar role; that of saving America from her own folly. This means, particularly, continuing to an early conclusion the fight to destroy segregation in every phase of American life. But it means more than this. The novelty and strangeness of the role lie not so much in the things we are called upon to do but rather in the reorientation of attitude that is required. The segregation fight now has taken on crucial world significance and can no longer be carried on as a purely selfish racial enterprise. It ties in closely, too, with the program outlined by Dr. Barr which induces a world view instead of a narrow nationalistic one. If America once sees the real issue for democracy which segregation poses, it will be much easier to recognize and to accept the challenge of a hungry world. The accumulated savings over just a few years of relief from the staggering financial burden of segregation would go a long way toward underwriting our, i.e., America's share in an International Development Authority. The speedy elimination of segregation here in America would give a new ring of sincerity to our words about equality and justice throughout the world. Now, it seems to me that it is high time that Negroes understand and appreciate their responsibility and challenge in this new world-setting.

I fear greatly, however, that the prevailing attitudes of Negroes I meet do not give much hope for either early recognition or complete acceptance of the implications of Dr. Barr's exciting proposals. Long preoccupation with the "Negro Problem" has fostered among Negroes a racial isolationism that is just as deadly and self-defeating as isolationism on the national level. The very efforts to break down segregation by law have served to promote segretation by free choice. Negroes tend to be "on edge" in the presence of white people; it is only when they are back behind the ghetto walls that they are completely comfortable. There is a strong sentimental attachment to what are popularly known as "our own institutions." A racial orthodoxy has developed--sometimes referred to as the "Negro Party Line"--to which all good "race" members must adhere under threat of being read out of the party. Appropriate myths have arisen such as the belief that the Mason-Dixon Line divides prejudiced from unprejudiced America; or that southern white people are all "crackers" who are trying to revive the Klan in order to keep Negroes "in place"; or that all southern Negroes are "Uncle Toms" who have to be guided and supervised by their wiser and more militant northern brothers.

Aside from these and other similar isolationist distortions--and somewhat more serious--is the undeniable fact that the continuance of segregation and the consequent delay in the acceptance of the world-citizenship idea, means the perpetuation in power and prestige of some of the very people who have been most outspoken in their opposition to the separatist doctrine. As Frazier and others have pointed out, many Negroes have vested interest in segregation. There are the proprietors of marginal Negro businesses who have managed to survive only because they have been sheltered from competition with whites. Also having a high stake in the continuance of segregation are the top administration officers of Negro educational and religious organizations; the teachers in Negro schools; the publishers of Negro newspapers and magazines; "first" and/or "only" Negroes who have recognition quite out of proportion to their abilities; black major league ballplayers and "high yellow" women; the paid officials of an ever-increasing number of race-relations committees and commissions; liberals, Negro and white, who have become so closely identified with the fight against segregation that they may not be able to adjust to a situation in which the fight is no longer necessary or appropriate. The list could be extended indefinitely.

Perhaps the cream of this isolationist crop is that select group composed of the members of Negro fraternities and sororities. Most of these Greek letter societies came into being as a reaction to discrimination and they still retain much of the narrow racism that marked their origin. Paradoxically, although these college men and women have provided the intellectual leadership for the Negro Protest, they have at the same time come to constitute the anti-intellectual nucleus of the fashionable set in Negro so-called society. It is among this elite group that racial isolationism has its strongest advocates. Here are the "B--N's" of various and sundry sizes from large to extra large--- here is the ultra-respectable contingent of the Cadillac car class. They have been among the most vehement in their denunciation of the evils of segregation. But the imminent collapse of the system fills them with dread. It is something which they did not anticipate and for which they are completely unprepared. Suddenly they have realized how much their own importance has depended upon segregation. They see their tight little world threatened and they are confused and unhappy at the prospect of its dissolution. They know where they stand as half-citizens of the United States but they are uncertain as to how they would fare as "Citizens of the World."

The moral confusion of the Negro elite seems to me to be the major obstacle to their acceptance of the challenge of world citizenship. It is my conviction that the problem of integrating America into a world community and that of integrating the Negro into American society are not separate and distinct problems but rather two aspects of the same problem. And the solution hinges, primarily, upon the achievement of a new perspective. I have tried to point out some of the difficulties that stand in the way. For Negroes, what is involved is a transfer of allegiance from a racial group to the idea of world cooperation. However necessary racial solidarity may have been in the past in order to give force to the Negro Protest and to counteract racial inferiority feelings, I believe that the time has now come when aggressive race consciousness may be a serious handicap to the assimilative process. At some point, racial self-respect must give way to respect for the dignity of human individual of whatever race or nationality. We should devote our efforts not to bettering race relations but to eliminating them. Perhaps we can come to believe what the anthropologists have been telling us all along: that there is no such entity as the Negro race or, for that matter, any other race.

Do not mistake me. I do not believe that the millenium is "just around the corner." Nor do I believe that the impending Supreme Court decisions will automatically and immediately bring about a change in attitudes toward Negroes in the United States. But I do contend that to become citizens of the world we must begin to think in world terms rather than racial terms. We have got to revamp our point of view so as to take into account the technological advances that have occurred in the last few decades. People like yourself who exert some influence upon public opinion, can do much to hasten this reorientation.

With kindest personal regards, I remain

Very truly yours,

C. H. Parrish
Department of Sociology
University of Louisville

FBR

April 19, 1955

Dr. C.H. Parrish
SRC Consultant
926 S. Sixth St.
Louisville, Ky.

Dear C.H.:

This letter came today from Beckman. Fred has wired him asking that he send you a copy of the enclosures. We are also wondering whether your schedule is such that you could spend a weekend in Atlanta around the end of the month.

Questions which have been raised by Sutherland (Texas) have resulted in the suggestion that you and/or Fred and/or GSN plan to attend the next meeting of their Executive and Program Planning Committee. A wire from him this morning as follows:

> "Please wire what day you prefer to attend executive committee meeting, Austin, April 29 to May 7, 29 being preferred."

Let us know which of these are possible or best for you. Thanks for the wonderful clips. They are being circulated. So proud of Kentucky!

Cordially,

(Mrs.) Grace T. Hamilton
Assistant Director for Program

GTH:rnf
encl: Beckman ltr.4/18/55

CLASS OF SERVICE

This is a fast message unless its deferred character is indicated by the proper symbol.

WESTERN UNION

TELEGRAM

W. P. MARSHALL, PRESIDENT

SYMBOLS

DL=Day Letter

NL=Night Letter

AMT=International Letter Telegram

The filing time shown in the date line on domestic telegrams is STANDARD TIME at point of origin. Time of receipt is STANDARD TIME at point of destination

AA21 DA098

U ATLANTA

D. AUA147 PD=AUSTIN TEX 19 935AMC=

GEORGE S MITCHELL=

EXEC SECY SOUTHERN REGIONAL COUNCIL

63 AUBURN ST NORTHEAST ATLA=

APR 19 1955

11:15 am

PLEASE WIRE WHAT DAY YOU PREFER TO ATTEND EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETING AUSTIN APRIL 29 TO MAY 7, 29TH BEING PREFERRED=

TOM SUTHERLAND=

Sam - apr. 28

29 7 29=

THE COMPANY WILL APPRECIATE SUGGESTIONS FROM ITS PATRONS CONCERNING ITS SERVICE

Fred Smith

December 22, 1955

Mr. C.H. Parrish
926 South 6th Street
Louisville, Kentucky

Dear C.H.:

I have been in correspondence with the Council's President as to the attendance by staff members at the forthcoming meeting of the Executive Committee at New Orleans (at Dillard) January 20 and 21.

That series of meetings falls neatly into three sessions: Friday afternoon, beginning at 2:00 p.m., Friday evening, and Saturday morning. In the last meeting of the Executive Committee (shortly before the Board met) it had been agreed that the Executive Committee would at its subsequent meetings have a period in which no staff members were present, a period in which some were, and a period in which only the Executive Director, from the staff, would be with the Committee.

It is agreed that the New Orleans meeting will be one in which, during the Friday afternoon session, the Executive Director and the four assistant directors and the secretary-treasurer, will be present, with a view to supplying maximum information to the Committee, I expect we should absent ourselves for the Friday night session, at which time the Committee will presumably get further with decision as to the presence of staff at its meetings-both for the remainder of the New Orleans meeting, and for subsequent Executive Committee meetings.

So please plan to be on hand in New Orleans for the afternoon of January 20, and available to the Committee for the morning of January 21.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:mef
P.S.: GSA can book accomodation for us at Dillard or wherever.

Arkansas---Texas---Louisiana---Mississippi---Alabama

CHP file

It is difficult to break down into state units my trip through the states mentioned above. My visits were brief and impressions were gained from conversations with the people who happened to be available at the time. My time schedule was so tight that up to now no organization of my notes has been possible. S. C., Fla., and Tenn. will be reported on after my second visit to each of these states. Actually Arkansas and Louisiana were not on my list for intensive work since it was felt that these two states were well on the way toward the completion of their organization. Louisiana has already selected a state director.

From Memphis I called Greenville, Mississippi in order to arrange a meeting with Mr. Hodding Carter. He is in New England for the summer and the projected trip to Greenville was given up. In Little Rock on Tuesday, July 27, there was considerable excitement over the primary elections for Governor and U.S. Senator. Mr. Harry Ashmore told me that nothing had been done in organizing the SRC because of the elections. He felt, however that some steps would be taken as soon as the primary was over. His idea of the organization centered around getting several big names to give prestige to the Council. It was not quite clear to me how this would be done or how effective such a plan would be getting things started.

Mississippi

From the point of view of SRC organization the trip to Mississippi was disappointing. The Chairman was away for the Summer and only one city, Jackson, was visited. The plan to see Hodding Carter at Greenville fell through when I learned that he, too, had left the state to spend the Summer in Maine. Mrs Ruby Lyles and Dr Reddix (Pres. Jackson College) were helpful but had no clear idea of what should be done in the State . Mrs Lyles had been mentioned as a possible candidate for the job of State Director but she did not manifest much enthusiasm for field work. Dr. Reddix thought a man should do the job and Bishop Gerow felt that the man should be white.

I got to Jackson just a few days after a group of Negro leaders had refused to approve Governor White's plan for voluntary segregation and the papers were full of pro and con discussion of alternative plans to get around the Supreme Court decision. This seemed to me such a significant event that I took the opportunity to make inquiries of some of the key figures not only to get a clear picture of what had really occurred but also to test the atmosphere in which SRC would work in Mississippi. Most informative were my conversations with W. M. Lauderdale of the DAILY NEWS staff and with Purser Hewitt of the CLARION-LEDGER. Both of them suggested that the situation in Mississippi was confused by political considerations and no clear picture was possible.

A talk with Governor White was not enlightening. He appeared to be disillusioned over what he considered the treachery of Negro leadership and seemed unable to grasp the meaning of what had occurred.

October 22, 1963

To: Women For Progress

Enclosed are copies of the statement and the explanatory sheet approved by Women For Progress on October 15. We know that you are eager to give those women you agreed to contact, the opportunity to endorse it. (We enclose for your information a partial list of the women who initiated this effort).

It was agreed on October 15 that our statement would be more effective if the signatures were identified with the groups in which they hold leadership roles. However, if this is not possible individuals may sign.

Our agreement that this effort must be completed promptly is of the utmost importance. We shall meet on Thursday morning, November 7th at 10:30 at the YWCA (72 Edgewood Avenue, N. E.) to receive the signed statements.

We know that each of you wants to be a part of Atlanta Women For Progress. Our witness at this time is imperative!

(Mrs.) Grace T. Hamilton
Coordinator
Telephone: 688-7249

(Mrs.) Pat Leak
Secretary - Treasurer
Telephone: 636-4964

We Believe in Atlanta!

As women deeply concerned with the welfare of our city, we endorse and commend the appeal of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce with regard to making the commercial facilities of Atlanta available to all citizens.

We applaud the program of those business leaders with awareness that cooperation and interdependence are necessary to Atlanta's growth.

We pledge our economic support to those businessmen who continue to recognize their responsibility to our city. WE ALSO URGE ALL MEMBERS OF OUR ORGANIZATIONS TO PATRONIZE THOSE WHO MAKE THEIR GOODS AND SERVICES AVAILABLE TO EVERYONE.

We reaffirm our faith in Atlanta and the Atlanta way of Progress!

WOMEN FOR PROGRESS

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

* Organization given for identification only.

Mrs. Edward Askren, Jr. (*Atlanta - YWCA)

Mrs. Howard Aronin (*Atlanta Council, B'nai B'rith)

Mrs. J. W. E. Bowen (*Atlanta - YWCA)

Mrs. Janet Boyte

Mrs. S. F. Crank

Mrs. David Edwards (*Atlanta League of Women Voters)

Mrs. George Gunning (*Atlanta Council of Catholic Women)

Mrs. Henry Cook Hamilton (*Southern Regional Council)

Mrs. Oze Horton (*National Board - YWCA)

Mrs. Sidney Janus (*Atlanta Association for the United Nations)

Mrs. James R. Leak (*Atlanta United Church Women)

Mrs. William Pauley (*Georgia Council on Human Relations)

Mrs. B. E. Mays (*Georgia United Church Women)

Mrs. Ray Mitchell

Mrs. H. S. Murphy (*International League for Peace & Freedom)

Mrs. Phil B. Narmore (*Georgia United Church Women)

Mrs. Walter Paschall

Mrs. Sally Ponikarski (*COPE A.F. of L. - C.I.O.)

Mrs. M. E. Tilly (*Meth. Church Women's Society for Christian Service)

Mrs. H. B. Trimble

GEORGIA COUNCIL ON HUMAN RELATIONS
41 EXCHANGE PLACE, S. E. • ATLANTA, GEORGIA 30303

THE REVEREND CHARLES DEMERÉ
CHAIRMAN

TELEPHONE
525-6468

DR. LIONEL NEWSOM
FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT

MR. A. J. McCLUNG
SECOND VICE-PRESIDENT

MRS. HARRY V. RICHARDSON
SECRETARY

MR. JOHNNY GLUSTROM
TREASURER

MRS. FRANCES PAULEY
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

THE REVEREND OLIVER W. HOLMES
ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR

file "WO" Gen Corresp.

November 13, 1963

Mr. Leslie Dunbar
Southern Regional Council
5 Forsyth Street
Atlanta, Georgia

file

Dear Les:

It looks today as if our Women For Progress will be a success. Much work has gone into it. Our office has stood the major part of the expenses. Mrs. Hamilton, the coordinator, has carried the bulk of the work. Although we consider it a legitimate part of our work a contribution of some $300.00 would be most acceptable.

Pat Leak is the treasurer. A check to Women For Progress - % Mrs. James R. Leak, 1942 Vance Drive, N.E. Atlanta, Georgia 30329, would be most appreciated.

Many thanks.

Sincerely,

Frances

Mrs. Frances Pauley

FP/es

Women For Progress

November 13, 1963

Dear Sir:

We believe you will be interested in the attached release describing a presentation made today to the Board of Directors of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce. The scroll was accompanied by signatures of endorsement from more than 600 Atlanta area women holding leadership roles in more than 100 civic and religious organizations.

We hope that this evidence of support for the Chamber of Commerce's policy regarding public accommodations in our city will encourage you to exert your efforts to make our community free of discriminatory practices.

Yours sincerely,

WOMEN FOR PROGRESS

(Mrs.) Grace T. Hamilton
Coordinator

FROM: "WOMEN FOR PROGRESS" Mrs. Grace Hamilton, Coordinator 688-7249

FOR RELEASE AFTER 2:00 P.M. WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1963

MRS. EDWARD M. VINSON'S REMARKS TO THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE ATLANTA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ON WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1963

Last summer, five Atlanta women attended a conference in Washington at the invitation of the President. More than 300 national women's organizations were represented. The conference was convened to determine what role women could play in alleviating tensions and eliminating discrimination from all areas of American life. Atlanta was cited as one of the cities which has dealt most successfully with the problems of this transitional period.

This fall it was decided that Atlanta could not afford to sit back and rest on her successful image. "Women For Progress" came into being as a co-ordinating effort by leaders of key community women's organizations who feel that Atlanta's hard-won reputation for progress in race relations may be threatened.

We believe that all community leaders have a special responsibility to speak out.

The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce has urged that "all businesses soliciting business from the general public do so without regard to race, creed or color." As women deeply concerned with the welfare of our city, we commend the Atlanta

Chamber of Commerce for having spoken. We hope that you will give further support to those businessmen who have recognized their responsibility to our city. We know that you will continue to exert your leadership so that there will be no confusion about public accommodations in Atlanta. We are thankful that Atlanta has men who can rise to the challenge of our rapidly changing times ... and keep our city the pace-setter of the South.

FROM: WOMEN FOR PROGRESS Mrs. Grace Hamilton, Coordinator 688-7249

FOR RELEASE AFTER 2:00 P.M. WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1963

Text of scroll presented to Board of Directors of Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

We Believe in Atlanta!

As women deeply concerned with the welfare of our city, we endorse and commend the appeal of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce with regard to making the commercial facilities of Atlanta available to all citizens.

We applaud the program of those business leaders with awareness that cooperation and interdependence are necessary to Atlanta's growth.

We pledge our economic support to those businessmen who continue to recognize their responsibility to our city. WE ALSO URGE ALL MEMBERS OF OUR ORGANIZATIONS TO PATRONIZE THOSE WHO MAKE THEIR GOODS AND SERVICES AVAILABLE TO EVERYONE.

We reaffirm our faith in Atlanta and the Atlanta way of Progress!

WOMEN FOR PROGRESS

FROM: "WOMEN FOR PROGRESS" Mrs. Grace Hamilton, Coordinator 688-7249

FOR RELEASE AFTER 2:00 P.M. WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1963

WOMEN LEADERS LAUD CHAMBER'S "OPEN CITY" STAND

Mrs. Edward M. Vinson, former President of the Georgia League of Women Voters, was spokesman for more than 600 Atlanta area women with leadership roles in over 100 Civic and Religious Organizations in a special presentation to the Board of Directors of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Uniting under the banner of "Women for Progress" the organizational leaders praised the Chamber's efforts to make Atlanta's commercial facilities available to all citizens.

"We feel that all community leaders have a special responsibility to speak out," Mrs. Vinson said. "As women deeply concerned with the welfare of our city, we applaud the program of those business leaders with awareness that cooperation and interdependence are necessary to Atlanta's growth. We pledge our economic support to those businessmen who continue to recognize their responsibility to our city. We also urge all members of our organizations to patronize those who make their goods and services available to everyone!"

Mrs. Vinson emphasized that "Women for Progress" is not a formal organization in the accepted sense, but a coordinating effort by leaders of key community women's groups who feel that Atlanta's hard-won reputation for progress in race relations may be threatened "unless all segments of the community respond to the Chamber of Commerce's appeal for all businesses to serve the public without regard to race, creed or color."

Among the more than 600 signers of the scroll presented to the Chamber were:

Leaders of major cultural groups of the city including The Atlanta Symphony Guild, The Atlanta Art Association and The Atlanta Arts Festival; persons prominent among the educational leadership; outstanding alumnae of Agnes Scott, Emory, Smith, Wellesley and Vassar as well as other college alumnae associations and leaders of national women's organizations with strong Atlanta chapters.

Among the signers were 13 former Atlanta Women of the Year including: Mrs. Thomas Breeden, Mrs. Mary Kate Duskin, Mrs. Ernest Felber, Mrs. Guthrie Foster, Mrs. Leonard Haas, Mrs. Marianna Knox, Mrs. Celestine S. Little, Mrs. Carolyn Becknell Mann, Mrs. Fred Patterson, Mrs. J. O'H. Sanders, Mrs. T. Ervin Schneider, Mrs. Mamie K. Taylor and Mrs. Richard Trotter.

Among the other prominent persons signing the endorsement were the following: Mrs. Cecil Alexander, Mrs. Wallace M. Alston, Mrs. Sanford S. Atwood, Mrs. Howard Aronin (Atlanta Council B'nai B'rith), Mrs. Edward Askren, Jr. (Atlanta YWCA), Mrs. S. F. Crank (Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority), Mrs. Edward Driscoll, Mrs. David Edwards (Atlanta League of Women Voters), Mrs. Herbert Elsas (Atlanta Wellesley Club), Mrs. George Gunning (Atlanta Council of Catholic Women), Dr. Justina Hill (Smith College Club of Atlanta), Mrs. Oze Horton (National Board - YWCA), Mrs. Sidney Janus (Atlanta Association for the United Nations), Mrs. James R. Leak (Atlanta United Church Women), Mrs. B. E. Mays (Morehouse College), Mrs. Robert MacDougall, Mrs. James Mackay (Agnes Scott Alumnae), Mrs. Sam Massell, Jr. (The Temple Sisterhood), Mrs. G. Ray Mitchell, Mrs. H. S. Murphy (Atlanta University Women's Club), Mrs. Sally Ponikarski (AFL-CIO), Mrs. H. V. Richardson (Inter-Denominational Theological Center), Mrs. Jacob Rothchild, Mrs. M. B. Satterfield (National Girl Scout Council), Mrs. Henry Toombs, Miss Josephine Wilkins (Southern Regional Council) and Mrs. P. Q. Yancey.

(more)

At the invitation of the President, some of us recently attended a conference in Washington where more than 300 national women's organizations were represented. The conference was convened to determine what role women could play in alleviating tensions and eliminating discrimination from all areas of American life.

Atlanta was cited as one of the cities which has dealt most successfully with the problems of this transitional period. But we cannot afford to rest on our successful reputation. We must reaffirm our belief that cooperation and interdependence are the keys to Atlanta's well being.

We feel that all community leaders have a special responsibility to speak out. Other cities where the respected leadership remained silent, are now suffering fearful consequences.

One effective way to speak is to give widespread endorsement to the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce's position, which urged,

> "all businesses soliciting business from the general public to do so without regard to race, creed or color ....."

We can thus buttress the Chamber's determination to keep Atlanta growing. Ours is not a formal organization, but a group of women with concern for our city's future. Your outstanding service to the community prompts us to invite you to join in signing the attached statement.

Vernon file

This is a complete file — except for one matter now in process —
Name of the I brought Program —
it — look it up get mailed to SRC's
file

file Cabinet #18 drawer (2) SRC - File

file

To: Women for Progress →

From: Grace T. Hamilton - Coordinator

Report of developments:

Following the meeting on Nov. 13 at which the WOMEN FOR PROGRESS' scroll and endorsing signatures was presented to the Board of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, a policy statement was released by the Chamber reaffirming its earlier position and adding "...in the areas of service to the general public and in employment opportunities, the Chamber of Commerce believes that the business community, voluntarily and without legislation or other pressure, should immediately begin to eliminate discrimination based upon race or color, in those areas where such discrimination exists....."

The Atlanta Board of Aldermen at a regular meeting on Nov. 18, refused to act upon a resolution introduced by Aldermen Cook, Fowlkes and Freeman calling for the voluntary elimination of discrimination based on race or color in places of business serving the public, and referred the proposed resolution to committee. A public hearing on this matter is planned by the chairman of the committee, Mr. Cecil Turner.

It has been suggested that the individuals and groups associated in Women for Progress' endorsement of the Chamber's policy and of businessmen who have recognized their responsibility to our city may wish to express their concern to the Board of Aldermen.

Letters or wires should —

(1) call attention to the crucial importance of official recognition by Atlanta's elected representatives that discrimination based on race or color is detrimental to the progress, and welfare of our city and is contrary to good public policy;

(2) urge prompt action by the Board of Aldermen to clarify the official position of the city's government upon the elimination of discriminatory practices based on race by business serving the public in our city.

Messages should be sent to the President of the Board of Aldermen for the Board's attention and to the chairman of the Legislative Committee.

Mr. Sam Massell, Jr., President Atlanta Board of Aldermen;
40 Pryor Street, S. W.
Mr. Cecil Turner, Chairman Legislative Committee;
Office: 530 Candler Building
Res.: 1779 Merton Road, N. E.

REMINDER: Meeting Women's Coordinating Committee - Dec. 3, 11 a.m.
YWCA - 72 Edgewood Avenue, N. E.

TO: WOMEN FOR PROGRESS

FROM: GRACE T. HAMILTON - COORDINATOR
PAT LEAK - SECRETARY - TREASURER

RE: Summary of Action - Suggestions for "follow up" - made at meeting, November 7, 1963.

1. It was agreed that the arrangements for presentation of the scroll and endorsement signatures would be made by the Coordinator after consultation with the Chamber of Commerce. (News releases sent under separate cover).

2. It was agreed that WOMEN FOR PROGRESS was not an "organization" - but a coordinated effort for this project - and that as such would not exist after the presentation on November 13th - but that a group to be known as the Women's Coordinating Committee would meet again on December 3rd, at 11:00 a. m. at the Y. W. C. A. - 72 Edgewood Avenue, N. E. - to consider possible individual or collective programs. All persons who have had a part in this "project" are welcome.

3. It was agreed that a letter should be sent to members of the Board of Aldermen, the Boards of Fulton and DeKalb County Commissioners, and to members of the Georgia General Assembly from the Metropolitan Atlanta area, and to the Boards of Business Associations concerned with public accommodations calling their attention to the evidence of community support for the Chamber of Commerce's policy represented by the signatures of endorsement accompanying the scroll presented by Women for Progress on November 13.

4. It was suggested that the period from November 15 to December 1, be devoted to "Confrontation" by persons and groups who signed the endorsement. It was proposed that persons signing the endorsement of the Chamber of Commerce's policy - might ask for the manager of the business (hotel, motel or restaurant) when using their facilities and express the hope that the facilities and services were available to all without discrimination; if the answer was affirmative, the response would indicate congratulations and support for the manager's policy; if the answer was negative, the response would indicate regret and the hope that the policy would be reconsidered in the light of the city's best welfare.

5. The importance of individucals urging the religious leadership of our city to speak out upon the necessity of our city becoming free from discrimating practices was stressed.

It was suggested that the good experience of one religious group in the community resulting from having a bi-racial panel appear before various community groups, might be tried by others. The areas discussed by the panel were: the history of segregation, the Jim Crow era, race and science, the moral aspect of segregation, the right of the Church to teach.

6. It was suggested that it was important for individuals to raise the question of "open" membership without racial limitation, in all groups to which they belong concerned with the city's religious, cultural, civic and social welfare.

It was suggested that the week of November 24, to December 1, be utilized by individuals who believe that passage of the Civil Rights Bill is important, as Writing for Rights week.

It was suggested that "Writing Coffees" might be organized by members of organizations who are supporting. Letters should be sent to our Senators and Representatives and copies to all members of the Senate Judiciary Committee and to members of the House Rules Committee. (Suggestions are attached for letters - and the names and addresses of members of the committees - and of the Georgia members of Congress).

MEMBERSHIP OF THE SENATE JUDICIARY COMMITTEE:

James O. Eastland, Miss - Chairman
Suite 2241, New Senate Office Building
Washing 25, D. C.

Olin D. Johnston, S. C.
Suite 3203, New Senate Office Building
Washington 25, D. C.

John L. McClellan, Ark.
Suite 3241, New Senate Office Building
Washington 25, D. C.

Sam J. Ervin, Jr., N. C.
Suite 337, Senate Office Building
Washington 25, D. C.

Thomas J. Dodd, Conn.
Suite 105, Senate Office Building
Washington 25, D. C.

Philip A. Hart, Mich.
Suite 362, Senate Office Building
Washington 25, D. C.

Edward V. Long, Mo.
Suite 3107, New Senate Office Building
Washington 25, D. C.

Edward M. Kennedy, Mass.
Suite 432, Senate Office Building
Washington 25, D. C.

Birch Bayh, Ind.
Suite 1205, New Senate Office Building
Washington 25, D. C.

Everett McKinley Dirkson, Illinois
Suite 204, Senate Office Building
Washington 25, D. C.

Roman L. Hruska, Neb.
Suite 313, Senate Office Building
Washington 25, D. C.

Kenneth B. Keating, N. Y.
Suite 315, Senate Office Building
Washington 25, D. C.

Hiram L. Fong, Hawaii
Suite 1109, New Senate Office Building
Washington 25, D. C.

Hugh Scott, Pa.
Suite 451, Senate Office Building
Washington 25, D. C.

MEMBERSHIP OF THE HOUSE RULES COMMITTEE:

Howard W. Smith, Va., Chairman
House of Representatives
Washington 25, D. C.

Ray J. Madden, Ind.
House of Representatives
Washington 25, D. C.

James J. Delaney, N. Y.
House of Representatives
Washington 25, D. C.

James W. Trimble, Ark.
House of Representatives
Washington, D. C.

William M. Colmer, Miss.
House of Representatives
Washington 25, D. C.

Homer Thornberry, Texas
House of Representatives
Washington 25, D. C.

Richard Bolling, Mo.
House of Representatives
Washington 25, D. C.

Thomas P. O'Neill, Jr., Mass.
House of Representatives
Washington 25, D. C.

Carl Elliott, Ala.
House of Representatives
Washington 25, D. C.

B. F. Sisk, Calif.
House of Representatives
Washington 25, D. C.

Clarence J. Brown, Ohio
House of Representatives
Washington 25, D. C.

Katharine St. George, N. Y.
House of Representatives
Washington 25, D. C.

H. Allen Smith, Calif.
House of Representatives
Washington 25, D. C.

Elmer J. Hoffman, Illinois
House of Representatives
Washington 25, D. C.

William H. Avery, Kan.
House of Representatives
Washington 25, D. C.

SAMPLE LETTERS

The Honorable (Name of Senator)
Senate Office Building
Washington 25, D. C.

or

The Honorable (Name of Congressman)
House of Representatives
Washington 25, D. C.

Dear (Senator_____, or Congressman_____):

It is my earnest belief that the Civil Rights issue involves the basic foundation upon which our democracy rests: the right of all men to equality before God and under the law. This should come before any consideration of partisan politics or regional prejudice.

I hope that you will vote for civil rights in this session of Congress.

Sincerely yours,
(Name)
(Address)

. . . . . .

Dear (Senator_____, or Congressman_____):

As an American citizen who believes in the dignity and equality of all men as guaranteed by the Consitiution, I hope that you will vote for meaningful civil rights legislation during this session of Congress.

Sincerely yours,
(Name)
(Address)

. . . . . .

Dear (Senator_____, or Congressman_____):

The future of our country depends upon whether we will live up to the challenge of universal brotherhood.

Your vote for civil rights during this session of Congress will help to make this a reality.

Sincerely yours,
(Name)
(Address)

Cr. ref
New World
Contingency Fund

November 14, 1963

Mrs. James R. Leak
1942 Vance Drive, N. E.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Mrs. Leak:

Enclosed is our check in the amount of $300.00 to help defray your expenses for your recent program of open public accommodations in Atlanta.

With very best wishes,

Sincerely yours,

Leslie W. Dunbar
Executive Director

LWD/mmj
Enclosure - 1. (Check #

cc: Mrs. Frances Pauley

New Women (contingency fund)

Nov. 14, 1963

RHA MMJ

Ruth,

Would you please make out a check for $300.00 to ~~Mrs.&&James&&R&&Leak~~ WOMEN FOR PROGRESS, %Mrs. James R. Leak. Les says this amount should be charged to our CONTINGENCY FUND.

thanx, mmj

file
Partners for Progress

March 13, 1964

Mrs. Edward M. Vinson
328 Chelsea Circle, N. E.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Betty:

Enclosed is our check for $150.00.

As we agreed over the telephone, it seems simpler to advance this sum in a lump rather than reimburse specific bills as they come in up to this sum.

It is my understanding that Partners for Progress will "replace" this amount into the funds we are holding for program purposes when you are able. Perhaps this can be done most simply by some kind of bookkeeping adjustment later on.

With best wishes,

Sincerely yours,

Leslie W. Dunbar
Executive Director

LWD/mmj
cc: Mrs. DeJongh Franklin
enclosure - 1. (Check #2768, $150.00)

Mrs. Edward M. Vinson
328 Chelsea Circle N. E.
Atlanta 7, Georgia

March 12, 1964

Mr. Les Dunbar
Southern Regional Council
5 Forsyth Street, N.W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Les,

Since I did not get down to the office as planned today, I am sending this account of money spent to date for the initial steps of "Partners for Progress". This does not include the bill for the newspaper ad.

Stamps and stamped envelopes-	$5.00-	first mailing to organizations
	$48.00-	mailing to individuals
P.O. Box for March--------	1.50
Photo off-set letters (1000)	17.51-(	individuals- invitation to support and attend March 17 meeting)
Return address rubber stamp-	3.46
Postage to Nat'l Committee-	1.13	(Women's Committee on Civil Rights)
Total:	$ 76.60

This is what I have spent to date on "Partners for Progress". When I talked with Phoebe Franklin, I told her w e would replace any money from "the fund" advanced for operations until we can raise some other money. We agreed on a limit of $150 for this little revolving "door".

Thanks again for all your help and support- AND patience.

Sincerely,
Betty A. Vinson
Mrs. EdwardmM. Vinson

150.00
Partners for Progress

Sorry, but we did not get postal receipts for stamps and envelopes. Other receipts attached -

Always show your P.O. Box Number in your return address

SEE REGULATIONS ON REVERSE — ORIGINAL — 166

RECEIVED FROM (Name of patron): Partners for Progress Mrs. Ed. M. Vinson

RENT FOR (Box No.): 15238

FOR PERIOD ENDING (Date): March 30, 1964

AMOUNT RECEIVED: $ 1.50

DATING STAMP: MAR - 4 1964

PAYMENT RECEIVED BY (Initials of Postmaster or Accepting Clerk): R.W. Lee

Emory University Station, Atlanta, Ga. 30333

POD FORM 1538 SEP. 1959 — BOX RENT RECEIPT

FORM NO. 1793

AMERICAN SEAL & STAMP COMPANY
33 AUBURN AVENUE, N. E. PHONE: JA 3-5547
ATLANTA, GEORGIA 30303

No. 18535

DATE 3/10 1964

RECEIVED FROM Mrs Vinson

~~two~~ three dollars + 46 DOLLARS $ 3.46

FOR stamps + Pad

AMOUNT OF ACCOUNT $

AMOUNT PAID . . . . . $ THANK YOU.

BALANCE DUE . . . . . $

CASH ☐ CHECK ☐ M. O. ☐

AMERICAN SEAL & STAMP COMPANY

BY MH

3.46
.33 Postage
24.00
27.79

REGULATIONS REGARDING COLLECTION OF BOX RENT

Collections shall be made on or before the beginning of a calendar quarter for the entire quarter or in advance for the current fiscal year. Box patrons are required to pay rental on post-office boxes in advance for a quarter or for not more than one full fiscal year, July 1 to June 30, next, or for the quarters remaining in the fiscal year. If a box holder fails to renew his right to his box on or before the last day of the period for which rented, the box shall then be closed and offered for rent and the mail placed in the general delivery, unless deliverable by carrier.

GPO 16—15837-8

TELEPHONE 522-5118

EAGLE-EMPIRE
LITHOGRAPHING-PRINTING

81 WALTON ST., N. W.—ATLANTA, GEORGIA

Sold To:

Mrs. EM Vinson
Partners for Progress

DATE: 3/5/64

INVOICE NO.: 157-C

1000 Front and back -		$ 16.00
	Tax	.48
		$ 16.48
	Fold —	1.03
		$ 17.51

Paid ok
3-9-64

—PLEASE PAY BY INVOICES.

NO STATEMENTS RENDERED—UNLESS REQUESTED BY CUSTOMER—EXCEPT ON PAST-DUE ACCOUNTS—

Your Business Is Appreciated—THANKS

Rec'd 3/23/64

328 Chelsea Circle, N.E.
Atlanta 7, Georgia
March 21, 1964

LM
PAV
LDV

Mr. Leslie W. Dunbar
Executive Director
SOUTHERN REGIONAL COUNCIL
5 Forsyth Street, N.E.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Les,

Because "your man" did not have a chance to attend the March 17 PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS meeting, I am sending you a copy of my remarks that day. There is nothing fancy or special about them; but I finally did type them up from my written notes.

The only reason I spoke of myself at all was my feeling that many would come who did not know me and might wonder what I was up to, anyway. When - or if- there are minutes from the meeting, I shall send them along too.

You will note that the order of prodedure was changed slightly from that on the agenda, and that I did not use the Kennedy record. I did not have time to tape the section I wanted to use.

I am somewhat reluctant to send this copy of remarks along because it looks so rather formal on paper. Actually, the meeting was rather a relaxed, casual affair. Even without the proper launching champagne, the feeling was somewhat "bubbly," and I hope we can keep it this way.

You wom't mind if I sign off,

Fondly,

Betty

Mrs. Edward M. Vinson

File: Partners for Progress

PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS: MEETING ON MARCH 17, 1964

AGENDA

CALL TO ORDER: BETTY VINSON 10.30

BRIEF STATEMENT OF PURPOSE: SAME

ADOPTION OF BY-LAWS: MRS. SIDNEY Q. JANUS (To be read with changes included. After read in entirety and Leah moves adoption, discussion and amendment will be in order.)

ELECTION OF OFFICERS: MRS. CECIL ALEXANDER (Presents slate for steering committee, moves adoption. We may or may not have nominations from the floor.)

REPORT ON GRADY ACTIVITIES: MRS. HAMILTON LOKEY* (NOT for press to mention or comment on. May omit because of time.)

INTRODUCTION OF SPEAKER: MRS. H.C. HAMILTON

SPEAKER: MR. HAMILTON DOUGLAS, CHAIRMAN OF MAYOR'S COORDINATING COMMITTEE

REGISTRATION- by distribution of cards to be completed for record of attendance and interest in working.

GRAND SEND-OFF: A. RESOLUTION OF COMMITMENT, MRS. DAVID NEIMAN

B. VINSON- or KENNEDY RECORD

****

NOMINATING COMMITTEE REPORT

CHAIRMAN: MRS EDWARD M. VINSON

Vice- chairman: Mrs. ~~Sidney Q. Janus~~ Henry Cook Hamilton
Mrs. Sidney Q. Janus
Mrs. George L. Gunning
Mrs. Fred W. Patterson

Secretary: Mrs. Hamilton Lokey

Treasurer: Mrs. J.R. Wilson, Jr.

ADDITIONL EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEMBERS

Mrs. Cecil Alexander, Mrs. Edward L. ~~Askren~~ Askren, Jr., Mrs. Dan Berge, Mrs. DeJongh Franklin

Mrs. Donald Ross Green, Mrs. David Neiman, Mrs. Harry V. Richardson

PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS: LAUNCHING MEETING, MARCH 17, 1964

(NOTES FROM B. VINSON REMARKS)

Call to order- 10.30- Thanks to Y.W.C.A. for meeting space, etc.

Telegram from Mayor Ivan Allen: "May I commend you as you launch Partners For Progress and express my appreciation for your desire to be of assistance to your city."

STATEMENT OF PURPOSE FOR PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS

"We, the steering committee of Partners for Progress, called you together today-

-not to start a new organization or an additional series of meetings; not because we feel existing organizations are failing to do what needs to be done.

Rather, we called you together because of the intense need for a rallying point around which to coordinate the varied activities and the underlying "good will" now existing.

We called you together so that we could give public notice to the community that we are joining hands to help create a community genuinely and openly concerned about the quality of life for all its citizens.

"Partners for Progress", as a movement, is rising from a groundswell demonstrated in another effort known as "Women for Progress". That group was formed last Fall as a committee to commend and support the appeal for voluntary integration made by the Chamber of Commerce.

It consisted of some 600 women leaders representing approximately 100 civic, philanthropic, religious and cultural groups. "Women for Progress" limited its activity to securing endorsements of the Chamber resolution urging Atlanta businesses to make their services and facilities available to all on an equal basis. This endorsement, in the form of a scroll was presented to the Board of the Chamber. The scroll contained also a pledge of the signers to patronize those businesses making their goods and services available to everyone, and to urge their organizations to do the same.

This effort was considered so valuable that when civic leaders began searching for a longer-termed effort in this direction, they turned to "Women for Progress". The original leaders were called together to determine what role they could play, or whether any new group was needed in the community. The outcome of that meeting is coming to fruition today in this meeting called to launch "Partners for Progress".

We shall not limit our efforts to supporting business, eating and lodging enterprises making their facilities and services available too all. Rather, we are joining hands in an united effort to make progress toward:

ONE: individual growth in awareness of the human needs of the Atlanta Metropolitan area;

TWO-PROGRESS TOWARD: Expanded opportunities to achieve equally available opportunites for all in education, employment, health, housing, services, etc.
and
THREE- PROGRESS TOWARD: a climate of opinion supporting those goals.

To do this successfully we must have clear commitment to the goals; but we must have also a practical framework within which to work- to keep us out of each other's hair- to help us operate smoothly. That is why we present these by-laws for your consideration.. We have made every effort to provide a flexible but clear guidelines for operation.

Tentative by-laws were sent to organizations whose members participated in Women for Progress. Copies are in your hands now. Mrs. Sidney Janus will read these by-laws, with the addition of a few changes- mainly editorial- made by the steering committee chairman, based upon suggestions by groups considering their relationship to "Partners for Progress."

(. . . procedural instructions. By-laws read, adoption moved, one more amendment added, adopted.)

(Then followed election, with Mrs. Cecil Alexander, chairman of nominations for the steering committee, reading the slate. Nominations from floor were permitted but not given.

- Mrs. Hamilton Lokey reported on the Grady campaign- for which she had in hand carbon copies of over 150 letters already written. Additional copies of the Grady Fact Sheet were distributed.

- Registration cards were distributed.

- Judy Neiman presented the "Statement of Belief", so that those present could take them back to groups. Should like thousands of signatures, as a proof of attitude in area.

MRS. GRACE HAMILTON introduced Mr. Hamilton Douglas, who spoke to the meeting.

CLOSING REMARKS BY VINSON:

To you w ho have participated today, we say thank you. There are others who are equally committed to our goals, but who could not come.

As for my own position as chairman, let me say the position was thrust upon me. I did not seek it. The goals of Partners for Progress are commitments I have felt since student days at Agnes Scott College. My reluctance to serve lay in my belief that the group needed truly great leadership, and in my desire to take a year of RESPITE FROM "DOING"- a pause for musing. - A dream many of you hold too, I know.

However, there are other forces at work. The time to muse will have to come later. These are some of the forces which spurred me on:

- President John Kennedy's inaugural words:" Let the word go forth from this time and place, to friend and foe alike, that the torch has been passed to a new generation of Americans. . . unwilling to witness or permit the slow undoing of those human rights to which this nation has always been committed, and to which we are committed today at home and around the world."

- Then,there a haunting memory of Emerson's words, "Every wall is a door". These were fortified, given special meaning by Camus' comment on them:"Let us not look for the door, and the way out, anywhere but in the wall against which we are living. Instead, let us seek the respite where it is- in the very thick of battle".

Dear

We have been concerned by reports of instances of improper and degrading treatment of women and girls jailed in protest demonstrations and have met with representatives of four other national organizations to discuss this problem - the National Council of Catholic Women, the National Council of Jewish Women, the National Council of Negro Women, and the United Church Women. They share our concern, as we know you do, whenever and wherever women are subjected to indignities, indecencies, and abuses, and we have agreed to work together in an effort to correct these conditions.

In our discussions it has been proposed that each of our five organizations gather representative women from communities where there has been and is likely to be further tension so that local women, aware and concerned, will be in a position to effect a united plan in behalf of any women who are the victims of such treatment. In such an exchange of information and discussion of possible actions on the local level, you can help us deterihe how the YWCA and other organizations at the national level can give support and help to their members in these critical days.

Plans are under way for a private consultation of approximately eighty representatives of the five organizations in Atlanta, Georgia, on March 15 and 16, 1964, starting at 3:00 P.M. on March 15 and ending not later than 4:00 P.M. on March 16. It will be held at the Americana Motor Hotel. You are one of a selected group of women invited to participate in this consultation.

Sincerely yours,

Mrs. Paul McClellan Jones
Vice President

RPR
3/10/64

Partners for Progress

file

April 1, 1964

C & H Fund, Inc.
c/o Mrs. Cecil A. Alexander
2322 Mt. Paran Road, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Mrs. Alexander:

Mr. Dunbar asked that I acknowledge receipt of the $100. contribution from the C & H Fund for the Partners for Progress Project.

The Council's official receipt is enclosed for your files.

Sincerely yours,

Ruth House Alexander
Secretary-Treasurer

RHA/hs
Enclosure

CR 100-
3-30-64

C & H Fund, Inc.

C/o

Mrs. Cecil A.
Alexander

2322 Mt. Paran
Road NW

Atlanta, Ga.

Partners for Progress

$1,00 00

3/27/64 Contribution

file: Partners for Progress

April 7, 1964

MEMO TO: RHA

FROM : LWD/slw

RE : Check Issuance

Please issue a check for $348.04 payable to Mrs. Edward M. Vinson. Mrs. Vinson's address is 328 Chelsea Circle, N. E.

This expenditure should be charged to the Atlanta Project and is to cover the cost of newspaper ads.

File: Partners for Progress
cr. ref.: Atlanta Council On Hum. Rels.

April 14, 1964

Mrs. Phern Stanley
525 Avery Street
Decatur, Georgia

Dear Phern:

I have read the copy you sent me of your letter of April 9 to Betty. I suppose you wanted me to see it -- and I am grateful to you for sending it -- because we have been greatly interested in the growth and success of Partners for Progress.

When Partners was getting started, I said to Eliza that it offered a chance, I thought, for a greater outreach of the influence of the Atlanta Council. It seems to me now that the emergency room desegregation at Grady may bear that out, that Partners provided the extra bit of leverage to bring a measure of success to the Atlanta Council's long effort, I think too that when Partners has finished its time, many people will have caught the Atlanta Council spirit.

For it is an organization to help through what we all believe may be the most trying season the South, and Atlanta, have known. I feel sure that Betty will share your own desire to work closely together.

With all good wishes,

Sincerely yours,

Leslie W. Dunbar
Executive Director

LWD/slw

cc: Betty Vinson
Eliza Paschall

Paul Anthony
Vernon Jordan
Louis Mitchell

April 9, 1964

Mrs. Betty Vinson
Chairman, Steering Committee
Partners for Progress
41 Exchange Place, S. E.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Mrs. Vinson:

As Program Chairman of the Council on Human Relations of Greater Atlanta, I am writing to you as Chairman of the Steering Committee of Partners for Progress, concerning the organization of, the purpose of, the program and method of implementing a program or programs of Partners for Progress.

For instance, I have been asked who or what body appoints persons to the Steering Committee of Partners for Progress. Is Partners for Progress a membership organization?

We have the understanding that one facet of undertaking of Partners for Progress is to coordinate both information and plans of and for program of various efforts in the field of human relations in Atlanta. We have received no information as to your plans of implementation or coordination and no inquiries from you about the plans we have for program.

We are glad of the wish to coordinate both information and plans of program of like-minded groups working in the field and are happy to cooperate with any group or groups and shall look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

(Mrs.) Phern Stanley
Chairman, Program Committee

PS/jb

cc: Mr. Leslie Dunbar

File "Partners for Progress"

File

Atl. Const. Apr. 21, 1964

There Are Others...

Yes, there are others...

who, like yourself, share a compassionate concern for the right of every human being to live, to work, and to mature in a community that makes its goods, services and opportunities for growth available to all its citizens.

There are others...

who believe, as you do, that Atlanta will reassert her leadership role . . . and that we will achieve positive human relations goals because these goals are right, because they are needed, because they are implicit in the word "American."

There are others...

who want, as you do, to help Atlanta attain equal opportunities for all in the specific areas of education, employment, health, housing and public services . . . and who realize that a supporting climate of opinion is vital to their achievement.

Join your own personal good will and desire to act with that of other women and women's organizations . . . come join hands in

File

PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS

41 Exchange Place, S.E., Atlanta, Georgia 30303 • Room 503 • Telephone 523-0347

—A coordinating effort by Atlanta women of all faiths and fifteen key women's organizations.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE:

Mrs. Edward M. Vinson, Chairman • Mrs. George J. Gunning • Mrs. H. Cooke Hamilton • Mrs. Sidney Q. Janus, Mrs. Fred W. Patterson, Vice Chairmen • Mrs. Hamilton Lokey, Secretary • Mrs. J. R. Wilson Sr., Treasurer • Mrs. Cecil Alexander • Mrs. Edward Askren • Mrs. Dan Burge • Mrs. Donald Ross Green • Mrs. DeJongh Franklin • Mrs. David Neiman • Mrs. Brittain Pendergrast • Mrs. Harry Richardson

TO: PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS
P. O. Box 15238
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Yes, I share your concerns and would like to know more about Partners for Progress.

Name:_____

Address:_____ Zone_____

Telephone:_____

Atl. Const - Apr. 21, 1964

"I NEED YOUR MORAL and FINANCIAL SUPPORT"

–George C. Wallace
Governor of Alabama

★ ★ ★

Governor Wallace, champion of constitutional government and States' Rights, has just won a great and far-reaching victory at the polls in Wisconsin.

He now carries our fight to the people of Indiana and Maryland . . . with the Wisconsin victory adding muscle and new strength to his campaigns.

He needs your help NOW. You can have an important part by sending your contributions. Television, radio and newspaper advertising runs into thousands...every one of your dollars will help carry the message of sanity and freedom to the people of Indiana, Maryland and the Nation.

Governor George C. Wallace
State Capitol Building
Montgomery, Alabama

Dear Governor:

I am proud of you and of the fight you are making for our cause. Here is my $_____ to help you carry the message to the people of Indiana and Maryland. God bless you.

NAME_____

ADDRESS_____

CITY_____ STATE_____

This Advertisement Paid for by THE SOUTHERN COMMITTEE TO HELP ELECT THE NEXT PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES
Marvin E. Collum, Jr., Treasurer, Jackson, Mississippi

HAMILTON ASSOCIATES 582 UNIVERSITY PLACE, N. W., ATLANTA 14, GEORGIA
CONSULTANTS IN COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT · COMMUNITY RELATIONS · RESEARCH · PLANNING

MRS. GRACE T. HAMILTON MURRAY 8-7249

PA ✓
VJ ✓
LM ✓
LD ✓

April 27, 1964

Dear Les :

The enclosed memo is the one I spoke about last evening. It defines the philosophy and the process of PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS . In my opinion it illustrates how the important "middle group" may be constructively involved in the current racial crisis. It provides a channel for the creative energies of those liberals (Negro and white) who while not satisfied with the spectator's role, are not prepared to participate in direct action.

It might be timely for SRC to consider how support might be secured and made available at the community level to prepare for "compliance without compulsion" to the Civil Rights Act.

Good wishes always,

Grace

Grace T. Hamilton

Dr. Leslie Dunbar
Southern Regional Council
5 Forsyth Street
Atlanta, Georgia

Sorry not to have copies of all the attachments - copies of advertisements and press comment.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

For 96 Years The South's Standard Newspaper

RALPH McGILL, Publisher

EUGENE PATTERSON, Editor

Established June 16, 1868

Issued daily except New Year's, July 4, Labor Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas. Second-class postage paid at Atlanta, Georgia.

The Atlanta Constitution (morning), and The Atlanta Journal (evening), and The Atlanta Constitution and The Atlanta Journal (Sunday), published by Atlanta Newspapers, Inc., 10 Forsyth St., Atlanta, Georgia.

Home-delivered subscription rates: Morning and Sunday, or evening and Sunday, 1 week, 50c. Morning or evening daily only, 1 week, 30c. Morning, evening and Sunday (13 issues), 1 week, 80c. Subscription prices by mail on request. Single copies: Daily, 5c; Sunday, 20c, plus 3% sales tax on sales and deliveries made within the state of Georgia.

* * * * * *

Rx, Not Race, in Emergency Rooms

Without previous announcement and without ruckus, Grady Hospital officials quietly integrated the emergency rooms at the giant medical center this week.

Female patients now are being treated without regard to race in what once had been the white emergency room, and male patients in the former Negro room.

Certainly racial segregation made the least sense of all in emergency treatment facilities. There had been cases of absurd delay resulting from attendants' trying to determine the race of light-skinned accident victims.

Desegregation of Grady is one of the goals of the Negro community's "Action for Democracy" program. Hospital authorities said the emergency room action was "voluntary."

It makes little difference whether the decision was voluntary, or based on Negro's requests or urging by a Partners for Progress-sponsored letter campaign or recent court decisions on tax-supported hospitals. The point is that the action is right.

Dropping discriminatory bars has proved workable in one small part of the hospital. Now the job should be completed.

PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS - PURPOSE - PROJECTS - POTENTIAL

PURPOSE:

The basic philosophy underlying WOMEN FOR PROGRESS and the subsequently organized PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS is the conviction that most Americans share a belief in justice, in fair play and in equal opportunity. The purpose of this movement, therefore, is to develop projects which cultivate awareness of opportunities and provide occasions for action on these basic beliefs.

Such action is evidence of growing public support, which in turn encourages policies and practices by government, business and community agencies to extend equality of opportunity.

PROJECTS - OCCASIONS AND OPPORTUNITIES:

WOMEN FOR PROGRESS - The first project - provided an opportunity for women in leadership roles of organizations to sign an endorsement of a policy statement of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce which urged all Atlanta business to make their goods and services available to all of the public without distinctions based on race or color. Those who signed the scroll of endorsement pledged their economic support to those establishments which accepted the Chamber's position. They promised further to encourage members of their organizations to do likewise. The response to this opportunity was enthusiastic. More than 800 signatures were secured representing the leadership of approximately 100 religious, civic and cultural groups. (Attachment 1)

Subsequently fifteen of the organizations whose leadership participated in the WOMEN FOR PROGRESS Chamber of Commerce project became officially cooperating groups of Partners for Progress. (List attached). It was organized as a "coordinating effort of individuals and women's organizations to encourage and support the extension of equal opportunity in business, government and community affairs and to influence public opinion to that end".

PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS was publicly introduced through a newspaper advertisement which included a blank to be clipped and returned by persons who agreed with the statement of beliefs. (Attachment 2 & 3).

Signators of the WOMEN FOR PROGRESS endorsement and persons who returned the advertisement blank were invited to the "launching meeting" at which by-laws were approved and officers and an executive committee were elected. A second advertisement is resulting in additional names of those who wish to be "Partners". (Attachment 4).

PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS immediately undertook two projects - (1). Support for extension of "open" public facilities, (2). Support for the elimination of segregation based on race in the facilities and services of Grady Hospital.

The "Open Facilities" project includes personal letters from PARTNERS to owners and managers of restaurants, hotels and motels whose facilities and services are open to all. This letter "commends and salutes" and states that "since you have made the American way your way of doing business, we will make it our business to eat or stay with you whenever we can. What's more we will encourage our husbands, our friends and all members of organizations to which we belong to do so regularly and often". Lists of open facilities are distributed to Partners for Progress and to cooperating organizations.

PARTNERS volunteer as visitors to call upon the owners or managers of restaurants, hotels and motels whose practices are not known or uncertain to inquire about present policy and about their attitude towards "compliance without compulsion" if and when Title II of the Civil Rights Bill is passed. The supporting letter goes to all new open places as they are discovered as a result of Partners Visits. (Before embarking, VISITORS attend an orientation session which includes an analysis of the provisions of Title II, discussion of the visiting procedure and reporting system and the choice of places to visit). Two orientation sessions have been held - and 32 visitors have volunteered.

The Grady Hospital project offered an occasion for letters to be written to the responsible officials (members of the Hospital Authority, the County Commissioners and the Emory Medical School) suggesting that racial segregation is inappropriate in the public hospital. More than 243 letters were written. Visits were made to the hospital to see the segregated arrangements of the emergency clinic. Two weeks after the project began, the emergency clinic of Grady Hospital was "quietly integrated". (Attachment 5).

Projects in planning are: education; police; jail conditions and the use of public service programs on radio and television.

POTENTIAL:

The basic commitment to justice and fair play held by a majority of the population of any American community represents a powerful force and one frequently underestimated in the current crisis in race relations. But this potent force must be properly channeled through organized action...especially at a time when it is necessary for southern communities to prepare for "compliance without compulsion".

Response to the opportunities for action presented in the initial projects and the tangible results already obtained bear witness to the latent power of the American belief in justice and fair play. A concommitant value to participants is self-education. Many volunteers in this area first become interested out of a desire to "do for" the underprivileged Negro. But through day-by-day experience they come to understand the true meaning of equality. No other situation provides this opportunity for intellectual and spiritual growth.

FINANCING:

Partners for Progress has received contributions totaling $3500 towards its annual operating costs from local sources (SRC, $1000, Atlanta business, $2500). Individual contributions have amounted to about $400 as of April 20. Members of the executive committee are indicating the need for financial contributions in personal and organizational contacts. Arrangements have been made for contributions of more than $25.00 to be tax deductible if made to the Southern Regional Council and designated for Partners for Progress.

Have asked Betty Vinnie to debate this section

However, no campaign for financial contributions from co-operating organizations nor from individuals is contemplated. Wide spread participation in program projects is the main objective and diversion of energies in fund raising is inconsistent with this purpose. The organization is geared for one year's intensive public opinion building program. The operating expenses are estimated at $10,000 and proposed program projects at $20,000. Of the total operating and program budget of $30,000, $6400 is in hand. The estimates do not include professional assistance for program development or coordination.

PROFESSIONAL SERVICES:

WOMEN FOR PROGRESS had the assistance of a part time professional coordinator, whose small honorium was provided by one of the cooperating organizations. Professional assistance will be required if the potential inherent in the Atlanta situation are to be achieved. It is estimated that a minimum of $6000 is needed to provide part-time professional assistance for program development and coordination.

PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS

* Organizations officially cooperating:

ATLANTA ARCHDIOCESAN COUNCIL OF CATHOLIC WOMEN

ATLANTA ASSOCIATION OF UNITED NATIONS

ATLANTA ASSOCIATION OF UNIVERSITY WOMEN

ATLANTA COUNCIL OF CHURCH WOMEN

ATLANTA CHAPTER OF B'NAI B'RITH

COUNCIL ON HUMAN RELATIONS OF GREATER ATLANTA

DEKALB DEMOCRATS

GEORGIA COUNCIL ON HUMAN RELATIONS

INTERNATIONAL VISITORS COMMITTEE

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS OF ATLANTA

NATIONAL COUNCIL OF JEWISH WOMEN - ATLANTA SECTION

WOMEN'S INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE FOR PEACE AND FREEDOM

YOUNG WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

* Organizations unofficially cooperating:

EMORY UNIVERSITY WOMEN'S CLUB

FULTON COUNTY MEDICAL AUXILIARY

* As of April 10, 1964. We are continuing the process of bringing in organizations.

File
Partners for Progress

April 30, 1964

Mrs. J. R. Wilson, Sr.
Treasurer
Partners for Progress
2989 Collier Road, N. W.
Atlanta 18, Georgia

Dear Mrs. Wilson:

We are very pleased to contribute the enclosed check for $1,000.00 to the educational program of the Partners for Progress.

With best regards,

Sincerely yours,

Leslie W. Dunbar
Executive Director

LWD/mmj
Enclosure - 1. (Check #3070; $1,000.00)

File
Partners for Progress

May 7, 1964

The Honorable Ivan Allen, Jr.
Mayor
City of Atlanta
City Hall
Atlanta, Georgia

My dear Mayor Allen:

On behalf of the Council I acknowledge with thanks your letter of May 5, 1964, and the enclosed check for $200.00 for the Atlanta Project; our official receipt is enclosed.

I share in full measure your own high esteem for the wonderful service being given by Partners for Progress to this city.

Sincerely yours,

Leslie W. Dunbar
Executive Director

LWD/mmj
cc: Mrs. Edward Vinson encl. - 1. (Official receipt)

CITY OF ATLANTA

IVAN ALLEN, JR.
MAYOR

May 5, 1964

Mr. Leslie Dunbar
Southern Regional Council
5 Forsyth Street
Atlanta, Georgia

$200.00
CR
RHR
5/7/64

Dear Les:

This is the contribution made from the Allen Foundation through the Southern Regional Council for Partners for Progress.

I would appreciate your advising Mrs. Vinson that you have received this.

Sincerely yours,

Ivan Allen, Jr.,
Mayor

IAJr/br

Enclosure

File: Partners for Progress

July 9, 1964

Mrs. J. R. Wilson, Sr.
2989 Collier Road, N.W.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Mrs. Wilson:

At the request of Mrs. Vinson, enclosed is our check for $289.92, rperesenting payment of the balance of contributions received for the educational work of Partners for Progress.

There is a balance of $1,400.61 from the Aaron Norman Fund grant which we continue to hold.

Sincerely,

Paul Anthony
Director of Field Activities

PA:mm
Enc.
cc: Mrs. Edward M. Vinson

PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS

FINANCIAL REPORT -July 8, 1964

Expenditures

Telephone
3-23-64	$50.00
4-30-64	38.32
6-4	21.19
6-15	21.19
	130.70
Cash 5-6-64	25.00
Postage & rental box, 4-7-64	6.95
Postage -4-15-64	5.00
" 5-18	50.00
" 6-1	25.00
7-1	86.95
	8.25
	95.20
Salary
4-30	171.85
5-18	171.85
6-1	171.85
6-15	171.85
7-1	171.85
	859.25

Printing & Supplies

Eagle Empire 4-30	14.94
Ivan Allen Cp. 5-6	65.36
Patrick Morris -6-4	3.09
Amer. Seal Co. "	3.09
AAA Quick Copy "	3.35
Ivan Allen Co. "	10.02
Eagle Empire "	47.22
	147.07

Balance on hand: $236.28

PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS

41 Exchange Place, S. E., Atlanta, Georgia 30303 • Room 503 • Telephone 523-0347

Mrs. Edward M. Vinson, Chairman • Mrs. George J. Gunning • Mrs. H. Cooke Hamilton • Mrs. Sidney Q. Janus
Mrs. Fred W. Patterson, Vice-Chairmen • Mrs. Hamilton Lokey, Secretary • Mrs. J. R. Wilson, Sr., Treasurer
Mrs. Cecil Alexander • Mrs. Edward Askren • Mrs. Dan Burge • Mrs. Donald Ross Green • Mrs. DeJongh Franklin • Mrs. David Neiman • Mrs. Brittain Pendergrast • Mrs. Harry Richardson

July 7, 1964

Mr. Leslie Dunbar
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council
5 Forsyth Street, N. E.,
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Les:

Attached is a run-down on our expenditure of funds in PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS to date. Since the March every "member" mailing, we have sent only one to all our "supporters." (Attached)

A bulletin reporting on current activities is at the printer now. We shall send you a copy as soon as it is ready.

My understanding is that we have spent only $10.08 of the Hermi Alexander $100 gift (for postage run through your meter in May) and none of Mayor Allen's $200 contribution.

The Phoebe Franklin "ad" money balance, we shall leave intact at the moment--in your care.

If you will send Mrs. J. R. Wilson, Sr. (PFP Treasurer) 2989 Collier Road, N. W. -30318, our balance from the other two gifts, that will help us bridge the gap until we can raise a few more "sheckles."

A follow-up letter to restaurants etc. is in process, as is a letter to public officials in 45 governmental units in the Metropolitan area. Copies will be sent to you.

Sincerely,

Betty H. Vinson

Mrs. Edward M. Vinson
Chairman

Enc/

PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS

41 Exchange Place, S. E., Atlanta, Georgia 30303 • Room 503 • Telephone 523-0347

Mrs. Edward M. Vinson, Chairman • Mrs. George J. Gunning • Mrs. H. Cooke Hamilton • Mrs. Sidney Q. Janus
Mrs. Fred W. Patterson, Vice-Chairmen • Mrs. Hamilton Lokey, Secretary • Mrs. J. R. Wilson, Sr., Treasurer
Mrs. Cecil Alexander • Mrs. Edward Askren • Mrs. Dan Burge • Mrs. Donald Ross Green • Mrs. DeJongh Franklin • Mrs. David Neiman • Mrs. Brittain Pendergrast • Mrs. Harry Richardson

July 6, 1964

We most cordially invite your attention to an unique educational experience which, no doubt, you have given much thought, but for which, for the first time Federal funds have been made available.

We have been struck with the unusual aspects motivating the provision of these funds. We refer, of course, to the Seminar or Workshop program for teachers as outlined in the attached memorandum.

It is noteworthy that this sharing of educational insight is proposed on a basis which makes it available and voluntary, not mandatory nor prescribed. Moreover, under this program teachers may be compensated for their willingness to expend time in a spirit of compliance rather than under compulsion.

We are confident that you have deliberated on this inevitable transitional phase for education in Metropolitan Atlanta. We consider it our privilege to petition your exploration of this program which can be implemented this summer when the teachers return for school conferences prior to the fall opening.

May we counsel with you at your earliest convenience?

Betty A. Vinson

Mrs. Edward M. Vinson
Chairman

Mrs. Sidney Q. Janus
Vice-President and Chairman Education Committee

Enc/

AN OPPORTUNITY OF UNUSUAL PROPORTIONS AND SPECIAL VALUE

FOR THE FIVE COUNTY METROPOLITAN AREA -- JULY 6, 1964

SECTION 404 of the Civil Rights Bill provides for training institutes available immediately to help school personnel with desegregation problems. Now it is strongly possible that such institutes could be planned for the late summer, after summer schools are over, or during the ten extra days teachers must now plan to be in their schools, prior to school opening. Also it is possible that these institutes could go on all during the school year.

SECTION 404 states: "The Commissioner (of Education) is authorized to arrange through grants or contracts with institutions of higher education for the operation of short-term or regular session institutes for special training designed to improve the ability of teachers, supervisors, counselors and other elementary or secondary school personnel to deal effectively with special educational problems occasioned by desegregation. Individuals who attend such an institute may be paid stipends for the period of their attendance at such institute in amounts specified by the Commissioner in regulations, including allowances for dependents and including allowances for travel to attend such institute."

The Executive Committee of PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS believes that all school personnel would benefit from such a program. Specific training to deal with segregation problems is really basic training which could be invaluable to all teachers and which could enhance school personnel service to students and to the community at no extra cost to the school system.

PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS
41 Exchange Place, S. E.,
Atlanta, Georgia 30303
Tel. 523-0347

PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS

41 Exchange Place, S. E., Atlanta, Georgia 30303 • Room 503 • Telephone 523-0347

Mrs. Edward M. Vinson, Chairman • Mrs. George J. Gunning • Mrs. H. Cooke Hamilton • Mrs. Sidney Q. Janus
Mrs. Fred W. Patterson, Vice-Chairmen • Mrs. Hamilton Lokey, Secretary • Mrs. J. R. Wilson, Sr., Treasurer
Mrs. Cecil Alexander • Mrs. Edward Askren • Mrs. Dan Burge • Mrs. Donald Ross Green • Mrs. DeJongh Franklin • Mrs. David Neiman • Mrs. Brittain Pendergrast • Mrs. Harry Richardson

July 6, 1964

Dear Partner:

We are writing to you because you have indicated a committment to the purpose of PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS. As you may know, we have been trying to survey hotels, motels and restaurants to express our support of those which are open to all, and to determine which ones would comply with requirements of the new Civil Rights Law.

Government and civic leaders in Atlanta (which includes the whole five county Metropolitan area in the eyes of the nation) are anxious to move ahead with a minimum of resistance which would lead to demonstrations. For the incorporated City of Atlanta to do this successfully, the cooperation of proprietors in the surrounding areas is necessary.

Enclosed is a leaflet summarizing the public accomodations section of the Civil Rights Bill and a set of directions which has been used by Atlanta PARTNERS calling on hotels and restaurants. If you are able to help call on proprietors in your area, more information can be sent you if you will call the office, 523-0347.

Your help at this point would be invaluable.

Sincerely yours,

Betty A. Vinson

Mrs. Edward M. Vinson
Chairman

Enc/

This went to over 100 women in these areas outside Atlanta which lie within the 5 county metro. area.

PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS

41 Exchange Place, S. E., Atlanta, Georgia 30303 • Room 503 • Telephone 523-0347

Mrs. Edward M. Vinson, Chairman • Mrs. George J. Gunning • Mrs. H. Cooke Hamilton • Mrs. Sidney Q. Janus
Mrs. Fred W. Patterson, Vice-Chairmen • Mrs. Hamilton Lokey, Secretary • Mrs. J. R. Wilson, Sr., Treasurer
Mrs. Cecil Alexander • Mrs. Edward Askren • Mrs. Dan Burge • Mrs. Donald Ross Green • Mrs. DeJongh Franklin • Mrs. David Neiman • Mrs. Brittain Pendergrast • Mrs. Harry Richardson

June 8, 1964

MEMO:

TO: PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS-- AND OPEN FACILITIES COMMITTEE

FROM: Hermi Alexander --- Margy Manchester) Chairmen and Jane Branch --- Grace Hamilton) Recorders

Thus comes first of all to thank you who have helped as Visitors in PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS' Open Facilities Committee.

Also, it comes to tell you that additional visitors are needed. We hope that those who already made visits may be willing to find a "Partner" and make a few additional visits. We hope that others who have been unable to help in this way heretofore will also find a partner and accept some assignments. Only twelve teams, each visiting three or four places will enable us to complete our goal by the end of June.

As you know, the purposes of our visits are to assure places whose services are available to all of the public of our patronage and support and to express our conviction about the importance to the common welfare of our community that there be "compliance without compulsion" when Title II and III of the pending Civil Rights legislation becomes the law of the land.

A letter has been sent to all proprietors of places we expect to visit, along with the leaflet about facts of Title II and III, which pave the way for the visiting Partners.

If you are able to be a visitor during the next few weeks, please call Margaret Richards (523-0347) and assignment cards will be mailed to you. We hope you will be willing to visit and to mail the return cards promptly. Please notify her too, if you are unable to complete your visits.

The enclosed clipping reminds us that our efforts are important!

Visitors who have not attended an orientation session may find the Outline for Procedure helpful. Ask for it when you call for assignment.

PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS

41 Exchange Place, S. E., Atlanta, Georgia 30303 • Room 503 • Telephone 523-0347

Mrs. Edward M. Vinson, Chairman • Mrs. George J. Gunning • Mrs. H. Cooke Hamilton • Mrs. Sidney Q. Janus
Mrs. Fred W. Patterson, Vice-Chairmen • Mrs. Hamilton Lokey, Secretary • Mrs. J. R. Wilson, Sr., Treasurer
Mrs. Cecil Alexander • Mrs. Edward Askren • Mrs. Dan Burge • Mrs. Donald Ross Green • Mrs. DeJongh Franklin • Mrs. David Neiman • Mrs. Brittain Pendergrast • Mrs. Harry Richardson

June 1, 1964

Letter sent to list of restaurants, hotels + motels belonging to Chamber of Commerce.

"Just the facts, M'am...just the facts..."

Not too long ago, that phrase became a household catchword because most people tend to "sound off" on any given subject without being quite sure of what the facts are.

The enclosed leaflet will help you get the facts on the Civil Rights Bill now pending before Congress. It explains the most discussed sections, Titles II and III, dealing with Public Accomodations and Public Facilities...the two Titles which pertain directly to your business.

We believe it is good business to do business in the American way...to serve all who wish service with courtesy and fairness. You may be reassured to know that responsible Atlantans believe so too...and will support you by dining at your restaurant as often as they can.

If you are one of the many fine Atlanta restauranteurs who has already opened your doors to all of the public, we salute you! If not, we hope you be encouraged to do so soon...secure in the knowledge that what you are about to do is not only right, it is implicit in the word "American".

We look forward to eating in your restaurant in the near future, so that we may talk with you about this further.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Edward M. Vinson
Chairman

Enc/

FOR YOUR INFORMATION

Enclosed are copies of a letter and summary regarding certain education provisions of the Civil Rights Act.

These went to all Superintendents and board of education members in the eight Metropolitan School Systems.

This mailing is a first step follow-up of the PFP Education Committee meeting on June 23.

Leah Janus, Chairman Education Committee

Mr. Dunbar -

I am unable to reach Mrs. Wilson for the latest financial report to include now, but will call her in the morning and have it mailed to you.

Margaret Richards

OUTLINE OF PROCEDURE

PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS OPEN FACILITIES COMMITTEE

PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS' Open Facilities Committee has three purposes:

1. To encourage patronage and increase support for all proprietors whose places of business are open to all the public. (Restaurants, hotels, motels).

2. To determine the policy of places whose policy is presently unknown and to assure the proprietor of PARTNERS' intent to encourage patronage of places open to all.

3. To express PARTNERS' conviction of the importance to the welfare of our community that all business covered under Title II and III of the pending Civil Rights legislation comply promptly and without compulsion to the law of the land when the legislation is passed.

ALL PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS contribute to the first purpose by themselves eating at these places and by encouraging their husbands, friends and members of organizations to which they belong to eat and stay at places open to all. (See April 11th list of "Open Facilities").

VISITORS are PARTNERS who agree to help on purposes (2) and (3) above.

VISITORS take assignment cards on which the place of business, address and proprietor's name are listed. The assignment cards include space to record answers to the questions, such as, "The facility is--or--is not open to all; the owner expects to comply; does not expect to comply when legislation is passed." Also, date of visit and signature of VISITORS.

The following suggestions are based on experience:

Most PARTNERS prefer to visit as a team of two. It is sometimes helpful to telephone ahead to be sure that the proprietor or responsible manager is available.

Plan to visit before 11:30 a. m. or after 1:30 p. m. Begin the visit by explaining that PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS includes members of organizations who wish to be customers of places whose services are open to all of the public. Since the policy of the place being visited is not known, this visit is to find out whether PARTNERS can be free to eat here and to encourage their friends to do so.

If the answer is "yes" (open to all) the VISITORS express their satisfaction and promise to encourage patronage. If the answer is "no" VISITORS express the hope that the policy will be changed in the interest of the city's welfare, when the public accomodations titles become the law.

Plan to eat after the policy is known! When the visit is over, complete the assignment card, date, sign and mail promptly to recorders.

COMMUNICATIONS: Before and after VISITS:

A factual summary of the provisions of Titles II and III has been sent to all businesses which will be visited. Letters pledging support of PFP are sent to proprietors as reports indicate an open policy. Revised lists will be distributed to PFP from time to time, so that all may encourage patrongge and become customers of places with an "open" policy.

PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS
41 Exchange Place, S. E., Atlanta, Georgia 30303 · Room 503 · Telephone 523-0347

NEWS OF OPPORTUNITIES AND OCCASIONS TO SHARE IN PROGRESS

EDUCATION: The PFP Board will meet Thursday, May 21, to develop detailed education plans and to decide whether or not to undertake PFP support of the scholarship program for summer schools. Meantime, you may wish to help as an individual or through your organizations.

Free summer school will be available in Atlanta for all 18 schools on double session during the immediate past school year. This applies mostly to grades 1 through 3. Students not on double session will have to pay a registration fee of $20.00 ($25.00 after June 5). The Atlanta League of Women Voters is sponsoring a drive for donations so that children who cannot afford this fee will be able to attend.

Contributions should be sent to Mrs. G. Ray Mitchell, 3986 Club Drive, N. E., Atlanta 30319. Many children in deprived areas (who have the least opportunity for stimulation and learning at home during summer months) cannot take advantage of summer school without financial help. School principals will select the students. You may designate that you want your contribution to go for white or Negro students, or for a particular age group.

VISITATION PROGRAM: If you would like to join the group calling on restaurants and hotels to help in the PFP survey of attitude and status regarding serving all the public, please call

Mrs. Margy Manchester -- CE 7-6607
or
Mrs. Cecil Alexander -- CE 7-2812
or
PFP Office -- Miss Margaret Richards -- 523-0347

About 30 women are working now, and it is not too late to join this effort.

NO! WE DID NOT .....

take any position on the May 6 liquor referendum. PFP by-laws prohibit our taking action as a body to support or oppose legislations candidates or referendum matters. Because the sponsoring group of the referendum called itself "Citizens for Progress" there was some confusion about our position. We do believe and work for service in bars (as well as restaurants, hotels, motels and other food service facilities), being available to all without discrimination based on race, creed or national origin.

ORGANIZATIONS COOPERATING TO DATE

Note: We have new information and forms for use by organizations or groups interested in cooperating with PFP. Call the office if you wish this material

* Organizations officially cooperating:

ATLANTA ARCHDIOCESAN COUNCIL OF CATHOLIC WOMEN
ATLANTA ASSOCIATION OF UNITED NATIONS
ATLANTA ASSOCIATION OF UNIVERSITY WOMEN
ATLANTA COUNCIL OF CHURCH WOMEN
ATLANTA CHAPTER OF B'NAI B'RITH
ATLANTA DENTAL AUXILIARY
COUNCIL OF HUMAN RELATIONS OF GREATER ATLANTA
EMORY UNIVERSITY WOMEN'S CLUB
GEORGIA COUNCIL ON HUMAN RELATIONS
INTERNATIONAL VISITORS COMMITTEE
JACK AND JILL -- ATLANTA CHAPTER
LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS OF ATLANTA
NATIONAL COUNCIL OF JEWISH WOMEN -- ATLANTA SECTION
WOMEN'S INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE FOR PEACE AND FREEDOM
THE LINKS
YOUNG WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

* Organizations unofficially cooperating:

DEKALB DEMOCRATS
DRUID HILLS ART COUNCIL
FULTON COUNTY MEDICAL AUXILIARY

* As of May 8, 1964. We are continuing the process of bringing in organizations.

File: Partners for Progress

July 20, 1964

Mrs. Sidney Q. Janus
1435 West Wesley Road, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Mrs. Janus:

On behalf of the Partners for Progress, the Southern Regional Council, Inc., acknowledges with gratitude your contribution of $25. toward its Atlanta project.

The Council's official receipt is enclosed.

Sincerely yours,

Ruth House Alexander
Secretary-Treasurer

RHA/hs
Enclosure (Receipt $25.)

cc: Mrs. Edward M. Vinson

Mrs. Sidney Q. Janus
1435 West Wesley Road, N.W.
30327

July 17, 1964.

Gentlemen:

I would like to make the enclosed contribution to assist in the work of Partners for Progress.

Yours sincerely,
Leah A. Janus
(Mrs. Sidney Q.)

7/20/64
$25.00 CK
RHA

Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsythe St. N.W.
Atlanta, Ga.

July 20, 1964

Patterson Barclay Memorial Foundation
1020 Spring Street, N. E.
Atlanta, Georgia

Gentlemen:

On behalf of the Partners for Progress, the Southern Regional Council, Inc. acknowledges with gratitude the $500. contribution from the Patterson Barclay Memorial Foundation toward its Atlanta Project.

The Council's official receipt is enclosed for your files.

Sincerely yours,

Ruth House Alexander
Secretary-Treasurer

RHA/hs
Enclosure (Receipt $500.)

cc: Mrs. Edward M. Vinson

Recd 12/21/64

PA/VI

SW-file

PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS

41 Exchange Place, S. E., Atlanta, Georgia 30303 • Room 503 • Telephone 523-0347

Mrs. Edward M. Vinson, Chairman • Mrs. George J. Gunning • Mrs. H. Cooke Hamilton • Mrs. Sidney Q. Janus
Mrs. Fred W. Patterson, Vice-Chairmen • Mrs. Hamilton Lokey, Secretary • Mrs. J. R. Wilson, Sr., Treasurer
Mrs. Cecil Alexander • Mrs. Edward Askren • Mrs. Dan Burge • Mrs. Donald Ross Green • Mrs. DeJongh Franklin • Mrs. David Neiman • Mrs. Brittain Pendergrast • Mrs. Harry Richardson

December 19, 1964

Mr. Leslie Dunber, Director
Southern Regional Council
5Forsyth Street Building
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Les,

Enclosed is a copy of our financial statement, representing the fruits of my Christmas season pre-occupation, and a copy of a letter to Phoebe Franklin.

I really have no idea whether or not shee will agree to my suggestion about writing off the $500 advance lent to us in November. My only other hopes are Mrs. Fred Patterson, who will let me know Wednesday how much they can put into the effort-having already put in $500.00 and Ivan Allen. I am not going to ask Mr. Oliver to help cover the past, but to finance us between now and the end of March.

I am definitely going to work for Jim Mackay-fuhl time, and this will preclude my being chairman of Partners. The Executive Committee can appoint one to finish the term, and we have the chairmen and the committees for the interim work. I am sure the workers will be found too. We are just not bothering people until after the holidays.

Thanks so much for all your advice and patience AND financial help. I'll keep in touch, and I hope you will call me when I can perhaps be of some help in the "new office".

Best wishes,

Betty

Mrs. Edward M. Vinson

Home Telephone: 377-3780

December 19, 1964

Mrs. DeJengh Franklin
1585 West Paces Ferry Road, N.W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30327

Dear Phoebe,

There is just too much to tell over the phone, and besides, you need the figures; so here is the "hot dope" I am sending everyone. Pardon the rather messy typing. I'm strictly an amateur.

As you will see, we owe the Norman fund the $500.00 you advanced us in November. I have a proposal for you to consider.

As you will see from the finance report, the expenses directly connected with forwarding the purpose of PFP are these:

NEWSLETTER.....	$318.66
POSTAGE.....	386.45
Special printings	83.62
	$ 788.73

How would it be if you could write off $500.00 of this from the fund? The bills, of course, are paid, so we do not actually owe the money to anyone but the fund. The $300 from the Georgia Council can be a gift if we cannot raise the $300.00

The money is coming in slowly from the 150 letters I sent out on November 7 and 8; but not in enough volume to do any more than pay the telephone and other tiny bills.

Sonia Kuniansky and Leah are gathering information on the culturally deprived child ren projects; but I cannot give you any budget yet.

We are no longer employing Margaret, and I do not anticipate doing so unless Mr. Oliver or someone is willing to underwrite this. I shall see him on Monday, probably with Hermie.

(More)

For the program we agreed on at the December meeting, the minimum budget would be as follows:

Telphone Dec. thru March.....	$87.24
Postage for 3 mailings to all supporters	156.00
Newsletters (three).....	180.00
Fact sheets for school campaign.....	10.00
Postage for school campaign ..	15.00
Court observation program: Fact sheets and Report forms.....	30.00
	$478.24 NOTE below
*Cost of PFP workshop on attitude aids for teachers and parents in integrated schools.....	500.00
	$978.24

* We decided to do this in September and again on Dec. 1, at the Biltmore meeting. I have had the Atlanta area colleges and Universities written re. their having such programs in their regular adult, non-credit programs. To date we have heard from Georgia State and Emory. Both will have programs in the Spring, for which we could recruit attendance and perhaps pay scholarships. Leah may have heard from others by now. But we may find we do not need to do our own workshop.

I am disappointed at how long it is taking to get any specific information on the day care programs for the deprived children. Even John Hungblut is relying on us to get the facts.

NOTE: I am sure there will be some miscellaneous costs. We have supplies on hand for letters and mailings, but not for unforseen "things".

Am so sorry this has turned into a nuisance for you, instead of a pleasure; but I am positive we can find a good place for the $1050 balance in the fund. When we met at Herren's last Monday, I did not ask you because you said you wanted to steer clear for the moment. Hermie can give you all the details; but everyone , except Les, was quite sure we should continue. I am looking for a "home" for us, with a financial roof and independence for PFP. Tentatively, we are thinking about the National Conference of Christians and Jews,with PFP being an Ad Hoc committee with its own identification.

Happy Holidays,

Betty Turner

"PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS": FINANCIAL REPORT

INCOME AND EXPENDITURES FROM MARCH 1964 THROUGH DECEMBER 21, 1964

INCOME

Individual contributions directly to PFP	$995.00
Individual contributions through SRC	950.00
Contribution from Southern Regional Council	1000.00
Norman fund to SRC for PFP projects	2500.00
	$5,445.00
Special from Ga. Council to M. Richards (for balance of Nov. salary and withholding)	300.00
	5,745.00

EXPENDITURES

A1) Salary less with-holdings	$2,209.65
A2) With-holdings (I.T. and Sec. Sec.)	365.70
B) Telephone	278.90*
C) Postage	386.45
D) NEWSLETTER	318.66
E) Special printings for Grady and Public Accomodations projects	83.62
F) Miscellaneous: School personnel directory and summer school scholarship	8.75
G) Office supplies	108.63
H) Bank Charges	9.18
Spent directly by PFP	$3, 769.54

AD CAMPAIGN EXPENDITURES FROM NORMAN FUND

AD # ONE	$348.04
AD # TWO	601.35
	$949.39

Total in Norman fund	$2500.00
Less AD cost	949.39
"Theoretical" balance	$1550.61
Less advance to PFP (10/64)	500.00
Actual balance	$1050. 61 (On hand at SRC.)

DEBTS

$500.00... owed Norman fund for operation advance on Nov. 10
168.00... to Betty Vinson for Oct. 1 thru 15th salary paid to M. Richards.

$668.00
300.00..... Paid to M. Richards for Nov. salary. We'd like to repay this.

$986.00

* $50.00 of this telephone cost is the original deposit which is refundable.

SOUTHERN REGIONAL COUNCIL, INC.

March 4, 1965

STATEMENT OF RECEIPTS AND DISBURSEMENTS

March 1, 1964 to February 28, 1965

ATLANTA PROJECT - PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS

RECEIPTS

Aaron E. Norman Fund	$ 2,500.00
Allen Foundation	200.00
C & H Fund	200.00
Patterson-Barclay Memorial Foundation	750.00
Mrs. Sidney Q. Janus	25.00
Mrs. Herman Heyman	25.00
Sears, Roebuck and Company (Mr. L. E. Oliver)	250.00
Total Receipts		$ 3,950.00

DISBURSEMENTS

(from Aaron E. Norman Fund)

Printing of Newspaper Ad	(4/64)	$ 348.04
Newspaper Advertisement	(5/64)	601.35
		$ 949.39
Partners for Progress	(7/64)	500.00
Total			$ 1,449.39

$ 2,500.00
- 1,449.39
$ 1,050.61

P. for Progress
File "Partners for Progress"

April 5, 1965

Mrs. Hamilton Lokey
737 Woodward Way, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Mrs. Lokey:

Mr. Dunbar asked that I acknowledge on behalf of the Council receipt of the $100. check from Partners for Progress received April 1, 1965.

Thank you and best wishes.

Sincerely yours,

Ruth House Alexander
Secretary-Treasurer

RHA/hs
Enclosure (Receipt $100.)

4/1/65 100.00 MP

RHA

MRS. HAMILTON LOKEY
737 WOODWARD WAY NORTH WEST
ATLANTA, GEORGIA 30327

Dear Dr. Dunbar

Enclosed is a check for $100.00 from Partners for Progress. Betty Vinson asked me to send this to the Council as a refund on money originally loaned us for our use.

Thank you.

Muriel M. Lokey

March 31, '65

Ack. Acknowledge

Memo from RUTH HOUSE ALEXANDER

150.00 - 3/13

789.92

10.08

350.00

1450 —

130000

250

1550000

1550

1449.39

2999.39

348.04

601.35

500.00

1449.39

2500.00

1449.39

1050.61

PA ✓
VJ ✓
SB ✓
mj - file

To: Women for Progress - file - "WO" Gen. Corresp

From: Grace T. Hamilton - Coordinator

Report of developments:

Following the meeting on Nov. 13 at which the WOMEN FOR PROGRESS' scroll and endorsing signatures was presented to the Board of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, a policy statement was released by the Chamber reaffirming its earlier position and adding "...in the areas of service to the general public and in employment opportunities, the Chamber of Commerce believes that the business community, voluntarily and without legislation or other pressure, should immediately begin to eliminate discrimination based upon race or color, in those areas where such discrimination exists....."

The Atlanta Board of Aldermen at a regular meeting on Nov. 18, refused to act upon a resolution introduced by Aldermen Cook, Fowlkes and Freeman calling for the voluntary elimination of discrimination based on race or color in places of business serving the public, and referred the proposed resolution to committee. A public hearing on this matter is planned by the chairman of the committee, Mr. Cecil Turner.

It has been suggested that the individuals and groups associated in Women for Progress' endorsement of the Chamber's policy and of bussinessmen who have recognized their responsibility to our city may wish to express their concern to the Board of Aldermen.

Letters or wires should —

(1) call attention to the crucial importance of official recognition by Atlanta's elected representatives that discrimination based on race or color is detrimental to the progress, and welfare of our city and is contrary to good public policy;

(2) urge prompt action by the Board of Aldermen to clarify the official position of the city's government upon the elimination of discriminatory practices based on race by business serving the public in our city.

Messages should be sent to the President of the Board of Aldermen for the Board's attention and to the chairman of the Legislative Committee.

Mr. Sam Massell, Jr., President Atlanta Board of Aldermen;
40 Pryor Street, S. W.
Mr. Cecil Turner, Chairman Legislative Committee;
Office: 530 Candler Building
Res.: 1779 Merton Road, N. E.

REMINDER: Meeting Women's Coordinating Committee - Dec. 3, 11 a.m.
YWCA - 72 Edgewood Avenue, N. E.

Return, ~~[illegible]~~ as soon as read — I have only 3 copies. — M E. J. —

file

Partners for Progress — Atlanta, Georgia

Fact Sheet on Grady Hospital Desegregation

1. The attached names and addresses belong to Public Officials who are responsible for the operation of the Henry Grady Hospital.

2. Please write a minimum of four letters, preferably to the underscored names, (more if you like, or if you know any of the men personally) in your own words. Your letters can say the same thing (since they will be going to different people) and they can be as short as you desire.

3. It is important that you make a carbon of each one of your letters. Even though you may write in longhand, a ballpoint pen makes a perfectly legible copy.

4. Return your copies to your telephone chairman. It is most urgent that we have a record of how many letters have been sent. Your letters will not be made public; neither will your name.

5. Keep your letters simple and to the point. We are asking that Grady Hospital, a public, tax-supported institution be desegregated. We believe that all forms of segregation are immoral. But segregation in hospital facilities, treatment and training of medical personnel are particularly reprehensible. Illness knows no color line. The segregated set-up at Grady results in enormous duplication and waste of human and economic resources, as well as embarrassment and inconvenience to members of both races.

Two examples give ample illustration of the above point:

(1) Grady operates two entirely separate Emergency Clinics. Often, one of the Clinics (either White or Negro) is standing idle, while patients desperately in need of emergency medical attention await their turn, sometimes for hours in a never-ending line. Wouldn't everyone receive better medical care if all emergencies were treated on a "first-come, first-served" basis.

(2) Even the switchboard at Grady functions on a color line. You have probably heard of the anxious mother whose child had just swallowed some Turpentine. The mother frantically phoned the Grady Poison Clinic and said, "My three-year old has just swallowed Turpentine. What do I do?" The answer came back matter-of-factly, "White or colored?" Fantastic as this sounds, it is repeated in hundreds of daily calls to the hospital.

6. If you wish to follow up your letters with a telephone call, we have furnished telephone numbers for your convenience. We wish to state what we are for -- not to berate any particular individual for what he may be against.

7. If you have time, and wish to do so, please send a "Letter to the Editor" (either The Constitution or The Journal) on this subject. It would be most helpful. However, our main purpose at this time is to let our Public Officials (who should be responsive to public opinion) know how we feel.

Read the sheet of instructions first and write a letter to each of these 4 men -- give me a carbon copy of each. Mrs. M. E. Tilly

1. The Fulton-DeKalb Hospital Authority

   W. O. Duvall, Chairman 22 Marietta St., N.W. 523-8421

2. The Fulton County Commissioner

   Harold F. McCart, Chairman Bus: 1112 Peachtree St., N.E. 874-6314
   Res: 1619 Lady Marion Lane, N.E. 876-6951

3. The DeKalb County Commissioner

   Charles O. Emmerich, Chairman Bus: DeKalb Bldg. Decatur DR 3-5731
   Res: 2399 Clairmont Rd., NE ME 4-3265

4. Dr. Sanford G. Atwood, President Emory University*
   1380 S. Oxford Rd., N.E. 377-2411

* Emory University is responsible for Medical Training at Grady.

-file

WE BELIEVE . . .

. . . in the possibilities of growth for a greater Atlanta and of individual citizens in Atlanta.

WE ARE COMMITTED . . .

. . . to the belief that every citizen of Atlanta can and must be extended the same opportunities.

WE ARE AWARE . . .

. . . that all women are deeply concerned that every child in Atlanta be allowed and encouraged to grow up in a climate of good will, and an atmosphere of calm acceptance of the responsibility of being a good citizen.

WE ARE CONCERNED . . .

. . . that Atlanta learn from the experiences of other cities, both the good experiences and the bad. We are even more concerned that Atlanta become the city where every child and every adult have an equal opportunity . . . and that this be done because it is right.

WE ARE ENCOURAGED . . .

. . . that many of Atlanta's leading citizens, that the leading merchants and businesses, that many of the finest restaurants have recognized and assumed their responsibility of making their services available to ALL citizens of Atlanta.

WE JOIN HANDS . . .

. . . in asking other women to declare their belief in opportunities for all, in urging our churches, our civic organizations and the business interests of Atlanta to remove the barriers that keep any citizen from full participation in the community that is Atlanta.

WE HAVE FAITH . . .

. . . in Atlanta, in its future, in the ability of Atlanta to act because of the rightness of full citizenship.

PARTNERS FOR PROGRESS

(ATLANTA WOMEN OF ALL FAITHS WHO SUBSCRIBE TO THE FOREGOING PRINCIPLES)

STEERING COMMITTEE

Mrs. Cecil Alexander
Mrs. Dan Burge
Mrs. Van P. Enloe
Mrs. DeJongh Franklin
Mrs. Donald Ross Green
Mrs. George Gunning
Mrs. Henry Cook Hamilton
Mrs. Sidney Janus
Mrs. Hamilton Lokey
Mrs. Phil Narmore
Mrs. David Neiman
Mrs. Fred W. Patterson
Mrs. John Patton
Mrs. Brittain Pendergrast
Mrs. Harry V. Richardson
Mrs. H. B. Trimble
Mrs. Edward M. Vinson
Mrs. J. R. Wilson, Sr.

TO: Partners For Progress
P. O. Box 15238
Atlanta, Georgia, 30333

I, too, am committed to the above principles. I would like to join hands with you.

Name _____

Address _____

Telephone _____

August 6, 1959

Miss Lillian Schorr
Secretary to Mr. Lloyd Garrison
575 Madison Avenue
N ew York 22, New York

Dear Miss Schorr:

We have checked our mailing list and, I trust, Mr. Garrison will henceforth receive only one copy of our materials.

Thank you for calling this matter to our attention.

Sincerely,

Paul Anthony
Administrative Assistant

PA/mf

PAUL, WEISS, RIFKIND, WHARTON & GARRISON

575 MADISON AVENUE, NEW YORK 22, N.Y.

MURRAY HILL 8-5600

CABLE: LONGSIGHT, N.Y.

ADLAI E. STEVENSON*
SIMON H. RIFKIND
ROBERT E. SAMUELS
JOHN F. WHARTON
LLOYD K. GARRISON
MYER D. MERMIN
HOWARD A. SEITZ
H. RUSSELL WINOKUR
SAMUEL J. SILVERMAN
ALEXANDER HEHMEYER
ADRIAN W. DEWIND
W. WILLARD WIRTZ*
CAROLYN E. AGGER
LOUIS EISENSTEIN
MORDECAI ROCHLIN
PAUL J. NEWLON
JOSEPH S. ISEMAN
JAMES B. LEWIS
SIDNEY R. NUSSENFELD
MARTIN KLEINBARD
RICHARD H. PAUL
WILLIAM McC. BLAIR, JR.*
NEWTON N. MINOW*
NORMAN ZELENKO
JOHN E. MASSENGALE

*MEMBER ILL. BAR ONLY
MEMBER D.C. BAR ONLY

IN CHICAGO
STEVENSON, RIFKIND & WIRTZ
135 SOUTH LA SALLE STREET

IN WASHINGTON, D.C.
STEVENSON, PAUL, RIFKIND,
WHARTON & GARRISON
1614 EYE STREET, N.W.

ARTHUR J. COHEN
COUNSEL

RANDOLPH E. PAUL (1946-1956)
LOUIS S. WEISS (1927-1950)

July 30, 1959

Southern Regional Council, Inc.
63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Sirs:

I believe I have written you once before, advising that Mr. Lloyd K. Garrison's name evidently appears twice on your mailing list because we get duplicate envelopes of everything you send out. Just today two envelopes arrived from your office (8¢ postage on each) with the identical enclosures.

Wouldn't you like to correct your mailing list and show his name just once?

Very truly yours,

Lillian Schorr

Lillian Schorr
Secretary to Mr. Garrison

via air mail

September 30, 1959

Mr. Lloyd Garrison
575 Madison Avenue
New York, New York

Dear Mr. Garrison:

For some time now, I have very much wanted to have an opportunity to talk with you (without benefit of an agenda!) about our various mutual interests. I am to be in New York Wednesday and Thursday of next week, October 7 and 8, and am hoping that you may have time to see me on one of those days.

I realize that you are hard pressed and will be prepared to how to whatever time limit your schedule may require.

In any case, I will call your secretary Wednesday morning to see what is possible.

With warm regards,

Sincerely,

Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director

HCF/mf

via air mail

October 2, 1959

Miss Lillian Schorr
Secretary to Mr. Garrison
575 Madison Avenue
New York 22, New York

Dear Miss Schorr:

Thank you for your prompt reply to my letter of last Wednesday.

As it happens, I am to be in New York on Friday the 9th, but didn't mention it since I will be in meetings most of the day. However, I will be free between 11:30 and 12:30 or 1:00. If Mr. Garrison should happen to be free at the same time, I will be grateful for an appointment.

In the likely event that there is not time for a reply to reach me before my departure Tuesday evening, I will call Wednesday morning.

Sincerely,

Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director

HCF/mf

PAUL, WEISS, RIFKIND, WHARTON & GARRISON
575 MADISON AVENUE, NEW YORK 22, N.Y.

MURRAY HILL 8-5600
CABLE: LONGSIGHT, N.Y.

ADLAI E. STEVENSON*
SIMON H. RIFKIND
ROBERT E. SAMUELS
JOHN F. WHARTON
LLOYD K. GARRISON
MYER D. MERMIN
HOWARD A. SEITZ
H. RUSSELL WINOKUR
SAMUEL J. SILVERMAN
ALEXANDER HEHMEYER
ADRIAN W. DEWIND
W. WILLARD WIRTZ*
CAROLYN E. AGGER
LOUIS EISENSTEIN
MORDECAI ROCHLIN
PAUL J. NEWLON
JOSEPH S. ISEMAN
JAMES B. LEWIS
SIDNEY R. NUSSENFELD
MARTIN KLEINBARD
RICHARD H. PAUL
WILLIAM McC. BLAIR, JR.*
NEWTON N. MINOW*
NORMAN ZELENKO
JOHN E. MASSENGALE

*MEMBER ILL. BAR ONLY
MEMBER D.C. BAR ONLY

IN CHICAGO
STEVENSON, RIFKIND & WIRTZ
135 SOUTH LA SALLE STREET

IN WASHINGTON, D.C.
STEVENSON, PAUL, RIFKIND,
WHARTON & GARRISON
1614 EYE STREET, N.W.

ARTHUR J. COHEN
COUNSEL

RANDOLPH E. PAUL (1948-1956)
LOUIS S. WEISS (1927-1950)

RECEIVED OCT 2 1959

October 1, 1959

AIR MAIL

Mr. Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Fleming:

Mr. Garrison has your letter of September 30 and asked me to tell you that unfortunately he will be in Chicago on October 6, 7 and 8. But he is quite anxious to talk with you, and if there is a possibility that you will be in New York on the 9th, or will be coming back in the very near future, he would like very much to hear from you.

Very truly yours,

Lillian Schorr

Lillian Schorr
Secretary to Mr. Garrison

January 4, 1961

Mr. Adrian W. DeWind
Paul, Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton & Garrison
575 Madison Avenue, N
New York 22, New York

Dear Mr. DeWind:

Here are copies of some of the material on economics and racial problems that we have prepared and/or distributed. Most of these items went to chambers of commerce and other business leaders, newspaper editors, "open school" advocates in the major Southern cities, and the like.

The most comprehensive effort thus far was that made by the Little Rock Women's Emergency Committee. Both the full report and a summary (in our mimeographed report L-11) are enclosed.

I will look forward to hearing what you and Thurgood work out, and will be glad to be of any help I can.

Cordially,

Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director

HCF/mf
Enclosures

Enclosures:

Settling a Sit-in, Westfeldt
Reprint from the Nashville Tennessean "New Factories Thing of Past in Little Rock", May 31, 1959
The South and the Nation, Collins
"The Role of Business Leaders, NEW SOUTH, May 1956 Opie L. Shelton
L-Reports nos:2, 3, 4, 5, 10, 11, 18, 19, 21, and 22.
Private Business and Public Education in the South, Helen Hill Miller - July-August 1960
Little Rock Report; The City, Its People, Its Business - The Women's Emergency Committee to Open Our Schools - Littl Rock, Ark.

PAUL, WEISS, RIFKIND, WHARTON & GARRISON
575 MADISON AVENUE, NEW YORK 22, N.Y.

MURRAY HILL 8-5600
CABLE: LONGSIGHT, N.Y.

Rec'd
12-23-60

ADLAI E. STEVENSON*
SIMON H. RIFKIND
ROBERT E. SAMUELS
JOHN F. WHARTON
LLOYD K. GARRISON
MYER D. MERMIN
HOWARD A. SEITZ
H. RUSSELL WINOKUR
SAMUEL J. SILVERMAN
ALEXANDER HEHMEYER
ADRIAN W. DEWIND
EDWARD G. MILLER, JR.
W WILLARD WIRTZ*
MORDECAI ROCHLIN
PAUL J. NEWLON
JOSEPH S. ISEMAN
JAMES B. LEWIS
SIDNEY R. NUSSENFELD
MARTIN KLEINBARD
RICHARD H. PAUL
WILLIAM McC. BLAIR, JR.*
NEWTON N. MINOW*
NORMAN ZELENKO
JOHN E. MASSENGALE
JAY H. TOPKIS
EDWARD N. COSTIKYAN

*MEMBER ILL. BAR ONLY

IN CHICAGO
STEVENSON, RIFKIND & WIRTZ
135 SOUTH LA SALLE STREET

IN WASHINGTON, D.C.
STEVENSON, PAUL, RIFKIND,
WHARTON & GARRISON
1625 EYE STREET, N.W.

ARTHUR J. COHEN
COUNSEL

RANDOLPH E. PAUL (1946-1956)
LOUIS S. WEISS (1927-1950)

December 19, 1960

Mr. Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 201, 5 Forsyth Street, N.W.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Fleming:

Many thanks for your letter of December 15. Your ideas and recommendations will be very useful to us. When Thurgood and I have had a chance to pursue it a little further, I will let you know what we are doing. In the meantime, if you have a file on Little Rock, Norfolk and the like that you could lend me so that I could copy any items that might help us, I will take very good care of it and return it to you promptly.

Best regards.

Sincerely,

Adrian W. DeWind

Adrian W. DeWind

PAUL, WEISS, RIFKIND, WHARTON & GARRISON
575 MADISON AVENUE, NEW YORK 22, N.Y.

MURRAY HILL 8-5600
CABLE: LONGSIGHT, N.Y.

ADLAI E. STEVENSON*
SIMON H. RIFKIND
ROBERT E. SAMUELS
JOHN F. WHARTON
LLOYD K. GARRISON
MYER D. MERMIN
HOWARD A. SEITZ
H. RUSSELL WINOKUR
SAMUEL J. SILVERMAN
ALEXANDER HEHMEYER
ADRIAN W. DEWIND
EDWARD G. MILLER, JR.
W WILLARD WIRTZ*
MORDECAI ROCHLIN
PAUL J. NEWLON
JOSEPH S. ISEMAN
JAMES B. LEWIS
SIDNEY R. NUSSENFELD
MARTIN KLEINBARD
RICHARD H. PAUL
WILLIAM McC. BLAIR, JR.*
NEWTON N. MINOW*
NORMAN ZELENKO
JOHN E. MASSENGALE
JAY H. TOPKIS
EDWARD N. COSTIKYAN

*MEMBER ILL. BAR ONLY

IN CHICAGO
STEVENSON, RIFKIND & WIRTZ
135 SOUTH LA SALLE STREET

IN WASHINGTON, D.C.
STEVENSON, PAUL, RIFKIND,
WHARTON & GARRISON
1625 EYE STREET, N.W.

ARTHUR J. COHEN
COUNSEL

RANDOLPH E. PAUL (1946-1956)
LOUIS S. WEISS (1927-1950)

Ernest Rubenstein
John G Simon

January 6, 1961

RECEIVED
JAN 9 1961

Mr. Harold C. Fleming, Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N.W.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Fleming:

Thanks very much for the material you sent me. I have been trying to get hold of Thurgood to complete our plans, but he is a hard man to find these days. I will let you know as soon as I catch up with him.

Sincerely,

Adrian W. DeWind

Adrian W. DeWind

via air mail special March 7, 1961

Mr. Lloyd K. Garrison
Paul, Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton & Garrison
575 Madison Avenue
New York, New York

Dear Mr. Garrison:

Enclosed is a copy of the Charter of the Southern Regional Council, as requested this afternoon by Mrs. Levy of the Taconic Foundation.

Sincerely,

Paul Anthony
Executive Assistant

PA/mf
Enclosure - 1. (SRC Charter)

U. S. TREASURY DEPARTMENT
INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE
WASHINGTON 25, D. C.

IN REPLY REFER TO T:R:EO:3
RFB

MAR 22 1962

Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432, 63 Auburn Avenue
North East
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Gentlemen:

This is in reference to a letter dated December 14, 1961, from Mr. Adrian W. DeWind, Attorney, New York City, in which he requests in your behalf a ruling that your present exemption from Federal income tax as an organization described in section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code will not be adversely affected by the voter registration program you propose to undertake.

The information available for our use in considering your request includes that furnished at a conference held in the National Office of the Internal Revenue Service on January 31, 1962, between our representatives and Mr. Harold C. Fleming and Mr. Adrian W. DeWind, as well as that presented by Mr. DeWind in his letter of February 9, 1962.

The purpose of the program called Project is to develop educational programs which will be most effective in providing voters with the knowledge and will to register. Inasmuch as there are various agencies and groups actively engaged in and staffed for work in voter registration areas, you do not propose to have Project do the field work itself. Rather, you believe that such work can be done most economically and effectively by organizations experienced therein. Accordingly, Project will grant funds and provide consultants for approved voter registration programs conducted by these organizations. In this connection, it appears that Project intends to support a variety of programs: Some involving voter education on an individual basis; some on a group or meeting basis; some working primarily through church organizations; others through community or civic groups. So long as a program is practicable and appears effectively designed to secure voter registration, does not unduly duplicate any other approved program, meets the conditions of Project and will be useful as a source of research, knowledge and experience, it may be considered for approval.

Programs of the cooperating organizations must be submitted to and approved by Project before any grant is made. Basically, approval will be limited to organizations which in your opinion have a background, experience, knowledge and personnel fitted to carry out the work of Project. No program will be approved which does not provide that the program, its employees and agents will refrain from any partisan political propaganda or activity aimed at influencing legislation or supporting any political party or the campaign of any candidate for election to public office. Further, cooperating organizations will be required to submit a proposed detailed budget of their programs, to establish and maintain separate accounting records for Project funds, and to conduct the Project program separately and apart from any of their other activities which are not exclusively charitable or educational. The Project staff will visit and work with the cooperating organizations in the field and the staff will also have the right at any time to examine the pertinent accounting records of each cooperating organization. You intend by such supervision to assure that any misuse of Project funds would come almost immediately to the attention of the Project Director. Furthermore, since payments on the grant to each cooperating organization will be made quarterly, the possibility of cancelling the unpaid balance of the grant will serve as a sanction against the diversion of funds by these organizations from their Project-approved programs.

In addition to the above activities, it is indicated that Project will be used to obtain reports of the programs from the cooperating organizations. The reports will disclose in detail information with respect to the activities, areas of operation, public response, problems encountered, solutions developed and results of the programs. The programs will be analyzed and additional independent research in the matter will be conducted by the Project staff and your research department. After Project has been completed, you intend to publish a report, analysis and evaluation of the programs.

We have concluded that, if you operate Project strictly in accordance with the representations made by Mr. DeWind in his letters of December 14, 1961 and February 9, 1962, the activity will not adversely affect your present exemption from Federal income tax as an organization described in section 501(c)(3) of the Code. In this connection, it is requested that you submit with your annual information return, Form 990-A, a statement in duplicate disclosing full details with respect to your operation of Project during the year covered by the return. The statement should include among other things a complete description of the activities of Project during the year, how the programs of the cooperating organizations are being conducted, the name of each cooperating organization and the amount of the grant made by you to each organization. There is enclosed a copy of this ruling which should be attached to the information return when it is filed.

The District Director of Internal Revenue, Atlanta, Georgia, is being notified of this action.

Very truly yours,

John W S Littleton

Director, Tax Rulings Division

Enclosure:
Copy of this ruling.

THE NEW YORK TIMES, SATURDAY, APRIL 20, 1963.

GARRISON IS FETED BY REFORM GROUP

Eleanor Roosevelt Award Given by Democrats

By RICHARD P. HUNT

Lloyd K. Garrison, a lawyer and champion of liberal causes, received the first annual Eleanor Roosevelt Political and Public Service Memorial Award last night for "efforts for the cause of good government."

Adlai E. Stevenson, the United States representative in the United Nations, made the presentation in behalf of the New York Committee for Democratic Voters, which had established the award in memory of Mrs. Roosevelt.

Mr. Garrison was associated with Mrs. Roosevelt and others in forming the Committee for Democratic Voters, an organization of reform Democrats set up in 1958 to fight the old-line regulars in the Democratic party.

He also has been chairman of the National Labor Relations Board, a member of the National War Labor Board, and an officer of the National Urban League. He is now a member of the New York City Board of Education.

700 at Dinner

The award, a photograph of Mrs. Roosevelt in a silver frame inscribed with a citation, was presented at a dinner for about 700 persons in the Americana hotel.

The citation said Mr. Garrison's "devotion to and efforts for the cause of good government splendidly reflect those ideals and principles which dominated the mind and heart of Mrs. Roosevelt."

Mr. Stevenson is the chairman of an 18-member group appointed by President Kennedy to further the aims of Mrs. Roosevelt, who died last Nov. 7 at the age of 78.

In an address prepared for delivery at the dinner, Mr. Garrison said:

"Eleanor Roosevelt was the greatest human being I have ever known. To have my name linked with hers, even for a single fugitive moment, is a breathtaking experience."

Friends Review Life

However, he had another experience last night, when seven friends surprised Mr. Garrison by relating the part he had played in their lives. The program was patterned after the television show, "This Is Your Life."

Marc Connelly, the playwright, was master of ceremonies for the review of Mr. Garrison's career. The others who spoke were Senator Gaylord A. Nelson, Democrat of Wisconsin; Newton N. Minow, chairman of the Federal Communciations Commission; Langston Hughes, poet and playwright; Harold Taylor, former president of Sarah Lawrence College; Emily Kimbrough, author, and Charles Kinsolving, Democratic leader of the First Assembly District North.

Dore Schary, motion picture producer, read a tribute to Mrs. Roosevelt. Messages from former Governor Herbert H. Lehman and Fel Frankfurter, former Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, conveyed their congratulations to Mr. Garrison.

Among the guests were Judge Thurgood Marshall of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, Senator Frank E. Moss, Democrat of Utah, Mrs. Marietta Tree, a special adviser to Ambassador Stevenson, Burke Marshall, chief of the civil rights division of the Justice Department, and William H. McKeon, the Democratic state chairman.

Civil Rights Champion

Lloyd Kirkham Garrison

C. V. Fee

TWENTY-FIVE years ago when Lloyd Kirkham Garrison was being mentioned as a possible selection for the Supreme Court, a skeptical observer suggested that perhaps he lacked the practical experience for such an appointment. However, one of Mr. Garrison's fervid supporters—and most of his supporters seem to qualify as fervid — countered by saying: "He was a successful Wall Street lawyer. That sounds practical, doesn't it?"

Man in the News

Mr. Garrison's career is an unusual combination of the practical and the idealistic. He is a reformer with a sense of humor, a self-effacing scholarly man who has penetrated into the jungle of New York politics, and a humanitarian who has faced grim realities.

Last night Mr. Garrison received the first annual Eleanor Roosevelt Political and Public Service Memorial Award.

The tall, rangy lawyer is the great-grandson of William Lloyd Garrison, the Boston abolitionist leader whose fiery, uncompromising pronouncements a century ago whipped up strong emotions on the subject of slavery.

Mr. Garrison was born here on Nov. 19, 1897, to Lloyd McKim and Alice Kirkham Garrison. His paternal grandfather, Wendell Phillips Garrison, was literary editor of The Nation.

In Father's Footsteps

A graduate of St. Paul's and Harvard College, Mr. Garrison served in the Navy in World War I, rising to the rank of chief petty officer. After briefly considering becoming a writer, he decided to follow his father's footsteps in law.

He graduated from Harvard Law School in 1922 and then gained a position in the Wall Street law firm headed by Elihu Root. In 1926, he became a member of the law firm of Parker & Garrison.

Mr. Garrison retired from the private practice of law in 1932 to become professor and dean of the University of Wisconsin Law School. Two years later, he was called to Washington to organize the National Labor Relations Board. He soon became closely identified with the labor relations field and in World War II, as chairman of the National War Labor Board, issued a report that emphasized "the principle of equal pay for equal work, regardless of race, color, creed or sex."

The New York Times

Practicing idealist

(Mr. Garrison before receiving award yesterday evening)

Mr. Garrison recently told an interviewer that he had never planned his life, and that for him "life has been a series of accidents." Such an "accident," he declared, was his joining the National Urban League in 1924. His membership in the league, which is devoted to improving the living conditions of Negroes, opened his eyes "to the realities," he said. He has also long been active in the American Civil Liberties Union.

Member of Law Firm

Since 1946 Mr. Garrison has been a member of the law firm of Paul Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton & Garrison.

The 65-year-old lawyer's principal hobbies are said to be bird-watching, keeping up the grounds of his country home in Brewster, N.Y., and reading philosphy, Greek literature and politics.

One who has known him describes him as "moderately shy but not rigid in his attitudes," and says "he is warm and delightful, has no preconceived notions and can listen dispassionately before making a decision."

Mr. Garrison is married to the former Ellen Jay, a descendent of John Jay, the first United States Chief Justice. They have two daughters, a son and nine grandchildren. They live at 133 East 64th Street.

file - Garrison, Lloyd

April 28, 1965

Mr. Morris Abram
Paul, Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton and Garrison
575 Madison Avenue
New York, New York

Dear Morris:

I thought you might want to have a copy of our annual report.

Max Hahn has told me about Jane's operation. I am deeply sorry, but glad and relieved to head that apparently everything has turned out fine.

All good wishes.

Sincerely yours,

Leslie W. Dunbar
Executive Director

LWD/mmj
Enclosure - 1. (Annual Report)

PAUL, WEISS, RIFKIND, WHARTON & GARRISON
575 MADISON AVENUE, NEW YORK, N.Y. 10022

MURRAY HILL 8-5600
CABLE: LONGSIGHT, N.Y.

SIMON H. RIFKIND
ROBERT E. SAMUELS
JOHN F. WHARTON
LLOYD K. GARRISON
MYER D. MERMIN
HOWARD A. SEITZ
H. RUSSELL WINOKUR
ALEXANDER HEHMEYER
ADRIAN W. DEWIND
MORRIS B. ABRAM
MORDECAI ROCHLIN
PAUL J. NEWLON
JOSEPH S. ISEMAN
JAMES B. LEWIS
SIDNEY R. NUSSENFELD
MARTIN KLEINBARD
RICHARD H. PAUL
NORMAN ZELENKO
JOHN E. MASSENGALE
JAY H. TOPKIS
EDWARD N. COSTIKYAN
ROBERT H. MONTGOMERY, JR.
JOHN C. TAYLOR, 3RD
BERNARD H. GREENE
ERNEST RUBENSTEIN
ALLAN B. ECKER
ALAN N. COHEN
JAMES L. PURCELL
ARTHUR KALISH
DAVID T. WASHBURN
BERNARD FINKELSTEIN

RANDOLPH E. PAUL (1946-1956)
LOUIS S. WEISS (1927-1950)

August 25, 1965

Mr. Leslie W. Dunbar, Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N.W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Les:

Please excuse my long delay in replying to your letter of July 14. I have been vacationing and, with a lot of other people in the office away, I have been overloaded.

I see no reason why you should not re-establish an active Voter Education Project. Moreover I do not see why, so long as it is conducted on an educational, entirely non-partisan basis, that it is an essential part of the project that it lead to a research report, although that certainly was part of the basis for obtaining the original ruling. I should think that to avoid any necessity of having to go back for a reaffirmation of the ruling by the Internal Revenue Service, that you should continue to have reports prepared of the results of the project so that it will maintain its research nature even though the research may be less elaborate than in the past.

Best regards,

Sincerely,

Adrian W. DeWind

AIR MAIL

file

July 14, 1965

Mr. Adrian DeWind
Paul, Weiss, Rifkind,
Wharton, and Garrison
575 Madison Avenue
New York, New York

Dear Bill:

Enough inquiries are coming to us now about resuming the Voter Education Project that I would like to get some counsel from you. I would not like to be giving the wrong answers.

The old VEP wound up all its field work last fall. We still have to produce our study, and are under contract with Harcourt Brace to deliver a manuscript by next April.

I have re-read the Treasury letter of March 22, 1962, and I do not see anything in it which would inhibit us from re-establishing an active project. No termination date was mentioned. The fact that we consider the project ended and are now preparing a final report may, however, have some bearing. On the other hand, if VEP were resumed, presumably some kind of report would come out at the end of the new VEP. The book we are now doing might be considered just one stage.

It seems to me that we might also consider whether something like VEP could not be carried on here without, this time, any reference necessarily to research objectives.

I believe we could with security hold that voter registration is a non-political activity, and that whatever doubt over this there may have been has been dispelled by passage of the Voting Rights bill. I believe we have demonstrated that we are able to administer a voter registration program without partisan activity.

I would greatly appreciate your guidance.

Sincerely yours,

Leslie W. Dunbar
Executive Director

LWD:js

File

PAUL, WEISS, RIFKIND, WHARTON & GARRISON
575 MADISON AVENUE
NEW YORK, N. Y. 10022

BC: Mrs. Ruth Field
Mrs. David Rust
Mr. Arthur Krim
Dr. Leslie Dunbar
Mr. Maxwell Hahn

Party MI

September 1, 1965

Honorable Hubert H. Humphrey
Vice President of the United States
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Vice President:

First, on behalf of Mrs. Field, Mrs. Rust, Mr. Krim, Dr. Dunbar and myself, and all the Directors of the Field Foundation, I want to thank you sincerely for your time, your interest, and the exciting ideas which you contributed to the meeting yesterday. I don't think I have spent a more profitable hour since the occasion on which you told Sargent Shriver, Bill Moyers and me your views on the Peace Corps legislation then pending in the Congress.

I also would like to add my appreciation for the excellent staff work--through Wiley Branton--and want to assure you that it is our intention to follow through with such suggestions as ultimately prove out to the satisfaction of you, your staff, and the Directors of the Field Foundation.

Meanwhile, I would like to transmit a memorandum of my partner, Lloyd K. Garrison, who, as you know, is President of the New York Board of Education, and also a Director of the Field Foundation. He has served the Foundation for many years as the Chairman of its Race Relations Committee. He brings to the subject, therefore, unique competence and experience. This memorandum is right on the point with respect to many issues which we discussed, and I am deeply impressed with the fundamental and imaginative way in which Lloyd has dealt with these problems. I know your staff will find this memorandum a real contribution to the subject, and I am positive that Lloyd Garrison would find the time to discuss further any of the points, should you so desire.

Sincerely,

Morris B. Abram

MBA:m
Encl.

CC: Wiley Branton, Esq.

file

September 24, 1965

Mr. Morris Abram
Paul, Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton & Garrison
575 Madison Avenue
New York, New York

Dear Morris:

We are moving into Pelham next Friday, October 1. I shall be in the office on Monday, October 4.

In reviewing things in my mind, there are a number of questions I would like to take up with you as soon as you could conveniently give me some time; most of them could, I think, be disposed of pretty quickly. Except for what will be a fairly long lunch on Tuesday, October 5, I could get together with you anytime that first week, if that would be possible for you. Could you have your secretary leave some word at the office?

I have a date to stop off in Washington next Wednesday morning to meet with Wiley Branton, Max Kampelmann, and Evron Kirkpatrick for discussion along the lines we had with the Vice-President. Today's administrative shakeup may cancel these plans, but if we do have a meeting, I'll give you a report when I see you.

Sincerely yours,

Leslie W. Dunbar
Executive Director

LWD/mmj

file

via air mail special October 6, 1965

Mr. Morris Abram
Paul, Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton & Garrison
575 Madison Avenue
New York, New York

Dear Mr. Abram:

At the request of Mr. Anthony I send the enclosed.

Sincerely yours,

(Mrs.) Mildred M. Johnson
Secretary to the Director

MMJ
Enclosure - 1.

(LWD ltr. to Wiley Branton dtd Aug. 5, 1965)

December 21, 1965

Mr. Morris Abram
Paul, Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton & Garrison
575 Madison Avenue
New York, New York

Dear Morris:

Please accept from all of us here our warmest congratulations on your election as President of the Field Foundation.

The fact that the Foundation obviously chose the best man, not withstanding, we still take neighborly pride in your accomplishment and still hope that some day you will find time to visit us again.

With best wishes.

Sincerely,

Paul Anthony
Executive Director

PA/km

MJ-file

SIMON H. RIFKIND
ROBERT E. SAMUELS
JOHN F. WHARTON
LLOYD K. GARRISON
MYER D. MERMIN
HOWARD A. SEITZ
H. RUSSELL WINOKUR
ALEXANDER HEHMEYER
ADRIAN W. DeWIND
EDWARD G. MILLER, JR.
MORRIS B. ABRAM
MORDECAI ROCHLIN
PAUL J. NEWLON
JOSEPH S. ISEMAN
JAMES B. LEWIS
SIDNEY R. NUSSENFELD
MARTIN KLEINBARD
RICHARD H. PAUL
NORMAN ZELENKO
JOHN E. MASSENGALE
JAY H. TOPKIS
EDWARD N. COSTIKYAN
ROBERT H. MONTGOMERY, JR.
JOHN C. TAYLOR, 3RD
BERNARD H. GREENE
ERNEST RUBENSTEIN
ALLAN B. ECKER
ALAN N. COHEN
JAMES L. PURCELL
ARTHUR KALISH
DAVID T. WASHBURN
BERNARD FINKELSTEIN

PAUL, WEISS, RIFKIND, WHARTON & GARRISON
575 MADISON AVENUE, NEW YORK, N.Y. 10022

MURRAY HILL 8-5600
CABLE: LONGSIGHT, N.Y.

ARTHUR J. COHEN
COUNSEL

RANDOLPH E. PAUL (1946-1956)
LOUIS S. WEISS (1927-1950)

December 27, 1965

Mr. Paul Anthony, Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Paul:

Thanks for your warm and appreciated letter of December 21st.

Southern Regional Council has always been one of Field's favorite philanthropies. I don't know what we would do without you.

Best regards,

Morris

Morris B. Abram

Dictated by Mr. Abram 12/23 and signed in his absence by R.L

file.

cr. ref
V.E.P., 1966 gen. corresp.

February 22, 1966

Mr. Adrian W. DeWind
Paul, Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton & Garrison
575 Madison Avenue
New York, New York 10022

Dear Mr. DeWind:

Thank you for your letter of February 9 and your comments on the continued Voter Education Project. We shall continue as you suggest.

It is very likely that there will be a growing emphasis on the research functions of this project and that we shall establish a close working relationship with a number of colleges and universities in the region.

Please know we are deeply grateful for your interest and assistance.

Sincerely,

Paul Anthony
Executive Director

PA/km

Face
Paul. Weiss

January 21, 1966

Mr. Adrian W. DeWind
Paul, Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton & Garrison
575 Madison Avenue
New York, New York 10022

Dear Mr. DeWind:

The Council is fast approaching the launching of a second Voter Education Project. To that end we are enclosing for your review the following: (1) a copy of the proposal submitted to the Field and Taconic Foundations; (2) a report of the meeting of the Advisory Committee to the Voter Education Project, which was also submitted to the foundations; (3) a copy of the memorandum submitted by our CPA firm of Sowell and Harden suggesting financial procedures for the Voter Education Project, and (4) tentative guidelines as drafted by the VEP staff.

Hopefully, the project will be operable in terms of grant-making on/or about February 1st. However, prior to making any grants, we need the advice of counsel as to whether the enclosed materials are consistent with the tax-exemption of the first VEP.

We assume from your letter of August 25 to Leslie Dunbar that we may continue this program, emphasizing its educational and non-partisan nature, and continuing sending annual reports to the Internal Revenue Service without further checking with IRS. In this regard, through our anticipated cooperation with a number of colleges and universities, through student scholarships, and in other ways, we believe there will actually be a more identifiable educational aspect to the program than with the first project.

We would deeply appreciate your appraisal of the situation at your convenience.

Sincerely,

Paul Anthony
Executive Director

PA/mmj
cc: Mr. Leslie W. Dunbar

PAUL, WEISS, RIFKIND, WHARTON & GARRISON

575 MADISON AVENUE, NEW YORK, N.Y. 10022

(212) MURRAY HILL 8-5600

CABLE: LONGSIGHT, N.Y.

SIMON H. RIFKIND
ROBERT E. SAMUELS
LLOYD K. GARRISON
MYER D. MERMIN
HOWARD A. SEITZ
H. RUSSELL WINOKUR
ALEXANDER HEHMEYER
ADRIAN W. DEWIND
MORRIS B. ABRAM
MORDECAI ROCHLIN
PAUL J. NEWLON
JOSEPH S. ISEMAN
JAMES B. LEWIS
SIDNEY R. NUSSENFELD
MARTIN KLEINBARD
RICHARD H. PAUL
NORMAN ZELENKO
JOHN E. MASSENGALE
JAY H. TOPKIS
EDWARD N. COSTIKYAN
ROBERT H. MONTGOMERY, JR.
JOHN C. TAYLOR, 3RD
BERNARD H. GREENE
ERNEST RUBENSTEIN
ALLAN B. ECKER
ALAN N. COHEN
JAMES L. PURCELL
ARTHUR KALISH
DAVID T. WASHBURN
BERNARD FINKELSTEIN
ARTHUR L. LIMAN

JOHN F. WHARTON
COUNSEL

RANDOLPH E. PAUL (1948-1956)
LOUIS S. WEISS (1927-1950)

Recd 2/10/66

February 9, 1966

Mr. Paul Anthony, Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Mr. Anthony:

Les Dunbar was in this morning and mentioned that you were anxious to have our views on the second Voter Registration Project. I told Les I had written to you sometime ago about this, only to discover that I was quite wrong--that somehow my reply had not gone forward to you. Many apologies.

I think the second project, as outlined in your letter of January 21, falls within the Internal Revenue Service ruling of March 22, 1962, and that you should have no difficulty on that score in carrying it forward. While the research report aspects may be less extensive than in the case of the first project, I do not think it constitutes a significant departure.

Let me know if you need anything further.

Sincerely,

Adrian W. DeWind

Adrian W. DeWind

Air Mail

Rec'd 5/15/67

PAUL, WEISS, RIFKIND, WHARTON & GARRISON

575 MADISON AVENUE, NEW YORK, N.Y. 10022

(212) 688-5600

CABLE: LONGSIGHT, N.Y.

SIMON H. RIFKIND
ROBERT E. SAMUELS
LLOYD K. GARRISON
HOWARD A. SEITZ
H. RUSSELL WINOKUR
ALEXANDER HEHMEYER
ADRIAN W. DEWIND
MORRIS B. ABRAM
MORDECAI ROCHLIN
PAUL J. NEWLON
JOSEPH S. ISEMAN
JAMES B. LEWIS
THEODORE C. SORENSEN
SIDNEY R. NUSSENFELD
MARTIN KLEINBARD
RICHARD H. PAUL
NORMAN ZELENKO
JOHN E. MASSENGALE
JAY H. TOPKIS
EDWARD N. COSTIKYAN
ROBERT H. MONTGOMERY, JR.
JOHN C. TAYLOR, 3RD
BERNARD H. GREENE
ERNEST RUBENSTEIN
ALLAN B. ECKER
ALAN N. COHEN
JAMES L. PURCELL
ARTHUR KALISH
DAVID T. WASHBURN
BERNARD FINKELSTEIN
ARTHUR L. LIMAN
RICHARD R. DAVIDSON
SEYMOUR HERTZ
WALTER F. LEINHARDT
GERALD D. STERN

JOHN F. WHARTON
COUNSEL

RANDOLPH E. PAUL (1946-1956)
LOUIS S. WEISS (1927-1950)

May 12, 1967

Mr. Paul Anthony, Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N.W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Mr. Anthony:

I have studied your letter of April 24 and the enclosures relating to the Workshop for candidates which you conducted in cooperation with the Legal Defense Fund.

As you note, this activity is not one which was described in our ruling application and, accordingly, is a change in activity which would normally be reported to the Internal Revenue Service with the next filing of your Form 990-A. Therefore, the Internal Revenue Service has not blessed this activity as a qualified one for a charitable organization.

As you describe the nature of the project and its method of operation, it seems to me that it falls within the definition of charitable activities in section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code and the applicable regulations. It is, of course, a crucial fact that the Internal Revenue Service might conceivably wish to establish by audit that the Workshop in no way participated in the election campaign of any candidate, but since you assure me that this is not so, I do not believe you should have any difficulty with the Service. The fact that the Legal Defense Fund was a cooperating agency should also be helpful in establishing the bona fide charitable nature of the project.

If there is anything further you would like to have from me, please let me know.

Sincerely,

Adrian W. DeWind

Rec'd 5/15/67

PAUL, WEISS, RIFKIND, WHARTON & GARRISON

575 MADISON AVENUE, NEW YORK, N.Y. 10022

(212) 688-5600

CABLE: LONGSIGHT, N.Y.

SIMON H. RIFKIND
ROBERT E. SAMUELS
LLOYD K. GARRISON
HOWARD A. SEITZ
H. RUSSELL WINOKUR
ALEXANDER HEHMEYER
ADRIAN W. DEWIND
MORRIS B. ABRAM
MORDECAI ROCHLIN
PAUL J. NEWLON
JOSEPH S. ISEMAN
JAMES B. LEWIS
THEODORE C. SORENSEN
SIDNEY R. NUSSENFELD
MARTIN KLEINBARD
RICHARD H. PAUL
NORMAN ZELENKO
JOHN E. MASSENGALE
JAY H. TOPKIS
EDWARD N. COSTIKYAN
ROBERT H. MONTGOMERY, JR.
JOHN C. TAYLOR, 3RD
BERNARD H. GREENE
ERNEST RUBENSTEIN
ALLAN B. ECKER
ALAN N. COHEN
JAMES L. PURCELL
ARTHUR KALISH
DAVID T. WASHBURN
BERNARD FINKELSTEIN
ARTHUR L. LIMAN
RICHARD R. DAVIDSON
SEYMOUR HERTZ
WALTER F. LEINHARDT
GERALD D. STERN

JOHN F. WHARTON
COUNSEL

RANDOLPH E. PAUL (1948-1956)
LOUIS S. WEISS (1927-1950)

May 12, 1967

Mr. Paul Anthony, Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N.W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Mr. Anthony:

I have studied your letter of April 24 and the enclosures relating to the Workshop for candidates which you conducted in cooperation with the Legal Defense Fund.

As you note, this activity is not one which was described in our ruling application and, accordingly, is a change in activity which would normally be reported to the Internal Revenue Service with the next filing of your Form 990-A. Therefore, the Internal Revenue Service has not blessed this activity as a qualified one for a charitable organization.

As you describe the nature of the project and its method of operation, it seems to me that it falls within the definition of charitable activities in section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code and the applicable regulations. It is, of course, a crucial fact that the Internal Revenue Service might conceivably wish to establish by audit that the Workshop in no way participated in the election campaign of any candidate, but since you assure me that this is not so, I do not believe you should have any difficulty with the Service. The fact that the Legal Defense Fund was a cooperating agency should also be helpful in establishing the bona fide charitable nature of the project.

If there is anything further you would like to have from me, please let me know.

Sincerely,

Adrian W. DeWind

Adrian W. DeWind

File
Paul Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton & Garrison

May 31, 1967

Mr. Adrian W. DeWind
Paul, Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton & Garrison
575 Madison Avenue
New York, New York 10022

Dear Mr. DeWind:

Please forgive me this long delay in responding to your letter of May 12th. However, I have been out of the office since that time until today.

Your letter is very helpful to us, and we are grateful for your response and opinion.

With best wishes,

Sincerely yours,

Paul Anthony
Executive Director

PA/mmj

Rec'd 5/15/67

PAUL, WEISS, RIFKIND, WHARTON & GARRISON

575 MADISON AVENUE, NEW YORK, N.Y. 10022

(212) 688-5600

CABLE: LONGSIGHT, N.Y.

SIMON H. RIFKIND
ROBERT E. SAMUELS
LLOYD K. GARRISON
HOWARD A. SEITZ
H. RUSSELL WINOKUR
ALEXANDER HEHMEYER
ADRIAN W. DeWIND
MORRIS B. ABRAM
MORDECAI ROCHLIN
PAUL J. NEWLON
JOSEPH S. ISEMAN
JAMES B. LEWIS
THEODORE C. SORENSEN
SIDNEY R. NUSSENFELD
MARTIN KLEINBARD
RICHARD H. PAUL
NORMAN ZELENKO
JOHN E. MASSENGALE
JAY H. TOPKIS
EDWARD N. COSTIKYAN
ROBERT H. MONTGOMERY, JR.
JOHN C. TAYLOR, 3RD
BERNARD H. GREENE
ERNEST RUBENSTEIN
ALLAN B. ECKER
ALAN N. COHEN
JAMES L. PURCELL
ARTHUR KALISH
DAVID T. WASHBURN
BERNARD FINKELSTEIN
ARTHUR L. LIMAN
RICHARD R. DAVIDSON
SEYMOUR HERTZ
WALTER F. LEINHARDT
GERALD D. STERN

JOHN F. WHARTON
COUNSEL

RANDOLPH E. PAUL (1946-1956)
LOUIS S. WEISS (1927-1950)

Copy to 25-7

May 12, 1967

Mr. Paul Anthony, Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N.W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Mr. Anthony:

I have studied your letter of April 24 and the enclosures relating to the Workshop for candidates which you conducted in cooperation with the Legal Defense Fund.

As you note, this activity is not one which was described in our ruling application and, accordingly, is a change in activity which would normally be reported to the Internal Revenue Service with the next filing of your Form 990-A. Therefore, the Internal Revenue Service has not blessed this activity as a qualified one for a charitable organization.

As you describe the nature of the project and its method of operation, it seems to me that it falls within the definition of charitable activities in section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code and the applicable regulations. It is, of course, a crucial fact that the Internal Revenue Service might conceivably wish to establish by audit that the Workshop in no way participated in the election campaign of any candidate, but since you assure me that this is not so, I do not believe you should have any difficulty with the Service. The fact that the Legal Defense Fund was a cooperating agency should also be helpful in establishing the bona fide charitable nature of the project.

If there is anything further you would like to have from me, please let me know.

Sincerely,

Adrian W. DeWind

Adrian W. DeWind

file
Paul, Weiss, Rifkind,
Wharton & Garrison

October 27, 1967

Mr. Adrian W. DeWind
Paul, Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton & Garrison
575 Madison Avenue
New York, New York 10022

Dear Mr. DeWind:

Thank you for your reactions to the Jordan statement. Your response indicates the situation is as grave as I had feared. It appears the quote was somewhat out of context, but certainly it should not have occurred.

We are taking steps to see that such a thing does not occur again.

Again my sincere appreciation for your valuable assistance.

Sincerely,

Paul Anthony
Executive Director

PA/km

September 7, 1954

Miss Flo Pedlar
345 Bonebank Street
Winnipeg 9,
Manitoba, Canada

Dear Miss Pedlar:

Thank you for your letter of August 10th expressing interest in professional work with the Southern Regional Council.

We enclose a folder which describes the objectives and program of the Council. We hope that you will continue your interest in the Southern regionl and in the field of race relations, although it is not possible to indicate employment opportunities for you at this time.

Yours cordially,

Mrs. Grace T. Hamilton
Associate Executive Director.

GTH/eab

BTH to reply

345 Bonkank St.,
Winnipeg 9, Man.,
August 10, 1954.

Dear Sir:

Would you please send me an outline of the nature and scope of the work which a graduate social worker could do in your organization?

I am a Third year Arts student at the University of Manitoba and intend to enter Social Work after I receive my B.A. I am interested in a career in race relations.

I was referred to your organization by Mrs. Clara Newman of the Phelps-Stokes Fund.

Sincerely yours,
(Miss) Flo Pedlar

October 25, 1954

Courtney Siceloff, Director
Penn Community Services, Inc.
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, S. Ca.

Dear Courtney:

I have sent a copy of the September "New South" to Dr. McArthur, making you a special price of nothing down, 2% in ten days.

Seriously we are glad to have a chance to propagandize any effective school person and will be glad to get any further suggestions if they occur to you.

Hope young John behaved himself like a gentleman on your recent family junket.

Best to you all.

Sincerely,

Harold C. Fleming
Assistant Director

HCF/rf

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

COURTNEY SICELOFF
Director

October 10, 1954

Harold Fleming,
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Ave
Atlanta, Georgia.

Dear Harold,

Have just read the September "New South", and find along wi th the previous ones excellant.

Sent HCF

Would like for you to send copy of same to Dr. Currie McArthur, Supt. of School District #1, Beaufort, S.C. He's a good guy but worried about the private school angle. Bill me for the copy, letting me know if it's 12% in 10, or net in 30 days.

Leaving Tuesday for Board meeting in New York, via family reunion in Illinois. Taking John, so pray for us.

Liked the Ashmore-Fleming report mucho.

Regards to family. Come for a visit.

Sincerely,

Courtney

Churches - Meth - Ga

Paine College

ESTABLISHED 1882

AUSPICES METHODIST CHURCH AND
COLORED METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

E.C. PETERS, PRESIDENT

Augusta, Georgia

Feb. 14, 1956.

Mr. Harold C. Fleming,
Asst. Dir.
The Southern Regional Council
Wesley Memorial Building
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Mr. Fleming:

I wonder if you could give me the name of the machine, the manufacturer, and the name of an Augusta dealer if there is one, of the Copying Machine that you showed me when I was in your office last week. If there is not an Augusta dealer please give me the name of an Atlanta dealer. Any information you can give me along these lines will be appreciated.

Thanking you, I am

Very truly yours,

Ed Peters

ECP:W

P.S. Atlanta dealer with address will do. Thank you

Ans. 2-22-56
HCF

MEMBER
UNITED NEGRO COLLEGE FUND

March 26, 1956

Mr. James Peck
552 Riverside Drive
New York 27, New York

Dear Mr. Peck:

Appreciate kind words, and I hope ypu will continue to like us.

We are a queer old outfit. Perhaps nicest thing is that we really belong. An old gentleman who died last month, Dr. W.W. Alexander, got concerned about these matters during World War I, and after it he was used to settle some of the race riots. He established beginning in 1919 a lot of local interracial committees, and hooked them together into State Interracial Committees, and hooked them together into a Commission on Interracial Cooperation, here in Atlanta. That lasted 'til the middle 'forties. It seldom raised issues of segregation, fought interracial violence of all kinds, headed off a many a lynching, and did a good deal in this locality or that to begin fetching things around toward decency. But it was often inactive, and was accused of failing to keep up with the times. Then the Sociologists wrote big books, that said people ought to be more equal. That seemed good to get around. And with World War I came the general urge toward some show of real democracy.

A large meeting was held in Durham in 1943, I think, of Negro persons. They drafted a statement of what needed to be done soon. Then some white people met and agreed that the statement was reasonable. Then the two met together and said they would have to have a Southern Regional Council to get things done. So that was SRC - February, 1944.

Into the pot they put the surviving interracial groups, the Sociologists, and the civic restlessness. They've all been aboard since. It makes for some lack of clarity in policy, but (mercifully) it makes us fit reality.

In 1951 we got around to a new policy statement, herewith, which said segregation would have to be got rid of. So we are and have been straight on that.

As to money, we begged the Ford people to let us set up twelve State organizations in human relations, and at last, in the months of 1954 that the Court spoke, the Fund for the Republic did generously help us. And we have a going State Council on Human Relations in each of the twelve States. Staffed with good people, quite interracial in staff and in Board and in program. And being honest and helpful. Excellent in some of the States (better than half); limping here and there, but lame only in one.

Problem is that the Fund for the Republic, like all Foundations, understandably requires us to raise astronomical amounts from elsewhere, in order to qualify for each successive installment of help from them. And that worry presses us always. If you will help, please do. We are fully tax exempt.

In the South we are memberless, except for our eight-man board. And the twelve State outfits are affiliated with us. We have associate members north of the M&D line, who are voteless, but who do get our publications, and who send us an annual check - ten dollars or what they will.

We put out a useful magazine, points of which enter pretty widely into Southern controversy. I send you some back issues. And a compendium of the best of the past, called Changing Patterns.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:mef

P.S. Published items coming separately.

RECEIVED MAR 26 1956

G.5M

552 Riverside Dr.
New York 27, N.Y.
March 22, 1956

Southern Regional Council
69 Auburn Ave. NE
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Sirs,

For some years I have had high regard for the work of the Councils in the southern states and have been meaning to send a contribution. At present, with the rise of the white Citizens Councils, your work becomes more important than ever.

I obtained your address from the NAACP, to which I belong and am writing you to get more specific data on whether you accept contributions (or membership applications), what the money is spent for, in particular, and to whom checks are made payable.

Sincerely,

James Peck

James Peck

Signed by mef in Dr. Mitchell's absence. Sent Airmail.

April 4, 1956

Mr. James P. Peck
552 Riverside Drive
New York 27, New York

Dear Mr. Peck:

You help us no end and we are warmly grateful.

Our real view is that whatever happens it comes down at the last to some white and some Negro people coming together around a table. We say start that way instead of finish!

I am to be in New York April 8, 9 and 10, staying at the Abbey Hotel on 51st Street, and padding about seeing people. By the way, I begin on Sunday afternoon, April 8, with a speech quite near to you and perhaps you will come. At the Church of the Master, which is at 122nd Street and Morningside Avenue, I do at 3:30 on Sunday, April 8, for a Mr. Walter Pinkston elevated in some fraternity (presumably Negro) sketch in a map of the South and show what this business is all about. You will be most welcome and I do hope that you will come and that would be a chance for us to be acquainted. 'Tis my one and only good speech.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM:mef

Encl.

552 Riverside Drive
New York 27, N.Y.
March 30, 1956

George S. Mitchell, executive director
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Ave. NE
Atlanta 3, Ga.

RECEIVED APR 2 1956

Dear Mr. Mitchell,

Thank you for your letter of March 26 giving the historical background of the Councils. Enclosed is a check for $200. — check Rha Count me in as an associate member. As I said in my original letter, I have been interested in the work of the Councils for some years and consider it even more important today to counteract the influence of the white Citizens Councils. One factor which perpetuates hatred--particularly in a situation like Montgomery--is the complete absence of personal contact between the races, even on the ministerial level. By working on this particular phase of the broblem, the regional Councils are doing an important job.

Sincerely,

Jim Peck

Jim Peck

July 27, 1956

Mr. Henry Harap, Associate Director
Division of Surveys and Field Services
George Peabody College for Teachers
Nashville 4, Tennessee

Dear Mr. Harap:

Please delete from your bibliography of our pamphlets the following titles:

Race and Law Enforcement
Questions and Answers: The Schools and the Courts
Answers for Action, Schools in the South

Change price on Changing Patterns in the New South from 50¢ to 25¢. Revised 1955.

Add:

What the Supreme Court Said.... By Professor Robert A. Leflar. Southern Regional Council, Inc., 63 Auburn Avenue, N. E., Atlanta 3, Georgia. 1956. 12 pages. 10 cents. Texts of the two Supreme Court school decisions with an analysis by Professor Leflar.

Sincerely,

John Constable
Information Service

JC:mbo
Encs.

December 29, 1956

Dr. H. T. Penn
36 Center Avenue, N.W.
Roanoke 17, Virginia

Dear Dr. Penn:

The Southern Regional Council is conducting a quick survey to determine what Southern cities have desegregated their buses. We have discovered, in contrast to Tallahassee, Birmingham, and Montgomery, that a number of cities have quietly and effectively ended bus segregation.

It has come to our attention that Roanoke is one of these cities. However, before issuing a public statement to that effect, it is obviously wise to check with a person in that community.

Could you, in the midst of this busy season, give us information on the Roanoke bus situation? We are concerned with the time any desegregation efforts took place, who prompted or began such a move, the reaction of city officials, the bus company and the white community, and the amount of remaining voluntary segregation which may still be practiced. Most important, however, is a simple confirmation of the current situation. Please don't go to undue trouble or time to secure the details surrounding the present condition. An immediate reply will be of more value than a detailed report.

The central office staff has asked that I express their sincere best wishes for the season.

Sincerely,

Paul Anthony
Information Service

PA:mm

February 5, 1957

Mrs. Kenneth Parker
11435 Plainfield Road
La Grange, Illinois

Dear Mrs. Parker:

George Mitchell has probably written you about his plans to take leave of his work with the Council so that he can have a well-deserved change of pace in the Highlands of Scotland. Before he left, he told me of your long-standing interest in the Council's efforts, and of your generous assistance to it from time to time.

I think you will be interested in the enclosed report which sums up briefly the activities we are carrying on, a few achievements of recent months, and what we hope to do in the months ahead. The need for the kind of thing that the Council, almost uniquely, does in the South has been increasing at a tremendous rate within the last two years. And we have been trying to increase our efforts accordingly. As the enclosed report is intended to make clear, we feel that this is a time when the Council must make its most effective contribution to the growth of democracy in the South.

All of this is to say that I earnestly hope that the Council will have your continued confidence and support, and that we may look forward to a renewal of your contribution for 1957.

Sincerely,

Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director

HCF/eab
Encl.

April 24, 1957

Mrs. Kenneth R. Parker
713 Kingsley Avenue
Pomona, California

Dear Mrs. Parker:

Miss Florence Irving of our staff has sent some material to the Reverend Mr. Farnsworth, as you requested.

I have just received a letter from George Mitchell reporting varied and stimulating activities, since he and Alice arrived in Scotland. They scouted the western Highlands, and finally found both a desirable site for the two cottages they are planning to build, and a house nearby which they could rent until August. It all sounds quite idyllic though he comments that the house is "1896 in construction and plumbing and heating (which is coal fires)." I am sure he and Alice would want me to convey their warmest regards.

Sincerely,

Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director

HCF/eab

March 17 - '57
713 Kingsley Ave
Pomona, California

RECEIVED MAR 20 1957

Southern Regional Council -

Gentlemen:

Since George Mitchell's departure for Scotland and mine for California, I am unable to address any of you personally, as I left all my S.R.C letters and news behind.

Today, in conversation, the Rev. John Farnsworth ask me what I knew of the work opportunities and scholarships for the Negro in the deep south, it seems a group of young people in his Church, Episcopal, are writing

Lenten papers on this subject.
I conferred I knew nothing, but assured him I could get pertinent information from you.
He will give the group information so one copy of each ~~pamphlet~~ pamphlet is all that is necessary.
May he have them as soon as possible. The address is Rev. John Farnsworth
713 Kingsley Ave, Pomona, California.
What news of the Mitchells?

Sincerely yours
Adele B. Parker
(Mrs. Kenneth R. Parker)

August 14, 1958

Mr. Lester H. Persells
7036 Altama Road
Jacksonville 11, Florida

Dear Mr. Persells:

Enclosed is a portion of our proposal to the Rockefeller Brothers Fund which I have been asked to pass on to you for your information.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Mildred Flowers
Secretary to Harold C. Fleming

MHF

August 21, 1958

Mr. David R. Baldwin, Research Associate
Pennsylvania Economy League, Inc.
1029 Union Trust Building
Pittsburg 19, Pennsylvania

Dear Mr. Baldwin:

Your letter of August 12th to Harold Fleming has been referred to me. The request for information on the Georgia Legislature's annual session plan and the alternate year budget session is a little far afield for us. We are very much interested in some aspects of state governmental affairs but usually as they relate to that complex which makes up the human relations picture in our region.

Three sources of information come to mind. Each is responsible with long experience in the workings of Georgia's government and a constructive interest in obtaining practical efficiency. They are:

The League of Women Voters of Georgia
78 Marietta Street, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia

Professor Cullen B. Gosnell
Department of Political Science
Emory University
Atlanta 22, Georgia

Rep. (state) James Mackay
Masonic Temple Building
Decatur, Georgia

I trust that these leads will help you obtain the information in which you are interested.

Sincerely,

Emory F. Via Labor Consultant
(Signed in his absence)

EFV:ls

Rcd 8/14/58

PENNSYLVANIA ECONOMY LEAGUE, INC.
FOUNDED 1932
WESTERN DIVISION
1029 UNION TRUST BUILDING, PITTSBURGH 19, PA.

August 12, 1958

League of Women Voters
Prof. Allen B. Morrill
Rep. James Manley

Mr. Harold C. Fleming
Assistant Director for Information
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Mr. Fleming:

At its last session, the Pennsylvania General Assembly created a special Commission on Constitutional Revision. At the request of that Commission, the Pennsylvania Economy League is presently engaged in conducting research into various phases of the problem.

One of the topics with which we are dealing concerns the proposal to provide for annual sessions of the legislature in place of the present biennial sessions. Should this prove desirable, it is further proposed that in alternate years the session should be devoted exclusively to budget matters.

We have noted that Georgia has adopted the annual session plan and that sessions in alternate years are devoted to budgets.

Because we feel that you have undoubtedly been close to the situation and have formed some opinions on the matter, we are hoping that you would be willing to give us the benefit of your observations, specifically:

(1) What prompted the change to annual sessions? If possible, what were some of the arguments pro and con and what do you feel was the key point that put it over?

(2) In your opinion, how has it worked out?

(3) How has the provision for alternate year budget sessions affected the preparation and management of the state budget?

Any information you are able to give us on this subject will be greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,

David R. Baldwin

David R. Baldwin
Research Associate

DRB:jms

April 20, 1959

Mr. M. C. Pettigrew
P. O. Box 441
Fitzgerald, Georgia

Dear Mr. Pettigrew:

It is with considerable regret that I cannot accept your invitation to participate in the Georgia Leadership Training School. Unfortunately, one of our senior staff members is leaving the Council June 1st and because of this it would be extremely difficult for me to be away from the office for a week.

All of us at the Council, especially Mrs. M. E. Tilly, have a great deal of interest in the annual Training School and are appreciative of the good work done in these sessions. Therefore, if there is any other way in which we can be of help, please call on us. Perhaps through Mr. Lucius Pitts we can determine some way in which we can be of assistance. I would be happy to have you contact me or Mr. Pitts concerning your ideas on this.

Please know that I am grateful for your invitation and very sorry that it is not possible to accept.

Sincerely,

Paul Anthony
Administrative Assistant

PA/mf
cc: Mr. Lucius Pitts

P. O. Box 441
Fitzgerald, Georgia
April 1, 1959

Mr. Paul Anthony
c/o Reverend L. H. Pitts
825 Fair Street, S. W.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Mr. Anthony:

You have been selected by the Regional Committee of the 1959 Georgia Leadership Training School to serve as instructor of Youth and Changing Social Patterns . The Georgia Leadership Training School convenes from June 14-22, 1959, at Paine College, Augusta, Georgia.

Room and board of all instructors will be taken care of, plus an honorarium at the close of the session.

It is certainly our hope that you can accept this opportunity to serve, as we feel that your instructional assistance will greatly enhance our program.

May I hear from you at an early date?

Yours in Christ,

M. C. Pettigrew

M. C. Pettigrew

February 9, 1960

Mr. E. H. Peeples
1100 West Franklin Street, Apt. 2
Richmond, Virginia

Dear Mr. Peeples:

I was glad to note your recent letter indicating your interest in going into the field of human relations as a career. There certainly is a need for trained professional workers in this field. Most of us currently in this work came in by way of graduate work in social science or the ministry. These are reasonable channels into the field but it is encouraging to note that universities are beginning to set up programs aimed at training the intergroup professional worker.

I do not know of any scholarship program which would help you move ahead with this kind of advanced preparation. Perhaps Dan Dodson will inform you of any scholarships offered at NYU. It might be useful for you to communicate with Mr. John Lassoe, director of NAIRO, concerning the internship program which that organization coordinates for persons entering the field of intergroup relations. This would be more in the line of practical training and could not help you in your search for scholarship aid. I hope you will be able to follow through in your interest.

Let us know if we can be of service.

Sincerely,

Paul M. Rilling
Field Director

PMR/sm

1100 West Franklin Street
Apt. 2
Richmond, Virginia

Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta, Georgia

HCF

PR - I can't bear it. Will you write him? HCF

Dear Sirs:

I am a twenty-four year old white Southernor with an intense interest in the current plights of minority groups and particularly in my section of the country; and I have an ardent desire to make human relations or inter-group relations a career. At present I have a bachelors degree in social science and am keenly interested in preparing myself further by studying in this field on the masters level in the School of Education at New York University next fall under Dr. Dan Dodson.

So, I am writing in query of knowledge of possible scholarships that your agency or some other source might provide.

I will be most pleased with any data or leads you might give me regarding my inquiry. Thank you.

Sincerely,

E. H. Peeples

September 2, 1960

Dr. Harry T. Penn
36 Center Avenue, N. W.
Roanoke 17, Virginia

Dear Dr. Penn:

It was most thoughtful of you to send us the information on lunch-counter desegregation in Roanoke. We are grateful for it.

You and your associates on the Citizens Bi-Racial Committee deserve all appreciation for your sound and effective efforts to bring this about.

Cordially,

Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director

HCF/mf

HARRY T. PENN, D. D. S.
36 CENTER AVENUE, N. W.
ROANOKE 17, VIRGINIA

DIAMOND 4-4637

August 31, 1960

Mr. Harold C. Fleming, Executive Director
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Fleming:

Enclosed you will find a few articles I thought might be of interest to the Southern Regional Council.

With best wishes.

Sincerely,

Harry T. Penn, D.D.S.

HTP:gb

August 8, 1961

Mr. L. W. Pearson
Keysville
Virginia

Dear Mr. Pearson:

For some time I have meant to write and thank you for your interest in the Council and the interesting material you share with us. We are most grateful for this as well as for your valuable contributions to the field of human relations. Please call on us at any time that we might possibly be of service.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

Paul Anthony
Executive Assistant

Pa/sm

Keyseville, Va
July 17, 1961

Gentlemen:

I'm sending you this section of U.S. News and World Report thinking you might be interested in what Dr. Eastland has to say about "Freedom Riders".

Of course, it is quite likely you have already seen it.

Sincerely
W. L. Pearson

PEACE CORPS

Washington 25, D. C.

October 11, 1961
air mail

file

Mr. Leslie Dunbar
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N. W.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Dunbar:

Many people want to know more about the Peace Corps. To provide answers to their questions, a series of fourteen regional Peace Corps conferences have been scheduled across the Nation and will be sponsored by local organizations and institutions in each city.

As Chairman of the National Advisory Council for the Peace Corps, I would like to extend a personal invitation to you to attend the Conference in Washington, D. C., on October 20-21, at the Sheraton-Park Hotel. You will be joining with other leaders of civic, farm, labor, business, professional, educational and student groups who have indicated their interest in this conference.

Members of the Peace Corps staff will be present to answer your questions and discuss the program with you. A member of the National Advisory Council will be present at most of these conferences. There will be few speeches, but much open forum discussion. A tentative agenda for the Conference is attached.

The Sheraton-Park Hotel has reserved a block of rooms for our use at the following rates: $8.00 per day for a single room; $12.00 per day for a double. There will be a registration fee of $4.00, which includes luncheon on the second day.

Please complete the enclosed advance registration form and return it to the Peace Corps, giving us the names of members of your organization who will attend. Hotel reservation cards will then be mailed to these people.

I hope you will be able to be in Washington, D. C. on October 20-21 to discuss the Peace Corps.

Sincerely,

Lyndon B. Johnson

Lyndon B. Johnson

PEACE CORPS

RECRUITMENT CONFERENCE

City Auditorium
Atlanta, Georgia

October 17, 1961

PROPOSED AGENDA

9:00 a.m. - 10:00 a.m. - Registration

10:00 a.m. - Welcoming address--National Advisory Council member

10:15 a.m. - "Why the Peace Corps?" (broad sketch of origin of Peace Corps idea, its meaning, implications and ideals)

10:45 a.m. - Outline of Peace Corps programming and projects--Staff member

11:15 a.m. - Coffee

11:30 a.m. - The Peace Corps Volunteer, I (complete outline as to who he is, how he was recruited, selected and trained, how he is to be cared for overseas, etc.)--Staff member

12:00 noon - The Peace Corps Volunteer, II (a brief synopsis of experiences and impressions gained in working with Peace Corps Volunteers during a typical training cycle)--University faculty member from one of the campuses engaged in training

1:00 p.m. - Luncheon, address by Director or member of Director's immediate staff

2:30 p.m. - Outline of afternoon discussion groups, their purpose and scope

2:45 p.m. - 5:00 p.m. - Division of registrants into three equal groups to cover any topic of interest to the group, including kinds of volunteers needed, selection process, recruitment, training, project development and administration.

ADVANCE REGISTRATION FORM

Name: _____

Address: _____

_____

_____

I will be attending the Peace Corps Regional Conference at

_____ on _____

I will be representing _____ (Name of organization or school)

The following people will accompany me:

1. _____
Name Address

2. _____
Name Address

3. _____
Name Address

Please return this form to:

Regional Conferences
Office of Recruitment
PEACE CORPS
Washington 25, D.C.

NOTE: In order to insure accomodations, please fill out and return this form immediately so that we may send your hotel reservation cards out by return mail.

SOUTHERN REGIONAL EDUCATION BOARD
130 SIXTH STREET, N. W. · ATLANTA 13, GEORGIA · TRINITY 5-9211

Rec'd 2/20/64
MA - pls. reply

February 19, 1964

2-21-64
We received a letter too; I replied yesterday
MA

file
Pe "Gen. Corresp

Miss Anne Marie Peckham
Newton College of the Sacred Heart
885 Centre Street
Newton, Massachusetts

Dear Miss Peckham:

Thank you for your letter of February 12.

With regard to the first part of your letter, I am referring your requests to Dr. Leslie W. Dunbar, Executive Director, Southern Regional Council, Inc., 5 Forsyth Street, N. W., Atlanta 3, Georgia, who may be able to supply material that would be useful to you in the preparation of your dissertation.

In accordance with your request for information about the Southern Regional Education Board, I am enclosing a copy of our last annual report which contains details about the history, objectives, and accomplishments of the Board.

Sincerely yours,

Rudolph Pate

Rudolph Pate
Associate Director for Development

RP:sp
enclosure

cc: Dr. Leslie W. Dunbar

COPY

RP EJH

FEB 17 1964

Newton College of the Sacred Heart
885 Centre Street
Newton, Massachusetts
February 12, 1964

Southern Regional Education Board
130 Sixth Street, N.W.
Atlanta 13, Georgia

Dear Sir:

I am a senior at Newton College of the Sacred Heart, a liberal arts college located in Newton, Massachusetts and am presently engaged in writing a Senior Dissertation approaching the problem of racial discrimination in the education of the Southern Negro, particularly on the elementary school level.

I would greatly appreciate any information you could supply me with concerning this general topic, wither pro or con the present situation. Any statistics, current Southern programs, specific problems, proposed solutions and so forth. would be welcomed. Also I would be grateful for any information you could provide me with concerning your regional board, its purpose, activity, enactment powers, territorial scope, etc.. If there is a charge for this service, please bill me.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Anne Marie Peckham

Anne Marie Peckham
Newton College
Newton, Massachusetts

December 11, 1964

Mr. William Peters
Producer
CBS Reports
524 West 57th Street
New York, New York

Dear Bill:

You did a good show.

Do I hear right - you are doing something on Mississippi?

Sincerely yours,

Leslie W. Dunbar
Executive Director

LWD:slw

Thought you would like to know that CBS REPORTS: SEGREGATION: NORTHERN-STYLE will be broadcast on Wednesday evening, Dec. 9 (7:30 EST -- see local listings for time in other time zones).

I hope you will have a chance to watch it.

William Peters
Producer
CBS REPORTS
524 West 57th St.
New York, N.Y. 10019

WB
PWC
SW file

CBS NEWS

A Division of Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc.

485 MADISON AVENUE, NEW YORK 22, NEW YORK · PLAZA 1-2345

December 16, 1964

Mr. Leslie W. Dunbar
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N.W.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Les:

Thanks for your note. We are considering something on Mississippi, though it is still in the "iffy" stage. Whether I will have anything to do with it or not, I'm not sure at the moment, but you will know when and if it becomes ripe.

Cordially yours,

Bill

William Peters
Producer

/jls

See Pergament

March 1, 1965

Mr. David Seeley
Special Assistant to the U.S. Commissioner of Education Department of Health, Education and Welfare
Office of Education
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Seeley:

Miss Revelle Pergament has requested that I write to you regarding her qualifications for work with the Equal Educational Opportunity Program.

I am very glad to recommend Miss Pergament to you. I have known her for two or more years and have been able to observe her work with the National Student Association. I have been impressed not only by her very high personal qualities but also by her evident intelligence and sincerity. I believe that she has learned a great deal regarding the whole span of the human relations movement in the South. She has also shown first rate ability to work with people in a constructive manner and with good judgement.

Sincerely yours,

Leslie W. Dunbar
Executive Director

LWD:p

file

MS file

GEORGE PEABODY COLLEGE for TEACHERS

Divisions: The Graduate School, The College, The Peabody Demonstration School, Survey and Field Services

NASHVILLE 5, TENNESSEE

October 15, 1965

Dr. Paul Anthony, Director
Southern Regional Council
5 Forsyth Street, N.W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Paul:

We appreciate your personal contribution to the success of the October 7-9 Planning Conference at Montgomery Bell State Park. We are hopeful that the proposal will be approved by the U. S. Office of Education and that all of us will be able to get on with the job which needs to be done.

Enclosed are a check for personal expenses incurred in connection with the conference and a receipt which should be signed and returned in the envelope provided.

And thanks.

Sincerely yours,

Tom

Tom Warren
Associate Director
Human Rights Institute

TW/cs

Enclosures: Check
Receipt and envelope

Come to see us. Sorry we won't be able to attend the NARIO meeting in Chicago - just noticed your name on the program.

PEPSI-COLA COMPANY

500 PARK AVENUE, NEW YORK, NEW YORK 10022/MU·8-4500

JAMES B. SOMERALL
PRESIDENT

March 3, 1966

A MEMORANDUM OF INTEREST

"Adventures in Negro History," an LP record album highlighting contributions of Negro Americans to the growth and development of America, was introduced two years ago as a public service by Pepsi-Cola Company.

The enthusiastic acceptance of this record by educators, community leaders and the general public far exceeded our expectations and, as a result, we have decided to continue our efforts in this direction.

We are pleased to send you this preview copy of "Adventures in Negro History," Volume II, which dramatizes the exciting years in which Frederick Douglass lived, 1817-1895.

We hope you will enjoy these few minutes of entertainment and enlightenment, and will be interested in receiving your comments.

Sincerely yours,

J. B. Somerall

Att.

March 30, 1966

Mr. J. B. Somerall
President
Pepsi-Cola Company
500 Park Avenue
New York, New York 10022

Dear Mr. Somerall:

Thank you for the record album, "Adventures in Negro History," Vol. 2, which I have listened to with appreciation.

The Pepsi-Cola Company is to be commended for this material and for all of the leadership it is giving to this difficult situation.

Please let us know if we can be of any possible assistance to you.

Sincerely,

Paul Anthony
Executive Director

PA/mmj

MEMORANDUM March 30, 1966

To: BCCook

From: MMJ

Bernice,

Please package up and send (SPECIAL HANDLING) to Mary Alice Baldinger in Washington the following:

400 Copies of SOUTHERN JUSTICE
200 NEW SOUTH SUBSCRIPTION FORMS

(these should go in the mails today) = Labels attached

NOTE: THESE HAVE TO REACH MARY ALICE BY APRIL 6

MS - file

Pendulum Books, Inc. 210 simpson street, n.w. atlanta ga. 30313

phone 577 1582
area code 404

File - Pe - gen

April 29, 1966

Mr. Paul Anthony
Southern Regional Council
25 Forsyth Street
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Sir;

This is to introduce Laurence E. Alan Baughman, who has been commissioned by this firm to write a book dealing with the psycological aspects of segregation in the South.

Any assistance you might be able to render him would be greatly appreciated.

Sincerely yours,

Jo Carol Andress

Jo Carol Andress

JCA/mk

file "Pe" gen'

January 31, 1967

Mr. John A. Pecoul, Jr.
2213 Burdette Street
New Orleans, Louisiana 70118

Dear John:

Thanks for the excellent piece.

It was a real pleasure having you here and we do look forward to getting you back. In the meantime, every good wish in your new work.

Best.

Sincerely,

Paul Anthony
Executive Director

PA/km

1/24/67

Rec'd 1/25/67

Dear Paul,

Here is the text of my survey on agricultural poverty and policy. I hope it is a framework for what you want but, because of the haste and pressure under which it was written, I think it leaves something to be desired.

Most crucial is to make the last section, i.e. your memo to John Wheeler, most specific and to revise it in the light of Al's new ideas on coops, etc. The whole paper definitely has the air of a city denizen writing about farms from books.

But, it is a start on what you need. I have tried to send it on in time for it to be improved for your testimony to the Commission.

Thank you again for all that my days at S.R.C. did for my own sense of personal direction — albeit that direction was something other than what you were hoping for. In addition to the sheer joy of an association with the S.R.C. people — some of the South's best, I know now —, I realized that "pure research and writing" is not for me at this point. Nevertheless, I enjoyed tremendously what I did write — except for this farm piece!

I hope that my contribution to S.R.C. was of some value, too. With fondness and a smile,

John

P.S.: I think Al's fact sheets should be included as appendices.

Free
Pendulum books
(Check to see if here
Set up file already Not please do so)

May 17, 1966

Mr. L. Alan Baughman
Editor
Pendulum Books, Inc.
210 Simpson Street, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30313

Dear Mr. Baughman:

This will give you our permission to reprint "In the Name of Southern Womanhood," by Eliza Heard, as published in the November-December 1962 edition of New South.

We would appreciate the credit as outlined in your letter.

Sincerely yours,

Paul Anthony
Executive Director

PA/mmj

(5)

Pendulum Books, Inc. 210 simpson street, n.w. atlanta ga. 30313

phone 577 1582
area code 404

Rec'd 5/9/66

Mr. Paul Anthony, Executive Director
Southern Regional Council
5 Forsyth Street, N.W.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Anthony:

I respectfully request permission to use: "In the Name of Southern Womanhood" by Eliza Heard (pseudonym) as published in the November-December 1962 edition of NEW SOUTH, Volume 17, Numbers 11 and 12, an SRC publication. This article is to be used in its entirety, in a work tentatively titled "Southern Rape Comples - 100 Year Psychosis," a psychological study of segregation.

We shall, of course, fully credit both the author and the original publisher, either in a bibliography or in the form of a footnote.

Sincerely yours,

L. Alan Baughman

L. Alan Baughman,
Editor

LAB:bjd

Gem. cam.

November 20, 1955

Dear, dear Nichols,

We think of you often, but especially when we come upon examples of British speech like the one enclosed. Occurs to me Papa George may have known Henry Gillett at Oxford, as Douglas Steere did.

I also thought of you at the bazaar of St. Helena's Church, where they sold lightwood in little bundles for 35¢. If I'd thought U.S. Mule really dependable, I'd have sent you some.

Courtney and I went to the S.C. Human Relations Council meeting in Columbia ten days ago, with Helen Austensen - Beaufort's only real liberal in my opinion. She is white-haired, proper, Episcopalian and honest, penetrating and consistent. We all liked the talk by Carl Pritchard; also seeing the dear old ladies, the man with the long beard who is always there, and the woman from S.C. State College who said too much of the wrong thing.

Returned home to find John with a temperature of 103° and an attack of tonsilitis! That was grim, but he is much better now. We're very busy reading The Little Engine that Could and other classics such as Mike Mulligan and his Steam Shovel over and over.

We'll take this moment to wish you a happy Thanksgiving and Christmas.

JOHN MOLL OXFORD, MD.

I always feel I should write a short novel on each Christmas card and, consequently, never finish. This year I may not even begin.

Emily Calhoun spent a week with us on her way north and told about her pleasant visit with you. We are still hoping for that long-heralded visit of the Mitchells. John will have many fascinating things to show you - and perhaps let you help feed the chickens.

Our love to you all.

Elizabeth

St. Helena's Church - Established 1712 Beaufort, S.C.

1956

Mr. and Mrs. Courtney Si[redacted]
Penn School
St. Helena's Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

FILE COPY

Dear the Siceloffs:

The Executiv[redacted] Regional Council, by [redacted]al thanks [redacted]ordinary [redacted] during the two [redacted] Executive Committee there, July 20-21.

The Board and the Community Center performed a great service to the South in opening these facilities for conference use.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM/eab

cc: MAW
c/o Taft Hotel
New York City

BEST COPY AVAILABLE

July 24, 1956

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Penn Community Services
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

The Atlanta Southern Regional office of the National Student YWCA, 'twill be remembered, is in this building. In the brave days when Rosalie Oakes managed it they began a tolerably well-known list of interracial conference spots in these Southerns. I went down yesterday with a flock of invitations to the Islands and talked with Mademoiselle Stodghill, who is not the boss-queen, but who is the only one I ever catch down there doing anything.

I explained to her how Rosalie kept a list and what a nice place Penn Community is, and the use of these facilities, and asked her to spread it around discreetly. She is discreet and she will behave herself well.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM/eab

Frogmore, South Carolina
July 24, 1956

Dear George Mitchell:

Enclosed are my gobs of typing of the executive committee proceedings. Your phrasing was more apt than you realized, perhaps. This material is very rough, but I felt that speed was important, particularly because of the time to be lost in mailing. I have no doubt that these garbled paragraphs will appear shortly in beautiful Mitchellese.

I haven't seen Courtney since your letter arrived this morning (am secluded in the cottage behind the water tower so little boys can't find me) but we must arrange a family council soon to bask in its warmth. It was a great pleasure to us to have all of you; I think you know that. We hope you can come again when things are more finished and we can make everyone more comfortable.

Our breeze returned right after you left, in the most insulting manner. To my mind, there has never been a hotter afternoon on St. Helena than Friday, July 20. And I certainly hope that there won't be such a day again.

I made private arrangements with Alice Mitchell for her withdrawal from life whenever it becomes necessary - or even possible. Please tell her that we can arrange for any degree of withdrawal that she wishes, as long as she agrees to read Horton the Elephant to John. All of the visiting relatives, and four new ones, are exhausted already, reading the new Mitchell books over and over. I have finished the book Alice brought to me and found it charming.

Greet all the brethren there for us.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth

George S. Mitchell
Southern Regional Council
Atlanta, Georgia

P.S. Please ask Ruth Alexander to let me know if she would like me to mail the shorthand notes for the record. Seems to me Mrs. McKoy used to preserve such items in the safe, along with the paper clips.

ES

August 1, 1956

Mrs. Courtney Siceloff
Penn Community Center
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Miss Elizabeth:

Each business day I have been trying to get to the Minutes and do my part and boil down what you wrote in extenso. And I keep letting other things get ahead of me.

Maybe luck tomorrow.

Meanwhile I have had occasion to check at one or two vital points and have found your account of what happened exactly what happened.

And the check got written today and should be mailed to you tonight.

We continue abidingly grateful.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM/eab
Encl. SRC #209 $40.00

August 2, 1956

Mrs. Courtney Siceloff
Penn Community Center
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Miss Elizabeth:

This morning I went through the Minutes and transferred directions about them to Mrs. Brantley's book. Never before in all history has this job of extracting Minutes from notes been so speedily done. Thy ladyship produced Minutes. For the last half hour I have been saying page 6 O.K. as is, page 10 O.K. as is, page 11 O.K. with one minor change. Most rare and unusual!

When we came to the business about the White House, I asked Harold to recompress that to his taste, and he will.

A most splendid bargain for us, and we are duly grateful, not just for the squiggles, but for the judgement and organizational discrimination.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM/eab

August 22, 1956

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Penn School
St. Helena's Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

Here is the "Daily File" copy of my letter of July 23rd.

I suppose that a trip to Quaker Ohio means a trip to Southern Ohio. But if you get to northeastern Ohio the daughter, Charlotte, starts at Oberlin about September 12th.

When you are at Hendersonville, please do put on company manners and call on my friend Father Kerin at the handsome new Catholic Assembly spot near Flat Rock. Has to stay there most of the year as I understand, he is in charge. I praise Bishop Waters of Raleigh whose planning it was. And there are all too few occasions when those of us in other religions make friendly and interested visits to Father Kerin and his ilk. I am interested because they had me up there a few weeks ago to do the map speech for some conference.

The Mitchells had mainly a tomato diet for some weeks after Frogmore. But it was long before we disremembered the taste of cantaloupe and the watermelon too.

I greatly enjoyed the recordings and wish I had had more time for more of them.

Affectionately,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM/eab

Encl.

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

(Formerly Penn Normal, Industrial and Agricultural School)

August 21, 1956

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Paul W. Brown, Jr.
Chairman
Philadelphia National Bank
Broad and Chestnut Streets
Philadelphia 1, Pa.

William E. Cadbury
Vice-Chairman
Philadelphia, Pa.

Mrs. Eugene Spearman
Secretary
Columbia, S. C.

Robert Ogden Purves
Racebrook Road
Woodbridge, Conn.

Dr. George H. Aull
Clemson, S. C.

B. Tartt Bell
Greensboro, N. C.

Miss Isabella Curtis
Manchester, Mass.

Dr. J. Curtis Dixon
Atlanta, Georgia

Harold Evans
Philadelphia, Pa.

Miss Grace B. House
Orient, Long Island, N. Y.

Mrs. Horace H. Jenks
Wilton, Conn.

Dr. Benjamin E. Mays
Atlanta, Ga.

Dr. Ira DeA. Reid
Haverford, Pa.

Mrs. Edward G. Sanders
St. Helena Island, S. C.

A. M. Secrest
Cheraw, S. C.

John A. Silver
Pipersville, Pa.

W. E. Solomon
Columbia, S. C.

Rev. Cornelius A. Wood, Jr.
Washington, D. C.

L. Hollingsworth Wood
Mt. Kisco, New York

Joseph Wright
Beaufort, S. C.

Hon. Marion A. Wright
Linville Falls, N. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

Mrs. Y. W. Bailey
St. Helena Island, S. C.

Francis R. Cope, Jr.
Dimock, Pa.

J. Nelson Frierson
Charleston, S. C.

Paul Kellogg
New York, N. Y.

Mrs. William W. Smith, II
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

RECEIVED AUG 22 1956

George S. Mitchell
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear George Mitchell:

Please accept a very belated thanks for arranging to bring the Executive Committee of the Southern Regional Council here this past month. It was surely good to see you and your family as well as meeting some of the board members and staff.

After the conference you sent me a fine letter indicating the usefulness of Penn as a conference site. Marion Wright, who received a copy of the letter, wrote that we should get it duplicated. One copy could be sent to the Fund of the Republic, to whom we are applying for a grant to expand our facilities, and could show them the need for Penn Services as a conference site.

attached

Marion suggested other copies to go to Board members and several additional copies kept on hand to show to other prospective users of the conference facilities.

I did not immediately realize to what material end your testimonial could be put. Since our filing system is rather limited, I must admit that I did not retain your letter for posterity. I wrote Marion Wright for his copy of the letter, but he answered from New York saying that he was not sure if he had his copy, but that I should write you for another. If you still have the copy of that letter, would you mind sending it to me again? However, if your copy has gone the way of the others, will you please compose another that could be put to the use as mentioned above. Thanks very much.

I expect that Elizabeth and I will go to Ohio by way of the mountains so as to attend the F.S.C. Conference at Blue Ridge, and on our return will probably spend a few days in Preacher Jones' cabin near Hendersonville. Thank you very much for your invitation to come to Atlanta, and we do still hope to get there before your Scottish trip. Best wishes.

Sincerely,

Courtney Siceloff

CS:rfp

RECEIVED DEC 3 1956

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

(Formerly Penn Normal, Industrial and Agricultural School)

Sent 3 copies Inter-Op 12-4-56

November 28, 1956

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Paul W. Brown, Jr.
Chairman
Philadelphia National Bank
Broad and Chestnut Streets
Philadelphia 1, Pa.

William E. Cadbury
Vice-Chairman
Philadelphia, Pa.

Mrs. Eugene Spearman
Secretary
Columbia, S. C.

Robert Ogden Purves
Racebrook Road
Woodbridge, Conn.

Dr. George H. Aull
Clemson, S. C.

B. Tartt Bell
Greensboro, N. C.

Miss Isabella Curtis
Manchester, Mass.

Dr. J. Curtis Dixon
Atlanta, Georgia

Harold Evans
Philadelphia, Pa.

Miss Grace B. House
Orient, Long Island, N. Y.

Mrs. Horace H. Jenks
Wilton, Conn.

Dr. Benjamin E. Mays
Atlanta, Ga.

Dr. Ira DeA. Reid
Haverford, Pa.

Mrs. Edward G. Sanders
St. Helena Island, S. C.

A. M. Secrest
Cheraw, S. C.

John A. Silver
Pipersville, Pa.

W. E. Solomon
Columbia, S. C.

Rev. Cornelius A. Wood, Jr.
Washington, D. C.

L. Hollingsworth Wood
Mt. Kisco, New York

Joseph Wright
Beaufort, S. C.

Hon. Marion A. Wright
Linville Falls, N. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

Mrs. Y. W. Bailey
St. Helena Island, S. C.

Francis R. Cope, Jr.
Dimock, Pa.

J. Nelson Frierson
Charleston, S. C.

Paul Kellogg
New York, N. Y.

Mrs. William W. Smith, II
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Harold Fleming
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
63 Auburn Avenue N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Harold:

I've just attended the Board meeting with Marion Wright and have been brought up to date with things going on in the South. And amazingly enough, they seem to be concentrating around the Southern Regional Council. Marion Wright spoke of the PAMPHLET "Integration ~~both~~ North and South." If you are handling the distribution of this booklet, I would appreciate having three (3) copies; and if someone else is distributing, please give me the address where I can obtain them.

While attending our home Quaker meeting outside of Philadelphia two Sundays ago, this booklet was held up as something that would be of interest to the members of the meeting; however, I did not get to see inside the book. Also, Frank Loescher, who was a member of the meeting, was present, and I was able to speak a few words with him concerning our application for funds.

Marion Wright further indicates that this pamphlet which has just been published, includes the names of ministerial associations, nurses groups, etc., which have already integrated and is broken down by the state, and suggests that I obtain the NAMES OF people TO contact in these organizations with the view in mind of inviting them to meet at Penn. If you have the president of the group, or address of the executive secretary, AND if the information is not confidential, I would appreciate very much obtaining this for both South Carolina and Georgia.

FBI

Furthermore, a certain Board member of yours volunteered the use of your copying machine for duplicating letters of testimonials about Penn, that might be helpful in interesting other groups to come here. He already has one such letter which I suppose he will be negotiating with you soon; however, since I realize you're not running a commercial establishment there, I am sure that we can get the letter duplicated in a commercial office in either Savannah or Charleston, if this duplication is inconvenient. Please be very frank. There may be several such letters, but should not be many; but should like to know what to do in the future concerning duplication.

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

(Formerly Penn Normal, Industrial and Agricultural School)

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Paul W. Brown, Jr.
Chairman
Philadelphia National Bank
Broad and Chestnut Streets
Philadelphia 1, Pa.

William E. Cadbury
Vice-Chairman
Philadelphia, Pa.

Mrs. Eugene Spearman
Secretary
Columbia, S. C.

Robert Ogden Purves
Racebrook Road
Woodbridge, Conn.

Dr. George H. Aull
Clemson, S. C.

B. Tartt Bell
Greensboro, N. C.

Miss Isabella Curtis
Manchester, Mass.

Dr. J. Curtis Dixon
Atlanta, Georgia

Harold Evans
Philadelphia, Pa.

Miss Grace B. House
Orient, Long Island, N. Y.

Mrs. Horace H. Jenks
Wilton, Conn.

Dr. Benjamin E. Mays
Atlanta, Ga.

Dr. Ira DeA. Reid
Haverford, Pa.

Mrs. Edward G. Sanders
St. Helena Island, S. C.

A. M. Secrest
Cheraw, S. C.

John A. Silver
Pipersville, Pa.

W. E. Solomon
Columbia, S. C.

Rev. Cornelius A. Wood, Jr.
Washington, D. C.

L. Hollingsworth Wood
Mt. Kisco, New York

Joseph Wright
Beaufort, S. C.

Hon. Marion A. Wright
Linville Falls, N. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

Mrs. Y. W. Bailey
St. Helena Island, S. C.

Francis R. Cope, Jr.
Dimock, Pa.

J. Nelson Frierson
Charleston, S. C.

Paul Kellogg
New York, N. Y.

Mrs. William W. Smith, II
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

We are looking for a visit from you all down here to Frogmore, and hope that it will be soon.

Best wishes,

Courtney Siceloff

CS:rfp

Please bill me for the "Integration" booklet, + for time spent in ferreting out names + addresses of contact persons in the integrated groups — also for the copying if you have the letter at hand.

December 3, 1956

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Penn Community Center
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

Delighted to run the letters and here they are. Along with the letters comes the billet doux. Not much.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

GSM/eab
Encls.

I N V O I C E

SOUTHERN REGIONAL COUNCIL, INC.
Room 432, 63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta, Georgia

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Penn Community Center
Frogmore, South Carolina

December 3, 1956

Purchase Order No.
Date Shipped:

20 copies: Letter as requested @ .04 $0.80

THANK YOU

December 7, 1956

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Penn Community Services, Incorporated
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

Good to hear from you. In my absence from the office my secretary caused to have sent to you three copies of the integration booklet we are handling for the Fund on consignment.

Our staff is loaded at the moment, but I'm asking Florence Irving, our research assistant, to get up for you as soon as she can the information on integrated groups in George and South Carolina.

We can always make a few copies of letters for you on our duplicating machine, but anything more than a few gets to be a fairly big deal. Let me know how many copies you are thinking in terms of.

All the best to you and Lib.

Sincerely,

Harold C. Fleming
Assistant Director

HCF:mbo

December 20, 1956

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Penn Community Services, Incorporated
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

Thanks for your letter and the kind words about the integration booklet.

You will be getting a note -- if you haven't already -- from Florence Irving concerning the South Carolina agencies you're interested in.

Feel free to call on us for a repeat on the letter duplications.

Best wishes for Christmas and the New Year to you and Lib.

Sincerely,

Harold C. Fleming,
Assistant Director

HCF:fc

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

(Formerly Penn Normal, Industrial and Agricultural School)

December 13, 1956

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Paul W. Brown, Jr.
Chairman
Philadelphia National Bank
Broad and Chestnut Streets
Philadelphia 1, Pa.

William E. Cadbury
Vice-Chairman
Philadelphia, Pa.

Mrs. Eugene Spearman
Secretary
Columbia, S. C.

Robert Ogden Purves
Racebrook Road
Woodbridge, Conn.

Dr. George H. Aull
Clemson, S. C.

B. Tartt Bell
Greensboro, N. C.

Miss Isabella Curtis
Manchester, Mass.

Dr. J. Curtis Dixon
Atlanta, Georgia

Harold Evans
Philadelphia, Pa.

Miss Grace B. House
Orient, Long Island, N. Y.

Mrs. Horace H. Jenks
Wilton, Conn.

Dr. Benjamin E. Mays
Atlanta, Ga.

Dr. Ira DeA. Reid
Haverford, Pa.

Mrs. Edward G. Sanders
St. Helena Island, S. C.

A. M. Secrest
Cheraw, S. C.

John A. Silver
Pipersville, Pa.

W. E. Solomon
Columbia, S. C.

Rev. Cornelius A. Wood, Jr.
Washington, D. C.

L. Hollingsworth Wood
Mt. Kisco, New York

Joseph Wright
Beaufort, S. C.

Hon. Marion A. Wright
Linville Falls, N. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

Mrs. Y. W. Bailey
St. Helena Island, S. C.

Francis R. Cope, Jr.
Dimock, Pa.

J. Nelson Frierson
Charleston, S. C.

Paul Kellogg
New York, N. Y.

Mrs. William W. Smith, II
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Harold Fleming
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Harold:

Thanks very much for your letter and for the copies of the integration booklet. The idea and its execution were excellent , and congratulations.

I think there are only a couple of groups on which I'd like to have information about whom to contact in reference to the use of Penn Center,—that is, the Nurses Association of South Carolina, listed on page 80, and the South Carolina Association of Psychogists, listed on page 104. There is no particular hurry on this, and if you do not have that information readily, I am sure that I can secure it without much difficulty elsewhere.

Marion Wright has already had George Mitchell run off twenty copies of a letter from us. There may be two or three more letters that we would want about the same number of copies made; however, I'm sure that I can get this done commercially if it is not convenient for you to do it.

Sincerely,

Courtney Siceloff

CS:rfp

May 15, 1957

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Director
Penn Community Services, Inc.
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

I am glad that the Mays stopped by St. Helena's. We thought they were exceptionally congenial people.

As I understand the situation, May expects to be charged with the administration of a substantial sum for race relations at some time in the future, possibly sooner, possibly later. At present, he does administer a small family foundation which is interested in intergroup matters. This is the Columbia Foundation. Ironically, I was inhibited myself in discussing the possibilities of assistance for our work, since I was cast in the role of host. To a somewhat lesser degree, I imagine you felt similarly inhibited.

My advice to you would be to write him an informal letter asking whether it would be appropriate for Penn to submit an application to the Foundation he directs for support of the project you discussed with him. I am sure that he would reply quite candidly. In that way, you would not be shooting in the dark and might save yourself unnecessary effort in preparing a formal proposal. Of course, I share your hope that the response will be favorable, though I didn't get enough information to judge the possibility. I should also think that you would be well-advised to raise quite baldly the question of the amount of money you would be shooting for. I have found that most foundations are not averse to telling you what amount and what terms would be within the bounds of consideration.

It is quite true that Jane and I keep fanning the hope of a week-end visit to St. Helena. The news of the new attic fan gives us new incentive, and we may be writing you for an invitation one of these days. Meanwhile, all the best to you and Lib and John.

Sincerely,

Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director

HCF/eab

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

(Formerly Penn Normal, Industrial and Agricultural School)

May 11, 1957

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Hon. Marion A. Wright
Chairman
Linville Falls, N. C.

William E. Cadbury
Vice-Chairman
Philadelphia, Pa.

Rev. Cornelius A. Wood, Jr.
Secretary
Washington, D. C.

Dr. Ira DeA. Reid
Treasurer
Haverford College
Haverford, Pa.

Dr. George H. Aull
Clemson, S. C.

B. Tartt Bell
Greensboro, N. C.

Paul W. Brown, Jr.
Philadelphia 1, Pa.

Leroy E. Browne
St. Helena Island, S. C.

Miss Isabella Curtis
Manchester, Mass.

James McBride Dabbs
Mayesville, S. C.

Dr. J. Curtis Dixon
Atlanta, Georgia

Harold Evans
Philadelphia, Pa.

Miss Grace B. House
Orient, Long Island, N. Y.

Mrs. Horace H. Jenks
Wilton, Conn.

Dr. Benjamin E. Mays
Atlanta, Georgia

Robert Ogden Purves
New Haven, Conn.

Mrs. Edward G. Sanders
St. Helena Island, S. C.

A. M. Secrest
Cheraw, S. C.

John A. Silver
Pipersville, Pa.

W. E. Solomon
Columbia, S. C.

Mrs. Eugene Spearman
Columbia, S. C.

Joseph Wright
Beaufort, S. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

Mrs. Y. W. Bailey
St. Helena Island, S. C

Francis R. Cope, Jr.
Dimock, Pa.

J. Nelson Frierson
Charleston, S. C.

Paul Kellogg
New York, N. Y.

Mrs. William W. Smith, II
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Harold Fleming
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

RECEIVED MAY 13 1957

Dear Harold:

We had a delightful visit from John and Marguerita May, of San Francisco. They were both quite enraptured with you and Jane, and indicated that they hope to see you later in New York.

I appreciate very much your directing them by Penn. Their visit was quite brief since they were on the way to Charleston. He indicated that an amount of money was given to be used for the welfare of Negroes outside the San Francisco area, and obviously, his trip was to look at various projects. He did not ask many questions, but I did tell him something of the work here. I also indicated that we had just been turned down by Ford Foundation, for a person to help with the Conference Program. I also indicated that we had just received approval from Selective Service, as an agency to employ conscientious objectors to do their alternative service work, for two years.

It is a slave system, (I know. I did this for three years,) where the CO receives room and board plus about $15.00 a month. However, this is the only possibility I see for increasing our staff, though the Board may have reservations about hiring a CO. I also pointed out to John May , as subtly as I could, that we could not hope to hire even a CO until our next fiscal year, some 360 days away.

What I would like to have your advice on, is whether I should draw up a proposition for a certain amount of money, that we could hire the CO, and present this to Mr. May. I have not had any direct connection with applications to foundations before, other than knowing what Marion Wright was doing in relation to the Ford Foundation. Do you think this would be presumptuous of me to make such a proposition, or should I wait and see if he was sufficiently impressed by the program, to make his own grant of money? I figure that we could take care of the CO for around $900.00 per year, but it would undoubtedly cost another two or three hundred dollars in the extra travel with the use of my car.

If you do think it is proper to submit such a ~~pay~~ proposal, should I make it, ~~safe~~ say for two years at a total of around $2400.00?

Mr May indicated that you and Jane hope to get down here. I really hope that this will materialize. At present, we are installing an attic fan just for such an event, so I hope we're not wasting our time in the installation of such.

Best wishes,

Courtney Siceloff

CS:rfp

CC: Marion Wright
Linville Falls, North Carolina

P.S. I guess you know that Marion is now our chairman of the Board.

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

(Formerly Penn Normal, Industrial and Agricultural School)

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Paul W. Brown, Jr.
Chairman
Philadelphia National Bank
Broad and Chestnut Streets
Philadelphia 1, Pa.

William E. Cadbury
Vice-Chairman
Philadelphia, Pa.

Mrs. Eugene Spearman
Secretary
Columbia, S. C.

Robert Ogden Purves
Racebrook Road
Woodbridge, Conn.

Dr. George H. Aull
Clemson, S. C.

B. Tartt Bell
Greensboro, N. C.

Miss Isabella Curtis
Manchester, Mass.

Dr. J. Curtis Dixon
Atlanta, Georgia

Harold Evans
Philadelphia, Pa.

Miss Grace B. House
Orient, Long Island, N. Y.

Mrs. Horace H. Jenks
Wilton, Conn.

Dr. Benjamin E. Mays
Atlanta, Ga.

Dr. Ira DeA. Reid
Haverford, Pa.

Mrs. Edward G. Sanders
St. Helena Island, S. C.

A. M. Secrest
Cheraw, S. C.

John A. Silver
Pipersville, Pa.

W. E. Solomon
Columbia, S. C.

Rev. Cornelius A. Wood, Jr.
Washington, D. C.

L. Hollingsworth Wood
Mt. Kisco, New York

Joseph Wright
Beaufort, S. C.

Hon. Marion A. Wright
Linville Falls, N. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

Mrs. Y. W. Bailey
St. Helena Island, S. C

Francis R. Cope, Jr.
Dimock, Pa.

J. Nelson Frierson
Charleston, S. C.

Paul Kellogg
New York, N. Y.

Mrs. William W. Smith, II
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

May 23, 1957

Dear Friend:

One day this winter our three-year-old John looked across the road and saw a number of cars parked at Frissell Community House. "Are the midwives back?" he asked, and with a special gleam of delight, "Is Miss Driver here?" (Miss Driver is one of the State Board of Health staff members who supervises the annual Midwife Institutes.) Even to John, we thought, the groups who come and go bring special and personal relationships.

Because you have shared in the life at Penn Center -- as a visitor, conference participant, or work camper -- we are sending you with this letter our latest report. Whether yours was a long or short stay, wielding gavel or paint brush, we look on you as a part of our growing family, and families need to keep in touch!

The enclosed folder describes developments in our community and conference program. Just now the tomato cooperative enters the period of rather intensive activity that accompanies the tomato shipping season. The nursery school children are getting ready for "graduation." Finishing touches are being put on the bell tower, built by students from University of North Carolina during the Easter holiday, so that the old Penn School bell can summon you to meals when you next come to Penn.

We invite you to share in what is for us a highly creative and satisfying way of giving testimony in today's "troubled South." Your contributions are welcome, your letters are savored, and a return visit is warmly sought.

Sincerely,

Courtney + Elizabeth

Courtney and Elizabeth Siceloff

Penn Community Services, Incorporated

Courtney Siceloff, Director

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Paul W. Brown, Jr., Chairman, Philadelphia
William E. Cadbury, Vice-Chairman, Philadelphia
Dr. Ira De A. Reid, Treasurer, Haverford College, Haverford, Pa.
Mrs. Alice N. Spearman, Secretary, Columbia, S. C.
Dr. George H. Aull, Clemson, S. C.
B. Tartt Bell, Guilford College, N. C.
Miss Isabella Curtis, Manchester, Mass.
Dr. J. Curtis Dixon, Atlanta, Georgia
Harold Evans, Philadelphia, Pa.
Miss Grace B. House, Orient, Long Island, N. Y.
Mrs. Horace Jenks, Wilton, Conn.
Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, Atlanta, Ga.
Robert Ogden Purves, New Haven, Conn.
Mrs. Edward G. Sanders, St. Helena Island, S. C.
A. M. Secrest, Cheraw, S. C.
John A. Silver, Pipersville, Pa.
W. E. Solomon, Columbia, S. C.
Rev. Cornelius A. Wood, Jr., Washington, D. C.
Joseph Wright, Beaufort, S. C.
Marion A. Wright, Linville Falls, N. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

Mrs. Y. W. Bailey, St. Helena Island, S. C.
Francis R. Cope, Jr., Dimock, Pa.
J. Nelson Frierson, Charleston, S. C.
Paul Kellogg, New York, N. Y.
Mrs. William W. Smith II, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Penn Community Services

ST. HELENA ISLAND
FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

Penn Community Services is seeking to meet human needs: first, through a community center for St. Helena and the neighboring sea islands. Beyond that, Penn offers a friendly conference center where groups from all parts of a troubled South can meet freely together.

After a recent conference at Penn, the executive of a Southwide agency wrote, "The Board and Community Center performed a great service to the South in opening these facilities for conference use."

Students, teachers, midwives, scouts and others, numbering more than 500, have been in residence for periods ranging from two days to two weeks. These persons have come from five Southern States and the West Indies.

In addition to generous contributions of Penn supporters, over 100 work campers and local volunteers donated time and skill in renovating the conference buildings.

MARKETING COOPERATIVE

Tomato farmers meet regularly to study improved farming and marketing methods. During the last shipping season, the loan from the Bank of Cooperatives for purchase of machinery was liquidated.

TEEN CANTEEN

A newly organized program for young people is the Teen Canteen, under the supervision of an experienced leader. Purposes include the creation of new interests and the development of skills.

ROSSA COOLEY HEALTH CENTER

Pre-natal and well-baby clinics are held regularly. A kitchen range has been added to the equipment for use in demonstrating the preparation of foods as an aid in the study of nutrition.

LIBRARY

Penn provides attractive and appropriate facilities for the library. An average of 900 books are circulated monthly through the Penn library and its branches. A fund for the purchase of a bookmobile has been started.

HOMEMAKING CLASS

Homemakers study with the County Home Demonstration Agent and acquire skill in dressmaking, cooking, quiltmaking and other types of handwork.

DAY NURSERY AND KINDERGARTEN

A capacity enrollment in this fifth year of operation, meets a continuing need in the community. Increasingly the parents are assuming financial responsibility for operating the school, but Penn underwrites approximately one-third of the budget.

SALES HOUSE

Clothing donated to Penn Community Services is sold by a staff of volunteer workers to low income families on the Island. Proceeds from the sales go to the community program.

The work of Penn Community Services is supported by participants in the program, income from a small endowment, and contributions of persons interested in seeing such a pilot project contine to operate. Gifts to Penn are tax deductible.

June 14, 1957

Mr. Courtney Siceloff, Director
Penn Community Services, Inc.
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

Thanks for your two recent communications and the encouraging news they contained. It is good to know that your local council in human relations is off the ground.

Lib has an excellent memory. We still have some materials on the community self-survey program and I should think that this technique could be adapted by your group. I am sending you a packet separately.

Whenever we can work out a trip down there, I will be happy to double in brass as honored outside speaker. Goodness knows when that will be, but our intentions are strong and durable.

Be sure to let me know how you make out with Mr. May. I hope you get lots.

Best to you both,

Sincerely,

Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director

HCF/mf

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

(Formerly Penn Normal, Industrial and Agricultural School)

June 2, 1957

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Hon. Marion A. Wright
Chairman
Linville Falls, N. C.

William E. Cadbury
Vice-Chairman
Philadelphia, Pa.

Rev. Cornelius A. Wood, Jr.
Secretary
Washington, D. C.

Dr. Ira DeA. Reid
Treasurer
Haverford College
Haverford, Pa.

Dr. George H. Aull
Clemson, S. C.

B. Tartt Bell
Greensboro, N. C.

Paul W. Brown, Jr.
Philadelphia 1, Pa.

Leroy E. Browne
St. Helena Island, S. C.

Miss Isabella Curtis
Manchester, Mass.

James McBride Dabbs
Mayesville, S. C.

Dr. J. Curtis Dixon
Atlanta, Georgia

Harold Evans
Philadelphia, Pa.

Miss Grace B. House
Orient, Long Island, N. Y.

Mrs. Horace H. Jenks
Wilton, Conn.

Dr. Benjamin E. Mays
Atlanta, Georgia

Robert Ogden Purves
New Haven, Conn.

Mrs. Edward G. Sanders
St. Helena Island, S. C.

A. M. Secrest
Cheraw, S. C.

John A. Silver
Pipersville, Pa.

W. E. Solomon
Columbia, S. C.

Mrs. Eugene Spearman
Columbia, S. C.

Joseph Wright
Beaufort, S. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

Mrs. Y. W. Bailey
St. Helena Island, S. C

Francis R. Cope, Jr.
Dimock, Pa.

J. Nelson Frierson
Charleston, S. C.

Paul Kellogg
New York, N. Y.

Mrs. William W. Smith, II
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Harold Fleming
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Harold Fleming:

The Executive Committee for our local Council on Human Relations met recently and tried to plan a program for several months ahead. I recall that Elizabeth mentioned a "study of your community" series, in which I believe Jane was actually engaged.

I wonder if the Council still has material on this project and whether it might fit into a program such as ours. Of course, if the reply is in the affirmative, we would then like to know if there would be someone in the Council who would come down and discuss it with our group. We have two or three speakers lined up, but feel that maybe some action project might be very helpful for the group.

Sincerely,

Courtney

Courtney Siceloff

CS:rfp Here's another device to try to get you to come

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

(Formerly Penn Normal, Industrial and Agricultural School)

June 1, 1957

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Hon. Marion A. Wright
Chairman
Linville Falls, N. C.

William E. Cadbury
Vice-Chairman
Philadelphia, Pa.

Rev. Cornelius A. Wood, Jr.
Secretary
Washington, D. C.

Dr. Ira DeA. Reid
Treasurer
Haverford College
Haverford, Pa.

Dr. George H. Aull
Clemson, S. C.

B. Tartt Bell
Greensboro, N. C.

Paul W. Brown, Jr.
Philadelphia 1, Pa.

Leroy E. Browne
St. Helena Island, S. C.

Miss Isabella Curtis
Manchester, Mass.

James McBride Dabbs
Mayesville, S. C.

Dr. J. Curtis Dixon
Atlanta, Georgia

Harold Evans
Philadelphia, Pa.

Miss Grace B. House
Orient, Long Island, N. Y.

Mrs. Horace H. Jenks
Wilton, Conn.

Dr. Benjamin E. Mays
Atlanta, Georgia

Robert Ogden Purves
New Haven, Conn.

Mrs. Edward G. Sanders
St. Helena Island, S. C.

A. M. Secrest
Cheraw, S. C.

John A. Silver
Pipersville, Pa.

W. E. Solomon
Columbia, S. C.

Mrs. Eugene Spearman
Columbia, S. C.

Joseph Wright
Beaufort, S. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

Mrs. Y. W. Bailey
St. Helena Island, S. C

Francis R. Cope, Jr.
Dimock, Pa.

J. Nelson Frierson
Charleston, S. C.

Paul Kellogg
New York, N. Y.

Mrs. William W. Smith, II
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Harold Fleming
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Harold:

Thanks very much for your letter of May 15 concerning applying for funds from Mr. Maye. I forthwith dashed him off a letter and will be interested in his reply. It certainly was helpful to have your experienced counsel in this respect.

Two weeks ago we held the first meeting of our Bi-Racial committee here at Penn. The group is being pushed particularly, by a young White Methodist Minister from Bluffton, the lower part of the county. He has enlisted the support of a number of Negroes in Jasper County, and it is going under the name of a Tri-County ~~Racial Committee.~~ Council on Human Relations, way I heard it. Our speaker for the occasion was Mack Secrest, who is publisher of the Cheraw Chronicle, whose editorials you have reprinted. He is quite a fellow, and a new trustee of Penn. There must have been about thirty-five present, but few White people. We hope to increase the latter in the coming months.

Any possibility of luring you down as Honorable, talented out-side speaker for one of these occasions? Maybe in that way we can get a visit from the whole family. I hope the answer is in the affirmative.

Best wishes,

Courtney Siceloff

Courtney Siceloff

CS:rfp

Dear Harold -

Courtney is flitting and asked me to sign some letters for him. His suggestion (yours coming) seems like a pregnant one. Work on it.

F.T

October 10, 1957

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Penn Community Services, Inc.
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

Thanks for your letter of October 3rd describing the plan of operation developed by the South Carolina Council on Human Relations.

This gives us a satisfactory basis for proceeding with the grant-in-aid of $5,000 for 1957-1958.

As you may know, the first quarterly payment was sent to the state office on October 1st.

Sincerely,

Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director

HCF/mf

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

(Formerly Penn Normal, Industrial and Agricultural School)

October 3, 1957

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Hon. Marion A. Wright
Chairman
Linville Falls, N. C.

William E. Cadbury
Vice-Chairman
Philadelphia, Pa.

Rev. Cornelius A. Wood, Jr.
Secretary
Washington, D. C.

Dr. Ira DeA. Reid
Treasurer
Haverford College
Haverford, Pa.

Dr. George H. Aull
Clemson, S. C.

B. Tartt Bell
Greensboro, N. C.

Paul W. Brown, Jr.
Philadelphia 1, Pa.

Leroy E. Browne
St. Helena Island, S. C.

Miss Isabella Curtis
Manchester, Mass.

James McBride Dabbs
Mayesville, S. C.

Dr. J. Curtis Dixon
Atlanta, Georgia

Harold Evans
Philadelphia, Pa.

Miss Grace B. House
Orient, Long Island, N. Y.

Mrs. Horace H. Jenks
Wilton, Conn.

Dr. Benjamin E. Mays
Atlanta, Georgia

Robert Ogden Purves
New Haven, Conn.

Mrs. Edward G. Sanders
St. Helena Island, S. C.

A. M. Secrest
Cheraw, S. C.

John A. Silver
Pipersville, Pa.

W. E. Solomon
Columbia, S. C.

Mrs. Eugene Spearman
Columbia, S. C.

Joseph Wright
Beaufort, S. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

Mrs. Y. W. Bailey
St. Helena Island, S. C

Francis R. Cope, Jr.
Dimock, Pa.

J. Nelson Frierson
Charleston, S. C.

Paul Kellogg
New York, N. Y.

Mrs. William W. Smith, II
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Mr. Harold Fleming
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Harold Fleming:

At the Executive Committee Meeting of the South Carolina Council on Human Relations which met on September 15, 1957, plans were formulated for the coming year.

A budget of $10,000 was adopted on the assumption of $5,000 coming from Southern Regional Council, the remainder to be raised locally by the State Council. The Executive Committee decided to hire a full time assistant to Mrs. Spearman. The person suggested by Mrs. Spearman is a Mrs. Ruff, a Negro who has clerical ability, and lives in Columbia. The hiring of Mrs. Ruff will enable us to continue our bi-racial staff, and will aid a great deal in the pilot project to be undertaken in Columbia. While Mrs. Ruff will aid in the pilot project and the raising of funds for the support of the program, her primary responsibility will be the carrying on of clerical work of the office.

The entire Board will be meeting on October 12 and 13 at Penn Center, here on St. Helena. We are glad that you are going to be able to help us formulate our specific program for the oncoming months. We expect to discuss quite fully, the undertaking of the finances during this period.

The Executive Committee will recommend to the Board, an increase in the cost of membership. It would be five dollars for a single person, seven dollars and fifty cents for a couple. This would automatically include a subscription to the New South. You may be interested in knowing that the Executive Committee discussed rather fully the membership fee, since our Board is attempting to raise a larger sum than last year. However, the committee unanimously agreed that the bulletin New South should be included, since one cannot find the information included in the bulletin, elsewhere. Also, it was thought that members would be getting something tangible for their membership, and might be more apt to renew them at the term of expiration.

Best regards,

Courtney Siceloff

CS:rfp

October 21, 1957

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Penn Community Services, Inc.
St. Helena's Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

Following the very successful conference of the South Carolina Council last week, I want to extend a word of commendation to you and to Penn Community Services.

It must give you great satisfaction to consider the unique importance of Penn's function as a conference center where groups composed of both races can meet in a pleasant and relaxed atmosphere. There is no counterpart of Penn, certainly not in the deep South.

I heard many participants in last week's conference comment enthusiastically on the congeniality and comfort of Penn's facilities. They spoke my own sentiments exactly, and I thought it only proper to pass them on to you.

With best regards,

Sincerely,

Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director

HCF/mf
(Sighed in Mr. Fleming's absence)

Ltr. to Courtney Siceloff

Dear Courtney:

Following the very successful conference of the South Carolina Council last week, I want to extend a word of commendation to you and to Penn Community Services.

It must give you great satisfaction to consider the unique importance of Penn's function as a conference center where groups composed of both races can meet in a pleasant and relaxed atmosphere. There is no counterpart of Penn, certainly not in the deep South.

I heard many participants in last week's conference comment enthusiastically on the congeniality and comfort of Penn's facilities. They spoke my own sentiments exactly, and I thought it only proper to pass them on to you.

(over)

Memo . . . FROM THE DESK OF
. . . . HAROLD C. FLEMING . . . .

With best regards,

Sincerely,

HCF

Encl: Ltr from Max. Hahn - dtd. 10/30/57

November 8, 1957

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Director
Penn Community Services, Inc.
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

I am glad that my letter in praise of Penn struck you as useful and arrived at so timely a moment.

I hope you had your tongue in cheek when you spoke of my great fund-raising abilities and of our non-existent consultant in fund-raising. I do know about the Field Foundation. In fact, I have just had a letter from Max Hahn, the executive director, a confidential copy of which I am enclosing. As you will see, the prospect of early assistant from Field is nil.

The directory of foundations, titled: American Foundations and Their Fields, Seventh Edition by Wilmer Shields Rich, can be secured, I believe, from The American Foundations Information Service, 860 Broadway, New York 3. I don't recall the price, but it is fairly expensive. However, I am in the same stage you are - namely, exploring all possibilities, and I find the Rich book extremely useful in singling out foundations to shoot at.

All the best to you and Lib.

Sincerely,

Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director

HCF/mf
Enclosure.

RECEIVED OCT 28 1957

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

St. Helena Island Frogmore, South Carolina

Courtney Siceloff
Director

October 25, 1957

Harold Fleming
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Harold:

It certainly was a very nice letter that you wrote concerning Penn. It also arrived at a very opportune moment when I was planning to go to New York for a Board meeting, as well as seek some foundation assistance.

I trust that you will not mind if I tote your letter along for support. Again, with your permission, I would like to have it duplicated later.

Best wishes,

Courtney Siceloff

CS:rfp

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

(Formerly Penn Normal, Industrial and Agricultural School)

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

October 22, 1957

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Hon. Marion A. Wright
Chairman
Linville Falls, N. C.

William E. Cadbury
Vice-Chairman
Philadelphia, Pa.

Rev. Cornelius A. Wood, Jr.
Secretary
Washington, D. C.

Dr. Ira DeA. Reid
Treasurer
Haverford College
Haverford, Pa.

Dr. George H. Aull
Clemson, S. C.

B. Tartt Bell
Greensboro, N. C.

Paul W. Brown, Jr.
Philadelphia 1, Pa.

Leroy E. Browne
St. Helena Island, S. C.

Miss Isabella Curtis
Manchester, Mass.

James McBride Dabbs
Mayesville, S. C.

Dr. J. Curtis Dixon
Atlanta, Georgia

Harold Evans
Philadelphia, Pa.

Miss Grace B. House
Orient, Long Island, N. Y.

Mrs. Horace H. Jenks
Wilton, Conn.

Dr. Benjamin E. Mays
Atlanta, Georgia

Robert Ogden Purves
New Haven, Conn.

Mrs. Edward G. Sanders
St. Helena Island, S. C.

A. M. Secrest
Cheraw, S. C.

John A. Silver
Pipersville, Pa.

W. E. Solomon
Columbia, S. C.

Mrs. Eugene Spearman
Columbia, S. C.

Joseph Wright
Beaufort, S. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

Mrs. Y. W. Bailey
St. Helena Island, S. C

Francis R. Cope, Jr.
Dimock, Pa.

J. Nelson Frierson
Charleston, S. C.

Paul Kellogg
New York, N. Y.

Mrs. William W. Smith, II
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Mr. Harold Fleming
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Harold:

I really muffed the opportunity to talk to you about foundation support when you were here over the week end. Since you have no trouble along these lines, I'm surprised that Penn hasn't made an application directly to you instead of going to the foundation.

We have had representatives from several groups look at Penn, who ~~and~~ feel that life would be a bit too spartan for their delegates to take. I've drawn up a small list of needs that would amount to around seventeen thousand dollars, that I think would enable us to attract a number of such groups. My theory is that if we are able to attract a number of "respectable" groups, and thus seek to identify Penn as ~~either~~ not strictly a Negro institution, that our chances of having interracial meetings involving key persons over the state, would be greatly enhanced.

John May was here several months ago, and said that the Marshall-Field Foundation might be open to a proposition - one in which we could "ethically manipulate" them. Do you happen to know who is the executive in charge of that foundation's New York office? Also, is there not a publication which lists all types of foundations ~~in that state~~, and the primary interest of each. If so, could you please give me the publisher's address?

Obviously, we would not be adverse to having any other leads that you might suggest.

Best wishes,

Courtney Siceloff

CS:rfp

RECEIVED OCT 2 1 '57

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

(Formerly Penn Normal, Industrial and Agricultural School)

October 21, 1957

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Hon. Marion A. Wright
Chairman
Linville Falls, N. C.

William E. Cadbury
Vice-Chairman
Philadelphia, Pa.

Rev. Cornelius A. Wood, Jr.
Secretary
Washington, D. C.

Dr. Ira DeA. Reid
Treasurer
Haverford College
Haverford, Pa.

Dr. George H. Aull
Clemson, S. C.

B. Tartt Bell
Greensboro, N. C.

Paul W. Brown, Jr.
Philadelphia 1, Pa.

Leroy E. Browne
St. Helena Island, S. C.

Miss Isabella Curtis
Manchester, Mass.

James McBride Dabbs
Mayesville, S. C.

Dr. J. Curtis Dixon
Atlanta, Georgia

Harold Evans
Philadelphia, Pa.

Miss Grace B. House
Orient, Long Island, N. Y.

Mrs. Horace H. Jenks
Wilton, Conn.

Dr. Benjamin E. Mays
Atlanta, Georgia

Robert Ogden Purves
New Haven, Conn.

Mrs. Edward G. Sanders
St. Helena Island, S. C.

A. M. Secrest
Cheraw, S. C.

John A. Silver
Pipersville, Pa.

W. E. Solomon
Columbia, S. C.

Mrs. Eugene Spearman
Columbia, S. C.

Joseph Wright
Beaufort, S. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

Mrs. Y. W. Bailey
St. Helena Island, S. C

Francis R. Cope, Jr.
Dimock, Pa.

J. Nelson Frierson
Charleston, S. C.

Paul Kellogg
New York, N. Y.

Mrs. William W. Smith, II
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Mr. Harold Fleming
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Harold Fleming:

Thank you very much for your letter of October 10, indicating that South Carolina would be receiving five thousand dollars for the year 1957-58. I am certainly pleased with our present staff and the prospects for the coming year. I feel certain that we will raise the amount set as our goal.

I speak not only for the State Council, but certainly, for us personally, that we were delighted to have you here over the week end. I trust that we will be hearing soon about your new consultant on finances, and his availability to South Carolina for several days in November.

I certainly hope that you made that plane out of Charleston Sunday. Otherwise, I would not have envied your roaming around the empty Sunday streets of Charleston, trying to pass the few hours.

Best regards,

Courtney Siceloff

CS:rfp

Penn

November 12, 1957

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Penn Community Services
St. Helena's Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

Marion Wright has been in the office and we have been talking about the advisability of you becoming a member of NAIRO. He has asked me to write you saying that you are authorised by the Board to join and that they will pay your membership, and if you wish to attend the annual meeting Mr. Wright will guarantee up to $75.00 expenses.

The annual meeting is being held in Kansas City, Missouri, on November 20th, 21st and 22nd, and will take place at the Pickwick Hotel. If you decide to go I would advise that you write the hotel immediately for room reservations. Rooms run from $6.85 up. I think it would be good if you go.

Warm regards to the family.

Cordially,

Frederick B. Routh
Assistant Director

(Dictated by Mr. Routh but signed in his absence)

FBR:fcl

November 18, 1957

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Penn Community Services Inc.
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Court:

Marion Wright is in the office and I shall pass on your letter so that he will be fully advised of the action you have taken regarding NAIRO.

Cordially,

Frederick B. Routh
Assistant Director

(Dictated by Fred Routh but signed in his absence)

FBR:fcl

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

(Formerly Penn Normal, Industrial and Agricultural School)

November 14, 1957

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Hon. Marion A. Wright
Chairman
Linville Falls, N. C.

William E. Cadbury
Vice-Chairman
Philadelphia, Pa.

Rev. Cornelius A. Wood, Jr.
Secretary
Washington, D. C.

Dr. Ira DeA. Reid
Treasurer
Haverford College
Haverford, Pa.

Dr. George H. Aull
Clemson, S. C.

B. Tartt Bell
Greensboro, N. C.

Paul W. Brown, Jr.
Philadelphia 1, Pa.

Leroy E. Browne
St. Helena Island, S. C.

Miss Isabella Curtis
Manchester, Mass.

James McBride Dabbs
Mayesville, S. C.

Dr. J. Curtis Dixon
Atlanta, Georgia

Harold Evans
Philadelphia, Pa.

Miss Grace B. House
Orient, Long Island, N. Y.

Mrs. Horace H. Jenks
Wilton, Conn.

Dr. Benjamin E. Mays
Atlanta, Georgia

Robert Ogden Purves
New Haven, Conn.

Mrs. Edward G. Sanders
St. Helena Island, S. C.

A. M. Secrest
Cheraw, S. C.

John A. Silver
Pipersville, Pa.

W. E. Solomon
Columbia, S. C.

Mrs. Eugene Spearman
Columbia, S. C.

Joseph Wright
Beaufort, S. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

Mrs. Y. W. Bailey
St. Helena Island, S. C

Francis R. Cope, Jr.
Dimock, Pa.

J. Nelson Frierson
Charleston, S. C.

Paul Kellogg
New York, N. Y.

Mrs. William W. Smith, II
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Frederick B. Routh
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Fred:

Thanks very much for the information on NAIRO, and I am sending in a membership fee to Mr. Lassoe. I would like very much to attend the meeting, but will not be able to do so at this time. I would like very much to attend the next one if it is at all possible.

Sincerely,

Courtney Siceloff

CS:rfp

cc. Marion Wright
Linville Falls, North Carolina

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

St. Helena Island Frogmore, South Carolina

Courtney Siceloff
Director

November 19, 1957

Harold Fleming
Southern Regional Council
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Harold:

This is presumptious of me - rather like GSM's correcting Gunnar Myrdal's pronunciation- but when I came across the enclosed letterhead yesterday, it reminded me of my perennial dislike for the SRC letterhead. I realize you probably wouldn't want anything as extreme as Pendle Hill's. But couldn't we have a democratic, grass-roots movement to eliminate those vulgar capitals, the S and R and C, in the letterhead?

By the way, today Courtney received a letter from Fred Routh which wafted in on the most gorgeous scent. Is that a new feature of SRC correspondence?

Yours,

Libbo

pendle hill

WALLINGFORD
PENNSYLVANIA

A QUAKER CENTER FOR RELIGIOUS AND SOCIAL STUDY

DOUGLAS V. STEERE, Chairman
MARY HOXIE JONES, Vice-Chairman
THOMAS T. TAYLOR, Treasurer
MARY R. CALHOUN, Secretary

DAN WILSON, DIRECTOR
GILBERT H. KILPACK, DIRECTOR OF STUDIES

Dear Courtney,

Much to my shame, I have found a folder of receipts that was filed without acknowledgment. I know you will understand, but your interest and help are too important to us to go unheeded.

It was so good to see you here, even briefly. I hope you gospels study group goes well. Love to you and Elizabeth.

Your friend,

Dan

November 8, 1957 Dan Wilson

November 27, 1957

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Director
Penn Community Center
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

Delighted to have you aboard.

I thought that "re-elected" might throw you. Actually, though you didn't know it, you were a member (ex-officio) for a short time after your election as chairman of the South Carolina Council.

More 'lasses?

Sincerely,

Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director

HCF/mf

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

St. Helena Island — Frogmore, South Carolina

Courtney Siceloff
Director

Nov 22, 1967

Dear Harold,

I appreciate the invitation to join the governing council of SRC, and consider it an honor; I am delighted to accept.

Concerning your statement of my being "re-elected" reminds me of the boy who was asked if he cared for molasses and replied, "I haven't had any 'lasses yet."

Cordially

RECEIVED DEC - 2 1957

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

FBR

St. Helena Island

Frogmore, South Carolina

Courtney Siceloff
Director

November 30, 1957

Harold Fleming
Southern Regional Council
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Harold:

Yes, I think it would help a little to block in the vulgar capitals; I think it would change them from vulgar to repulsive. It's all right, though, I am concentrating on other peeves now, so you needn't do anything.

We're leaving December 6 for our trek to Texas and Mexico, and must drive like the wind to Dallas in order to see Courtney's sister before she departs with her family to Libya. This sounds captainish and will be if we accomplish it. Sadly, it means no stop in Atlanta. In fact, the situation is so desperate some of our coffee breaks may have to be sacrificed! Tell Jane. Tell her I'll try to return Kristin L. before Lent. I am just now recovering from the gloom it brought over me.

We were to have a student group from the University of South Carolina - all white, of course - for a YM-YW retreat this weekend. A similar group came last year. We slipped up and allowed a local newsman to write a story

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

St. Helena Island Frogmore, South Carolina

Courtney Siceloff
Director

before the event, which appeared last week in the Charleston News & Courier. Long distance calls began coming in for the President of USC (Russell), protesting the students coming to Penn. He called in the University chaplain, Lauren Brubaker. Lauren reassured the President, and he said the retreat could go on, but as the calls continued to come, and then a petition signed by about 25 Beaufort people, the YM secretary, Ted Ledeen, was called in and it was decided not to hold the retreat at Penn. After a lot of telephoning, they finally located a hotel in Summerville which would house the group.

We were in North Carolina last weekend and were tracked down by Alice Spearman with this news. On the return trip, we stopped in Columbia and Courtney met with Ted Ledeen and the various religious secretaries, who were sponsoring the retreat jointly. Apparently they were not in any trouble with the administration, and this relieved us. Seems the only ones in trouble are us, with some Beaufort people as yet unknown to us. We are trying to find out who they are. One theory was that there might be a political angle, an attempt to discredit Pres. Russell in his announced candidacy for the Governorship. But that's only a theory. We hope to find out something soon. Meanwhile, it looks like we'll have to avoid publicity of all kinds for a while.

Our holiday greetings are early but we think we'd better send them now. Love to you all.

And many stars, candles, and Lazarus cups!

Libby

January 21, 1958

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Director
Penn Community Services, Inc.
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

The tax-exemption memo mentioned by Marion Wright is evidently one prepared for NAIRO which we distributed to the state organizations about a year ago. It was mimeographed, entitled: "Tax Exemption and Private Intergroup Relations Agencies," forwarded to each state office by memo from Fred Routh dated December 14, 1956.

We were able to get only a limited number of copies and have here only one file copy, which I would rather hang onto if the S. C. Council has it on file. I suggest you check with Alice. If she can't turn up the S. C. Council's copy, let me know and I will shake loose our file copy.

It's a good memo, well worth careful reading.

Best regards,

Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director

HCF/mf

RECEIVED JAN 20 1958

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

St. Helena Island Frogmore, South Carolina

Courtney Siceloff
Director

January 18, 1958

Harold Fleming
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Harold Fleming:

Marion Wright, who has spent a couple of days here enroute to Florida, indicated that you have a paper giving the opinion of Mr. Haas, on what constitutes political activity. Since we (SCRC) have just obtained our tax-exempt status, we certainly do not want to endanger it, and would appreciate it very much if you could send two copies. However, if the supply is low I would be glad just to borrow one.

With best wishes,

Courtney Siceloff

CS:rfp

xxxxx
File

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

(Formerly Penn Normal, Industrial and Agricultural School)

January 28, 1958

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Hon. Marion A. Wright
Chairman
Linville Falls, N. C.

William E. Cadbury
Vice-Chairman
Philadelphia, Pa.

Rev. Cornelius A. Wood, Jr.
Secretary
Washington, D. C.

Dr. Ira DeA. Reid
Treasurer
Haverford College
Haverford, Pa.

Dr. George H. Aull
Clemson, S. C.

B. Tartt Bell
Greensboro, N. C.

Paul W. Brown, Jr.
Philadelphia 1, Pa.

Leroy E. Browne
St. Helena Island, S. C.

Miss Isabella Curtis
Manchester, Mass.

James McBride Dabbs
Mayesville, S. C.

Dr. J. Curtis Dixon
Atlanta, Georgia

Harold Evans
Philadelphia, Pa.

Miss Grace B. House
Orient, Long Island, N. Y.

Mrs. Horace H. Jenks
Wilton, Conn.

Dr. Benjamin E. Mays
Atlanta, Georgia

Robert Ogden Purves
New Haven, Conn.

Mrs. Edward G. Sanders
St. Helena Island, S. C.

A. M. Secrest
Cheraw, S. C.

John A. Silver
Pipersville, Pa.

W. E. Solomon
Columbia, S. C.

Mrs. Eugene Spearman
Columbia, S. C.

Joseph Wright
Beaufort, S. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

Mrs. Y. W. Bailey
St. Helena Island, S. C

Francis R. Cope, Jr.
Dimock, Pa.

J. Nelson Frierson
Charleston, S. C.

Paul Kellogg
New York, N. Y.

Mrs. William W. Smith, II
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Mr. Frederick Routh
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Fred:

So glad to know that you will be joining the Penn Board of Advisors. Marion and I, among others, felt we needed some young, aggressive man --that one can do certain things in South Carolina at this time. I have not heard yet from Marion what the response has been to the invitations, but I am sure once the composition of the Board is settled, that a meeting will be called soon.

I do not think that the Advisory Board would have to meet often, but it will probably be a good idea to get together to know one another and to possibly come up with some ideas, and or contacts for developing the Conference Center particularly.

We are also wanting to contact Grace Hamilton, of Atlanta, in this connection. If you have her address, I would appreciate very much having it.

Best wishes,

Courtney Siceloff

Courtney Siceloff

CS:rfp

Good heavens! Is your name Frederick?
Lib

? PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

(Formerly Penn Normal, Industrial and Agricultural School)

Jan. 31, 1958

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Hon. Marion A. Wright
Chairman
Linville Falls, N. C.

William E. Cadbury
Vice-Chairman
Philadelphia, Pa.

Rev. Cornelius A. Wood, Jr.
Secretary
Washington, D. C.

Dr. Ira DeA. Reid
Treasurer
Haverford College
Haverford, Pa.

Dr. George H. Aull
Clemson, S. C.

B. Tartt Bell
Greensboro, N. C.

Paul W. Brown, Jr.
Philadelphia 1, Pa.

Leroy E. Browne
St. Helena Island, S. C.

Miss Isabella Curtis
Manchester, Mass.

James McBride Dabbs
Mayesville, S. C.

Dr. J. Curtis Dixon
Atlanta, Georgia

Harold Evans
Philadelphia, Pa.

Miss Grace B. House
Orient, Long Island, N. Y.

Mrs. Horace H. Jenks
Wilton, Conn.

Dr. Benjamin E. Mays
Atlanta, Georgia

Robert Ogden Purves
New Haven, Conn.

Mrs. Edward G. Sanders
St. Helena Island, S. C.

A. M. Secrest
Cheraw, S. C.

John A. Silver
Pipersville, Pa.

W. E. Solomon
Columbia, S. C.

Mrs. Eugene Spearman
Columbia, S. C.

Joseph Wright
Beaufort, S. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

Mrs. Y. W. Bailey
St. Helena Island, S. C

Francis R. Cope, Jr.
Dimock, Pa.

J. Nelson Frierson
Charleston, S. C.

Paul Kellogg
New York, N. Y.

Mrs. William W. Smith, II
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Mr. Fredric B. Routh
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue N.E.
Atlanta 3, Ga.

Dear Mr. Routh:

We are delighted at your acceptance of appointment to Penn's Advisory Board. No doubt you will be hearing from Courtney Siceloff or myself in the near future as to matters about which we would like to have your counsel.

With kind regards, I am

Yours sincerely,

Marion Wright

Marion Wright
Chairman

February 20, 1958

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Director
Penn Community Services, Inc.
St. Helena's Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

Thanks for sharing Bill Peters' letter to Helen Christensen. I knew from conversation with him that Peters was interested in this angle. In answer to his question, I told him that SRC, George Mitchell, and I were all audited within a period of a few months; but I also made it clear that we have suffered no injury and have no desire to make an issue of the fact. Having found at least a few others who had recently been checked by the Internal Revenue Service, Peters evidently decided to do a more general survey. I have no idea what he will find, but he is a trustworthy person who can be relied on not to violate any confidences. (Among other things, he is working with AFSC.)

Congratulations on the new member of the family. Did we tell you about ours? Arrived at Christmas, now about 15 pounds, black curly hair, and favors a rag-mop. She -- for such it is -- over-reacts to the name of Bridey Murphy. We must get her and Dondi together.

Best regards,

Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director

HCF/mf

rec 2/17

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

(Formerly Penn Normal, Industrial and Agricultural School)

February 14, 1958

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Hon. Marion A. Wright
Chairman
Linville Falls, N. C.

William E. Cadbury
Vice-Chairman
Philadelphia, Pa.

Rev. Cornelius A. Wood, Jr.
Secretary
Washington, D. C.

Dr. Ira DeA. Reid
Treasurer
Haverford College
Haverford, Pa.

Dr. George H. Aull
Clemson, S. C.

B. Tartt Bell
Greensboro, N. C.

Paul W. Brown, Jr.
Philadelphia 1, Pa.

Leroy E. Browne
St. Helena Island, S. C.

Miss Isabella Curtis
Manchester, Mass.

James McBride Dabbs
Mayesville, S. C.

Dr. J. Curtis Dixon
Atlanta, Georgia

Harold Evans
Philadelphia, Pa.

Miss Grace B. House
Orient, Long Island, N. Y.

Mrs. Horace H. Jenks
Wilton, Conn.

Dr. Benjamin E. Mays
Atlanta, Georgia

Robert Ogden Purves
New Haven, Conn.

Mrs. Edward G. Sanders
St. Helena Island, S. C.

A. M. Secrest
Cheraw, S. C.

John A. Silver
Pipersville, Pa.

W. E. Solomon
Columbia, S. C.

Mrs. Eugene Spearman
Columbia, S. C.

Joseph Wright
Beaufort, S. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

Mrs. Y. W. Bailey
St. Helena Island, S. C

Francis R. Cope, Jr.
Dimock, Pa.

J. Nelson Frierson
Charleston, S. C.

Paul Kellogg
New York, N. Y.

Mrs. William W. Smith, II
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Harold Fleming
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Harold:

Helen Christensen recently passed on the enclosed letter to me, to ask if I had heard of any such intimidation by members of the Internal Revenue Department. Although I grant that such is a possibility, it would seem most unlikely that this practice could be widespread.

I felt surely that you would have been consulted by Mr. Peters, but am sending it on in case you have not.

Did we tell you that we were expecting, and have now an addition to our family? It's a male, and weighs somewhere around nine pounds, grey eyes, black hair, and it is hard to say whom he favors. However, I must confess that it was an adoption, and was arranged between the families of Dabbs and Siceloffs. The pup sometimes answers to the name of Dondi.

Best wishes,

Courtney

cs:rfp

Enclosure

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Annual Meeting March 15, 1958

MINUTES

The Annual Meeting of the Trustees of Penn Community Services, Incorporated, was held at Hampton House, Frogmore, South Carolina, March 15, 1958, beginning at 10:00 A.M.

Trustees present were as follows: Chairman Marion Wright, Secretary Wood, Miss House, Mesdames Spearman and Sanders, Messrs. Aull, Cadbury, Dabbs, Evans, Brown, and J. Wright. Mrs. Y.W. Bailey of the Advisory Board was also present.

Sending regrets were Trustees Bell, Curtis, Jenks, Mays, Reid, Silver, and Solomon; and Advisory Board: Kellogg and Smith.

The meeting began with a brief period of silence, following which the Board went into executive session.

EXECUTIVE SESSION

The Chairman commended Director Siceloff and his work. Miss House concurred and brought out the fact that the Siceloffs have won the love and respect of the residents of St. Helena.

The Secretary stated that at the meeting of the Executive Committee on 14 March it was recommended that Mr. Siceloff be commended to the Board for employment as Director for the ensuing year, upon the terms specified by the Board as set forth on the first page of the minutes covering the meeting held in Philadelphia on 29 October 1957.

Director employed.

Upon MOTION duly made, seconded, and unanimously carried, Mr. Siceloff was thereupon engaged for the term of one year at the salary specified in the 29 October 1957 minutes.

The following resolution was presented by Dr. Aull and was unanimously adopted:

> "In re-electing Courtney Siceloff as Director for the ensuing year, the Board takes occasion to express its great satisfaction with the services rendered by him and its appreciation for his devotion and skill in developing Penn's program.
>
> We believe that, largely as the result of his efforts, the physical plant has been rehabilitated, the campus made more attractive, the number of Penn's friends increased and the prestige and usefulness of the institution enhanced.

With great tact, intelligence and powers of persuasion he has conducted a needed program with a minimum of friction and opposition to the point that its value is now generally recognized and its success assured.

We pledge him our continued loyal support in the years ahead."

AGENDA AND MINUTES

The Agenda previously transmitted by mail was adopted. (Appended to Minute Book.)

The minutes of the 29 October 1957 meeting were accepted in the form previously mailed.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

The Secretary submitted the following report of actions taken by the Executive Committee at its meeting at Frogmore, South Carolina, on 14 March 1958.

Budget. As specified by the By-Laws, the Executive Committee reviewed the fiscal year 1959 proposed budget which the Director had previously mailed to the Trustees. (A copy of the mailed budget proposal is appended to the official Minute Book copy of these minutes.) The Executive Committee recommends that the amount projected as receipts from "Contributions" be reduced to $5000; that receipts from "Invested Funds" be reduced to $10,500; that receipts from "Sale of Timber" be increased to $500; that the salary of the Director be increased to $4800; and that the expenditures for "Reforestation" be increased to $800.

Noting that the Director had not been able to work with the Treasurer in preparing the projected budget, the Executive Committee recommends the adoption of the budget subject to the changes just described and further subject to readjustments to be made by the Executive Committee at a later time, after appropriate review by the Treasurer, and in the light of the desirability that a depreciation reserve should be established in connection with the Conference Income and Expenditure accounts.

Depreciation. The Executive Committee reviewed the matter of depreciation which has been discussed at previous meetings of the Board. The Committee noted that our existing policy of not providing for depreciation in the Conference accounts was originally adopted for two reasons: uncertainty as to proper depreciation rates to be charged, and the desirability of initially pricing conferee per capita rates in such a manner as to stimulate use of the new facilities.

The Executive Committee now directs that the Treasurer and Director consult in order to develop satisfactory depreciation schedules, with the instruction that wherever possible hereafter, the per capita rate be adjusted so as to amortize the true depreciation costs: and that the fiscal year 1959 budget be hereafter adjusted accordingly; and, further, that the fiscal year 1960 budget be prepared in accordance with "sound accounting practices".

Library Program. The Executive Committee recommends to the Board that the Chairman be instructed to approach county and state authorities with a view to securing full financial support from these sources for the library program.

Pensions. Director Siceloff read to the Executive Committee a letter from George Brown inquiring whether he were eligible under the existing pension program. The Executive Committee recommends that the Director be instructed to verify the details of Mr. Brown's dates of employment before responding; further, that the Board instruct the Executive Committee to re-study the existing program in light of changes in OASI (Federal Social Security) and in state Teachers' Retirement pension provisions which have taken place subsequent to adoption of the Penn pension program.

James Foundation. The Secretary read a letter which former Trustee Purves on 6 March 1958 wrote to Miss House regarding the possibility of an approach to the James Foundation. As a preliminary to taking action along the lines suggested by Mr. Purves, the Executive Committee recommends that the Board instruct the Director to secure a copy of the James Will, together with verifiable facts as to the dates and financial extent to which Mr. James was associated with this Board, referring this information to the Secretary.

Other Business. The Executive Committee discussed the following matter:

A request from the Highlander Folk School for the use of our facilities; since Penn now operates a conference center and not a school, the Committee recommends that the Board instruct the Director to decline.

The report of the Executive Committee was received by the Board, to be acted upon as the various subjects are reached in the agenda of today's meeting.

DIRECTOR'S REPORT

a) Oral Summary By Director. Director Siceloff summarized the written report dated 15 March 1958 which he had previously mailed to the Trustees. A copy of this report is appended to these minutes in the official Minute Book.

Clinic. Pursuant to the Director's recommendation, upon MOTION duly made, seconded and carried, the Board authorized transfer of the Rossa Cooley Clinic from the Frissell Building to Cope Building, in order to achieve more effective space utilization and so as to provide for a lounge for conferees in Frissell, noting that funds for such transfer will be available from the restricted endowment supporting the Rossa Cooley Clinic.

Sales House. Upon MOTION duly made, seconded and carried, relocation of the Sales House activity from present quarters to Cope Building was authorized for the similar purpose of providing more efficient space utilization. (Miss Watson, of the Sales House, who participated in this portion of the meeting, as noted below, supported this proposal.)

James Foundation. Miss House recommended that the James Foundation be approached for funds to make possible a complete renovation of Cope Building for these purposes.

Adult Education. In completing his summary, Director Siceloff expressed the opinion that Penn would hereafter move in the direction of greater emphasis upon adult education programs.

b) Projects Summarized by Community Leaders. The Director then asked community representatives of the various Penn projects to summarize the current activities.

Library -- Mrs. Bailey. The librarian noted the addition of one depository outpost on the St. Helena and Lady's Islands, bringing the present number to nineteen. A growing circulation has now reached a maximum of 1193 books per month. $500 has been raised toward the acquisition of a bookmobile. Enthusiasm for the Story Hour program has resulted in the development of two such activities: a youth program on Mondays, and a younger children's program on Fridays.

As to financial support, Mrs. Bailey noted that the county originally contributed $1000 a year but is now giving $1800. The present asking for the next budget year is $2900, so as to increase the librarian's salary and to facilitate the bookmobile acquisition. The library board presents its asking budget to the county delegation. At present, the state's contribution consists of providing a rotating supply of books, but the state makes no direct financial contribution.

Women's Homemaking Class -- Mrs. Taylor. A principal activity consists of instruction -- making dresses, aprons, hats, washable window shades, etc., with certain items, such as dolls, for sale at prices up to $3.00 per piece.

A fashion show was held in November 1957, with another scheduled for March 28, 1958; this activity has been so successful that the group plans hereafter to hold two shows yearly.

Another major interest is in a house and yard clean-up program. Mrs. Sanders urged that the scope of this program be enlarged so as to encourage persons to desist from using community roadways for dumping purposes, noting that such dumping has greatly increased recently and that it is both unsightly and unhealthful. Miss House suggested that volunteer collectors be enlisted from each plantation. The Board concurred with a suggestion by Mr. Evans that Penn provide a community dump. Dr. Aull suggested that the Islanders compete for state awards now being given to groups achieving significant community improvement. These proposals were referred to the Director in consultation with Mrs. Taylor's group.

Sales House -- Miss Watson. Greater participation in the program was urged, noting that even old neckties are useful, serving as material for rug-making. During 1957 the sale of contributed items produced $346.25, with expenses of $194.98, leaving a balance of $151.27 for use in supporting such community activities as oyster roasts and teas, together with the objective of contributing $15.00 per month toward the Nursery. Mr. Evans urged that precise shipping instructions be made generally available as one method of stimulating contributions. Miss Watson indicated that the Sales House is willing to pay the mailing or shipping cost in sending donated material to Frogmore. (The mailing address is: c/o Siceloff, Frogmore, S.C. Endorse: For Sales House. The Rail address is: c/o Siceloff, via Beaufort, S.C. Endorse: For Sales House.)

Nursery -- Mrs. Browne. The Nursery exists primarily for children age 2-5; $2.00 per child per week is charged; these proceeds are supplemented by the grant from Penn. This year the group started with thirty-five enrollees, but unemployment and bad weather have reduced the usual enrollment to twenty-three with an average daily attendance of eighteen. This year for the first time the group has been included in the State Whole Milk program, while Director Siceloff has been successful in securing surplus food for the children.

Present needs include additional play equipment, particularly building blocks and tricycles.

In connection with the Penn maintenance program, Dr. Aull urged that, when this facility is repainted, consideration be given to an imaginative painting which would appeal to the youngsters, for example, by depicting Mother Goose characters on the walls.

Maintenance -- Leroy Browne. Attention was called to the regularizing of maintenance through the development of a scheduled five-year maintenance cycle for all maintenance, including the termite program. Further details are provided in the written report of Director Siceloff, and in the report of the Property Committee.

PROPERTY COMMITTEE

Dr. Aull commended Mr. Browne for his excellent work as maintenance Superintendent. Commendation for the landscaping plan was also expressed. The Directors heartily concurred.

Looking to the future, Dr. Aull noted that these four principal maintenance projects have been budgeted to be performed during fiscal year 1959:

Cope Building -- Sundry improvements inside and outside; roof, some tiles replaced, some valleys repaired; exterior doors replaced; and adjoining frame shed dismantled.

Nursery -- sills need replacing; repaint; termite-proof.

Lathers Hall -- porch and cornices to be repaired.

Butler -- cornices and outside stairway to be repaired.

PENN WOODLANDS

Under date of 10 March 1958 Director Siceloff mailed to the Trustees a proposal regarding the development of Penn's 600 woodland acres. (A copy is appended to the official Minute Book.) By the expenditure of about 50¢ per acre per year, Penn should be able to receive about $10 an acre from timber sales after the first decade, with $25 an acre in each succeeding five-year period; by comparison, proceeds from timber sales since 1950 have returned to Penn approximately 72¢ an acre annually.

Upon MOTION duly made, seconded and carried, the Trustees authorized appropriating up to $1200, to be spent over the next four years (at an approximate annual rate of $300, but with the precise annual amount and application to be determined by the chairman of the Property Committee); in addition, the motion authorized reinvestment in this program of such proceeds as may be received from timber sales during this period; and the further application to this program of such governmental grants as may accrue from the program.

It was noted that the appropriated $1200 is available from the timber sold during the fiscal year 1958.

PUBLICITY COMMITTEE

In the absence of chairman Bell of this committee, Director Siceloff presented the publicity program. Drafts of the 1958 brochure and appeals letter were posted for Trustees' comments. Each new conferee is added to the general mailing list. The original mailing list is supplemented by a follow-up communication from Assistant Treasurer Curtis.

Upon the recommendation of Mr. Evans, it was agreed that a financial summary should be placed on the reverse side of the appeals letter.

Certain textual changes were made in the draft brochure.

A MOTION expressing thanks to Garry Fullerton of Nashville was adopted, indicating the Trustees' appreciation of his part in preparing the 1958 mailing format.

LUNCHEON AND RECESS

Luncheon was served in the cafeteria at 12:30. A tour of the forestry area which was to have followed the luncheon was cancelled because of inclement conditions; a tour of the campus properties was substituted.

Members of the Nominating Committee were convened during this period.

The afternoon session of the Trustees was called to order at 2:30 P.M.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE, TRUSTEES AND OFFICERS

Advisory Board (For term expiring Annual Meeting 1959)

Upon MOTION duly made, seconded and carried, the Board ratified the following nominations of Chairman Wright to the Advisory Board:

O.R. Reuben, President
Morris College
Sumter, South Carolina

Mrs. Grace T. Hamilton, Executive Director
Atlanta Urban League
239 Auburn Avenue N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Carey E. Haigler
Regional Director AFL-CIO
1106 Independence Building
Charlotte 2, North Carolina

Frederick B. Routh, Assistant Director
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Mrs. Ruby P. Cornwell
95 Congress Street
Charleston, South Carolina

Upon recommendation of Chairman Wright, the Board appointed retiring Trustee Mays to the Advisory Board.

The Board received with regret the resignations of Messrs. J. Nelson Frierson and Paul U. Kellogg, owing to ill health.

In addition, the Trustees invited certain other individuals to serve on the Advisory Board. Trustees will be notified of these appointments after the acceptances have been received.

The Board reaffirmed the suitability of the procedure whereby potential members of the Advisory Board may be contacted by the Chairman in consultation with Director Siceloff, subject to subsequent Board ratification.

Trustees (For term expiring Annual Meeting 1961)

As Chairman of the Nominating Committee, Secretary Wood called attention to certain aspects of the By-Laws which, in his opinion, merit clarification regarding the function of the Nomination Committee and so as to provide reasonable flexibility in the permissible number of Trustees to be elected at any given meeting considering the related problem of Board vacancies. Since advance notice of proposals to amend By-Laws is required, no specific amendments were presented at this time.

***

Upon MOTION duly made, seconded and carried, the following new Trustees were elected for the three-year term expiring in 1961:

The Reverend John W. Hardy, Rector
St. Helena's Parish
1109 Craven Street
Beaufort, South Carolina

 INSERT above:
Upon MOTION duly seconded and carried, retiring Trustees Curtis, Dabbs, and Spearman were re-elected for the three-year term expiring at the annual meeting in 1961.

Edward N. Jenks
International Circulation Manager
The New York Times
(Penn mail to: Hampton House
Apt. 8-T, 123-35, 82nd Road
Kew Gardens 15, New York)

Mrs. James L. McConaughy, widow former Governor of Connecticut and president of Wesleyan University (Penn mail to:
46 Woodland Park
Hartford 5, Connecticut)

Robert K. Mooney, Executive Vice President
Hartford Dispatch & Warehouse Company (Penn mail to:
73 Orchard Road
West Hartford, Connecticut)

In addition, the Trustees extended an invitation to another person. Trustees will be notified when the acceptance has been received.

Officers (For term expiring Annual Meeting 1959)

The Board noted the receipt of a telegram from Treasurer Reid advising of his inability to attend today's meeting and recommending the election, for the ensuing term of a replacement in the position of Treasurer. In discussing this, the Board determined that Dr. Reid should be asked to continue as interim Treasurer until a suitable replacement can be identified.

Upon MOTION duly made, seconded and carried, the Board elected as interim treasurer Dr. Ira Reid; and authorized the Executive Committee to act, pursuant to the By-Laws, in appointing a replacement.

In electing a replacement, the Executive Committee was asked to evaluate the possibility of identifying an individual who is sufficiently close geographically to the Penn property as to facilitate conferring with the Director and the auditor.

The Nominating Committee then recommended the following slate of other officers and Finance Committee; each to serve for one year or until their successors are duly elected and shall have qualified: Chairman Marion A. Wright; Vice Chairman, William E. Cadbury; Asst. to the Treasurer, Miss Isabella Curtis; Secretary, Cornelius A. Wood, Jr. Finance Committee: Paul W. Brown, Jr., William E. Cadbury, Harold Evans; and ex-officio, the Board Chairman, Treasurer, and Secretary.

No further nominations being received, nominations were closed and, upon MOTION duly made, seconded and carried, the Secretary was instructed to cast a unanimous ballot for the above officerships and Finance Committee members.

FINANCES

Treasurer's Report. In the absence of the Treasurer, no report was received.

Finance Committee Report. Finance Chairman Brown presented a four-page report which is appended to the Minute Book copy of these minutes; copies were distributed to Trustees attending; three pages, dated 27 February 1958, list the securities held by the corporation; the final page, dated 14 March 1958, presents portfolio changes to date during the fiscal year ending 30 April 1958.

In summarizing the report, Chairman Brown stated that the securities administered by the Finance Committee had a market value of approximately $268,905 on a consolidated basis as of the end of February 1958. (This includes the consolidation of three major funds.) The carrying value of these securities is in the vicinity of $197,000. Annual income is currently estimated at $10,659, with an approximate yield at market of 3.96%.

During the fiscal year to date, portfolio transactions consisted primarily of the exercise or sale of rights and the purchase of $5000 Potomac Edison Company 1st Mortgage and Collateral Trust, 4 5/8%, Bonds due 5/87 at net purchase cost of $4,920.27.

Upon MOTION duly made, seconded and carried, the Trustees ratified the actions of the Finance Committee described in its report as appended to the Minute Book.

Budget. The budget proposals were then distributed. Attention was called to the difficulties attending the preparation of this report, with note of the Executive Committee recommendations described earlier.

Discussion of the magnitude of the projected fiscal 1959 deficit ensued, with reiteration of the desirability that contributions be increased. Mr. Brown noted that only about $13,000 of unrestricted capital remains for absorbing such deficits.

Upon MOTION duly made, seconded and carried, the budget was adopted in the form recommended by the Executive Committee — see Executive Committee report above -- including provision for subsequent adjustment by the Executive Committee. (A copy of the budget as adopted is attached to these minutes.)

OTHER BUSINESS

The Board then turned to the other items presented in the Executive Committee report which had not yet been acted upon.

Library. Upon MOTION duly made, seconded and carried, the Chairman was instructed, in consultation with Director Siceloff, to attempt to secure full financial support for library operations from county and state governmental authorities.

James Foundation. Miss House indicated her belief that Arthur Curtiss James had been a trustee about the years 1900-01. Attention was called to the gaps in Penn's records described in the minutes of 29 October 1957. The Director was requested to assemble all feasible records and, at this time, to report factually to Secretary Wood on all entries pertaining to Arthur Curtiss James. The Director was also instructed to secure a copy of the Arthur Curtiss James Will. Upon MOTION duly made, seconded and carried, the Board accepted the recommendation of the Executive Committee regarding this matter.

Highlander Folk School. Upon MOTION duly made, seconded and carried, the Board instructed the Director to reply to this inquiry along the lines recommended in the Executive Committee report.

Pensions. Upon MOTION duly made, seconded and carried, the Director was instructed to refer to the Executive Committee report on this matter and to forward a finding of facts to the Secretary, for such further action by the Executive Committee as it may deem desirable.

Non-negotiable Instruments. Upon MOTION duly made, seconded and carried, the Trustees authorized Paul W. Brown, Jr., to transfer from Philadelphia to Director Siceloff, for safe-keeping in the Peoples Bank, Beaufort, South Carolina deeds, titles, and other non-negotiable instruments relating to this corporation.

Adult Education Institutes. Dr. Aull suggested the desirability of planning short courses to be held at Penn for adults, such as a course on family budgeting. He believes that staff and funds could be solicited from interested institutions. The proposal was referred to Director Siceloff, with the suggestion that counsel of the Advisory Board be secured.

Schwartzhaupt Fund. A pending proposal was noted, with the recommendation that it be brought up to date for presentation to the next meeting of the Executive Committee or Board, presumably late Spring or early Fall.

NEXT MEETING. The Directors having not set a date, the next meeting, pursuant to the By-Laws, will be convened upon call of the Chairman. Mr. Brown offered Philadelphia facilities. Mr. Wood noted the importance that a budget meeting be held at the earliest feasible date after a new Treasurer can be identified and has had opportunity to review the budget, including the depreciation policy recommendations.

ADJOURNMENT. There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned at 5:45 P.M., with particular commendation for services performed expressed to the Chairman, the Director, and the Secretary.

Respectfully submitted,

Cornelius A. Wood, Jr., Secretary
1018 DuPont Circle Building
Washington, D.C.

Attachment: Fiscal year 1959 Budget as adopted 15 March 1958.

Appendices (Minute Book only):

Agenda
Pre-approval budget proposal
Director's Report
Woodland's development proposal
Finance Committee report

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

BUDGET 1 April '58-30 March '59

Adopted by Trustees 15 March, 1958
Subject to Executive Committee Adjustment --See minutes

INCOME:

	Proposed 1958-59
Contributions	$ 5,000.
Invested Funds	10,500.
Conferences and Institutes	5,500.
Rent	2,600
Special Funds
Rossa Cooley Clinic	300.
Frissell Memorial	1,220.
Scholarship	800.
Darrah	150.
New York Community Trust	500.
Sale of Timber	500.
TOTAL INCOME	$27,070.

EXPENSES:	Proposed 1958-59
Program:
Salaries:
Director	$ 4,800.
Maintenance Superintendent	3,300.
Asst. to Superintendent	500.
Clerical Help	500.
Library [1]	220.
Adult Education [2]	50.
Nursery School [2]	750.
Teen Canteen [3]	500.
Conferences & Institutes	5,000.
Travel - Island	600.
Off Island	700.
Entertainment	150.
Reforestation	800.
Rossa Cooley Health Center [4]	300.
Recording Project	50.
Contingencies	50.
TOTAL PROGRAM EXPENSE	$18,270.
ADMINISTRATION AND TRUSTEE EXPENSE:
Office Expense	$ 450.
Publicity	550.
Bookkeeping Expense
Salary	600.
Postage	25.
Other Expense	25.
Auditor	225.
Insurance	450.
Social Security	250.
Trustee Expense
Travel	800.
Meetings	500.
TOTAL ADMINISTRATION AND TRUSTEE EXPENSE	$3,875.

	Proposed 1958-59
MAINTENANCE AND PERMANENT EQUIPMENT:
General Maintenance	$ 1,400.
Rental Maintenance	600.
Frissell Maintenance [1]	300.
Darrah Hall Maintenance [5]	150.
Roads and Grounds	500.
Frissell Furnishings (Lounge and Fans) [1]	700.
Fire Fighting Equipment	100.
TOTAL MAINTENANCE COST	$ 3,750.
TOTAL OPERATING COST	25,895.
NON-OPERATING EXPENSE
Pensions	5,350.
TOTAL EXPENSES	$ 31,245.
Deficit	$ 4,175.

Foot-Notes

1. Special Funds (Frissell)
2. " " (Scholarship)
3. " " (N.Y. Community Trust)
4. " " (Rossa Cooley Memorial Fund)
5. " " (Darrah Fund)

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INC.

Frogmore, S.C.

DIRECTORY OF TRUSTEES

and

ADVISORY BOARD

as of 15 March 1958

A. TRUSTEES

1. Officers, Board Committees, Staff
2. Board of Trustees, Addresses
3. Board of Trustees, by Term Expiration Date

B. ADVISORY BOARD (term expiring Spring, 1959), Addresses

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INC.

Frogmore, South Carolina

OFFICERS, BOARD COMMITTEES, STAFF

as of 15 March 1958

NOTE: New Trustees' appointments deferred, to be effectuated later by the Chairman of the Board.

CHAIRMAN

The Hon. Marion A. Wright
Linville Falls, North Carolina
Phone: (Through Spruce Pine, N.C.) - Poplar 5-2522

VICE CHAIRMAN

William E. Cadbury
Eastman Dillon-Union Securities
Philadelphia National Bank Building
Broad & Chestnut Streets
Philadelphia 7, Pennsylvania

SECRETARY

The Rev. Cornelius A. Wood, Jr.
1018 Dupont Circle Building
Washington 6, D.C.
Phone: HUdson 3-8672

TREASURER

Dr. Ira De A. Reid (pro tem)
Haverford College
Haverford, Pennsylvania

ASSISTANT TREASURER

Miss Isabella Curtis
Winter Address: 28 Mt. Vernon Street, Boston, Massachusetts
Summer Address: Manchester, Massachusetts

FINANCIAL SECRETARY

Miss Annie E. McGleughlin
202 Bridge Street
Drexel Hill, Pennsylvania

AUDITOR

Emeric Fischer
Certified Public Accountant
607 Carteret Street
P.O. Box 870
Beaufort, South Carolina

STAFF DIRECTOR

Courtney Siceloff
Frogmore, South Carolina

(Members of the staff, such as maintenance superintendent, etc., should be addressed through the Director)

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

Marion A. Wright, Chairman

Cornelius A. Wood, Jr., Secretary Dr. Ira De A. Reid, Treasurer

Paul W. Brown, Jr., Chairman Finance Committee

Dr. George H. Aull, Chairman Property Committee

B. Tartt Bell, Chairman Publicity Committee

FINANCE COMMITTEE

Paul W. Brown, Jr., Chairman

William E. Cadbury Harold Evans

Ex Officio: Board Chairman, Secretary, Treasurer

NOMINATING COMMITTEE

Cornelius A. Wood, Jr., Chairman

W.E. Solomon Mrs. Eugene Spearman

PROPERTY COMMITTEE

Dr. George H. Aull, Chairman

Mrs. Edward G. Sanders Joseph Wright

Ex Officio: Board Chairman, Treasurer

PUBLICITY COMMITTEE

B. Tartt Bell, Chairman

Miss Isabella Curtis James M. Dabbs

Miss Grace B. House Mrs. Eugene Spearman

Ex Officio: Board Chairman, Treasurer

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INC.

Frogmore, South Carolina

BOARD OF TRUSTEES, ADDRESSES

as of 15 March 1958

NOTE: Date in parenthesis indicates term expiration.

AULL, Dr. George H. (1960)
Clemson College
Clemson, South Carolina
Phone: Office - 2421, extension 338
Home - 2332

BELL, B. Tartt (1959)
American Friends Service Committee
1818 South Main Street
High Point, North Carolina
Home Address: Guilford, North Carolina

BROWN, Paul W., Jr. (1960)
Philadelphia National Bank
Broad & Chestnut Streets
Philadelphia 7, Pennsylvania
Home Address: Dowingtown, Pennsylvania

CADBURY, William E. (1959)
Eastman Dillon-Union Securities
Philadelphia National Bank Building
Broad & Chestnut Streets
Philadelphia 7, Pennsylvania

CURTIS, Miss Isabella (1961)
Winter Address: 28 Mt. Vernon Street, Boston, Massachusetts
Summer Address: Manchester, Massachusetts

DABBS, James M. (1961)
Maysville, South Carolina

EVANS, Harold (1960)
1000 Provident Building
Philadelphia 3, Pennsylvania
Home Address: Awbury
Germantown,
Philadelphia 38, Pennsylvania

HARDY, The Rev. John (1961)
1109 Craven Street
Beaufort, South Carolina
Phone: 355

HOUSE, Miss Grace B. (1959)
Orient,
Long Island, New York

JENKS, Edward N. (1961)
International Circulation Manager
New York Times
229 West Forty-Third Street
New York 36, New York
Home Address: Apt. 8-T
123-35 Eighty-Second Road
Kew Gardens 15, New York

JENKS, Mrs. Horace H. (1960)
Shadow Lane
Wilton, Connecticut

McCONAUGHY, Mrs. James L. (1961)
46 Woodland Park
Hartford 5, Connecticut

MOONEY, Robert K. (1961)
73 Orchard Road
West Hartford, Connecticut

REID, Dr. Ira De A. (1959)
Haverford College
Haverford, Pennsylvania

SANDERS, Mrs. Edward G. (1960)
Frogmore, South Carolina
Phone: Beaufort 760-3

SECREST, A.M. (1959)
Box 191
Cheraw, South Carolina

SILVER, John A. (1960)
Pipersville, Pennsylvania

SOLOMON, W.E. (1959)
1719 Taylor Street
Columbia, South Carolina

SPEARMAN, Mrs. Eugene (1961)
South Carolina Council on Human Relations
1745 Sumter Street
Columbia, South Carolina
Phone: Sunset 7-4276

WOOD, The Rev. Cornelius A., Jr. (1960)
1018 Dupont Circle Building
Washington 6, D.C.
Phone: HUdson 3-8672

WRIGHT, Joseph (1960)
1015 Prince Street
Beaufort, South Carolina
Phone: 664

WRIGHT, The Hon. Marion A. (1960)
Linville Falls, North Carolina
Phone: (Through Spruce Pine, N.C.) Poplar 5-2522

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INC.

Frogmore, South Carolina

TRUSTEES, by Term Expiration Date

as of 15 March 1958

By-Laws permit: 15 minimum, 24 maximum.
Annually elected: 5 minimum, 8 maximum.
Term: 3 years.
Vacancies: 2 (for term expiring 1962).

Name	Term Expires 1959	1960	1961	1962
Dr. George H. Aull		X
B. Tartt Bell	X
Paul W. Brown, Jr.		X
William E. Cadbury	X
Miss Isabella Curtis			X
James McBride Dabbs			X
Harold Evans		X
The Rev. John W. Hardy			X
Miss Grace B. House	X
Edward N. Jenks			X
Mrs. Horace H. Jenks		X
Mrs. James L. McConaughy			X
Robert K. Mooney			X
Dr. Ira De A. Reid	X
Mrs. Edward G. Sanders		X
A.M. Secrest	X
John A. Silver		X
W.E. Solomon	X
Mrs. Eugene Spearman			X
The Rev. Cornelius A. Wood, Jr.		X
Joseph Wright		X
Hon. Marion A. Wright		X

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INC.

Frogmore, South Carolina

ADVISORY BOARD (term expiring Spring, 1959)

as of 15 March 1958

NOTE: Elected by Trustees, one year term, maximum number: 15.

BAILEY, Mrs. Y.W.
Frogmore, South Carolina
Phone: Beaufort - 5204

BUCHANAN, George A., Jr.
2220 Lee Street
Columbia, South Carolina

COPE, Francis R., Jr.
Dimock, Pennsylvania

CORNWELL, Mrs. Ruby P.
95 Congress Street
Charleston, South Carolina

GREY, Miss Wil Lou
1851 Devine Street
Columbia, South Carolina

HAIGLER, Carey E.
Regional Director AFL-CIO
1106 Independence Building
Charlotte 2, North Carolina

HAMILTON, Mrs. Grace T.
Executive Director
Atlanta Urban League
239 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

JOHNSON, Miss Leila
Murrells Inlet, South Carolina
(Alternate: Miss Mary Phelps Wheeler
Murrells Inlet, South Carolina)

MAYS, Dr. Benjamin E.
Morehouse College
Atlanta, Georgia

REUBEN, Dr. O.R.
Morris College
Sumter, South Carolina

ROUTH, Frederick B.
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta, Georgia

SMITH, Mrs. William W., II
Box 286
Poughkeepsie, New York

(WHEELER: See Johnson)

April 25, 1958

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Penn Community Services, Inc.
St. Helena's Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

Thanks for sending me the latest bouquet from Marse Waring's Plantation News. This is the best promotion we have had from him yet.

We have noted that spring has sprung and would like to pay a visit to St. Helena's before summer has summed.

The best to all - and I do mean all - of you.

Sincerely,

Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director

HCF/mf

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

St. Helena Island ~~Before 10~~ - Frogmore, South Carolina
~~after 12~~

Courtney Siceloff
Director

Dear Harold —

I thought you would be interested in what your devoted admirer — Waring — has to say about SRC.

Spring has finally sprung here so how about a visit?

Paul

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

(Formerly Penn Normal, Industrial and Agricultural School)

May 5, 1958

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Hon. Marion A. Wright
Chairman
Linville Falls, N. C.

William E. Cadbury
Vice-Chairman
Philadelphia, Pa.

Rev. Cornelius A. Wood, Jr.
Secretary
Washington, D. C.

Dr. Ira DeA. Reid
Treasurer
Haverford College
Haverford, Pa.

Dr. George H. Aull
Clemson, S. C.

B. Tartt Bell
Greensboro, N. C.

Paul W. Brown, Jr.
Philadelphia 1, Pa.

Leroy E. Browne
St. Helena Island, S. C.

Miss Isabella Curtis
Manchester, Mass.

James McBride Dabbs
Mayesville, S. C.

Dr. J. Curtis Dixon
Atlanta, Georgia

Harold Evans
Philadelphia, Pa.

Miss Grace B. House
Orient, Long Island, N. Y.

Mrs. Horace H. Jenks
Wilton, Conn.

Dr. Benjamin E. Mays
Atlanta, Georgia

Robert Ogden Purves
New Haven, Conn.

Mrs. Edward G. Sanders
St. Helena Island, S. C.

A. M. Secrest
Cheraw, S. C.

John A. Silver
Pipersville, Pa.

W. E. Solomon
Columbia, S. C.

Mrs. Eugene Spearman
Columbia, S. C.

Joseph Wright
Beaufort, S. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

Mrs. Y. W. Bailey
St. Helena Island, S. C

Francis R. Cope, Jr.
Dimock, Pa.

J. Nelson Frierson
Charleston, S. C.

Paul Kellogg
New York, N. Y.

Mrs. William W. Smith, II
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Harold Fleming
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Harold:

Thanks very much for your note. We do hope very much that you and family, as many as you care to bring, would pay us a visit at your convenience.

Since within a month's time we will have both the Midwives and the Morticians of South Carolina, I think we should be able to take care of any need that may arise.

We had a well attended meeting of the South Carolina Council. Marion Wright was at his best form, but thought he would pass out with the heat before the day was ended. His talk was quite well received. I think several mentioned they would like to see it printed. When he mentioned a figure in the neighborhood of $900 the interest lagged somewhat.

With best wishes,

Courtney Siceloff

cs:rfp

June 17, 1958

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Penn Community Services, Inc.
St. Helena's Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Court:

Thanks for all the data on the up-coming meeting of the Advisory Board. I certainly plan to be there, since I am chairing the meeting. I do not know yet, however, my mode of transportation, but I shall be there.

All good regards to you and Lib.

Cordially,

Frederick B. Routh
Assistant Director

FBR:ls
Enclosure: application blank

June 18, 1958

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Penn Community Service, Inc.
St. Helena's Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Court:

I arrive in Savannah on Thursday, July 10, at 7:03 P. M. I am coming by Delta air lines, flight 385. I would appreciate it if I could be met, but would understand if it is impossible. I would then get a U-Drive-It and proceed to Penn.

Unfortunately, this is the only flight convenient for me for I return to Atlanta only that morning.

All good wishes.

Cordially,

Frederick B. Routh
Assistant Director

FBR:ls

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

(Formerly Penn Normal, Industrial and Agricultural School)

June 19, 1958

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Hon. Marion A. Wright
Chairman
Linville Falls, N. C.

William E. Cadbury
Vice-Chairman
Philadelphia, Pa.

Rev. Cornelius A. Wood, Jr.
Secretary
Washington, D. C.

Dr. Ira DeA. Reid
Treasurer
Haverford College
Haverford, Pa.

Dr. George H. Aull
Clemson, S. C.

B. Tartt Bell
Greensboro, N. C.

Paul W. Brown, Jr.
Philadelphia 1, Pa.

Leroy E. Browne
St. Helena Island, S. C.

Miss Isabella Curtis
Manchester, Mass.

James McBride Dabbs
Mayesville, S. C.

Dr. J. Curtis Dixon
Atlanta, Georgia

Harold Evans
Philadelphia, Pa.

Miss Grace B. House
Orient, Long Island, N. Y.

Mrs. Horace H. Jenks
Wilton, Conn.

Dr. Benjamin E. Mays
Atlanta, Georgia

Robert Ogden Purves
New Haven, Conn.

Mrs. Edward G. Sanders
St. Helena Island, S. C.

A. M. Secrest
Cheraw, S. C.

John A. Silver
Pipersville, Pa.

W. E. Solomon
Columbia, S. C.

Mrs. Eugene Spearman
Columbia, S. C.

Joseph Wright
Beaufort, S. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

Mrs. Y. W. Bailey
St. Helena Island, S. C

Francis R. Cope, Jr.
Dimock, Pa.

J. Nelson Frierson
Charleston, S. C.

Paul Kellogg
New York, N. Y.

Mrs. William W. Smith, II
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Dear Friend:

Recently you accepted our invitation to join the Advisory Committee of Penn Community Services. The purpose of the Committee, as mentioned in the letter of invitation, is to help formulate a program for Penn. The first meeting of this group is being called for July 11, 1958. At that time we would very much like to have your advice and suggestions for developing a program on Adult Education.

The enclosed tentative agenda is proposed for your guidance. I've taken the liberty of asking Fred Routh, Assistant Director of Southern Regional Council, to be chairman for this meeting. The meeting of the committee will be held during the Midwives Institute, sponsored annually by the South Carolina State Board of Health. It will provide an opportunity for seeing how the conference facilities are utilized.

Facilities are available here at Penn to spend Friday night, and even the week-end if you so desire. I will be glad to make reservations for those wishing to stay in Beaufort. Perhaps also, you may wish to bring your family and take advantage of the beach at the state park on the ocean. Please return the enclosed form, stating whether you will be able to attend this meeting.

Penn is prepared to reimburse traveling expenses for those attending, and a form is enclosed which can be turned in to me. Other enclosures are, two bulletins concerning Penn, one of which contains a map indicating how to arrive here, and a financial statement giving the resources of Penn on the back of an appeal letter.

Persons coming by plane should go to the Savannah airport, and it is hoped that if several from one town choose the airplane facilities, they will coordinate their flight.

Best regards,

Courtney Siceloff

Courtney Siceloff

Members of the Advisory Committee:

Mrs. Y.W. Bailey, St. Helena Island, South Carolina
George A. Buchanan, Jr., 2220 Lee Street, Columbia, S.C.
Francis R. Cope, Jr., Dimock, Pennsylvania
Mrs. Ruby P. Cornwell, 95 Congress Street, Charleston, S.C
Miss Wil Lou Gray, 1851 Devine Street, Columbia, S.C.
Mr. Carey E. Haigler, 1106 Independence Bldg., Charlotte 2 N.C.
Miss Lelia Johnson, Murrells Inlet, S.C.
Mrs. Grace T. Hamilton, 239 Auburn Ave. N.E., Atlanta 3, G
Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, Morehouse College, Atlanta, Ga.
O. Reuben, Morris College, Sumter, S.C.
Frederick Routh, 63 Auburn Ave., Atlanta, Ga.
Mrs. William W. Smith, II, Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

June 23, 1958

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Penn Community Services, Inc.
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Mr. Siceloff:

This is to acknowledge your letter of June 20. Mr. Routh is out of town and will not be back in his office until July 14. However, we shall notify him that you plan to meet him in Savannah.

At your request we have contacted both Dr. Mays and Mrs. Hamilton. Dr. Mays has been out of town, and has received no information concerning the Advisory Committee meeting. Mrs. Hamilton could not say definitely that she would be able to attend, but asks that we assure you that she will make every effort to be there. If she is able to come, she will notify you of her expected time of arrival.

Sincerely,

Luleen Sandefur
Secretary to Mr. Routh

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

(Formerly Penn Normal, Industrial and Agricultural School)

Please return for files

June 20, 1958

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Hon. Marion A. Wright
Chairman
Linville Falls, N. C.

William E. Cadbury
Vice-Chairman
Philadelphia, Pa.

Rev. Cornelius A. Wood, Jr.
Secretary
Washington, D. C.

Dr. Ira DeA. Reid
Treasurer
Haverford College
Haverford, Pa.

Dr. George H. Aull
Clemson, S. C.

B. Tartt Bell
Greensboro, N. C.

Paul W. Brown, Jr.
Philadelphia 1, Pa.

Leroy E. Browne
St. Helena Island, S. C.

Miss Isabella Curtis
Manchester, Mass.

James McBride Dabbs
Mayesville, S. C.

Dr. J. Curtis Dixon
Atlanta, Georgia

Harold Evans
Philadelphia, Pa.

Miss Grace B. House
Orient, Long Island, N. Y.

Mrs. Horace H. Jenks
Wilton, Conn.

Dr. Benjamin E. Mays
Atlanta, Georgia

Robert Ogden Purves
New Haven, Conn.

Mrs. Edward G. Sanders
St. Helena Island, S. C.

A. M. Secrest
Cheraw, S. C.

John A. Silver
Pipersville, Pa.

W. E. Solomon
Columbia, S. C.

Mrs. Eugene Spearman
Columbia, S. C.

Joseph Wright
Beaufort, S. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

Mrs. Y. W. Bailey
St. Helena Island, S. C

Francis R. Cope, Jr.
Dimock, Pa.

J. Nelson Frierson
Charleston, S. C.

Paul Kellogg
New York, N. Y.

Mrs. William W. Smith, II
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Fred Routh
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Fred:

9 & 10

I am very glad that you can come in Thursday evening for the Advisory Committee meeting. I will certainly plan to meet you in Savannah on flight 385. Perhaps others from Atlanta who may be coming, might be on that same flight. I would appreciate your getting in touch with them,-that is, Mrs. Hamilton and Dr. Mays.

JA 1-2355 MU 8-4223

Best regards,

Courtney Siceloff

cs:rfp

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES

PROGRAM OF ADVISORY BOARD MEETING

JULY 11, 1958

1. 12:30 P.M. -- Leave from Hampton House for inspection of campus and facilities. Statement of Penn's present activities — Director Courtney Siceloff

1:30 - - - - Lunch

2. 2:30 - - - - Assemble at Hampton House with Fred M. Routh as Chairman.

Discussion of program of adult education, including:

A. What types of education might properly be provided, considering

1. Needs of area to be served, and

2. Penn's facilities

Note: Under "Area to be served", it is contemplated that one type of adult education may be provided for the people of St. Helena and adjacent islands, and a somewhat different type for that part of the southern region from which participants may be drawn. Views of the Board as to both types are sought.

3. Areas of interest in which adult education by institutes or otherwise, is practical at Penn.

A. Specific groups and their special needs or problems

B. Subjects of institutes making appeals across group lines e.g. Citizenship

C. Academic subjects

D. Other

4. In view of conclusions reached under 2 and 3, how may recommendations be implemented?

1. Personnel of staff and faculty

2. Securing attendance

3. Financing

a. Possible aid from other sources, including state agencies such as Extension Services, religious or other organizations, foundations, fees charged participants, etc.

5. 5:30 --- - Recess for Dinner

6. 7:30 - - - Evaluation of present program and recommendations of new functions and activities

7. Summary by chairman Routh

8. Adjournment

September 10, 1958

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Penn Community Services, Inc.
St. Helena's Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

Marion Wright's call for the names of institutions or persons engaged in police training and the possibility of their serving as consultants to Penn has aroused our interest.

Several questions come to mind: 1) What type of training do you intend to offer? 2) What law enforcement agencies would likely send participants? 3) How would you go about recruiting them? 4) How would you finance the project?

If you will spell out in some detail what you have in mind we will be glad to advise on whom to contact, etc.

Cordially,

Frederick B. Routh
Assistant Director

FBR:ls
c.c. Marion Wright

Sent to each member of Penn Community Service Board - as suggested by MAW

September 15, 1958

Dr. George H. Aull
Clemson College
Clemson, South Carolina

Dear Dr. Aull:

The enclosed copy of the July-August issue of New South contains an article on Mr. James M. Dabbs, written by Mr. Marion A. Wright.

In the light of your association with both of these gentlemen on the Board of Penn Community Services, we thought you would be interested.

Cordially,

Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director

HCF/mf
Enclosure - 1

Memo

FROM THE DESK OF JOHN CONSTABLE

9/8/58

HCF:

We have ample copies of July-August New South to send copies to Penn Community people. Think it would be nice gesture.

Copies sent to each Mf.

JC - Please advise HE

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

(Formerly Penn Normal, Industrial and Agricultural School)

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Hon. Marion A. Wright
Chairman
Linville Falls, N. C.

William E. Cadbury
Vice-Chairman
Philadelphia, Pa.

Rev. Cornelius A. Wood, Jr.
Secretary
Washington, D. C.

Dr. Ira DeA. Reid
Treasurer
Haverford College
Haverford, Pa.

Dr. George H. Aull
Clemson, S. C.

B. Tartt Bell
Greensboro, N. C.

Paul W. Brown, Jr.
Philadelphia 1, Pa.

Leroy E. Browne
St. Helena Island, S. C.

Miss Isabella Curtis
Manchester, Mass.

James McBride Dabbs
Mayesville, S. C.

Dr. J. Curtis Dixon
Atlanta, Georgia

Harold Evans
Philadelphia, Pa.

Miss Grace B. House
Orient, Long Island, N. Y.

Mrs. Horace H. Jenks
Wilton, Conn.

Dr. Benjamin E. Mays
Atlanta, Georgia

Robert Ogden Purves
New Haven, Conn.

Mrs. Edward G. Sanders
St. Helena Island, S. C.

A. M. Secrest
Cheraw, S. C.

John A. Silver
Pipersville, Pa.

W. E. Solomon
Columbia, S. C.

Mrs. Eugene Spearman
Columbia, S. C.

Joseph Wright
Beaufort, S. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

Mrs. Y. W. Bailey
St. Helena Island, S. C

Francis R. Cope, Jr.
Dimock, Pa.

J. Nelson Frierson
Charleston, S. C.

Paul Kellogg
New York, N. Y.

Mrs. William W. Smith, II
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

9-1-58

Dear Harold:

Would your supply of U.S. stand a complimentary copy of the July-Aug. '58 issue for each of the members of Penn's Board and Advisory Board as shown on sheets 4-8, inclusive, of attached list? Dabbs is on the board, as you know. This may encourage purchases of his book and will not hurt. S.R.C. Evans and Tartt Bell have ~~all~~ already been helpful; others may be in the future.

A covering letter from you would be a nice touch.

If this is an imposition on you, don't hesitate to say so.

Please return list.

Hope to write you fully on Wednesday when I dictate.

Sincerely

MAW

Return to M.A.W.

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INC.

Frogmore, S. C.

DIRECTORY OF TRUSTEES

and

ADVISORY BOARD

as of 15 March 1958

A. TRUSTEES

1. Officers, Board Committees, Staff
2. Board of Trustees, Addresses
3. Board of Trustees, by Term Expiration Date

B. ADVISORY BOARD (term expiring Spring, 1959), Addresses

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, Inc.

Frogmore, South Carolina

OFFICERS, BOARD COMMITTEES, STAFF

as of 15 March 1958

NOTE: New Trustees' appointments deferred, to be effectuated later by the Chairman of the Board.

CHAIRMAN

The Hon. Marion A. Wright
Linville Falls, North Carolina
Phone: (Through Spruce Pine, N. C.) - Poplar 5-2522

VICE CHAIRMAN

William E. Cadbury
Eastman Dillon-Union Securities
Philadelphia National Bank Building
Broad & Chestnut Streets
Philadelphia 7, Pennsylvania

SECRETARY

The Rev. Cornelius A. Wood, Jr.
1018 Dupont Circle Building
Washington 6, D. C.
Phone: HUdson 3-8672

TREASURER

Dr. Ira De A. Reid (pro tem)
Haverford College
Haverford, Pennsylvania

ASSISTANT TREASURER

Miss Isabella Curtis
Winter Address: 28 Mt. Vernon Street, Boston, Massachusetts
Summer Address: Manchester, Massachusetts

FINANCIAL SECRETARY

Miss Annie E. McGleughlin
202 Bridge Street
Drexel Hill, Pennsylvania

AUDITOR

Emeric Fischer
Certified Public Accountant
204 West Street
P. O. Box 870
Beaufort, South Carolina

STAFF DIRECTOR

Courtney Siceloff
Frogmore, South Carolina

(Members of the staff, such as maintenance superintendent, etc., should be addressed through the Director.)

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

Marion A. Wright, Chairman

Cornelius A. Wood, Jr., Secretary Dr. Ira De A. Reid, Treasurer

Paul W. Brown, Jr., Chairman Finance Committee

Dr. George H. Aull, Chairman Property Committee

B. Tartt Bell, Chairman Publicity Committee

FINANCE COMMITTEE

Paul W. Brown, Jr., Chairman

William E. Cadbury Harold Evans

Ex Officio: Board Chairman, Secretary, Treasurer

NOMINATING COMMITTEE

Cornelius A. Wood, Jr., Chairman

W. E. Solomon Mrs. Eugene Spearman

PROPERTY COMMITTEE

Dr. George H. Aull, Chairman

Mrs. Edward G. Sanders Joseph Wright

Ex Officio: Board Chairman, Treasurer

PUBLICITY COMMITTEE

B. Tartt Bell, Chairman

Miss Isabella Curtis James M. Dabbs

Miss Grace B. House Mrs. Eugene Spearman

Ex Officio: Board Chairman, Treasurer

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INC.

Frogmore, South Carolina

BOARD OF TRUSTEES, ADDRESSES

as of 15 March 1958

NOTE: Date in parenthesis indicates term expiration.

AULL, Dr. George H. (1960)
Clemson College
Clemson, South Carolina
Phone: Office - 2421, extension 338
Home - 2332

BELL, B. Tartt (1959)
American Friends Service Committee
1818 South Main Street
High Point, North Carolina
Home Address: Guilford, North Carolina

BROWN, Paul W., Jr. (1960)
Philadelphia National Bank
Broad & Chestnut Streets
Philadelphia 7, Pennsylvania
Home Address: Downingtown, Pennsylvania

CADBURY, William E. (1959)
Eastman Dillon-Union Securities
Philadelphia National Bank Building
Broad & Chestnut Streets
Philadelphia 7, Pennsylvania

CURTIS, Miss Isabella (1961)
Winter Address: 28 Mt. Vernon Street, Boston, Massachusetts
Summer Address: Manchester, Massachusetts

DABBS, James M. (1961)
Maysville, South Carolina

EVANS, Harold (1960)
1000 Provident Building
Philadelphia 3, Pennsylvania
Home Address: Awbury
Germantown,
Philadelphia 38, Pennsylvania

HARDY, The Rev. John (1961)
1109 Craven Street
Beaufort, South Carolina
Phone: 355

HOUSE, Miss Grace B. (1959)
Orient,
Long Island, New York

JENKS, Edward N. (1961)
International Circulation Manager
New York Times 229 West Forty-Third Street
New York, New York
Home Address: Apt. 8-T
123-35 Eighty-Second Road
Kew Gardens 15, New York

JENKS, Mrs. Horace (1960)
Shadow Lane
Wilton, Connecticut

McCONAUGHY, Mrs. James L. (1961)
46 Woodland Park
Hartford 5, Connecticut

MOONEY, Robert K. (1961)
73 Orchard Road
West Hartford, Connecticut

REID, Dr. Ira De A. (1959)
Haverford College
Haverford, Pennsylvania

SANDERS, Mrs. Edward G. (1960)
Frogmore, South Carolina
Phone: Beaufort 760-3

SECREST, A. M. (1959)
Box 191
Cheraw, South Carolina

SILVER, John (1960)
Pipersville, Pennsylvania

SOLOMON, W. E. (1959)
1719 Taylor Street
Columbia, South Carolina

SPEARMAN, Mrs. Eugene (1961)
South Carolina Council on Human Relations
1745 Sumter Street
Columbia, South Carolina
Phone: Sunset 7-4276

WOOD, The Rev. Cornelius A., Jr. (1960)
1018 Dupont Circle Building
Washington 6, D. C.
Phone: HUdson 3-8672

WRIGHT, Joseph (1960)
1015 Prince Street
Beaufort, South Carolina
Phone: 664

WRIGHT, The Hon. Marion A. (1960)
Linville Falls, North Carolina
Phone: (Through Spruce Pine, N. C.) Poplar 5-2522

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, Inc.

Frogmore, South Carolina

ADVISORY BOARD (term expiring Spring, 1959)

as of 15 March 1958

NOTE: Elected by Trustees, one year term, maximum number: 15.

BAILEY, Mrs. Y. M.
Frogmore, South Carolina
Phone: Beaufort - 5204

BUCHANAN, George A., Jr.
2220 Lee Street
Columbia, South Carolina

COPE, Francis R., Jr.
Dimock, Pennsylvania

CORNWELL, Mrs. Ruby P.
95 Congress Street
Charleston, South Carolina

GREY, Miss Wil Lou
1851 Devine Street
Columbia, South Carolina

HAIGLER, Carey E.
Regional Director AFL-CIO
1106 Independence Building
Charlotte 2, North Carolina

HAMILTON, Mrs. Grace T.
Executive Director
Atlanta Urban League
239 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

JOHNSON, Miss Leila
Murrells Inlet, South Carolina
(Alternate: Miss Mary Phelps Wheeler
Murrells Inlet, South Carolina)

MAYS, Dr. Benjamin E.
Morehouse College
Atlanta, Georgia

? McARTHUR, Dr. Curry Beaufort, S.C.
[Has he accepted? If so, supply middle initial and address; if not, delete name.]

? PARRISH, Bruce
[See comments under McArthur.]

REUBEN, Dr. O. R.
Morris College
Sumter, South Carolina

omit ROUTH, Frederick B.
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta, Georgia

SMITH, Mrs. William W., II
Box 286
Poughkeepsie, New York

(WHEELER: See Johnson)

omit ? YOUNG, Mrs. Morris
[See comments under McArthur.]
Care Sivelsff

September 16, 1958

Mr. Courtney Siceloff, Director
Penn Community Services, Inc.
St. Helena's Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

Thanks for your letter of September 13, spelling out your plans for law enforcement officer-training in intergroup relations. It is an ambitious and worthwhile project.

I would suggest that you write the following two men, both knowledgeable about such things:

Col. David McCandless, Director
Southern Police Institute
University of Louisville
Louisville, Kentucky

Dr. Louis Radelet, Director
Commission on Community Organizations
National Conference of Christians and Jews
43 West 57th Street
New York 19, New York

Explain to them in some detail what you have in mind and they can both advise you and steer you to other sources.

Hope this helps. Best regards.

Cordially,

Frederick B. Routh
Assistant Director

FBR:ls
c.c. Marion A. Wright

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

September 13, 1958

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

MARION A. WRIGHT
CHAIRMAN
LINVILLE FALLS, N. C.

WILLIAM E. CADBURY
VICE-CHAIRMAN
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

CORNELIUS A. WOOD, JR.
SECRETARY
1018 DUPONT CIRCLE BLDG.
WASHINGTON 6, D. C.

GEORGE H. AULL
CLEMSON, S. C.

B. TARTT BELL
GUILFORD, N. C.

PAUL W. BROWN, JR.
PHILADELPHIA

MISS ISABELLA CURTIS
MANCHESTER, MASS.

JAMES MCBRIDE DABBS
MAYESVILLE, S. C.

HAROLD EVANS
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

JOHN W. HARDY
BEAUFORT, S. C.

MISS GRACE HOUSE
ORIENT
LONG ISLAND, N. Y.

EDWARD N. JENKS
NEW YORK, N. Y.

MRS. HORACE H. JENKS
WILTON, CONN.

MRS. JAMES L. MCCONAUGHY
HARTFORD, CONN.

ROBERT K. MOONEY
WEST HARTFORD, CONN.

IRA DE A. REID
HAVERFORD, PA.

MRS. EDWARD G. SANDERS
ST. HELENA ISLAND, S. C.

A. M. SECREST
CHERAW, S. C.

JOHN A. SILVER
PIPERSVILLE, PA.

W. E. SOLOMON
COLUMBIA, S. C.

MRS. EUGENE SPEARMAN
COLUMBIA, S. C.

JOSEPH WRIGHT
BEAUFORT, S. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

MRS. Y. W. BAILEY
ST. HELENA ISLAND, S. C.

GEORGE A. BUCHANAN, JR.
COLUMBIA, S. C.

FRANCIS R. COPE, JR.
DIMOCK, PA.

MRS. RUBY P. CORNWELL
CHARLESTON, S. C.

MISS WIL LOU GRAY
COLUMBIA, S. C.

CAREY E. HAIGLER
CHARLOTTE, N. C.

MRS. GRACE T. HAMILTON
ATLANTA, GA.

MISS LEILA JOHNSON
MURRELL'S INLET, S. C.

DR. BENJAMIN E. MAYS
ATLANTA, GA.

DR. O. R. REUBEN
SUMTER, S. C.

FREDERICK B. ROUTH
ATLANTA, GA.

MRS. WILLIAM W. SMITH
POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.

Fred Routh
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Fred Routh:

I am not sure whether Marion Wright will be responding to your letter earlier than I, but on the basis of our conversation together, this is what we had in mind: We are approaching a Foundation for a grant to put on several conferences where we could take care both of the expense of bringing in consultants, as well as furnishing the board and room while the participants engage in the conferences. One such conference would concern law enforcement agencies primarily, who would have responsibility in the event of racial disorders.—Whether desegregation of schools or other forms of public service. Also involved in the conferences probably, would be a discussion of the Civil Rights legislation and how the officer would be affected by its regulations.

It was our decision to postpone making contacts with the law enforcement agencies, until we were assured of finaicial support for this project. Our thought was to approach the officer, of the peace officers organization, and have them send out the invitations and officially sponsor the conference. Of course, this is speculation on our part that we would receive such cooperation.

Once we are assured of the finances for putting on this conference, then we would want to move rather quickly in getting it set up. In our talks with the law enforcement agencies, our position would be certainly, strengthened if we could assure them of consultants who are in good standing, preferably, in the southern community, and see the need of such training.

We understand that there is a school in Kentucky which has been carrying on this work for some time. However, we thought in your survey of southern cities employing Negro policemen, you may have come across other individuals whom it might be well to call on.

It is of course, too early to have heard from other members of the Advisory Committee about the meeting the end of October, but certainly hope that this can be worked out at that time. I look forward to seeing you then, if not before.

Best regards,

Courtney Siceloff
cs:rfp

Fl. Penn. Com. Center

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR AND CONGRESS OF INDUSTRIAL ORGANIZATIONS

GEORGE MEANY
PRESIDENT

WM. F. SCHNITZLER
SECRETARY-TREASURER

REGION NO. 5, CAREY E. HAIGLER, DIRECTOR
1106-10 INDEPENDENCE BLDG.
CHARLOTTE 2, NORTH CAROLINA
EDISON 3-9627

17 17

September 16, 1958.

Mr. Harold C. Fleming, Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Rm. #432, 63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Fleming:

Many thanks for your letter of September 15th, 1958, and the enclosed copy of the July-August issue of the New South containing an article on James M. Dabbs, written by Marion A. Wright.

Unfortunately, I have not been privileged to attend the Advisory Board meetings of the Penn Community Services and have not had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Dabbs and Mr. Wright personally. I hope to do this the next board meeting, which is tentatively set for October 31, 1958.

Many thanks for your interest and the copy of the New South.

Sincerely yours,

Carey E. Haigler

Carey E. Haigler
Director

CEH:ash
OEIU 2 afl-cio

Bd
Fleming
Common. Cntr

ORGANIZED 1803

THE PHILADELPHIA NATIONAL BANK

PAUL W. BROWN, JR.
VICE PRESIDENT

PHILADELPHIA-1, PA.

September 19, 1958

Mr. Harold C. Fleming,
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432 - 63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Fleming:

Thanks ever so much for your letter enclosing a copy of the July - August issue of "New South". Thanks to Mr. Wright I had already seen the article which he wrote about Mr. Dabbs. I have great admiration for both men and consider it a privilege to be associated with them. My entire family enjoyed Mr. Dabbs' recent television interview.

Sincerely yours,

Paul W. Brown, Jr.

Paul W. Brown, Jr.

PWBjr:alg

B.d.
Penn Center

September 22, 1958

Miss Grace B. House
Village Lane
Orient, Long Island
New York, New York

Dear Miss House:

Thanks so much for your kind acknowledgement of my recent letter transmitting the July-August New South. We are delighted to have you as a subscriber.

With kindest regards,

Sincerely,

Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director

HCF/mf

MISS GRACE B. HOUSE
VILLAGE LANE
ORIENT, LONG ISLAND
NEW YORK

September 19, 1958

Mr. Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director
Southern Regional Council
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Fleming,

It was most kind of you to send me the July-August copy of "New South" with Mr. Coughlin's article on Mr. James M. Dabbs. I was particularly interested in that article, as well as in the whole magazine.

I am enclosing my check for $2.00 for a year's subscription to "New South" with warm thanks to you for giving me the opportunity to see this copy.

Sincerely - Grace B. House

9/22/58

Memo FROM THE DESK OF MILDRED FLOWERS

RHA:

Please initial the attached letter and see that Miss House is put on New South mailing list for $2.00 worth.

Thanks.

Bd. Comm.
Pam. Center

Palmetto Education Association, Inc.

Office of the Association
1719 Taylor Street
Columbia, South Carolina
Telephone: ALpine 2-9383

Allen Williams, President
Woodruff, South Carolina

September 22, 1958

Mr. Harold Fleming, Executive Director
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Mr. Fleming:

Many thanks for the July-August issue of New South.

I have read the article by Marion Wright about Mr. Dabbs and passed it on to a few of Mr. Dabbs' friends.

Yours truly,

W. E. Solomon

W. E. Solomon,
Executive Secretary

WES/bfb

September 30, 1958

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Penn Community Center
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

Many thanks for keeping me up-to-date on our running battle in the columns of the News and Courier. Otherwise, I would not see what becomes of our forlorn efforts to defend our sacred honor. I am rather pleased that old Waring has evidently decided that it is the better part of discretion to publish our answers in full - even if he does get them rebutted almost before the ink is dry. I have no allusion that we can win this running battle, but I think it's well to let them know that we are not without some defense.

Hope y'all didn't get blown around too much by Helene.

All the best to you and Lib and off-spring, present and prospective.

Sincerely,

Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director

HCF/mf

Penn Center

EDWARD N. JENKS
HAMPTON HOUSE APT. 8T
123-35 82ND ROAD
KEW GARDENS 15, N. Y.

LIGGETT 4-6959

October 14 1958

Mr. Harold C. Fleming, Executive Director
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432
63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Fleming:

It was most thoughtful of you to send me a copy of the July-August issue of New South containing Mr. Wright's article on Mr. Dabbs. As the newest member of the Board of Trustees of Penn Community Services, I particularly appreciate having this opportunity to get acquainted with two gentlemen whose wisdom and energy have been given so generously in the service of the Southern community.

I was also much interested in the perceptive article, "The Southern Temper" by Merriman Cuninggim in the same issue.

Please accept my apology for not acknowledging your September 15th letter sooner, but I returned to New York only last week after a four-month absence in Europe.

Sincerely,

Edward N Jenks

Edward N. Jenks

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

October 27, 1958

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

MARION A. WRIGHT
CHAIRMAN
LINVILLE FALLS, N. C.

WILLIAM E. CADBURY
VICE-CHAIRMAN
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

CORNELIUS A. WOOD, JR.
SECRETARY
1018 DUPONT CIRCLE BLDG.
WASHINGTON 6, D. C.

GEORGE H. AULL
CLEMSON, S. C.

B. TARTT BELL
GUILFORD, N. C.

PAUL W. BROWN, JR.
PHILADELPHIA

MISS ISABELLA CURTIS
MANCHESTER, MASS.

JAMES MCBRIDE DABBS
MAYESVILLE, S. C.

HAROLD EVANS
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

JOHN W. HARDY
BEAUFORT, S. C.

MISS GRACE HOUSE
ORIENT
LONG ISLAND, N. Y.

EDWARD N. JENKS
NEW YORK, N. Y.

MRS. HORACE H. JENKS
WILTON, CONN.

MRS. JAMES L. MCCONAUGHY
HARTFORD, CONN.

ROBERT K. MOONEY
WEST HARTFORD, CONN.

IRA DE A. REID
HAVERFORD, PA.

MRS. EDWARD G. SANDERS
ST. HELENA ISLAND, S. C.

A. M. SECREST
CHERAW, S. C.

JOHN A. SILVER
PIPERSVILLE, PA.

W. E. SOLOMON
COLUMBIA, S. C.

MRS. EUGENE SPEARMAN
COLUMBIA, S. C.

JOSEPH WRIGHT
BEAUFORT, S. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

MRS. Y. W. BAILEY
ST. HELENA ISLAND, S. C.

GEORGE A. BUCHANAN, JR.
COLUMBIA, S. C.

FRANCIS R. COPE, JR.
DIMOCK, PA.

MRS. RUBY P. CORNWELL
CHARLESTON, S. C.

MISS WIL LOU GRAY
COLUMBIA, S. C.

CAREY E. HAIGLER
CHARLOTTE, N. C.

MRS. GRACE T. HAMILTON
ATLANTA, GA.

MISS LEILA JOHNSON
MURRELL'S INLET, S. C.

DR. BENJAMIN E. MAYS
ATLANTA, GA.

DR. O. R. REUBEN
SUMTER, S. C.

FREDERICK B. ROUTH
ATLANTA, GA.

MRS. WILLIAM W. SMITH
POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.

Frederick B. Routh
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Mr. Routh:

This is a reminder that we will be expecting you next Friday at the meeting of the Advisory Board of Penn Community Center. You probably recall that the meeting begins at 12:00 noon.

Looking forward to seeing you soon, I remain,

Sincerely yours,

Courtney Siceloff
cs:rfp

November 3, 1958

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Penn Community Services
St. Helena's Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Court:

It was good to be with you and Lib while attending the Advisory Committee meeting of Penn Community Services. I found the group both interesting and stimulating.

As I explained to you, several organizations were helping on the costs of my trip. Penn's share is $25.00.

Best regards all around and please remember me to Mrs. Major and Mr. and Mrs. Brown.

All good regards.

Cordially,

Frederick B. Routh
Assistant Director

FBRels

November 7, 1958

Mrs. Courtney Siceloff
Penn Community Services
St. Helena's Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Lib:

Thanks for yours of recent date. No special hurry on travel expense check.

Glad to read that you and M.A.W. noticed the same error and sin of omission in the Advisory Committee's report.

I have appropriately greeted all the little brothers and sisters in the faith for you - and didn't confuse them once.

The stay at Penn was delightful indeed and the highlight was the pleasant time spent with the Siceloff's.

Regards to Court, love to the kids.

As ever,

Frederick B. Routh
Assistant Director

FBR:LS

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

St. Helena Island

Frogmore, South Carolina

Courtney Siceloff
Director

November 3, 1958

Dear Fred,

Your letter arrived today, and I thought I'd better reassure you about the travel expense check, which will be delayed because of Courtney's absence. I can't write checks on the Penn account - a good thing, for I can really play havoc with a checking account. (That's why I married a pacifist!)

Marion Wright and I were reading over the Advisory Board report Saturday night, and noticed the errors which you mentioned. Marion promised to call them to Courtney's attention. (He had already left for the North.)

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

St. Helena Island

Frogmore, South Carolina

Courtney Siceloff
Director

It was such fun to see you, and when things get grim around here, I remember how cheerful you were at breakfast, and everything's beautiful again. Please come, whenever you can.

Greet all the little brothers and sisters in the faith for me, appropriately.

Lil

P.S. Tell Harold I just noticed the muted grey letters on your (SRC) letterhead - a vast improvement.

I'll shut up now!

Frederick B. Routh
Southern Regional Council
Atlanta, Georgia

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INC.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Fall Meeting 7 November 1958

MINUTES

Pursuant to notice of meeting mailed 22 September, the Board of Trustees, Penn Community Services, Inc., was convened in the Philadelphia National Bank Building, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, at 10 o'clock in the morning, 7 November 1958.

Trustees present were: Chairman Wright; Secretary Wood; Mesdames Jenks and Spearman; Messrs. Brown, Cadbury, Dabbs, Evans, Jenks, and Silver. Also present: Director Siceloff, and Mrs. Edith W. Rice, recorder on behalf of the Secretary.

Regrets were received from: the Misses Curtis and House; Mrs. McConaughy; Messrs. Aull, Bell, Hardy, Mooney, Secrest, and Solomon.

The meeting began with a brief period of silence, following which the Board went into executive session.

EXECUTIVE SESSION

General satisfaction was expressed with the way in which the Director is fulfilling his responsibilities.

MINUTES

The Minutes of the 15 March 1958 meeting were accepted in the form previously mailed.

CHAIRMAN'S REPORT

The Chairman summarized long-term developments. These appear to him on the whole to be favorable. He mentioned: the increasing participation in Penn affairs of responsible Southern leaders, notably through the revamped program advisory group; a slow but consistent improvement in the maintenance of Penn lands and buildings; and the development of a program geared to the real needs of the time. Looking ahead, the Chairman envisaged that the field of adult education would be a major useful program area.

DIRECTOR'S REPORT

Director Siceloff summarized the written report dated 7 November 1958 which he had previously mailed to the Trustees. A copy of this report is appended to these Minutes in the official Minute Book.

Program Staff. In his summary, the Director spoke of the need for additional staff, and a number of names were discussed. The Director asked for authorization to proceed in identifying possible staff, noting that employment would not take effect until the next fiscal year and that, if recruitment of a conscientious objector or CO couple were successful, the financial appropriation would require only the meeting of maintenance (board and lodging). The discussion brought out the fact that a primary concern of additional staff on the program side would be to assist with the conference program, possibly by assuming many of the housekeeping functions now borne by the Siceloffs during conferences, so that the Director would have more time to promote the idea of holding conferences at Penn; it was also noted that supplementary program staff should help as seemed best to the Director, and not be limited solely to the conference function. Two houses are presently available on the property which could be used in boarding supplemental staff. It is hoped that a person would agree to stay for two years, after which time the position should be evaluated in terms of whether the function should be continued.

Upon MOTION duly made, seconded, and unanimously carried, the Director was authorized to negotiate for supplemental staff assistance on program.

Maintenance Staff. Another problem mentioned by the Director is that it is difficult to maintain the properties adequately with but a single full-time maintenance employee; Siceloff stated that we should be thinking in terms of an additional employee.

Conferences. See also "Grants" and "Advisory Board". The conference program has gone better than anticipated: there have been more conferences than envisaged; however, the spread between income and expense will remain in the budgeted area, about $500 more income than expense. Mr. Silver urged that records be maintained setting forth the results of conferences and conference costs in terms of "man-hours".

Forestry. In reviewing the forestry program, Siceloff stated that it is progressing encouragingly and with little cost to Penn. The Chairman suggested that, as a part of our adult education activities, a one-day institute on forest management might be offered.

Grants. The Director noted the receipt, on 23 September 1958, of a $1,000 unrestricted gift from the Friends' Freedmen's Association of Philadelphia and, in August, receipt of $2,000 from the Emil Schwarzhaupt Foundation, Inc., for the holding of four leadership conferences.

In supplement to the letters of acknowledgment sent in each case upon receipt of these contributions, the Secretary was asked at this time to express the gratitude of the Board of Trustees by appropriate communication.

Siceloff asked Mrs. Spearman to describe the conference activities made possible by the Schwarzhaupt grant. Mrs. Spearman stated that the first conference was held in October; about 50-60 South Carolina Negro leaders were present and she believes that a conference of this kind is particularly significant at this time. Now planned is a conference for mid-November of white and Negro clergy; as of this moment, about 30 regrets and 5 white acceptances have been received. Another future conference may be for social science teachers, and there may also be one for young people. The principal interest of the Schwarzhaupt Foundation is in the broad field of citizenship education.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

The Secretary was asked to summarize the actions of the Executive Committee, which are principally those taken at a joint meeting with the Finance Committee on 6 November at the Philadelphia National Bank in Philadelphia, together with certain routine financial administrative actions which have occurred from time to time since the Board of Trustees met in Frogmore on 15 March 1958.

Pension Program. As noted in the Minutes of 15 March 1958, the Board instructed the Executive Committee to re-study the existing pension program in the light of changes in OASI (Federal Social Security) and in State Teachers' Retirement pension provisions which have taken place subsequent to adoption of the Penn pension program. Stating that the Executive Committee had considered for several hours a draft pension proposal and had wished to assure itself fully that any revision in the program would be equitable as to persons, the Secretary read the following recommendation which the Executive Committee had adopted:

> It is the recommendation of the Executive Committee to the Board of Trustees that pensioners whose pensions were established on March 31, 1948 be informed that the Board is required by circumstances to reconsider its pension program with the probable result of gradual decrease and ultimate termination of the present pension plan. In that connection, however, the Committee believes that any action taken now might conceivably result in hardship for certain pensioners and that all should be given an opportunity to present pertinent information showing their financial situation and the financial situation of members of the family, where such is relevant, before final decision is reached.
>
> Hence it is recommended that the Director, in conjunction with the auditor, prepare a form designed to elicit full information of a financial nature.
>
> With such information in hand, supplemented by a procedure for personal interviews with pensioners to be determined by the Chairman and the Director, final decision would be reached at the next Annual Meeting of the Board.

Upon MOTION duly made, seconded, and unanimously carried, the Board of Trustees adopted the recommendation of the Executive and Finance Committees regarding proposed pension revision.

Financial. At the request of Finance Chairman Brown, Mr. Wood then summarized the financial matters processed through yesterday's joint meeting of the Executive and Finance Committees.

Investments. As of this time, the total portfolio in terms of market prices shows an increase to about $300,000 from the $268,905 reported to the Annual Meeting as of 27 February 1958, after allowing for the sale in June 1958 from the general investment fund of 100 shares Northern States Power Company and the sale of rights offered in two public utility companies. Aside from the above, there have been no other investment changes since the Annual Meeting. (Prior to the Northern States Power sale, 1,050 shares in this corporation were held in the Sustaining Fund and the General Fund.) Common stocks now constitute 70% of the total portfolio; bonds and preferreds represent 30%.

On 14 April $770 was transferred from principal cash at the Girard Trust Corn Exchange Bank to Penn's Regular Deposit Account.

Noting the specifications in the By-Laws, a full report from the Finance Committee will be made at the Annual Meeting.

Auditor's Report. The joint committee reviewed the auditor's report for the fiscal year ended 30 April 1958 and considered the suggestions made in the auditor's letter of transmittal dated 27 June 1958. The Committees recommend writing off the electrical system heretofore shown as an asset. The Executive and Finance Committees do not find it practicable, desirable, or necessary to adopt the balance of the suggestions contained in the auditor's letter: revaluations of realty from cost necessitate continual readjustments hereafter; the insurance valuations have been made quite recently; Chairman Brown stated, however, that it would be feasible to furnish the auditor with an annual valuation of the securities administered by the Finance Committee, as suggested by the auditor. Questions were raised as to the treatment of maintenance, with the recurrence of a suggestion that depreciation should be considered in our accounting when and if it becomes practical to do so.

Treasurer. In the absence of the pro tem treasurer from the meetings on 6 and 7 November, no report was received. The Executive Committee and Board noted that the 1958 Annual Meeting authorized the Executive Committee to act, pursuant to the By-Laws, in appointing a replacement; the Board preferred that the Treasurer be a Trustee if possible and that, owing to the legal formalities required in empowering a Treasurer, it might be well to defer final action until the 1959 Annual Meeting.

State of New York. Mr. Brown is working on the material requested by the State of New York of charitable corporations seeking contributions within its jurisdiction.

Mr. King. Attention of the joint committee was drawn to a request that Mr. King be relieved of paying rent ($35 a month) for the property rented on the school grounds; the Committee believed that this matter should be considered in conjunction with the pension situation, with action deferred until revision proposals can be adopted.

The Board received the above report of the actions of the Executive and Finance Committees.

OTHER COMMITTEE REPORTS

Public Relations. Although no formal report was received in the absence of Committee Chairman Bell, the Board's program was given considerable discussion, particularly because of the work that has been done by an ad hoc committee pursuant to the 15 March 1958 Minutes relating to the Arthur Curtiss James Foundation. The comments of Trustee Edward N. Jenks, of the New York Times, were especially helpful.

It was agreed that material for a new type of visual-impact display or brochure should be prepared and collated -- Mr. Jenks volunteered to coordinate this project; the Board concurred in the thought that the wise expenditure of money for the preparation of a really first-rate result would be well worth while.

The preparation of a Christmas 1958 appeals letter was delegated to Trustee Dabbs.

General assent was given to the proposition that our public relations need thoughtful review and redesign. Attention was drawn to the difficulties resulting from the considerable geographic dispersion of members of this Committee; it is hoped that in the future it will be possible for the Committee as a whole to assemble from time to time in order to develop a well-coordinated and effective total public relations program. Commendation was expressed to the present Committee Chairman for his creative helpfulness in the face of other significant demands on his time and in the light of the geographical difficulties just mentioned.

Attention was called to the declining trend of individual financial contributions to Penn as a part of the problem to be faced in redesigning our public relations approach.

James Foundation. Mr. Wood identified the members of the ad hoc committee and stated that this body had consolidated the numerous activities performed since last March by individual members in a deliberation of the full group during the afternoon of 6 November in Philadelphia.

The Committee believes that additional activities will be necessary before an effective appeal can be made to this Foundation, and that a good deal of the work done in preparing such an appeal will also be helpful in carrying forward a more general public information program, so that the work of the ad hoc committee will necessarily be related to that of the Public Relations Committee.

The Chairman and others joined in expressing appreciation to the James ad hoc body, Chairman Wright noting that this committee will continue in effect.

Nominating Committee. In lieu of a formal report, Chairman Wood gave a few personal impressions, stating that action of the Nominating Committee, under the By-Laws as now in effect, was necessarily deferred until the Annual Meeting.

At present there are only two vacancies on the Board. It is noteworthy that all the newly elected Trustees have shown interest and willingness to work, and that most of them had originally planned to attend this meeting, with absences resulting either from last-minute illnesses or because of our having changed the date from thesone preliminarily announced.

With the exception of our continuing inability to identify a new young Trustee from the Metropolitan Boston area, the Board now has well-diversified geographic and professional representation.

Mr. Wood suggested that the Board may wish, at a suitable time, to establish an honorary category, "Trustee Emeritus", for the recognition of those who have served long years with especial distinction but, because of age or disability, are more or less inactive.

Certain possible candidates for Trustee were suggested and are to be reviewed by the Nominating Committee; additional suggestions are invited; these should be transmitted to the Secretary at an early time if they are to be processed for action in the Spring.

ADVISORY BOARD.

Director Siceloff noted with regret the death of former member Paul Underwood Kellogg; the Trustees requested the Secretary to convey its sorrow to Mrs. Kellog.

Chairman Wright distributed a report adopted at the 31 October 1958 Frogmore meeting of the Advisory Board. A copy of this report is appended to these Minutes in the official Minute Book. The group was reported to be enthusiastic and helpful. It hopes for a continuing series of conferences on a variety of subjects. In addition, it recommends the desirability of a "community self-survey". In view of the economic and sociological situation.

the Penn area is believed to be representative of Southern problems generally, with the result that such a survey would have wider than local implications. Among the queries raised on 31 October is whether a local doctor can be identified to provide, on a voluntary basis, diagnostic service.

Appreciation to the Advisory Board was expressed by the Trustees.

BY-LAWS AMENDED

The Secretary summarized portions of the mimeographed memorandum dated 15 September 1958 which had been mailed to all Trustees detailing proposed By-Laws revision. As therein stated, the primary objectives of the proposed changes are: 1) to enable the Board to fill vacancies at any meeting; 2) to provide formally for the long extant Nominating Committee; and 3) to re-name, without changing the substance of, the Advisory Board, so as to remove the confusion of having two "Boards", by calling the Advisory Board the "Program Advisory Committee".

Upon MOTION duly made, seconded, and unanimously carried, the Board of Trustees adopted the revisions in the form proposed in the memorandum to Trustees dated 15 September 1958.

A copy of the 15 September memorandum is appended to these Minutes in the official Minute Book. Separately, the official records of Penn Community Services, Inc. retain the original of the newly revised By-Laws, duly certified by the Secretary. Copies of the revision are being mimeographed for distribution to each Trustee, to the Program Advisory Committee and, upon request, to others interested.

NOTICE OF 1959 ANNUAL MEETING

The Annual Meeting of the Board of Trustees will be held in Frogmore, South Carolina, on Saturday, 7 March 1959, beginning at 10:00 a.m.

By invitation of the Board of Trustees at its 7 November meeting, members of the Program Advisory Committee are welcomed to attend the Trustees' 1959 Annual Meeting, without vote, in accordance with Article X of the By-Laws.

A meeting of the Executive Committee will be held at Frogmore on 6 March. At least one committee may meet during the evening of 5 March, with others to be convened on 6 March and on 8 March. Trustees should reserve the period beginning Thursday evening 5 March through Sunday 8 March.

A detailed schedule, agendae, and transportation information will be mailed late in January or by early February.

ADJOURNMENT

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned upon the conclusion of luncheon at 1:40 o'clock in the afternoon.

Respectfully submitted,

Cornelius A. Wood, Jr.
Secretary

Appendices: (Minute Book only)

Notice of Meeting
Agenda
Director's Report 7 November 1958
Advisory Board Report 31 October 1958
15 September 1958 Memorandum re By-Laws Revision

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INC.

BY-LAWS

Adopted 7 November 1958
by the Board of Trustees to supersede the By-Laws as amended to 29 October 1957

I

TRUSTEES.

There shall not be less than fifteen nor more than twenty-four Trustees who shall serve for terms of three years each. At each Annual Meeting not less than five nor more than eight shall be elected; the Board may, however, at any meeting duly called and with a quorum present, elect Trustees to fill vacancies; such elections shall not be considered as falling within the numerical limitations governing elections during the Annual Meeting. Six members shall constitute a quorum.

II

OFFICERS.

The Officers of the Board of Trustees shall consist of a Chairman, a Vice Chairman, a Secretary and a Treasurer, who shall be elected at each Annual Meeting. These Officers shall hold office until their successors shall have been elected, unless previously removed in accordance with law. They shall perform the duties indicated by the title of their respective offices.

The Board of Trustees may, in its discretion, choose honorary officers and prescribe their functions.

III

STANDING COMMITTEES OF THE BOARD.

There shall be an Executive Committee and a Finance Committee composed of members of the Board of Trustees.

With the exception of the Executive Committee, the Finance Committee, and the Nominating Committee, the Chairman of the Board of Trustees may appoint, from the membership of the Board, members to such Standing Committees as the Board may from time to time authorize.

(Note: On 7 November 1958, the Standing Committees of the Board, in addition to the Executive Committee and the Finance Committee are: The Property Committee; the Public Relations Committee; and the Nominating Committee.)

IV

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

The Executive Committee shall consist of the Chairman of the Board, the Chairman of the Finance, Property, Public Relations Committees, the Treasurer, and the Secretary. The Executive Committee shall supervise the business of the Corporation and the care of its property, and shall superintend the execution of the plans and resolutions of the Trustees. It may make temporary appointments in its membership and fill vacancies in the case of Officers. It shall make an annual report of its proceedings with suggestions for the work of the coming year. It shall hold its records subject to the examination of the Board. The Committee shall have power to authorize necessary expenditures to carry on the work of the Corporation. Three members shall constitute a quorum.

The Executive Committee may incur on behalf of the Corporation an indebtedness not exceeding two thousand dollars ($2,000), which amount it is authorized to borrow in the name of the Corporation. The said Committee is also authorized to pledge with the lenders from time to time as collateral security for such loans, such bonds, stock or other securities belonging to the Corporation as it may deem wise and to execute on behalf of the Corporation such assignments, agreements or other instruments as may be necessary or desirable.

V

INVESTMENTS AND FINANCES.

The Trustees shall elect at each Annual Meeting two of their members who, with the Chairman, Treasurer, and Secretary of the Board of Trustees, shall constitute the Finance Committee. The Committee shall have the power to elect its own Chairman and to fill any vacancies which may occur in its membership or in its officers between the annual meetings of the Board of Trustees.

It shall be the duty of the Finance Committee, pursuant to the general directions of the Board of Trustees, to appoint a Fiscal Agent to perform such duties under the general direction of the Treasurer as may be delegated to him or it by the Finance Committee to invest the funds of the Corporation; to care for the securities representing the investments; to supervise the work and accounts of the Treasurer and of the Fiscal Agent; and to have charge of the general finances of the Corporation.

The Finance Committee shall have full power (a) to designate the Bank or Trust Company or Companies with whom the funds of the Corporation shall be deposited and in whose vaults the securities of the Corporation shall be placed, provided, however, that the securities and funds shall always be kept in some well-known and responsible Bank or Trust Company; (b) to have access by any two of its members to the vault in which the securities of the Corporation have been placed; (c) to invest, reinvest and from time to time change the investments of the Corporation; (d) to sell, pledge, and transfer any securities of the Corporation; (e) to execute by any two of its members in the name and as the act of the Corporation any assignments for the conveyance or transfer of any cash or securities belonging to the Corporation; (f) to execute by any two of its members in the name and as the act of the Corporation any Power of Attorney, assignments, proxies or other instruments which may be necessary in order to exercise any right of ownership over the securities of the Corporation or which may be necessary in order to enable the Fiscal Agent of the Corporation to perform any duties delegated to it; (g) to execute by any two of its members in the name and as the act of the Corporation any receipts for gifts or bequests and any releases or any other instruments connected therewith; and (h) to register securities in the name of the nominee of the Custodian.

The Finance Committee shall make a full and complete report at the Annual Meeting of the Board, showing in detail sales and investments made during the preceding year, and the present holdings and investments of the Corporation.

VI

NOMINATING COMMITTEE.

The Nominating Committee shall make recommendations to the Board concerning candidates for Trustees, Executive Committee, Finance Committee, Officers, Program Advisory Committee; and may make recommendation to the Executive Committee concerning the Director. The Nominating Committee shall consist of not less than three nor more than five members, elected by the Board from its own membership; the Nominating Committee shall select its own Chairman; the Nominating Committee may, at the Annual Meeting of the Board, recommend persons for consideration in the balloting for membership of the Nominating Committee. Recommendations from the Nominating Committee for all positions shall, nevertheless, be subject to additional nomination from the floor, duly seconded.

VII

MEETINGS.

The Annual Meeting of the Board of Trustees shall be held between January 1 and June 1 of each year and another meeting of said Board may be held in the Fall. Dates of meetings shall be fixed by the Chairman unless designated by the Board. Additional meetings may be held at any time at the call of the Chairman, with the right given to the Executive Committee also to call meetings whenever it shall deem it expedient. Adequate notice of all meetings shall be given by the Secretary to each Trustee and, as to the Annual Meeting, two weeks' advance notice shall be given. The principal object of any special meeting must be stated in the notice. The Secretary, when sending out notices of the Annual Meeting, shall inform the members of the Board of the names of those Trustees whose terms of office expire at such meeting. The Secretary shall also advise of any proposed amendments to the By-Laws of which he may have received notice.

VIII

SALARIES AND EXPENDITURES.

The Trustees shall, on the recommendation of the Executive Committee, appoint and fix all salaries and duties of Officers or employees of the Corporation. The procedure to be followed is that the Director shall submit a proposed budget to the Executive Committee which, in turn, shall present the same, with such amendments or modifications as it may deem proper, to the Annual Meeting of the Board of Trustees. Upon the failure of either the Director or Executive Committee to act, the Board shall have authority to fix a budget at its discretion.

IX

DIRECTOR.

The Board of Trustees, acting upon the recommendations of the Executive Committee, shall have authority to employ a Director from year to year. In the event of the failure of the Executive Committee to act, the Board may make such employment within its discretion. Compensation and perquisites of the Director shall be fixed by the Board. The duties of the Director shall be: to administer and execute the policies and decisions of the Board of Trustees; to conserve and maintain the physical property of the Corporation; to employ and supervise other staff personnel subject to general direction by the Board; to keep records and accounts showing receipts and expenditures where accepted or disbursed by him; to propose a budget for each Annual Meeting; to advise the Secretary of changes in personnel of the Board of Trustees, the Program Advisory Committee and any or all committees; to submit at each Annual Meeting a report in writing covering his activities during the preceding year and his recommendations as to program and policy to be followed during the ensuing year; and to discharge such responsibilities as the Board may delegate to him.

X

PROGRAM ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

The Trustees may, at each Annual Meeting, elect a Program Advisory Committee composed of not more than fifteen members, each of whom shall serve for a period of one year or until his successor has been elected. Members of the Program Advisory Committee may, upon invitation, have the right to attend meetings of the Board and participate in the discussion, but they shall not have the right to vote or to exercise any other powers over the business and property of the Corporation. Members of the Program Advisory Committee present at any meeting of the Board of Trustees shall not be considered in determining a quorum. The duties of the Program Advisory Committee shall be, individually or as a group, to give to the Board of Trustees their counsel, advice and aid in determining policies to be followed, as well as ways and means of executing such policies.

The Executive Committee shall determine whether or not presence of members of the Program Advisory Committee shall be requested at Annual or other meetings.

XI

AMENDMENTS, ETC., TO BY-LAWS.

Any By-Law may be repealed, suspended or amended by a vote of two-thirds of the members present at any meeting of the Board of Trustees duly called, provided reasonable notice shall have been given in advance of the proposed repeal, suspension or amendment.

Report of Director to
Board of Trustees
Penn Community Services, Inc.

November 7, 1958

The current fiscal year is at the halfway mark, and such a time provides a good opportunity to consider the operation. The financial situation will be outlined in detail by the treasurer and chairman of the finance committee. I will emphasize primarily the program operation. Obviously, however, these cannot be completely separated.

It would be fine if every year the report could tell of ever increasing successes and expansion. However, too often, the progress is similiar to the increasing per capita income in the United States - that progress is more apparent than real. The director's report tends to emphasize those aspects of the program that are positive and neglect the negative. An analysis of the program, prepared primarily for the subcommittee on Foundations, outlines the various activities undertaken at present.

This analysis indicates somewhat the scope of the program. What it fails to do is to show what few inovations have been incorporated into the program over the past several years. It is a tremendous tribute to our local leaders of the Community activities who have been able to carry on with such limited resources. Because of the increasing demands of the conference program, and other administrative duties, the director has participated only infrequently - and that primarily as an observer - in the various programs.

The situation concerning the maintenance of property differs very little from the above situation. It is not difficult to outline in reports the projects that have been completed; it would be discouraging to some to indicate what really needed to be done. A list of such repairs to the property was prepared for the subcommittee on Foundations, and totals $15,000. This list certainly was not exhaustive, for many repairs were of a minor nature that would make the list too detailed. Our current staff of one with some part-time help is provided an almost impossible task of taking care of some 20 buildings on the campus. Preparing and painting alone of the frame structures on a five-year rotating schedule requires one-third of a year to complete. Penn is indeed fortunate to have such an able artisan as Leroy Browne for maintenance superintendent but much of his time is taken with routine repairs that a less experienced man could handle.

All are aware of the fine assets that we have at Penn - location, natural beauty, spirit of cooperation within the community, able and devoted trustees, a fair endowment, and a number of concerned contributors. Our program - both for the community and state at large - could be much more creative and effective by emphasizing personnel in an expansion. One person added to the program and another added to the maintenance staff would enable Penn to become a dynamic center within the state, and therefore serve as a demonstration to the entire region.

These suggestions come at mid-year because various committees are evaluating the program now. The advisory committee ~~will have~~ its first meeting a few days prior to this Board meeting. The Foundation subcommittee meets the day prior to the Board meeting.

In a less pessimistic vein, let us look briefly at the program to date. The conference program has taken the longest stride. Last year the income from conferences was $4,032, while for the first six months this year, the income has been $6,059; this latter figure does not include an additional grant of $2,000 for conducting four conferences. However, most of the conferences have been held for this year so that it is not likely the income from this source will exceed $6,500. Groups having met here for the first time in this period were the Morticians, physical education teachers, Congress of Racial Equality; "repeaters" were the midwives (2 sessions), Quakers (2 retreats) and teacher leadership conference. Mrs. Spearman, who has organized the conferences, will tell of the one already held and others projected with the support of the Schwanzbaupt Foundation.

The acquisition of a bookmobile and inauguration of service marks a milestone in our library. The ten-year-old truck was in good condition and acquired primarily through a gift from a Negro sorority. The bookmobile serves now the same outposts as before, but we hope that this can be expanded soon.

The forestry program is due to get under way the middle of November with the clearing of 50 acres for planting of some 40,000 seedlings the first of the year. Already five lanes are being plowed throughout the forest area.

The clinic and sales house are in their new quarters in Cope Building. The State Department of Health has agreed to install heaters in the clinic, in view of the effort and expense that Penn expended in this direction. The sales house has committed itself to paying $100 into the Rossa Cooley clinic memorial to help take care of the deficit.

The Nursery is sporting a bright red coat of paint with white trim so as to be more in keeping with the nature of its use. We are waiting for an artist to volunteer to paint nursery book figures, as suggested at the last board meeting. The attendance - around 15 - is lower than last year.

Other major maintenance projects include installation of exhaust fans and louvres in two dormitories and in Frissell and Butler Buildings; installation of new sewer lines in Frissell septic tank; and taking down old sales house building. We have worked out an arrangement with the St. Helena High School whereby a student will work as an apprentice to Mr. Leroy Browne 20 hours weekly.

During the summer, grass was set out in a number of places; the cuttings from ornamental shrubs have rooted well and will be moved from the cutting bed shortly. Our landscaping project can be compared to that of school integration in the south - "proceeding with deliberate speed".

Courtney Sicéloff,
Director

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED
Frogmore, South Carolina

November 14, 1958

M E M O R A N D U M

To: Program Advisory Committee
From: Courtney Siceloff
Re: Report of Committee and Action of Trustee Board

The Program Advisory Committee met on October 31, 1958, at Penn Community Center. You have already received a report of that Committee; however, certain corrections should be made in the report. The chairman, Fred Routh, was not listed as being present, or as the writer of the report. Also, it was reported that a Miss Jane McAllister was present, when in reality it was a Mr. McAllister, a student at Morris College.

At the Board of Trustees' meeting held in Philadelphia on November 7, certain changes were made in the By-Laws of Penn. One change was to alter the name of the committee on which you serve, from Advisory Board, to Program Advisory Committee. This action was taken primarily, so as to more easily differentiate between the Trustee Board and the Advisory Committee.

The Board was quite interested in the report of the Advisory Committee. Partly on the basis of this report, authorization was given by the Board to look for additional personnel to add to the staff of Penn, which might enable Penn to carry out some of these recommendations.

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

MARION A. WRIGHT
CHAIRMAN
LINVILLE FALLS, N. C.

WILLIAM E. CADBURY
VICE-CHAIRMAN
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

CORNELIUS A. WOOD, JR.
SECRETARY
1018 DUPONT CIRCLE BLDG.
WASHINGTON 6, D. C.

GEORGE H. AULL
CLEMSON, S. C.

B. TARTT BELL
GUILFORD, N. C.

PAUL W. BROWN, JR.
PHILADELPHIA

MISS ISABELLA CURTIS
MANCHESTER, MASS.

JAMES MCBRIDE DABBS
MAYESVILLE, S. C.

HAROLD EVANS
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

JOHN W. HARDY
BEAUFORT, S. C.

MISS GRACE HOUSE
ORIENT
LONG ISLAND, N. Y.

EDWARD N. JENKS
NEW YORK, N. Y.

MRS. HORACE H. JENKS
WILTON, CONN.

MRS. JAMES L. MCCONAUGHY
HARTFORD, CONN.

ROBERT K. MOONEY
WEST HARTFORD, CONN.

IRA DE A. REID
HAVERFORD, PA.

MRS. EDWARD G. SANDERS
ST. HELENA ISLAND, S. C.

A. M. SECREST
CHERAW, S. C.

JOHN A. SILVER
PIPERSVILLE, PA.

W. E. SOLOMON
COLUMBIA, S. C.

MRS. EUGENE SPEARMAN
COLUMBIA, S. C.

JOSEPH WRIGHT
BEAUFORT, S. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

MRS. Y. W. BAILEY
ST. HELENA ISLAND, S. C.

GEORGE A. BUCHANAN, JR.
COLUMBIA, S. C.

FRANCIS R. COPE, JR.
DIMOCK, PA.

MRS. RUBY P. CORNWELL
CHARLESTON, S. C.

MISS WIL LOU GRAY
COLUMBIA, S. C.

CAREY E. HAIGLER
CHARLOTTE, N. C.

MRS. GRACE T. HAMILTON
ATLANTA, GA.

MISS LEILA JOHNSON
MURRELL'S INLET, S. C.

DR. BENJAMIN E. MAYS
ATLANTA, GA.

DR. O. R. REUBEN
SUMTER, S. C.

FREDERICK B. ROUTH
ATLANTA, GA.

MRS. WILLIAM W. SMITH
POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.

Christmas, 1958

Dear Friend:

We remind ourselves again that the Prince of Peace has come, and admit, sadly, that he has found few ready to receive him.

Yet there are places--perhaps more than we think--where he is welcome; and we, the friends of Penn Community Services, find joy in our confidence that there is such a place.

Nearly a century ago now it first arose, like an island of peace amid war, of freedom amid slavery.

It still stands, the quiet sunlight sifting through the live-oaks, along the Spanish moss, a living symbol of peace to those who live there, and especially to that increasing number who come there from South Carolina, and from the South, to face together their problems. For they come from an area where men's hearts are at war because of race, and even their own hearts are filled with doubt, and they find there a place and a people who speak peace and pursue it.

In these conferences whites and Negroes meet as they've never met before--man to man. They are aided in this by the occasional presence among them of the Negroes of St. Helena, who, partly because of the influence of Penn School, carry themselves with an assurance and dignity almost unknown elsewhere in the South.

One of the large family of Penn supporters has just written to Courtney Siceloff: "Last night I said to myself--why waste time wishing you could do something about the bad conditions! You can help a bit where you know the colored people are being given a chance. The result of that soliloquy I enclose...with my best wishes for your continued success at Penn."

Perhaps you too would like to mark this anniversary of the coming of the Prince of Peace by a gift to Penn. If you could visit Penn, and if you should happen to awake before daylight, you would hear the cocks crowing on the nearby farms. They are crowing up the dawn. The light will spread, even across the South, by God's grace and with your help.

Sincerely yours,

James McBride Dabbs

CONTRIBUTIONS TO PENN ARE TAX DEDUCTIBLE

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

St. Helena Island — Frogmore, South Carolina

Courtney Siceloff
Director

February 13, 1959

LWD ✓
JC ✓ MM ✓
MF (file)

Harold Fleming
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Harold Fleming:

I have received a note from Mrs. Childs of Charleston, indicating that the writer of the letter had been in Charleston for about twenty-five years, having come from Atlanta originally, she thought. He is now an elder in the First Prebysterian Church and a respected member of the community.

The institutions that he mentioned, apparently were the Farm Bureau and the College of Charleston. Mrs. Childs got this information from his wife and assured her that there would be no publicity concerning it. I don't expect you to give publicity to it, but I do think that anything printed should be cleared with Mrs. Childs first.

Best regards,

Courtney Siceloff
cs:rfp

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

February 6, 1959

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

MARION A. WRIGHT
CHAIRMAN
LINVILLE FALLS, N. C.

WILLIAM E. CADBURY
VICE-CHAIRMAN
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

CORNELIUS A. WOOD, JR.
SECRETARY
1018 DUPONT CIRCLE BLDG.
WASHINGTON 6, D. C.

GEORGE H. AULL
CLEMSON, S. C.

B. TARTT BELL
GUILFORD, N. C.

PAUL W. BROWN, JR.
PHILADELPHIA

MISS ISABELLA CURTIS
MANCHESTER, MASS.

JAMES MCBRIDE DABBS
MAYESVILLE, S. C.

HAROLD EVANS
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

JOHN W. HARDY
BEAUFORT, S. C.

MISS GRACE HOUSE
ORIENT
LONG ISLAND, N. Y.

EDWARD N. JENKS
NEW YORK, N. Y.

MRS. HORACE H. JENKS
WILTON, CONN.

MRS. JAMES L. MCCONAUGHY
HARTFORD, CONN.

ROBERT K. MOONEY
WEST HARTFORD, CONN.

IRA DE A. REID
HAVERFORD, PA.

MRS. EDWARD G. SANDERS
ST. HELENA ISLAND, S. C.

A. M. SECREST
CHERAW, S. C.

JOHN A. SILVER
PIPERSVILLE, PA.

W. E. SOLOMON
COLUMBIA, S. C.

MRS. EUGENE SPEARMAN
COLUMBIA, S. C.

JOSEPH WRIGHT
BEAUFORT, S. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

MRS. Y. W. BAILEY
ST. HELENA ISLAND, S. C.

GEORGE A. BUCHANAN, JR.
COLUMBIA, S. C.

FRANCIS R. COPE, JR.
DIMOCK, PA.

MRS. RUBY P. CORNWELL
CHARLESTON, S. C.

MISS WIL LOU GRAY
COLUMBIA, S. C.

CAREY E. HAIGLER
CHARLOTTE, N. C.

MRS. GRACE T. HAMILTON
ATLANTA, GA.

MISS LEILA JOHNSON
MURRELL'S INLET, S. C.

DR. BENJAMIN E. MAYS
ATLANTA, GA.

DR. O. R. REUBEN
SUMTER, S. C.

FREDERICK B. ROUTH
ATLANTA, GA.

MRS. WILLIAM W. SMITH
POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.

Harold Fleming
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Harold:

I am enclosing a letter which appeared in the Letter to the Editor column on February 4. I think it is most interesting that they should have printed such a long letter under the notice that letter's could only be 200 words long. I think you should re-submit your letter that was so severely edited earlier.

I thought you would be interested, not particularly in the plan that was proposed, but the fact that this person is heading a Management Research Institute which has made reports to two South Carolina institutions on the maintenance of separate schools. Since I am not well acquainted with the world of business, I was a bit surprised to learn this; but perhaps consulting engineers are called upon for all sorts of recommendations. I have written Mrs. Childs, as per enclosed letter, to see if she has any information on this and will forward it to you in case she does. However, in case she does not have any information and in the event that you would like to have more information on this particular group, I will try to do some more sleuthing.

We have been terribly impressed with your ability to latch on to money, and that a good part of it could come to the state organizations. I must say that extra grant was a boost that was really needed both for morale and for effectiveness of the organization. I do think that our state program has stepped up considerably since our first two interracial conferences sponsored by the Schwarzhaupt Foundation in the Fall, with follow-up conferences being planned already.

Best regards,

Courtney Siceloff
cs:rfp

P.S. Thanks very much for your selected film bibliography. I wonder if you would mind sending another one as well. We have been scraping the bottom of the barrel for a number of months for our local Council, and these films are to put a little meat on the bones.

February 6, 1959

Mrs. Marguerita Childs
73 King Street
Charleston, South Carolina

Dear Mrs. Childs:

I noticed in the News and Courier of February 4, in the letter to the editor, one from Mr. Frederick MacDonald, writing on the proposal for a private school plan. He signed it as president of Management Research Institute, Peoples Building, Charleston.

It seemed to me a very well-thought-out program to evade the Supreme Court's rulings concerning desegregation of schools. What particularly interested me was the fact that he indicated in the third paragraph that this group had made reports to two South Carolina institutions on the maintenance of separate schools. I have no idea whether you know Mr. MacDonald, but apparently he has received good training and the proposal he makes is by no means similar to the emotional appeals usually coming from some of the politicians.

I think it would be very helpful to know what the Management Research Institute really is, whether dealing with the matter of segregation is just very much of a side line, or whether it is one of their principal activities. Obviously, it will also be interesting to know the names of those two South Carolinian institutions that he referred to, to which his company made recommendations.

If this information would be somewhat difficult to obtain, I certainly do not want to burden you with it, but thought perhaps you might already know him and know of this Institute.

I was very glad to have seen you recently on Johns Island as well as in Columbia. I hope we did not scare your nephew off by imposing so many duties on him at the time of our Board Meeting there.

Best regards,

CS

Courtney Siceloff
cs:rfp

Letters To The Editor

Private School Plan

The News and Courier welcomes letters to the editor when they are concise (no longer than 200 words) and bear the writer's signature in longhand. They also must carry the sender's address and be plainly written, preferably typed. All letters are subject to rejection or editing. None will be returned.

To The News and Courier:

Your editorial of Jan. 30 on the Virginia crisis in school integration declared, "We refuse to yield to panic."

This is a heartening challenge to reappraise the approaches that Virginia and Arkansas have made to the maintenance of racially separate schools. For the only hope we see is in a totally new system of school organization and management.

Since the 1954 edict of the Supreme Court, we have made reports to two South Carolina institutions on the maintenance of separate schools. Our recommendations, like your own conclusions, were based on the truth that the answer must drive from personal and private, not public action.

The exception is that constitutional and legislative conditions must in no way be restrictive, but fully permissive. To clear the decks for this may take several years in some states.

We are advised by legal counsel that South Carolina probably is in the least vulnerable and the most ready position of any state. This is due to the foresight and strategy of Governors Byrnes and Timmerman, the Gressette Legislative Committee, the General Assembly, and attorneys Figg, of Charleston, and Robinson, of Columbia.

While a final answer should lie in private schools, it will take more than makeshift units born of panic action.

A state should need only to lay the groundwork, but it must be a thoroughly laid potential, for a statewide system of uniformly operated private schools, under a central management that can maintain accreditation.

Nothing else will serve to replace our established public assumption of universal education below and for college entrance.

One can get a clear picture of the needed type of remedy from the story of a Canadian who helped to pioneer commercial fruit orchards in the South, but found one day that many of his 30,000 apple trees were infected with an incurable blight. This realist did not fool himself into trying to save what he had. He cut down and burned every apple tree.

Then he took a period of preparation for a new orchard. He planted cover crops, turned them under, reworked and enriched the soil for 30,000 peach trees. He did the best he could with the kind of fruit his soil and climate would nourish, at a given time. It took him seven years to get back into full and profitable operation on one of today's fine fruit orchards in North Georgia.

If our people can see a system of public schools as one of the ways to universal education, and a system of private schools as another way, it should not be difficult to see that we might escape the blight of the first by starting from the ground itself with planned strategy and lawful tactics to build a new and perhaps a better potential in private education.

The resources of the people are identical in every state to maintain a public system or to establish a private potential and develop it as necessary.

We use the term potential deliberately. For just as token integration seems to be a temporary judicial face-saver, we are convinced that a token or pilot demonstration of an adequate potential in private education beam be a permanent segregation saver.

It is our conclusion that successful solutions may require the establishment of but one judicially acceptable system of separate schools in one school district in each state.

If it becomes obvious that the people can duplicate or expand such a system widely in any state, no other tests will be necessary for that state.

But each state must prove its own and separate capacity to do this. And no such test operation should be risked in a public parade of intent or claims where the basic moves can be thwarted before a complete and sustaining whole can be effected.

This calls for the most patient, thorough and quiet achievement of a fait accompli.

If any state proves its capacity to expand a sound pilot system of private education, neither the NAACP nor local zealots can gain integration by costly court action against public schools that can be moved into private operation. It seems likely that, in the main, the present public systems of separate schools may be accepted as evidence of voluntary segregation and allowed to continue where desired.

There is a way to regain our civil rights in education.

It will work if we take the long view, absorb interim defeats, and build solidly — unless with all of our sound and fury, we fizzle out at the shadow of freedom's only killer: "It's too much damn trouble to do it that way!

FREDERICK H. McDONALD
(Member, American Institute of Consulting Engineers; President, Management Research Institute.)
Peoples Bldg., Charleston.

Matter Of Taste

To The News and Courier:

I read with interest your editorial "Respect For A Flag." I agree with you. But I would rather have read "Respect For A President."

Apparently, from the treatment given by your paper, you consider it amusing for some people to vent spleen by pasting the Lincoln stamp upside down. Childish, yes, but hardly in good taste.

LOUISE L. VICKERS Beaufort.

News + Courier 2/4/59

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

April 2, 1959

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

MARION A. WRIGHT
CHAIRMAN
LINVILLE FALLS, N. C.

WILLIAM E. CADBURY
VICE-CHAIRMAN
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

CORNELIUS A. WOOD, JR.
SECRETARY
1018 DUPONT CIRCLE BLDG.
WASHINGTON 6, D. C.

GEORGE H. AULL
CLEMSON, S. C.

B. TARTT BELL
GUILFORD, N. C.

PAUL W. BROWN, JR.
PHILADELPHIA

MISS ISABELLA CURTIS
MANCHESTER, MASS.

JAMES MCBRIDE DABBS
MAYESVILLE, S. C.

HAROLD EVANS
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

JOHN W. HARDY
BEAUFORT, S. C.

MISS GRACE HOUSE
ORIENT
LONG ISLAND, N. Y.

EDWARD N. JENKS
NEW YORK, N. Y.

MRS. HORACE H. JENKS
WILTON, CONN.

MRS. JAMES L. MCCONAUGHY
HARTFORD, CONN.

ROBERT K. MOONEY
WEST HARTFORD, CONN.

IRA DE A. REID
HAVERFORD, PA.

MRS. EDWARD G. SANDERS
ST. HELENA ISLAND, S. C.

A. M. SECREST
CHERAW, S. C.

JOHN A. SILVER
PIPERSVILLE, PA.

W. E. SOLOMON
COLUMBIA, S. C.

MRS. EUGENE SPEARMAN
COLUMBIA, S. C.

JOSEPH WRIGHT
BEAUFORT, S. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

MRS. Y. W. BAILEY
ST. HELENA ISLAND, S. C.

GEORGE A. BUCHANAN, JR.
COLUMBIA, S. C.

FRANCIS R. COPE, JR.
DIMOCK, PA.

MRS. RUBY P. CORNWELL
CHARLESTON, S. C.

MISS WIL LOU GRAY
COLUMBIA, S. C.

CAREY E. HAIGLER
CHARLOTTE, N. C.

MRS. GRACE T. HAMILTON
ATLANTA, GA.

MISS LEILA JOHNSON
MURRELL'S INLET, S. C.

DR. BENJAMIN E. MAYS
ATLANTA, GA.

DR. O. R. REUBEN
SUMTER, S. C.

FREDERICK B. ROUTH
ATLANTA, GA.

MRS. WILLIAM W. SMITH
POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.

Harold Fleming
Southern Regional Conference
63 Auburn Avenue, N.E.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Harold:

Thanks very much for your letter concerning Rachael DuBois.

I can certainly understand about your reaction to this method for use by the Southern Regional Council. It is obvious that this method is not one that will work well in seeking institutional change; however, it would seem to me to be of great value to the directors of the state council, who I think are working also on an individual approach. I do not know whether this state is typical in regard to the work of the director, but it would seem to me that group conversation would be a great asset to directors as they are meeting for the first time with a bi-racial group. Such a technique does not need follow-up, but is used primarily, as I understand it, on a single evening basis.

I am in the position now, of not being able to do anything else concerning the organizing of a work shop for learning this method; however, I hope that we will have a new staff member to join us in July, and at that time perhaps, may begin to make some contacts to see if there are sufficient individuals who would be willing to come and pay a fee, and thus not necessitate a grant from a foundation.

I see that you are to be at the conference in Charlotte next week-end, so will possibly see you there.

Best regards,

Courtney Siceloff
cs:rfp

March 26, 1959

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Penn Community Services, Inc.
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

Your letter concerning Rachel DuBois was welcomed, though I'm afraid my reply must be negative.

I remember the demonstration of Miss DuBois's method very well. It is true that it ~~would~~ did not make any great hit, but I would be the last one to say that it does not have merit as a technique for furthering intergroup understanding. I am sure that under the right circumstances it can be very effective.

I must admit, however, that I do not feel the technique is very well adapted to use by SRC and its state councils. As I understand it, it is best suited to use with an intimate situation in which it is possible to make intensive efforts to improve personal attitudes. Our movements, it seems to me, can hardly afford to go very far in this direction. Considering our limited resources and the size of the problems with which we are concerned, my feeling is that we must put our emphasis on those techniques which might contribute most to institutional rather than individual change.

I am not suggesting that the approach is not valid and important for other groups with different purposes and structures. I am merely suggesting that such a "retaining" method must have a very low priority among the many conflicting claims on SRC's resources and staff time and effort.

I am sorry we cannot help on this one and hope you will understand our reasons for feeling we cannot.

All the best.

Sincerely,

Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director

HCF/s mf

Memo FROM THE DESK OF FRED ROUTH

HCF

I really dont feel that this type of training technique is of much use to our staffers from the state organizations.

And, furthermore a 3 day conference is over-ambitious - we could better use the time for our own staff meeting.

FBR

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

March 18, 1959

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

MARION A. WRIGHT
CHAIRMAN
LINVILLE FALLS, N. C.

WILLIAM E. CADBURY
VICE-CHAIRMAN
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

CORNELIUS A. WOOD, JR.
SECRETARY
1018 DUPONT CIRCLE BLDG.
WASHINGTON 6, D. C.

GEORGE H. AULL
CLEMSON, S. C.

B. TARTT BELL
GUILFORD, N. C.

PAUL W. BROWN, JR.
PHILADELPHIA

MISS ISABELLA CURTIS
MANCHESTER, MASS.

JAMES MCBRIDE DABBS
MAYESVILLE, S. C.

HAROLD EVANS
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

JOHN W. HARDY
BEAUFORT, S. C.

MISS GRACE HOUSE
ORIENT
LONG ISLAND, N. Y.

EDWARD N. JENKS
NEW YORK, N. Y.

MRS. HORACE H. JENKS
WILTON, CONN.

MRS. JAMES L. MCCONAUGHY
HARTFORD, CONN.

ROBERT K. MOONEY
WEST HARTFORD, CONN.

IRA DE A. REID
HAVERFORD, PA.

MRS. EDWARD G. SANDERS
ST. HELENA ISLAND, S. C.

A. M. SECREST
CHERAW, S. C.

JOHN A. SILVER
PIPERSVILLE, PA.

W. E. SOLOMON
COLUMBIA, S. C.

MRS. EUGENE SPEARMAN
COLUMBIA, S. C.

JOSEPH WRIGHT
BEAUFORT, S. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

MRS. Y. W. BAILEY
ST. HELENA ISLAND, S. C.

GEORGE A. BUCHANAN, JR.
COLUMBIA, S. C.

FRANCIS R. COPE, JR.
DIMOCK, PA.

MRS. RUBY P. CORNWELL
CHARLESTON, S. C.

MISS WIL LOU GRAY
COLUMBIA, S. C.

CAREY E. HAIGLER
CHARLOTTE, N. C.

MRS. GRACE T. HAMILTON
ATLANTA, GA.

MISS LEILA JOHNSON
MURRELL'S INLET, S. C.

DR. BENJAMIN E. MAYS
ATLANTA, GA.

DR. O. R. REUBEN
SUMTER, S. C.

FREDERICK B. ROUTH
ATLANTA, GA.

MRS. WILLIAM W. SMITH
POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.

FBR — Your reaction please. HCF

Harold Fleming,
S. R. C.
63 Auburn Ave
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Harold,

Rachel DuBois, of the Workshop for Cultural Democracy, is here for a few days, and leaves tomorrow for Atlanta. She demonstrated last night her Group Conversation to our local Council of Human Relations, and we're bringing another bi-racial group together tonight for the same purpose. I have also had the opportunity to see her in action at two previous meetings of the Friends Conference on Race Relations. I have been greatly impressed with the possibilities of this technique, particularly for bi-racial groups.

Miss DuBois and I have been talking about a training session over a three day period where participants would learn the technique so as to apply it when they return home with groups they work with. It would be an intensive time, with ten 2-hour sessions. Ideally, this would begin with an evening session, followed by two full days of sessions (8), and terminating with the morning session of the fourth day.

The training session should be limited to a maximum of 25. I should think that there are quite a number of persons who would benefit and be interested in this. Some of those that come tomind are:

Directors state Human Relations Councils
SRC staff personnel charged with conducting biracial meetings
Church groups or agencies working in interracial field, such as leaders in Fellowship of the Concerned, denominational women's groups, ministers on local and state levels, youth directors
Young peoples workers, such as YM-YW
School administrators in newly integrated, or in transition to integrated, school districts.

It would seem to me that this first training session should be regionally representative, or to be plainer--from adjoining states. While we would be very glad to have the group have the session at Penn, another location more central might be better. (Incidentally, in the training session, some 50 additional people from the community have to be drawn in on two sessions for demonstration and practice; we could bring together such a group, as I am sure many others places could do likewise.)

I have sketched roughly what the costs would be:

Leadership
Fees for 2 people	300.
Transportation New York, return	200.	500.
Entertainment at Penn
25 @ $13.		350.
Transportation for persons attending
25 @ $60.		1500.
		$2350.

However, I would suggest the following: that SRC pay the leadership fees of $500; Miss DuBois believes she can get the $350 for entertainment from a New York foundation. I would suggest that the agencies from where the attenders would be coming should pay the transportation, or the participants themselves. It would seem to me, that should SRC be interested in this, that you get the group together--because of your contacts, personnel, (money), etc. However, we, or rather I, would undertake it, if SRC or another agency didn't want that job.

I gathered from Alice Spearman, that Miss DuBois demonstrated this method at a staff meeting of SRC several years ago, and that she was not impressed; I asked Miss DuBois about this, and she indicated that George Mitchell had invited her down to demonstrate the method, but that the session didn't seem to click, and that SRC decided not to use it. So perhaps, you have already had contact with it.

At present, Rachel DuBois is visiting Friends Meetings in the South, and using a different technique, Group Dialogue. She will be doing this with the Friends of Atlanta. From there, she will go to Daytona Beach on Monday. If you are at all interested in this, you might want to see her while she is in Atlanta; she will be staying with Phern Stanley (Mrs. John, I think) 525 Avery St., Decatur; however, do not feel that you need contact her, of course.

Group Conversation — not Friends!

I am enclosing some propaganda put out by Miss DuBois outfit, but the fact that you have already seen it in operation means much more.

Best regards,

Courtney Siceloff

There is probably no doubt in your mind as to who typed this!

SOCIAL EDUCATION THROUGH HAPPY MEMORIES

How people with different social backgrounds learn to find a common meeting ground

By BRUNO LASKER

NOT long ago I was invited to watch a demonstration of "group conversation" as a means of fostering a spirit of cooperation in a culturally heterogeneous community.

To be precise, the date was Lincoln's Birthday and the community was Yonkers, N.Y. The "conversation" was to be conducted by Dr. Rachel Davis DuBois, Director of the Workshop for Cultural Democracy, of New York City, author of Neighbors in Action.

I had worked with Doctor DuBois many years ago and admired her ingenuity in inventing new devices for bringing people with different social backgrounds into mutually enlightening exchanges of ideas. These had usually resulted in greater mutual respect between members of different classes and ethnic groups, and a heightened sense of mutual responsibility.

I also had admired the persistence with which she and those working with her had responded to criticisms of their methodology by further refining it and by branching out into new techniques to fit diverse circumstances. So I was glad to go and see what had become of one of her favorite specializations in social education.

The meeting was one of about 100 women, most of them middle-aged, who with few exceptions, were officers of small, local organizations. The leader arranged them in a circle of seats, with space enough in the middle for an occasional demonstration of a game or a dance, and a piano at one side.

The chosen theme of the conversation was "Spring is in the Air." Some pots of spring flowers had been distributed around the room, but they were hardly needed to create an atmosphere.

For, what I had not realized was the artistry of Doctor DuBois in creating an illusion: in this case, her setting was arranged to suggest that "we are twelve years old, in the home of our childhood; it is the first day of spring," and in drawing from it a mounting sense of participation in a universal drama.

In one of her articles, Doctor DuBois gives the rationale for the choice of such a theme: "We know from experience that early impressions, unlike later ones, are undimmed as we grow older. That is why the leader's first 'pump-priming' questions center around the senses—'the smell of freshly baked bread,' or 'the color of trees in the spring.' Then, too, adults can talk about their childhood experiences freely, for we do not feel responsible for what happened then. . . ."

I discovered afterwards that one member of the group had been "planted," in case the members should be too slow at the start to speak up. She was the assistant director of the workshop, born in Hawaii of Chinese parents. But although she and the pianist, a Negro song leader from the South, made interesting short contributions, they were not really needed.

From the very start women who, to judge from the way in which they first exchanged whispered remarks with their neighbors, and then spoke in a very low voice, were unaccustomed to speak in a gathering of this size, smilingly recalled childhood scenes.

They spoke of the smell of the soil on the first warm day of the year; the first flowers in the grass; the foods and cakes prepared and eaten on spring holidays; the Fasching which, though it also has another significance, was a boisterous welcoming of spring. They spoke of the new clothes; the outdoor games played at this time of year; the cozy fire enjoyed while the nights were yet cold; the family seated near the iron stove, the tiled oven, or the open hearth; the children's Saturday night's bath in front of the fire; the stories told by a grandmother; the reading aloud, and the family prayers.

---

BRUNO LASKER, author of Race Attitudes in Children, was for many years an associate editor of Survey magazine. As an author, translator, and participant in adult education ventures, Mr. Lasker writes, "It has been my experience that the problems of international understanding and those of understanding between different culture groups in the United States, are closely related. Solutions possible at the academic level proved ineffective when experimentally applied at the level of everyday personal relations between persons of widely different cultural background. While searching for suitable methods applicable among people with relatively little educational equipment, I became aware of Dr. Rachel Du Bois' imaginative experiments in this field of endeavor. Some of them she has herself described in her books. This article is my impression of one of the more recent ones."

Every once in a while such reminiscences were punctuated with a song or a dance game, and usually they were known by enough of the members who joined in, even though they had learned it in this country from a Russian-born mother or a Danish grandfather.

As soon as the proceedings started, I noticed that eyes lighted up and that what was said called up pleasant associations in every mind. People who an hour earlier might have said, "I dislike Negroes," or "I'm not in the least interested in Estonia," listened because what was said reminded them of their own childhood.

Persons who usually sit at a large gathering like carved Egyptian queens were eager to get up and sing a little tune that had just come back to them or join in the roundelay they remembered so well.

As in any conversation, it took some a little longer than others to catch on, or to make up their minds to take part. When the talk had already turned to Easter cookies, one member was still struggling with the words in which to describe the Kachel-Ofen of her childhood home.

There was no hurrying from point to point, and no attempts to force upon the group anything that was not ready to spring from the memory of a member. Everything was—or at least seemed—spontaneous.

The proceedings were kept under control, yet the speed was noticeably growing; little points cumulatively led to larger and more significant points. And the conversation, in spite of its intimate and personal character, led to a climax: on this occasion a unanimous joining in the singing of a Negro spiritual begun by a member of the group and, following it, of "America."

In short, under skillful conductorship, the "conversation" became a sort of symphony. There was a definite beginning and a definite end; a major theme ran through it, varied and accompanied by minor themes. Each "section," here not strings and brass and concussion instruments, but the native American elements—composed of many different races and cultures—made a harmonious pattern. In this heterogeneous group, evolved out of the diverse strands, the experience will linger long in the mind after the meeting is over. After such an experience, need people wonder just what it is that makes a united America?

What Doctor DuBois appears to have achieved through many years of experimenting is not just a closer application of psychotherapy to group relations, a richer technique for the removal of blind spots in mutual acceptance, or a firmer knowledge of what is involved in social interaction under the specific conditions of American life. There is also a deeper penetration of the meaning to be found in many of the simple facts of that life: its intricate folklore, its twists of historically distorted human relations, its ever-fresh assimilation between old and new, its progress toward an ideal first enunciated in general terms in the eighteenth century.

Over the years, this ideal always has been in danger of corruption through the misunderstanding of such basic concepts as "equality," "loyalty," and "democracy," or through the pressure of an over-anxious demand for conformity with a common standard.

In the performance which I watched, Doctor DuBois' experience and artistry contributed toward a quasi-religious purpose: diversity, even controversy, lost its menace to unity. (Incidentally, she has been equally successful in applying her methods under the totally different circumstances of post-war bitterness and mutual suspicion in Germany.)

From such simple, unsophisticated beginnings any heterogeneous assembly might safely proceed to more exacting exercises, more properly called "group discussions," and often needing the services of subject experts, in coming to grips with the facts and problems of life.

Reprinted from adult leadership march, 1958

Free Trade in Ideas

THE GROUP CONVERSATION METHOD OF RACHEL DAVIS DUBOIS

Ira Eisenstein
Rabbi, Anshe Emet Synagogue, Chicago

Reprinted from

ADULT JEWISH LEADERSHIP

October 1956, Volume 4, Number 1

A PUBLICATION OF THE DEPARTMENT OF ADULT EDUCATION OF THE JEWISH EDUCATION COMMITTEE OF N.

THE GROUP CONVERSATION METHOD OF RACHEL DAVIS DUBOIS

Ira Eisenstein
Rabbi, Anshe Emet Synagogue, Chicago

Nothing is more vital to America's welfare than unity, but the task of uniting a vast population of a large variety of religious faiths and racial and national origins, is a formidable one. Ancient rivalries, inherited prejudices, widespread ignorance all combine to render the attainment of intergroup amity extremely difficult. Anyone, therefore, who contributes to the achievement of unity must be regarded as an invaluable asset in the spiritual economy of the nation. Such a person is Dr. Rachel Davis DuBois.

Dr. DuBois was founder of the Service Bureau for Inter-cultural Education and the Inter-cultural Education Workshop. She is the author of Get Together Americans[1], Build Together Americans[2], and Neighbors in Action[3], and is director of the "Workshop for Cultural Democracy," an educational service organization to increase the understanding and enjoyment of America's rich cultural diversity, and thus foster a more harmonious community life. For twenty years she has labored in this field. Her theories, therefore, while grounded in social psychology and enriched by her own Quaker background, have nevertheless grown out of practical and continuous experience with school and community groups.

Creative Use of the Need to Belong

Her first presupposition is that all Americans are conscious of belonging to some culture or group, and yet of being real Americans. The sub-group need not be of the conventional religious-national-racial type. It may be a regional group, or labor group, or even a minor sect with specific political or economic theories and goals. Dr. DuBois frankly recognizes the widespread character of this awareness of belonging to some sub-group, because she is well acquainted with the human need for recognition, for being affiliated with a group that reflects one's self most accurately, and for having that group possess status and prestige. This awareness on the past of Americans has impelled her to reckon with the situation less as a "problem" -- for no one wants to be considered a problem -- and more potentially creative circumstance. The stress is not on what to do about the Jewish, the "immigrant," the Catholic, or the Negro problem, but on how to create out of this happy richness and variety a more satisfying American culture. Recognition of group awareness, plus the emphasis upon its creative possibilities, stem from her conviction that one of the vital needs of people is recognition and status.

Primacy of Emotions

A second working hypothesis of Dr. DuBois', There is no use in first giving facts about various groups to prejudiced people, because "we do not act according to what we know but according to how we feel about what we know." This hypothesis reveals her understanding of the phenomenon of evasion. She knows how easily people take to rationalizing when it suits their emotional needs. The intellectual side of our nature serves our whole nature; and when there are demanding and insistent needs, our minds bend to their service. One of the major tasks of education is to create the desire to know the truth. Without the will to do, knowledge is helpless.

To carry out what is implied in this hypothesis, Dr. DuBois has resorted to three approaches: "the emotional, or the conscious appeal to the emotions of the students; the situational, or the arranging of situations in which the student would have an opportunity to practice new attitudes; and the intellectual, or the giving of facts to support new attitudes." The primacy given to the emotional approach is deliberate, and leads to the third hypothesis which relates to the first and the second! Emotions are involved to a great extent with "group-egos." A person becomes emotionally disturbed when his group does not receive the recognition he believes it should have. He may become egocentric, proud, and bombastic, and further alienate those he tries to win over; or he may become ashamed of his group, and turn against it, dropping its special values and customs, and striving vainly to imitate some mythical American who, he believes, would not be subjected to the same ordeal as the members of his group. In both instances, the person suffers from the same deficiency; inadequate status for the group of which he feels himself a part, and with whose status he is concerned because it involves his own ego status.

Group Recognition

The fourth hypothesis touches upon the converse of the third: Good can come out of the proper recognition given to groups and their creative possibilities. Dr. DuBois contends that if school and community programs accord social recognition to each cultural group in American life, and give special attention to those in the immediate community, a spirit of creativity will be released which will not only help citizens work together more harmoniously in solving their common problems of living together, but will inspire them to a conscious sharing of their cultural experiences. This means that they will recognize in one another the analogue of each, and since the cultural experience of their neighbors will be seen as fulfilling needs which they feel, it will be possible for them to borrow some of the content and the form of their neighbors' cultural patterns.

Thus occurs the process of "cultural cross-fertilization." If the "pollen" of socially valuable customs is present, creativity can result, especially when it is blown by the "wind" of friendly social interaction. To be able to participate in such creativity is a boon to the ego of any group. Actually to bring about some new synthesis is a source of enrichment of American culture. But most significant of all, the individuals who witness and are part of the process satisfy a profound human need in themselves.

It is important to contrast this with individual recognition, independent of the group, which is sometimes suggested as an antidote to prejudice. When the individual is separated from his group, and recognized for the "personality" that he is, the tendency is to identify him with an exception to the general rule. Social interaction on an individual basis merely invites the prejudiced person to say, "Well, but you are different. You are not like other Jews (or Negroes, or Puerto Ricans, etc.)." The recognition is a "token," the hate for the group continues, the individual who is granted the recognition is exposed to a conflict. He can either reject the recognition in defense of his group, or reject the group for the sake of the recognition. Either course demands a sacrifice, and denies him the satisfaction he needs.

The tendency to accord recognition to the individual and not to the group is, therefore, one of much significance to Dr. DuBois in her work, and constitutes the theme of her fifth hypothesis: We tend to hold on to old attitudes as long as they satisfy any of our desires. A change of attitude toward a Jew (or Negro, etc.) may result from one interesting experience with him, but the value "Jew" is not necessarily affected so long as this value serves a personality need. The major objective, then, must be to change the value.

Common Ground

One way, while helping the individual to become emotionally more mature, is to discourage the use of a particular group as an outlet for hostility. Dr. DuBois' sixth hypothesis: The prejudiced person will tend to change his attitude if he meets a sufficient number of the group he opposes, in face-to-face contact under conditions of mutual group recognition. Dr. DuBois' seventh and final hypothesis, is the culmination of all the others and the crucial point of her theory. To feel emotionally and socially accepted and secure in the midst of differences, it is necessary to realize that underlying all cultural differences there is the basic unity of mankind. Religionists, she says, speak of our being brothers "in Something." This is echoed by the sociologists ("The sympathy between two groups is directly proportional to their consciousness of resemblance.") and the psychologists ("A collective unconscious binds us all together.") To achieve this consciousness of kind--of human kind--is the goal of all her efforts: the sense of sharing in the same nature with all humans, of experiencing the same needs, and deriving the same kind of satisfaction from their fulfillment.

The Balanced Personality

Her list of needs follows the schematic arrangement of W.I. Thomas. She gives "social recognition" primacy, followed by "response," "new experience," and "security." The need for social recognition already discussed, is closely allied with the need for security, for this involves a desire to "belong" in addition to the wish for physical security, employment, freedom from illness and danger.

The wish for new experience reflects the need of people to satisfy their curiosity about their environment, and to participate in various forms of recreation. The wish for response implies a desire for love or fellowship. It involves, of course, friendly relationships with people, but includes also response for animals, places, and such symbols as "God," "country," "humanity." The wish to be part of a cause larger than one's self, which others list as a separate need, Thomas and Dr. DuBois include as part of the desire for response.

"The balanced personality" she says, "is one which is in the dynamic, ever-changing process of having all of these needs of their derivatives satisfied in some way and to some extent. When wishes are unsatisfied, tensions develop, which, if they are too strong, or have to be endured too long, tend finally to develop maladjusted personalities. While in the midst of this frustration, the person will retaliate directly, if possible, against the object o fperson obstructing his wish, or who he thinks is obstructing his wish. If that is not possible, he will find a substitute for his retaliation; this process is sometimes called "scape-goating" and is the cause of much of our racial and religious prejudice. While all of us may have our private likes and dislikes, some psychologists believe that most individuals who show prejudice against whole groups of people are likely to be those who have been greatly frustrated at some time in their lives, perhaps by a parent-child struggle for dominance in early youth. Insofar as this is true, then the fight against such intolerance is more a matter of mental hygiene and healing maladjustments then it is of broadcasting facts about oppressed groups."[5]

Group Conversation

To implement this general approach, Dr. DuBois has created a number of devices used in schools with children and with parents, and at home with both parents and children participating. One of these is the spontaneour group conversation.* Men and women of various backgrounds are brought together and are encouraged to talk freely about their childhood. Specific memories evoked generally relate to experiences common to all peoples; memories, for example, of customs connected with the advent of the seasons, of the smell and taste of special foods connected with the seasons.[6] A typical group conversation, for instance, is based on memories of the coming of autumn. Jews speak of Sukkot; old stock Americans recall Thanksgiving Day many years ago; the Dutch Americans tell of the battle of Leyden and the miracle of the pot of stew; the Czecho-Americans tell of their memories of a joyous

*The earlier description of this group process, "Neighborhood Festival," has now been dropped because the term Festival though technically correct implied to most people a pageant and the wearing of nationality costumes, whereas a group conversation suggests an informal and usually small group of people.

ceremony of drying mushrooms called "Jesus bread." Out of this conversation there develops a sense of kinship, a feeling of the common experience, a realization of the basic sameness that underlies the variations. It provides group recognition. It involves face to face contact. It meets, in fact, many of the requirements set up in the hypotheses.

The Parranda

Another type of group conversation is the Parranda. As developed by Dr. DuBois and her co-workers, this is a series of visits to the homes of the various members of any mixed group, for the purpose of "living," for the moment, in the homes of neighbors who may be culturally different. From two to four homes are selected for an afternoon or evening. In the homes the characteristic creations of the folk are presented and the conversation revolves about the four basic human interests: work, play, love, worship. In Irish-American home, for example, the grandfather may be encouraged to recite a poem in Gaelic, Irish music may be played on the gramaphone, Irish fairy tales may be told, some typical Irish dish may be served. Then the talk runs on to the broader topics. Frequently, at the end of the day, the consensus is: "American families do the same things, but they may do them differently."[7]

Using this home visitation method, a three year Parranda program developed in one of New York City's tension areas under the joint auspices of the school, the Parents Association, and the Workshop for Cultural Democracy.* Each week during that time small groups of seventh grade pupils from social studies classes took turns visiting homes in the community. After partaking of the particular foods and conversing about customs in two homes of differing cultural backgrounds, the students reported their experiences in their school classes. It was out of these experiences that much of the social studies curriculum developed. Sociometric testing showed that prevailing prejudices as revealed in choices of friends had been reduced. A few verbal reactions of the children are significant:

"All schools should have Parrandas. A lot of people in New York City are lonesome. They want to make friends and the Parrandas help people to get along with each other."... "They (the Parrandas) get people together so they feel like relatives."... "People feel they belong to one another and all together."... "We not only see what other people do but we learn to understand them better."

Leadership Training

More recently, to spread the use of group conversation, Dr. DuBois and her assistant, Mew-soong Li, an Hawaiian born American teacher, have been focusing on the training of leaders. In three-day workshops, members of the national staffs of group-work agencies, churches, and other groups, have learned the method, and are using it in the work of their particular organization.

Group Approach to Self-Acceptance

Needless to say, during these more than twenty years of being a practitioner in intergroup relations, Dr. DuBois has kept pace with the findings of research in this psychological age. The theory upon which group conversation has been evolved by her and her co-workers during the last twelve years, reflects not only the sociological concepts of W.I. Thomas and others upon which her original work was based, but upon the more recent findings of the psychotherapists.

One of these is the concept that a healthy self-acceptance precedes the healthy acceptance of others. Thus, group conversation is structured to produce an atmosphere of complete acceptance. It can then increase the communication between persons whose blind spots to individuals from other groups often have roots in childhood experiences. Remembering can actually change a negative factor of the past into a positive factor in the present. The participants come away with new insights on personal motivations and reactions, and with greater tolerance and acceptance of self. This is an important step in the acceptance of variety and difference in others.

*For a detailed report of this project, see Neighbors in Action.

When this kind of self-knowledge is the goal, then instead of recalling seasonal events, the topics will bring out memories of such experiences, the ways in which the participants felt inferior when they were growing up, and the first event which gave them a sense of importance. The response of others reveals the similarity of all in key situations, and helps us see ourselves in perspective. When self-knowledge is the goal, the group can be culturally diverse or homogeneous. It is in this area of helping people, especially teachers and leaders, to acquire through this group approach insights into their own behavior, and thus to become more sensitive in their work with others, that the present exploration of Dr. DuBois and the Workshop is now focussed.

The method, of course, like any method, has its limitations. It is not group therapy, though it has similar characteristics in its atmosphere of acceptance and permissiveness. It does not take the place of, but needs to be related to group discussion, group decision, and group action.

A Unitive Force

Group conversation, centered on the elemental experiences of life, forcefully drives home the commonalty of all groups, and at the same time, establishes a "free trade in ideas" which makes for cross-fertilization and mutual influence. In the Parrandas, by discussing work, play, love and worship, Dr. DuBois makes people aware of the importance of every dimension of living, so that the cultural approach is not limited to arts and leisure time activities. She recognizes religion as an integral part of culture. In doing so, she properly refutes the notion that religion is a private matter, or one concerned solely with beliefs or concepts. In fact, beliefs are not discussed at group conversations. It is on the sectarian level that religion is divisive. On the functional level, by showing how we satisfy our basic needs, (the different ways of saying grace, for instance,) religion can be unitive. Finding our "commonalities" and recognizing but not discussing our differing beliefs points the way to a solution of the problem of religion in our public schools. Group conversation can decrease our interdultural illiteracy and increase intergroup confidence to such an extent that our "cold war" can be won on the domestic front.

REFERENCES

1. Harper & Bros., New York, 1943 2. Hinds, Hayden & Eldredge, Inc., New York, 1945

3. Harper & Bros., New York, 1950 4. Build Together, p. 55 5. Get Together, pp. 105 ff. See also Neighbors in Action 233 ff. 6. Ibid., Ch. 2 7. See Neighbors in Action, Chs. 3 & 4

May 12, 1959

Mr. & Mrs. Courtney Siceloff
Penn Community Services, Inc.
St. Helena's Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney & Elizabeth:

Many thanks for all your courtesies during my brief visit. I was tremendously impressed by Penn Community Center - the plant, spirit, and excellent work being done there.

If and when the least excuse presents itself, I shall be back.

Sincerely,

Paul Anthony
Administrative Assistant

PA/mf

September 18, 1959

Mrs. Norman Richards
Penn Community Services, Inc.
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Elsie:

Thank you for your letter of September 14, concerning our recent publication. We are mailing you the requested copies under separate cover.

Bill and I remember pleasantly our stay with you and Norman this summer and hope to see you again sometime this fall.

I am also mailing a copy of the voting study to Bob Filene.

With best wishes.

Sincerely,

John Constable
Director of Information

JC:lec

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED
ST. HELENA ISLAND
FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

COURTNEY SICELOFF
Director

September 14, 1959

John Constable
Southern Regional Council
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear John,

Could we receive 5 copies of the recent report on Negro voting? One of our work-campers as well would like one. He is

Bob Filene
330 E. 43 St.
New York, N.Y.

Sincerely,

Elsie Richardo

September 22, 1959

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Executive Director
Penn Community Services, Inc.
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

It is good to have this excuse to renew contact with you. I hope that we can confer together fairly soon in person about South Carolina and ways in which our operation could be of greater service.

During a recent interagency meeting here in Atlanta, Mrs. Spearman brought up some very challenging ideas calling for a major project in the field of adult education and citizenship which would be aimed primarily at indigenous Negro leadership in world, neglected areas of such deep South states as South Carolina. We have been searching here for effective approaches to this aspect of the Southern scene and feel that Alice's ideas have real possibilities.

The plan would call for an approach to a foundation for a rather considerable sum to staff and finance some such effort. The ideas were obviously drawn from the experience of conferences held during the past year at the Penn Center and also from work done out of Highlander Folk School on some of the off-coast islands. In order to get the effort underway, I would suggest as a first step that you and Mrs. Spearman confer, drawing on this experience, and prepare a sort of first draft of such a program; spelling out the type of educational activities that might be feasible, the kind of staff person or persons that would be required, the areas in which such activities could be carried on, etc. The whole thing needs to be boiled down and made concrete. If you feel this type of procedure useful, after you and Alice have done the first spadework perhaps the two of you could come to Atlanta and meet with some of us on the SRC staff to further refine the approach, consider foundation strategy, etc.

If such an idea is at all practical, some agency would have to serve as the administering agency and make the foundation approach, etc. It is possible that some agency like the Penn Center would be best suited to this kind of effort.

At any rate, let me know your thinking and let's see if we can get something moving in this direction.

Sincerely,

Paul M. Rilling
Director of Field Activities

PMR/mf

September 29, 1959

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Executive Director
Penn Community Services, Inc.
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

The Southern Interagency Conference discussed, as planned, the idea of holding a future meeting at Penn. All agreed it would be desirable to do so, and in light of your letter it was decided to plan on having the spring meeting there.

This meeting will be held in April and the group is hopeful that it will be satisfactory with you if definite dates can be set at the winter meeting which will be held during January.

There are usually twenty to twenty-five persons at the meetings, though the inducements of Frogmore in the spring may raise this number somewhat. Normally, we meet from 2:00 p.m. on one day until noon of the next. For this meeting however, it is likely that the group will give serious consideration to holding a longer meeting.

If all of this is satisfactory with you, I will get further information from you before the January meeting; including any dates which are not acceptable to Penn.

I think the meeting at Penn is going to have a good effect on the interagency effort and am pleased that they have shown the wisdom to follow our advice!

Best to you and the family.

Sincerely,

Paul Anthony
Administrative Assistant

PA/mf

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

MARION A. WRIGHT
CHAIRMAN
LINVILLE FALLS, N. C.

WILLIAM E. CADBURY
VICE-CHAIRMAN
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

CORNELIUS A. WOOD, JR.
SECRETARY
1018 DUPONT CIRCLE BLDG.
WASHINGTON 6, D. C.

GEORGE H. AULL
CLEMSON, S. C.

B. TARTT BELL
GUILFORD, N. C.

PAUL W. BROWN, JR.
PHILADELPHIA

MISS ISABELLA CURTIS
MANCHESTER, MASS.

JAMES MCBRIDE DABBS
MAYESVILLE, S. C.

HAROLD EVANS
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

JOHN W. HARDY
BEAUFORT, S. C.

MISS GRACE HOUSE
ORIENT
LONG ISLAND, N. Y.

EDWARD N. JENKS
NEW YORK, N. Y.

MRS. HORACE H. JENKS
WILTON, CONN.

MRS. JAMES L. MCCONAUGHY
HARTFORD, CONN.

ROBERT K. MOONEY
WEST HARTFORD, CONN.

IRA DE A. REID
HAVERFORD, PA.

MRS. EDWARD G. SANDERS
ST. HELENA ISLAND, S. C.

A. M. SECREST
CHERAW, S. C.

JOHN A. SILVER
PIPERSVILLE, PA.

W. E. SOLOMON
COLUMBIA, S. C.

MRS. EUGENE SPEARMAN
COLUMBIA, S. C.

JOSEPH WRIGHT
BEAUFORT, S. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

MRS. Y. W. BAILEY
ST. HELENA ISLAND, S. C.

GEORGE A. BUCHANAN, JR.
COLUMBIA, S. C.

FRANCIS R. COPE, JR.
DIMOCK, PA.

MRS. RUBY P. CORNWELL
CHARLESTON, S. C.

MISS WIL LOU GRAY
COLUMBIA, S. C.

CAREY E. HAIGLER
CHARLOTTE, N. C.

MRS. GRACE T. HAMILTON
ATLANTA, GA.

MISS LEILA JOHNSON
MURRELL'S INLET, S. C.

DR. BENJAMIN E. MAYS
ATLANTA, GA.

DR. O. R. REUBEN
SUMTER, S. C.

FREDERICK B. ROUTH
ATLANTA, GA.

MRS. WILLIAM W. SMITH
POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.

October 20, 1959

Paul Anthony
Southern Regional Council
Room 432, 63 Auburn Avenue NE
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Paul,

We are quite delighted that the interagency conference will be meeting here in April. I am glad that we will have several months to clear up some of the debris lying around from the hurricane before the conference.

There will probably be a team from American Friends Service Committee staying at Penn and helping Islanders repair their homes. Thus we expect to stay rather busy the next several months, working with them and repairing our own damage.

Best regards,

Courtney

Courtney Siceloff

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES

Frogmore, St. Helena Island,

South Carolina

October 26, 1959

Dear friends,

Now that the rush of emergency has been replaced by the big and tedious job of cleaning up in the wake of Hurricane Gracie, we can take time out to send this newsletter to those of you who may be wondering about our welfare.

On Tuesday, September 29, the hurricane came in from the ocean and centered through St. Helena Island, leaving this the most heavily damaged area in its path. That morning before the storm reached its height, the Richards' left their waterfront home and went to the Siceloffs at Hampton House, a sturdier and higher shelter. Shortly afterward the electricity went out and the first tree came down across the highway. The next three hours were an unimaginable holocaust as trees cracked and fell all around us, shutters banged and broke, and pieces of debris blew by.

Later in the afternoon when the wind slowed down, Courtney Siceloff and Norman Richards set out into the jungle of fallen branches to see about the welfare of our neighbors, then walked to the St. Helena School where 300 - 400 evacuees were sheltered. We were comforted to learn that there were remarkably few casualties (one man killed when struck by flying debris), although no home on the island was left undamaged. All communication was cut off beyond places we could reach by walking. Darkness came early and brought with it a great sense of our powerlessness to aid the crowded and wet people in the school and in isolated homes. We could not even offer drinking water, since a tree uprooting had broken a pipe and emptied Penn's 50,000 gallon storage water supply.

The next few days dawned clear and uncomfortably hot for the hard cleanup job ahead. On Wednesday Norman, with the help of neighbors, succeeded in cutting a single car lane out to the main highway, and on Thursday the other lane was cleared by the National Guard. About Friday the first electric crew appeared on the island. During the next week a tremendous amount of rehabilitation was accomplished, getting electricity to Penn ten days after the storm.

Most of Penn's buildings came through the storm well by comparison with other island dwellings. Roof damage was extensive, leading to interior water damage. (The damages to buildings are partially covered by insurance). Our neighboring Brick Church lost its entire roof. The beautiful old trees, for which Penn was noted, were badly wrecked. The Army, Marines and County Highway Department gave considerable aid with their large trucks and cranes so that we could soon drive about the campus, and this week a lumber buyer's crew removed additional damaged trees. The money from the sale of lumber will pay for much of the cleaning up of the campus if Penn staff does the labor-- meaning that the normal maintenance of Penn would be neglected for awhile.

Red Cross temporary headquarters for the island have been set up in our Frissell Community Building. The Red Cross workers immediately distributed food, mattresses and bedding to replace the water-soaked ones. After a person applies and his immediate needs are investigated, purchase orders are given to him which he can redeem at local stores for new clothing, food, and building materials.

More people than usual come to buy low-priced used clothing at our Sales House. Men's and children's articles are in very short supply there now. In most instances where aid is granted, the Red Cross supplies building materials to restore pre-storm living conditions; the owner is expected to make his own repairs. However, in a few situations where there is no male relative, labor is contracted for.

It is to help with the labor needs that a small work team, sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee, will be coming down to St. Helena at the end of this month to stay until (or through) Thanksgiving. These men of both races will be based at Penn and will try to give as much encouragement as they can, though the labor they give will be small compared to the need. We are now writing to ten Southern colleges to ask if some students will work for a weekend along with the Quaker group. In this situation of sudden need, the presence of these volunteers may help people to forget their superficial differences - may help them to know one another as they really are.

Our conference program will go on as before with a state-wide meeting on Merit Employment scheduled for October 31. The letter we mailed to 1000 South Carolinians asked "How many Negroes in your community, aside from teachers and ministers, are holding skilled jobs? Why do over 50% of Negro college graduates, including teachers, leave South Carolina for work in other states?" The conference will be a "do-it-yourself" program to plan action in local communities - working out methods for approaching employers, locating and encouraging Negro young people to apply and train for jobs not usually open to Negroes, and learning what support is available from the Federal Government.

For many of us,"Gracie" pulled us up short from our thoughtless busyness of everyday, and once more challenged us with the perennial question of what is of value in life. The day before, we were preoccupied with things that were largely to be undone by the storm; on the day after, we chatted casually with a good friend and leading citizen of St. Helena, M. T. Wildy, who was killed the next day in an auto accident. "Seek ye first..." was the answer so persistently whispered to us throughout these experiences.

Sincerely,

Staff of Penn Community Services

December 16, 1959

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Penn Community Services, Inc.
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

You will see from the enclosed minutes of the action of the Southern Interagency Conference concerning the spring meeting at Penn. The specific date for the meeting will be set at the January meeting. Perhaps for this reason as well as the general meeting you might want to be present. We would enjoy having you. Therefore, hope you can be here on January 19 - 20. If you cannot come, would you send me any dates on which Penn could not have the group.

Wright Baker of the American Council on Education tells me that Penn has agreed to have Mr. Taffete during the holidays. Hope this is not an imposition. Certainly the Committee on Leaders and Specialists and the State Department should know of Penn for the foreign visitor circuit.

Best wishes of the season to you and the family.

Sincerely,

Paul Anthony
Administrative Assistant

PA/mf

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

MARION A. WRIGHT
CHAIRMAN
LINVILLE FALLS, N. C.

WILLIAM E. CADBURY
VICE-CHAIRMAN
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

CORNELIUS A. WOOD, JR.
SECRETARY
1018 DUPONT CIRCLE BLDG.
WASHINGTON 6, D. C.

GEORGE H. AULL
CLEMSON, S. C.

B. TARTT BELL
GUILFORD, N. C.

PAUL W. BROWN, JR.
PHILADELPHIA

MISS ISABELLA CURTIS
MANCHESTER, MASS.

JAMES MCBRIDE DABBS
MAYESVILLE, S. C.

HAROLD EVANS
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

JOHN W. HARDY
BEAUFORT, S. C.

MISS GRACE HOUSE
ORIENT
LONG ISLAND, N. Y.

EDWARD N. JENKS
NEW YORK, N. Y.

MRS. HORACE H. JENKS
WILTON, CONN.

MRS. JAMES L. MCCONAUGHY
HARTFORD, CONN.

ROBERT K. MOONEY
WEST HARTFORD, CONN.

IRA DE A. REID
HAVERFORD, PA.

MRS. EDWARD G. SANDERS
ST. HELENA ISLAND, S. C.

A. M. SECREST
CHERAW, S. C.

JOHN A. SILVER
PIPERSVILLE, PA.

W. E. SOLOMON
COLUMBIA, S. C.

MRS. EUGENE SPEARMAN
COLUMBIA, S. C.

JOSEPH WRIGHT
BEAUFORT, S. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

MRS. Y. W. BAILEY
ST. HELENA ISLAND, S. C.

GEORGE A. BUCHANAN, JR.
COLUMBIA, S. C.

FRANCIS R. COPE, JR.
DIMOCK, PA.

MRS. RUBY P. CORNWELL
CHARLESTON, S. C.

MISS WIL LOU GRAY
COLUMBIA, S. C.

CAREY E. HAIGLER
CHARLOTTE, N. C.

MRS. GRACE T. HAMILTON
ATLANTA, GA.

MISS LEILA JOHNSON
MURRELL'S INLET, S. C.

DR. BENJAMIN E. MAYS
ATLANTA, GA.

DR. O. R. REUBEN
SUMTER, S. C.

FREDERICK B. ROUTH
ATLANTA, GA.

MRS. WILLIAM W. SMITH
POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.

December 30, 1959

Mr. Harold Fleming
Room 432, 63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Harold:

Can you give me the full name and address of Mr. Sifton, the labor man, whose office, I believe, is in Washington?

I am thinking of putting before him Penn's proposal in the drafting of which you recently had a hand.

If you have any suggestions as to a diplomatic approach to Mr. Sifton, I should be very glad to receive them.

Thanks and best regards.

Yours sincerely,

M. A. W.

Marion A. Wright

MAW:jc

cc Courtney Siceloff

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INC.

St. Helena Island Frogmore, South Carolina

January 26, 1960

Dear Friend:

Enclosed is a copy of an outline of the proposed study of rural areas which I discussed at the Inter-agency meeting in Atlanta on January 20. You will recall that it was suggested that a written summary be sent around to members for further scrutiny. I believe it was felt that those representatives who thought that their agencies might be interested in this project might wish to refer it to the appropriate department of their agency for consideration.

We will be glad to have your comments or suggestions.

Sincerely yours,

Courtney Siceloff

Courtney Siceloff

Enclosure

cs/es

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INC.

St. Helena Island Frogmore, South Carolina

PROPOSAL FOR STUDY OF SMALL-TOWN AND RURAL AREAS OF SOUTH CAROLINA

Penn Community Services, Inc., offers the following proposal to enable it to perform a unique service in the field of human relations in the South. Penn seeks to secure a definitive study of the inequalities of opportunity between races and the causes of resistance to change in the rural areas of the South. It would search out also the tactics to be employed in overcoming such resistance, and the most effective roles of existing agencies and groups throughout the region.

Since the Supreme Court decision in 1954 set the stage for a "break-through" in the field of human relations, the efforts of most agencies in the South have been largely in the area of implementing this and subsequent decisions relating to schools and public facilities. Desegregation in the South has taken place largely in border states and in urban areas.

The rural and small-town areas of the deep South have been necessarily neglected. Here there exist the greatest gaps between Negro and white citizens in the enjoyment of the rights of citizenship. Perhaps more crucial now than school desegragation in these communities is the obtaining of basic civil rights. It is entirely possible that southern opposition might not be so unyielding in some such areas as medical and hospital services; private and public employment; libraries, transportation, voter registration, judicial procedures, public and private housing. It is possible, also, that successes in such areas would favorably affect the effort to secure acceptance of the school decrees.

Method

To secure the best possible advice and direction on the points of immediate and long-range goals in the field of racial discrimination, Penn proposes to bring together at its campus specialists in the field of human relations who combine professional skills with practical experience in the rural South. The group would list the areas most and least likely to yield results and propose priorities of effort. It would also suggest methods and techniques to be employed, and define the role of such agencies as human relations organizations, extension services, the church and the press.

The geographical area involved in the study would be the state of South Carolina, which is typical of the "hard-core" states. These states are still largely rural and small-town areas with a relatively large Negro population. The economic and cultural status of such states bears striking similarity to each other. They face common problems which might have common solutions. Obviously, such a study of one state would be more thorough and definitive than a more generalized study of all the "hard-core" states.

In undertaking this work the group of specialists would gather once, and perhaps twice, at Penn Center. Together with the Southern Regional Council, the Penn staff would provide documents and materials in preparation for the study.

Penn Center is peculiarly suited for this role. For almost a century, it has been active in the field of community-centered education for Negroes on the South Carolina coast. In recent years it has provided conference facilities for varied groups of both races, and it has initiated an educational program concerned with human relations and civil rights in South Carolina. The secluded campus permits concentration with little outside interference.

The findings of this working party could have far-reaching results. The conclusions arrived at would be printed in pamphlet form and given appropriate distribution. Interested local organizations and communities could use this guide; agencies working in the area of human relations would be enabled to evaluate their own programs and plan future action; foundations and individuals might use this study as reference for securing the wisest possible use of their resources.

Penn Community Services itself is one agency that would be prepared to implement at once the findings of this survey. Penn could initiate conferences of groups whose roles are forecast in the study, so that specific recommendations could be considered and acted upon.

Courtney Siceloff, Director

P. R.
fyi please return mf.

January 28, 1960

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Penn Community Services, Inc.
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

Your memorandum to the interagency list was not only prompt but very well done -- a marked improvement over the original request, if I may say so.

I suppose it is unnecessary for me to assure y ou that, if the conference is not subsidized, you may count on SRC's participation and cooperation under its own steam.

Cordially,

Harold C. Fleming
Executive Director

HCF/mf

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INC.

St. Helena Island Frogmore, South Carolina

January 26, 1960

Dear Friend:

Enclosed is a copy of an outline of the proposed study of rural areas which I discussed at the Inter-agency meeting in Atlanta on January 20. You will recall that it was suggested that a written summary be sent around to members for further scrutiny. I believe it was felt that those representatives who thought that their agencies might be interested in this project might wish to refer it to the appropriate department of their agency for consideration.

We will be glad to have your comments or suggestions.

Sincerely yours,

Courtney Siceloff

Courtney Siceloff

Enclosure

cs/es

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INC.

St. Helena Island Frogmore, South Carolina

PROPOSAL FOR STUDY OF SMALL-TOWN AND RURAL AREAS OF SOUTH CAROLINA

Penn Community Services, Inc., offers the following proposal to enable it to perform a unique service in the field of human relations in the South. Penn seeks to secure a definitive study of the inequalities of opportunity between races and the causes of resistance to change in the rural areas of the South. It would search out also the tactics to be employed in overcoming such resistance, and the most effective roles of existing agencies and groups throughout the region.

Since the Supreme Court decision in 1954 set the stage for a "break-through" in the field of human relations, the efforts of most agencies in the South have been largely in the area of implementing this and subsequent decisions relating to schools and public facilities. Desegregation in the South has taken place largely in border states and in urban areas.

The rural and small-town areas of the deep South have been necessarily neglected. Here there exist the greatest gaps between Negro and white citizens in the enjoyment of the rights of citizenship. Perhaps more crucial now than school desegragation in these communities is the obtaining of basic civil rights. It is entirely possible that southern opposition might not be so unyielding in some such areas as medical and hospital services; private and public employment; libraries, transportation, voter registration, judicial procedures, public and private housing. It is possible, also, that successes in such areas would favorably affect the effort to secure acceptance of the school decrees.

Method

To secure the best possible advice and direction on the points of immediate and long-range goals in the field of racial discrimination, Penn proposes to bring together at its campus specialists in the field of human relations who combine professional skills with practical experience in the rural South. The group would list the areas most and least likely to yield results and propose priorities of effort. It would also suggest methods and techniques to be employed, and define the role of such agencies as human relations organizations, extension services, the church and the press.

The geographical area involved in the study would be the state of South Carolina, which is typical of the "hard-core" states. These states are still largely rural and small-town areas with a relatively large Negro population. The economic and cultural status of such states bears striking similarity to each other. They face common problems which might have common solutions. Obviously, such a study of one state would be more thorough and definitive than a more generalized study of all the "hard-core" states.

In undertaking this work the group of specialists would gather once, and perhaps twice, at Penn Center. Together with the Southern Regional Council, the Penn staff would provide documents and materials in preparation for the study.

Penn Center is peculiarly suited for this role. For almost a century, it has been active in the field of community-centered education for Negroes on the South Carolina coast. In recent years it has provided conference facilities for varied groups of both races, and it has initiated an educational program concerned with human relations and civil rights in South Carolina. The secluded campus permits concentration with little outside interference.

The findings of this working party could have far-reaching results. The conclusions arrived at would be printed in pamphlet form and given appropriate distribution. Interested local organizations and communities could use this guide; agencies working in the area of human relations would be enabled to evaluate their own programs and plan future action; foundations and individuals might use this study as reference for securing the wisest possible use of their resources.

Penn Community Services itself is one agency that would be prepared to implement at once the findings of this survey. Penn could initiate conferences of groups whose roles are forecast in the study, so that specific recommendations could be considered and acted upon.

Courtney Siceloff, Director

Frogmore SC
February 15,
1960

Dear Harold -

I felt you shouldn't miss the enclosed. Maybe your office specs have seen it already.

What attractive people you have there - and so young looking. A stint there should age them in no time.

Will be visiting Jamie soon re beach. Meanwhile I am

yours

Elizabeth; that is -
Libby

...ould slaug...
...hedy as it slaughtered Smith... not because of his religion. He is identified with Yankee "integra-

...
third time.

Letters To The Editor

Poetry Readings

(By Telegraph)

To The News and Courier:

Please tell your readers, especially poetry enthusiasts, to come to the Hudson Theater immediately to see and hear the diaries and poems of Edna St. Vincent Millay read aloud and acted with restrained emotion by Dorothy Stickney. It is uniquely moving and beautiful.

HELEN M. RAINSFORD
177 Hale Ave.,
White Plains, N.Y.

N. & Charleston 2/13/60

Cry For Help

To The News and Courier:

If, perchance, I were a Confederate soldier, recently resurrected, I would look around me and stare in wide-eyed astonishment at my beloved South. "My! How she has changed!" I would say.

Suddenly I would spy a copy of The Atlanta Constitution, turn eagerly to the editorial page. And then I would cry : "Oh, Lord! What has happened to my South?" I would moan, brushing away the tears that I might search with unblurred vision some familiar sight, some sign to tell me: "Yes, Johnny you are still in the South."

Suddenly, my heart would leap. For there, there it is — a copy of The News and Courier of Charleston! "The flame of righteousness has not died, it lives!" I would say, and I would turn with trembling fingers to the editorial page, and "Yes- Yes! It's true- There is still a South" I would exclaim.

Good Lord, Mr. Editor Come thou into our sorrowing land and brng The News and Courier with you to compete with this odious integration sheet, known as The Atlanta Constitution. Our famished souls cry out for truth, hope and courage that we may sustain ourselves in these evil times.

Establishment here of the Atlanta branch of The News and Courier would do incalculable good for our cause — and yours.

ROBERT. B. THURMAN
P. O. B.21 Station E, Atlanta.

Quizzing Candidates

To The News and Courier:

I am wondering just how many people in your state have written to these presidential hopefuls, asking them how they stand on different subjects, such as communism, discrimination, immigration (the McCarran - Walter bill), human welfare, human rights and repeal of the Connally amendment which would give all power to a U. N. World Court.

In a packet of literature from Sen. Symington, I find that he is for more aid to education, human welfare, human rights—in 1954, proposed legislation to outlaw the Communist Party; voted FOR "Civil Rights" all down the line; in 83rd Congress voted for issuance of special visas to certain refugees, escapees, expellees; was the FIRST to integrate the Armed Forces when Harry was President.

The packet from Sen. Humphrey contains about the same, only he tries to whitewash the World Court idea (S-R 94.) These so-called students of Aristotle want to transfer the exclusive right of determination to the World Court, hopefully suggesting that the court wouldn't be likely to assert jurisdiction in purely domestic matters. This is wishful thinking.

As for me, whether the chief judge of the World Court were Orval Faubus or Jim Johnston, he still would not be competent to tell the people of the rest of the world what to do.

EMMETTA GERMAINE
Oxford, Ark.

Backward Glances

...ows our grandfath... ...ead
New...

ning prayer and a short add...
at 5 o'clock.

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

Discussed w/ Siceloff
2/22/60

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

February 18, 1960

Mr. Harold Fleming
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue, NE
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Harold:

I have just received the scare letter you sent around to the Executive Committee of the SRC Board about the income tax people. Marion Wright has underlined quite a number of points as applying to Penn. If you have an extra copy of this memorandum, it would be helpful for us to have it, so that this could be considered at our next Board meeting. It all looks rather ominous.

See you on Monday.

Sincerely yours,

Courtney
ES

Courtney Siceloff

cs/es

Courtney is at the second meeting of the S.C. Civil Rights Advisory Committee today - trying to collect some unfavorable publicity.
E.

February 25, 1960

Mr. Vernon Eagle
New World Foundation
475 Riverside Drive
New York, New York

Dear Vernon Eagle:

This week Paul Rilling, Harold Fleming and I worked out the enclosed tentative agenda for the proposed study of rural South Carolina. Paul Rilling, who has had much experience, has agreed to assume leadership of the group of consultants.

We have expanded the group of consultants to include a number from South Carolina. These include: executive secretary of the State Library Board; Negro lawyer; a school superintendent; executive for the Negro teachers' association; a county agent; and James Dabbs. This group should greatly strengthen the consultant committee.

We of course will have to give a choice of dates to the consultants for their first meeting. We agreed on two alternative dates: April 22-24, and May 6-8. Since this is a very short time in relation to the busy schedules of the persons involved, it would be helpful to have confirmation of the grant of $3,000 from the New World Foundation at the earliest possible moment. Upon receipt of such confirmation, we could then proceed at once to issue invitations to the consultants.

A number of resource materials have been collected and will be made available to each consultant prior to the session at Penn. Maps and graphs will be displayed when the group assembles.

By a fortunate coincidence, Ben Segal, educational director of the IUE, was in the office of the Southern Regional Council, and sat in on the planning sessions for agenda and personnel of this study.

Let us know if you need any further information from us.

Sincerely yours,

Courtney Siceloff

cs/es

cc: Paul Rilling
Harold Fleming
Marion A. Wright

Thanks for all the help — of all the SRC staff. Enjoyed seeing you + family!

WORKING GROUP ON STATUS OF RURAL SOUTH CAROLINA AND SUGGESTIONS FOR REALIZING ITS POTENTIALITIES

Friday evening:

Introductions with biographical information

Brief statement on Penn

Background material and statistics on South Carolina--explanation of maps, graphs, etc.

Procedures for discussion, definition of terms, relation of study to other Southern rural areas

SATURDAY: (Sessions 9:00 - 12:00; 1:30 - 4:30; 8:00 - 10:00; Sunday 9:00 - 12:00)

I. WHAT IS THE STATUS OF RURAL LIFE IN S. C.

For Whites

For Negroes

WHAT ARE THE MAJOR MANIFESTATIONS OF IT

Legislative power educational and cultural levels personal freedom of thought and action services--public and private--available or denied to Whites, to Negroes economic opportunities and limitations migration to city and out-of-state

WHAT ARE DETERRENTS TO CHANGE

Political and economic leadership

Lack of trained Negro leaders

Conformity to status quo

II. WHAT ACTION CAN BE UNDERTAKEN TO WORKING OUT SOLUTIONS TO PROBLEMS

1. How to raise economic, educational, health opportunities of Negroes

2. How stimulate leadership and participation by Negroes on community affairs

3. How involve white persons in program and meeting the emerging realities of 20th century

III. WHAT RESOURCES ARE AVAILABLE TO WORKING OUT SOLUTION AND HOW UTILIZE THEM

Indigenous

Negro

White

Outside

IV. WHAT PRIORITIES SHOULD BE ESTABLISHED
Differences in communities in state should be taken into account

V. SPECIFIC NEXT STEPS

Who will do what and when, in terms of priorities established

Distribution of findings

February 26, 1960

Mr. Paul Rilling
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue N. E.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Paul:

I certainly appreciate your help in working out the plans for the study this week, and particularly your accepting leadership of the group. Incidentally, I would appreciate having a brief biographical note on you, so that when I send out invitations I can indicate your vast experience as head of discussion groups. Please don't be modest when making this out.

The term "rural" is customarily defined by the Census Bureau as villages of 2,500 or less. In driving back from Atlanta through a good part of South Carolina, particularly these small hamlets, I realized what a very limiting factor we would be getting involved in, if we planned our work with rural areas and hamlets of 2500 or less. I believe our main idea in this proposal was the thought that so much attention had been given to the urban areas, that something likewise needs to be done in non-urban areas. Therefore, I would like to get your reaction as to setting our own definition for "non-urban" (probably using this term rather than rural).

Perhaps we could use the figures of towns under 10,000. I believe it would be in these smaller towns that we could expect to see more results and, of course, be concerned as well with what is being done and needs to be done in rural areas.

I hope when you have had time to recover from your Florida trip that you will be able to consider again the agenda, and suggest any further revisions you think necessary. I hope that we can get an answer soon from the Foundations, and then send out invitations to the participants.

I learned from Alice Spearman on last Wednesday that invitations had been sent out to a much larger group than the Board, with the expectation that you would be outlining what has been done in Virginia and the possibilities of South Carolina from your vantage point as director of field activities. While I feel it would have been better to have had the Board meeting, invitations had already gone out. We will be glad to hear from you. Perhaps Alice will be writing you concerning what she expects at that time.

Incidentally, I overheard Mr. Solomon saying that the Greenville Council would like for you to meet with it, either as a Council, or with the officers. However, Alice Spearman felt your visit to Clarendon County would be much more informative. If you are interested in getting an idea of what Council work is doing, perhaps it would be well to include the Greenville trip.

I will look forward to seeing you on March 6 in Columbia.

With best regards,

Sincerely yours,

Courtney Siceloff

cs/es

cc: Harold Fleming
Marion A. Wright

March 8, 1960

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Penn Community Services, Inc.
St. Helena's Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

Enclosed you will see the memo sent today to the interagency group. You will note I have asked that the form be sent directly to you, with information on attendance also sent to me. Perhaps every two weeks or so we should compare notes. Enclosed are labels for all persons to whom the memo has been sent.

In a few of the letters I am inserting notes urging people to get with others to arrange the trip. Hope in this pressure will be reduced on transportation to a manageable degree.

Keep me informed and feel free to dump any problems in my lap.

On the matter of information on internal revenue regulations, our attorney has all of our information, though we have secured nothing new since you were here. If possible, I will send you copies of what we do have before April. However, the memo prepared by Harold is a good digest of all we know with some important interpretation included. The most important things for organizations with tax exemption at this time seems to be: (1) strict avoidance of any possible activity which could be deemed as political in nature; (2) an emphasis, especially in reporting, on the educational aspects of the operation; and, (3) strict and thorough accounting of all financial matters. While I have absolutely no authority or knowledge on which to base the opinion, I would say that Penn with its community education programs, nursery, conferences, and adult education work is well in the clear.

As to information on the board, we have found that a simple mimeographed one-page form on each member is especially helpful. Form includes; name, home and business addresses with telephone for each, with the remainder of the space for biographical data. In making foundation requests we very often include a list of the board, especially to a foundation not familiar with SRC. List does not include biographical data except to indicate position or activity of each member. Thus, Dr. Clement is identified as President of Atlanta University, Hodding Carter as Editor of Delta-Democrat Times, etc. In doing this, however, it is wise to indicate in a footnote that position or place of employment is for the purpose of identification only and does not imply endorsement of Penn by other than the individual listed.

Don't worry about being sensitive about calling on SRC; if you do good we'll take all the credit, if you don't, we won't bother to mention that we tried to help!

Best to Elizabeth and the family.

Sincerely,

Paul Anthony
Executive Assistant

PA/mf
Enclosures

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

March 2, 1960

Mr. Paul Anthony
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue NE
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Paul:

I believe you indicated when I was in Atlanta last week that you could run off further information on internal revenue regulations concerning non-profit organizations. Harold gave me the mimeographed sheet that went out to the Executive Committee, so you don't have to include that part of it. This is a topic that is to come up at our Board meeting in April, and of course we would like to have as much information on it as possible.

Since SRC always seems to have the perfect way of meeting situations, we call on you again for a sample form sent out to Board members for securing biographical information. We do not now have this. From what I have gathered, you often send in such material on your Board members when making applications to Foundations. It would be helpful to know what sort of information you ask of them.

I think several of us are becoming very sensitive about mentioning SRC now around Penn, since our organization is becoming increasingly heavy with SRC personnel and/or Board members. Whenever any problem comes up, the first remark is, "Well, SRC does it this way." It makes many people think that we are merely an adjunct of that organization, which is not far from wrong.

With best regards,

Sincerely yours,

Courtney Siceloff

cs/es

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED
ST. HELENA ISLAND
FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

March 1, 1960

Mr. Paul Anthony
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Paul:

The enclosed is information you may want to include on the notice going out to the membership of the Inter-Agency Conference. There still may be some questions; feel free to raise them in case I have not covered it. I am also including a tentative form which would give us the sort of information I think we will need. Feel free to revise it, in any way you see fit. You may want to add other blanks for information that you would need.

I believe we have indicated at the last meeting that the spouses would be invited, or at least welcome. There is a place on the blank for filling this in.

I believe also that you were going to send a list of names to whom this mailing is going, so that we can also send out brochures of Penn and attractions of the area.

I appreciate very much your handling this matter. Let me know if you need further information.

With best regards,

Sincerely yours,

Courtney Siceloff

cs/es
enclosure

P.S. On the tentative form for indicating time of arrival, etc., the "NOTE TO PARTICIPANTS" should be at the top probably, if it is included. We added this with the thought that they might not have final plans made now, but could return the form without delay anyway. Please change this in any way. CS

Dr. 3-5579

Southern Conference

INFORMATION FOR INTER-AGENCY MEETING

April 1960

Train

Atlantic Coast Line; station closest to Beaufort, Yemassee, S. C., but no direct bus service from Yemassee to Beaufort. Stops also in Charleston and Savannah, with bus service to Beaufort. (Beaufort is 7 miles from Frogmore.)

Air Lines

National, Delta, and Eastern Air Lines serve Charleston and Savannah. Savannah airport is approximately 55 miles from Penn; Charleston airport is 75 miles from Penn. Charleston has more frequent air service.

Transportation from Charleston and Savannah

Direct bus service from Charleston and Savannah to Beaufort. Leaves Charleston 9:20 A.M., 12:01 noon, 7:15 P.M. Each trip takes 1 hour and forty minutes.*

From Savannah, leaves 8:55 A.M., 12:40 Noon. Trip takes one hour.*

Taxi from Beaufort to Penn, $2 to $2.50 per trip.

Penn can arrange to meet attenders at Savannah or Charleston airports or Yemassee station (microbus can carry seven passengers): From Yemassee, $6.00; from Savannah, $10; from Charleston, $13 (per trip)

Address and Telephone

For mail: Penn Community Services
Frogmore, S.C.

Telephone: JAckson 4-4337 (Beaufort exchange)

Cost

The cost will be $10, which will include meals and overnight. lodging
(This is figured from Thursday noon through Saturday breakfast. I believe we talked about this earlier -- that we would make a flat charge, regardless of whether someone misses one meal or leaves early before the meeting is over. Since it breaks up at 5 P.M., I should imagine most people will be staying over on Friday night, though a few may leave immediately. If you care to include this information, fine; if not, okay as well.)

* NOTE: This is a current schedule marked January 5, 1960. Persons expecting to rely on buses should check schedule before leaving.

SOUTHERN INTER-AGENCY CONFERENCE

Penn Community Services
Frogmore, South Carolina

April 21-22, 1960

I expect to go to Frogmore via ( ) train

( ) plane

( ) car

I will need to be met ( ) at _____ (place)

at _____ _____.
(date) (hour)

I expect to arrive at approximately _____ (A.M. -- P.M.)
(hour)

on _____ date

I expect to leave on _____ date

at approximately _____ (A.M. -- P.M.)
(hour)

With me will be _____

_____

(signed) Name _____

Address _____

_____

Telephone _____

NOTE TO PARTICIPANTS:

At this time you are asked to fill out and promptly return this form to Courtney Siceloff — To Paul Anthony? at Frogmore. Use your present expectations as the basis, so that we may plan appropriately. If your plans change subsequently, please advise Courtney, but do not defer the sending of this form now.

Rec'd 3/14/60

March 12, 1960

Jean Fairfax
American Friends Service Committee
20 South 12th Street
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

Dear Jean:

It is good to hear from you. It seems like a good idea to have the consultation on findings in Louisiana and Mississippi in connection with the April meeting of the Southern Interagency Conference. By now you have probably received from Paul Anthony his announcement of the meeting, with details about travel and so on.

At this point it would seem preferable to schedule this consultation before the SIC meeting, rather than afterwards. We are thinking of having a meeting of participants in the Penn study of rural South Carolina (which I reported at the last SIC meeting), immediately following the SIC meeting at Penn in April. We have been held up in inviting the consultants for this study, and scheduling the meeting, because the promised financial assistance has not come through yet. (You are familiar with these delays, I believe!) But until we do hear something, we would like to hold open the time just following the April SIC meeting, for the proposed meeting of consultants on the rural study. As in the case of the AFSC consultation, some of the people would be here anyway, and it would simplify things a lot if we can combine the trips for some persons.

As to the other questions you raised, I believe Paul Anthony's memorandum of March 8 gave full information on transportation. As his memo states, the cost for the SIC meeting, from Thursday lunch through Saturday breakfast, will be $10 per person. For the additional time, either before or after, the cost would be $5 per day, including 3 meals and overnight stay. Referring to your question about a possible Friday afternoon session: the SIC meeting will last through Friday afternoon, as I understand it, so any additional session could not begin before Friday evening. We'll let you know when we have something definite on the meeting of Penn study consultants, which should be soon. MEANWHILE -- we look forward to seeing you!

Sincerely yours,

Courtney Siceloff

cc: Paul Anthony
→Harold Fleming

COPY

Recd 3/15/60

THE NEW WORLD FOUNDATION

March 14, 1960

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Director
Penn Community Services, Inc.
St. Helena Island
Frogmire, South Carolina

Dear Mr. Siceloff:

I am glad to be able to tell you that The New World Foundation has approved a grant of $3,000 to enable you to commence the study of small town and rural areas in South Carolina.

I will be glad to be kept informed of the progress you are making toward the first meeting and will make payment of the grant upon advice from you.

Sincerely,

Vernon A. Eagle /s

cc:
Mr. Harold Fleming

MOUNTAIN VIEW HOTEL, Gatlinburg, Tenn., is the pioneer hotel of the Smokies. An ideal base for full year around enjoyment of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park. Modern swimming pool free to our guests, horseback riding, shuffleboard, square dancing, golf privileges. Each room is modern with steam heat and bath. Delicious southern meals are served in the spacious dining room. Let us help you plan your convention during our convention seasons: September; Nov. 1 to July 1. Hotel and dining room open all year. AAA approved.

Published by Stonecraft, 1510 Scenic Drive, Maryville, Tenn.

S18237L2-1

POST CARD

Address

Hi Harold —
SRC sure has flooded
Com C. Rte with literature
Excellent publicity!
Charles

Harold F Fleming
SRC
63 Auburn Ave NE
Atlanta, Ga

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

MARION A. WRIGHT
CHAIRMAN
LINVILLE FALLS, N. C.

WILLIAM E. CADBURY
VICE-CHAIRMAN
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

CORNELIUS A. WOOD, JR.
SECRETARY
1018 DUPONT CIRCLE BLDG.
WASHINGTON 6, D. C.

GEORGE H. AULL
CLEMSON, S. C.

B. TARTT BELL
GUILFORD, N. C.

PAUL W. BROWN, JR.
PHILADELPHIA

MISS ISABELLA CURTIS
MANCHESTER, MASS.

JAMES MCBRIDE DABBS
MAYESVILLE, S. C.

HAROLD EVANS
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

JOHN W. HARDY
BEAUFORT, S. C.

MISS GRACE HOUSE
ORIENT
LONG ISLAND, N. Y.

EDWARD N. JENKS
NEW YORK, N. Y.

MRS. HORACE H. JENKS
WILTON, CONN.

MRS. JAMES L. MCCONAUGHY
HARTFORD, CONN.

ROBERT K. MOONEY
WEST HARTFORD, CONN.

IRA DE A. REID
HAVERFORD, PA.

MRS. EDWARD G. SANDERS
ST. HELENA ISLAND, S. C.

A. M. SECREST
CHERAW, S. C.

JOHN A. SILVER
PIPERSVILLE, PA.

W. E. SOLOMON
COLUMBIA, S. C.

MRS. EUGENE SPEARMAN
COLUMBIA, S. C.

JOSEPH WRIGHT
BEAUFORT, S. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

MRS. Y. W. BAILEY
ST. HELENA ISLAND, S. C.

GEORGE A. BUCHANAN, JR.
COLUMBIA, S. C.

FRANCIS R. COPE, JR.
DIMOCK, PA.

MRS. RUBY P. CORNWELL
CHARLESTON, S. C.

MISS WIL LOU GRAY
COLUMBIA, S. C.

CAREY E. HAIGLER
CHARLOTTE, N. C.

MRS. GRACE T. HAMILTON
ATLANTA, GA.

MISS LEILA JOHNSON
MURRELL'S INLET, S. C.

DR. BENJAMIN E. MAYS
ATLANTA, GA.

DR. O. R. REUBEN
SUMTER, S. C.

FREDERICK B. ROUTH
ATLANTA, GA.

MRS. WILLIAM W. SMITH
POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

April 6, 1960

Mr. Harold Fleming
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Ave. NE
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Harold:

Recent events indicate that many Southern Negroes are no longer willing to accept inequalities in such areas as lunchroom and library facilities. The strength if the widespread demonstrations has surprised many of the "experts" on human relations. It is with this sense of the critical temper of opinion in the South that Penn asks you to be a member of a "consultation" designed to find ways to bring about better human relations and more equal opportunities. The study will be concerned with small-town and rural areas of South Carolina, but it is clear that its findings will be valuable throughout the Southern States.

We are not interested in an academic kind of seminar but one that will provide guide-posts for immediate action to those individuals and agencies active in human relations. The results of the consultation will be published and given the widest possible publicity. We feel that through this study you will be making a significant contribution to better understanding between the races in the South.

Those who participate will receive an honorarium of forty dollars plus travel expenses to and from Penn Center. You would, of course, be given hospitality at Penn during the consultation.

Within a short time of your acceptance we will send you additional information ans some pages of statistics which relate particularly to South Carolina.

We trust that you share something of our own sense of urgency in view of the gathering speed of racial change.

Sincerely yours,

Courtney Siceloff

P. S. Please call Penn at JAckson 4-4337 (Beaufort, S. C.) if you have any question

Hope this calls it. Good article in NY Times.

Enclosures: working agenda information sheet
Penn folders acceptance form return envelope

A CONSULATION AT PENN TO STUDY WAYS TO BETTER HUMAN RELATIONS AND MORE EQUAL OPPORTUNITIES IN SMALL-TOWN AND RURAL AREAS OF SOUTH CAROLINA

Purpose: The Penn consultation is an inquiry by top specialists in the inequalities in rural areas of the South, and it is also a search for the most effective ways to use existing resources to bring about an improvement in both opportunities and understanding. It will search out the tactics to be employed in overcoming resistance to change and suggest priorities of effort. Methods and techniques will be suggested which can be used by agencies working in human relations, extension service, the church and press.

Background: There is no doubt that events are accelerating in the South since the Supreme Court decision in 1954 set the stage for a "break-through" in the field of human relations. Most of the efforts of agencies in the South have been directed largely to implementing the decision on integration in the schools and public facilities. Desegregation has taken place largely in the border states and in urban areas. Integration can proceed only so far, however, until less urban areas are affected.

The small-town (under 10,000 population) and rural areas have necessarily been neglected. Here there exist the greatest gaps between Negro and white citizens in the enjoyment of the rights of citizenship. Perhaps more crucial than school desegregation in these communities is the obtaining of basic civil rights. Possibly opposition may not be so unyielding in such areas as medical and hospital services, private and public employment, libraries and voter registration. South Carolina is typical of the "hard-core" states of the South which are still largely rural and small-town areas with a relatively high Negro population. These states face common problems which may have common solutions. A study of South Carolina will be a valuable contribution to understanding the whole region of the South.

Method to be used in the Consultation: A "working" agenda is included with this letter, subject to change at the first meeting of the participants. Penn is bringing together on its campus a small group of top specialists in the field of human relations who combine professional skill with practical experience in the rural South. The consultants will be working together in an intensive study of the problems involved in human relations in the South. Mr. Paul Rilling, Director of Field activities of the Southern Regional Council, will act as moderator for the meetings. He has served as State Coordinator of Adult Education for the Foundation for Continuing Adult Education and as a leader of Great Books discussion groups.

The consulting group will define the inequalities in various areas such as employment, registration for voting, public facilities, housing, and explore the present resources that are available to bring about a change in these inequalities. A program will be set up and tactics outlined which will establish those areas which would seem to yield the most profitable results.

Penn's Role. Penn Community Services, Inc., has been active for nearly a century in the field of Negro education. More recently it has initiated an educational program in human relations and civil rights. Its secluded campus permits concentration with little outside interference, and Penn has undertaken to collect a working library of materials for the seminar. More important, Penn itself is one agency that is prepared to hold future study sessions in connection with specific recommendations of the survey.

Publication of Results: The conclusions reached by the consultation will be published and made available to as wide an audience as possible. The study will be useful as a guide for many organizations in planning their programs in bettering human relations. Agencies active in this field will be stimulated to re-evaluate their program in the light of the findings published. New action policies will develop out of the study which can have a significant effect in these critical times. Here will be a guide also for the best possible use of the resources of individuals and foundations.

Courtney Siceloff, Director

CONSULTANTS INVITED TO THE RURAL STUDY

Rev. Will Campbell, Southern Race Relations Program, National Council of Churches
Lee Coleman, Chairman of the Sociology Department, University of Kentucky
Eugene Cox, Rural Life Specialist, National Council of Churches
James Dabbs, President, Southern Regional Council
Miss Jean Fairfax, Southern Program Representative, American Friends Service Committee
Harold Fleming, Southern Regional Council, Atlanta
Dean C. G. Gomilion, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama
Phil Hammer, Atlanta Economist
Mrs. Ruby Hurley, Southeast Regional Secretary, NAACP, Atlanta
Dr. Louis Killian, Socioligest, Florida State University
Rev. Charles Jones, Minister of Community Church, Chapel Hill, N. C.
Dr. Ira DeA. Reid, Sociologist, Haverford College, Pennsylvania (formerly of Atlanta University)
Paul Rilling, Southern Regional Council, field director
William E. Solomon, Executive Director, Palmetto Education Association (Negro Teachers of South Carolina)
Marion A. Wright, Chairman, Penn Board of Trustees

HOW CAN BETTER HUMAN RELATIONS AND MORE EQUAL OPPORTUNITY FOR ALL CITIZENS BE ACHIEVED IN THE RURAL AREAS OF SOUTH CAROLINA?

Work Group Discussion Outline

Friday evening:

I. Introductions with biographical information

II. Brief statement on Penn

III. Background material and statistics on South Carolina—explanation of maps, graphs, etc.

IV. Procedures for discussion, definitation of terms, relation of study to other Southern rural areas

Saturday (Sessions 9:00 - 12:00; 1:30-4:30; 8:00 - 10:00;

Sunday 9:00 - 12)

I. What is the nature of the problem?
   A. Low economic status of rural population, of rural Negro population.
   B. Outmigration to cities, other areas of the country.
   C. Low level of political participation of Negroes.
   D. Shortage of trained Negro leadership.
   E. Limited economic opportunities.
   F. Traditional Southern pattern of relations between the races.

II. How can interested groups, agencies contribute to the alleviation of these problems?
   A. Available resources within the rural area.
   B. Resources within the state, from outside South Carolina
   C. Organizations and agencies that can be involved.
   D. Program and tactics.
   E. Establishment of priorities.
   F. Indentification of more promising areas within the state.

III. What should be the specific next steps?

TO: Penn Community Services, Inc.
St. Helena Island, Frogmore, South Carolina

I accept your invitation to take part in the consultation at Penn on the small-town and rural areas of South Carolina and what can be done to improve human relations and to provide more equal opportunities.

The following dates are most acceptable to me, in the order of preference. I have marked those dates on which it would be impossible to attend.

Signed _____

Tentative dates for the consultation:

May 13-14 _____ May 20-21 _____ May 27-28 _____

BIOGRAPHICAL DATA FOR USE BY PENN

Name _____

Address _____ Telephone _____

_____

Brief Biographical Notes

(Please indicate any writing or activity which relates to the Penn Study)

INVITATION to the ISLANDS

For Your Conference

Penn Community Services
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

The right atmosphere, relaxed, congenial, friendly, exists for all groups at PENN . . .

The conference center is on the shaded grounds of the former PENN SCHOOL (founded 1862) with substantial buildings well-heated in winter.

Rates are set on a cost basis and vary according to services provided.

Conference facilities include separate cafeteria building, an auditorium seating 200, several smaller meeting rooms, library, recreation area, sleeping accommodations for 100, with additional quarters available in neighboring community.

For meetings of Church and School leaders, Policy makers, youth groups

For conferences, institutes, seminars, discussion groups

COME TO PENN

Write to:

Courtney Siceloff
Director
Penn Community Services
Frogmore, South Carolina
for further details

PENN is reached via Beaufort, South Carolina. If driving, continue across bridge on Route 21 from Beaufort to Lady's Island and on to Frogmore (7 miles). Turn right for ½ mile to grounds of PENN. Or take Greyhound bus to Beaufort and local bus or taxi to Penn.

The Sea Islands off the coast of South Carolina offer ocean bathing, year-round fishing and many trips of historical interest.

PENN COMMUNITY CENTER
ST. HELENA ISLAND
FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES

St. Helena Island

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

Penn Community Services seeks to meet human needs in two ways. First, it maintains a community center for the people of St. Helena and its neighboring sea islands. Secondly, it offers a friendly conference center where groups from all parts of a troubled South can meet freely together.

A COMMUNITY CENTER . . .

Day Nursery—About 30 children of working parents are cared for from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily and provided with a hot meal. While parents bear most of the cost, the center underwrites a third of the budget.

Health Center—Prenatal and child health clinics are held regularly, in addition to regular classes and refresher courses for midwives. Personnel are provided by the Beaufort County Public Health Service, the building by Penn.

Library—Penn co-operates with the county in maintaining the island's only library, which circulates more than 1,000 books monthly. A fund has been started to purchase a bookmobile and hire a full-time librarian.

Marketing Cooperative—The island's tomato farmers meet regularly at Penn to study improved farming and marketing methods. Their packing house, set up in a former Penn School building, helps them compete with big sellers.

Homemaking Classes—Both teen-age girls and older women meet at Penn with the County Home Demonstration Agent and acquire skills in dressmaking, cooking and other types of housework.

Sales House—Clothing donated to the center is sold by Penn Community volunteers at minimum cost to low-income families. Proceeds go to help other aspects of the program.

. . . A

A CONFERENCE CENTER

In the period of transition which the South is undergoing, Penn performs one of its most important services in furnishing a cheerful center for meetings of groups of both races. A few of those which have met there recently are:

- Retreat, Society of Friends
- Study Tour, University of British West Indies
- Executive Committee, Southern Regional Council
- YMCA-YWCA University Staff Regional Conference
- Atlantic Presbytery Summer Conference
- Palmetto Education Association

Students, teachers, midwives and Girl Scouts are among those which have used the center. They number more than 500, and their stays at the center have ranged from two days to two weeks. They have come from most of the Southern states, and from as far away as New England and the West Indies.

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, Inc.

COURTNEY SICELOFF, Director

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Marion A. Wright, Chairman, Linville Falls, N. C.
William E. Cadbury, Vice Chairman, Philadelphia
Cornelius A. Wood, Jr., Secretary, Washington
George H. Aull, Clemson, S. C.
B. Tartt Bell, Greensboro, N. C.
Paul W. Brown, Jr., Philadelphia
Miss Isabella Curtis, Manchester, Mass.
James McBride Dabbs, Mayesville, S. C.
Harold Evans, Philadelphia
John W. Hardy, Beaufort, S. C.
Miss Grace B. House, Orient, Long Island, N. Y.
Edward N. Jenks, New York City
Mrs. Horace H. Jenks, Wilton, Conn.
Ira De A. Reid, Haverford, Pa.
Mrs. Edward G. Sanders, St. Helena Island, S. C.
A. M. Secrest, Cheraw, S. C.
John A. Silver, Pipersville, Pa.
W. E. Solomon, Columbia, S. C.
Mrs. Eugene Spearman, Columbia, S. C.
Joseph Wright, Beaufort, S. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

Mrs. Y. W. Bailey, St. Helena Island, S. C.
Francis R. Cope, Jr., Dimock, Pa.
Mrs. Ruby P. Cornwell, Charleston, S. C.
Carey E. Haigler, Charlotte
Mrs. Grace T. Hamilton, Atlanta
Benjamin E. Mays, Atlanta
O. R. Reubin, Sumter, S. C.
Frederick B. Routh, Atlanta
Mrs. William W. Smith, II, Poughkeepsie

"The work of Penn is supported by participants, a small endowment, and contributions enabling this important pilot project to continue. Gifts to Penn are tax deductible."

4/19/60

TELEGRAM

Date for consultation on rural study set for weekend May 13-15 at Penn Center, Frogmore, S.C. Glad that you can attend. Will send background material and travel information.

Courtney Siceloff

COPY

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INC.

St. Helena Island Frogmore, South Carolina

April 25, 1960

Dear Friend:

We are glad that you will be attending the consultation on small-town and rural South Carolina at Penn Center. We hope that you can arrive in time for dinner on Friday, May 13, at six o'clock. It is expected that the meeting will end with the noon meal on Sunday, May 15, which is set for 12:30.

Penn Center is located on St. Helena Island at Frogmore. For those coming by car, continue on route 21 through Beaufort seven miles to Frogmore, where you will turn right and proceed one-half mile to Penn Center. Reimbursement for automobile travel will be at the rate of eight cents a mile.

The city of Charleston is 70 miles north of Beaufort, and it is served by three major airlines. Savannah, Georgia, is forty miles south of Beaufort, and is also a major airport. Penn will arrange to meet you at either air terminal.

Atlantic Coast Line rail service is available to Yemassee, South Carolina, thirty miles from Frogmore. Penn will be glad to meet you at the railroad station in Yemassee.

We will appreciate your returning the enclosed form as soon as possible. You will note that a space is indicated if you wish to receive an advance payment on your fare.

Sincerely yours,

Courtney Siceloff

cs/es

enclosure

Ruby Gomillion
Will Killigan
Auld Reid
MAW Dabbs
C Jones
Cox
Fairfax
Solomon
Macarthur
Coleman, Lee

May 5, 1960

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Penn Community Center
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

Under separate cover we are sending you twelve copies of a reproduction of a section of the American Dilemma which Mr. Wright wished to have for the conference next weekend.

Best.

Sincerely,

Paul Anthony
Executive Assistant

PA/sm
cc: M. A. Wright

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

St. Helena Island — Frogmore, South Carolina

Courtney Siceloff
Director

May 10, 1960

Paul Anthony
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Paul:

Sent 5/11/60

We finally got around to sending out a request for biographical information from our Board members, and the replies are coming in. Marion Wright's came today, with this notation: "Data may be secured from Southern Regional Council."

Sorry, pal.

Sincerely,

Courtney Siceloff

cs/es

Materials sent:
Dabbs's book
The Southern Temper
L'ville Story
Action Pattern in School Desegregation

May 12, 1960

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Director
Penn Community Services, Inc.
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

Enclosed is a copy of an earlier bibliography which might be of some help. A new one will be listed in the May issue of NEW SOUTH.

I am sending you, under separate cover, a few things which might be of use for your library. There is no charge.

As to the map, you can get most any size here in Atlanta. Just now, we are using a 36 X 24 map of the Southeastern counties with the largest cities noted. The cost is ~~one~~ two dollars. A smaller one, 28 X 22 is fifty cents. These are just black and white maps. You may perhaps remember seeing the larger one here in the office which we used to denote the number of counties with desegregated schools. Let me know if I can be of help in sending you some of these.

Bill and I hope to come to Frogmore sometime in June. At present, hope to spend two weeks. How is Penn's schedule in June? Do you think you would have room for us?

Best wishes to Elizabeth and the Roberts.

Sincerely,

John Constable
Director of Information

JC:lec

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

May 10, 1960

John Constable
Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue N.E.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear John:

Does SRC have a list of books on the Negro and race relations? We want to order some books on this subject for our library. We wrote for a list put out several years ago by the National Council of Churches, but found that it is out of print and no longer available. If you have anything of this sort, we would appreciate your sending us a copy.

And now, to make even more trouble, we would like to know if you know where we can get a good, large map of the southeastern states. We are mounting some maps for the reference of groups who come here for meetings, and think a good map of the southeast would be useful. Let us know if you have any ideas. Thanks.

Sincerely yours,

Courtney Siceloff

cs/es

Confidential:
Not for Publication

Preliminary Report

CONSULTATION ON HUMAN RELATIONS PROGRAMING IN RURAL SOUTH CAROLINA

The consultation, meeting from May 13-15, 1960, was convened by Penn Community Services, Inc., at its Center on St. Helena Island, South Carolina, with the assistance of a special grant for the purpose. The total project was conceived as a series of two consultations by persons with special knowledge of South Carolina, persons with special training or experience in rural economics and sociology, and persons representing working agencies in the human relations field.

Noting that the bulk of human relations research and programing in the South has been concentrated in urban areas, it was the hope of the Penn Center that these consultations would provide guidance and program ideas for agencies and individuals interested in working in the rural South. It was felt that the needs of the rural "black belt" areas could not be overlooked. South Carolina was selected as the focus of the study because of the location of the Penn Center and the need to narrow the scope of the consideration. It was hoped, however, that any ideas that might be suggested for rural areas of South Carolina would be applicable, in time, to similar problems in the rural deep South in Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, and Mississippi.

The project was not intended primarily to produce program ideas for the Penn Center but to provide a background of thinking that would be of help to all interested groups and agencies. The Penn Center acted as convener and host.

I. Scope of Discussion

The group agreed to consider the entire state of South Carolina, rather than to limit the discussion to "rural areas." It was pointed out that according to the 1950 U. S. Census there are only three ~~"urban"~~ metropolitan areas in the state, and that these barely qualify as such. It was felt that the state could be considered as a whole as a "rural" state. Many of the problems of human relations programing are state-wide in nature. The towns and cities of small and medium size might be particularly fruitful centers of agency concentration. At any rate, the group felt that it would be arbitrary and unrealistic to attempt to limit the consultation only to areas officially rural in the state.

II. Nature of the Problem

There was discussion of the status of South Carolina and agreement that the state was one of the more discouraging areas from the standpoint of progress in human relations. This is one of four states with no public school desegregation of any kind at the elementary, secondary, or college level. (There is one integrated parochial school in Rock Hill, South Carolina.) Some of the following reasons for the "hard core" nature of South Carolina were noted and discussed.

A. Historical tradition of plantation economy, high Negro population, unequal Negro schooling and economic opportunities.

B. Monolithic state government, reflecting no divergence of views on the racial issue, providing constant emphasis on "massive resistance" viewpoint. Control of the state government is in the hands of the more conservative, rural, plantation areas. This is protected through the considerable power in the hands of the state senate.

C. Lack of trained, able, and independent Negro leadership. This tends to be perpetuated through the out-migration of the more talented and better trained Negroes, by unequal educational standards, personal and economic pressures, by the gap in material standards and economic opportunities between the races. The level of education and of civic consciousness is low; many of the ministers, natural leaders, are untrained and hold several jobs.

D. The changing economic picture. There is migration from the farms to the more urban areas, out of the state to those more populous and industrialized. The trend to farm mechanization and larger farms is creating an increasing problem of unskilled farm labor surplus with consequent subsistence living standards in many areas, particularly among Negroes.

E. Low ranking of the state as to literacy and per capita income.

F. Relatively little activity by human relations agencies in the state. This was noted primarily as a result of the above factors.

G. Several promising pressures for constructive change were noted. These included the new militancy in Negro communities sparked by the student protests, pending applications for desegregation of schools, and the increasing industrialization of the upper part of the state which can be expected, in time, to bring about a change in the political power balance.

III. Recommendations for Future Programing

A. The participants felt that there was a considerable need for research and factfinding activity. There is value in simply bringing the facts to public attention. Agency activity could be more intelligently channeled if the specific facts were known. It was agreed that there has been less research in human relations matters in South Carolina than in most Southern states. The lack of a good university research program in the state, after the model of the University of North Carolina, was noted and deplored. It was hoped that some of the private colleges could move into this type of activity. The following areas of research and fact-finding were considered:

1. The state of Negro employment throughout the state, particularly in federal, state, local public services.

2. Health and welfare services. On what basis and to what degree are they available to Negroes? What are the employment patterns of public and private agencies in these fields? What information on planned parenthood is available and how widely distributed?

3. The adequacy and availability of public parks and other recreational facilities.

4. Are library facilities provided on an equal basis? How much library desegregation has taken place, with what results?

5. What educational facilities are available for white and colored? To what extent are these equal or unequal?

B. The following program ideas were considered:

1. There was agreement that a major priority should be given to the need to increase Negro voting and political consciousness. There are fewer actual barriers to Negro registration, it was felt, than in many deep South states, yet the Negro vote has had very little influence on the direction of government outside of one or two isolated places, such as Beaufort, where the issue of race is at least left out of political campaigns. The key need in this area is not just registration, but effective organization and use of the ballot. Concerned agencies need to work in local areas, locating and developing indigenous leadership.

The major proposal here was for a program of field work. It was agreed that the traditional pattern of pulling leadership out for periodic workshops is of limited value, that there is rarely any permanent carry-over and that the same few people tend to be called on time and again. New leadership needs to be discovered -- young, independent, willing to be expendable, and not necessarily the "recognized" leaders of the community.

It was recommended that one or two full-time workers be placed in the state. These workers would concentrate intensively on community work in three or four localities. They would live in the communities for some weeks, learn the structure of the community, locate and encourage potential leadership, help local Negro communities come to grips more effectively with whatever problems exist there.

The field work would be correlated with occasional workshops that would bring together local leadership from several communities. Such workshops would give information concerning the areas of job opportunities, education, consumer education, planned parenthood, developing leadership, developing responsible citizenship instead of just registration.

2. There was agreement that Beaufort County should be a major pilot emphasis. This is the only rural county in the state with a human relations facility such as Penn. The Penn Center has already broken ground with local adult education offerings and other community work. Possibly the field workers suggested above could be based at Penn, helping with this effort.

SICK TRANSIT

YEMASSEE BY '63

3. There should be increased emphasis on the need for more equal access to, or desegregation of, facilities in the area of Library resources, health and welfare services, and agricultural extension services. (The needs of low-income farmers are given little attention, for example.) Quite possibly, it was felt, there would be considerably less local resistance to progress in these areas than in the more emotionally-charged area of school desegregation.

4. The ~~hope~~ expectation was expressed that when school desegregation is ordered, in one of the more urban areas, ~~rather than a rural area, would be involved first. Were this to occur,~~ the action might spark one of the "Save Our Schools" type of moderate movement that was helpful in Little Rock, in Virginia, and now in Georgia and New Orleans.

5. It was felt that more use could be made of federal leverage in efforts to move ahead. The use of the President's Committee on Government Contracts was discussed, also possible federal concern in the areas where federal funds are used.

6. The fact-finding effort suggested earlier needs to be correlated with a mailing effort. Lists of concerned persons in various strategic places is needed. We need to be in better touch with potentially helpful ministers, journalists, and other key persons. There was general agreement that human relations materials are not circulating to any considerable degree in the state.

7. Helpful leverage from national organizations, particularly labor unions, needs to be explored. The White Citizens' Council was organized in a union hall in Rock Hill. Such facts need to be channeled to national labor leaders. On occasions, national company offices can be involved constructively in local situations.

8. There need to be strong efforts to obtain for Negro schools the assistance of better vocational guidance. Such guidance is made possible through the National Defense Act, but so far these funds have been used almost exclusively in white schools in South Carolina.

9. It was agreed that emphasis should be given to working with Negro ministers, who are often the most influential persons of the Negro community, in their potential role of bringing about change. The annual week-long schools for Negro Baptist ministers sponsored by Morris and Benedict Colleges were noted as potentially useful channels for reaching and involving ministers. Those present from South Carolina agreed to consult with the planning group of the schools about the possibilities.

There seems to be little communication between white and Negro ministers in the state. Several persons involved in the consultation agreed to work together to develop South Carolina ministers' participation in the annual interracial Ecumenical Institute to be held in July by the National Council of Churches.

10. Several present felt that some of the national agencies should be urged to do more in the way of providing interracial experiences for youth. It was noted that white and Negro students from colleges in some areas do have a continuing fellowship and that bi-racial work camps are held at the Penn Center. The possibility of sending more of the South Carolina young people out of the state to natural experiences such as the Washington and U. N. seminars sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee was emphasized.

11. The role of women leaders in the Negro communities was considered. There was some suggestion that women are perhaps an untapped leadership resource. They often have more time and are allowed more leeway in their activities. In the case of South Carolina, however, it was stated that most of the women's top leadership roles are in the hands of older persons. There also seems to be a tendency for the men to show some resistance to prominent leadership by the women. It was felt, however, that such status groups as the Negro Pan-Hellenic Council in Columbia and the state Council of Negro Women might be encouraged to devote more effort to specific projects in the human relations field.

IV. Available Resources

Human relations resources presently in the state were noted. Agencies in the field are the Penn Community Services, the South Carolina Council on Human Relations, the state conference of branches of the NAACP, the state Christian Leadership Conference, and the Palmetto Education Association. The colleges and universities have been limited because of the political climate and the factor of state control of the public institutions. The Urban League is represented only through regional staff from Atlanta.

There was some discussion of the use of available resources in connection with the recommendations noted above, as follows:

A. The American Friends Service Committee might consider a merit employment project in the state if the right situation could be found. This might be carried out in connection with the Urben League.

B. The Palmetto Education Association might be interested in a study of the employment picture in the state so far as Negroes are concerned. The Palmetto Association is also interested in pressing the matter of better vocational guidance in Negro high schools.

C. The Southern Regional Council is considering a regional study in the area of health facilities. This would include specific data on the South Carolina situation.

D. The Penn Center is interested in an effort to make Beaufort County a pilot effort through the development of community political consciousness and organization. Efforts are going forward in this direction.

E. The National Board of the YWCA might be approached concerning some special activities in several South Carolina communities in the direction of community organization and, particularly, working with women leaders.

V. Next Steps in this Consultation Project.

The consensus of the group was that the consultation, although helpful, was general and preliminary. The group was conscious of the fact that a number of general suggestions were made but that few specific plans were laid. It was therefore agreed that the project should move on with a second consultation as outlined in the original project proposal. All of those invited to the first consultation, including those who were unable to attend, will be invited to the second meeting.

The following timetable was proposed:

A. A summary report of the initial consultation will be prepared and mailed to participants and a few other concerned persons and agencies sometime in June.

B. In July the Penn Center will convene a meeting of South Carolina agency personnel and other specially qualified persons in the state. This group will react to the summary report and bring their own special experience to bear on the suggestions and ideas.

C. The second general consultation, for persons invited to the first meeting, will take place at the Penn Community Center August 19-21, 1960. This consultation will reflect the reactions to the first meeting and will concentrate primarily on plans for implementation.

Paul Rilling, Chairman

Attachment: List of Consultants

Penn Community Services, Inc.
Frogmore, S. C.
June, 1960

LIST OF CONSULTANTS

Present at the May Consultation:

Lee Coleman, Chairman, Departments of Sociology and Rural Sociology, University of Kentucky, Lexington, Kentucky

Eugene Cox, Rural Life Specialist, National Council of Churches 933 Chambliss Road, Memphis, Tennessee

James McBride Dabbs, farmer and author; president of the Southern Regional Council, Mayesville, South Carolina

Jean Fairfax, Director of Southern Programs, American Friends Service Committee, 20 South 12th Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

Harold Fleming, Director, Southern Regional Council, Atlanta, Georgia

C. G. Gomillion, Professor of Social Science, Tuskegee Institute, board member of Tuskegee Civic Improvement Association, Tuskegee, Alabama

Charles Jones, Minister, Community Church, Chapel Hill, North Carolina

Ira DeA. Reid, Chairman, Department of Sociology, Haverford College, Penna.

Paul Rilling, Director of Field Activities, Southern Regional Council, Atlanta

Courtney Siceloff, Director, Penn Community Services, Inc., Frogmore, St. Helena Island, South Carolina

Walker Solomon, Executive Secretary, Palmetto Education Association, 1719 Taylor Street, Columbia, South Carolina

Mrs. Alice N. Spearman, Director, South Carolina Council on Human Relations, 1400 Main Street - Room 605, Columbia, South Carolina

Marion A. Wright, lawyer; Chairman, Board of Trustees, Penn Community Services; Linville Falls, North Carolina

Wilmer Young, teacher of social studies, Pendle Hill, Wallingford, Penna. (Former worker with tenant farmers in Abbeville, S. C.)

Leroy Browne, Maintenance Superintendent, Penn Community Center; graduate of Penn School and Hampton Institute; Frogmore, South Carolina

Unable to Attend:

Will Campbell, Southern Regional Director of Racial and Cultural Relations for the National Council of Churches, 2001 Division Street, Nashville, Tennessee

Phil Hammer, Economist, 70 Fairlie Street, NW, Atlanta, Georgia

Mrs. Ruby Hurley, Southeastern Regional Director of the NAACP, Atlanta, Ga.

Lewis Killian, Professor of Sociology, Florida State University, Tallahassee

Hylan Lewis, Sociologist, 3516 - 28th Street N. E., Washington 18, D. C.

May 20, 1960

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Penn Community Services, Inc.
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

We are mailing you the requested copies of THE NEGRO AND THE BALLOT this P.M. The map may be obtained at Miller's Book Store, 231 Peachtree, N. E., Atlanta, or if you prefer I can pick it up for you.

We are really looking forward to coming over soon and will let you know when just as soon as our plans jell a little more.

With best wishes to Elizabeth and the Richards.

Sincerely,

John Constable
Director of Information

JC:lec

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

May 18, 1960

John Constable
Director of Information
Southern Regional Council
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear John:

Thanks so much for writing in response to our many requests. We appreciate the bibliography, and we are very glad to have the books and materials you sent. We had no copy of The Southern Temper, and have needed it in connection with the rural study. The other books will be useful too.

We are glad to know about the maps. We are ordering one from National Geographic Society, and do not need the county outline map now, but may want to order it later. So we would appreciate your letting us know where to order the 36 x 24 map, in case we decide to order it later on.

Now we have one more request: we would like 25 copies of "The Negro and the Vote", with bill sent to Penn Community Services.

It is good news that you and Bill may come down in June. We have a couple of midwives' institutes in June, but that would be no problem. It is possible that one of the houses rented to teachers will be available, or a nook in one of the dormitories with rather primitive cooking facilities for your breakfast. We'll work it out according to what is available when you make your definite plans, trying to allow as much freedom and peace as is possible around here! We are all looking forward to seeing you.

Sincerely yours,

Courtney Siceloff

cs/es

MEMORANDUM

To: Members of Study group,
Study of Human Relations in Rural South Carolina

From: Courtney Siceloff, Director
Penn Community Services, Inc.

Frogmore, S. C.
May 25, 1960

Those who attended the sessions held during the weekend of May 12-15 will agree that the discussions were stimulating and promising. Fourteen of the invited consultants were present, and those who did not attend were kept away by conflicting schedules.

Chairman Paul Rilling is preparing a Preliminary Report which will be forwarded to you soon. The second meeting of consultants is set for the weekend of August 19-21, at Penn Center, to work on a final Report and to move toward program implementation.

Plans are under way for calling together in July a group of key South Carolinians who would most likely be involved later in implementation of the recommendations of the rural study group. These community leaders and agency representatives would be asked to study the Preliminary Report and to add their suggestions and criticisms. The results of the July meeting of South Carolinians would then be available for the August meeting of the consultants.

The August 19-21 dates were clear for those attending the first meeting, and it is hoped that those who were not present then will be free to come in August. Would you please indicate on the enclosed post card whether you can attend, and return to us now? Travel expenses and honoraria will be provided as in the first meeting.

Courtney Siceloff

Wrote
OK

SOUTH CAROLINA REPORT

CONFIDENTIAL:
Not for Publication

CONSULTATION ON HUMAN RELATIONS PROGRAMING IN SOUTH CAROLINA

Meeting of South Carolina Leaders
Penn Community Services, Inc.
Frogmore, S. C.
July 22-23, 1960

In mid-May a group of consultants - specialists in rural economics, sociology, and human relations - met at Penn Center for the first of two sessions to discuss problems and programs relating to human relations work in the rural South. Their job was to formulate ideas for this type of programing - suggestions for South Carolina, but with the specific intent that eventually they might also be of use in other "black belt" states. At the conclusion of their meeting they expressed the desire to have a group of key South Carolina people - representatives of the group that would implement any program - review their conclusions and make any additions or corrections which they felt should be included in the final report.

On July 22 and 23, twenty-three leaders of South Carolina met at Penn Center to do this. Their discussion included problems and possible programing and implementation in the areas of registration and voting, library, welfare, and agricultural services, education (facilities and desegregation), job training and employment.

To encourage public awareness of the conditions that exist, and to lay the groundwork for later action, the primary specific recommendation of the group was the publication of a pamphlet that would show various conditions which affect the lives of Negro and white citizens in South Carolina. It was urged that this be a simple presentation of fact, without editorialization, and that it point up favorable situations as well as deficient ones. Education and employment were specifically mentioned for treatment.

"Is there a simple piece of literature which points out the disparities? Seems to me that is a first step. It would not say anything about integration - just point out the disparities."

"Do we fully utilize the element of exposé? Sometimes we have information but we keep it under a bushel too long and in so doing we play into the hands of state leaders who want the rest of the nation to feel all is well."

"What the South needs is a picture of itself, and one less defensive."

Aside from the educating job done by this publication, it was felt that more information needed to be researched and made available before intelligent programs can be undertaken. Some of the areas where this might be done are:

1. Employment of Negroes, especially in federal jobs and other tax-supported agencies.

2. Education: a comparison of college courses offered to Negro and white students, particularly in scientific, technical, and professional fields.

3. Health: hospital facilities available to Negro and white; nursing and medical training available for Negroes; extent of representation in professional associations of doctors and nurses.

4. Libraries: where are facilities integrated; comparison of facilities where separate.

5. Recreation: a survey of facilities available to Negro and white in cities, towns, and rural areas.

"In my county, funds are available for recreation but they are not allocated on an equal basis to Negroes and whites. Where we have not asked for the money, we haven't got it. This is something we are going to have to tackle from every angle we can."

The following agencies might help in making surveys:

1. Cooperation between the social science departments of private Negro colleges.

2. Professional teachers' organization (in the field of education)

3. Fraternal societies; Congress of Parent-Teacher Associations

4. American Friends Service Committee

A specific area where inequities between the races needs attention is in the administration of affairs and in the disbursement of tax monies affecting Negroes. There is almost no Negro representation on committees and boards such as:

1. County and state agricultural committees allocating payments and subsidies

2. County welfare boards

3. Local development boards formed to attract industries

4. Local committees of the White House Conferences on children and youth, education, and the aging.

"It seems to me that the State of South Carolina has not thought in terms of the state as a whole."

Other areas which received specific attention were:

1. Education
   a. Buildings generally good, but often laboratory equipment and books for libraries totally inadequate

   b. Teachers often fear loss of job, and therefore have less freedom to teach effectively

   c. Communities should not neglect pressing for equality of facilities while they are pushing for integration

"Guidance is a greater necessity in Negro schools than in white ones...Fear and insecurity affects what is taught...It is a vicious circle. Poor teachers give poor students."

"We should continue to do all we can in our localities from the standpoint of meeting educational needs wherever they are. There are many areas where integration will not answer the needs. We should work toward integration, yes, but at the same time we should work within the framework we have."

"I think somehow or other we are going to have to get to individuals. For a long time I have felt that this is our greatest weakness. I would like to see some of us get to teachers. If you are a good teacher, people don't throw you away. How can we liberate them from fear?"

2. Registration and voting

   a. In most counties the problem is not one of overt prevention or refusal of registration privilege; however, there is widespread apathy and a certain amount of fear based on reprisals which have taken place.

   b. Use existing organizations to increase the use of the ballot, rather than setting up a new agency.

      "I think a job can be done through groups already formed. We should utilize such groups as school associations, church conferences, fraternal organizations. Lift it above the token announcement level."

      "In the last analysis, the only way you can reach the hard core of people is to go out and knock on doors. People must be constantly reminded and constantly encouraged."

3. Agriculture

   a. Problem of increasing effectiveness of extension work, particularly the circulation of information

      "Negroes lack long-range capital for farming on the scale required by the times. The young men who might "let the word become flesh" have left the farms and the state. You can't run to New York and run a farm in South Carolina."

      "What about the problems of managing a complicated paper program which farmers must handle now? Are there still problems as far as the basic tools of education are concerned?"

The following suggestions were made concerning the future of the Final Report of the consultants:

1. That two written reports be drawn up:

   a. a strategic blueprint, for distribution to agencies and individuals interested in putting the Report into action

   b. a popular version of the work of the consultants made available for popular distribution

2. Working agencies in South Carolina will be called upon to join in the task of implementing the Final Report. It is hoped that Penn Community Services can be instrumental in bringing such groups together for this job.

   "I think the recommendations in the Preliminary Report fit the shoe exactly -- especially the need for discovering new leadership."

"The white South has always tried to keep the Negro irresponsible. The Negro who permits himself to be irresponsible is playing into the hands of the conservative white South."

SOUTH CAROLINA CONSULTANTS

Clyde Barrington, Box 769, Conway, S. C.
Businessman, formerly with American Friends' Service Committee
Merit Employment Program; chapter in South Carolinians Speak

Leroy E. Browne, Penn Community Services, Inc., Frogmore
Recently elected member of Beaufort County Board of Directors

Rev. David Carter, Benedict College, Columbia
President, S. C. Student Movement Association

John S. Cole, P. O. Box 252, Cheraw -- School Principal

James McBride Dabbs, Mayesville
Farmer, writer, president of Southern Regional Council

Mrs. Ernestine Felder, 111 Alexander St., Charleston
Member of Executive Board of YWCA

Mrs. Josie Hazel, 322 Fairfield, N. E., Aiken -- YWCA Executive Director

James A. Hodge, Route 2, Box 70, Mullins -- Farmer, businessman

Dr. Frederick C. James, Mount Pisgah AME Church, Sumter
Consultant Director, Commission on Social Action, AME Church

Esau Jenkins, 244 Spring Street, Charleston -- Businessman
President, Citizens' Committee of Charleston
President, Charleston chapter, Palmetto Voters' Association

Lincoln Jenkins, 1107½ Washington St., Columbia -- Attorney, Civic Leader

Mrs. Iola Jones, 711 Oakland Ave., Florence
Case Worker, Dept. of Public Welfare, Children's Division

Rev. M. D. McCollum, 191 Boulevard N.E., Orangeburg -- Minister, Leader

Rev. Clifton Miller, P. O. Box 140, Beaufort -- Pastor, Grace AME Church

R. J. Palmer, 308 S. Main Street, Sumter Mortician
Member, National Commission on Social Concerns, Methodist Church

Miss Vernita A. Robinson, 707 Manning St., Florence - Teacher
President, Florence Council of Negro Women

Rev. Mack E. Sharpe, Tabernacle Baptist Church, Beaufort
Delegate to State Democratic Convention; Member of United Fund Board

Mrs. Alice Spearman, S. C. Council on Human Relations, Columbia

Mrs. Mary B. Thomas, 312 Oak Street, Seneca -- Grand Worthy Matron, Eastern Star

Mrs. Mabel P. Washington, Frogmore -- Home Demonstration Agent, Beaufort County

Mrs. Alethia S. Worthy, Claflin College, Orangeburg

STAFF AND OBSERVERS: Courtney Siceloff, Norman and Elsie Richards, Sally Holden; Mr. B. H. Washington, Dr. Harry E. Thomas, Dr. and Mrs. Percy Baker.

July 29, 1960

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Director - Penn Community Center
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

Bill and I expect to arrive sometime Friday afternoon. You may schedule the discussion either Friday or Saturday whichever suits you best.

The ADL informed me they have arranged to send you the film and I will bring some material concerning the Council and its work.

Looking forward to seeing you.

Best wishes.

Sincerely,

John Constable
Director of Information

JC:lec

NEWS...
from PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES

Frogmore, S.C.
August 5, 1960

To: Members of Consultation on Human Relations in South Carolina
From: Courtney Siceloff

Enclosed is a summary of the discussions of the group of South Carolina leaders who met at Penn on July 22-23, 1960. You will recall that at the May meeting it was suggested that a State group be asked to review the Preliminary Report and give their reactions. We thought you might like to look over this in preparation for your August 19-21 meeting.

The meeting will begin with the evening meal on Friday, August 19, and will close with the noon meal on Sunday, August 21. As before, there will be an honorarium of $40. Travel expenses to and from Penn Center will be paid at the rate of 8¢ per mile and, of course, hospitality will be provided at Penn Center during the meetings.

Will you please indicate your travel plans on the enclosed form, and return it as quickly as possible.

We look forward to another productive meeting.

Sincerely yours,

Courtney Siceloff

cc: Penn Board of Trustees
Program Advisory Committee

TRANSPORTATION REPLY FORM
August 19-21 consultation

Please return at once to:

Penn Community Services
Frogmore, S.C.

Expected time of arrival at Penn:_____

I will need to be met:

Place_____

Time_____
(Please give flight number and airline if by air)

Expected time of departure:_____

Transportation needed for departure:_____

With me will be the following persons:

I would like an advance for travel:_____

I will be unable to attend the August Meeting_____

Name:_____

Date:_____

CONFIDENTIAL:
Not for Publication

SOUTH CAROLINA REPORT

CONSULTATION ON HUMAN RELATIONS PROGRAMING IN SOUTH CAROLINA

Meeting of South Carolina Leaders
Penn Community Services, Inc.
Frogmore, S. C.
July 22-23, 1960

In mid-May a group of consultants - specialists in rural economics, sociology, and human relations - met at Penn Center for the first of two sessions to discuss problems and programs relating to human relations work in the rural South. Their job was to formulate ideas for this type of programing - suggestions for South Carolina, but with the specific intent that eventually they might also be of use in other "black belt" states. At the conclusion of their meeting they expressed the desire to have a group of key South Carolina people - representatives of the group that would implement any program - review their conclusions and make any additions or corrections which they felt should be included in the final report.

On July 22 and 23, twenty-three leaders of South Carolina met at Penn Center to do this. Their discussion included problems and possible programing and implementation in the areas of registration and voting, library, welfare, and agricultural services, education (facilities and desegregation), job training and employment.

To encourage public awareness of the conditions that exist, and to lay the groundwork for later action, the primary specific recommendation of the group was the publication of a pamphlet that would show various conditions which affect the lives of Negro and white citizens in South Carolina. It was urged that this be a simple presentation of fact, without editorialization, and that it point up favorable situations as well as deficient ones. Education and employment were specifically mentioned for treatment.

"Is there a simple piece of literature which points out the disparities? Seems to me that is a first step. It would not say anything about integration - just point out the disparities."

"Do we fully utilize the element of exposé? Sometimes we have information but we keep it under a bushel too long and in so doing we play into the hands of state leaders who want the rest of the nation to feel all is well."

"What the South needs is a picture of itself, and one less defensive."

Aside from the educating job done by this publication, it was felt that more information needed to be researched and made available before intelligent programs can be undertaken. Some of the areas where this might be done are:

1. Employment of Negroes, especially in federal jobs and other tax-supported agencies.

2. Education: a comparison of college courses offered to Negro and white students, particularly in scientific, technical, and professional fields.

3. Health: hospital facilities available to Negro and white; nursing and medical training available for Negroes; extent of representation in professional associations of doctors and nurses.

4. Libraries: where are facilities integrated; comparison of facilities where separate.

5. Recreation: a survey of facilities available to Negro and white in cities, towns, and rural areas.

"In my county, funds are available for recreation but they are not allocated on an equal basis to Negroes and whites. Where we have not asked for the money, we haven't got it. This is something we are going to have to tackle from every angle we can."

The following agencies might help in making surveys:

1. Cooperation between the social science departments of private Negro colleges.

2. Professional teachers' organization (in the field of education)

3. Fraternal societies; Congress of Parent-Teacher Associations

4. American Friends Service Committee

A specific area where inequities between the races needs attention is in the administration of affairs and in the disbursement of tax monies affecting Negroes. There is almost no Negro representation on committees and boards such as:

1. County and state agricultural committees allocating payments and subsidies

2. County welfare boards

3. Local development boards formed to attract industries

4. Local committees of the White House Conferences on children and youth, education, and the aging.

"It seems to me that the State of South Carolina has not thought in terms of the state as a whole."

Other areas which received specific attention were:

1. Education
   a. Buildings generally good, but often laboratory equipment and books for libraries totally inadequate

   b. Teachers often fear loss of job, and therefore have less freedom to teach effectively

   c. Communities should not neglect pressing for equality of facilities while they are pushing for integration

"Guidance is a greater necessity in Negro schools than in white ones...Fear and insecurity affects what is taught...It is a vicious circle. Poor teachers give poor students."

"We should continue to do all we can in our localities from the standpoint of meeting educational needs wherever they are. There are many areas where integration will not answer the needs. We should work toward integration, yes, but at the same time we should work within the framework we have."

"I think somehow or other we are going to have to get to individuals. For a long time I have felt that this is our greatest weakness. I would like to see some of us get to teachers. If you are a good teacher, people don't throw you away. How can we liberate them from fear?"

2. Registration and voting

   a. In most counties the problem is not one of overt prevention or refusal of registration privilege; however, there is widespread apathy and a certain amount of fear based on reprisals which have taken place.

   b. Use existing organizations to increase the use of the ballot, rather than setting up a new agency.

      "I think a job can be done through groups already formed. We should utilize such groups as school associations, church conferences, fraternal organizations. Lift it above the token announcement level."

      "In the last analysis, the only way you can reach the hard core of people is to go out and knock on doors. People must be constantly reminded and constantly encouraged."

3. Agriculture

   a. Problem of increasing effectiveness of extension work, particularly the circulation of information

      "Negroes lack long-range capital for farming on the scale required by the times. The young men who might "let the word become flesh" have left the farms and the state. You can't run to New York and run a farm in South Carolina."

      "What about the problems of managing a complicated paper program which farmers must handle now? Are there still problems as far as the basic tools of education are concerned?"

The following suggestions were made concerning the future of the Final Report of the consultants:

1. That two written reports be drawn up:

   a. a strategic blueprint, for distribution to agencies and individuals interested in putting the Report into action

   b. a popular version of the work of the consultants made available for popular distribution

2. Working agencies in South Carolina will be called upon to join in the task of implementing the Final Report. It is hoped that Penn Community Services can be instrumental in bringing such groups together for this job.

   "I think the recommendations in the Preliminary Report fit the shoe exactly -- especially the need for discovering new leadership."

"The white South has always tried to keep the Negro irresponsible. The Negro who permits himself to be irresponsible is playing into the hands of the conservative white South."

SOUTH CAROLINA CONSULTANTS

Clyde Barrington, Box 769, Conway, S. C.
Businessman, formerly with American Friends' Service Committee
Merit Employment Program; chapter in South Carolinians Speak

Leroy E. Browne, Penn Community Services, Inc., Frogmore
Recently elected member of Beaufort County Board of Directors

Rev. David Carter, Benedict College, Columbia
President, S. C. Student Movement Association

John S. Cole, P. O. Box 252, Cheraw -- School Principal

James McBride Dabbs, Mayesville
Farmer, writer, president of Southern Regional Council

Mrs. Ernestine Felder, 111 Alexander St., Charleston
Member of Executive Board of YWCA

Mrs. Josie Hazel, 322 Fairfield, N. E., Aiken -- YWCA Executive Director

James A. Hodge, Route 2, Box 70, Mullins -- Farmer, businessman

Dr. Frederick C. James, Mount Pisgah AME Church, Sumter
Consultant Director, Commission on Social Action, AME Church

Esau Jenkins, 244 Spring Street, Charleston -- Businessman
President, Citizens' Committee of Charleston
President, Charleston chapter, Palmetto Voters' Association

Lincoln Jenkins, 1107½ Washington St., Columbia -- Attorney, Civic Leader

Mrs. Iola Jones, 711 Oakland Ave., Florence
Case Worker, Dept. of Public Welfare, Children's Division

Rev. M. D. McCollum, 191 Boulevard N.E., Orangeburg -- Minister, Leader

Rev. Clifton Miller, P. O. Box 140, Beaufort -- Pastor, Grace AME Church

R. J. Palmer, 308 S. Main Street, Sumter Mortician
Member, National Commission on Social Concerns, Methodist Church

Miss Vernita A. Robinson, 707 Manning St., Florence - Teacher
President, Florence Council of Negro Women

Rev. Mack E. Sharpe, Tabernacle Baptist Church, Beaufort
Delegate to State Democratic Convention; Member of United Fund Board

Mrs. Alice Spearman, S. C. Council on Human Relations, Columbia

Mrs. Mary B. Thomas, 312 Oak Street, Seneca -- Grand Worthy Matron, Eastern Star

Mrs. Mabel P. Washington, Frogmore -- Home Demonstration Agent, Beaufort County

Mrs. Alethia S. Worthy, Claflin College, Orangeburg

STAFF AND OBSERVERS: Courtney Siceloff, Norman and Elsie Richards, Sally Holden; Mr. B. H. Washington, Dr. Harry E. Thomas, Dr. and Mrs. Percy Baker.

File

SOUTH CAROLINA CONSULTANTS
August 19-21, 1960

PROPOSED AGENDA

Second Consultation on Human Relations Programming in South Carolina

Penn Community Center

I. Preliminary consultation reports.

A. Report of preliminary consultation, May 13-15
1. Revisions or additions.
2. Afterthoughts, revisions, additions.

B. Report of consultation of S. C. leadership, July 22-23
1. Areas of agreement, disagreement May report.
2. General evaluation

II. Recommendations for implementation.

A. Research projects. Who and how?

1. Scrope and nature of Negro employment in South Carolina. Possible help from A.F.S.C., Palmetto Education Association, Urban League.

2. Health and welfare facilities. Regional health study by S.R.C.?

3. Parks and recreational facilities.

4. Libraries.

5. Educational facilities. Palmetto Education Association?

6. Possible use of social science departments of private Negro colleges as suggested in July consultation.

B. Negro registration, voting, political activity.

1. Consideration of staffed project as suggested in May Report.

2. Possible pilot project in Beaufort County, based at Penn Center.

3. Other suggestions.

C. Emphasis on improved access to peripheral facilities.

D. Use of possible federal leverage, Civil Rights Commission, Department of Justice, President's committees.

E. Mailings of selected materials to various leadership groups.

F. Use of possible leverage through central offices of national business, labor and other groups with operations in the state.

G. Efforts to obtain stronger vocational guidance programs in Negro schools. Possible project of Palmetto Education Association.

Proposed Agenda

H. Special activities with Negro ministers. Opening of further channels of communications between white and Negro ministers. Cooperation with schools for Negro ministers sponsored by Morris and Benedict Colleges as suggested in May report.

I. Providing more inter-racial experiences for young people in and out of the state. A.F.S.C. projects. Penn workshops.

J. Emphasis on increased development and use of women leaders in the Negro community. Possible projects of Negro Pan-Hellenic Council, state Council of Negro Women, National Board of Y.W.C.A.

III. Followup activity.

A. Form of final report. Recommendation for preparation of two reports. (July consultation)

B. July consultation suggestion of a general publication emphasizing the facts concerning the present, relative situation of white and Negro citizens in South Carolina.

C. Coordination of follow-up activities by various agencies and groups.

D. Possible future meeting of South Carolina leaders.

E. Other.

RURAL CONSULTATION August 21, 1960

SUMMARY OF DISCUSSIONS SO FAR

1. Fact-finding

It was suggested that the research recommendations of the May and July consultations be implemented through the establishment of a two-year research and fact-finding effort headed by a professional staff person. This person would coordinate fact-finding by available college teachers and interested organizations. He would also work with local groups interested in carrying on merit employment service and other local fact-finding.

It was suggested that Claflim College be approached by a committee of the Consultation about becoming the base of this project. The director of the South Carolina Council on Human Relations will take the initiative in scheduling an appointment for the committee with the President of Claflin. If this is not possible, the South Carolina Council will apply directly for the necessary funds.

2. Beaufort Pilot Project

The consultants strongly endorse the idea of a community laboratory effort in Beaufort and contiguous counties by the Penn Community Center. It was felt that such an effort would be aimed at improving the status of Negro citizens, motivating them to more enlightened political effort, and preparation of the entire community for the more rapid implementation of desegregation. The project would concentrate on problems in the field of health, economic status and education. Many of the activities discussed by this consultation could be stresssd in Beaufort as part of this effort. This could include special work with ministers, intensive voting and research efforts, etc. It was felt that Penn should be encouraged to add a permanent program specialist to its staff as part of this effort.

3. Negro Registration and Voting

It was felt that this should be encouraged. It was noted that where Negro candidates have offered for public office, there has been an up-surge of Negro participation in voting. It was emphasized that illegal interference with Negro voting and violation of civil rights in connection with voting should by all means be reported to the Civil Rights Commission and to the Department of Justice. Under the authority of recent civil rights acts, these groups seem to be geared to rapid action on such complaints.

4. Emphasis on Peripheral Facilities

It was again noted that sometimes such peripheral areas as municipal transportation, health and welfare services, etc., can be more easily desegregated than the more emotionally charged areas such as schools. It was suggested that local groups be encouraged to probe such possibilities and that ther there be more intensive efforts to encourage Negroes to take advantage of gains made in these areas. It was thought that such emphasis could be carried through family life institutes, churches, etc. It was noted that the National Council of Negro Women in this region is interested in this aspect of the problem.

5. Increased Use of Federal Leverage

It was felt that we have not yet made maximum use of potential assistance from such federal agencies as the Civil Rights Commission and its State Advisory groups, the Department of Justice, and the President's Committee on Employment Policy and Government Contracts. These groups are intensifying their activity in this election year; they may be of even broader value after the election, if there is a change of tone in the executive branch. It was agreed that research findings should be channeled to such groups, that direct contact be established with these groups by South Carolina organizations, and that complaints be referred to the appropriate federal agancies with dispatch. The value of direct contact between human relations groups in the South and griendly members of the national Congress was also emphasized.

6. Mailings of human relations materials.

It was agreed that distribution of strategic materials through such agencies as SCCHR and the Palmetto Education Association be conducted and explored. It was suggested that religious groups be approached as to the possibility of their preparing and distributing materials or human relations tracts. The need was emphasized for insuring that the right materials reach the decision-makers in South Carolina. It was suggested that a list of sources of human relations materials be included in our final report for the use of interested individuals and groups.

7. Vocational Guidance

The inadequacy of vocational guidance programs was noted, both from the standpoint of need and the disparity of white and Negro programs. The Palmetto Education Association was urged to tontinue its efforts to strengthen and expand these programs. It was hoped that vocational guidance could be a part of the Penn Center pilot effort in Beaufort County. It was suggested that several publications pointing out the scope of available employment and emphasizing the success of some Negroes might be helpful to high school students. It was agreed that Mr. Solomon would approach Ebony Magazine for a possible publication by them. As an incentive to encourage application for public employment, it was suggested that Negro Civil Service employees be invited to high school career days and otherwise put in tontact with high school students.

8. School Desegregation

The consultation agreed that the time has come for South Carolina to provide some compliance with the 1954 decision. It was noted in this connection that the state equalization program has not been successful, and that gross inequalities still exist between white and Negro schools. It was agreed that these inequalities need to be brought to the attention of white people throughout the state. It was felt that there are in South Carolina several areas of less resistance to implementation of school desegregation. It was noted that there is a strong need for desegregation of institutions of higher learning if Negro students at higher levels are to receive education within the state. It was noted that many of the activities being considered at the Consultation will indirectly help prepare local communities for desegregation. It was suggested that the High Point office of the American Friends Serviced Committee be approached concerning possible extension of school desegregation activities into South Carolina. It was felt that latent support for public schools be located and utilized in case of a threat of school closure.

9. Special Activities with Ministers

The SCCHR agreed to contact the appropriate bodies of national denominations concerning national workshops in the area of social concerns so that greater numbers of South Carolina ministers could attend such meetings. Arrangements have been made to stress the role of Negro ministers in human relations programs in the future workshops for Negro ministers at Morris and Benedict Colleges. It was felt that efforts to broaden interracial contacts between white and Negro ministers should be continued and explored, but it was noted that formal desegregation of such ministers' groups as those that functioned in Beaufort, Columbia, and Rock Hill did not have constructive results. It was, therefore, felt that more informal interracial groups among those sincerely interested would be of greater value.

10. Youth Work

It was again agreed that opportunities for interracial experiences need to be broadened by white and Negro young people of South Carolina. The SCCHR will continue to work to encourage more young people to attend conferences outside of the state, including such as the Encampment for Citizenship, the annual Fisk conference, religious meetings and AFSC projects. It was suggested that the AFSC consider the possiblity of sponsoring a seminar within the state. It was urged that where possible, interracial college and/or other groups be organized within the state, as has been done by SCCHR in Columbia.

SP 1.2305

JB.10513

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

(Formerly Penn Normal, Industrial and Agricultural School)

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Paul W. Brown, Jr.
Chairman
Philadelphia National Bank
Broad and Chestnut Streets
Philadelphia 1, Pa.

William E. Cadbury
Vice-Chairman
Philadelphia, Pa.

Mrs. Eugene Spearman
Secretary
Columbia, S. C.

Robert Ogden Purves
Racebrook Road
Woodbridge, Conn.

Dr. George H. Aull
Clemson, S. C.

B. Tartt Bell
Greensboro, N. C.

Miss Isabella Curtis
Manchester, Mass.

Dr. J. Curtis Dixon
Atlanta, Georgia

Harold Evans
Philadelphia, Pa.

Miss Grace B. House
Orient, Long Island, N. Y.

Mrs. Horace H. Jenks
Wilton, Conn.

Dr. Benjamin E. Mays
Atlanta, Ga.

Dr. Ira DeA. Reid
Haverford, Pa.

Mrs. Edward G. Sanders
St. Helena Island, S. C.

A. M. Secrest
Cheraw, S. C.

John A. Silver
Pipersville, Pa.

W. E. Solomon
Columbia, S. C.

Rev. Cornelius A. Wood, Jr.
Washington, D. C.

L. Hollingsworth Wood
Mt. Kisco, New York

Joseph Wright
Beaufort, S. C.

Hon. Marion A. Wright
Linville Falls, N. C.

ADVISORY BOARD

Mrs. Y. W. Bailey
St. Helena Island, S. C.

Francis R. Cope, Jr.
Dimock, Pa.

J. Nelson Frierson
Charleston, S. C.

Paul Kellogg
New York, N. Y.

Mrs. William W. Smith, II
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

September 7, 1960

John Constable
Southern Regional Council
5 Forsyth Street NW
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear John:

This letterhead is a good example to prove your point about using the names of Trustees. It is out of date, but we have a big supply, and are trying to use them up.

In the meeting of rural consultants we talked a lot about using the booklet "A Second Look at Atlanta" as a model for some sort of self-survey in South Carolina. We would appreciate your having someone send us ten copies of this publication, with bill, when the trauma of moving the office is over.

We camped at the beach weekend and it was beautiful. The "spring tide" nearly came into our tent.

Sincerely yours,

Courtney Siceloff

cs/es

(10) order submitted 9-13-60

MF -

Please copy the Winfield Scott ltr and return orig. to Sicelloff with attached note. Circulate the copy to PR, LWD, PA.

9/29/60

H.

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

9/26/60

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

September 23, 1960

Harold Fleming
Southern Regional Council
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Harold:

I thought that you would be interested in seeing the enclosed letter. Besides its having some bearing on SRC's tabulation of recreational facilities, I thought that Negroes in the Atlanta area might be interested in the availability of these facilities. Lake Winfield Scott is in north Georgia, probably within a hundred miles of Atlanta.

We would appreciate having this letter returned.

With best regards,

Sincerely yours,

Courtney Siceloff

cs/es
enclosure

P.S. I imagine that the rain which falls so abundantly at Lake W. Scott would fall with equal, non-discriminatory wetness on Negro and white. (Eliz.)

NEWS...
from PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES

RECEIVED
OCT 4 1960

Frogmore, South Carolina
September 30, 1960

To: Participants in Consultations
Study on Human Relations Programming in S. C.

From: Courtney Siceloff, Director
Penn Community Services, Inc.

Re: Final Report

Enclosed is the final report of the study on human relations programming in South Carolina.

As directed at the August 19-21 consultation, Paul Rilling prepared a preliminary draft and circulated it among seven other consultants. On the basis of their comments and suggestions, the final report was drawn up.

The Board of Trustees of Penn Community Services has been called to special meetings on October 7 and 8, to review this report and consider plans for implementation.

I would like to express my appreciation, and that of the Penn Board, for your participation in this project. We will keep you informed about future developments. In the meantime, please write us if you have other program suggestions (or other after-thoughts), and do not fail to visit us when you are nearby.

Special thanks are due Paul Rilling for his able chairing of the meetings and for a discerning report.

Dear Harold: We thought it wouldn't be necessary to send you a copy of this report! Thanks for all of the help from SRC. We did want you to have this propaganda which went out to all the consultants. We appreciate all the help you have given us.

Sincerely,

Courtney

Courtney Siceloff

HUMAN RELATIONS PROGRAMMING IN SOUTH CAROLINA

A report of three consultations on human relations concerns in South Carolina held at the Penn Community Center, May - August, 1960.

Penn Community Services
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, South Carolina
October 1, 1960

TABLE OF CONTENTS

	page
Introduction	i
Section I, The Nature of the Problem	1
Section II, Project Recommendations	4
Section III, Suggested Areas of Concentration	9
Appendix
List of Persons Attending Consultations	iv
Sources of Human Relations Materials	v

The state of South Carolina graphically illustrates the dilemma of the human relations agency in the Deep South today. Since 1954 there has been little change in the status of race relations in the state, yet national and international pressures for change mount inexorably. The people of South Carolina are unprepared for the hard choices and basic changes that lie ahead. In the face of this situation the leading regional and national human relations agencies are carrying forward a relatively slight effort within the state. Only three state-wide agencies maintain staffed operations in South Carolina; Penn Community Services, the South Carolina Council on Human Relations, and the state Conference of Branches of the N.A.A.C.P. Several other organizations are concerned with human relations as a partial program emphasis.

The major effort to encourage and implement progress in human relations in the South has been concentrated in the border states and the upper South. The theory has generally prevailed that changes in the patterns of segregation must be first accepted in these more receptive areas, moving gradually South "from the mountains to the sea." It has been hoped that as these areas found it possible to change their practices without major upheaval, a more receptive and realistic attitude would gradually develop in the Deep South states. This hope has not been realized. As the slow pace of change has moved South since 1954, in fact, there has been a stiffening of determination to resist in the states of Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, and South Carolina.

Time is running out for South Carolina. Two separate suits for school desegregation are pending in Clarendon County. The sit-ins of 1960 involved a number of communities within the state. There seems to be little realization that critical decisions lie just ahead.

This consultation project was developed by Penn Community Services in response to this situation. Foundation assistance was secured for the purpose of convening several consultations on human relations tactics and programming in rural South Carolina. This emphasis was based on the belief that the rural areas of the Deep South are the strongholds of resistance to change and that perhaps these areas require special efforts. It was hoped that any ideas that might be useful in rural South Carolina would be applicable as well to rural areas in Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, and Mississippi.

These consultations were not intended primarily to produce program ideas for Penn Community Services. It was thought that they might provide a number of suggestions which could be circulated to concerned persons and organizations. Penn Services acted in the role of convener and host.

The procedure developed took the form of a series of three meetings. In May, fifteen consultants, specialists in economics, sociology and human relations from across the nation, met at Penn Center in Frogmore, South Carolina for three days of discussion. In July, a group of 22 South Carolina leaders of both races held a two-day session at Penn Center to consider the preliminary report of the May meeting and to make other suggestions. In August the national consultants again convened to reconsider their own ideas and to examine those proposed by the South Carolina leaders. This third meeting adopted this report which will be circulated as an idea paper to interested agencies and institutions.

Although the project was conceived as a rural planning effort, the consultants decided to consider the entire state rather than to limit the scope of consideration to rural areas. There are only three metropolitan areas in the state and these barely qualify as such. The group felt that the whole of South Carolina might legitimately be considered as a "rural" area. It was emphasized that many problems of human relations programming are state-wide in nature.

I. THE NATURE OF THE PROBLEM

South Carolina is one of the Deep Southern states most firmly resisting the changes in human relations that are moving forward in the South and in the nation. This is one of four states with no desegregation of public educational facilities at the elementary, secondary, or college level. The channels of political expression are firmly under the control of bitter-end segregationists. The laws erected to preserve segregation are as strict and extreme as any in the South. If any state abandons its entire system of public education to evade compliance with the onstitution of the United States, that state may be South Carolina.

The factors behind the state's "massive resistance" posture are many: historical, political, economic, educational, cultural. South Carolina was one of the major slave-owning, plantation areas of the South prior to the Civil War. Until recent years the state has continued to be a largely agricultural, one-crop area, depending on a large percentage of cheap farm labor, primarily Negro. Since 1865 South Carolina has never been a prosperous state,although since World War II the state has responded increasingly to the nationwide trends toward urbanization and industrialization.

By national or even Southern standards, South Carolina has been and is a state of high Negro population, low living standards, low levels of educational achievement. As of 1957, Negroes were 39.6% of the total population, an increase from 38.9% in 1950.

In 1958,the per capita income in South Carolina stood at $1,218, 48th among the states.[1] In 1950, the median white income was $1,684, the median Negro income only $525, or less than a third as high.[2]

1. "Rankings of States," National Education Association, 1960.
2. U. S. Census of Population, 1950, U. S. Government Printing Office, 1952.

South Carolina ranked lowest in the nation in 1950 in terms of educational attainment. The average South Carolinian has achieved 7.6 years of formal education as compared with a national average of 9.3 years. Again the racial disparity is marked. The Negro median was 4.8 years.[1] One need not look further to understand the relative lack of trained Negro leadership in the state. These factors interact. Many of the state's Negro clergy, natural community leadership, are largely untrained. Economic pressures force a large number of these ministers to hold several jobs.

The economic picture in the state is changing. Between 1840 and 1950 the percentage of whites living in urban situations increased from 27.3% to 41.9%. The urban Negro population grew from 20.9% to 28.6% of the total Negro population of the state.[2] In the rural areas there is a trend to farm mechanization which has led to a surplus of unskilled farm labor.

South Carolina is sharing in the gradual loss of population through outmigration from a number of southeastern states. From 1950 to 1957, those who left the state exceeded the persons moving in by 5.2%.[3] The total population of the state, however, increased 11.4% from 1950 to 1960.[4] Too often those leaving the state are the more talented, the better educated persons in the productive age groups. This is true of both racial groups, but particularly of Negroes. South Carolina raises and partially trains a large number of talented Negro leaders who contribute their skills to other communities in states North and West.

---

1. "Rankings of States," op. cit.
2. U. S. Census, op. cit.
3. "Rankings of States," op. cit.
4. U. S. Census, op. cit.

The political system of the state is so organized that disproportionate control rests in the more conservative, rural plantation areas. This control is protected by outmoded legislative apportionment formulas and by the considerable power in the hands of the State Senate which is less representative of population distribution than is the lower house of the legislature.

The Negro has little voice in political decisions, although this voice is growing in several cities. Only 14.8% of Negroes over 21 are registered to vote in South Carolina as compared to 63.2% of white citizens over 21. [1.] Of course the Negro is an ever-present issue in state politics.

These conditions support and perpetuate each other. Economically depressed Negro citizens have little educational incentive. Persons with below-average education are less likely to register and vote. Without an adequate political voice,Negroes continue to be grossly underrepresented at all levels of public life.

The human relations picture in South Carolina remains one of almost complete segregation of public facilities, of very little communication between the races above the kitchen level, of sharply unequal educational and economic opportunities for Negro citizens.

There can be little progress in human relations in South Carolina without significant improvement in the educational and economic status of all of its citizens, white and Negro alike. Improvement in these areas will inevitably encourage changes in the patterns of race relations.

---

1. Report off U. S. Commission on Civil Rights.

II. PROJECT RECOMMENDATIONS

The consultants urged the implementation of two major project efforts as soon as feasible: a state-wide, staffed, research and publications project; an intensive, staffed, pilot project in human relations programming in Beaufort County, South Carolina.

A. Research and Publication Project. There has been less research into human relations problems in South Carolina than in most of the Southern states. None of the state's public or private colleges and universities have initiated this type of research. There is a need to learn the present facts concerning conditions in South Carolina. There is an even greater need to disseminate these facts in such a way that they begin to have some impact on political and civic leadership and on public opinion in general.

Fact-finding and research could be carried forward at the same time by a variety of groups and individuals. Certain groups in South Carolina might be in a position to initiate fact-finding efforts. Some of the regional and national agencies might be willing to help with phases of this program. Some of the private colleges might be interested in cooperating through the involvement of faculty and graduate students. Self-survey efforts can be implemented by groups of persons in a given local community.

An intensive and fairly thorough research and publication effort concerning various phases of the current situation would require professional coordination. The consultants therefore recommend that support be solicited for a two-year project which would involve a full-time professional coordinator and secretarial assistance. Such a coordinator would determine what research and fact-finding facilities were available, would arrange for various aspects of the effort to be handled by groups and individuals, and would himself participate in some phases of the effort as well as coordinate the total project. There would be, from time to time, public reports or publications concerning the status of major problems and, perhaps, ultimately an over-all "look at South Carolina," along the lines of the recent Second Look at Atlanta.

The project should preferably be located at a private college which would make application for the necessary supporting funds. The project staff would be under the direction of the college but would be assisted by an advisory committee made up of persons experienced in research and in human relations problems. If it does not prove feasible to base such a project on a college campus,the staff professionals in South Carolina will explore alternative administrative arrangements. Tuskegee Institute is sponsoring a somewhat similar effort in Alabama and the two projects might be mutually helpful through the interchange of techniques and sources of information.

There are many areas of concern where fact-finding and research would be helpful. Some of these critical areas are:

(1) Educational Facilities. What is the present status of public educational facilities? To what extent and in what ways are they equal or unequal? What opportunities exist in the state for white and Negro teachers to meet and work together on educational concerns? How adequate is vocational guidance? This is particularly important if Negro young people are to be prepared for expanding opportunities. What areas of the state would be relatively more receptive to changes in the pattern of school segregation?

(2) Negro Employment. Are Negroes employed in public jobs at the federal, state and local government levels? In what categories of public employment? Where such employment is slight, is this the result of discrimination in hiring or the lack of qualified Negro applicants? What is the pattern of Negro employment in private industry? Does the pattern differ from community to community and from industry to industry? Are apprenticeship and training programs open to all qualified applicants? Is there underemployment of educated Negroes? Do employment and promotion policies differ in locally owned facilities and those of Northern or national interests? What is the relationship between prevailing employment practices and the out-migration of Negroes?

(3) Health and Welfare Services. Are equal facilities provided where segregated? Are some facilities open on a non-segregated basis? Are there adequate provisions for the training of Negro nurses and doctors within the state? Can they practice their professions without special restrictions? Are they permitted to join local and state professional associations? What are the employment policies of public and private welfare agencies?

(4) Library Facilities. To what extent are library facilities available to all citizens? Where segregated, are libraries provided in relatively equal numbers and quality?

(5) Public Recreational Facilities. Are any open to all? Are adequate recreational facilities provided in Negro neighborhoods? Have any parks or other facilities been closed to avoid desegregation?

(6) Federal Aid. Federal assistance to state and local public projects sometimes provides leverage for federal help in improving existing practices. How much federal aid has been accepted in South Carolina? Through what public programs? Have federal authorities set any standards concerning the use and availability of such programs or facilities? If so, are these standards applied?

(7) Official Negro Representation. To what extent are Negroes represented on such governmental bodies as city councils, city and county boards of education, city housing administrations, police and fire departments, etc.

Such an over-all fact-finding effort would provide the kind of total picture of the state that is not now available. Concerned organizations could easily find the program aspects of greatest need. With adequate publicity and circulation these findings could have an ultimate influence on federal assistance, the policies of public departments in the state, the thinking of influential leadership, and the state's self-image.

B. Beaufort Pilot Project. Beaufort County, South Carolina, would be a logical place to base an intensive human relations effort. Penn Community Services is located in Beaufort County. In one form or another, Penn Center has been located on St. Helena Island for nearly 100 years. It was originally established as a private school for the freedmen of the area. Since 1948, when formal education was turned over to the state, it has operated as a community and conference center. It is one of the few places in the entire state where interracial meetings are held. The staff of the Center are established and well known in the area. Penn has been carrying on various types of adult and community education activities for some years.

The history and tradition of the county are somewhat unique in South Carolina. A Deep South county with a 60% Negro population, the county has nonetheless enjoyed a degree of interracial cooperation and respect unusual in most parts of the state. A Negro recently was nominated in the Democratic primary as a candidate for the county board of supervisors, the first such election victory for a Negro in South Carolina since Reconstruction days. The Democratic nomination is tantamount to election in South Carolina. Of four Negroes elected as delegates to the state Democratic convention in 1960, two were from Beaufort County.

The county United Fund is desegregated in its leadership. Registration for voting is unrestricted and Negro political support is openly solicited. No lynchings mar the record of the county in the memory of any living resident,and police brutality is rare.

The consultants recommend that Penn Community Services consider the employment of an additional, full-time, permanent staff member. This would strengthen the Penn staff and make possible the implementation of such a pilot effort. Priority would be given to these suggested fields: health, employment, problems of the small, part-time farmer, education and the vocational guidance of young people, low-cost rural housing, basic citizenship education with an effort to relate voting and registration to other community problems and their solutions, and the rebuilding of communication between the races. Out of these efforts might come an improvement in the status of Negro citizens, motivation of the Negro community to more enlightened political effort, and preparation of the entire community for the changes that are to come.

If this pilot project is successful, adjacent counties could be involved and the techniques developed might be useful in future activities in South Carolina and elsewhere.

III. SUGGESTED AREAS OF CONCENTRATION

In addition to the above project proposals, the consultants recommend that the resources of interested groups and agencies be concentrated in the following problem areas. These are areas of obvious priority, where expanded efforts are needed to improve inequities and change existing practices.

A. Voting and Citizenship. Although the Negro population is 39.5% of the total as of 1957, only 14.9% of Negroes of voting age are registered to vote. [1] There are fewer actual barriers to Negro registration than in other deep South states, yet the Negro vote is light, generally unorganized, and exerts very little influence on the direction of government in the state with the exception of a few places such as Beaufort County. The key need is not simply more registration but intelligent organization and effective use of the ballot by Negro voters.

It is recommended that interested agencies select certain local communities for intensive efforts in the field of registration and voting. Past efforts have demonstrated that registration figures can be improved. Working through the churches and other civic and social organizations in a community, the voting problem can become a matter of community pride and door-to-door campaigns can be organized in the Negro communities. Where Negro candidates have offered for public office, there has been an up-surge of Negro participation in voting. Once registered, Negro voters need to be educated through discussion groups and workshops concerning the candidates and issues, and Negro leaders need to work toward the kind of united activity that has been developed in the Negro community of Durham, North Carolina and several other cities. Some South Carolina

---

1. Report of U. S. Commission on Civil Rights.

communities have already made considerable progress in this direction and might be able to provide leadership for other localities.

What is most needed is not a crash registration effort during national election years but continued, steady work at the community level. The Negro vote must be increasingly effective in the choice of local and county officials.

Instances of illegal interference with Negro voting and violation of civil rights in connection with voting should be reported to the Civil Rights Commission and to the Department of Justice. Under the authority of recent civil rights acts, these groups are empowered to take rapid action on such complaints.

B. Economic Opportunities. There has been some planning in this field in the state during recent years. There have been organized efforts to improve the situation in one or two communities. A more intensive state-wide effort is needed if the severe problem of unequal opportunities for Negroes is to be alleviated in the foreseeable future. As of 1950, the median income of white persons in South Carolina was $1,684, of Negro persons, $525. [1]

Among activities needed in this area of employment opportunities are:

(1) Efforts to ensure that qualified Negroes are available for non-traditional jobs and are making application for them. Negro Civil Service employees, for example, might be invited to high school career days and otherwise put into contact with high school students.

(2) Whatever changes in high school and college curricula may be necessary to properly prepare graduates for such jobs as may become increasingly available.

---

1. U. S. Census, op. cit.

(3) Strong representations to the Department of Education to broaden the scope and caliber of vocational guidance for Negro high school students. There is at present only one full-time vocational guidance counselor employed at a Negro school,although approximately 40 persons are so employed in the white schools of the state.

(4) Special efforts should be made to test the employment and promotional policies of federal agencies in the state and of private industries with federal contracts. These are particularly vulnerable situations because of federal laws and the activities of the President's Committees on Government Employment Policy and on Government Contracts. Public employment policies at state and local levels are also somewhat vulnerable to possible legal action and to political pressures.

(5) Surveys of the employment picture might be followed up with personal conferences with employers in private businesses. The American Friends Service Committee and the Urban League have had some success with processes of consultation and negotiation. These agencies might be willing to assist local leaders in South Carolina communities.

C. Education. The Clarendon County case was one of the original cases leading to the Supreme Court decision of 1954. Six years later, however, South Carolina remains one of four Southern states with no desegregation at either the university or public school level. There is every reason to suppose that desegregation at the level of higher education could be achieved as smoothly in South Carolina as in Louisiana. Very few suits are pending in the state in the area of public school desegregation, although past experience in other states indicates that the process might be achieved more easily in some of the larger metropolitan areas than in rural counties.

When South Carolina communities do face court desegregation orders, concerned groups and individuals should be alert to work with moderate elements in the community on the issue of preserving public schools and avoiding the tragic effects of closing as they were manifested in Virginia and Little Rock in 1958.

Even within the segregated framework of public education in the state, many changes are needed if the legitimate educational needs of Negro citizens are to be met. The facilities for training Negroes for nursing, medicine, and other professions are critically inadequate.

The educational needs of adults, particularly in the Negro communities, require more attention. Illiteracy is still widespread in the rural areas. Programs of adult education in basic reading, in citizenship and in consumer education could make a significant contribution towards the alleviation of several of the more serious problems facing depressed groups in the state.

D. Public Facilities. It might be possible to achieve the desegregation of libraries, municipal transportation systems or health and welfare services even in communities which are most strongly resistant to public school desegregation. In some Southern communities there is less emotional feeling and less intensive pressure from segregationist elements in connection with health, welfare and recreational facilities than with the school issue.

E. Communications. There is very little genuine communication between the races in the state, even at the local level. Consultation and discussion across racial lines has actually diminished since 1954-56. The momentum of recent developments has created problems of communication within as well as between white and Negro communities. Even among concerned whites there is confusion and misunderstanding between "moderates" and "liberals." Younger, more militant Negro leadership is increasingly challenging and prodding the older, established leaders of the Negro community. Here too, there are problems of communications.

Concerned groups and agencies can make a significant contribution to improving human relations in South Carolina by helping to open increased channels of communication within and between the racial groups. The following activities in this direction are suggested:

(1) Because of their role in the community it is important that white and Negro ministers should be known to each other and in some sort of regular contact. Where ministerial associations cannot be desegregated, denominational groups can sometimes meet on an inclusive basis. In some communities smaller discussion groups of those who are concerned can be established. South Carolina ministers can be encouraged to attend institutes and training sessions sponsored by church denominations outside the state.

(2) Women's religious groups have provided an important meeting ground for white and Negro women in most Southern states, including some Deep South states. Such groups in South Carolina should be encouraged to undertake more activities on an interracial basis.

(3) Persons sharing common professional concerns need to consult together and plan jointly for progress in their professional areas. Most of the communication which does take place in the state occurs at the professional level. Efforts should be made to strengthen communications within such professional disciplines as medicine, the law, education, as well as the ministry. Even where professional membership cannot be open to all, some discussion and involvement of both races is possible.

(4) It is important that young people in high school and college be given as many opportunities as possible to establish normal contact with their peers of both races. Such opportunities exist to some degree through activities outside the state such as the seminars of the American Friends Service Committee, the Encampment for Citizenship, etc. There have been meetings and work camps open to both races at the Penn Center. These experiences are reaching only a handful of student leaders at the present time. More young people need to be encouraged and assisted to participate in the natural experiences that are available outside the state. Perhaps such activities as A.F.S.C. seminars can be planned within the state.

(5) Opportunities for interracial fellowship outside of South Carolina need to be broadened for adults as well as for young people. Many persons within the state would gain a fresh perspective from meetings in other parts of nation. Such opportunities can be an important morale factor for persons working under difficult pressures in their local situations.

F. Distribution of Materials. In addition to materials that will be prepared under the recommended research and publication project, there are many excellent human relations materials already circulating in the South. These materials are not receiving maximum use and distribution within South Carolina. Agencies within the state should explore ways of reaching increasing numbers of opinion makers and others through direct mailing, distribution through religious and educational groups, etc. A list of sources of available human relations materials is included in the index of this report.

CONCLUSION

The winds of change that are sweeping across the South with varying degrees of intensity are felt today in South Carolina. Sit-in activities in South Carolina communities and elsewhere have demonstrated and have helped create impatience and a new militancy on the part of Negro leadership. The pressure will continue to grow as new advances are achieved in surrounding states. National public opinion, channeled through the communications media and reflected in the actions of the federal government, will have some impact on white reaction to this Negro pressure.

There are promising developments going forward within the state. A great deal has been spent in recent years to "equalize" Negro schools. Schools remain basically unequal but there has been significant improvement in the public education available to the Negro child. Living standards are low, but they are improving. The median income in South Carolina increased from $881 in 1950 to $1218 in 1958.[1] Considerable new industry has been moving into the upper part of the state. This increasing industrialization will mean changes in living standards and in political emphasis.

South Carolina needs to be prepared for the gradual demise of segregation in the public facilities of the state. This demise needs to be hastened and encouraged by legal, political and educational activities. It should be remembered, however, that the end of segregation is yet some years away. Quite probably the great majority of children now in school at every level will have to complete their education in segregated classes. In the short run, much can be done to improve the status and opportunities of Negro citizens within the present system. These things, too, are important. An improvement in the educational and economic status of Negro citizens would be a major contribution to more rapid elimination of discriminatory practices.

1. "Rankings of States," op. cit.

For the most part, human relations agencies have concentrated few resources in South Carolina. Now is the time. Many other groups and organizations can make important contributions; churches, unions, womens' groups, youth organizations, civic clubs, lodge and fraternal units, concerned citizens. It is hoped that this report will indicate some of the activities that will help South Carolina adjust to the future.

The problems of readjustments in race relations are inextricably linked with other problems of the future. We must solve these human problems if we are to expand economically and culturally. We must learn to live and work together. South Carolina needs the maximum contribution of all of its citizens.

A distinguished South Carolinian, James McBride Dabbs, has written "It is the strength of a conservative society that it carries the past with it; it is its weakness that it carries too much. It is the strength of the South that, though conservative, it has always had a frontier to strain and jar the old pattern. Within the last century that frontier has been overwhelming, and, faced with heart-breaking economic and social demands, we have let the pioneering instinct lie frustrated and festering within us. Happily, those days are either gone or going. Once again the old sense of something hid behind the ranges, of 'gold in them thar hills,' rises within us. Only, this time the mountains to be crossed are the mountains of the mind, and the gold to be found is the essential gold of happy human relations and the happy heart." [1]

---

1. Dabbs, James McBride, THE SOUTHERN HERITAGE, Alfred A. Knopf, 1958, p. 207.

PARTICIPANTS IN NATIONAL CONSULTATIONS

May, August, 1960

Leroy Browne, Penn Community Center.

Lee Coleman, Chairman, Departments of Sociology and Rural Sociology, University of Kentucky; Lexington, Kentucky.

Eugene Cox, Rural Life Specialist, National Council of Churches, 933 Chambliss Road; Memphis, Tennessee.

James McBride Dabbs, farmer and author, President of the Southern Regional Council; Mayesville, South Carolina.

Jean Fairfax, Director of Southern Programs, American Friends Service Committee; 160 N. 15th Street, Philadelphia 2, Pennsylvania.

Harold Fleming, Director, Southern Regional Council; 5 Forsyth Street, N.W.; Atlanta 3, Georgia.

C. G. Gomillion, Professor of Social Science, Tuskegee Institute, board member of Tuskegee Civic Improvement Association; Tuskegee, Alabama.

Charles Jones, minister, Community Church; Chapel Hill, North Carolina.

Ira DeA. Reid, Chairman, Department of Sociology; Haverford College, Pennsylvania.

Paul Rilling, Director of Field Activities, Southern Regional Council.

Courtney Siceloff, Director, Penn Community Services, Inc.; Frogmore, South Carolina.

Walker Solomon, Executive Secretary, Palmetto Education Association; 1719 Taylor Street, Columbia, South Carolina.

Mrs. Alice N. Spearman, Director, South Carolina Council on Human Relations; 1330 Laurel Street, Columbia, South Carolina.

Marion A. Wright, lawyer; Chairman, Board of Trustees, Penn Community Services; Linville Falls, North Carolina.

Wilmer Young, teacher of social studies, Pendle Hill; Wallingford, Pennsylvania. (former worker with tenant farmers in Abbeville, S. C.)

SOURCES OF HUMAN RELATIONS MATERIALS

1. American Jewish Committee
   165 E. 56th Street
   New York 22, New York

2. American Jewish Congress
   Stephen Wise Congress House
   15 E. 84th Street
   New York 28, New York

3. American Friends Service Committee
   Southeastern Regional Office
   P. O. Box 1307
   High Point, North Carolina

   National Office
   160 N. 15th Street
   Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

4. Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith
   Southeastern Regional Office
   41 Exchange Place, S. E.
   Atlanta 3, Georgia

   National Office
   515 Madison Avenue
   New York, New York

5. The Christian Life Commission of the Southern Baptist Convention
   161 Eighth Avenue, North
   Nashville, Tennessee

6. Race Relations Department Board of Home Missions
   United Church of Christ
   287 Fourth Avenue
   New York 10, New York

   Southern Office
   Fisk University
   Nashville 8, Tennessee

7. National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church
   Division of Christian Citizenship
   281 Fourth Avenue
   New York 10, New York

   Southern Office
   P. O. Box 853
   Lynchburg, Virginia

8. The Board of Social Missions
   United Lutheran Church in America
   231 Madison Avenue
   New York 16, New York

9. The Board of Social & Economic Relations, The Methodist Church
   740 Rush Street
   Chicago 11, Illinois

10. Women's Division of Christian Service, Board of Missions, The Methodist Church
    475 Riverside Drive
    New York 27, New York

11. National Association for the Advancement of Colored People
    20 W. 40th Street
    New York 18, New York

    Southeastern Regional Office
    859½ Hunter Street, N. W.
    Atlanta, Georgia

12. National Conference of Christians and Jews
    43 W. 57th Street
    New York 19, New York

    Southeastern Division
    P. O. Box 8507
    Guilford College, North Carolina

13. National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S. A.
    Division of Christian Life and Work
    Department of Racial & Cultural Relations
    297 Fourth Avenue
    New York 10, New York

    Division of Home Missions
    257 Fourth Avenue
    New York 10, New York

    General Department of United Church Women
    475 Riverside Drive
    New York 27, New York

National Council of Churches - continued

Southern Office
Department of Racial and Cultural Relations
P. O. Box 1083
Nashville, Tennessee

14. National Labor Service
165 E. 56th Street
New York 22, New York

15. National Urban League
14 E. 48th Street
New York 17, New York

Southern Field Division
250 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta, Georgia

16. The Board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian Church
830 Witherspoon Building
Philadelphia 7, Pennsylvania

17. South Carolina Council on Human Relations
1330 Laurel Street
Columbia, South Carolina

18. Southern Christian Leadership Conference
208 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta, Georgia

19. Southern Regional Council
5 Forsyth Street, N. W., Rm. 201
Atlanta, Georgia

20. United Automobile Workers
Fair Practices and Anti-Discrimination Department Solidarity House
8000 East Jefferson Avenue
Detroit 14, Michigan

21. National Board - YWCA
600 Lexington Avenue
New York 22, New York

Southern Regional Office
41 Exchange Place, S. E.
Atlanta, Georgia

22. National Council of YMCA's
291 Broadway
New York 7, New York

Southern Area Council of YMCA's
706 Standard Building
Atlanta 3, Georgia

23. Commission on Civil Rights
726 Jackson Place, N. W.
Washington 25, D. C.

24. President's Committee on Government Contracts
Washington 25, D. C.

25. AFL - CIO, Department of Civil Rights
815 - 16th Street, N. W.
Washington 6, D. C.

26. President's Committee on Government Employment Policy
Room 308, Civil Service Commission Building
Washington 25, D. C.

27. American Civil Liberties Union
170 Fifth Avenue
New York 10, New York

28. American Council on Human Rights
1130 Sixth Avenue
Washington, D. C.

29. Congress of Racial Equality
38 Park Row
New York 38, New York

30. Institute for American Democracy
515 Madison Avenue
New York 22, New York

Penn Community Services

Penn Community Service has expanded its adult educational program to emphasize total community development in rural South Carolina. Penn continues to be a community center for the people of St. Helena and its neighboring islands and a conference site for organizations seeking solutions to the South's many problems.

OUR NEW ROLE IN THE SOUTH

The urban South, with problems accompanying in-migration and a booming industrial society, has captured the attention of groups and individuals interested in the future of the new South. Conversely, it is now imperative that the rural South be re-examined and a program of community education and leadership development be made available to parallel progress in the urban centers of the South. Penn has served this need on St. Helena Island. Its new role is expanding these services to all of Beaufort County and into the state of South Carolina.

BEAUFORT COUNTY PILOT PROJECT . . .

Some techniques employed on St. Helena Island and now being extended include . . .

- Practice sessions on voter registration
- Low cost housing techniques
- Program to reduce illiteracy through the coordination of trained teachers working with special television programs
- Consumer education
- Crop diversification, home gardens, and other agricultural projects

AS A CONFERENCE CENTER WITH . . .

Conference on Social and Economic Problems, Midwife Institutes, Conference on Citizenship, Workshop on Merit Employment, Workshops on Consumer Problems, Workshops on Voter Registration, Interagency Conference: Southwide Group of Human Relations Agencies, Penn Rural Consultants Study, Friends' Work Camp, Palmetto Teachers' Association, University of North Carolina Student Work Camp, Negro and White Ministers' Workshop, Southern Campus Student Religious Workers.

PENN CONTINUES AS A COMMUNITY CENTER WITH . . .

Day Nursery, Health Center, Library, Co-operative Marketing, Homemaking Classes, Sales House, and in furnishing a meeting and recreational center for St. Helena Island.

Penn Community Services

A TWO-FOLD ACTION-ORIENTED RESEARCH PROGRAM

- Leadership workshops at Penn Center
- Local demonstrations and Consultations throughout lower South Carolina by Penn's expanded and experienced staff

IN AREAS OF . . .

- Health
- Adult Education
- Registration and Voting
- Employment
- Agriculture

Penn Community Services

Marion A. Wright, Chairman, Linville Falls, N. C.
William E. Cadbury, Vice Chairman, Philadelphia, Pa.
Cornelius A. Wood, Jr., Secretary, Washington, D. C.
William A. Clement, Treasurer, Durham, N. C.
George H. Aull, Clemson, S. C.
Clyde Barrington, Dillon, S. C.
B. Tartt Bell, New York, N. Y.
Paul W. Brown, Jr., Philadelphia, Pa.
Will D. Campbell, Nashville, Tenn.
Miss Isabella Curtis, Manchester, Mass.
James McBride Dabbs, Mayesville, S. C.
Harold Evans, Philadelphia, Pa.
Willis Gardner, St. Helena Island, S. C.
John W. Hardy, Beaufort, S. C.
Miss Grace B. House, Orient, Long Island, N. Y.
Edward N. Jenks, Paris, France
Mrs. Donald S. McChesney, Syracuse, N. Y.
Mrs. James L. McConaughy, Hartford, Conn.
Robert K. Mooney, Hartford, Conn.
Ira De A. Reid, Haverford, Pa.
Mrs. Edward G. Sanders, St. Helena Island, S. C.
Rev. Mack E. Sharpe, Beaufort, S. C.
Mrs. Eugene Spearman, Columbia, S. C.

Mrs. Y. W. Bailey, St. Helena Island, S. C.
George A. Buchanan, Jr., Columbia, S. C.
Francis R. Cope, Jr., Dimock, Pa.
Mrs. Ruby P. Cornwell, Charleston, S. C.
Miss Wil Lou Grey, Columbia, S. C.
Carey E. Haigler, Charlotte, N. C.
Mrs. Grace T. Hamilton, Atlanta, Ga.
Miss Leila Johnson, Murrells Inlet, S. C.
Benjamin E. Mays, Atlanta, Ga.
O. R. Reubin, Sumter, S. C.
Paul Rilling, Atlanta, Ga.
A. M. Secrest, Cheraw, S. C.
Mrs. William W. Smith, II, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.
W. E. Solomon, Columbia, S. C.

"The work of Penn is supported by participants, a small endowment, and contributions enabling this important project to continue. Gifts to Penn are tax deductible."

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

St. Helena Island Frogmore, South Carolina

Courtney Siceloff
Director

October 6, 1960

John Constable
Southern Regional Council
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear John:

I understand that two studies have been made on schools in Georgia recently. I don't know if these have been published or even completed, but wanted to ask if you would help us to get copies when they are available.

It is possible that there will be some sort of study made in this state, with a comparison of facilities. At least that was one of the recommendations of our consultants.

Sincerely yours,

Courtney Siceloff

cs/es

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED
ST. HELENA ISLAND
FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

December 14, 1960

To: Participating Agencies
Southern Interagency Conference

From: Courtney Siceloff

Re: HUMAN RELATIONS PROGRAMMING IN SOUTH CAROLINA

Paul Rilling reported at the last interagency meeting that the South Carolina study undertaken at Penn Center had been completed. A copy of the report, HUMAN RELATIONS PROGRAMMING IN SOUTH CAROLINA, is enclosed.

From the beginning it has been felt that the usefulness of this study was not limited to the state of South Carolina; that its exploration of problems and possible solutions could have significance for other "Deep South" states. We would be glad to have any comments or reactions.

We are now beginning to move toward implementation of the consultants' recommendations. Negotiations are under way in the attempt to locate a college which would serve as a base for Project A, the research and publication effort. Penn Community Services has undertaken Project B, the Beaufort County Pilot Project. A foundation grant has been secured to finance a three-year program of adult education, vocational guidance and community development. We are now looking for a staff member to head this important program. (See the enclosed job description.) Your suggestions will be greatly appreciated.

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INC.

St. Helena Island Frogmore, South Carolina

Position: Field Worker in Community Development

Job Description: Penn Community Services, Inc. is seeking a Negro man for the new position of Field Worker in community development. The primary job of the Field Worker will be to help local people develop their leadership potential through work on such community project areas as health and sanitation, voter registration, consumer education, and improvement of the economic status of rural families.

Qualifications: It is expected that academic training and several years' field experience in some allied field (extension work, adult or rural education, social group work, community organization) would be necessary to qualify applicants for the position. Other qualifications would include the following:

1. Self-reliance in exploring new areas; the capacity to size up a situation and develop creative approaches to problems at hand.

2. Practical experience in a southern, and preferably rural, situation.

3. Personal qualities adapted to working with people and developing responsible local leadership. Commitment to the Penn philosophy that the ultimate strength and development of a community consists in the growth of individuals to their full potential, rather than the completion of specific projects.

4. Capacity for close teamwork and coordination in the total staff efforts of Penn Community Services.

5. Ability to analyze and report progress in the field work so that the pilot project may suggest techniques to other communities and help to chart Penn's future program.

Background and Location: Penn Community Services, Inc. is a community and conference center located on St. Helena Island, one of a cluster of sea islands on the South Carolina coast. Founded in 1862, Penn School (our predecessor) was one of the earliest of the schools for Negroes. In addition to the local self-help community program, Penn Center offers one of the few facilities for interracial groups in the South.

Penn Center is seven miles from the Beaufort County seat (town of Beaufort, population 6,400), approximately midway between Charleston and Savannah. It is ten miles from the Atlantic Ocean. Beaufort is a rapidly developing low-country county (population 48,000; 60% Negro) in which rural underemployment is partially offset by three large military installations and by seasonal employment in the truck farm and seafood industries.

Salary: Annual salary, $5,000 plus a furnished house, medical insurance. Three-week annual vacation.

Address: Please address inquiries to: Courtney Siceloff, Director
Penn Community Services, Inc.
Frogmore, S. C.

File

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

Rec'd 12-21-60

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

December 20, 1960

Harold Fleming
Southern Regional Council
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Harold:

As you may have heard from Paul Rilling, a group of us met with President Manning at Claflin College last week to discuss with him the possibility of basing the proposed South Carolina research project at Claflin. President Manning was quite interested in the idea.

We have offered to assist President Manning in drawing up a proposal to request financial support for the research project. I wonder if we could get together to talk about this a little when I come to Atlanta to the interagency meeting. Would you have any time on Wednesday afternoon, January 4, after the interagency meeting ends (ostensibly) at three p.m.?

Sincerely yours,

Courtney Siceloff

cc: Paul Rilling
Mrs. Alice Spearman

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED
ST. HELENA ISLAND
FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

December 20, 1960

Harold Fleming
Southern Regional Council
5 Forsyth Street
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Harold:

Enclosed is a brief summary of developments in the Beaufort self-survey, written by Bob Stowell of our staff, who worked very closely with this project.

We would like to express our appreciation to the Southern Regional Council for its assistance in this effort. The services of Herman Long were invaluable.

Although, as the summary points out, the outcome of the community meeting was negative, we feel that much was gained by getting the group together. There are few occasions when Beaufort people can sit down together in a biracial group and discuss any subject. We are trying to keep the lines of communication open. The morning after that meeting, we received the SRC Special Report L-21 on "Public Schools and Community Development." We sent it at once to the Beaufort person who had been at the meeting and who had felt a survey so unnecessary - a man who spends a great deal of time trying to attract industry to Beaufort. We have ordered extra copies to send to others who were at the meeting, along with Report L-22, which is equally pertinent.

Sunday night we had the "mystery play" which is given at Penn every two years. Father Anderson of the Catholic Church in Beaufort was here, as he always is, and he made this statement: "When I came into the meeting, I said, 'Who are we to get anything done -- Catholics, Jews, and Negroes!'"

Sincerely yours,

Courtney Siceloff

cc: John Hope II
Paul Rilling

Beaufort Self-Survey

In October the Council on Human Relations for Beaufort decided to sponsor a "self-survey" of the city. The Rev. Mack Sharpe was elected temporary chairman to arrange for an "organizing" meeting.

Two meetings were then held which included members of the Council on Human Relations and others in the community who were invited to take part in these preliminary discussions. An information sheet telling the purpose of the survey was prepared and given to all members. It was emphasized that the Council on Human Relations no longer was connected with the survey and that any survey group would be autonomous. Also, that the survey was of the entire community, not of any racial segment of it. It was thought that it would be primarily a FACT FINDING survey rather than one which made recommendations. The first meeting was well attended; the second meeting was poorly attended.

Several additional people were asked to come to a third meeting to discuss the desirability of a "first look at Beaufort." Penn staff members were responsible for asking many of those who were to come to the third meeting. Penn also arranged to have Herman Long come to give advice on self-surveys to the meeting through the courtesy of the Southern Regional Council. We also asked Dr. J. P. Hollis, former Superintendent of Schools in Greenville, to tell about his part in the survey in Greenville where he was chairman of the committee on housing.

At this third meeting, with fourteen present, Courtney Siceloff served as Chairman. Dr. Hollis emphasized the value of the survey to the community and that it was not an academic exercise. He said that the Greenville survey was done in 1950 and this was 1960. Herman Long then told how a survey can be carried out and emphasized the fact that it was a self-survey not by outside experts.

In the discussion period, three members of the group were of the opinion that such a survey would "upset the good relations" between the races in Beaufort. They also asked what was wrong with the city and why there was any need for a survey. The answer FACTS did not impress them. One of the most outspoken of those opposed took the attitude of "Leave it all to the City Fathers" and they will listen to any problems you may have. It was impossible to remove the emphasis on the two races in talking about the survey. The conclusion was that no further meetings were needed. One person said that this had been most valuable, because it provided a rare opportunity for Negro and white citizens to discuss mutual problems. It was clear that we did not have a strongly positive white person present who was convinced of the value of the survey (outside professionals - Penn staff and the consultants). Further action suggested was to secure the information in limited areas of concern to be discussed in small groups. Also that action might be forthcoming concerning the library and concerts. The consultants felt it had been a valuable and interesting meeting.

-Robert Stowell

December 20, 1960

John Constable
Director of Information
Southern Regional Council
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear John:

Will you please have someone send us 50 copies of the SRC Report L-22, with bill. We plan to send them to participants in our recent abortive effort toward a Beaufort self-survey.

We would also like to request copies (10) of their "outline of approach" which they say can be supplied, on page 7 of the memorandum. If you don't have this, would you please give us the address of the Florida Commission on Race Relations, so that we may write to them to request the outline?

With best wishes from all of us,

Sincerely yours,

Courtney Siceloff

cs/es

cc: Harold Fleming

COPY

December 21, 1960

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Penn Community Services
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

We are mailing you, under separate cover, 50 copies of L-22. These sell for .05 each.

We have only a few copies of the outline which you mentioned, and I am enclosing one of these. We are writing the Commission for additional copies; and if we receive them, we will mail you some extra copies.

With best wishes for a merry Christmas and a happy New Year to you, Lib, John and Mary,

Sincerely,

John Constable
Director of Information

JC/mf
Enclosure - 1.

File

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

December 20, 1960

John Constable
Director of Information
Southern Regional Council
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear John:

Will you please have someone send us 50 copies of the SRC Report L-22, with bill. We plan to send them to participants in our recent abortive effort toward a Beaufort self-survey.

We would also like to request copies (10) of their "outline of approach" which they say can be supplied, on page 7 of the memorandum. If you don't have this, would you please give us the address of the Florida Commission on Race Relations, so that we may write to them to request the outline?

With best wishes from all of us,

Sincerely yours,

Courtney Siceloff

cs/es

cc: Harold Fleming

December 22, 1960

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Director
Penn Community Services, Inc.
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

Harold is ill and at home. He should be here on January 4, and with any luck will be available in mid-afternoon.

All best wishes of the Season to you and the family.

Sincerely,

Paul Anthony
Executive Assistant

PA/mf

NEWS...
from PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES

St. Helena Island
Frogmore, S. C.
Spring 1960

Dear Friends:

We are grateful for the many gifts which came to help us repair the damage of last fall's hurricane. That has been our major activity through the winter. With Leroy Browne and his assistants fixing up roofs and chimneys, and Norman Richards and helpers clearing the grounds and replanting, Penn is turning over a new leaf in its history. The campus is much more open, the most diseased of the old oaks having been removed, and in a decade we should surpass the famous Charleston Gardens in landscaping beauty!

But now the activities of civil rights groups in the state begin to involve us very much, and we have to prepare a number of conferences for this spring.

A recent grant enables us to hold two conferences on registration and voting. The first, March 18-20, will concentrate on training workers for the more densely populated areas. On April 1-2 the rural areas of low population and literacy will be our focus. Looking toward the more fundamental reasons for failure in political activity and employment, Penn hopes to play a part in the coming adult basic literacy movement to begin in May. A three-month series of half-hour lessons will be shown over television, as a result of research at Campbell Folk School, Brasstown, North Carolina. Local classes of ten persons will gather around a television set with a volunteer teacher, working to reach high third-grade competency. This should enable students to read the Bible easily, obtain licenses and pass driver's tests, register to vote, and do simple arithmetic.

A grant has been requested for the study of inequalities of opportunity between the races in the rural South, and their causes of resistance to change. The proposed series of conferences this spring would bring together a group of specialists in human relations with practical experience in the rural South. We hope that the results will show Penn and other agencies how we can best direct and co-ordinate our efforts.

Courtney Siceloff has recently been appointed a member of the South Carolina Advisory Committee to the United States Commission on Civil Rights. The Committee will hear complaints on civil rights to help bring the facts into light.

We are keeping in close touch with Esau Jenkins in Charleston and on Johns Island, attending very stimulating meetings of his Charleston Citizen's Committee. Among other activities, this Committee seeks to end discrimination on the Charleston bus lines. It will be sponsoring a workshop on consumer education at Penn, March 25-27.

The recent wave of Negro student protest demonstrations concerns us. Courthey Siceloff, being also chairman of the South Carolina Council on Human Relations, helped issue a statement clarifying the broader meaning of these demonstrations, giving support to students in their creative attempts to break the stalemate of "token desegration". Most of the demonstrations have been non-violent in nature, with the police and city authorities acting impartially in many cases.

We caught some of this new spirit in a work-retreat group of Paine College (Augusta, Georgia) men last weekend. The retreat's theme was "Making Religion Live", led by professors Richard Stenhouse of the philosophy department, Cecil Powell of Sociology, and the college chaplain, M. S. Cherry.

A summer work camp of Young Friends, sponsored by the North Carolina Yearly Meeting of Friends, will be with us four or five weeks. This will be an older group (17-22 years old) than previous ones. The camp topic will concern the role of Friends in working for better race relations. The work projects will repair hurricane damage on St. Helena.

An important visitor, Mr. Gobezie Taffete, stayed with us for the Christmas holidays. He is director of basis education in Ethiopia, here as part of a two month tour of the United States under the sponsorship of the American Council on Education.

Before coming to St. Helena, he had visited adult education projects in Chicago, Nebraska, Santa Fe, and Berea, Kentucky. We tried to give him a rest and a good Christmas holiday, as well as meetings with significant local persons. He attended Christmas Sing telling something about the more austere and religious Christmas of his own national Coptic Church. Mr. Taffete left us with a lasting impression of calmness, deep faith and friendliness.

Visiting us also early this spring for a longer period are Bob and Ann Stowell with little Laurie. We welcome Bob's practical knowledge in all sorts of things, especially printing, and his aid to Leroy Browne in the repair work. Ann is a wonderful innovator of co-operative and friendly projects such as refinishing chairs and having pot-luck lunch after the weekly staff meeting. Hugh and Mary Middleton took part in all these activities while visiting us recently, impressing us also with their devotion to and understanding of the work of the American Friends Service Committee.

Norman Richards has begun to make an agricultural survey of St. Helena Island to review the role of the tomato marketing cooperative and to find new methods and techniques for part-time farmers in the changing agricultural scene.

In spite of our busy schedule for this spring, we look forward to visits from our friends and former conference participants, and hope we can use your talents at the same time.

With warm and friendly greetings,

The staff:

Courtney and Elizabeth Siceloff
Leroy and Corinne Browne
Norman and Elsie Richards

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

MARION A. WRIGHT
CHAIRMAN
LINVILLE FALLS, N.C.

WILLIAM E. CADBURY
VICE-CHAIRMAN
PHULADELPHIA, PA.

CORNELIUS A. WOOD, JR.
SECRETARY
1018 DUPONT CIRCLE BLDG.
WASHINGTON 6, D.C.

WILLIAM A. CLEMENT
TREASURER
P.O. BOX 201
DURHAM, N.C.

GEORGE H. AULL
CLEMSON, S.C.

CLYDE BARRINGTON
DILLON, S.C.

B. TARTT BELL
NEW YORK, N.Y.

PAUL W. BROWN, JR.
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

WILL D. CAMPBELL
NASHVILLE, TENN.

MISS ISABELLA CURTIS
BOSTON, MASS.

JAMES MCBRIDE DABBS
MAYESVILLE, S.C.

HAROLD EVANS
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

WILLIS GARDNER
ST. HELENA ISLAND, S.C.

JOHN HARDY
BEAUFORT, S.C.

MISS GRACE B. HOUSE
ORIENT, LONG ISLAND, N.Y.

EDWARD N. JENKS
PARIS, FRANCE

MRS. DONALD S. McCHESNEY
SYRACUSE, N.Y.

MRS. JAMES L. McCONAUGHY
HARTFORD, CONN.

ROBERT K. MOONEY
HARTFORD, CONN.

DR. IRA DEA. REID
HAVERFORD, PA.

MRS. EDWARD G. SANDERS
ST. HELENA ISLAND, S.C.

MACK E. SHARPE
BEAUFORT, S.C.

MRS. EUGENE SPEARMAN
COLUMBIA, S.C.

ADVISORY BOARD

MRS. Y.W. BAILEY MRS.
ST. HELENA ISLAND, S.C.

GEORGE A. BUCHANAN, JR.
COLUMBIA, S.C.

FRANCIS R. COPE, JR.
DIMOCK, PA.

MRS. RUBY P. CORNWELL
CHARLESTON, S.C.

MISS WIL LOU GREY
COLUMBIA, S.C.

CAREY E. HAIGLER
CHAROLETTE, N.C.

MRS. GRACE T. HAMILTON
ALANTA, GA.

MISS LEILA JOHNSON
MURRELLS INLET, S.C.

DR. BENJAMIN E. MAYS
ATLANTA, GA.

DR. O.R. REUBEN
SUMTER, S.C.

PAUL RILLING
ATLANTA, GA.

A.M. SEACREST
CHERAW, S.C.

MRS. WILLIAM W. SMITH II
POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y.

W.E. SOLOMON
COLUMBIA, S.C.

Thanksgiving 1960

Dear Friend:

These are exciting times here in the South and there is a feeling of change in the air. Here on St. Helena Island the Penn program has been expanded to meet the changing needs of the sea islands and of the wider community of the state and the region. The new brochure which comes with this letter describes our "new role in the South" and explains our need for the support of thoughtful people across the country.

As an outgrowth of Penn's history of concern for the quality of community life in the South, this year we asked the help of a group of specialists in rural life and human relations. Their report, "Human Relations Programming in South Carolina," will serve as a blueprint for our own work and, we hope, for similar efforts throughout the South.

Support is being sought now for launching the suggested county-wide pilot community development project - a sort of "test strip" for the rural South. New fields in adult education are being opened: low-cost housing, voting and citizenship, literacy, farm and forest management. Penn's provision of interracial conference facilities for groups from all over a tense and anxious South is a contribution of growing importance in these times.

Penn Trustee James Dabbs is speaking of Southerners when he says in his book, The Southern Heritage, "We have been too casual, too satisfied; we have been complacent." "But today," he continues, ..."we are moving into a world of widening horizons...a world of great challenges... challenges which demand that we use as never before our simple neighborliness...If we thus perceive them, we shall know that we have come into the kingdom for such a time as this; and we shall begin to move forward with an easy stride...walking as it were between the past and the future, holding the hand of each."

Join us, won't you, in this walk. We need your help.

Sincerely yours,

Marion A. Wright, Chairman

Courtney Siceloff, Director

Contributions to Penn are tax-deductible.

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED
ST. HELENA ISLAND
FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

February 16, 1961

Harold Fleming
Southern Regional Council
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Harold:

I thought you would be interested in the enclosed letter from Mrs. Eddy. Of course we were delighted to have the operational support. We were disappointed that Taconic would not underwrite the research grant as well.

We had hoped that they would interpret the research project as a request from Claflin College, but it is understandable that they would consider this as an additional proposal from Penn.

Best regards.

Sincerely,

Courtney Siceloff

cs/es

TACONIC FOUNDATION, INC.
666 Fifth Avenue
New York 19, N.Y.

February 13, 1961

Mr. Courtney Siceloff, Director
Penn Community Services, Inc.
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Mr. Siceloff:

Our Board has given careful consideration to the two proposals you have put before us, and I am glad to tell you that the grant requested by Penn Community Services, Inc. for its own program has been voted. You will receive an official letter from the Foundation shortly.

However, the Board did not find it possible to make a grant for the research to be carried on at Claflin College. As you may know, it is not our general policy to support research programs, and we did not find it possible to make an exception in this instance.

It was nice to see you and Mr. Wright again. Let us know whenever you find yourselves coming this way.

Sincerely yours,

(signed)

(Mrs.) Jane Lee J. Eddy
Executive Secretary

JLE:sel

COPY

January 17, 1961

Mrs. Elizabeth Sigeloff
Penn Community Services, Inc.
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Lib:

We are mailing you, under separate cover, an extra copy of the report on the executive and a copy of a script for "Face of the South." The latter, as you know, is a condensed version of GSM's map talk.

As to additional items as Why South Carolina is so "crazy" historically, I am afraid I am not much help. Perhaps Les might be able to draw something else out of the research files.

Glad you enjoyed the cake. It was one of my pre-Christmas projects. Probably somebody's old family recipe, but I have been using it about three or four years!

With best wishes to Courtney and others at Penn.

Sincerely,

John Constable
Director of Information

JC:lec

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

St. Helena Island Frogmore, South Carolina

Courtney Siceloff
Director

1/16/61

Dear John -

Is it possible to get an extra copy of the report, THE FEDERAL EXECUTIVE AND CIVIL RIGHTS? Or too hush-hush at present? If so, I'll wait until released for more general publication.

Is there anything written and available on GSM's map talk? I'm working on a project: Why is South Carolina So Crazy? * and think it might help.

We've almost finished your wonderful fruit cake. Each piece fills us with admiration and curiosity.

Greetings to you and Bill.

C.S.

* Anything else you can think of on Why is S. C. so crazy, historically? I mean, why it has always been crazy?

John Constable
Southern Regional Council
Atlanta, Georgia

March 13, 1961

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Penn Community Services, Inc.
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

Mr. Wright has asked that I advise you that he and Mr. Dabbs will arrive in Savannah on Saturday, the 18th, via Delta Air Lines, Flight #441 at 9:35 p.m. We worked mightily to get them there earlier, or the next morning, but without success. So, apologies, as well as best wishes.

Sincerely,

Paul Anthony
Executive Assistant

PA/mf

August 7, 1961

Mr Courtney Siceloff
Penn Community Center
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

Congratulations on the way you have things moving. I think Brewbaker can be used to considerable advantage in your situation, and hope you will continue to develop the possibilities.

To meet your requests for information, enclosed are copies of SRC members and a brief description of the Council. Also enclosed are copies of an editorial about Brewbaker from the Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch which should s serve your purpose in introducing him. Separately, we are sending several pamphlets which will serve further to describe the Council and provide information.

Thanks for the feedback on the L-Reports. It's good to know that all those mechanical processes, with which we get mightily involved, have a human factor.

Best.

Sincerely,

Paul Anthony
Executive Assistant

PA/sm
Enclosures

School Desegr 1st 6 yrs
Racial Viol. & Law Enforcement
Collins

- sent separately

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

St. Helena Island Frogmore, South Carolina

Courtney Siceloff
Director

August 4, 1961

Dear Paul Anthony,

Do you have any experience record on Dr. Brubaker? I think it would be helpful to have perhaps a half dozen copies, to give Col. Bookerand perhaps others. I intend to invite several county school board members in to meet Brubaker. It should be reassuring to these people to know where he went to college, how long at Norfolk, etc.

Incidentally, people do read the "L" reports. At our Advisory Committee meeting (of Com. Civil Rights) last week, one member quoted from Gen. Clays speech (L-26 report) and the committee chairman pulled his copy out of the brief case, laid it on the table, and offered anyone to look it over. Then, this week at the NAACP regional meeting, a Florida NAACP executive quoted from the same speech. Not bad, friend.

Courtney

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

MARION A. WRIGHT
CHAIRMAN
LINVILLE FALLS, N.C.

WILLIAM E. CADBURY
VICE-CHAIRMAN
PHULADELPHIA, PA.

CORNELIUS A. WOOD, JR.
SECRETARY
1018 DUPONT CIRCLE BLDG.
WASHINGTON 6, D.C.

WILLIAM A. CLEMENT
TREASURER
P.O. BOX 201
DURHAM, N.C.

GEORGE H. AULL
CLEMSON, S.C.

CLYDE BARRINGTON
DILLON, S.C.

B. TARTT BELL
NEW YORK, N.Y.

PAUL W. BROWN, JR.
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

WILL D. CAMPBELL
NASHVILLE, TENN.

MISS ISABELLA CURTIS
BOSTON, MASS.

JAMES MCBRIDE DABBS
MAYESVILLE, S.C.

HAROLD EVANS
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

WILLIS GARDNER
ST. HELENA ISLAND, S.C.

JOHN HARDY
BEAUFORT, S.C.

MISS GRACE B. HOUSE
ORIENT, LONG ISLAND, N.Y.

EDWARD N. JENKS
PARIS, FRANCE

MRS. DONALD S. McCHESNEY
SYRACUSE, N.Y.

MRS. JAMES L. MCCONAUGHY
HARTFORD, CONN.

ROBERT K. MOONEY
HARTFORD, CONN.

DR. IRA DEA. REID
HAVERFORD, PA.

MRS. EDWARD G. SANDERS
ST. HELENA ISLAND, S.C.

MACK E. SHARPE
BEAUFORT, S.C.

MRS. EUGENE SPEARMAN
COLUMBIA, S.C.

ADVISORY BOARD

MRS. Y.W. BAILEY MRS.
ST. HELENA ISLAND, S.C.

GEORGE A. BUCHANAN, JR.
COLUMBIA, S.C.

FRANCIS R. COPE, JR.
DIMOCK, PA.

MRS. RUBY P. CORNWELL
CHARLESTON, S.C.

MISS WIL LOU GREY
COLUMBIA, S.C.

CAREY E. HAIGLER
CHAROLETTE, N.C.

MRS. GRACE T. HAMILTON
ALANTA, GA.

MISS LEILA JOHNSON
MURRELLS INLET, S.C.

DR. BENJAMIN E. MAYS
ATLANTA, GA.

DR. O.R. REUBEN
SUMTER, S.C.

PAUL RILLING
ATLANTA, GA.

A.M. SEACREST
CHERAW, S.C.

MRS. WILLIAM W. SMITH II
POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y.

W.E. SOLOMON
COLUMBIA, S.C.

August 3, 1961

Mr. Paul Anthony
Southern Regional Council
5 Forsythe Street
Atlanta, Georgia.

Dear Paul:

It was good talking with you on the phone today. I have talked with Dr. Brewbaker who plans to arrive August 21. Many thanks for making the arrangements.

In talking with Lt. Colonel Booker, USMC Air Station, I realized he knew nothing of South Regional Council. In looking in my files I find nothing appropriate to send to him and would appreciate your feeding me some literature. A list of trustees and purposes of Southern Regional Council would be most helpful.

Best regards,

Courtney

CS/bbm

a few extra copies would be good as well. Booker may think he's dealing with some subversive organization, so perhaps not a mere listing of trustees, whose names probably would mean nothing to him, but who they are.

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

TRV
LD
file

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

July 31, 1961

Dr. Leslie W. Dunbar
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N.W.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Leslie:

We really are disappointed that the trip to St. Helena didn't work out. Our greatest hope is that it is cooler at Nag's Head than it is here. We returned last night from a week's camping trip high in the N. C. mountains, and are still trying to get re-acclimated, while wading through mountains of mail. Do remember that the guest house is available, and try to plan a fall trip to the Island.

I see that we overlooked thanking you for the information about possible research directors for the South Carolina project. On receipt of the material, we wrote at once to several of these persons, and in the current mail we have replies from some of them. One of them, Henry Clark of New Haven, says he will be in Charleston on August 6, so we are trying to arrange an interview. However, he says he will not be available for twelve months.

Also in today's mail is a letter from Dr. Bruce Melvin of University of Maryland. He says that his retirement is to be postponed, and that "another field of research seems to be opening," and says that he must ask not to be considered. So, we are still without any very definite prospects. If you have any further ideas, we'll be glad to have them. I'm enclosing an excerpt from Dr. Melvin's letter which raises some interesting questions.

Best regards.

Sincerely yours,

Courtney Siceloff

University of Maryland College Park

C O P Y

July 17, 1961

. . .

In reading over the materials a few ideas struck me. One of these was to make a beginning in a study of Beaufort County. Included in this would be the economic side. Have the peaceful relations, including cooperative efforts, helped the businesses of the county? Are the business men better off on the average than in other counties where wholesome relations have not maintained? In the long run in our economically dominated society the pocketbook can be the dominating force in even the most humanitarian cause. A second aspect of the economic has been the loss to the state, or even the county, in the migration of the better trained Negroes from the state. Here is something that needs elucidation; the facts need to be known.

Then another question, in what areas have the best, or most effective cooperation been promulgated? Surely there are communities where the races have worked together for the benefit of both.

. . .

Very sincerely yours,

/s/

Bruce L. Melvin
Professor of Sociology

July 17, 1961

Mr. Courtney Siceloff
Penn Community Center
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

I blush to say this, but we shall not be coming to Frogmore the week of July 29 as planned. Our friends from Massachusetts decided the drive was too much and we are compromising on Nags Head. Peggy and I do want some time soon to visit Frogmore and we shall, if you will take us in again.

I trust you got the vitae which we sent recently. How are you coming along with your man from Maryland?

Best wishes,

Sincerely yours,

Leslie W. Dunbar
Executive Director

LWD/sm

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

August 9, 1961

LWD
PR
MB
file

file Board

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

MARION A. WRIGHT
CHAIRMAN
LINVILLE FALLS, N.C.

WILLIAM E. CADBURY
VICE-CHAIRMAN
PHULADELPHIA, PA.

CORNELIUS A. WOOD, JR.
SECRETARY
1018 DUPONT CIRCLE BLDG.
WASHINGTON 6, D.C.

WILLIAM A. CLEMENT
TREASURER
P.O. BOX 201
DURHAM, N.C.

GEORGE H. AULL
CLEMSON, S.C.

CLYDE BARRINGTON
DILLON, S.C.

B. TARTT BELL
NEW YORK, N.Y.

PAUL W. BROWN, JR.
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

WILL D. CAMPBELL
NASHVILLE, TENN.

MISS ISABELLA CURTIS
BOSTON, MASS.

JAMES MCBRIDE DABBS
MAYESVILLE, S.C.

HAROLD EVANS
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

WILLIS GARDNER
ST. HELENA ISLAND, S.C.

JOHN HARDY
BEAUFORT, S.C.

MISS GRACE B. HOUSE
ORIENT, LONG ISLAND, N.Y.

EDWARD N. JENKS
PARIS, FRANCE

MRS. DONALD S. MCCHESNEY
SYRACUSE, N.Y.

MRS. JAMES L. MCCONAUGHY
HARTFORD, CONN.

ROBERT K. MOONEY
HARTFORD, CONN.

DR. IRA DEA. REID
HAVERFORD, PA.

MRS. EDWARD G. SANDERS
ST. HELENA ISLAND, S.C.

MACK E. SHARPE
BEAUFORT, S.C.

MRS. EUGENE SPEARMAN
COLUMBIA, S.C.

ADVISORY BOARD

MRS. Y.W. BAILEY MRS.
ST. HELENA ISLAND, S.C.

GEORGE A. BUCHANAN, JR.
COLUMBIA, S.C.

FRANCIS R. COPE, JR.
DIMOCK, PA.

MRS. RUBY P. CORNWELL
CHARLESTON, S.C.

MISS WIL LOU GREY
COLUMBIA, S.C.

CAREY E. HAIGLER
CHAROLETTE, N.C.

MRS. GRACE T. HAMILTON
ALANTA, GA.

MISS LEILA JOHNSON
MURRELLS INLET, S.C.

DR. BENJAMIN E. MAYS
ATLANTA, GA.

DR. O.R. REUBEN
SUMTER, S.C.

PAUL RILLING
ATLANTA, GA.

A.M. SEACREST
CHERAW, S.C.

MRS. WILLIAM W. SMITH II
POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y.

W.E. SOLOMON
COLUMBIA, S.C.

Dear Paul Anthony,

Mrs. Ruby Hurley, Rev. DeQuincy Newman, ex.sec. of S. C. NAACP, Walker Solomon and I had a good interview with Col Booker today. He has seven teacher vacancies left out of 27; two of these he will hold for Negro appointments, and Negroes will be considered along with other applicants for the other vacancies. So there will be at least 2, and perhaps more, Negro teachers in the Hamilton School.

Mrs. Hurley, who was very constructive in the interview, suggested that he read several books and brochures--the Louisville Story, and the reports on Washington and Baltimore; I am sending him the first, and would appreciate it if you have copies on Washington and Baltimore available.

Incidentally, the principal is to be L. E. Oldacres, who has been asst. principal in a Washington, D.C. school--which I think is fine. Mrs. Hurley felt that there should be special training for teachers over several days, and that a SRC consultant might be needed ~~lon~~ longer than Brubaker would be available. However, Booker was non-committal, waiting for his principal, who should arrive on the 9th August. So I'll contact him later, and know if there are further needs for consultants--though I won't commit you for anything.

Many thanks,

Courtney

Materials sent 8-16-61

clucy - 1 set copy
L 8, 13, 15, 16, 17,

PR
Action Items
Done 8/25

Board

September 1, 1961

Mr. Courtney Siceloff, Director
Penn Community Services, Incorporated
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

We too are sorry to hear that Brewbaker was not able to be of help at Beaufort; with the irony, of course, that he, of all people, would probably be reassuring to the faintheart-ed. But we can't win them all.

Thanks for the suggestions for new Members. They will be passed on to the Nominating Committee next month.

Incidentally, I am pleased to see that Elizabeth's typing has improved so much. Give her my congratulations.

Sincerely,

PA:mbb

Paul Anthony
Executive Assistant

S. LWDL
MB
PR
MBB

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

August 23, 1961

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

Dear PaulAnthony,

I thought you might like to be brought up-to-date on the Hamilton School, the one being taken over by the Navy.

Mr. Brewbaker came Monday evening, and left about noon yesterday. I'm not sure if I told you that I first contacted Col. Booker when the announcement of the transfer to Navy was made. While he was not exactly enthusiastic about the offers of help, he did say that he wanted advice from wherever he could get it. Thus I let him know the day that Brewbaker said he could come; I reminded him again that Brewbaker was coming in the interview with Hurley, Solomon, and Newman, and on August 9 I wrote him again that Brewbaker was due the 22nd, and would call on the 21st for the appointment. Then when I called early on the 21st, Booker informed me that there was no need for Brewbaker to come out, that his principal, Oldacres, was from Washington and had enough experience in this area, and besides, they wanted to handle "this thing" locally, without any imports. He was nice about it, andIsuggested that Brewbaker might at least come out, since he had made this trip and had had the interview arranged for such a period of time, but the colonel was firm. Although I was considerably miffed about this refusal, yet I didn't think it would help anything to insist, so let it drop.

I can only speculate concerning the reason for the refusal to see Brewbaker. It might be that the principal is jealous and/or insecure, and doesn't want another around. The colonel and/or principal might be apprehensive over what Brewbaker intended to do. The colonel might have talked to Beaufort folk about me, Penn, or SRC and was advised to take a "hands-off" policy. They might have felt that since they have an integrated school and faculty, that NAACP is "pleased" (to quote Booker) with the situation, that they have followed all federal regulations, that there is no need to accept further "interference ". Or the Colonel may have a lot of confidence in his principal, feel that he can handle the situation, and no need to muddy the water.

Concerning the faculty, he has hired 2 Negro teachers; one has a Masters degree and 14 years teaching experience—the highest qualified on his staff— and the other is well on her way toward a masters. I don't have the name of either yet, but will get in touch with them soon. Col. Booker seems pleased with the choices of Negro teachers, whom Solomon had contacted and sent for interviews.

Also, I am sorry that Brewbaker did not get to meet any of the Beaufort board members or superintendant. Paul, whom Brewbaker wrote from SRC office saying he was coming to B aufort and could talk with him, made no effort to contact Brewbaker. The latter called yesterday morning; Paul, the supt., was "too busy" to see him, but apparently they had a long telephone conversation. Paul indicated his admiration for the Prince Edward Plan, indicating he had spent a week there looking it over. Brewbaker gave his opinion of the plan, but probably had little effect. Several of the Board members are open to discussing this, and probably are disappointed that it didn't happen. The wife of one board member formerly worked with Brewbaker in the Norfolk system; he called her and offered his services any time. So perhaps something may develop yet.

I had dinner with Brewbaker, and enjoyed seeing him again. It is quite a service that SRC is offering in this respect, and appreciate your arranging his visit.

Sincerely,

Typed by Courtney,
not me. Cheers-Eliz.

Board
Suggestions

October 5, 1961

Mr. Courtney Siceloff, Director
Penn Community Services, Inc
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

The Nominating Committee has selected Mr. McCollom as one of the persons to be nominated for membership. Beforehand, we try to determine (unofficially) if persons who are to be nominated will accept if elected at the Annual Meeting in November. Could you do this for us with McCollom? You may wish to share with him the enclosed list of current members.

Incidentally, Secrest was also selected among a second group of nominees who will be placed before the Council if membership is increased to one hundred. This the Council will likely vote to do. However, we will not check with this group.

Look forward to seeing you in November.

Sincerely yours,

Paul Anthony
Executive Assistant

PA:mbb
Enc.

October 20, 1961

Mr. Courtney Siceloff, Director
Penn Community Center
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Mr. Siceloff:

Mr. Marion Wright was inquiring about the copies of his speech, saying he had not received them. We told Mr. Wright we had mailed them to him in care of you, on or about the 5th of October.

If you have not already sent them on to Mr. Wright - and we are assuming that your office received them - we would appreciate your forwarding them on to him at your earliest convenience.

Sincerely yours,

Muriel Berger
Secretary

November 22, 1961

Mr. Courtney Siceloff, Director
Penn Community Center
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

We never did get together at the Annual Meeting. I am sorry. Can you write or phone whatever it was you wished to discuss?

Sincerely yours,

Leslie W. Dunbar
Executive Director

LWD:mbb

December 29, 1961

Mr. Courtney Siceloff, Director
Penn Community Services, Inc
St. Helena Island
Frogmore, South Carolina

Dear Courtney:

I am glad that you are hopeful of moving ahead fairly soon with the statewide research effort that was recommended in the report "Human Relations Programming in South Carolina".

It is, of course, impossible to predict the results such a study may have. On the one hand, most of us feel that we know what the inequalities and problems are in South Carolina. On the other hand, there is proven value in documenting the evident in this area of human relations problems. For example, we were impressed and a bit surprised at the widespread reaction here to the facts presented in the reports "Georgia's Divided Education" and"A Second Look at Atlanta". In rather strange quarters there were responses of shock and surprise, and there has been constructive action. Studies that would emerge from your proposed program should have similarly useful results, and because of the broad, thorough approach your plan should have notable impact.

There has indeed been a remarkable lack of research into human relations problems in Deep Southern states. If a comprehensive effort proved effective in South Carolina, it could be a model for work in Alabama and Mississippi. We shall be ready to cooperate with your work in any ways that you think we could be of service.

Sincerely yours,

Leslie W. Dunbar
Executive Director

LWD:mbb

5130 299

W. L. SNELL

National Printing Company
971 Peachtree St. • NE • Atlanta 9, Georgia

Printers & Lithographers • TRinity 5-7081

Land
Keast Ham + Ch

4

PR - pls draft a reply for my sig.
~~would like it in~~ ~~a fairly pls~~ I suppose we endorse, but without hurrahs (pls note ~~that this has~~ already taken a long time to circulate between you + him)

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INCORPORATED

ST. HELENA ISLAND

FROGMORE, SOUTH CAROLINA

November 20, 1961

COURTNEY SICELOFF
DIRECTOR

Dr. Les Dunbar
Southern Regional Council
5 Forsyth Street
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Les:

Penn, in association with Claflin College, hopes to conduct a significant program of research into subjects of concern to all South Carolinians. For such a program substantial philanthropic support must be secured. To that end we have prepared a proposal to be placed before one or more foundations. Since it outlines in some detail what we have in mind, a copy is enclosed for your examination.

We (Penn and Claflin) feel that the reception accorded the application for grant will be influenced to some extent by expressions of knowledgeable persons of their interest in the program and the value they attach to it. We hope that you may find it of such value as to merit your own approval.

Will you not, therefore, be kind enough to write a letter, addressed to Penn Community Services, for possible use with a foundation, expressing your own appraisal of such a program and the timeliness of its present inauguration?

We would much prefer to talk with you personally about this; only the time and expense of travel precludes this.

In order to make use of your letter, your immediate attention is required and will be appreciated.

Sincerely yours,

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INC.

Courtney Siceloff, Director

CS/pw
Enclosure

Les — The annual meeting was very good — liked the format, topics, etc

Penn Community Services, Inc.

St. Helena Island

Frogmore, S. C.

Proposal For A Grant For A South Carolina
Research Program

Penn Community Services, Inc., requests a grant to support a three-year comprehensive research program to be conducted in South Carolina. Such a program is the unamimous recommendation of a group of fifteen Southern specialists in the field of human relations. It is, in their opinion, the essential first step toward improvement of the ecomonic, political and cultural life of the state.

What is contemplated is determination of the facts in such areas as education, employment, health, libraries, public recreation, federal aid and participation in government. There will emerge an appraisal of publicly supported institutions and services; the degree to which all citizens have access to them; as well as the cost - ecomonic and social - of deprival of full right of use of such institutions and services.

In the interest of thoroughness and intensiveness, the investigation will be limited to one state, South Carolina. But, since that state is fairly representative of the rural deep South, the disclosures here made will have significance in such other states as Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana. The methods followed in the South Carolina study may serve as guides to other states confronted with similar problems. The study may well have regional impact.

ORIGIN OF THE PROPOSAL

In the desire to determine what are, in fact, the South's most pressing needs, and the most important service which Penn might render to the region, this organization convened a group of fifteen persons having knowledge of the region and having, also, competence in the human relations field. In arriving at their recommendations, they were influenced by the following considerations, as stated in their report: "There has been less research into human relations problems in South Carolina than in most of the Southern states. None of the state's public or private colleges and universities have initiated this type of research. There is a need to learn the present facts concerning conditions in South Carolina. There is an even greater need to disseminate these facts in such a way that they begin to have some impact on political and civic leadership and on public opinion in general."

The consultants therefore recommended, as of first importance, a careful and scientific exploration of the facts which establish South Carolina's relative position among the American states.

Obviously, any realistic exploration of the facts will involve consideration of the State's laws and customs as they touch upon relation of the two dominant races. Where discrimination exists, its end result in mortality, health, housing, employment, education and the like must be appraised.

The conclusions of the consultants were submitted to a group of 22 knowledgeable South Carolinians, later convened at Penn. Such group agreed without reservation to the top priority given to the research proposal.

The recommendation concerning the research project is found on page 4, and names of the regional consultants appear at the end, on page IV, of their report entitled, "Human Relations Programming in South Carolina". See Attachment 1. Names of the South Carolina group appears as Attachment 2.

METHOD TO BE EMPLOYED

The consultants recommended that the research be based at a private South Carolina college. (Publicly supported colleges are enmeshed in the State's segregation laws.) Accordingly, Claflin College, a Methodist institution in Orangeburg, South Carolina, has been selected and has agreed to serve. This accredited institution has a bi-racial faculty, with well qualified professors who would co-operate with the research director. The institution is known for its independent and forthright position on human rights issues. See Attachment 3.

Serving as an advisory committee to the project, to whom the director would turn for advice and consultation, are the following South Carolinians:

To: Members of Advisory Committee, South Carolina Research Project

Dr. H. V. Manning, President, Claflin College, Orangeburg, S. C.
Rev. I. D. Newman, Executive Sec'y., State Conference NAACP, Columbia, S. C.
Mr. W. E. Solomon, Executive Sec'y., Palmetto Teachers Association, Columbia, S. C.
Mr. Alger Fowler, Business Manager, Plumbers and Steamfitters, Local Union 227
Dr. Samuel M. Derrick, School of Business Administration, University of South Carolina College Columbia, S. C.
Mrs. Alice N. Spearman, Executive Sec'y., S. C. Council on Human Relations, Columbia, S. C.
Mr. Courtney Siceloff, Director, Penn Community Services, Frogmore, S. C.

THE DIRECTOR

The central figure is, of course, the director. In conjunction with Advisory Committee, he will determine the fields to be explored and the priorities with which they will receive attention; he will coordinate material already available, such as census reports, isolated studies by universities, public and private agencies; he will devise questionnaires; develop mailing lists; prepare forms of letters; direct personal interviews where information may not be otherwise obtained; check accuracy of answers against experience; tabulate results; and, generally, supervise the activities of staff and volunteer workers.

not N.C. personal practice

He will prepare reports to be released at intervals to the press and given appropriate distribution to members of the public - all with a view to the impact which such reports may have on opinion and policy.

A significant feature of the director's task will be the recruitment and supervision of a corps of volunteers - college professors, advanced students and others of competence in the fact-finding field. The purpose will be to secure extensive involvement of South Carolinians in a study of their own institutions. This is an application and enlargement of the community self-survey idea which has had conspicuous success in many cities.

After receiving the application of a dozen men and women for the position of research director, the Advisory Committee for the Research Program has selected Dr. Theo L. Vaughan. Dr. Vaughan, a native South Carolinian who attended the public schools of the state, including Clemson College, worked 16 years in the state with Clemson College and the Extension Service of the Department of Agriculture. With a Doctorate degree in rural sociology, Dr. Vaughan has directed research and community development, programs in the United States, Latin American and the Middle East. The point cannot be overemphasized of the value of a director having his roots, education, experience and invaluable contacts within South Carolina. Biographical data on Dr. Vaughan appears as Attachment 4.

It should be stated that further reflection on the time required for a thorough performance of the contemplated task has led to the conclusion that three years will be required. The proposal is, therefore, fashioned with that period in mind.

CONCLUSION

1. The project herein contemplated is unique in that it will seek to establish:

   (a) the extent to which discrimination based upon race is practiced in a deep South "Hard-core" state, and

   (b) the cause of relationship between such discrimination and standards of living of white and negro people, and

   (c) the cost, economic and otherwise, of such discrimination.

2. The study is further unique in that:

   (a) it will be based at a South Carolina Negro College

   (b) it will give this bi-racial faculty and negro students opportunity to join in an interesting social science investigation, and

(c) it will involve joint participation by persons of both races in a significant common enterprise.

3. Dissemination of the findings may reasonably be expected to have impact:

(a) on racial practices within South Carolina, through the involvement of individuals and agencies which work for the common good of all peoples, and

(b) on public thinking, with ultimate state and federal effect on state and federal legislation and policy.

In many American states there exist offical agencies - Commissions Against Discrimination or their equivalents - whose task it is to conduct programs of the nature of the one here contemplated. In others state institutions, such as universities, perform a similar function. In South Carolina both are lacking. If the task is not undertaken by a private agency it will not get done.

All preliminary steps for such an agency to function in South Carolina have now been taken. The launching of the program awaits only financial support.

PENN COMMUNITY SERVICES, INC.

By M. A. Wright
Chairman

By Dowling Scaloff

November 1961